Beware Of Parked Pickups...

DPS Launching Drive To Enforce 55 Limit

The Texas Department of Transportation (DPS) is launching a statewide drive to enforce the 55 mph speed limit. The drive will begin on Monday, Sept. 15, and will continue through the end of the year.

A special part of the program will be to educate motorists to use seat belts and other restraining devices. It has been estimated that 700 lives could be saved statewide if seat belts were used. In the state, only 1 per cent of all fatal accidents were wearing seat belts.

To enforce the 55 mph limit, DPS troopers will do more things "on duty" in the past 12 months than in all years. The troopers will be the use of unmarked vehicles to catch deliberate speeders. These may be cars, pick-ups, vans or some other vehicle.

The troopers will be working at the location of divided highways, on hills and overpasses to prevent the radar and from motorists. Safety will be a primary consideration when such locations are felt. "Citizens will be notified."

The unmarked vehicles will have officers in civilian clothes. These officers will not actually stop the drivers as officers in plain marked units will continue to do this.

The new plan is being implemented by DPS Col. James Adams, who has directed "trooper" units against habitual speeders who attempt to avoid detection by elaborate means such as two-way radios and radar detectors.

Texas has the worst compliance rate to the 55 mph limit in the nation—about 70 percent non-compliance.

Some other forms of enforcement are being considered—such as the use of tachometers equipped with hand-held speed guns. Campbell said that the main thrust is to have motorists believe that every vehicle they meet may possibly be a trooper—and they will slow down and save a life.

Senior Talent Shines

A take-off on TV's Gong Show highlighted activities in the Senior Citizens Center Friday, and other shows are planned as the "talents" of the Senior Citizens blossom.

The Senior Center is developing a program known as SCAMP, which stands for Senior Center Actors and Misfit Performers, and would like to have other Senior Citizens participate. Men and women 60 and older who would like to join the program are invited to contact Jane Heath, Activities Director.

A new class on coiled basket making is to begin in the Center on Tuesday. It will be taught by Lou Wimal. Activities in the Senior Center each week include quilting, an exercise class, bridge, a certified and practice for the Senior Choir. Information about the Center and its offerings may be obtained by calling or writing to the office at 573-9314.

Brown Reflects Westerner Club; Cool, Confident

By Bill McClellan

He was in the locker room late in the week. I had asked to talk with him, and here he was, sharply dressed, more prompt than I was, and ready to converse. It was difficult to believe the stories I'd heard. That the guy who gets a kick out of working with children, who is as concerned with his studies as he is with his sport, is the same individual who averages 22 points, eight rebounds and a blocked shot in two a game. But that is David Brown, a 6-6 sophomore law enforcement major at Western Texas College, and a member of the No. 1 ranked Westerners. A name who has cheered for Western Texas throughout the season realizes it is a team effort which has gained the group national recognition, a national 20-4 record and top seed in next week's Region 2 tournament. Within that group no one individual reflects what the Westerners stand for better than the El Paso native. As the team has matured, Brown has watched as the team reaches its goals, he is also striving to reach personal goals within the team, and himself. Well recognized as a basketball player, Brown doesn't care if people are getting a scholarship. "I want to play for a major college, but my major is law enforcement, and I want to find a place where I can do both," he points out. "You know, if a major college wants me but doesn't offer law enforcement, I'm not going to go there. It's very important to me."

Like most college basketball players, Brown is cool, confident about his abilities. The amazing thing about Brown - in fact about most of the WTC players - is that he is very personable. Easy going, likeable to almost everyone.

Success has come fairly quickly, but not easily for Brown, who played only one year of high school varsity ball, before coming to Western Texas College.

He was a split end for Bel Air High School's football squad, but quit after his junior year because, "I could catch anything, but I was too light. I was getting hit awfully hard, and I didn't see any future in that."

So, he went out for the basketball team, but was cut his junior year. He worked hard to make the team as a senior.

"All I needed was a chance," he recalled. "They had to put me on the team after I tried out."

Even then Brown didn't get to play much. He wasn't figuring on getting a scholarship, but Andy Stoglin, a former Harlem Globe Trotter and assistant coach at San Diego State saw him, like the possibilities, and told WTC Coach Nolan Richardson.

Now, two years later, Brown has a chance to be part of history a member of a national championship team.

Though he played a lot even as a freshman at Western Texas, Brown's biggest improvement has been made this year. Lack of playing time in high school may have slowed him down at first, but he's making up for it now.

His main area of improvement, he feels, has been on defense and rebounding, not exactly the glory spots.

"I don't like to play defense," he laughed. "Nobody likes to play defense. But when you cover a guy that has been getting 20 points a game, and you hold him to 8 or 9, you feel pretty good. You've done your job and you've helped the team."

Depth is the key to the Westerner success this season.

"We've got so much firepower on this team that each player will have a certain role. Sometimes, for instance, if Coach says we need rebounds, that's where I'm going to be all over those boards. I'm going to hit 'em every time."

"...I will say this, if we get to nationals, we'll win it."

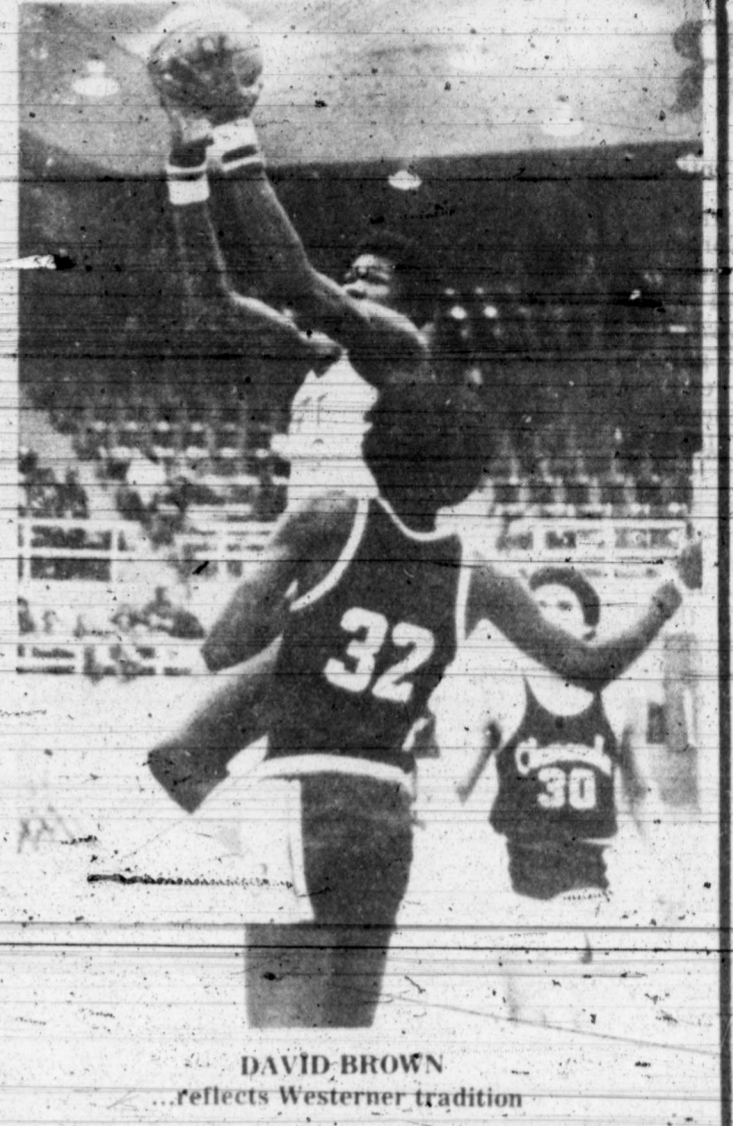

—David Brown

It (depth) is one of the things that makes this team so tough. Sometimes Paul (Pressey) might be off or Greg (Stewart) might be off, and I have to take up the slack. That's one of the things that makes this team so good. We have maybe 11 guys that could start for most teams," he emphasized.

And what of that ultimate goal? A national championship?

"I think if we play to our potential we will go (to the national tournament)," said Brown. "I don't really like to think about it because I don't want to get overconfident. I want to keep my mind on the regional tournament. But I will say this, if we get to the nationals, we'll win it."

Would you believe that four years ago his favorite sport was baseball? Basketball was third on the list.

DAVID BROWN reflects Westerner tradition

Pro Cage Summary...

Celtics Slam Warriors 110-99

The Boston Celtics dismantled the Los Angeles Lakers 110-99 Friday night. The catalyst in Boston's fifth straight victory was the green-and-white's super rookie, Larry Bird. Bird was a can opener tonight - he popped open the lid and everything came open for the Celtics, said Coach Mac Jenkins. "You then make you pay for a mistake."

The victory was Boston's 13th in the last 15 games and kept the Celtics 17 games in front of Philadelphia in the National Basketball Association's Atlantic Division. The Philadelphia 76ers edged the Denver Nuggets 104-103.

There were three overtime games Friday night, the Milwaukee Bucks beating the Los Angeles Lakers 126-117, the Atlanta Hawks topping the Cleveland Cavaliers 111-103 and the Detroit Pistons defeating the New Jersey Nets 137-128. In other games, the Kansas City Kings trimmed the San Diego Clippers 98-93, the Utah Jazz edged the Portland Trail Blazers 91-87 and the Seattle SuperSonics downed the Chicago Bulls 108-101.

76ers 104, Nuggets 103 Philadelphia trailed 79-75 after three quarters but rallied in the final period behind 10 points by reserve forward Steve Mix. The Nuggets then made a late rush, with John Roche scoring seven points, but the final buzzer sounded just before Alex English sank a hook shot that would have given Denver the victory. Bucks 126, Lakers 117. Recently acquired center Bob Lanier scored seven points in overtime as Milwaukee snapped Los Angeles' 18-game home floor winning streak. The Lakers' Earvin "Magic" Johnson had tied the score at 102 with a three-point basket with seven seconds remaining in regulation. Milwaukee then scored the first 11 points in overtime to pull away to its second straight overtime victory on the road. The Bucks beat the Phoenix Suns 119-110 in overtime earlier this week.

Hawks 114, Cavs 103. John Drew scored four of his 28 points in overtime as the Hawks posted their fifth victory in six games. Cleveland missed a golden chance to win in regulation. The Cavs trailed 98-93 with 15 seconds left but tied the score on two free throws by Dave Robisch and a three-point goal by Austin Carr. With four seconds left, Cleveland's Willie Smith stole the ball from Eddie Johnson and passed to Foots Walker, who was wide open for a layup. But the shot bounced off the front rim and fell away as the buzzer sounded.

Fisher Keeps Angling Away

WATERVILLE VALLEY, N.H. (AP)—Abbie Fisher doesn't get enough traveling even with four months on the World Cup ski racing tour each year. So this May, she's going to Peru to do a little ice climbing. "I enjoy going into the mountains - mountaineering, hiking, rock climbing - and I recently got into ice climbing," says Fisher, a 22-year-old from South Conway, N.H. When do you get a chance to see your parents? "I saw them today and yesterday," she said. Fisher finished fourth in a women's World Cup slalom race Friday. She's got five more races to go, two slaloms and three giant slaloms, before her vacation in Peru.

"I think I've got a little more left," said Fisher, who has had a pair of fourth-place finishes this season and currently stands eighth in the World Cup Slalom standings. "I had one good run today. In the second run, I didn't ski quite as well. I was hanging on too much, but I hung on for another fourth place. That can't be too bad."

Perrine Pelen, a 19-year-old from Grenoble, France, won the race with a time of 1 minute, 48.44 seconds on heats of 54.36 and 54.08. Nadezhda Patrakevna of the Soviet Union was second in 1:49.25, and Hanni Wenzel of Liechtenstein was third in 1:49.26. Fisher's time was 1:50.25.

Fisher is the only woman on the U.S. team who has ever won a World Cup slalom race - on Dec. 30, 1979 at Pincavallo, Italy. Last summer, however, she underwent surgery on both knees for ligament damage.

"I think I broke an adhesion or two when I fell once, but nothing serious," said Fisher, who spent one summer building a log cabin in addition to her other outside-hobbies. "I'm not quite as quick now as I was when I won that slalom."

Finishing behind Fisher over the 573-meter course, set with 60 gates on each run, was Marie-Theres Nadig of Switzerland in 1:50.93.

Corbett Sells Interest In Ranger Ball Club

ARLINGTON (AP)—It's official - Brad Corbett will sell his interest in the Texas Rangers baseball team, will resign as board chairman when the sale is completed and will be "totally out of the picture."

Team officials confirmed Corbett's plans Friday. Corbett's stock will be bought by oilman Eddie Chiles, publisher Amon Carter Jr. and attorney Dee Kelly, all of Fort Worth, the team said.

"I'd say the paperwork will be completed by the middle of next week; but the actual transfer of cash will take from 30 to 60 days," Corbett said Friday.

"I will remain as chairman of the board until all financial obligations are completed, then I will step totally out of the picture." The sale is subject to terms of the limited partnership agreement, plus approval of the American League and baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn.

Chiles said he would become board chairman and vice president. Eddie Robinson will retain control of day-to-day operations.

"Naturally, I'm going to miss Brad," Robinson said at the team's spring training site, Pompano Beach, Fla. "Brad did a lot for baseball in the Metroplex."

"But I'm also very pleased Eddie Chiles and his group have purchased the club and will let me run it."

Chiles is board chairman of the Western Co. of North America and Carter is publisher of the Fort Worth Star-Telegram.

Kelly said the three will meet with Dallas stockholders to see if they want to buy some of Corbett's stock. Principal Dallas stockholders are real estate developer Raymond Nasher, Charles Sharp, Sharon Simons and William Seay.

Corbett purchased controlling interest in the Rangers from Robert E. Short in May 1974, and has served as its board chairman since that time.

HEALTH TIP from DEAN
That means may have a beneficial effect on cholesterol levels in the blood is suggested by a study in India. Measurements were taken of cholesterol levels in 10 men while fasting - after a butterfat meal - again after a butterfat meal including boiled onion - and finally after a butterfat meal followed two hours later by onion-mix onions. As long as onions were eaten with or after the fat-enriched meals, cholesterol levels did not rise and in some cases decreased below what they were when the most were fasting.

Tigers State Bound... Regional Champs

(Continued From Page 1) made 'em when it had to. Borger, led by 6-3 Brett Smith, 6-6 Greg Belton and 5-11 Chester Williams, struck first gold in the game. In fact, Snyder never went ahead until Short's final shot. The Bulldogs grabbed a quick 6-0 lead, stretched it to 16-8 at one point and 18-10 at another, before Snyder's Brad Richardson hit a bucket, at the horn, to end the first eight minutes of play, 18-12.

Borger's height paid off more than most thought it would. The Dogs dominated the boards in the early going, and were able to get the ball inside to either Smith or Belton with good success early.

The Bulldogs' largest lead came in the third period when Smith and Williams combined for six straight points to put them up 44-33. It stayed between nine and 11 points until Richardson and Short countered with a pair for Snyder with just over two minutes to play.

Richardson, a 6-2 junior and Snyder's only other player in double figures, hit another basket moments afterward to strip Borger's lead to 52-47. The Bulldogs held on though, and went into the final quarter ahead, 56-49.

It took several more Snyder rallies before the Bulldogs finally cracked. Two free throws by Short and a Richardson jump shot put Snyder within five, 60-55. Then, with 1:14 left in the game, Smith fouled out, adding to the Tiger's growing momentum.

A basket and two free throws from Thomas Selmon almost did the trick as Snyder came within a point, 62-61, but Belton checked the effect with four points of his own.

With less than two minutes left, and down by five points, Snyder's chances weren't looking too good. But no one told the Tigers that.

"We didn't shoot the ball very well," said Byerly between handshakes after the game. "Some of the players just weren't having a good shooting night. But we got a lot of help from a lot of people

Davis Gets Victory Net

In appreciation of his support for Snyder High School athletics, Tiger team members handed Benny Davis the victory net from Friday's Region 1-68-66 win over Borger.

Davis, confined to a wheelchair, is an avid fan of Tiger sports activities, cheering Snyder High School athletes in every sport.

He was at the Graham Tournament. He was at Abilene when we played Weatherford, and he was there last night (Friday), too," said Coach George Byerly. "He's been everywhere we played, and it's always good to see him there. We appreciate his support, and the support of all of our fans."

at the right times. I don't know about a turning point, but I'll tell you one thing. These guys never give up. They NEVER give up.

Gary Ray sent Short to the stripe with 1:26 on the clock and he sank both ends of a one-plus-one situation to make it 66-63. Teammate Mark Preston then cut it to 66-64 with another free throw. His second shot caromed off the rim and into Bulldog hands.

Borger took the rebound and headed downcourt, working against the Tiger press. A quick-handed Short managed to tip the ball away from Williams however, and referees whistled the Borger player for a foul when he tried to get it back.

Snyder had a chance to tie.

Oblivious to the screaming crowd and the pressure—or so it seemed—Short knotted the totals by hitting both shots. Then Snyder got its greatest gift with only 32 seconds left in the game—Borger was called for double-dribble.

The Tigers ran the clock down to 13 seconds before Byerly decided to have a talk with them. Later, he was asked if the final shot was designed to go to Short.

"No, there was too much time to try and set up one player," he commented. "We just wanted to get into the right offense. We wanted to try and get the ball inside. It ended up in Eric's hands and he had a shot. He could have taken it, but instead he flipped it out to Kyle. It was a great move. He hadn't been hitting well, and Kyle was. It was a good decision."

Filling in the scoring for Snyder were Richardson with 18; Preston 7; Dayton Robertson 6; Selmon and Arnold 5 each; and Keith Wallace and Barry Blackmon 2. Kris Seale also saw action, but did not score.

Behind Williams' 17, Smith and Belton added 16 apiece and Doug Sullivan notched 11. The only other Bulldog scorer was Ray with 6.

Spur Coach Hits Showers

SAN ANTONIO (AP)—The San Antonio Spurs, winners of back-to-back divisional titles before slumping this season, fired Coach Doug Moe Saturday and temporarily replaced him with General Manager Bob Bass.

Moe, 41, who preached the "run-and-gun," loose defense approach, led the Spurs to the National Basketball Association Central Division title the past two seasons.

But the Spurs have slumped this season to 33-33 and are tied for second place behind Atlanta.

His Fat Wife Weighs On Him

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I've composed this letter hundreds of times in my mind. I don't know where else to turn. My wife gained 10 to 15 pounds while pregnant with our son 11 years ago. She has never been able to lose that weight despite dieting attempts. Instead she has gradually gained additional weight until now she has a very conspicuous potbelly. In addition, she gets very little exercise, so she tends to doze off about 8 p.m. every evening. I weigh the same as when I graduated from college.

I have tried every method I can think of to encourage her to lose weight—incentives, insults, praise, rewards, punishments, joint exercise and threats. We even separated over this a few years ago.

Otherwise she is a great wife and a wonderful mother. I do love her, and have no desire to see our marriage end. However, I cannot accept her as she is no matter how hard I try. Neither can I understand her lack of pride concerning her physical appearance.

This problem is continually on my mind, and I am afraid that a permanent separation will eventually be the result. Am I being selfish and unreasonable?

DEPRESSED IN TENNESSEE

DEAR DEPRESSED: Yes. If you love your wife and are sincere when you say you have no desire to see your marriage end, you will see a therapist to find out why you can't accept her as she is. You could have a problem that is more serious than hers.

DEAR ABBY: I have this problem. The man I have been living with thinks he is sterile but won't go to a doctor to find out for sure.

Well, about two weeks ago I found out I am pregnant! That really blew my boyfriend's mind. Now all I hear from him, 24 hours a day, is that the baby is not his. I know it is because no other man has been near me since I started living with him.

We get into terrible fights about this. Can you help me? SACRAMENTO

DEAR SACRAMENTO: If your boyfriend wants to duck the responsibility of fatherhood, one excuse is as good as another. A urologist can tell him whether he's sterile or not. If he refuses to go, let him blow what's left of his mind.

DEAR ABBY: I have always felt that standing ovations should be reserved for exceptional performances. However, audiences in less sophisticated cities seldom see great performances, so they reward every play, concert and performance with a standing ovation.

I don't really feel like standing and joining the others in shouts of "bravo" following a merely good performance. I think a performance should be truly outstanding to rate a standing ovation.

My problem, Dear Abby, is that I always feel like a killjoy just sitting there instead of going along with the crowd. Is it OK to remain seated at such times?

SAN ANGELO, TEXAS

DEAR SAN: I can offer no better advice than that which Polonius gave to Laertes in Shakespeare's "Hamlet": "This above all: To thine own self be true, and it must follow as the night the day, thou canst not be false to any man."

Do you feel left out? There are secrets in developing the art of making yourself popular. You're never too young or too old to learn. Get Abby's booklet: "How To Be Popular: You're Never Too Young or Too Old." Send $1 with a long, self-addressed, stamped (28 cents) envelope to Abby, 132 Lasky Drive, Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212.

Cars Run On Burning Wood

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Ben Russell drove from Florida to Los Angeles in a car powered by burning wood.

"And that wasn't all we used," said Russell, president of the company that devised the method. "We burned vines, old shoes, even a dead squirrel. When we were finished with lunch at hamburger stands, we would throw in the wrappers."

What he created, he says, is a steel reactor which rolls on one wheel behind a station wagon. Through a heat process it breaks down the wood or whatever into charcoal, then pulls off the gas into the car engine.

Before embarking on the 2,700-mile journey with three workers from his Alabama company, Russell removed the auto's gas tank to provide storage space for 300 pounds of wood. But whatever energy was saved in the experiment, he said, was more than offset by a pickup truck that accompanied them for the eight days to scout for additional lumber.

Food At College Topic Of Debate

Western Texas College students circulating a petition concerning food and food service complaints have been taken to task by George Gann, the food service director at the college.

As reported in the current issue of "The Western Texan," the WTC campus newspaper, the petition charged that cafeteria personnel do not always wear hair nets and plastic gloves, that food is not always fresh, and that leftovers are frequently served. Other grievances dealt with allegations that cigarette ashes are sometimes found in food and soap residue can be seen on plates and silverware.

Gann refuted the claims. He said many students had signed the petition not knowing fully what they were signing. Some had later contacted him and apologized, he said.

Gann, who has 42 years' experience in food service, said he had no inkling students were displeased with food service at the college until the petition episode. He said the petition was probably brought on by second semester boredom.

Gann said cafeteria workers have always worn gloves and hairnets, and that smoking is permitted only in areas away from actual food preparation.

Asked if he believed students had legitimate complaints concerning college food and food service, Gann said, "No, definitely not. But I'm biased."

Gann acknowledged that students are from time to time served leftovers, but that is to cut down on waste and lower food costs. The purchase of three meals in the cafeteria plan, he said, breaks down to $3.90 per student per day.

"They're wanting $7 or $8 worth of food for $3.90," Gann said.

said Gann. Gann also denied that soap residue stains dishes and silverware. That residue, he said, is rinse water.

Gann said his dishwashers are rated monthly by Economic Laboratories, the company from which the soap is purchased. He receives excellent ratings, he said.

Gann also said he would rate the college food "excellent."

The college's food service is run by Prophet Foods, a subsidiary of Greyhound Foods. The same firm has run the food service operation since the inception of the college.

New Book On Exploits Of Captain Gonzauillas

Since the founding of the Texas Rangers in 1835, few law enforcement agencies have so stirred the public's imagination or entered into the nation's folklore as have the Rangers. One of the most extraordinary and colorful of the men to wear the Ranger badge was M.T. "Lone Wolf" Gonzauillas, the only man of Spanish descent to attain the cherished rank of captain. Throughout his 31-year career, from 1920 to 1951, Captain Gonzauillas complied an immense collection of articles, photographs, and Ranger memorabilia which author Brownson Malsch has drawn upon in writing "Captain M.T. 'Lone Wolf' Gonzauillas," a new book from Shoal Creek Publishers of Austin. Malsch's vividly detailed account of the "Lone Wolf" features more than 30 photographs, including a sampling of Gonzauillas' many richly decorated, specially adapted rifles and pistols.

Cleanup Day Saturday In Hermleigh

HERMLEIGH Saturday, March 15, has been scheduled as community cleanup day here, in preparation for the judging in the community improvement contest. The county will furnish trucks to pick up trash, brush, junk, etc. but it must be piled where it is readily accessible to the trucks. Boy Scout Troop 311 will be among the groups aiding in the project. Anyone who needs help in outside cleanup work may call Billy Haynes at 863-2451 during school hours or after school may call 863-2472. Anyone who can lend a hand Saturday is asked to meet at Boyce Jones Grocery at 9 a.m.

Although relatively small physically, Gonzauillas' intelligence, integrity, and cool-headed daring made him a persistent and effective lawman. From Prohibition days when he served as a liquor man, who could almost "smell out" hidden stills, to the World War II race riots in Beaumont, to the Phantom Killer episode near Texarkana that was made into a motion picture, Malsch describes the courage, coolness, and sixth sense that made the "Lone Wolf" a legend in his own time.

Trained as an "old style" Ranger, Gonzauillas' nevertheless was an early advocate of modern scientific crime detection methods. After he became chief of the Texas Department of Public Safety Bureau of Intelligence in 1935, he organized and trained specialists and obtained many of the instruments needed for the new crime detection facilities. Gonzauillas' definite views on law enforcement also come out in Malsch's book. Particularly after his retirement, the "Lone Wolf" was outspoken, and in 1970 he remarked to a Denton Record-Chronicle reporter, "Officers are tired of being abused. Nowadays it is the officer who is handcuffed instead of the criminal. Why, an officer practically has to get shot before he can even defend himself."

When the Texas Ranger Hall of Fame in Waco was dedicated in 1976, a gold medalion with Gonzauillas' portrait was produced in his honor. The "Lone Wolf" was one of only 12 former Rangers accorded this honor.

Colonel Homer Garrison, Jr., Director of DPS during much of Gonzauillas' career, once commented to a Dallas Morning News reporter, "In my opinion, Captain Gonzauillas will go down in history as one of the greatest Rangers of all time. He was a master of planning and he was always ready for any eventuality. When he went on a case he figured anything might happen and he planned for it."
Malsch's account of the exploits of the "Lone Wolf," who died in 1977, will be enjoyed by those interested in real life law enforcement and the history of the Texas Rangers.

pack's executive officer, Frank Cannon; Bob Traynor, district commissioner; Ed Covington and Pat Alexander, for judging pinewood derby; Edwin Sullivan, for furnishing the track at the pinewood derby; Bob Lanier, cub master; Jerry Gunset, Webelo leader; Terry Rumpff, den chief; and den leaders Eloise Gunset, Carolyn Derouen, Allie Beth Beauchamp, Joan Marble, Cheri Stewart, Donna Zaiman, and Cheri Cate.

All boys received 50th Anniversary Cub Scout patches and 25th Anniversary patches. Other awards given were: Chris Smith, bobcat badge; Robert Garza, bobcat badge; Tracy Odom, wolf badge; Randy Vest, wolf badge; Paul Marble, bear badge; Tim Beauchamp, two silver arrow points; David Stewart, two silver arrow points; Daniel McVey, one silver arrow point; Jerry McNew, artist activity badge and craftsman activity badge; Craig Watkins, Webelo badge; and John Zalman, citizen's activity badge and the Arrow of Light Award.

Boys receiving Super Scout patches were Fred Taylor, Kerby Gambrell, Ralph Torres, Chad Phillips, Bart Mortz, Tim Green, Tim Beauchamp, and Tracy Odom. The Super Scout patches were awarded to boys bringing new boys into Cub Scouting.

Approximately 125 persons were in attendance for the banquet. Pack 36's March pack meet will be Monday, March 24 at 7 p.m. at East Elementary's cafeteria. Game Warden Rue Gambol will be the guest speaker.

The Cub Scouts will be participating in the Census Good Turn. They will be working their respective areas on Monday, March 10, after school.

Classes will meet on Monday and Thursday nights from 6:30-9 p.m. through May 1 for a total of 40 hours of instruction. Besides introducing students to the principles of flight, the course is designed to prepare students to help themselves pass the FAA private pilots examination.

Fees are $55 per person and students are also to purchase a book costing about $25.

Dr. Gene McClurg, Dean of Occupational Education and Technology at WTC, will be the instructor.

Persons are to reserve space in the class by calling the Adult Vocational Education office at WTC, AC 915-573-8511, extension 240.

The workshop will be taught by Piorelli, an Alaskan artist whose works are being featured in the museum through March 6. The workshop was originally scheduled for March 7 but has been moved because of a conflict in dates.

The workshop will begin at 9:30 a.m. and continue until 4:30 p.m. Fees will be $20 per person and students are to provide their own supplies. First Baptist Chapel Site For Nuptial Vows

Before an altar decorated with a heart-shaped candelabrum flanked with rainbow candelabra accented with greenery and blue ribbon and arrangements of white carnations, tipped in blue, gladioli and greenery, vows were exchanged between Deborah Ann Ponder and Billy Dean Hall.

Judge Preston Wilson performed the double ring ceremony Jan. 19 at 5 p.m. in the chapel of First Baptist Church. Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. J.L. Ponder, 301 39th St., and Mr. and Mrs. Billy Jack Hall, 210 34th St. Father of the bride presented her in marriage as she was attired in an old fashioned, Southern styled gown of tulle featuring a V-neckline with lace attached at the neckline which came to a point at front and back waist, and falling off the shoulder to form the sleeves. The waist was fitted and overlaid with a layer of tulle, a layer of lace and then another layer of tulle gathered in four sections with a rose cluster. Her mantilla veil of silk illusion was cathedral length. She carried her bouquet atop a Bible given to her by her father. Following tradition, something old was a watch on a chain she wore around her neck. She borrowed a pair of earrings and wore a blue garter. Her dress and veil were new. Maid of honor was Sylvia Lopez. She wore a yellow crepe dress with an aqua sheer jacket with touches of yellow and carried a white lace fan engraved edges. She wore baby's breath in her hair.

Flower girl Diana Ponder, sister of the bride of Amite, La., wore a gown matching the maid of honor's. She carried a basket of blue silk pedals. Christy Jenkins and Teresa Hall, sister of the groom were bridesmaids and wore gowns identical to the maid of honor. Tommy Jones, dressed in a light blue tuxedo with dark blue velvet trim, was ring bearer. Other male attendants were dressed the same.

Ronnie Woodruff was best man. Groomsman was Cary Hall, groom's brother, and ushers were John Ponder of Amite, La., brother of the bride, and Greg Jones. Organist Cheryl Jones played "Love Story" while guests were seated. She

A reception was held in the garden room of First Baptist Church. The wedding cake, a three-tiered white cake decorated with blue, was served by Benet Boswell and Kelly Farquhar. Sundry Beasley registered.

Following a four-day wedding trip to Carlsbad, N.M., the couple will reside in Louisiana where the bridegroom is supervisor of building homes.

For the wedding trip, the couple wore matching suits of denim pants, maroon shirts and grey sweaters.

Out of town guests were registered from Odessa,

Kermit, Shallowater, Wolford, Kemp Springs, Texas; Amite, Baton Rouge and New Roads, La.

Miss Kerr, Stokes Repeat Nuptial Vows

The sanctuary of Northside Baptist Church was the setting of double ring nuptial vows of Melody Kerr, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bobby Kerr of Pecos, and Danny Stokes, son of Mr. and Mrs. Homer Stokes.

The couple stood before an arch entwined with baby's breath and greenery with candelabra on either side as Rev. Bob Rhodes officiated the ceremony.

Diane Scotell played traditional wedding music and accompanied Becky Pierce as she sang "Time in a Bottle" and "You Light Up My Life."

Serving as best man was Steve Campbell.

Bride's attendants were Belinda Brooks, maid of honor, and junior bridesmaid was Christin Stokes, daughter of the groom. Flower girl was Brandi Borchardt, niece of the groom.

Maid of honor wore a light blue chiffon with floral underskirt. Her headpiece was made of blue roses. The junior bridesmaid wore a baby blue organza gown with applique scalloped bottom in white. The flower girl was dressed identical to the junior bridesmaid. Attendants carried bouquets of shades of blue.

Given in marriage by John Carl Borchardt, the bride was attired in a gown of white slipper satin and a picture hat trimmed in satin. She carried a bouquet of shades of blue in the water caused yellowing, have water supply coming into the house checked.

To prevent future yellowing, install a water filter and use a water conditioner in wash cycle.

To remove discoloration, launder in bleach appropriate for the fabric.

If iron stain remains, use a chemical rust remover if safe for fabric and carefully follow directions for use.

Keep white synthetics white through proper laundry procedures.

DISCOLORATION CAUSES

Some causes of yellowing, dinginess and greying are chlorine retention, soil build-up, improper sorting, inadequate detergent amount, iron content in water, or silt, sand or clay deposits in water.

Normal aging of fibers also causes yellowing, but this process cannot be prevented.

BLEACHING

To retain whiteness, use proper bleach for fabric with each wash.

Use chlorine bleach on many synthetics, such as polyester, acrylics and most nylons.

Do not use chlorine bleach on garments containing spandex, acetate, triacetate, wool or silk.

To check if fabrics, such as nylons, are chlorine bleach safe, test fabric on an inconspicuous place with a dot of bleach solution — one tablespoon bleach to one-fourth cup water.

If the spot turns yellow, do not use.

PREVENT FADING

To prevent fading of other colors on whites, wash only whites and very light colors together. Once colors are absorbed, whiteness is hard, if not impossible, to regain.

DETERGENT

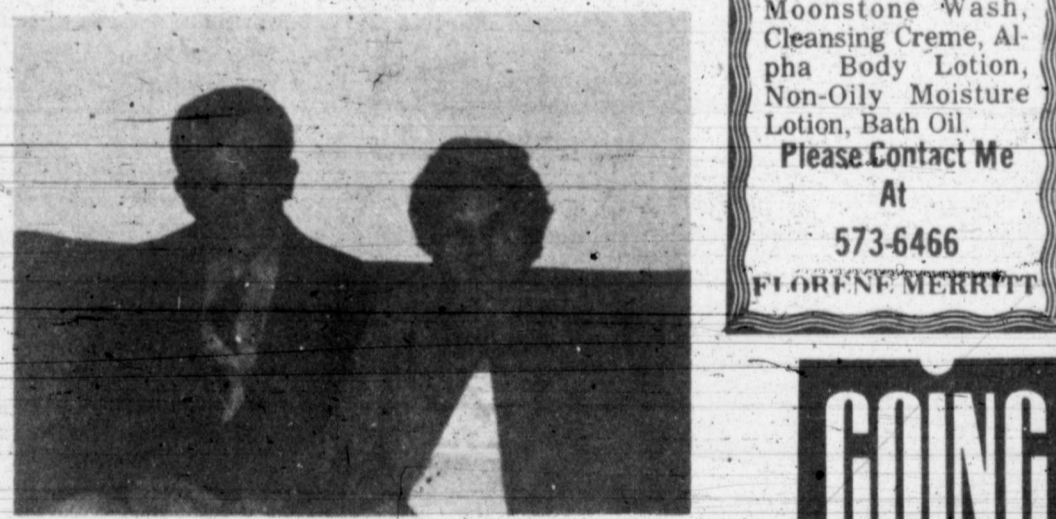

Proper detergent amount for water hardness, load amount, and degree of soil will prevent fabric discoloration.

Launder white garments frequently before sets in fabric using as warm a water temperature as possible for the fabric.

REMOVING DISCOLORATION

To remove greying, yellowing and dinginess caused by too little detergent and soil build-up, soak clothes overnight in the warmest water appropriate for the fabric with four times the normal amount of detergent, plus one cup of non-precipitating water conditioner.

After draining this water from clothes, launder on regular cycle with no detergent and one cup wa-

Picabia Paintings Displayed

NEW YORK (AP)—Four recently rediscovered major paintings by Francis Picabia are on display at the Museum of Modern Art through March 4.

The Picabia paintings have not been exhibited in more than 60 years. They were thought to have been lost or destroyed during World War I before they were rediscovered in 1974 in the basement of the former home of Eugene and Agnes Meyer, owners of the Washington Post.

On view with the Picabias at the MOMA exhibition are works by Matias Kutsis, Arp, Tack, Galtus and Georgia O'Keefe, among others.

"I wasn't planning on graduating until next semester, but I knew my father had been coming here for a long time (seven years)," Scott said. "I accelerated my schedule so I could graduate with him. The elder Terry holds three jobs: By day he is a junior high school industrial arts teacher and financial secretary of a bricklayers' union. At night he teaches adult classes. To earn his bachelor of science degree in technology, he attended university classes on Saturdays and during summers. His son studied business administration.

Response to suit opening

The opening bid of one of a suit ranges from 13 points (11 in high cards) up to 23 or 24 with 20 or 21 in high cards. It may be made with a hand of 4-3-3-3 or a fantastic 8-5-0-0. It is up to you to respond with very little. Even a blank like S: x H: x x x x x D: x x x x C: x x x may turn out to be an easy game. Opposite some hand such as S: A x x x x H: A K X x x D: A x C: x but you should pass to a one spade opening. You can't tilt at windmills.

The simplest rule is to pass with zero to six points and to find some response with 7 or 8.

With 7 or 8 you respond and plan to quit at the first opportunity. With 9 or 10 you will hope for strong enough action by your partner so that you can go on hopefully.

With 11 or 12 you definitely plan to bid again if given a chance and will go to game with any encouragement at all.

With 13 or more you are going to make sure of getting at least to game.

Remember the working rule that an opening bid opposite an opening bid is nearly always enough for game.

With 18 or more you are in the slam zone. Take appropriate action and with 20 or more bid at least six unless you find that two aces are held against you.

Choice of Response
There is a general utility response of one of a higher ranking suit (the "one-over-one"). It shows 7-17 points and is a one-round force. You plan to define the limits with subsequent bids.

Two of a lower-valued suit is also a common bid. It shows 11-17 points with at least nine in high cards and is going to get to game almost all the time.

The one-notrump response and the single raise show 7-10 points and the appropriate type hand. Thus the single raise shows trump support.

The one notrump shows a balanced hand and obviously denies the holding for a raise. It should also deny the ability to bid one-over-one.

It is also pretty good policy to avoid one notrump and the single raise with 10 points.

Jump Raises
We like to use them as limit bids but good ones. Thus we recommend 11-12 or 13 for the single jump. Partner is expected to carry on with anything, but the barest minimum.

Jumps in Notrump
Two notrump show 13-15. Three notrump 16-17. They also should be used sparingly. We have seen countless slams lost because a notrump response has kept the partnership from finding a 4-4 fit in a new suit.

In next Saturday's article we will give examples of responses. (NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSN.)

the federal 'windfall'

With the inflation rate running at roughly 13 percent annually one might make the mistake of thinking that everybody is hurt by inflation. That is just not true. While most people find their standard of living has decreased, the government profits by inflation - especially politicians. Even worse, these very same politicians have it within their power to index federal income taxes - something that would ease one of the worst aspects of the inflationary spiral - but refuse to do so because it is in their interest not to.

The idea of tax indexing was not seriously considered until the late 1970s. Historically, the late 1970s was the first time the nation experienced a prolonged high rate of inflation. Formerly the periodic times of high inflation lasted only a few months or a year; people didn't notice they were being edged into higher tax brackets. By the end of the 1970s it was clear to everyone that the graduated income, coupled with the high rate of inflation, was providing the federal government with a windfall of new revenue.

The unfairness of the current system is easily demonstrated. If, for example, a family of four whose income is $15,000 manages to keep pace with an annual inflation rate of 10 percent - its purchasing power remains the same - the family's tax bill has increased 23 percent. Its real income has fallen because inflation pushed it into a higher tax bracket. Families like this are doubly hurt when their pay increases, enough to put them in a higher tax bracket, but not enough to break even with inflation.

Indexing, simply put, would prevent the government from profiting from inflation. By preventing taxpayers from being pushed into higher tax brackets, indexing would limit the growth of an individual's tax obligation to the growth of his real income (income adjusted for inflation). It can be done easily; six states have already done it with state income taxes and a dozen more are currently considering such legislation. Brazil and Chile have done it successfully.

A fair question if states and other nations have done it is why the federal income tax system has not been indexed. Milton Friedman suggests the reason is that politicians would then be hindered from selling the one thing they have to offer: promises. Members of Congress, instead of indexing taxes, voted in 1978 to reduce individual tax burdens by 7.2 percent. That tax cut supposedly trimmed $13.2 billion from the government's take, yet the amount of money collected, due to inflation, increased. The politicians have it both ways. They claim to have voted for a tax cut knowing full well government revenue increased. It is the worst kind of doubletalk. Now they can promise to cut taxes while promising others they will increase spending.

During the coming election year members of Congress and candidates for president will likely promise tax cuts in exchange for votes. Unless these candidates are also talking about indexing the tax system, their promises make a sham and mockery of the system of democracy they claim to uphold. And these are the same folks who claim the government should have truth in packaging laws.

by roy mcqueen, publisher

The feller on Deep Creek says, "If you want to save face, never argue with anyone who outweighs and outreaches you."

It's that time of year to get tax information together, and see what's still owed to Uncle Sam. Here's some information that vividly points up the fact that we taxpayers are paying more and losing ground.

It may startle you to know that at the end of the year, you owed an additional $112,900. That's your share of what Uncle Sam has managed to spend on your behalf.

If you'd like it broken down to help with your accounting - it goes like this:

Your share of the public debt is $9,012; your share of Uncle Sam's current bills owed is $1,000; undelivered orders unpaid for totals $4,150; long term contracts will cost you $187; loan and credit guarantees are $2,612; insurance commitments total $21,662; and your share of annuity programs now in force settle in at $73,750; and the rest of the government hodgepodge is figured at $537.

In other words, Uncle Sam owes close to $9 trillion, and that accounts to about $113,000 for every taxpayer.

And while you're studying ways to pay off your share, you might consider the admitted fact that $3 billion is stolen annually from health programs, yet the government has fewer people investigating misdeeds than it has mowing the White House lawn.

Also, you might like to remember that we've spent $250 billion for foreign aid, including $10 million to Uganda's mad dictator, and for financing 14 wars during the last 20 years.

Consider also that the GSA has testified before Congress of an estimated 900,000 welfare recipients who are totally ineligible. Part of your debt went to finance $200 million to perform useless research. It cost something like $85,000 per minute just to finance the interest on the national debt. And congress and the Carter administration wonder why they are held in such low esteem.

movement's penalties

A recent talk show guest advised young girls that the formula for success is to "make yourself pretty and pretend to be happy."

That was supposed to be a cynical observation, reflecting the fact that women - for all their emancipation - remain "sex objects."

But aside from that implication, what's wrong with the advice? Why shouldn't all of us - female or male - seek to make ourselves as attractive as we can - and pretend to be happy?

Betty Friedan believes that the women's movement in recent years has improved the mental health of many women "by giving them greater control over their lives."

The Wall Street Journal finds considerable evidence to the contrary.

The revolution in sex roles has resulted in more employment for women in a wider variety of jobs. Yet, as women approach equality in employment and as they assert more equality socially, and as they begin to harvest some of the advantages heretofore reserved for males, they are harvesting some bitter fruits, also.

Women started smoking 25 years ago, and lung cancer will surpass breast cancer within three more years.

Women accelerated social and job-related drinking 25 years ago, and now one-in-three of our nation's problem drinkers is female.

From here on cause and effect are less definitive, but in the last decade women have begun to suffer proportionately more heart disease which, presumably, is stress-related.

Twice as many women are driving cars as 10 years ago, and twice as many women are now involved in auto accidents.

More men than women kill themselves, but the gap is narrowing. And when women suicides historically overtook themselves on pills, recently they have adopted historically male methods - hanging, gunshots, deliberate car crashes.

Women have always lived longer than men. As of 1970 they lived an average eight years longer. Now Michigan's School of Public Health discovers that the death rates for women are beginning to look more like the death rates for men.

few sound investments

WASHINGTON (AP) - Despite opposition from many consumer groups and labor officials, Congress is expected to remove state-imposed limits on home mortgage rates by March 31, House and Senate sources say.

That could push mortgage rates even higher than their current record levels. But bankers, builders and the Carter administration insist the move will help homebuyers by freeing up hard-to-find mortgage money and stimulating very sluggish house sales.

However, there is growing concern that still higher interest rates would make buying a home so costly that few new buyers could afford them.

In 1973, monthly mortgage payments for an average home came to $194.81, says the National Association of Home Builders. That was based on a 7 percent mortgage rate and a $32,500 purchase price.

Last year, the average house cost $63,800 and commanded monthly mortgage payments of $635.07 based on a 13 percent mortgage.

With interest rates still on the rise, affordability becomes even more perplexing in 1980.

"There is no question that there is a credit squeeze in the country," says John Wilder, Tennessee's lieutenant governor and a spokesman for the National Conference of State Legislatures. "But, it is less clear that the only way to deal with it is through raising the ceiling on interest rates."

"A great many people are reluctant to assume a mortgage at the same interest they were paying on their Master Charge card three years ago," he says. "Rather than pay such astronomical rates, people are deferring buying a home. Many consumer groups and labor officials say such a move - which will make more permanent a three-month override of state usury ceilings - will hurt homebuyers more than it will help them.

"Pre-emption of state mortgage usury ceilings would be another step in the direction of leaving average-income households at a disadvantage with upper income families, as they compete for credit," says Henry Schecter, an AFL-CIO spokesman.

The Consumer Federation of America says if Congress removes the ceiling on home mortgage rates, it will be pressured with some justification to wipe out limits on other consumer loans.

Deputy Treasury Secretary Robert Carswell says the removal of state mortgage rate ceilings does not necessarily lead to gouging of consumers.

To protect the consumer, Carswell and others suggest some kind of federal usury ceiling - a move that may be adopted by House and Senate conferees when they consider the issue in early March - as part of a massive bank reform package.

The Mortgage Bankers of America, a group that wants usury limits wiped out, challenges consumer groups, saying homebuyers will be protected by market forces.

With home sale plummeted late 1979, and with new tight-money policies announced last week by the Federal Reserve Board, the housing market faces a serious slump this year.

Only two states in the United States allow casino gambling legally - Nevada and New Jersey, which restricts its gaming tables to the Atlantic City area.

Those oldest of allies, France and the United States, seem bent on proving over and over that if familiarity in international relations does not precisely breed contempt, it certainly poses no obstacle to a divergence of views.

Having in this century bickered through two world wars and a score of lesser conflagrations, they are at it again in the current complex of crises in which France sees the United States as pursuing a policy of "zigzag."

Not surprisingly, the latter views the situation somewhat differently. For every zig Washington may take, Paris is likely to come up with an equally unsettling zag.

It is clearly not an easy relationship. But it may, and in part for that very reason, now and then have its unexpected advantages. Such as currently in the delicate matter of India's reaction to the Soviet occupation of Afghanistan.

Prime Minister Indira Gandhi in recent weeks has shown herself of several minds on the subject, at times simultaneously. But, gratifyingly for our side, she took the occasion of Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko's visit to New Delhi to sidle closer to the Western position than she had previously.

Not as close, to be sure, as Washington would like, since she did not press for withdrawal of Soviet troops. But her critical attitude toward the Soviet move was unmistakable and most pointedly conveyed by reference to the joint declaration issued during French President Valery Giscard d'Estaing's visit to New Delhi earlier this year.

The Indian preference for a French connection in the Afghan affair is interesting on several points. Flattery may have a little to do with it. Mrs. Gandhi also has received high-level British and American visitors since her return to power, but none approaching the lofty stature of the French president.

More important is a coincidental similarity of views. Neither Paris nor New Delhi is inclined to judge Soviet intentions as harshly or to view the Afghan situation as critically as does Washington, with London tagging along. The obliquely worded Franco-Indian communique, as a matter of fact, does not refer to any specific country in holding the use of force in international relations "inadmissible."

And France's well-publicized role as a maverick in the Western alliance makes association easier for India. The latter's commitment to non-alignment is not compromised. It might be read as a case of French distance from the United States serving to lessen Indian disenchantment with American policy.

France may prove of notable assistance in another area - energy. While the United States takes time out following the Three Mile Island scare to reassess nuclear-power policy, France is accelerating its own nuclear development.

With an annual investment of some $4 billion, it now has 15 reactors in operation supplying 15 percent of French electricity needs. By 1985, the figures are scheduled to rise to 47 reactors and 50 percent. And by the end of the century, the French are expecting a full 80 percent of their electric power and 33 percent of their overall energy requirements to come from nuclear sources.

It is by far the most ambitious program of any nation and with the rapidly escalating costs of oil-generated electricity, already is paying financial dividends.

The French are not oblivious to the hazards involved. They do have their protesters raising questions about plant safety and waste disposal. Three Mile Island has been very much in the news.

But public support is high and government commitment to nuclear expansion is firm.

The French experience is well worth watching. It may provide some of the answers to questions Americans are asking about their own nuclear future.

HEALTH

Help for cramps

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB - I'm 29 years old and have two children. My first period started when I was 13 and I had severe cramps. I've had them ever since then except when I was pregnant. I've been to several gynecologists and one suggested I needed to see a psychiatrist. I don't have enough money to pay for that. The gynecologist told me I had fibroids on top of my uterus on the left side but they should not be causing the pain I described.

For the past three months I've had cramps lasting two days. This is very inconvenient since I work. About three days before my period my body starts discharging heat. I can feel the heat emitting from my pores until the day I have my period. On that day the heat stops and I lose most of the weight. Also at this time I'm very irritable and can become enraged at the least excitement. I'm fine again until two weeks after my period when the weight gain starts and the whole thing starts again. Any suggestions would be appreciated.

DEAR READER - Painful menstrual cramps is a symptom, not a diagnosis. Some of them are caused by certain defects including fibroid tumors if they're located in such a way as to cause problems.

Many women who have menstrual cramps apparently have an increased formation of a substance called prostaglandin. This substance is formed in the lining of the uterus and it stimulates the uterus to strong contractions. There is a marked increased amount of it at the time of menstruation in some women who have painful menstrual cramps. This is particularly true in women who have what we called primary dysmenorrhea.

Recent studies have identified the presence of the increased amounts of prostaglandin in the menstrual secretions. With this discovery, it has been found that in some of these women certain medicines will control the cramps. This includes Motrin, Indocin, Ponstel and Naproxen.

There are some side effects with some of these medicines and, of course, these are all prescription items but it might be worth discussing the trial of these with your physician. You can take my column along as the source of this suggestion if you wish to do so.

You also seem to be describing the premenstrual tensions that some women experience. This includes the retention of fluid in the last half of the cycle leading up to the time of menstruation. Some women benefit by taking a diuretic which helps to flush out the excess water at that phase of the cycle.

READERS WHO WANT information about hysterectomies, cystoceles and rectoceles can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for The Health Letter number 14-12. Address your request to Dr. Lamb, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10649.

Photographers Overcome By Fascination

PARIS (AP) - There's such a "strong fascination" about Marlene Dietrich that two freelance photographers hoisted themselves up on a crane to a fourth-floor window to get her picture.

They got slapped with a lawsuit instead. Miss Dietrich on Wednesday sued Bruno Mouron, 25, and Bernard Wiss, 27, for about $7,300 for invasion of privacy.

French laws strongly favor celebrities against invasions of privacy. But the photographers' lawyers told the judge their action was justified because the German-born actress "continues to exercise a strong fascination."

He also said they never actually took any pictures.

ASTROGRAPH

Bernice Bede Osol

March 2, 1980

Working in tandem will probably give you the greatest return this coming year. Two specific partners, one you've worked with before and the other new, could bring about the best results.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Be wary of forming partnership arrangements with persons whose goals are different from yours. You must pull together, not apart. Find out more of what lies ahead for you in the year following your birthday by sending for your copy of Astro-Graph Letter, Mail $1 for each to Astro-Graph, Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify birth date.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Things you neglected to attend to could catch up with you today. Even though the tasks may be a drag, get them off your agenda.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Your intentions may be good, but your friends could resent it today if they feel you're trying to run their lives. Keep your suggestions to yourself.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) To maintain harmony at home today, it may be necessary to bite the bullet. Avoid bringing up issues that drive others to take sides.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Your powers of concentration may not be up to your usually high standards today. Be sure to double-check your work, especially if you're dealing with facts or figures.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Be extremely careful today with possessions you prize. If you borrow anything, take pains to return it in the same condition you received it.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) A failure on your part to cooperate with companions could cause needless problems. Don't make things harder on them or yourself.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Set up a schedule today and try to adhere to it. Unless you have some type of game plan, your day could be frustrating and confusing.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) In your presence today some of your friends may gossip about a pal who isn't there. Change the subject if you can; don't be a contributor.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Details are very important where your goals are concerned today. A failure to give them the attention they deserve could deprive you of success.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Be careful whose ideas you imitate today. They may suit another, but they won't work for you if they don't fit your style.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Someone who has taken advantage of your generous nature before may try to put the bite on you again today. Be helpful, but limit your loan.

Your Birthday

March 3, 1980

Things you manage for others are likely to reap extra benefits this coming year. Handle their affairs with the same attention you give to your own.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Keep your eyes open today. You may find something that could offer you a second source of income. You might learn of this indirectly. Find out more of what lies ahead for you in the year following your birthday by sending for your copy of Astro-Graph Letter, Mail $1 for each to Astro-Graph, Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify birth date.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) The best course for you today may be to stay in the middle of the road. Weigh and estimate everything carefully if you're forced to take sides.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) The longer you put things off today, the more difficult they will be to do later. You know what needs doing, so don't try to dodge duties.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Forego pretending to be something you're not. Your friends like you for what you are.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Don't dawdle over things that should be brought to a conclusion today. They will eventually have to be finalized. This is as good a time as any.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Instead of telling another what you think he or she would rather hear today, you could be better helped if you dealt only with the facts.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) This is a good day to work on your budget. If you study things carefully you should be able to find some new ways to trim the fat.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) You'll be better off today by not delegating to others things you could do for yourself. Being your own person will give you pride.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Rather than make outright suggestions to another today, offer advice in a way that will make him or her feel it was their own idea.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Avoid political intrigues and don't play favorites with your friends today. Being impartial will win you allies instead of enemies.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) In order to realize your ambitions today, it will be necessary to assert yourself. Being wishy-washy could deprive you of victory.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) You could be more of a thinker than a doer today, and be so busy making plans that you'll run out of time to execute them.

South Pays Professors Poorest

ATLANTA (AP)—Southern college professors are still paid less than their counterparts in other regions, but the gap has been closing during the past decade, according to an education agency.

Faculty members at colleges in 14 Southern states earned 7 percent less than the national average in 1974, the Southern Regional Education Board reported Thursday.

"Gains in Southern faculty salaries are a reflection of the added emphasis these states have given to higher education for more than a decade," said Winfred L. Godwin, SREB president.

The average salary at public four-year institutions in the South was $19,440 in 1978-79.

From 1974 to 1979, annual salary increases averaged 7 percent in the South, while the national average increase was 5 percent and the inflation rate was 8 percent, the SREB said.

From 1968 to 1978, Southern states increased their appropriations for higher education by 300 percent while the nationwide increase was 250 percent, Godwin said.

In The Oil Patch...

Extender Completed In Northwest Scurry

Terra Resources, Inc. of Houston No. 1 W.H. Jones has been completed as a 3/4-mile northwest extension to the Fluvanna, Southeast (Strawn) field of Scurry County, two miles southeast of Fluvanna.

On 24-hour potential test, the well pumped 60 barrels of oil and 385 barrels of water, through perforations from 7,816 to 7,852 feet after a 250-gallon acid treatment.

Gravily was not reported. The gas-oil ratio is 415-1.

Total depth is 8,295 feet and 5.5-inch pipe is cemented on bottom. The plugged back depth is 8,030 feet.

Well site is 1,820 feet from south and 1,782 feet from east lines of section 484, block 97, H&TC survey.

Westland Oil Development announced plans to drill No. 1 N.F. McMeans as a 7,600-foot wildcat in Kent County.

The drillsite is 10 miles southwest of Claremont and 1,980 feet from south and 1,690 feet from east line of section 40, block G, W&NW survey.

The test is one and three-eighths miles southeast of an unnamed Strawn time discovery which was completed in 1976.

Loco Oil Corp. of Snyder will re-enter No. 1 Connell and plug back to 7,190 feet for tests in the Polar East field pay of Kent County, three miles northeast of Polar.

Originally drilled by Pauley Petroleum, Inc., it was finished in 1963 as a Strawn B and C producer. Total depth is 7,834 feet.

Location is 1,980 feet from north and east lines of section 4, block 5, H&GN survey.

Cobb & Rowce of Midland No. 3 Webb, a project in the Tri-Ruw (feet) field four miles north of Ira, has been abandoned at 6,959 feet.

The location was 2,240 feet from north and 2,173 feet from east lines of section 155, block 97, H&TC survey.

Fuel Shortages Begin To Show On Wellsites

BY MAX B. SKELTON
AP Oil Writer
HOUSTON (AP) Many oil and gas drilling contractors are having energy problems right at the wellsite.

Both cost and availability of fuel continue to worry drilling and well-service contractors, said Ed McGhee, executive vice president of the International Association of Drilling Contractors.

Many are moving to hedge against future price increases and scarcities.

McGhee said one contractor is experimenting with vans to transport crews to the wellsite.

"At least two others have quietly bought petroleum product distributorships," he said.

Still another has begun a systematic program of converting rig engines back to natural gas.

McGhee said many service rig owners have not joined their drilling counterparts in insisting that the producer operator provide fuel.

Even when no scarcity is expected, contractors say a lot of argument can be avoided if the operator pays fuel bills direct.

McGhee said the contractor converting to natural gas contends that in the area where he works $600 a day of field gas at uncontrolled prices will power the rig that would require $1,000 a day in diesel fuel.

And he feels more comfortable about his ability in a crisis to get gas as opposed to diesel," he said.

Additionally, he expects a saving on engine maintenance.

McGhee said the contractors probably most concerned about future scarcities are those whose rigs drill scattered wildcats in remote areas.

The reason is most rationing plans thus far discussed depend on past purchasing patterns with each particular distributor," he said.

Wildcat rigs, like seismic crews, tend to move widely to build up a history of purchases with any one distributor.

Service contractors, McGhee, also are taking advantage of present fuel availability to cope with another problem, encountered in the aftermath of the 1973-74 Arab oil embargo.

During that time, he added, the theft of diesel from rig tanks became common, particularly on service rigs manned only during daylight hours.

Locks and other anti-theft devices already have been fitted to many rig tanks, and more will follow," McGhee said.

Meanwhile, McGhee said, domestic drilling operations are off to a booming start.

During January and February, rotary rig utilization hovered around 92 percent of available units," he said.

Moreover, high activity in the first two months of the year has always signaled unusual growth for the remainder of the year.

McGhee said sustaining a 92 percent utilization level could be expected to lead to a 25 percent increase in new wells when compared with 1979.

He added, however, that some economists doubt if enough investor money can be mustered to finance a 25 percent gain.

Others question if enough steel tubulars can be found for such a rapid expansion," he said.

McGhee said 1979, when the industry kept an average of 2,177 rotary drilling rigs at work, was a good safety years for drilling contractors.

Employers participating in the association's accident statistics program reported a combined total of 53.45 lost time accidents per million man hours worked last year compared with 58.08 in 1978.

"Safety professionals find the figures cheering in that some had anticipated accident frequency would rise in the wake of the rapid expansion of activity during the second half of the year," McGhee said.

"A lot of new recruits entered the oilfield during that final six months and it takes time to train a man to work safely."
