Militants Swayed By Soviet Groups

By The Associated Press
Iranian President Abolhassan Bani-Sadr was quoted today as accusing militants holding approximately 50 American hostages at the U.S. Embassy of being under the influence of pro-Soviet groups. He also predicted the hostages would not be freed before mid-May, a French newspaper said. "Unfortunately, they

(the militants) sometimes let themselves be influenced by certain political groups favorable to the U.S.S.R., such as the Communist Tudeh Party, which wants to isolate Iran on the international scene," the Iranian president was quoted by the French newspaper Le Monde in a Monday interview. Bani Sadr also accused Iran's Revolutionary Council of "weakness and indecision" in its recent confrontation with the militants over letting members of the U.N. commission see the hostages, the paper said.

"If the council had shown itself firm, if it hadn't changed its mind every day under pressure from this or that group, we wouldn't be where we are," he was quoted.

The commission left Tehran today with a veiled threat to withhold its report on the alleged crimes of Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi until it is allowed to see all the American hostages, who began their 129th day in captivity today.

"The commission is not in a position to prepare its report and has informed the Iranian authorities accordingly," the five-man panel said in a statement. The commission members flew to Switzerland and New York after their 17-day visit ended without a visit to the captives.

Bani Sadr's comments to Le Monde seemed to confirm what Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini, the all-powerful Iranian religious leader, said more than two weeks ago: that the fate of the hostages would be left to the newly elected parliament.

The Iranian president was quoted as saying the release could not come before mid-May because the parliament will not have sufficient time to examine the case before then.

Silkwood Appeals Today

DENVER (AP)—Lawyers for the estate of Karen Silkwood, the nation's first officially recognized victim of low-levels radiation, go to court today to try to reinstate two dismissed civil rights counts against Kerr-McGee Corp. officials and others.

They will try to convince the 10th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals that officials of Kerr-McGee Corp. Miss Silkwood's employer when she died in an automobile accident on Nov. 13, 1974, harassed the woman because she complained about employee safety. FBI agents, Kerr-McGee officials and others also were named in the complaints.

Another Quake Shakes Philly

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—A minor earthquake that rumbled through the northern suburbs of Philadelphia on Tuesday was the fourth in a series of small tremors that began March 1, officials said.

No injuries or damages were reported from any of the quakes. Police said they had hundreds of queries about Tuesday's tremor from residents of Montgomery and Bucks counties.

Soviets Release Photos

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet press today released its first photographs of Russian troops in Afghanistan and declared in a lengthy report that their presence was warmly welcome by Afghan citizens.

The Soviet army newspaper Red Star published two photos and a report on the troops' activities. One photo showed a smiling young Afghan with his arm over the shoulder of a Soviet private. The second showed a "warm meeting" atop an armored vehicle between Soviet soldiers and civilians in Hairhana near Kabul.

The report did not give the number of Soviet troops in Afghanistan, estimated by Western sources at 80,000.

Afghan Refugees Fleeing Soviets

KHAR, Pakistan (AP)—Thousands of refugees, many of them injured and near starvation, are trekking painfully through the snow-covered mountains of eastern Afghanistan to Pakistan after fleeing villages destroyed by Soviet troops.

Most of them are women and young children. Many of their husbands, and fathers died fighting in the Soviet offensive last week to drive the Moslem rebels from nearby Konar province.

Attaullah Khan, Pakistan's commissioner for the Bajaur tribal district, said 2,000 new arrivals in the past week brought the district's refugee population to about 35,500, with an estimated 5,000 more still to be registered. Khan said one camp contained nearly 1,000 orphans.

Among the newcomers was Maulana Zarawar Khan, a bearded mullah Moslem cleric from Asmar, a village in Konar about 50 miles north of Khar.

He said Russian troops arrested him in the provincial capital, Chigha Sarai, because they suspected him of links with the anti-communist guerrillas who controlled most of Konar until the end of February.

As a "supreme sacrilege and insult," he said, they unraveled his turban and used it to tie his hands behind his back.

Carter To Hike Pay Guidelines

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Carter is preparing to raise his administration's voluntary wage guidelines to allow pay increases of up to 9 1/2 percent this year, but labor leaders say their support for worker wage restraint won't last much longer if inflation escalates further.

Government and labor sources said Monday Carter has decided to accept a union-backed proposal to loosen the wage guidelines from last year's 7 percent ceiling to a range of 7 1/2 to 9 1/2 percent—and even higher for some workers who receive cost-of-living raises.

She doesn't know what to do about the problem. Mrs. Cisneros doesn't believe her landlord is prepared to correct the situation, she has contacted the city and has been told there is nothing it can do, and she was even turned down recently when she called Sweetwater trying to divert a few snakehunters from the rattlesnake roundup there to her back yard. One Killed Near Child,.... Snakes' Den Keeping Housewife Up Tight

By JOHN LONG
Don't ask Arlene Cisneros about snakes or she will tell you about the den of rattlers in her back yard or about the time two or three weeks ago when she killed one only a few feet away from her youngest child.

Mrs. Cisneros, 2405 30th St., has a rotted and semi-caved in storm cellar in her backyard. The storm cellar is lined with railroad cross ties, and snakes occasionally slither out from the moldy crevices and deep holes, she says.

three weeks ago when she found a rattlesnake in the backyard near her 2-year-old child, the youngest of her four children. She dispatched that snake with a .22-caliber pistol. Still, she is afraid.

"The kids came bringing in a snake skin they found out here the other day," she said.

"It's kind of a leery situation," she continued. "I don't know what I'm going to do about this summer when I work my garden, because I have to work my garden. It's got me spooked."

Mrs. Cisneros and her family moved into the house the first time in August 1978. They lived there a while, then moved out to a house in the country. They moved back to the 30th St. house this past November.

Not only have snakes been known to crawl out, but she says that on at least one occasion a skunk trailed through her back yard. Where he came from and where he went to she doesn't know, but the problem is still present. One of the rattlesnakes killed a neighbor's chicken. "Personally, I'd like to have the thing (cellar) restored," she said. She realizes, however, that isn't likely to happen any time soon.

"Even if the snakes are gone, it's still a dangerous place," she said.

Nab Suspect In Lubbock

GUYMON, Okla. (AP)—A 21-year old Texas man who escaped from Texas County deputies here Friday has been recaptured in Lubbock, local authorities reported today.

They said Teddy Lynn Bolinger, 21, also known as Teddy Anderson of Idalou was recaptured Monday as he left the home of his estranged wife in Lubbock.

Bolinger bolted from two Texas County deputies in the courthouse here and fled down in a feed store truck that had been parked outside the building. He had been arrested on theft and bogus check charges and was being held here awaiting transfer to Texas.

Contracts On School Agenda

Contracts for elementary and secondary principals and assistant principals and for the head football coach will be considered by the Snyder School Board at its meeting tonight.

The meeting is set for 7:30 p.m. in the board room of the school administration building. The principals, assistant principals and football coach are now working under contracts extending to 1981 and contracts for these positions are brought up for extensions at the March meeting each year, according to school policy.

Also up for consideration tonight will be adoptions of several textbooks for 1980. Texts up for adoption this year are those in computer mathematics, civil government, automotive trades, beginning typewriting, advanced typewriting and health education.

No Progress In Colombia

BOGOTA, Colombia (AP)—The Colombian government said talks with the guerrillas holding the embassy of the Dominican Republic "advanced in a climate of serenity," but no progress was reported forward freeing the more than 21 hostages, including U.S. Ambassador Diego Asencio, seized 14 days ago.

"The conversations advanced in a climate of serenity and the participants showed their willingness to continue them," the press office of President Julio Cesar Turbay Ayala said after a negotiating session Monday in a cream-colored van outside the embassy, occupied during a reception Feb. 27.

The SDN Column

Before we let go of this greatest season in Snyder High School basketball history, there are a few comments that we feel compelled to make on the state tournament.

We got down there Saturday just in time to see the second half of the Class A championship game and, of course, all of the Class AAA championship game. It was our first look into the Super Drum and our first time to see any of the state finals games in Austin.

Way back there when the University Interscholastic League was in adolescent years, we missed a rip to the state tournament as a member of a team by two points. At the time, we thought that any team earning the right to go to Austin was a premier outfit. We haven't changed our opinion over the years.

Some people are prone to dwell upon statistics at these events, and record books are part of the business. But we want to call attention to some figures that Snyder players and coaches should not ignore and that local fans should become aware of, if they haven't already.

During the course of our Saturday night game down here at Austin, little messages were flashed on the Super Drum's classy scoreboard from time to time. One of these advised that no less than 1,138 teams participated in the UIL basketball program this season. This means that something like 1,118 of these teams would have all but given an arm and a leg to have been among the 20 who were privileged to participate in this great event. And by Saturday, it meant that 10 more teams would have given up a lot to have been among the 10 who made the finals in the five classifications.

As one observer remarked before our game even started, no losers ever get to Austin.

So, as a fan, we didn't hang our head when we walked out of the Super Drum Saturday night. A state title would have been sensational, but we are not going to complain about settling for mere greatness, because that is what it takes to get to Austin and advance to the championship finals.

And now that we have had a taste of it, we trust that our players who return next year will remember it and set their sights on the top again.

College Board Revises PE Facility Policies

Two policy revisions—one dealing with the use of physical education facilities by non students—was approved Monday night during a meeting of the Western Texas College Board.

In addition, the board accepted the resignation of three staff members and approved a bid for the construction of golf cart storage sheds.

Effective September 1, 1980, the handbook court at the college will be reserved exclusively for WTC students enrolled in PE classes. In the past, use of the college's handbook court was available to athletic booster club members.

Dr. Robert Clinton said the staff had made the policy revision recommendation because of heavy demands for use of the court which had made it difficult for students to get their required time on the courts.

The board agreed that the priorities had long been set that the school's academic program must come first.

In a related matter, board members were given a progress report on the feasibility of building four additional handball courts. The project would be financed by selling memberships, and use of the courts would be limited to members. No action was taken.

The second policy revision now allows for executive and corporate memberships in the WTC Golf Club. Executive membership would be from 5 to 9 members, and annual membership fee is $60 for each member and yearly dues of $120 for each member.

Corporate membership will be for 10 members or more. The annual membership fee will be $50 for each member. In addition, each member will pay yearly dues of $120.

Executive or corporate members can add dependents by paying $10 per month or a yearly fee of $100. WTC golf coach Bob O'Day presented the proposal.

The board also accepted the low bid from T.E. Shelburne and Son, Inc.

for the construction of golf cart storage sheds. Shelburne's bid was $27,487. The construction will be paid for by rental of the storage sheds.

Three resignations were accepted by the board. William Cumiford, associate professor of history and government, has submitted his resignation and plans to enter private business in the Austin area. Lynn Dyer, assistant professor of math currently on a leave of absence, has advised that he will not return next year. Both resignations are effective at the end of the present school year.

Jerry Dennis, assistant professor of diesel, has resigned effective May 31, also to enter private business.

The college board then named Mrs. Dora White as absentee ballot clerk for the trustee election. Deputy clerks named are Mrs. Ann Walton, Mrs. Frances Stevenson and Miss Shelia Tate. Absentee balloting will be held jointly with Snyder Public Schools and at Ira and Hermleigh schools.

In routine action, the board reviewed a list of small classes and gave its approval.

Following the regular agenda, the board went into executive session to discuss a personnel matter. The board later reconvened in regular session and announced that no board action would be required.

Board President R.C. Patton presided at the meeting. Absent were board members Edwin Parks and Bill Jones.

problem for states

Thanks to steadily higher prices, a new interest in conservation, patriotic resolve to declare independence of the oil cartel or some combination of these and possibly other factors, American drivers are using less gasoline.

Eight percent less during the last quarter of 1979 than during the same period of the previous year.

That's good news, isn't it? Well, not necessarily for everyone. Specifically not for state treasuries and highway departments that have seen revenues from gasoline taxes declining accordingly.

For the same last quarter of 1979, the take declined even more precipitously than consumption - by 10 percent. For the entire year, revenues of all states were off a total half billion dollars.

Acutely missed dollars, because the state taxes traditionally have funded highway construction and maintenance programs and, in recent years in some areas, have helped underwrite deficit-ridden mass transit systems. A continuing decline in consumption and no change in the tax structure jeopardizes the fiscal future of all such programs.

The states can't, and would not want to, do much about the former, but many are already planning changes in the latter. According to a current report by Business Week magazine on the situation, more than 30 states are considering adapting their gas-taxing systems to the changed consumption pattern.

In most cases, this would be accomplished through converting the tax from a flat cents-per-gallon levy which all but two states now employ - to a percentage of price at the pump.

Planning, however, is going to be much easier than achieving the switch. Reluctant to take a step that would make pump prices even higher to the inevitable displeasure of that large portion of the electorate that drives, legislatures are proving balky.

Barring Congress rushing to the rescue with a cut of the proposed windfall-profit tax on the oil industry - a possibility at which Congress so far has balked - the only alternative would appear to be a cutback on road construction and upkeep. In the end probably at least equally unpopular with the driving public, but a move some states already are being forced to make.

For decades state gas taxes, like the federal highway fund, appeared to be a magic money machine, a surefire and virtually painless way of generating the funds for an ever-expanding highway network by hitching a ride with the American public's ever-increasing mobility.

But in a new era of tight and ever more costly energy supplies, it would appear to be a machine fast running out of gas.

World attention has been riveted on Tehran, Iran, where 50 Americans are held hostage.

Times like these we tend to forget to watch the "back door."

In Italy somebody is kidnapped and held hostage - every week - 64 last year - and the world pays little attention.

Even though the kidnaping industry in Italy is symptomatic of an increasingly orchestrated takeover of that country.

If outsiders intruded on the borders of Italy - as in Afghanistan - the Free World would cry "foul." In our international forums we would hear condemnation and demands for economic sanctions.

But it's not outsiders; Italy is being terrorized and intimidated from within.

Guerrilla warriors have learned they can finance their nefarious activities by kidnaping the prominent and the affluent.

And the Communists - the No. 2 party in Italy's parliament - conspire to become No. 1.

A red Italy unthinkable? Not any more.

Many American corporations used to prefer doing business in countries other than our own - where they encountered fewer government restraints, more favorable tax laws and more reasonable wages.

Recently, however, the danger to the overseas personnel of these multinational corporations has escalated in some 60 countries where the political climate ranges from instability to overt terrorism.

And many more American-based corporations have paid ransom to foreign kidnapers but are unwilling to publicly acknowledge it, fearful that public acknowledgement might increase their vulnerability.

Sicily is supposed to be ruled by a Regional Council but it is ruled by three gangs of urban guerrillas - the Red Brigades, the Front Line, and the Revolutionary Fascist Squad.

The guerrillas keep the council in line with frequent "reminder" assassinations.

They killed 22 and shot away the knees of 83 others last year. Already this year they have assassinated the council's president.

And while clandestine warriors keep Italy off balance, their "political arm" is maneuvering for control of the Italian parliament.

Italy's historic bulwark against the encroachment of communism has been the Roman Catholic Church. The Christian Democrats still comprise the largest political party.

But the No. 2 party - the Communists - and the No. 3 party - the Socialists - can outvote and overwhelm the Christian Democrats.

I guess what I'm saying is that Italy's government could collapse in chaos any day - and the next balance of power will belong to the Communists.

They will not necessarily occupy cabinet posts in the government; they don't have to.

As outsiders they take advantage of public restiveness; as insiders they'd be burdened by it.

As the Regional Council in Sicily gets its orders from the political godfathers.

The government of Italy will.

They - well, a lot of them - laughed when he was urging the country to Whip Inflation Now with voluntary restraints on income and expenditures.

Five years and a steady upward trend in the Consumer Price Index later, the joke is over.

Gerald Ford's economic record, WIN buttons and all, looks better and better. So much better, in fact, that Gerald Ford, former president, may be encouraged to become Gerald Ford "presidential candidate."

There's been a boomlet building for a Ford candidacy in recent weeks, one that has in no way been discouraged by the man himself. On the contrary, he stopped just short of giving it his blessing in a widely discussed New York Times interview in which he pointedly questioned Ronald Reagan's ability to attract sufficiently broad support to win the election should he emerge from the primaries and convention with the Republican nomination.

The obvious implication being that Ford is an alternative who has the capability.

Possibly correct, considering the evidence of 1976 when he so narrowly lost the presidency. And it is a possibility that is injecting new interest into a campaign that, with so many wearying months still to go, was already beginning to go stale.

Historically, it would be a precedent-setting candidacy. Only Grover Cleveland, more than a century ago, was voted out of the White House and came back to reclaim it. One of the most supremely popular presidents, Theodore Roosevelt, tried to duplicate the feat a few years later but failed.

No other survivor of the job in modern times, with the possible exception of Ford's predecessor, has indicated any interest in repeating.

And while it is not unprecedented for a serious candidate to enter the field so late in the pre-convention game, it is virtually unprecedented to do so with any prospect of success.

California Gov. Edmund Brown Jr. did it in 1976, raising some Democratic primary dust but getting nowhere on the convention floor. Pennsylvania's William Scranton tried it against Barry Goldwater's steamroller in 1964 and was speedily flattened. The sole modern exception was Hubert Humphrey, who declared his candidacy in 1968 only after President Johnson announced that he would not seek re-election.

On the other hand, the history of the modern presidency is littered with shattered precedents. John F. Kennedy breached the religion barrier. Lyndon Johnson and then Jimmy Carter returned Southerners to respectability. Richard Nixon, defeated, once succeeded on the second try.

So why not a Ford turn? As George Bush becomes less appealing as he grows more familiar and as doubts about Reagan grow outside his own dedicated wing of the party, it is a question that finds more and more people interested in an answer.

Ford has an edge in experience over all the Republican contenders and, over Reagan, possibly a decisive one in age. And if Iran and Afghanistan recede as issues - or public opinion on them shifts from supportive to critical of Carter - the issue that is really No. 1 would again preoccupy attention.

The economy. It's an issue that Gerald Ford could do big things with should we again be seeing a Carter-Ford presidential race.

And there is another reason the former president might relish starting out on the road to a rematch. According to some reports, he is of the opinion he would still be in the White House had it not been for Reagan's divisive 1976 convention challenge and subsequent lack of campaign support.

But then, we could also see that again.

my turn

by john dunnam

There are two basic types of fancy restaurants: Elegant and funky.

Restaurants subscribing to the school of elegance set great store by protocol and detail. The tablecloths are white and there are more forks on each table than some of us own. The waiters wear tuxedos and are the image of good breeding. But they can be thrown off balance when they have to serve a hayseed such as myself.

I do alright when it comes to sipping the glass of wine before permitting the waiter to leave the bottle, as tradition demands. And I know better than to ask for such bourgeois items as Thousand Island dressing or A-1 sauce. Where I foul up is reading the menu. Invariably, it is written in some foreign language.

Last time I really made a fool of myself. Custom calls for the man to order for the woman and she wanted trout meuniere. Everyone in the place could hear the waiter smirk when I pronounced it trout manure.

Like all fancy restaurants the place was so dim a fellow wouldn't have recognized what he was eating even if he knew what he ordered. I decided I wasn't fooling anybody about being a connoisseur of anything anyway and so I pulled off my tie and stuffed it in my pocket. Then to the waiter, who was glaring down his nose at me, I said, "I'll have a hamburger and a flash light."

To achieve funky, restaurants simply turn elegance inside out. They rent an abandoned warehouse, rail car, barn etc., strip the floor bare, forget the tablecloths and hang up a few house plants. Then, like their flip sides, these restaurants also charge an arm and a leg for a chunk of dead animal cooked as you please.

The food is only one ingredient of funky. The walls must be cluttered with the junk our grandparents thought, they threw away. The waiters deck out in everything from keats to baseball uniforms and the menus will be printed on anything from meat cleavers to pieces of towsack - anything but cardboard.

The salad bar is where the management really shows off its imagination. I've seen them in bathtubs, hollowed out tree trunks and even a coffin.

Once, I thought I found one suspended from the ceiling in an old planter. Then the waiter informed me I was eating their Boston Fern.

I had just commented to my date that the salad dressing tasted like fertilizer.

inflationary bills

NEW YORK (AP) - If you wonder where inflation comes from you might refer to a study of 1978 Congressional activity by authoritative panel of the National Association of Business Economists.

It focuses on one of the potential sources. After reviewing the 387 non-appropriations bills passed in the second session of that Congress, the 95th, the economists found 140 were moderately or significantly inflationary and only 28 deflationary.

The only bill seen as "significantly deflationary" was the Airline Deregulation Act, which began the phaseout of federal controls in that industry over a seven-year period.

Twenty three appropriations bills also were evaluated. Twenty-two were judged inflationary, the lone exception being the recession of $463 million appropriated in 1977 to build two B-1 bombers.

"Most of the bills were not by themselves very significant," said George McKinney, panel chairman. "But taken together, their impact will be felt in the pocketbook of every American consumer."

These are the eight bills considered significantly inflationary:

-The Emergency Farm Bill, PL95-279, which raised permissible target prices paid farmers for diverting land from production.

PL95-334, which expanded federal credit assistance to farmers and other rural residents.

-A $4 billion military construction bill, PL-95-356.

-PL95-483, which sharply limited competition from vessels owned or controlled by the Soviet government in shipping between the U.S. and other nations.

-The Humphre-Hawkins Full Employment Act, PL95-523, which set a national goal of 4 percent unemployment by 1983.

-PL95-588, bill that increased veterans' pensions.

-PL95-599, which authorized $54 billion in federal aid for highways and mass transit during the Reviewing the list, many Americans are likely to be torn between what they see as worthwhile goals and the high price of those goals. Some will find themselves at war with themselves. To spend? Or not to spend?

Encouraged by their survey of 1978 bills, McKinney and his panel decided to analyze Congress' activity in 1979. And, said McKinney yesterday, Congress may be changing.

Speaking for himself rather than the panel's other economists or for the association, McKinney, senior vice president of Irving-Trust Co., said he perceived a shift away from the inflationary attitudes of 1978.

"The guys were confused," he said of last year's Congress. "They were trying to back away from spending." Whether the other panel members arrive at the same conclusion will be known on March 25.

On that date the economists will release a full analysis of the inflationary or deflationary impact of Congress in 1979.

Martha Moore, president, discussed final plans for the Mesquite District Spring Convention of Texas Federated Women's Clubs in Snyder, March 14-15. Local federated club members will host the event.

Mrs. Moore, leader, opened the program with a salute to the Texas flag. Luella Stoker spoke on the broad range of areas for learning about Texas. She explained the term Texas Heritage as "the traditions or cultures that are passed from one generation to the next. Texas is unique in size, in diversity of cultures, climate, and terrain." It has plains, hills, mountains, desert, and semi-tropics in which agriculture, both farming and ranching are extensive, she said. Three of the 10 largest U.S. cities are in Texas. This dense population contrasts with the very sparse settlements in some western counties, she concluded.

Mrs. Stoker told of several developments in widely separated regions of the state. "Some places visitors can share in the observance of traditions that Texans hold dear are the Big Bend; the Davis Mountains; the 3,848 acres of sand dunes near Monohans where the state has leased 2,056 acres for a state park; the Hill Country with its guest ranches and camps; Galveston and Padre Island; Rusk, where the authentic early-train follows the Dogwood Trail; the Palo Duro Canyons, and many other," she said.

Recognizing Texas Heritage as a part of our national heritage, Elizabeth Beard reviewed the Home of Peter Rabbit. An animal sanctuary of 260 acres, called Laughing Brook has been established as a permanent home for Peter Rabbit and all the other fictional characters created by Thornton Burgess in his stories for children, she said. Just before his death in 1965, Burgess wrote of his dream that his home of 17 acres on the Connecticut River in Hampden, Mass., might always be kept as he pictured it in his stories, that the Green Forest, the Briar Patch, and Laughing Brook might always be the safe home of Peter Rabbit, Reddy Fox, Jimmy Skunk, Jerry Muskrat and Sammy Jay.

"Thornton Burgess, whose stories were simple, gentle, and accurate is said to be the writer who made children love bedtime," Mrs. Beard said. The international aspect of our Texas Heritage was brought to the club's attention by Margaret Miller's talk on Snyder's American Field Service accomplishments since its beginning in 1958. The community has been enriched by the presence of 23 young people from 19 countries. Fourteen Snyder students have spent summers abroad. The far-reaching effects of the AFS programs, said Mrs. Miller, is an invaluable investment in the future.

Coterie Plans Music Program

Musical Coterie will meet Thursday, March 13 at the Martha Ann Woman's Club. The program will be vocal selections to music. Vocalist will be Cheryl Burk and accompanist, Jane Womack. Some of the selections to be presented are a medley from "The Sound of Californians take their bridge and politics quite seriously. So, when South looked at dummy and the opening lead he remarked: "I bid this hand like a supporter of Jerry Brown, but I am going to play it like a supporter of Ronald Reagan." Siting his actions to his words, he played the deuce of hearts from dummy. East who had been ready to ruff the ace or king simply discarded. The jack of hearts was led at trick two and another low heart was played. Along came the 10 - one more duck. Now South ruffed and drew trumps. Later on he scored dummy's ace-king of hearts and the other two aces to make the game he would have lost if he had tried to win the first trick.

"Well," said North, "I guess your opening spade bid represented Jerry Brown's liberalism, but you can't blame your four-spade bid on him. Your hand was going to take us tricks at either spades or notrump. I am not going to insult any current political figures by blaming them for that bid. Perhaps William Jennings Bryan might have approved it. All you did was to risk game and rubber in an effort of score 150 honors." (NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSN.)

Schoolmates Chip In For Wheelchair

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. (AP)—Fellow students of Mark Rogers and teachers at Kenowa Hills High School felt he would enjoy the freedom to go where he wanted when he wanted, so they pitched in to buy him an electric wheelchair.

Rogers, 17, has spinal muscular atrophy, a form of muscular dystrophy. For almost a year, he was unable to maneuver a manually operated wheelchair by himself. The student council, teachers and others raised $1,900 in less than 10 days. The remainder of the $2,400 for the chair was made up with tax money the state makes available.

GIRL SCOUT SUNDAY-Reverend David Robertson greets Girl Scouts attending church services Sunday, March 9 at First United Methodist Church. Representing their troops are Terri Stout, Troop 203; Leslie Flennigan, Troop 223; Laurie and Julie Gamblin, Shelley LaRoux, Holly Barkowsky, and Theresa Martin, Troop 84. Also present but not pictured were Scouts from Troops 62 and 205. The West Texas Girl Scout Council is a member agency of the United Way.

Needlepoint Classes Set

A Community Services course in Beginning Needlepoint is scheduled at Western Texas College from March 26-April 23. Classes will meet from 7-9 p.m. at The Needle Point Shop in Cogdell Center with Nancy Dennis of Odessa as instructor. Fees will be $20 for the five sessions, and students will need to purchase supplies costing approximately $10. The class will be limited to eight students. Persons wishing to reserve space in the class are to call 572-8511, extension 240.

And At Last Year's Prices... Clean Fun For Entire Family Found At Westerner Golfland

We all know how few places there are close by where we can take the family for some good, clean fun. But some may not be aware that Westerner Golfland has re-opened for the season and family fun is just the thing that they specialize in. Owners Bob O'Day and Eddie Williams have this to say, "We believe that people should have a place to go with their family and enjoy themselves without spending a great deal of money. Prices are the same as last year to allow more people to spend more time playing golf or improving their swing on the baseball range. We welcome large groups or parties of any age." In addition to the 18-hole golf course, Westerner Golfland also offers a baseball batting range and pinball machines. The baseball range includes 2 regulation distance machines and two little league distance machines. Special hourly rates are available to teams. The golf course offers completely repainted fixtures, and all greens are in perfect condition. In fact,

Dollar TV & Rental Offers You Tops In Home Entertainment

When you pay hundreds of dollars for a home entertainment product you should get more than good performance, a beautiful cabinet, lots of features. When you buy a Curtis Mathes set from Dollar TV & Rentals in Varsity Square you get all these plus something even more important — long-term dependability. Kenny Dollar, owner and manager of the store, handles only Curtis Mathes products for several reasons. Curtis Mathes sets offer many features which make them one of America's most popular television sets. They are built with 100 percent modular chassis construction, which means that in almost every case there will be no expensive shop bills. Curtis Mathes also has the only 100 percent electronic tuner in the major television industry. Electronic tuning features selector-sensor or sequential tuning, which means trouble-free tuning. Dollar TV & Rental's Curtis Mathes sets offer all this and more, and are in a beautiful cabinet in Mediterranean, Spanish, Early American or Contemporary Style to compliment your home. The Curtis Mathes company has been building furniture products since 1899 and knows how to let your set add beauty, strength and elegance to your decor. One of the nicest things about Dollar TV & Rental is that Kenny has over 60 Curtis Mathes models to choose from including portables, consoles and home entertainment centers. He also has video cassette recorders. To top off all this and make Curtis Mathes TV's America's favorite sets, Curtis Mathes and Kenny Dollar are the only people who will offer you a four-year limited warranty. Kenny, who has worked for Curtis Mathes for four years, makes his limited warranty good to the original or successive owner. This four-year limited warranty covers all electrical parts, the electronic circuit assembly, the electro-mechanical assemblies and the picture tube. With a warranty this inclusive, you'll never have to worry about your set's dependability. Another special service of Dollar TV & Rental is that they don't fix your TV's parts should something tear up — they simply replace the part, which takes a few minutes. No long waiting periods without a TV. Dollar TV is servicing Snyder in many ways. Kenny initiated the rent-to-own program in Snyder. He rents brand new console Curtis Mathes consoles with the option to buy. Credit terms are available and there is no credit check on rentals. Let Kenny introduce you to the quality of Curtis Mathes TV's at Dollar TV & Rental, Varsity Square, 573-4712.

Firemen Called Three Times
Three fires were doused Saturday by city firefighters. The first, reported at 3:30 p.m., was a grass and trash fire at Hermleigh. The second, which occurred about five miles northeast of Hermleigh, was a storage shed fire. The structure was owned by Bobo Pavias, firefighters said. It was reported at 4:05 p.m. The final fire Friday was at 5:50 p.m., approximately five miles south-east of town. Firefighters said the blaze was confined to the hot water heater closet in the home of Melvin Davenport.

Man Injured In Mishap

Palmer EMS picked up a 31-year-old Snyder man injured this morning in an industrial accident at Ezell-Key Grain Co. on the Sweetwater Highway. The man, Jerry Freeman, was reportedly injured in an accident involving a forklift. He was admitted to Cogdell Memorial Hospital with a leg laceration and fractured foot. The call of the accident was received about 9:15 a.m.

Miss Tubb Wins Breakaway Roping

Mandy Tubb, Western Texas College, freshman from Snyder, won the breakaway roping championship at the NIRA rodeo sponsored by Sul Ross State University in Fort Stockton last weekend. Miss Tubb won second in the long go-round with a time of 4:10 and second in the finals with a 5:2, giving her the championship with 9.3 on two head. James Zant, WTC freshman from Odessa, tied his first calf in 9.57 seconds to win the long go, besting 83 other ropers. He was 13.58 on his last calf and finished fifth overall. Others from WTC making the finals were Jan Holley in the barrel race and Scott Davis in bareback riding. WTC's rodeo team will be competing this weekend in the New Mexico State University NIRA rodeo in Las Cruces. Rodeo fans are reminded of the upcoming WTC rodeo to be held April 24-26 in the Scurry County Rodeo Association arena on West 30th Street. Information about the rodeo may be obtained by contacting Bob Doty at WTC.

Probation Revoked

Thomas Edwin SoRelle was sentenced to serve 30 days in the county jail yesterday in county court on a probation revocation. SoRelle, a Trent resident, had been granted probation following a drunken driving arrest last month. That probation was revoked because of a subsequent arrest for driving while intoxicated. In addition to the 30-day jail sentence, SoRelle was fined $200. A mercury thermometer should be left under the tongue for at least three minutes to get a reliable reading.

Allen Open House Slated For Sunday

The new home being self-built by Robert Allen will be open for public inspection on Sunday, March 16. The home is located at 504 Circle Dr., Big Spring. Hours will be from 1 to 5 p.m. The home is a two-story style, one of many designs available through Miles Homes, one of the nation's pioneer pre-cut, do-it-yourself home-marketers. Michael Lewaren, Miles Homes representative in this area, said that the home is being shown before actual completion so that visitors may examine the quality of materials which go into the home. In addition to inspecting the home, visitors will be able to gain first hand information from the owner-builder, Robert Allen, who will be present to answer questions. In order to reach the site of the open house, visitors should take Highway 87 South for approximately 8 miles to Jeffrey Rd. Turn left and proceed 1 1/2 miles. Follow Open House signs.

Texas, Ohio In Race For First Test Track

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—An insular track on gaining federal funding is at stake in the race between Ohio and Texas to become the first state to have a high-speed rail test track. Sen. Harry Meshel, D-Youngstown, mentioned the rivalry Monday night at a hearing on his bill to locate a 20-mile test track between Warren and Ashtabula. He said Rep. Arthur Wilkowski, D-Toledo, has been advised by officials in Texas that "they intend to be first." But Meshel thinks Ohio can and should win the race. He predicted that the first state to build a test track eventually will see it become a national facility. Wilkowski has been in the vanguard of lawmakers seeking development of a rail network linking major cities in Ohio and connecting with urban centers in neighboring states. Meshel said the increased interest by Texas, which has hired expert Japanese consultants, should serve as proof to skeptics in the Legislature that a network of high-speed passenger trains serving Ohio and the Midwest "is not a pipe dream." The House is considering an identical companion to Meshel's bill as a way of speeding the hearing process, the Mahoning County lawmaker told the Senate Highways and Transportation Committee. Under his proposal, the Legislature would be empowered to move forward with acquisition of the land for the test track and of a similar area near Marion for use as "a land bank," Meshel said. The legislation also authorizes acquisition of a high-speed passenger rail research facility for studying methods of moving trains at speeds of 130 miles per hour and faster. Research also would be conducted by the facility into methods of using Ohio coal as railroad fuel, the senator said. "Jobs would be created immediately in the Trumbull County area," he added.

Rules Offered For Safe Kite Flying

Kite flying season is here again, and Texas Electric Service Co. (TESCO) urges young kite flyers to follow a few simple rules for their own safety. H.F. Clark, TESCO manager, warns them of the danger of flying kites in the vicinity of electric power lines. "If your kite should get caught in electric wires, call Texas Electric Service Co.," Clark says, "and someone will be sent to get it down for you." Clark also recommends the following safety rules for kite flying: "Always use dry string, not wire, anything metallic or any string with metallic threads. "Always use kites made of wood and paper, not wire or metal. "Don't fly your kite on rainy days. "Always avoid busy streets and highways while flying your kite. "Don't pull on the string or climb a power pole to loosen a kite snagged in electric wires. "Always fly your kite far from electric or power lines. "Always fly your kite away from TV and radio antennas. "Posters containing these safety rules have been distributed by the company to all schools," Clark said. "Young people following these rules will get more fun out of flying kites and at the same time will keep from getting hurt or losing their kites."

Fonda: Changeable As West Texas Weather

By LAURINDA KEYS Associated Press Writer HOLLYWOOD (AP)— Friends called the rich society girl Lady Jane. Then she became a swinger in New York, Paris and Hollywood—giving gossip columnists fodder by dating homosexuals and making pronouncements against marriage and her father.

JANE FONDA perpetual crusader

Next, Jane Fonda became a "sex kitten" in her husband Roger Vadim's "Barbarella" and other movies.

The scantily clad, blonde-haired star of the space fantasy film was a far cry from the wife and mother who came back to Hollywood in 1969 to appear in "They Shoot Horses, Don't They?"

And she was further still from the blue-jeaned, clenched-fisted activists who threw Black Panther fund-raisers, got thrown off Army bases and was called a traitor in the House of Representatives for the trip to Hanoi in the midst of the Vietnam War.

The word "traitor" came up again last year when the Academy Award winning actress was nominated by Gov. Edmund Brown Jr. to the California Arts Council. There were men in the state Senate who had not forgotten her broadcast to U.S. servicemen over Hanoi radio: "How does it feel to be used as pawns?"

The woman who once said, "Property is theft," now owns a $500,000 ranch in Santa Barbara. She runs a Beverly Hills exercise studio, is president and sole shareholder of two production companies and owns 500 shares of stock in Columbia Pictures.

Miss Fonda, who refused repeated interview requests, lives in a modest Santa Monica house with her husband, Tom Hayden, 40, their son Troy, 6, and her daughter Vanessa Vadim, 11.

The ranch has been turned into an ecology camp for poor children and offspring of those who support the Haydens' Campaign for Economic Democracy. The CED was established to elect anti-big business activists to political office and to corporate boards of directors.

Miss Fonda, 42, tries to make each aspect of her life support her cause: "I'm fighting to make the world human again." She will no longer appear in a movie that doesn't "say something." She teaches exercise classes and donates the money to her husband's cause.

"I don't apologize about putting my tremendous salary at the service of candidates who are poor, and he's one of them," Miss Fonda said. "They never bank on people like Tom Hayden marrying someone like me, thus being able to get at least a foot in the door of a campaign."

Her other interests include Indian rights, anti-nuclear activism, solar energy, farm workers' pay and women's rights. "I'm not particularly good or generous," she once said. "The only real qualities I have are energy and patience."

Miss Fonda has received accolades for her acting skill—she was nominated for best actress in this year's Academy Award race for her role in the anti-nuclear "China Syndrome." Her off-screen life has produced death threats.

Frances Seymour Brokaw, the second of Henry Fonda's five wives, slashed her throat when her children, Jane and Peter, were 12 and 10, Jane thought her mother had died of a heart attack. She was enlightened by a schoolmate who got the facts from a fan magazine.

She attended Vassar for two years where, "I went wild and got into lots of trouble." She went to Paris to study art. But when Fonda found she was spending most of her time in Left Bank dives, he took her to New York, where she spent time in Greenwich Village dives.

She worked as a photographers' model, appeared with her father in two plays and eventually, tried the movies.

For a long time, she resisted the beckon of Roger Vadim, who had a reputation for collecting beautiful actresses. She said she detested him, but appeared in "La Ronde" in 1964. The romance and her sex star movies began.

Her consciousness-raising began when her daughter was born and friends in France began asking her to justify the Vietnam War. Vadim said, "When she talks about politics all the time, there is not time to establish feelings."

"I have more important things on my mind besides marriage and family," she said.

She was defensive about her movie roles when she began her political tours, trying to distribute anti-war literature on Army bases, putting on anti-administration plays in GI coffeehouses. "I'm up to my eyeballs in guilt that I made 'Barbarella,'" she said.

She divorced Vadim in 1973 and married Hayden later that year.

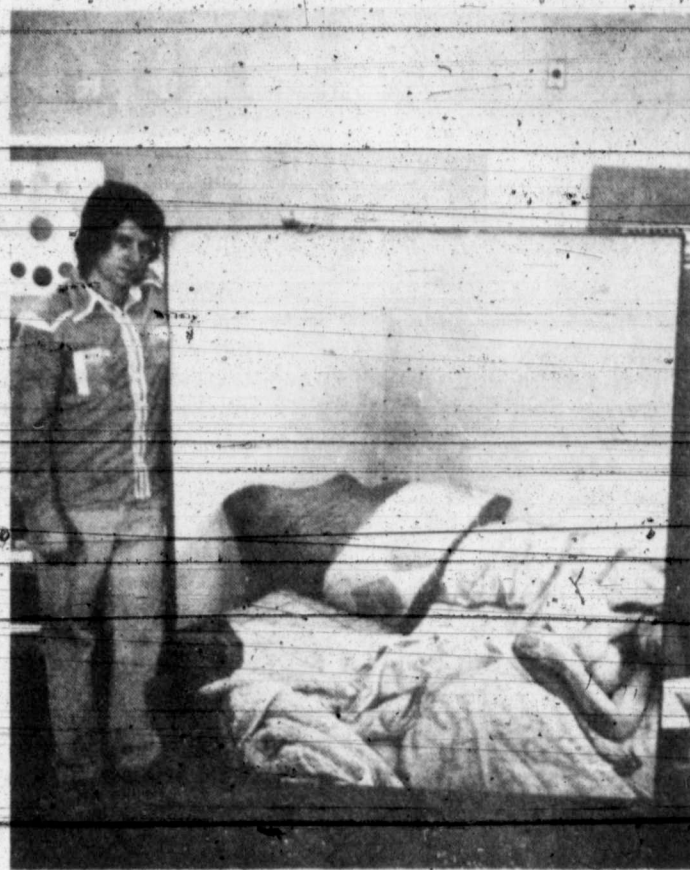

When the war ended, her husband ran a losing campaign for the Democratic nomination as U.S. Senator from California. But he was appointed by Brown to three state panels. The couple influenced Brown to appoint a censured former POW to the Board of Supervisors of conservative Orange County.

When the "boat people" were forced by the Vietnamese government into leaky ships without enough food or water, Miss Fonda once again took her "unique line."

"I don't know if we can expect the Vietnamese people to turn free those millions of people overnight," she said, "people who were involved in a war much more hideous than any repression only five years ago." Yet, she donated money to friends who flew medical supplies to refugees.

"New facts keep coming into one's life, new feelings," she has said. "As long as I'm changing, there's hope for me."

IN SHOW—John Gibson, WTC art instructor, is shown with a painting he is preparing to ship to Marietta College in Marietta, Ohio, for display in the annual college paintings and sculpture exhibit. This painting was among those Gibson exhibited in the faculty art display at WTC earlier.

Although a husband and wife formed both the Boy Scouts and the Girl Scouts, there is no connection between the two national organizations.

Lord Baden Powell founded the Boy Scouts, and his wife later formed the Girl Guides, known as Girl Scouts in the United States.

WTC Instructor Has Work In Ohio Exhibit

An oil painting by John R. Gibson, art instructor at Western Texas College, has been accepted in the Marietta National, the annual Marietta College painting and sculpture exhibit.

Marietta College is in Marietta, Ohio, and is an independent liberal arts college chartered in 1835.

"This year's show will be new and fresh," Arthur Winer, director of the juried competition, said. Ninety-three works by 81 artists have been selected for the show, which opens April 5 and runs through May 11.

The show will be particularly strong in painting, Winer added, with 75 out of 1,608 entries selected for the show. Eighteen sculptures have been chosen out of 476 entries. The number of entries submitted for the 1980 exhibit is comparable with those of the 1979 show. Only four artists from previous Marietta Nationals have been chosen to exhibit this year. Entries came from 49 states, including the District of Columbia.

The 93 selections were juried by Rob Erdie, a watercolorist and associate professor at North Texas State University; Renee Steidle, owner of Gallery 200 in Columbus; and Barbara Manning, a ceramist and director of Sculpture Spaces, an open studio in Utica, New York.

"People should be excited by the show's diversity," Winer said. "It will range from the loose abstract to the tight realistic, from non-objective art to photorealism. The sculpture ranges from the technical to the conceptual."

Awards in the show will be made on April 12 to coincide with Marietta College Family Day.

Although Isaac Pitman's shorthand method, based on the sound of words, was not developed until 1837, a system of "notetaking" was invented as early as 63 B.C. to record the speeches of the Roman senate.

Charges Refiled Against 2 Killers

SALT LAKE CITY (AP)—Thirteen years after the sadistic stabbing death of a gas station attendant, first-degree murder charges have been refiled against two convicted killers by a prosecutor determined to see that they die for their crime.

Myron Lance, 38, and Walter Kelbach, 41, who soon will be eligible for parole, were spared from a firing squad in 1972 when the U.S. Supreme Court overturned the death penalty.

On Monday, the Utah Attorney General's Office refiled first-degree murder charges against them in the December 1966 slaying of Michael Holtz, 18.

A county prosecutor last year declined to file the charges, saying conviction was unlikely, but another agreed to proceed after the state said it would pay for prosecution.

The Salt Lake station attendant' nude body, stabbed five times, was found in Summit County just east of the city. Police described the killing as the work of sadists.

Lance and Kelbach were tried and convicted in two of six deaths that occurred shortly after they had been paroled from prison on burglary and bad check charges. After the two murder convictions, charges in the other killings were dropped.

They were sentenced to die, and later during a television interview admitted responsibility for all six slayings.

However, their sentences were changed to life imprisonment after the Supreme Court held that the death penalty, as applied at that time, was unconstitutional.

Utah Attorney General Robert Hansen, who thwarted efforts to save convicted killer Gary Gilmore from a firing squad in 1977, and is a strong advocate of capital punishment, has tried for years to have Lance and Kelbach tried under a 1973 death penalty statute.

Michael Damer, chief deputy attorney general, said the charges were filed in an effort to impose the death penalty.

"We're prohibited by bar ethics from explaining the reasoning, but Bob Hansen felt it was his duty under the constitution," he said.

Prostate cancer myth

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB: My husband says he read in your column some years ago that the prostate gland should never be cut into because if it is cancerous cutting will spread the cancer. He quotes you as saying, "It gets the mother but spreads the kids." He's having a prostate operation soon and is very fearful. I am an LPN and have helped take care of quite a few postoperative prostatectomies and have read some about cancer but when I try to tell him anything about it, he gets mad. I think he must have misunderstood something that he read. Would you please send us something on the subject?

DEAR READER: Your husband certainly never read that in my column. There are a number of people who seem to have the misconception that if you operate on cancer it will cause it to spread. That's not necessarily true.

The proper treatment for many cancers is surgical removal and the proper way of diagnosing the presence of cancer involves a biopsy, which means cutting into the suspicious area to remove a piece of tissue. If cancer of the prostate is found early enough, complete surgical removal of the cancerous area is one of the most effective forms of treatment.

To help you I'm sending you The Health Letter number 1-6, Prostate Gland. Also to give you more information about cancer and how it spreads, I am sending you The Health Letter number 14-8, Cancer: A Fact Of Life. Other readers who want either one of these issues can send 75 cents for EACH issue with a long stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Send your request to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

One of the major ways that cancer is spread is by little cells from the original cancer getting into the bloodstream and being carried to new locations in the body. It can also be carried by the lymphatic circulation and lodge in the lymph nodes.

DEAR DR. LAMB: Recently I had a severe nosebleed, and was advised (not by a physician) to take four tablets daily of vitamin C. Each tablet contains 500 milligrams of vitamin C with 100 milligrams of citrus bioflavonoids and 50 milligrams of rutin. Will this help stop the nosebleed or is that too much vitamin C? I'm 62 years old.

DEAR READER: Go see your doctor. No, that amount of vitamin C is not likely to hurt you but I'm not convinced that it will solve the problem of your nosebleed. Many nosebleeds are associated with high blood pressure. Others are associated with local irritations inside the nose and, occasionally, there's a small artery that may have developed a crack because the artery has undergone fatty cholesterol changes in the course of time.

Unexplained nosebleeds are not something to just be ignored, particularly in people of your age group. A severe one is sometimes very hard to control. It would be a good idea to have an examination now and find out from a qualified person if you have any anatomical problem that might need correction. If you just happen to have a local irritation that's caused by dryness, a satisfactory lubricant may help solve the problem.

Profits Tax Protester Says Senate Best Bet

WASHINGTON (AP) — An organizer of a last minute lobbying campaign by independent oil producers against the proposed "windfall" profits tax says he is looking to the Senate as his best bet for success.

"We feel that we have 53 friends in the Senate who, if given the opportunity, will work the same way," Bud Stewart of Muskogee, Okla., said Monday. He referred to the 53 senators who voted to exempt from the tax the first 1,000 barrels a day produced by an independent operator.

The exemption introduced by Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, D-Texas, was changed when a conference committee compromised between House and Senate proposals.

Stewart said 400-500 independents from seven states traveled to Washington, despite the reluctance of their major trade association, to persuade congressmen to send the bill back to the conference committee for another try.

"I kind of look at it as though fresh troops came into the battle," he said at a news conference. The group hoisted an oil rig on the Capitol Mall as a symbol for their protest.

Stewart said he did not think there would be enough support to recommit the bill when it comes up, probably Thursday, for consideration in the House.

The Senate is scheduled to take up the conference committee report next week.

The bill, bringing in $227.3 billion over 10 years, would tax the revenue flowing to oil companies as a result of President Carter's decision to lift price controls from domestic oil production.

Independents, who say they find the majority of the new wells to reduce dependence on imported oil, claim they will be hurt more than the major oil companies which have other sources of revenue.

"We have no other place to get it (revenue) than the wellhead," Art Machin of Longview, Texas, said.

"It's strictly a matter of economics. If that seven or eight dollars (per barrel) is taken away, that will be just that much less that will be reinvested," Davis-Payne of Midland said.

Considerable success could come your way through new projects or enterprises this coming year. Put your splendid imagination to work in areas that hold profitable promise.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) You have the ability to make wise decisions today, yet you may not trust your own judgment. This could cause you to discard worthy plans. Find out more of what lies ahead for you in the year following your birthday by sending for your copy of Astro-Graph Letter. Mail $1 for each to Astro-Graph, Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify birth date.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Go after what you want today, but do it in a manner that will not cause you remorse later. Use only methods that meet your high standards.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) You're rather strong getting out of the starting gate today, but you could begin to drag your feet as time wears on. Be as tenacious at the end as you were in the beginning.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) This should be a rewarding day, provided you don't expect more than you're entitled to. Don't ask for something you haven't earned.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) When making agreements today, negotiate wisely. Once you've consented to something, however, don't go back on your word, even if you feel it's a bum deal.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Unfortunately, in a business situation a person you might have to deal with will not be as ethical as you are. Have all the terms clearly defined.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Rely on yourself and not upon others. Associates who are usually prepared to assist you will have their own problems.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) If you're performing a do-it-yourself task that calls for an artistic touch, know when to stop. Overdoing it could make it gaudy.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Be very careful that you don't unwittingly lead pals to believe you're only being nice because you want something in return. Avoid misunderstandings.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Manage your resources with equal prudence across the board today. Don't be cautious in one area, extravagant in another.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) A friend may be in a tight spot and need your aid today. You can best help by showing this person how he can help himself.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Normally you're self-sufficient, but today you may wrongly believe that gains can only come through others.

Survey Says GOP In No Rush To Back Ford

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gerald R. Ford will have to look beyond the ranks of state Republican Party leaders for the groundswell of support he says would lure him into another run for the White House a survey shows.

An Associated Press check of state GOP chairmen found the vast majority declaring themselves neutral in the party's presidential sweepstakes.

The survey showed that some 40 party heads are determined to remain officially uncommitted, even if Ford enters the fray. And many said they felt Ford probably should stay out of the race.

So miffed are New Hampshire Republicans over his hints of making another run, that they're threatening to withdraw Ford's invitation to address their May 29 fundraising dinner.

"He has been saying there is no Republican as good as he is, that he is the only Republican worth electing," New Hampshire GOP Chairman Nancy Sununu complained. "That is an attack on the Republican Party."

Mrs. Sununu said she's sticking with Ronald Reagan, the runaway winner of the New Hampshire primary.

"It's too late for Ford and he shouldn't get into the race," said another state chairman who refused to be quoted by name. "I believe this is merely a 'Stop Reagan' move on Ford's part."

Four state chairmen said they were for Reagan, who Ford has said is too conservative to be elected, even if nominated.

From three other states and the District of Columbia came indications of possible Ford support, as the former president grapples with the question of whether to become a candidate.

District of Columbia GOP Chairman Paul Hays said a Ford candidacy "probably would throw the nomination to Reagan." But Hays also said he might back Ford.

Richard Adams, executive director of the Michigan GOP, said Ford might find support from leaders in that state because "he's a hometown boy and hometown boys are always wished well."

But the reservations expressed by Ed Wittenburger of Wyoming seemed to typify those of most state GOP leaders.

"Four years ago in Wyoming, we had a tough fight, a real split, because of the Ford-Reagan ticket," he said. "It's just now beginning to get healed. I feel Ford's entry into the race would displease an awful lot of Republicans and Wyoming."

Yvonne Alford, head of the Alaska GOP, said, "I think he would only lessen the Republican Party's chances in November by getting in."

Tom Pappas, Arizona party chairman, said that "Ford, like Edward M. Kennedy, will find there's a big difference between being a possible candidate and actually being one."

Florida GOP Chairman Bill Taylor said a Ford presidential candidacy would be "very divisive" in his state.

Some state GOP officials who would not go so far as to endorse a Ford candidacy expressed positive feelings about him.

"If he enters, he will be a strong contender," said Alabama's Bill Harris.

Last Will An ILL Testament

By Abigail Van Buren

1980 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: You rattled my cage with your advice to HURT IN ORLANDO, telling her to keep quiet after helping a well-to-do aunt in so many ways, then learning that this aunt was leaving her nothing in her will.

You should have told her to speak up. Sometimes elderly people need to be reminded of the favors people do for them. It could be nicely put, such as: "I have enjoyed shopping for you, paying your bills, doing your paper work, taking you to dinner, cashing your checks and looking after your home. Why have you never considered remembering me in your will?"

She surely couldn't take offense at that. I never could bring myself to tell my father of the many injustices I suffered from his thoughtlessness. Now that he is gone, I regret deeply that I never spoke up. It may not have changed the way he left things, but I would have felt better if I had spoken my mind.

MRS. A. IN PALM SPRINGS

DEAR MRS. A.: A reader in Rockville, Md., feels that my advice was on target as far as it went, but that it didn't go far enough. Read on:

DEAR ABBY: Hold the phone! You told HURT IN ORLANDO after she'd written that she took her aunt out to dinner, did her shopping, handled her paper work, paid her bills, cashed her checks, looked after her home, etc. — and got left out of her will. "Keep quiet. Your disappointment is understandable, but it's her money and she has the right to do whatever she wishes with it."

Shades of opportunism! Echoes of greed! Don't you think your advice should have included something like the following: "Congratulations, dear. Not all of us get the opportunity to help someone else in such a clearcut way. Your good feelings as a result should far outweigh the loss you now feel. Surely when you did these things for your aunt, you had no motive in mind such as ultimate payment."

Abby, whatever happened to Judeo-Christian ethics? Whatever happened to the lessons taught by the Good Samaritan, by Jesus, by Moses through the Ten Commandments? Whatever happened to plain common decency without money as a goal?

Good God! And I'm not even a church-goer. What must the religious fraternity think?

GEORGE H. LEONARD

DEAR GEORGE: If the "religious fraternity" had any thoughts on the subject, they didn't share them with me. But read on for a worthy suggestion from a reader in Denver.

DEAR ABBY: In your reply to the person who had done many favors for an aunt but was left out of her will, I suspect many of your readers were disappointed that you didn't suggest to those with estates that they should ask their intended heirs to do their errands, take them to doctors, write their letters, care for their pets, water their plants, and rush them to hospitals rather than impose on friends simply because they are available, retired, or, most often, because they are more sympathetic or good-natured than the chosen heirs. Fuel Truck Wreck Fatal To Driver PUTNAM, Texas (AP)—A truck carrying jet fuel plunged off an overpass on Interstate 20 just east of this West Central Texas town today and exploded, killing the driver.

Police were not able immediately to identify the victim, whose body was badly burned in the flaming wreckage.

An engineer from the State Highway Department was summoned to inspect the bridge to make sure the accident did not weaken the structure. It remained open to traffic.

Department of Public Safety officers said the truck was owned by Petro Chemical Transport, Inc., of Victoria.

The DPS said the accident happened about 5:30 a.m., about 45 miles east of Abilene.

Inflation hits your electric bill just as hard as it does your grocery bill.

Every time you go to the grocery store you can see what inflation's doing to your food bill. But because you don't buy electricity by the can, you probably don't realize how inflation affects the cost of electricity.

Fuel costs are going up, particularly natural gas. Equipment costs are up. Power lines, transformers and poles cost us more every day. Just like milk costs you more every day.

The millions of dollars we must borrow to build plants to ensure your electricity needs in the future are costing us more.

The cost of building these plants is higher, too, because of inflation. And because of the time and money it takes to comply with an ever-increasing number of government regulations. The longer it takes to build, the more inflation takes its toll.

Inflation, overregulation and rising fuel costs are all making your electricity cost you more. But by using electricity wisely you can do your part in keeping that cost down in your home.

At Texas Electric, we want you to know what you're paying for.

Tulsa Hires Richardson

Nolan Richardson, Jr., who led Western Texas College to three straight Region V championships, has been named head basketball coach at Tulsa University.

Richardson, who will continue to coach the No. 1 ranked Westerners in the NJCAA National Tournament next week, accepted the position yesterday afternoon after a third meeting with Tulsa officials.

He replaces Jim King, a former Tulsa graduate and NBA player with the Los Angeles Lakers. King resigned under pressure nine games before the completion of Tulsa's 8-19 season. Though well-respected as an individual and former player, King was never able to put together a winning season during his five-year stay at Tulsa.

Richardson, 38, has asked to keep interim coach Bill Franey as an assistant. Franey came to Tulsa University last year after a stint as head coach of Belleville Area College of Illinois, which, like Western Texas, is not stranger to the Juco National Tournament. Richardson has also requested Andy Stoglin be his other assistant coach. Stoglin, who resigned as an assistant at San Diego State two weeks ago and is a former Harlem Globe Trotter, helped recruit several top athletes for Richardson at WTC.

A 1965 graduate of Texas Western, now the University of Texas at El Paso, Richardson is a native of the far West Texas city. He attended and later coached at Bowie High School in El Paso for 10 years. At one time Richardson had played with the San Diego Chargers, and later a year with the now defunct Dallas Chaparrals.

Richardson, with the NJCAA Tournament still looming a week away, has taken the Westerners to a 33-0 season. His career record at Western Texas is 93-13.

Exact details of Richardson's contract were not disclosed, however, the pact is reportedly a multi-year one with a salary of over $35 thousand and the possibility of a television show.

Richardson plans to keep ties with Snyder as a recruiting ground, and will take several unnamed sophomores with him to Tulsa.

"I lived in El Paso all my life," said the coach, "and the three years I've spent in Snyder, just doesn't compare. I grew to love, respect and understand the people here. It's hard on myself as well as my family, who share the same feelings as I do."

"But I'm ambitious person, and it has been my dream to coach major college ball. I've been blessed with this opportunity now, and I think I've got to go to it," he added.

"I will miss Snyder more than Snyder will miss me. I may leave Snyder, but Snyder will never leave me."

Raiders May Stay At Home

RANCHO MIRAGE, Calif. (AP)—Managing general partner Al Davis of the Raiders finds himself in an almost untenable position today because he wants to move to Los Angeles and the National Football League demands he stay in Oakland.

NFL Commissioner Pete

Rozelle said 22 of the league members voted against permitting Davis to move his team into the vacant Los Angeles Coliseum with five abstentions, and Oakland not voting.

Rozelle said the "morality of hop-scotching franchises" was one of the main factors in Monday's vote.

Davis said he still plans to play in Los Angeles but Rozelle retorted. "The Oakland Raiders will play their games in the Oakland Coliseum in 1980."

"The Commissioner said, 'We will schedule them in Oakland,' but he admitted that the issue still must be settled in the courts. No fewer than six court actions currently are pending on the matter."

Midland Slaps Cats; Cooper Here Today

MIDLAND -- Midland slapped in four runs in the fourth and three in the fifth to snap a tie and eventually defeat Snyder's Tigers in baseball action here yesterday afternoon, 10-5.

The loss gives Snyder a 1-5 record on the young season, heading into play today. The Tigers were to host Abilene Cooper at 4 p.m. in Moffett Field.

Cooper defeated Snyder earlier this season, 9-8.

Snyder utilized four pitchers in the losing cause. Steve Tate picked up the loss, despite hurling only two-thirds of an inning.

Other pitchers were Mike Roemisch, Tommy Gressett and Brent Roemisch.

Midland opened the scoring with two runs in the top of the first inning. Snyder however, countered with two of its own as Bryan Vincent got on via an error, Mike Roemisch slapped a single and Toby Neves added a triple, Sam Willis later sacrificed.

Snyder made it 3-2 in the second inning as Paul Gafford knocked a single to get on base and later came home.

But Midland came back to collect eight hits in the next three innings, and go in front 10-3. Snyder garnered two more runs in the sixth and one in the seventh with help from hits by Shawn Bagland, Bobby Degrate (double), Neves and Degrate again.

Cox was the winning pitcher for Midland, which used a pair of hurlers in the game. Both schools came up with eight hits.

Yanks Defeat Texas Rangers

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP)—Eric Soderholm, acquired from Texas last November, slammed a tie-breaking three-run homer in the seventh inning Monday night, giving the New York Yankees an 8-5 victory over the Rangers in the exhibition baseball opener for both teams.

WTC Pair Named To All-Region Club

Paul Pressey and Greg Stewart have been named to the All-Region V Team, announced recently.

It was the second honor in a week for the Western Texas College duo who were selected to the Region V All-Tournament team, along with Phil Spradling, on Thursday.

Also named All-Region were Mike Wallace of Howard County College, Victor Mitchell of Amarillo, Tony Massey of Hill County and Robert Tate of Midland College.

All but Massey are from the Western Junior College Athletic Conference.

NOLAN RICHARDSON...takes Tulsa position

Fisher Among 10 Picked All-Meet

BIG SPRING—Katie Fisher, Western Texas College sophomore, was named to the women's Region V All-Tournament team here.

The four-day tourney was won by Odessa in a 67-64 championship victory over host Howard County College. Odessa's Lady Wranglers will advance to bi-regional play this week, taking on Henderson County at 8 p.m. Thursday in Weatherford.

Fisher was joined by nine other players, including three each from Odessa and Howard.

Odessa's Laura Smith was named the tournament's Most Valuable Player. Lady Wranglers Carolyn Burnam and Gloria Simmons also made the team.

The trio from Howard were Joanne Lefridge, Kelly Lyons and Shawn Smith.

Also included were Valencia Douglass of Cisco, Lynette Johnston of Weatherford, Jessica Wiley of Amarillo and Lynette Joiner of South Plains.

Fisher had been named to the WJCAC All-Conference team earlier last week.

Texas Takes Exit As... USL Bites Longhorns

AUSTIN (AP)—The last shot, Southwestern Louisiana took was just the one Texas Coach Abe Lemons wanted them to take - but the shot fell true and gave USL a 77-76 win over Texas in the second round of the National Invitation Tournament.

"We knew we had it when the buzzer went off," Southwestern Coach Bobby Paschal quipped Monday night.

Texas was leading by 12 (71-59) with 9:43 left, when USL started its comeback on a goal by Craig Monroe, a steal and a goal by Carl Jordan and four field goals by Dion Rainey, who was scoreless at halftime.

Jordan's turn-around jumper under tight defensive pressure from just outside the free throw line, with six seconds remaining, won it.

"That little kid of theirs who hit a shot at the end...that was a hell of a shot," said Lemons. "He hadn't done much all night. It was the kind of shot you'd want them to take...but he made it."

However, missed shots

by two Texas freshmen - stars in the Longhorns' opening round NIT win over St. Joseph's - proved crucial.

In just over a minute near the end of the game, Texas freshman Fred Carson missed three free throws. Andrew Toney then put USL ahead, 76-74, with a shot from the right corner.

LaSalle Thompson, the other freshman who was a key in the win over St. Joseph's, gave Texas a 1-point lead, 76-75, when he pitched in two free throws with 26 seconds left.

When Jordan recaptured the lead for USL, Texas called time out with four seconds left.

Carson got the ball to the 6-foot-10 Thompson, but his 6-foot shot hit the rim as the buzzer sounded.

Toney, the nation's No. 9 scorer with a 26.8-point average, tossed in 27 points and moved ahead of former Princeton star Bill Bradley as the NCAA's 13th all-time leading scorer.

Wayne Julien tallied 18 for Southwestern, Rainey 12 and Jordan 10.

Sid's Rabbit Doing Fine

By BILL McCLELLAN

LUCK HAS stayed with Sid Simpson, former Duster coach and athletic director at Western Texas College. He took time out to give us a call the other day and brag a little. Why Not? He deserves it.

Dr. Simpson, who helped get athletics off the ground at WTC, left here a couple of years ago to become commissioner of the Arkansas Intercollegiate Conference.

JUST RECENTLY however, he took a position as athletic director of his alma mater, the University of Central Arkansas.

impressed with him (Dyer)," relayed Dr. Simpson. "He's a fine coach. It seems I've been lucky again. I guess that old rabbit's foot is still around," he laughed.

DYER'S BUNCH started off slowly, but won its last 12 in a row. No, no, make it 13. Central Arkansas nailed Augsburg, Minn. 67-61 in round-one of the national tournament yesterday.

Simpson takes little credit for the success of his staff, but it does indeed seem that wherever he goes good things happen.

At WTC he helped the Dusters to several conference titles, while men's coach Mike Mitchell was taking the Westerners to a national championship. The year Mitchell left a guy named Nolan Richardson came along and, well...you know the rest.

NOW RICHARDSON is leaving for Tulsa University, and WTC has to come up with another men's coach.

Say Sid, how 'bout coming down for a visit...and uh, could you bring that rabbit's foot along?

Cats Third At Relays

SAN ANGELO—Snyder eighth grade boys garnered third place in the San Angelo Relays here over the weekend.

The boys return to San Angelo for a Lake View-hosted meet on Saturday.

The Cat 1,200 meter relay team of Tyrone Duncan, Carlos Carrizales, Mike Hernandez and Norman Malone took first place with a time of 2:45.7. The same group raced to a second place finish in the 400 meter relay, in a time of 48.2.

Individually Malone placed third in the 300 meters with a 40.3; Duncan was sixth in the 100 dash with an 11.5; and Hernandez was fifth in the shot put.

In other results, Malone was fifth in the long jump with a leap of 17-1; Jimmy Cain was fifth in the pole vault with an 8-0 effort; and Jerry Garza finished sixth in the 200 meters with a 26.4.

Jump Rope Event Held Thursday

Snyder High School tennis team will sponsor the American Heart Jump Rope-A-Thon from 6 until 9 p.m. Thursday.

Student participants will work together in teams of six, using one jump rope. Each team member will jump rope until tiring, then pass the rope to the next member of the team.

An official Student Jumper kit will be given to students prior to the event to enable them to acquire sponsors. Pledges will be based on each minute the six-member team jumps.

Jump Rope-A-Thon for Heart, is a statewide event for students to promote physical education and cardiovascular health while raising funds to help local Heart Association's fight heart attack and stroke.

Jumping rope is reported to be one of many cardiovascular exercises which can be used by children and adults to help achieve and maintain fitness.

Students interested in the Jump Rope-A-Thon should contact SHS tennis coach Bill Botes or members of the team.

Dr. Simpson, who helped get athletics off the ground at WTC, left here a couple of years ago to become commissioner of the Arkansas Intercollegiate Conference.

JUST RECENTLY however, he took a position as athletic director of his alma mater, the University of Central Arkansas.

That was in June of 1979, and things couldn't be brighter right now.

Simpson hired Don Dyer as head basketball coach for the cellar-dwelling Arkies, and wouldn't you know it, the team is in Kansas right now, playing for the NAIA championship.

CENTRAL ARKANSAS didn't win its conference. With a 19-12 overall record, it finished third. But it did win its regional tournament, and that bought it a berth into the national tourney.

"I've been tremendously impressed with him (Dyer)," relayed Dr. Simpson. "He's a fine coach. It seems I've been lucky again. I guess that old rabbit's foot is still around," he laughed.

Chevron energy report:

Chevron's nickels become dimes - Dimes become energy.

Chevron's record 1980 investments in the U.S. - twice the size of our '79 U.S. profits - will make possible a record number of new energy projects.

Chevron made a nickel on a dollar of U.S. petroleum sales last year. For each nickel earned, Chevron in 1980 will be investing a dime, made up of profit after dividends plus cash from operations (including depreciation).

With those dimes - billions of them - we're undertaking hundreds of different energy projects. Among the major ones:

- Record expenditures for new exploration, development and production wells - from the Gulf of Mexico all the way to Alaska's North Slope.
Nearly two dozen extremely deep and costly new wells for natural gas in the Overt thrust Belt of Wyoming and in the Tuscaloosa Trend of Louisiana.
Steam flood projects that could triple the production of our heavy crude oil in California over the next five years.
Plans for major new facilities at our refinery in Mississippi.
Accelerated development of alternate energy sources: Shale oil in Colorado. Geothermal energy in the West. And solar - plus more.

All these Chevron projects are designed to help make America more energy independent. But it's equally important that we all continue to conserve as much energy as possible.
