Bani-Sadr Says Iran's Demands Not Been Met

By The Associated Press
President Abolhassan Bani-Sadr said President Carter has not met his terms for hostages from the control of the militants holding them, and the Revolutionary Council won't take custody of the captives until he does. A top White House official said the Carter administration is not sure what the Iranian leader wants. "It is not important to us what opinion President Carter has expressed. What is important is whether or not he takes the measures we have specified," Bani-Sadr said in a statement distributed by Pars, the official Iranian news agency.

Earlier Tuesday, Bani-Sadr told a rally the council had agreed to take control of the hostages until the new Iranian parliament decided their fate if the U.S. government pledged to abstain from all hostile action and propaganda against Iran until their fate was decided by the new Parliament. In the first round of parliamentary voting, the clergy-dominated Islamic Republican Party won 49 seats, supporters of Bani-Sadr captured 18, independents won 21, and several minor parties won a total of 13, it was reported today. The other 169 seats will be filled in a second round of parliamentary voting expected to be held in about a month. A government-appointed commission is now investigating claims of vote-rigging in the first round of voting. Bani-Sadr's apparent determination to end the embassy standoff likely will be made more difficult if the Islamic Republican Party wins a parliamentary majority. Party members, mostly Moslem clergymen have backed Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini and the militants holding the American hostages in their demands for the return of the shah in exchange for release of the hostages.

Snyder's One-Act Play Takes District Honors

Will Jerry Worsham's Snyder High Players break their own state record? The first hurdle was cleared here Tuesday when the plays by Snyder and Brownfield students were selected to advance to regional competition. And it was Shakespeare who came through again for the Snyder cast. Worsham's students presented "A Midsummer Night's Dream" in the District 3-3A one-act play contest. Brownfield shared district honors with "Peer Gynt."

Also repeating were individual performers representing Snyder High as Mark Robertson was named best actor and Becky Pierce was named best actress. Bryan Lwallen and Nell Sears earned similar honors in the district contest last year. Three other Snyder students were named to the all-star cast. They were Scott Marlur, Joey Forbes and LaQuita Reaves. Others on the all-star cast are Alan Waldrop and Linda Warner of Lamesa.

John Odell of Brownfield, Jimmy Shearer of Lake View and Beck Smith of Sweetwater. Snyder cast members making honorable mention on the all-star cast ballot included Jack O'Banion, Rissa Head, Mark Shaw, Laurie Allen, Barry Tubb, Kelly Deavers, Tommy Peek, Craig Dean, Sara Youngkin and Jennifer Cole. Thus, all members of the Snyder cast were accorded individual recognition, and it is believed to be the first time this has happened. Lamesa's presentation of "All My Sons" was named alternate. Snyder High's one-act play has been in the state finals at Austin for the past five years in a row, and has won two state titles during that period, including last year when it won a record-shattering seventh state championship in this event. The regional one-act play contests will be held April 17 in Odessa.

Wednesday update

Carter Crushes Kennedy

MILWAUKEE (AP)—President Carter crushed Sen. Edward Kennedy's campaign comeback with a double-landslide in Wisconsin and Kansas, gaining the votes that put him more than half-way to renomination in what is now a two-man Democratic contest. Ronald Reagan strengthened his virtually unbreakable grip on the Republican nomination and stands as the candidate the Democrats almost certainly would have to defeat to hold the White House. He captured Wisconsin's primary election on Tuesday, ran away with Kansas, and said that while he wasn't claiming to have the nomination clinched, "it does make for a substantial lead." California Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr., a distant third to Carter and Kennedy, said he was through as a candidate. "This will be the last contest in which I participate in 1980," he said.

Prime Rate Hits 20%

NEW YORK (AP)—The soaring prime lending rate jumped another notch to a record 20 percent today as banks continued to adjust for the rising cost of their funds. "Chemical Bank, the nation's sixth-largest bank, boosted the rate to 20 percent, leaping past the 19 1/2 percent rate set Tuesday by Chase Manhattan Bank Chemical, based in New York, had been charging 19 1/2 percent, a rate it adopted only Friday. The prime—the rate banks charge their biggest and most credit-worthy corporate borrowers—has increased nine times since March 4, and 14 times so far in 1980 in reaction to the Federal Reserve Board's attempts to curb inflation by slowing the growth of borrowing debts.

Play Pushes SHS Into First Place

An impressive 57 points in the one-act play contest Thursday pushed Snyder High School into first place in the District 3-3A University Interscholastic League literary and academic contests.

SHS finished with a total of 142 points, followed by Brownfield with 131, San Angelo Lake View with 126, Lamesa with 116 and Sweetwater with 110. Over-all the district competition was probably the closest ever recorded, which made the one-act plays the final event, decisive. As usual, Snyder scored heavily in the speech events, with that depart-

Q—Can there be write-in votes in the Hermleigh school board election Saturday?
A—Yes. Write-in votes are valid in any of the Saturday elections, not only in Hermleigh, but everywhere. The only time write-in votes are not permitted is in runoff elections.

Lenders Must Send Notices

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Federal Reserve Board today required all lenders to notify their borrowers 30 days in advance of any changes in credit terms. The board also voted to allow consumers to pay off existing credit account balances under old finance terms. However, if a customer continues to make charges on the old account, "he or she will have to agree to pay the entire balance in accordance with the new terms," the board said.

Absentee Balloting Considered Heavy

Absentee voting for school and city elections, ended Tuesday and the turnout was considered heavy in Snyder. However, an absentee total greater than usual was expected due to the fact that local public schools will begin their spring holidays this week-end. Not only teachers, but a number of parents are expected to be out of town on Saturday, the election day, because of the holidays. Snyder Independent School District, which has two contested races for places on its board, had 142 absentee votes. There is one uncontested race for a school board seat.

The city issued 103 absentee ballots. There are contested races for three city council posts and an uncontested race for mayor. Ira Independent School District had 12 absentee votes. There are five candidates there for two places on the board. Four absentee ballots were reported in Hermleigh Independent School District, which has no contested race for its board. Sixty absentee ballots were cast in the Scurry County Junior College District, which has uncontested races for three places on its board of trustees. The elections are scheduled for Saturday.

President Signs Big Oil Tax Bill

WASHINGTON (AP)—Eleven months after he sent the legislation to Congress, President Carter today signed a compromise $227.7 billion oil "windfall profits" tax bill, saying "the keystone of our national energy policy is now in place." Flanked by members of Congress who worked on the legislation, the president signed the bill in the East Room using two green pens. He said the "fair" tax would give the ration extra money to use to help poor people pay their fuel bills, to improve transit systems and to develop new energy sources. Carter noted he had proposed the legislation nearly a year ago and praised Congress for passing it despite intervention of special interest groups. The American Petroleum Institute, the oil industry's lobbying group, issued a statement calling Carter's signing "unfortunate" and saying the new tax would See Carter Page 13

Double Whammy Hits New Yorkers

NEW YORK (AP)—New Yorkers hit by the "double-whammy" of a transit system shutdown and a commuter railroad strike felt the crunch today when rush hour traffic stacked up bumper-to-bumper at gateways to Manhattan. Unlike Tuesday, when traffic was light, there was a half-mile backup as early as 5:30 a.m. at the Queens Midtown Tunnel, a major artery to the island. Police reported there were twice as many cars on the expressways as on Tuesday. Long caravans of cyclists and pedestrians streamed across the Brooklyn Bridge and other walkways to the city. "We're packed to the gills," said a trainman at a Conrail train station in suburban Westchester County. Many commuters who stayed home Tuesday only to hear reports of light traffic and few travel problems tried to return to work today. On the first day of the simultaneous strikes over wages by the subway and bus systems and the Long Island Railroad, about 80 percent of the city's workers managed to get to their jobs.

Thursday Is 'R-Day' For Primaries

Tomorrow is "R-Day" if you haven't registered and wish to participate in this year's primary elections on May 3. Texas election laws require that a voter must be registered at least 30 days prior to the election day to be eligible to vote. Those who have their registration cards are qualified, but those who have not registered must do so at the county clerk's office before closing time Thursday. Both the Democratic and Republican parties will hold primary elections on Saturday, May 3.

The SDN Column

There's a lot of red tape attached to the new crude oil tax—labeled a "windfall profits tax" by the government—and it will require a lot of work to determine precisely how it will be applied. However, the over-all picture is this: Under tax laws already in effect prior to the "windfall," 60 percent of oil revenues went to government in taxes. That left 40 percent. The "windfall" tax will take a large share of this remaining 40 percent, which means that government is going to get all but a small fraction of it.

Scurry County's reign as the largest oil producer in the state ended about three years ago, but 1979 figures compiled by the Railroad Commission show that Scurry still ranked fifth among the 254 counties in crude production and second in production of casinghead gas. Scurry's crude oil production last year amounted to 48,187,208 barrels, nothing to be sneezed at. Yoakum County was the biggest producer last year with 67,345,328, followed by Gaines, Ector, Pecos and Scurry. Crane County was the biggest producer of casinghead gas last year with 117,962,779 million cubic feet. Scurry followed with 62,539,070 million cubic feet. Casinghead gas is the gas produced along with oil from an oilwell. These figures show that petroleum production in Scurry County not only continues as a major economic factor locally, but it also contributes a lot to the nation's energy supply.

Speaking of energy, the Connecticut Yankee plant holds the world's record for production of electricity by a nuclear plant. A 575 megawatt power plant, it has been in production 12 years and it would require 85 million barrels of oil to produce the same amount of power in an oil-fueled plant. Placed end-to-end, these barrels would circle the Earth twice.

WASHINGTON (NEA) — When politicians and pundits recently were deprived of their favorite topic of conversation by the temporary collapse of both major parties' contests for the presidential nomination, they found a new subject for ceaseless discussion.

It usually appeared under the rubric of, "Isn't there a better way to select the Republican and Democratic presidential nominees?"

Those who thrived upon trading speculation and scenarios on the fates of the various Democratic and Republican contenders were understandably disturbed by the arrival of the denouement after fewer than one-third of the primaries have been held.

Westerners were upset because more than a half-dozen major candidates appeared to have been effectively eliminated from the race before any state in their region had an opportunity to conduct a primary election.

Traditionalists and party activists complained that the current emphasis on primaries — the method used this year to select convention delegates in 35 of the 50 states — gives too much influence to unsophisticated voters and not enough to veteran political leaders.

There are countless variations of that theme, with those who unsuccessfully opposed the reforms that opened up the nominating process during the past decade continuing to gripe about democracy running amok under the new system.

But those who yearn for a return to the good old days when presidential nominees presumably were selected by political bosses holding secret meetings in smoke-filled rooms might consider this question: If those "old pols" and power brokers could be convened this year to unilaterally select the two nominees, who would they choose?

The obvious answer is President Carter for the Democrats and Ronald Reagan for the Republicans.

would prevent California and Oregon, for example, from advancing their primary dates by two months or more.

It should be noted, however, that many of the same voices now being raised in favor of improved geographical balance throughout the primary season were calling only a few years ago for a far different change — a series of regional primaries.

That system has many advantages, especially in bringing rationality to candidate travel and advertising in multi-state television markets, but it also would allow one region to enjoy the disproportionate influence that comes from voting first while others might suffer the fate of balloting long after the contest had been effectively resolved.

Similarly, many of those who were complaining about the surprisingly sudden disappearance of competition in both parties' presidential contests were bemoaning the intolerable length of the primary season not long ago.

In any event, those who feared that the selection process had been prematurely truncated have reason to remain hopeful.

The recent history of presidential politics — in the 1960s and 1970s — indicates that the only element that has become predictable in the process is unpredictability. It's still possible, as results in New York and Connecticut demonstrated, for unforeseen developments to dramatically revive the competition for one or both nominations this year.

Boy! He really needed that. Just when it appeared to be virtually over but for the convention shouting, along came New York and Connecticut. The Democratic presidential nomination is again a horse race and Edward M. Kennedy is very much still in it.

Much is being read into his double win. Kennedy himself sees it as a switch of public attention from the questions of character that have burdened his campaign up to this point to what he has all long maintained are the real issues — the economy and foreign policy, and the Carter administration's sorry record on both.

A long-predicted negative reaction to lack of progress on Iran and Afghanistan may be manifesting itself. Anger, particularly in New York with the nation's largest concentration of Jewish voters, at the recent embarrassing fumbles in the United Nations of the Mideast issue could be a powerful contributor.

And overall, the primary outcomes may well be much less a strong endorsement of Senator Kennedy's cause than a critical statement on President Carter's performance.

All of the above are probably true to some degree. Their effect on the suddenly more competitive campaign is likely to depend in considerable degree on what a momentarily strengthened Kennedy makes of them, or his ability to convert what may be an essentially negative development — a protest vote — into a positive advantage — support for his own candidacy.

His real victory at this point is not in the morale-boosting percentage of the Democratic vote he attracted or in the majority of convention delegates he picked up, but in simply not losing. Had he added New York and Connecticut to the string of primary defeats against which Massachusetts stands out as the sole and understandable exception, it very likely would have been the end of his campaign.

Instead, Kennedy is still in the race. But he's also still behind, and it's still a considerable distance to the home stretch.

dangerous dealing

The Carter administration is trying to prevent the Swiss gnomes from letting the atomic genie out of the bottle in Argentina.

Officials of the Swiss government reportedly are proposing to sell Argentina a plant to produce heavy water which could be used in atomic power plants. Heavy water also can be used to produce nuclear weapons. India did just that a few years ago.

The point is clear that no nuclear non-proliferation treaty will mean anything if industrial nations provide less advanced countries with a backdoor way into the atomic club. The more members that club has, the more likely it is one or more members will exercise their technology, and the whole world will suffer if that happens. If some of the club members are unstable countries with governments that may not even be popular at home and fear losing power, the chances of atomic war are greatly increased.

It seems unlikely that Argentina would be anyone's idea of a particularly stable nation.

Not only are the Swiss pressing to go ahead with the deal, they are resisting American attempts to have them increase security precautions. Switzerland is a trading nation, but the Swiss government ought to realize that some deals, no matter how profitable, are too dangerous to make.

Boy, I thought I knew what optimism was all about until the presidential primaries got underway.

No one loses. I call it "depressive winning."

If a Republican candidate gets only 3 percent of the vote, he grins broadly and says, "Those votes represent a real breakthrough. They came from a predominantly Democratic area. I have obviously made inroads."

On the other hand, if a Democrat does poorly at the polls he makes the victory sign, douses himself in champagne, and says, "That is a 5 percent increase in the number of votes I got four years ago. I think there's a momentum going."

All this optimism leaves us with eight candidates all building tog cabins and carriers of depressive winning that could cause an epidemic of optimism.

Depressive winning gets on my nerves. When I am wallowing in self-pity and have no reason to believe that things will get better, just let me alone. I do not want to be cheered up!

I play tennis with a woman who invented depressive winning. Brenda is never depressed over a dead tree, a CLOSED ON MONDAY or OUT OF GAS sign. She always finds goodness somehow in a tax audit, a call from school, or black smoke coming out of her exhaust.

It's tacky, but the rest of us can't resist trying to trap her in a situation for which she has no optimism.

"My washer went out yesterday."

Brenda: "Thank goodness it wasn't on a weekend."

"My son just brought his roommate home."

Brenda: "Thank goodness, it's a boy."

"His roommate is a girl."

Brenda: "You must have a great relationship for him to be so open."

"My husband went out for Pizza Saturday and never came back."

Brenda: "At least he didn't ruin your week."

"The rabbit died."

Brenda: "He probably had no family."

"I saw a pregnant moth in my closet!"

Brenda: "She's probably dieting."

Believe me, the first presidential candidate who stands up and sobs, "I lost and I'm depressed as heck about it," gets my vote!

full employment dilemma

NEW YORK (AP) — In seeking both full employment and energy conservation, the United States has set contradictory goals, says Robert Theobald, economist, futurist, author and consultant.

"The unperceived reality," he says, "is that our present commitment to full employment causes the largest single drain on energy use."

He feels the full employment concept is outdated and a threat to society. He believes we are so busy making jobs that nobody has time to work, enjoy it, and contribute to an achieve fulfillment from it.

He asserts correctly that in 1980 you will find not a single political candidate who advocates less than full employment, even though, to him, such a candidate would have shown "statesmanlike qualities."

His perception is not to force people into idleness but to gradually evolve a new structure based on recognition that we can't fit every jobseeker into that structure without destroying the economy.

Theobald, India-born, Cambridge-educated, long time Wickenburg, Ariz. resident, might be considered "far out" by some. To others he is a seminal thinker, author of "Free Men and Free Markets" and other scholarly books, a consultant to government, business and education.

He doesn't contest the nobility of a full employment goal, and he has no notion of forcing people into idleness. But he asks that we be aware of the futility of achieving the goal while also seeking to save energy and raise productive efficiency.

"We know that we could produce the same quantity of goods and services using far less people," he states. He says estimates of the savings range from 15 percent to 30 percent.

"Even more energy could be saved through changed job structure: flexible hours, shared jobs, working at home using teleconferencing, and the use of buildings and equipment for six or seven days a week."

He sees full employment goals as inflationary too. In pursuit of high employment, "we are increasingly unwilling to apply market-place disciplines," he states. Result: Higher prices are passed on to consumers, government bails out overextended firms, and more and more credit is extended to individuals, groups and nations.

"So long as we are committed to full employment, the long-run inflation rate will stay high and may even rise, for we can put no effective breaks on price-and-cost increases," Theobald declares.

The dilemma can only be resolved, he insists, by giving up the goal of full employment and providing basic economic security for all, even if they cannot work.

The recently modified, refreshingly open selection process appears to be producing strikingly similar results. That's not necessarily salutary, but it certainly suggests that the reforms haven't destroyed many sacred political traditions.

The absence of early primaries in the West is disconcerting, but authority for scheduling those elections is vested exclusively with the states. Although a Democratic Party rule confines most primaries to a 13-week period, no other party regulation or federal law

my turn

With spring time here, people are found working in their yards. It's hard to tell which ones are really enthusiastic as they appear to love what they're doing, or, if they are going about the dreaded job of grooming their home's surroundings hating every minute of it — just trying to beat the next sand storm.

Also it's time for gardeners to be planting. For city dwellers, I suspect we fall under the category of garden hobbyists. As inflation takes its toll of the family paycheck, gardening becomes more than just a hobby or fun thing.

Flower beds once used for petunias can be as attractive with flowering to-mato plants which turn into pretty red edible things.

Other plants like radishes, beets, turnips, spinach and leaf lettuce can be used for border or along walks. A wire fence can be an ideal place to plant cucumber plants. Okra can be planted in flower beds and will produce all summer. Even those with limited space can utilize window boxes for smaller plants like herbs or replace their common potted plants with eatable ones.

Personally, I gain my inspiration from driving to work and watching Carlos Preston as he keeps a plot of garden about 5 feet x 50 feet between the sidewalk and the street growing with black-eyed peas, pin to beans, onions, tomatoes and other plants all through the summer beginning in early spring.

Mr. Preston also has other garden areas around his house on 2812 Ave. U but the one near the street, the one most visible to a passerby, always appears cared for with its precision rows of plants. Even in the winter he keeps it plowed using his last pea vines as fertilizer by plowing them under. In it and his other gardens, he said he uses red worms, leaves and cow manure for fertilizers and some poison for grub worms.

Productive vegetable gardens can thrive almost anywhere, even on vacant city lots. Prime requirements are light, water, adequate fertilization and protection from insects and disease.

Museum Reopening After Fire

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — The undaunted curator of a fire-ravaged antique auto museum plans to partially reopen next Monday — only a week after the $400,000 blaze that damaged several rare cars in the "priceless" collection.

Monday afternoon's fire destroyed three rare old cars in the downtown San Antonio Museum of Transportation, but the best of the 55 cars in the collection escaped with only smoke and water damage, Curator Joe Zawatski said Tuesday. Some of those $150,000 antique autos were severely damaged, but all can be saved, he added. The cars' paint jobs and tops showed the effects of the gritty smoke and water.

Arson investigators made routine investigations Monday and Tuesday, but Zawatski said Tuesday that officials still think the fire was caused by an electrical short circuit.

Our friend, the unlucky expert was in a worse humor than usual, if he ever can get to that worse than usual state. We quote: "I got that lucky idiot and it always happens to me." He calmed him down and he showed us this hand. It seems that he sat West and opened the King of spades against South's seven diamonds. South won, drew trumps and went after clubs. The finesse worked and South made his vulnerable grand slam. The unlucky expert said, "Here's a hand that won't even make six unless the club finesse works and he bids and makes seven & (?!?) I should quit rubbery bridge." We got away as quickly as possible. South's bidding had not been very scientific and he had certainly banged into the slam while flying rather blind in a fog, but seven diamonds is the best contract. Every once in a while we find a hand like this that makes five or seven depending on an even-money chance. Now let's look at the mathematics. Forget the honors that South scores anyway. If he bids five diamonds, he scores either 600 or 640 for an average 620 points. If he bids six, he makes 1300 or minus 100 for an average gain of 645. However, if he bids seven he makes 2140, or minus 200 an average gain of 970. So seven diamonds is the best bid. (NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSN.)

Brownies Plan For Their Day At Camp

Brownie Girl Scouts are planning Brownie Day at Camp Boothe Oaks. Many troops are reading up on Suzy Safety in their worlds to explore handbooks on how to be safe in the out of doors. They are practicing their eight basic skills so that they will perform perfectly in the Tajar Wide game. Tajar is the imaginary mostly invisible mascot of Camp Boothe Oaks and every other accredited ACA camp in the country. According to the author of Tajar Tales, Janet Ward Shaw, Tajar is something like a tiger, something like a badger, and something like a jaguar. He loves campers and enjoys swinging from tree to tree keeping up with Girl Scout activities. So the Wide Game stations are designated by a picture of Tajar on a tree with "Tajar Says" instructions. Hundreds of Brownies and their leaders will come from Area II, III, and IV of the West Texas Girl Scout Council on either of two dates, April 12 or May 10. Brownies will arrive at 10 a.m. with a sack lunch, drink, and snack, dressed in long pants, shoes, socks and jackets. They can be guided on the Tajar trails by Junior scouts; they picnic in troop groups and depart at 2 p.m.

Beauty Tips For Women

If you find yourself in a hurry to dry a fresh manicure before bed or going out, try immersing your hand for a few moments in a basin of cold water. Throwing in a couple of ice cubes will help. Or just stick your hands in the freezer for a few seconds for a freeze dry. You can also use your blow dryer set on cool to speed up drying.
 To clean your face with a cleansing lotion, use cotton balls moistened with the lotion but not saturated with the dripping point. Starting with your forehead, press a moistened ball of cotton gently back and forth. If dirt shows up on the cotton, repeat with a fresh area of the ball until cotton comes away clean. Take a fresh piece of cotton and go on to cheeks, nose and chin, changing cotton as necessary and avoiding the eyes.
 Face powders often contain coal tar derivatives which can cause hyperpigmentation or permanent darkening of the skin. So when buying powder, check the labels carefully and avoid those which have coal tar in them.

Wisconsin Contest Last Round For Jerry Brown

MILWAUKEE (AP)—As he conducted his poor-boy campaign for president, Edmund G. Brown Jr. told his following he was "standing on the existential edge" to see whether the dream begun four years ago would finally take form in Wisconsin's 1980 primary.

He was, said the California governor, aiming for a new kind of world, in which "we will build for the future, not steal from it." Edward M. Kennedy, he said, wouldn't do that, leaving him - Jerry Brown - as the only Democratic alternative to President Carter.

Jerry Brown
...Out of the race

"I'm the last person standing behind him and renomination and I would like you to have that choice," Brown would say. But what he offered the voters of Wisconsin was more a different brand of politics based on visions of a conserving earth, an emerging Third World, a future that would include exploring the universe. "I believe in this country and we can rebuild it," he told audience after audience. "I'm offering alternatives to mobilize for peace, for prosperity, for putting America first instead of having Uncle Sam be the sucker for the rest of the countries of the world." But it would take that victory in Wisconsin, he said, to send him on his way. "I forecast this," he told reporters on election eve. "I've got my best chance right here."

But Tuesday night, Brown fell over the edge, existential or not. He came in third in a field of three.

"It is obvious that the voters have spoken and have given their verdict on my 1980 campaign, and that means that this will be the last contest in which I participated in 1980," Brown said.

Brown had gotten off to an earlier start this year, hoping to repeat his stunning showing in 1976 when he burst, belatedly, onto the political scene as an ABC candidate. "Anybody but Carter," he managed to slow the Georgian's march to the White House, winning five primaries, but too late.

But Brown's political spaceship virtually burned out on the launching pad this time. In New Hampshire, he got less than 10 percent of the vote. In New York, he failed to get on the ballot. He ignored the other primaries to make his big stand in Wisconsin.

But although the California governor promised to campaign "as long as there is a dollar in my pocket and a breath in my body," Wisconsin did him in.

Foes say his flip-flopping on issues such as California's Proposition 13 tax cut finally caught up with him, tagging him with the image of an opportunist. His appeal to liberals was tarnished by his swing to the right on fiscal issues; conservatives were put off by his alliance with liberal folk heroes like Cesar Chavez and Jane Fonda. He spoke of a "new coalition" embracing both left and right, but he wound up, really, with neither group.

In Wisconsin, the crowds weren't there, and neither was the press. For two days last week, Brown's press entourage consisted of three reporters riding in a van behind his station wagon - a lonely caravan of two cars. While other candidates and their staffs stayed in the best hotels in town, the money-short Brown was put up in private homes.

Arrests In Bank Heist

BOSSIER CITY, La. (AP)—The Bossier Parish Sheriff's Department says the investigation has been completed in a $99,000 bank robbery with the arrest of two persons in El Dorado, Ark.

The January robbery of the First State Bank in Plain Dealing was the largest robbery ever recorded at a rural Louisiana bank.

Tuesday, authorities arrested Jonah Cooper Jr. and Betty Lou Wright, both 30 and both of El Dorado, near their homes.

"That's all of them," said Ron Thiebaud, investigator with the Bossier Parish sheriff's office. "These are all of those we believe were involved in the robbery."

Seven persons are held in connection with the robbery, and they are in custody in three different states - Arkansas, California and Louisiana.

Four were jailed after a bank robbery attempt last week in Santa Clara, Cal. They were identified as Leroy Jackson of Magnolia, Ark., 43; and Tony Curtis Smith, 26;

FIDDLERS AT SENIOR CENTER—Entertaining at a social at the Senior Center last night were fiddlers, Edna Harris and Darrell Reese. Accompanying them were guitarists, A.Z. Glover, sitting, and Benny Benitez. The program was part of History Appreciation Week being observed in Snyder. The Senior Citizen Sunshine Choir, directed by Chuck Weatherford, also performed for the group and a movie, "Mainstreet, U.S.A." was shown. (SDN Staff Photo)

Kennedy Plots New Comeback

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Edward M. Kennedy's "comeback" lasted exactly one week.

Now, like all losers, he's plotting a new one. No sooner were votes counted in President Carter's landslide victories in the Wisconsin and Kansas Democratic presidential primaries Tuesday night than Kennedy's campaign chief was predicting success in the next big showdown.

"I think we will have a strong win in Pennsylvania," which holds its primary on April 22, said Stephen Smith, Kennedy's campaign manager and brother-in-law. Smith promised Kennedy would "wage a vigorous campaign there," and Carter's challenger arranged to begin a three-day campaign swing through the delegate-rich state today.

Before leaving Washington, Kennedy expected to pick up the formal support of the million-member American Federation of State County and Municipal Employees. Union president Jerry Wurf was scheduled to deliver the endorsement at a mid-morning news conference in Washington.

Despite Smith's optimism about Pennsylvania, other aides said their private polls show Carter with a lead of between 5 and 10 percentage points in the state they have said previously Kennedy must win to keep his chances for the nomination alive. Pennsylvania will send 185 delegates to the Democratic National Convention.

Kennedy had been a consistent loser to the president until a week ago, when he notched surprising upset wins in New York and Connecticut.

His aides heralded the victories as evidence that Carter's standing was plummeting throughout the country and that Kennedy finally had begun the comeback that would carry him to the nomination.

But the voters said otherwise, giving the president victory margins of nearly 2-1 in both Wisconsin and Kansas.

In the process, Carter widened his lead in delegates over Kennedy to 852.3 to 427.1, with 1,666 required for the nomination.

Kennedy stayed at home during the evening, sending out campaign manager Smith to concede defeat and offer the president "congratulations" on his wins.

El Salvador Awaiting Changes To Avert War

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador (AP)—El Salvador's ruling junta, an alliance of colonels who call themselves moderates and Christian Democrats, is still counting on such changes as agrarian reform and bank nationalization to win support of the masses and avert civil war.

But the efforts of the junta, whose two colonels overthrew the rightist military regime of Gen. Carlos Humberto Romero last October, are threatened by the extreme right and extreme left, locked in a bloody struggle against each other.

"You can't expect changes to take place from one night to the next morning," said Jose Napoleon Duarte, one of three civilian junta members and the leader of the Christian Democratic Party. "We are trying to change 50 years of dictatorship."

He maintained violence is so ingrained it goes down to small-town police commanders who rule by fear.

El Salvador is a Massachusetts-size country of 4.8 million people in which 50 percent of the population is illiterate and unemployed, 70 percent of the children undernourished, the minimum daily wage is the equivalent of $4 and several hundred families and their military allies have controlled most of the country's wealth for decades.

Leftist organizations have been waging a struggle against the concentration of riches in the hands of the small ruling class. The extreme right blames the left for all the violence, but junta spokesmen admit the extreme right has acted within the government as a repressive force.

One main issue has been the concentration of land in the hands of the wealthy. The issue flared into violence as far back as 1932 when rebellious peasants rose up against landowners and seized property. The army backed the landowners and crushed the rebellion, killing 20,000 to 30,000 peasants.

The present junta launched a land-redistribution program March 6. More than 70,000 families have been given some of the country's best farmland from about 250 estates, and the plan calls for 220,000 more families to get farms in the next year.

With the reform, the government is gambling it can build a base of support among the largely non-politicized population. It hopes it can win the confidence of the landless peasants and that the urban laborers will recognize the government's good intentions and join with the peasants in a common front against extremists.

Marie Ann Terrell, 24, and Mary Ann Crockett, 27, all of California.

Jesse Lee Smith of Houston, 42, was arrested early this month in Houston and is being held in Bernice, La.

Bossier Sheriff Vol Doolley said he hopes further questioning will lead to recovery of nearly $73,000 still missing from the Plain Dealing robbery. About $26,000 was seized in the arrest of Smith.

There are 11 taps to the mile at Madison Square Garden in New York.

In Nation's 'Attic' Display...

Smithsonian Offers 100 Items Of Junk

By HOWARD BENEDICT Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — It's the ultimate collection of useless objects too appealing to throw away. And it's on display, this vintage Americana, in a make-believe attic at the Smithsonian Institution.

There's an illuminated 18th Century clock that sounds a wakeup alarm and strikes a match to light a lamp.

There's a silk purse made of sows' ears.

There's a pillbox with a small spike inside to impale a half-chewed wad of gum for future use.

There's a pair of scissors that has 18 functions.

There's a stereoscope and 13 pictures of Paris to view through it.

In all, 100 items of glorious junk went on display this week at the National Museum of History and Technology. They will remain in their attic setting for six months.

Several of the objects are associated with famous people.

A stone from the French dungeon where Joan of Arc was imprisoned; air snippets of presidents from Washington to Pierce; trimmings from President Lincoln's hearse; Mrs. Lincoln's silver coffee service, supported on replicas of chicken legs; a napkin used by Napoleon; and a tile from the floor of the Washington railroad station where President Garfield fell when assassinated.

Most of the items in the exhibit were gathered at random by government curators in the mid-19th Century and kept by the U.S. Patent Office.

When the original Smithsonian Institution Castle was completed in 1855, the patent commissioner eagerly transferred all but patent models to Smithsonian Secretary Joseph Henry, who became known as the keeper of "The Nation's Attic."

Loses Five Minute With Every Smoke

LONDON (AP)—Smoking a single cigarette takes five minutes off the life of the smoker, a British government official claimed today.

Sir George Young, undersecretary of state for health, said people who smoke 20 cigarettes a day could die five years earlier than they otherwise would.

Backing the World Health Organization's "anti-smoking day" next Monday, Sir George said in a statement that smoking was the largest single preventable cause of premature death and illness. It caused 50,000 deaths in Britain each year, he claimed.

Although some items from the collection were displayed, most were relegated to study collections in back rooms," said Benjamin W. Lawless, project manager of the new exhibit.

Finally, although "some people always worried it would make the museum look silly," the decision was made to mount an exhibition of the material. Then the thousands of dust-covered items had to be sorted through to pick what would go on display. One that didn't make it was a complete set of Army VD posters.

As a centerpiece, Lawless chose a 14-foot-tall clock reminiscent of European mechanical tower clocks with music and animated figures activated on the hour.

Among the other items that made it are a colossal American flag, 235 feet long and 104 feet high, packed in a box; a 30,000-watt light bulb billed in 1925 as the largest in the world; collections of safety pins, paper clips, poison bottles and whiskey barrel labels.

And Victorian flytraps and an eyeball massager and a finger gymnasium for limbering piano player's hands.

And the amputated foot of a firehorse.

Tornado Alley Seen Growing

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — In the 1980s, Dorothy and her pet dog Toto from the "Wizard of Oz" could just as well be swept away by a tornado in Washington, D.C., as on the plains of Kansas.

The nation's Tornado Alley is expanding from a storm-ridden strip of Oklahoma and Kansas to include large areas where no resident can assume safety from a twister, says Dr. T. Theodore Fujita, a University of Chicago meteorology professor studying the shifting patterns of tornadoes.

A computer study of tornadoes shows the concentration of activity has moved since 1916, when records sufficient for study were first kept. But in the past 10 years the center has "exploded all over the country," said Fujita, creator of the Fujita system of rating tornado intensity.

"People cannot think they are immune from tornadoes just because they are not in Oklahoma," he said.

Last year, 326 tornadoes killed 83 people. The worst storm of the decade, in 1974, spawned 146 twisters that killed 301 people in 11 states — all of them east of the Mississippi River.

"The 1970s seem to be very strange," Fujita said. "The centers seem to be just about everywhere."

The fact that concentrations exist at all was discovered within the past two months after a nine-year study of 25,046 tornadoes since 1916. And scientists do not know why the traditional concentration is shifting.

Iowa was the tornado capital of America from 1920 through the 1930s, Fujita said. After the Dust Bowl drought of the 1930s, the center moved to central Oklahoma and shifted slightly north in the 1960s to the Kansas border. The two states had 1,101 of the 6,816 tornadoes of the 1960s and 760 of the 8,575 twisters of the 1970s.

Tornado Alley still sees more than its share of action, Fujita said, but concentrations are appearing in central Florida, Nebraska, northwest Texas, southern Indiana and along the Mississippi River near Jackson, Miss. A lighter one has appeared in the strip from Washington, D.C., to Boston.

Fujita said he expects the activity to concentrate again but it will be several years before another large center of high-tornado frequency becomes apparent.

Camporee Tests Scouts On Skills Of Survival

Over 100 area Boy Scouts and leaders representing Snyder, Big Spring, Coahoma, Hermligh and Colorado City attended the camporee held recently at Fluvanna, reports Ronnie Fitzgerald, camporee chairman. Boy Scouts, Cubs and Webelos were tested in several different categories in a full day of competition, he said. Station No. 1 was nature. The boys had to identify plants, animals, trail signs and demonstrate a basic knowledge of weather and environment. Judges were Lynn Wilkerson and Ed Barkowsky. The second station was cooking. Patrols were handed two matches, some wood and pancake batter and were told to cook a pancake. Then the patrol leader had to eat it, said Fitzgerald. Judges for this event were Steve and Scott Key. Pioneering was the theme for Station No. 3. The boys had to tie three ropes together, using the proper knots, and be raised out of a bluff. The patrols then had to lash three poles together to form a tripod and then three more poles to make a flagpole. Judges were Bill Overhulser, Tony Whittenburg and Roger Overton. Station No. 4 was first aid. Judges were Carl Bureson, Kyle Bureson, Roger Swigert, and Terry Everts. At station five the patrols had to demonstrate their proficiency in the use of a compass, identify 20 common map symbols and orientate a map. Judges were B.J. Bartels and Melvin Boulding. While the patrols were participating in the events Don Whittenburg and Edward Stewart were judging the campsites on the basis of utility, safety, skill and planning. All judges rated the boys on spirit and teamwork. Boy Scout troops participating in the camporee were: 311, Hermligh, Charles Gray, scoutmaster; 107, Snyder, Ronnie Beavers, scoutmaster; 9, Colorado City, Walt Herin, scoutmaster; 27, Snyder, Joel Hamlett, scoutmaster; 5, Big Spring, Curt Strong, scoutmaster; 401, Big Spring, Bill Priebe, Scoutmaster; 8, Coahoma, Don Wilson, scoutmaster. Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Has colon pockets

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.
 DEAR DR. LAMB - Recently I had X-rays and they showed that I have nervous colitis and diverticulosis. I'm confused as to the difference between diverticulitis and diverticulosis. Could you help me in a way that average people can understand? My doctor said that diet has nothing to do with this.
 DEAR READER - Diverticulosis is a very common problem, particularly in individuals past 50 years of age. They're really little pockets of the colon. The colon has three layers. The inner layer is the lining of the glandular cells, the middle layer is a muscular tube and the outer layer is the fibrous tissue. When you have one small pocket it's called a diverticulum and it really represents a small rupture through the wall of the colon. The muscular wall separates and the inner lining herniates straight through the wall making a little pocket. It becomes an appendage and some people compare them to having a small appendix on the colon. When one of these becomes inflamed then it's called diverticulitis. The ending "itis" means inflammation. You see this in the use of the word appendicitis. I'm sending you The Health Letter number 5-6, Diverticulosis. Other readers who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Send your request to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019. Not everyone would agree with the idea that diet doesn't have anything to do with diverticulosis if indeed that's what your doctor actually said. In the past it was believed that people with diverticulosis should eat a bland diet which didn't include much bulk. In more recent years the pendulum has swung and most doctors feel that patients with diverticulosis will do better if they have an adequate amount of bulk in the diet. One of the better sources of this is bran which contains cereal fiber. DEAR DR. LAMB - My husband and I would like a few questions answered. If one drinks three pounds of milk, does that person gain three pounds of weight right away? If so, how long does this weight stay with one? Is there any difference between that and putting three pounds in one's pocket and then stepping on the scales?

DEAR READER - Pounds, fat and calories are not the same thing. Three pounds of milk is about a quart and a half ("A pint's a pound the world around.") If you weigh yourself before you drink it and then drink it and hop on the scales, you will weigh three pounds more than you did before. There is no difference between drinking the milk and hanging it in a milk carton around your neck. All weight is not fat tissue, however, that may be what's bothering you. Nearly 90 percent of the weight of milk is water. Consequently, if you drink three pounds of milk, 90 percent of its weight will be lost as you eliminate the excess water that your body doesn't need, either through perspiration or through the kidneys. Incidentally, you would also gain three pounds of weight immediately if you drank three pounds of water but you wouldn't gain a single ounce of fat from the act. In the long run, if your body doesn't need the water, it would be eliminated. (NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSN.)

Saturday Mail Delivery Must Go, Says Chief

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Postal Service, choosing to hit customers at the mailbox instead of the pocketbook, now is considering elimination of Saturday deliveries as the only practical way to meet proposed budget cuts.

Postmaster General William F. Bolger told the agency's governing board Tuesday there appears to be no way to maintain six-day mail service despite President Carter's recommendation for a much milder budget cut than what Congress is considering, unless postage rates are increased sooner than anticipated.

Bolger said he has ordered task forces to study the effects of reducing mail deliveries from six to five days a week and the impact of that on labor relations.

Just a week ago, Bolger told the House Budget Committee that cuts aimed at balancing the federal budget to help tame inflation would mean either elimination of Saturday mail or faster rate increases.

President Carter's proposal to trim just $250 million from the Post Office budget for fiscal 1981 instead of the $836 million recommended by the House Budget Committee was widely viewed in Congress as an effort to maintain Saturday deliveries.

The Budget Committee suggested ending them.

Nevertheless, Bolger told the Postal Service's governing board at a Baltimore meeting, in remarks released in Washington, that higher rates would be inflationary themselves and that cutting service appears to be the only feasible way to make up for the loss of federal money.

"And the only service cut that could possibly achieve savings at the level being discussed is elimination of a sixth day of delivery," he said. "As undesirable as this may be, the Postal Service may have no other choice."

Bolger did not specifically mention Saturday deliveries, but that has been the day considered more likely to be cut if the Post Office goes to five-day delivery.

Ending Saturday mail deliveries probably would affect Americans more directly than any other budget cut proposal. Representatives of rural areas have opposed it because weekly newspapers frequently are delivered then.

Bolger said last week that eliminating Saturday mail, but continuing six-day window service, would save about $588 million in the first year and more than $1 billion a year by 1987. It also would cost about 15,000 to 20,000 jobs, mainly among urban letter carriers, he said.

Regardless of the budget cut, the Postal Service already plans to raise rates next year to cover higher operating costs, and Bolger said additional increases to make up for reduced federal subsidies would defeat the purpose of the Carter administration's budget-balancing program.

Prophet's Credibility Vanishes

IRVING (AP)—Millions of Christians remain on earth today, but the credibility of self-proclaimed prophet Willie Day Smith may have vanished.

According to Smith's Biblical calculations, he and millions of other believers were to have instantaneously and inexplicably disappeared from the earth Tuesday afternoon.

The occasion was the "rapture," the day when the Christian faithful are summoned to heaven to be with Jesus Christ.

The only known disappearance Tuesday was Smith, the Southern Baptist who broke with his background to become a non-denominationalist proclaimer of the end.

Smith, 47, locked himself inside his home in this Dallas suburb most of the day. When he finally emerged Tuesday evening, he shouted to one local reporter, "Stay off this property or I'll call the police. Stay off my telephone. Get out of this area."

A Texas Tech graduate with a chemical engineering degree, Smith based his calculations on a combination of intense scripture study and what he called "Hebrew numerics."

He said he realized he was putting his credibility on the line with his pinpoint calculations, but he would not flinch from his belief.

"I have nothing to lose but my reputation," Smith said shortly before his target date.

When Don Larsen of the New York Yankees pitched his perfect game against the Brooklyn Dodgers in the 1956 World Series, he delivered 97 pitches.

Costly School Blaze Probed

IDABEL, Okla. (AP)—Investigators probed smoking rubble today in an effort to find out what caused a Tuesday fire that did $1 million damage to this city's only junior high school.

The Gray Junior High blaze is the latest in a string of unexplained fires that have scorched the racially troubled town.

"We've had our share of them — and then some," said Idabel Mayor Rex Helms.

Racial violence sparked by the slaying of a black youth behind a whites-only club left two more persons dead, four wounded and thousands of dollars in property damage here Jan. 20.

Since that time, several suspicious blazes have destroyed two school buildings and several businesses.

John Clary, an Oklahoma Ku Klux Klan leader, said the Tuesday fire was "most definitely" related to the racial turmoil.

Clary, 20, of Moore said a klanman probably will be in Idabel Saturday either to demonstrate or distribute literature.

"He wouldn't be welcome as far as the city's concerned," Helms said. Helms said local investigators have been looking into the "unusual amount" of unexplained fires since January, but he said there isn't any evidence the blazes were linked to racial unrest.

The pre-dawn blaze Tuesday destroyed a section of Gray Junior High despite the efforts of local firemen and firefighters from Broken Bow, Hugo and Vailhart.

Witnesses said the wind-whipped flames were swirling through the second story of the block-long, two-story brick building when the first trucks arrived.

Fire Marshal Mike Green said the fire apparently started in an auditorium.

The firemen managed to save a newer classroom building, the school gymnasium and cafeteria after the fire was reported at 4:30 a.m.

Schools were closed this week for spring break. School officials said classes will resume Monday in the sections of the junior high building that escaped damage.

Grades nine through 12 have been housed in a new building at another location since 1978.

A vacant school building on the other side of Idabel was heavily damaged by fire Feb. 6.

Parachute Rigger Charged In Death

FORT BRAGG, N.C. (AP)—The Army says it is checking thousands of parachutes after a parachute rigger was charged with murder in the death of an officer who was killed when his chute failed to open.

The rigger, 20-year-old Pfc. Alvin Williams was charged Tuesday. He was being held in the Cumberland County Jail.

Williams is accused of sabotaging the parachute used by Capt. Lawrence D. Hill, killed last Wednesday when his main parachute failed to open during a routine proficiency jump at Fort Bragg.

Maj. Tom Woods, public affairs officer at Fort Bragg, said the 82nd Airborne Division is rechecking several thousand parachutes to see if the alleged sabotage is more widespread.

Army officials say parachutes used in the division since the death have been checked prior to use and commanders have been told to advise their troops of the checks to ease fears.

Parachute riggers in Williams' unit are responsible for packing all chutes used by the division.

Woods, who said others were being questioned about the case, confirmed reports that the "static line" in Hill's main parachute had been out and that the Criminal Investigative Division suspected the cutting was a deliberate act.

"Focus of the initial investigation is on a severed static line which, if intact, would have automatically deployed Capt. Hill's parachute after he exited the aircraft," Woods said, adding that Hill's reserve parachute partially deployed after the main failed.

Army officials will not comment on whether the defective parachute was meant specifically for Hill, but The Fayetteville Observer quoted sources familiar with the incident as saying it is more likely Hill picked up the bad parachute as a coincidence.

One source told the newspaper the portion of the static line that had been cut was so far underneath the flaps of the main chute it would have been difficult for anyone to have seen the problem with a routine check.

Army officials say the riggers have no way of knowing who will wear the parachutes they have packed, which are transported in bulk loads to a storage facility at Pope Air Force Base and issued randomly to the troops prior to jumps.

Woods said there were no reports of other parachutes having been found with problems similar to Hill's.

Freeport Harbor Fund Issue In 22nd District

WASHINGTON (AP)—A Freeport, Tex., harbor improvement project is emerging as a key issue in the seesaw battle to represent the state's 22nd Congressional District.

A local delegation seeking funds for the project testified Tuesday before House and Senate appropriations subcommittees, without the presence of Rep. Ron Paul.

The conservative Republican from Lake Jackson said he was not asked to accompany his constituents. The group included the district's former congressman and Paul's potential fourth-time Democratic opponent, Bob Gammage.

"I supported the funding before and I will be supporting it again," Paul said in an interview.

He accused the local interests of "playing politics" with their bid for the project's inclusion in the fiscal year 1981 appropriations bill.

"I think they are more or less guaranteeing that the funds won't be in there by playing politics," Paul added.

His absence was noticed at the House hearing by Rep. John Myers, R-Ind., who repeatedly asked the delegation, why its congressman was not there.

Al Wise, chairman of the Brazos River Harbor Navigation District, replied that Paul had the opportunity to attend but did not take it.

"I don't know why he didn't appear," Wise said later. "He knew we were here."

At issue is the congressman's ability to rope a water projects appropriation, an area traditionally accused of pork barreling and mutual back scratching.

The funds for Freeport harbor were included in the Senate 1980 version of the appropriations bill but not in the House bill. The conference committee then did not include them in the final product.

Congressional sources say privately that Paul's frequent calls against government spending prompted the exclusion.

"The fact of the matter is he don't get along with his colleagues," one said.

At one point Paul distributed photographs of his Chevette compact car and House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill's limousine to compare gas mileage.

Paul said he has two theories about why the funds were excluded last year.

One theory suggests that Rep. Jack Brooks, D-Texas, worked against the Freeport project because of the potential competition it posed with Galveston and Beaumont ports in his district.

The other is that House Majority Leader Jim Wright of Fort Worth lobbied specifically against the project, possibly to make Paul look ineffective in the potential replay of his races against Gammage.

"I truthfully don't know which one is true," Paul said.

Brooks, of Beaumont, declined to comment other than to say, "It's not in my district."

A spokesman for Wright, who asked not to be identified by name, replied that Wright is not on the committee that makes appropriations decisions.

Paul, a doctor, first defeated Gammage in a 1976 special election. Gammage won in that year's general election and Paul reversed the outcome in 1978. All three races were won by tight margins.

This year, Paul is running unopposed in the May Republican primary.

Gammage, a Houston attorney, is one of three candidates in the district's Democratic primary.

His opponents are attorney Mike Andrews and college professor Joe Pentony, both of Houston.

Gammage said local harbor and business interests asked him to come to Tuesday's hearings — "in the absence of an advocate in the House, which is unfortunate."

In an interview, the former congressman said: "It totally lacks an advocate in the House."

Although the project was authorized in 1970, Gammage said preparatory work was not complete until December 1978 so obtaining funds for it was not possible during his term.

The $5 million in federal funds would be used for a project designed to dredge the 36-foot harbor to a depth of 50 feet.

Supporters claim that the apparent failure of the proposed offshore deepwater port near Freeport has raised significantly the harbor project's cost-benefit ratio.

Begin Strike Immediately...

Players Raid Owner's Pockets

DALLAS (AP) Taking dead aim at management's wallet, the Major League Players Association has called not one, but two strikes against baseball. And the surprising part is that neither of them is coming on Opening Day, which had seemed to be the logical target. Instead of endangering the start of the regular season, the players chose a two-pronged attack that they hope will do the greatest possible economic damage to the owners. The owners, however, struck back at the players' pocketbooks, saying they would leave training camps open but refusing to pay meal money, allowances and hotel costs. The players said Tuesday they would cancel the final 92 games of the spring training exhibition schedule and then they promised that unless a new Basic Agreement is negotiated by midnight on May 22, they will not play games starting the following day. The canceled exhibitions include lucrative intrastate series in California between the Angels and the Los Angeles Dodgers, and in Texas between the Rangers and Houston Astros. And, for their second strike date, the players chose the weekend before Memorial Day, traditionally one of baseball's largest revenue periods.

"We're trying to hurt them in the pocketbook as deeply as we can," said Mike Marshall, who doubles as player-rep for the Minnesota Twins and the American League. "We refuse to allow them to generate any more money before Opening Day."

The players were prepared to stay in training camps and continue working out, even playing intrasquad games to stay in shape if management wants that. But they will not play exhibition games where admissions would be charged.

Pressey Becomes 12th WTC All-American!

HUTCHINSON, Kan. — Paul Pressey, 6-5 sophomore guard-forward from Western Texas College, has been named to the 1980 NJCAA All-American Basketball Team. Pressey becomes the 12th Western Texas College athlete since the 1971-72 to receive the honor of All-American. The Virginia-born standout has played only one year of high school varsity basketball before coming to Western Texas College two years ago. In addition to WTC's Westerners, he is an NJCAA National Champion this year, averaging 14.3 points and 8.5 rebounds a game. His individual statistics were among the best in assists, blocked shots, steals and field goal percentage (.664) from the Western Junior College Athletic Conference.

Pressey, who may follow Coach Nolan Richardson to Tulsa University after graduation, had already been named All-Conference and All-Region. He was selected Most Valuable Player in both the Region 5 Tournament and the NJCAA National Tournament. He is joined on the All-American Team by Jamie Pena, 6-7 of Lon Morris College; Alford Turner, 6-2 of Polk CC, Fla.; Marvin McCrary, 6-4, of Three Rivers, Mo.; Craig Tucker, 6-0 of Coffeyville, Kan.; Eddie Louie, 6-5; of Connors State, Okla.; Anthony Odrick, 6-5, of Gloucester County, N.J.; and Craig Lane, 6-6 of Lawson State, Ala. The second team includes Amarillo College's Victor Mitchell, a 6-10 athlete who led the Western Junior College Athletic Conference in field goal percentage, and averaged 25.3 points and 13.6 boards a game. Western Texas has had 11 other All-Americans in its nine-year athletic history, including 1978-79 selection, Nodia Vaughn, named to the women's team.

Celtics Wrangle First Draft Choice June 10

NEW YORK (AP)—Talk about the luck of the Irish. The Boston Celtics don't wear shamrocks on their sleeves for nothing. The Celtics, the team with the best record in the National Basketball Association this season, have the first selection in the league's draft June 10 because of a series of exceptionally lucky — and crafty — occurrences. With the No. 1 pick, won in a coin flip with the Utah Jazz Tuesday, the Celtics are in a position to take any senior or hard-ship entry they want. The team with the best record normally picks last, when All-American centers like Purdue's Joe Barry Carroll are rarely around. But the Celtics have Detroit's first-round picks because Red Auerbach, Boston's shrewd president and general manager, pulled a fast one on the Pistons: Ex-Piston M.L. Carr signed as a free agent with Boston. As compensation, Auerbach unloaded high-scorer Bob McAdoo, a gifted player but a round peg in Boston's square scheme of things. Red additionally demanded Detroit's two first-round draft choices, its own and the one it received from Washington. Red gets what he wants. "Everyone in the league thought Red pulled a real steal," said an NBA source.

Tigers Win 3A Opener, Hold Off Lamesa Try

Snyder's Tigers built up an early lead here yesterday, then held off a seventh-inning Lamesa rally to win the season's first District 3-AAA nine-man game, 7-4. The Tigers, 3-10 for the season, travel to Brownfield for their next effort, 4:30 p.m. Friday. Bryan Vincent slapped a first-inning double and scored on an error to get Snyder going. Another Lamesa miscue in the second inning allowed Kyle Short and Ricky Gambol to steam home, and the hosts took a 3-0 lead. Lamesa retaliated with a lone run in the top of the fifth inning, but Snyder came back with three of his own. The Tigers built their lead to 6-1 when Bobby Degrate walked, Toby Neves singled and Sam Willis smashed a run-scoring double. Designated hitter Shawn Ragland then added another single, driving two more runs across the plate. An insurance run was tacked on the bottom of the sixth as Paul Gafford scored after he drew a walk, and Degrate and Neves knocked back-to-back singles. Winning pitcher William Robinson, 2-3, was able to keep the Golden Tornadoes from accumulating any strength throughout the first six innings. He allowed five singles, but nothing the visitors could put together to form a challenge. Lamesa began to find a weakness in the final stanza, however. Two singles and an error loaded the bases, and Coach Albert Lewis replaced Robinson with Tony Degrate. The big hurler walked his first batter, tipping the score to 7-3, but struck out the next two to pitch the scales in Snyder's favor again. Another walk brought home yet another Tor player, and with the winning run at the plate, Snyder wasn't out of trouble yet. But Degrate mustered up a rocket-like fast ball and pulled himself out of the jam by fanning the final batter and saving the win. Snyder collected 11 hits for the afternoon, including those doubles by Vincent and Willis. The Robinson-Degrate combination allowed seven Lamesa hits and accounted for eight strike outs. Arrendondo was the losing pitcher, relieved by Lazoda. Dwyer-Vincent, Willis Records—Snyder, 5-10, 1-0; Lamesa 4-10, 0-1.

Texas Pros Vie In Playoff Action

HOUSTON (AP)—With roller coaster regular seasons behind them, the Houston Rockets and San Antonio Spurs start over tonight in the first game of their best of three National Basketball Association mini-series in The Summit. Houston Coach Del Harris, completing his first season as head coach, watched the Rockets career through a frustrating season that was filled with injuries to key personnel from start to finish. The Spurs, the defending NBA Eastern Conference Central Division champions, likewise, sputtered under two coaches. At one point, the Spurs lost eight straight games and then put together seven victories in nine games to clinch the playoffs. Now, both teams are ready for the new season.

Bowlers Pick New Officers

The Snyder Men's Bowling Association elected a vice-president and two directors at its annual dinner-business meeting held March 31. Jimmy Watkins was elected vice-president. Directors elected were Monte West, place 3; Will Johnson, place 4; and Keith Hunter, place 6. Other directors are Wayne Monroy, Strick Posey and J.C. Harrison. Ewell Mackey serves as president, while Barney Tate is secretary-treasurer. The Association voted to have a scratch tournament this month. Singles and doubles events will be held on the 22nd. Team events will take place on the 27th.

Westerner Six Chosen For All-Stars Contest

AMARILLO—Six members of the NJCAA National Championship Western Texas College Westerners have been selected to participate in the first annual Western Athletic Junior College Conference All-Star Game. Phil Spradling, Greg Stewart, Paul Pressey, Ronald Portee, Bill Patterson and David Brown will compete in the All-Star Game scheduled at Amarillo College, 7:30 p.m. April 5. Joining them will be Carlos Judkins and Shannon Lilly of New Mexico Military Institute and Jackie Vaughn and Walter Snyder of South Plains College. Coach for the squad will be Howard County College's Harold Wilder. The opponent will be another 10-man squad, under the directorship of Midland's Jerry Stone. Stone's charges include Robert Tate and Tim Shelby, Midland College; Victor Mitchell and Kevin Parker, Amarillo; Mike Wallace, Howard; Lindsey Lewis, Clarendon; John Savoy, James Ivy and Kelly, Kitchens, Odessa College; and either Chucky McGill, Midland, or Tom Perry, Amarillo.

College players are already scheduled for all-star games. Brown, a 6-7 sophomore, will represent the area in the NJCAA All-Star Game in Hutchinson, Kan., 7:30 April 12. Pressey, a 6-5 sophomore, and Stewart, a 6-9 sophomore, will represent Region 14 in the annual Texas Basketball Coaches Association All-Star Game, 8 p.m. April 12 in Waco. Another WTC player — Duster star Katie Fisher — will compete in the women's TABC All-Star Game at 8 p.m. April 11 in Waco.

No Injuries In Ship Collision

GALVESTON (AP)—An empty oil tanker and a freighter collided in fog early today, setting off fires that forced 35 tanker crewmen to abandon ship. The Coast Guard said one crewman required treatment for smoke inhalation but no injuries were reported. The collision occurred less than two miles from the jetties that protect the Gulf of Mexico entrance to the Galveston-Houston Ship Channel.

A fire aboard the freighter Mason Lykes was extinguished quickly by its crewmen but the fire aboard the Amoco Cremona continued to burn four hours later.

The tanker was not carrying oil, said Jeff Hughes, a Coast Guard spokesman. "It was in ballast and there is no danger of pollution at this time. We have a tug with a tie on the tanker. It is not adrift."

Hughes said 31 tanker crewmen were brought to the Galveston Coast Guard Station and then transferred to a hospital for medical checks.

"This is all a precautionary measure," he said. "One man required treatment for inhalation after collapsing after one of our ships."

He said the tanker captain and other officers remained at the scene to assist in extinguishing the fire.

In Houston, an Amoco Oil spokesman said the tanker was outboard after delivering a cargo of crude oil to the huge Amoco refinery at Texas City. He did not have specific figures readily available but said the foreign-flagged ship was one of the largest in Amoco's tanker fleet.

Petty Officer Kenneth Harry said commercial vessels were in the immediate area at the time of the pre-dawn collision and joined Coast Guard vessels from Galveston and Freeport in rescuing the tanker crewmen from lifeboats. He said poor visibility prevented the use of helicopters.

Ground Tilt Indicates Lava May Be On Way

COUGAR, Wash. (AP)—The ground around Mount St. Helens has "tilted" upward, and scientists said if the swelling increases the awakening volcano might spew lava.

Meanwhile, volcanic ash fell in Vancouver, Wash., and Portland, Ore., areas, about 50 miles southwest of Mount St. Helens, after the smoldering mountain issued its most dramatic steam and ash plumes since it started erupting last week.

Loggers outside Cougar, 15 miles southwest of the peak, reported heavy ash falling in the area "like snow."

One good indication of whether a lava eruption is likely is a phenomenon known as tilting, which occurs when a mountain swells under the pressure of magma — molten rock moving beneath the surface.

The group near Spirit Lake just north of the mountain bulged upward about a half-inch Tuesday.

The tilting on St. Helens so far has been "insignificant," said Don Mullineaux, the U.S. Geological Survey, but if it intensifies, it is a "good sign" that a lava eruption might be on the way.

An outcropping of rock at the summit appeared to sink at least 200 feet Tuesday as the rock wall separating two craters collapsed, forming one jagged, 1,500-foot wide crater. Mullineaux said it was another indication of "a lot of activity" beneath the mountain.

Mullineaux, who co-authored a 1978 report about hazards of a Mount St. Helens eruption, repeated his assessment that a full-scale "pyroclastic" explosion — one which would hurl rock and lava from the mountain — was the least likely possibility.

"A series of small eruptions would be more likely than a large, cataclysmic event," he said.

Seventy Injured In Head-On Train Wreck

By WILLIAM WELCH
Associated Press Writer
LAKEVIEW, N.C. (AP)—The Amtrak train Silver Star collided head-on with a freight train this morning, injuring about 70 of the 300 passengers aboard, authorities said. The engines of both trains and about 20 cars derailed. Only two of the injured were hospitalized, and there were no fatalities in the crash, officials said.

Moore County Administrator Larry Moubry said at mid-morning that some people were pinned in the wreck and rescue workers were trying to free them. Jim Bryant, an Amtrak spokesman in Washington, said a short while later that although some people had been unable to leave the wreck initially, no one was trapped by late morning.

The crash between the 18-car Silver Star and the Seaboard Coast Line freight train came as the Amtrak train was northbound from Florida to New York. The freight train was southbound. Officials said the Amtrak train was almost stopped when the collision occurred, and the freight train was moving slowly.

SCL officials said the Amtrak train should have been given a warning red signal of the approaching freight train, but either the signal failed or the Amtrak crew did not see it in time to stop.

"The Amtrak train went through a red signal. It should have stopped, but for some reason it didn't," said Debby Marciniak, an Amtrak spokeswoman in Washington.

A SCL spokesman said the freight train was preparing to enter a side track, moving very slowly, when the collision occurred. The crews of both trains jumped cleared before the crash, but were unable to warn passengers, officials said. "It's a major crash. We can't estimate the damage yet," said R.L. Wood, general diesel supervisor for SCL at Hamlet, adding it would take two days to clear the main line.

Carter Signs Tax

harm efforts to increase domestic production and end American dependence on imported oil. The president had been anxious to sign the legislation since it was passed last week. "You can leave the ribbons off this one in order to get it on down here," he told "Senate leaders last Thursday after the measure passed on a 66-31 vote.

"This is good news for the country and, I think, good news for the whole world," Carter told Senate Democratic Leader Robert C. Byrd of West Virginia and the bill's sponsor, Sen. Russel Long, D-La. In addressing a conference of the AFL-CIO Building and Construction Trade Department here Tuesday, Carter said the bill will be "one of the biggest construction projects in the history of the world."

The bill is a compromise version of the $294 billion tax Carter recommended last April after deciding to phase out federal price controls on U.S. crude oil in an effort to spur domestic oil production and reduce reliance on imports. Although often called a tax on "windfall profits," it actually would not apply directly to profits but rather to price increases above 1979 levels. Decontrol would allow U.S. prices to rise to world market levels and cost consumers and estimated $1 trillion in the 1980s. The tax, retroactive to March 1, will take $227.7 billion of that "windfall" and, after other federal and state taxes, will leave the oil industry $221 billion it would not have had under continued controls.

Sixty percent of the proceeds from what technically is a federal excise tax, or $137 billion, is earmarked for income tax reduction, although specific legislation would be needed before any tax cut could be enacted. Another 25 percent, or $57 billion, would help the poor meet rising energy costs after 1981, with $3.1 billion authorized for that purpose next year. The remaining 15 percent would be earmarked for energy and transportation development, originally the centerpiece project for Carter's major energy legislation.

Ann Patterson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R.E. A musician who won many honors in high school is college, Miss Patterson and one of the organizers of the band which has drawn widespread acclaim, and it was selected recently to appear on Carson's late night show on the NBC television network. The Johnny Carson show is seen in this area on Channel 9 in Abilene and Channel 11 in Lubbock.

Farm Loan Rate Out Grows Crop

WICHITA, Kan. (AP)—While David Wilson was trying to get his corn and soybeans to grow last year, interest rates were shooting up like weeds. Now Wilson, like thousands of American farmers, is heading for the bank to borrow money for his spring crop. He dreads the trip. The cost of money farmers need to borrow to operate has jumped 50 percent in the past year. And farmers are borrowing more — fuel and fertilizer costs have risen 30 percent to 50 percent while crop and cattle prices remain low. From now until fall, Wilson will borrow $13,000 a month for seed, fertilizer, fuel, machinery repairs and food for his table. Will he make any money? No way. "All we're hoping for now is to hold our losses down enough to borrow money for next year and hope for better prices then," Wilson says. "We'll have to get better prices just to get back where we started."

Routine expenditures were approved at a board meeting of the Scurry County Appraisal District last night. The board, which meets the first Tuesday of each month, approved bills and expenditures totalling $8,413. Of that, $7,800 was in salaries. The next largest sum was $395 that went toward the construction of an office credenza. Chief appraiser Ray Pevler attended the meeting, as did board members Ross Blanchard, Pete Hester, Bill Hairston, and Kenneth Wilson. Absent was John Reed. The brief meeting was held in the county courtroom in the Scurry County Courthouse.

Vandalism, Thefts Are Reported Here

Thefts, a criminal mischief complaint, an auto burglary, and a minor traffic accident have all been reported to city police.

Reporting one theft was Jack Greene. He told officers Joe Bob Martinez and Clay Scogin that 50 gallons of gasoline, valued at $50, were stolen from four company pickups at Jack's Welding.

Another theft was reported by Richard Christenson. He told Lt. Scogin a violin and an instrument case were stolen from him back in January. The loss was pegged at $150.

An auto burglary was reported this morning. In it, complainant Danny Courtney told officer Kerry Fritz a $200 citizen's band radio, a $140 eight-track tape player and radio, and speakers valued at $30 were taken from his 1967 Rambler. In addition to that, a bicycle worth $80 was reportedly stolen from the backyard.

Jimmy Watkins, 214 37th St., told Martinez this morning that a $50 side window to his car was broken out.

The city's only traffic accident occurred at 9:35 p.m. Tuesday in the 200 block of East Highway. Reports show that a 1976 Pontiac driven by Lisa Deaia was struck by a vehicle which left the scene. Minor damage was reported.

CBS Pulls Even With ABC In Prime-Time Ratings Race

NEW YORK (AP) — With the World Series and the Winter Olympics down and the Academy Award show to come, CBS has pulled even with ABC in the race for first place in the prime-time ratings.

Both networks have an average rating of 19.5 after CBS won the competition for the week ending March 30 with a rating of 20.3. Nielsen says that means of all the TV-equipped homes in the country, 30.3 percent saw at least part of each of the two top-rated shows.

CBS' rating for the week was 20.3, with ABC second at 18.5, and NBC

10 as in the past. CBS' most recent weekly triumph came with plenty of help from the premiere episode of "Flo," the spinoff from "Alice," which tied for first with another CBS series, "M-A-S-H."

The rating for "Flo" and "M-A-S-H," two of seven CBS series in the A.C. Nielsen Co.'s Top 10, was 30.3. Nielsen says that means of all the TV-equipped homes in the country, 30.3 percent saw at least part of each of the two top-rated shows.

CBS' rating for the week was 20.3, with ABC second at 18.5, and NBC third at 15.6. The networks say that means in an average prime-time minute during the week, 20.3 percent of the homes in the country with television were tuned to CBS.

ABC's highest-rated program for the week was "That's Incredible," in fourth place, while NBC's best, "CHiPs," was 10th.

NBC's broadcast of the NCAA basketball championship game between Louisville and UCLA was something of a ratings disappointment, finishing No. 23 for the week.

Movies in general did not fare particularly well during the week. "City in Fear" on ABC was 22nd, "The Ordeal of Dr. Mudd" on CBS was 39th, and the first installment in NBC's repeat of "Jesus of Nazareth" was 45th.

NBC, meanwhile, had four of the five lowest-rated shows, starting with "From Here to Eternity" in 62nd place and followed by No. 63 "United States," No. 64 "Pink Lady and Jeff," and No. 66 "White Paper: The Hispanics." An "ABC News Closeup," "Cambodia: The Shattered Land," was 65th.

Here are the week's Top 10 shows:

"Flo" and "M-A-S-H," both 30.3 representing 23.1 million homes, and "60 Minutes," 29.1 or 22.2 million, all CBS; "That's Incredible," 28.6 or 21.8 million, ABC; "Dukes of Hazzard," 26.4 or 20.1 million, and "Dallas," 25.8 or 19.7 million, both CBS; "Three's Company," 25.5 or 19.5 million, ABC; "Alice," 25.4 or 19.4 million, and "The Jeffersons," 24.2 or 18.5 million, both CBS, and "CHiPs," 24 or 18.3 million, NBC.

Dear Abby

She Won't Cut the Cord This Way

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I'm 16 and pregnant by a married man. (I'll call him Donny.) When we fell in love, Donny said he was separated from his wife but his divorce was coming through "any day," and then we'd be married, so I really wanted to have his baby.

I just found out that Donny is still living with his wife, and there is no divorce in the works. Abby, I never knew love could turn to hate so fast. I'm five months along and now it's too late for an abortion. I don't want to keep this baby now, and I never want to see Donny again.

Donny's wife called me and said she was sorry I was in such a mess. Then she asked if I would let her and Donny have my baby. She said they would pay all my expenses and I could go on with my life like nothing happened.

What do you think of the idea, Abby? No way will I keep this baby, and I don't want to be involved with Donny anymore. Please tell me what to do.

MESSED UP AT 16

DEAR MESSED: You say you don't want to keep the baby and you don't want to be involved with Donny anymore. A wise decision. Feeling as you do, contact a licensed adoption agency. If you give your child to Donny and his wife, you can expect to be involved with Donny forever.

DEAR ABBY: Four months ago a co-worker fixed me up with her brother (I'll call him Sam), who lost his wife about a year before. I'm a 56-year-old divorcee. Well, Sam and I hit it off beautifully. He's 62, very attractive and has no financial worries.

We have a wonderful time together. I especially appreciate Sam's patient, gentlemanly behavior. Almost every other man I've dated since my divorce has tried to rush me into bed after the first date. Sam never tried to go beyond a good-night kiss.

Sam's sister told me yesterday that Sam is really crazy about me and would ask me to marry him tomorrow, but surgery he had six years ago ended his sex life.

How can I let Sam know that I don't give a hoot about that?

CAPRICORN

DEAR CAP: Tell Sam's sister.

DEAR ABBY: A minister wrote to say how easy it was for him to get into the homes of total strangers and urged you to warn readers to be more careful. His letter prompts this response.

Ten years ago we invited the public to purchase paper products directly from our company, which is a wholesale distribution concern.

We accepted personal and company checks with no demand to verify identifications. Over a 10-year period, we processed over 150,000 checks of which only 14 were no good. (Our total loss was less than $300.)

We are convinced that 99.9 percent of the people are honest and law-abiding, and our experience proved us correct.

What a shame that the news media report only on this small percentage of unethical and dishonest people.

MINNEAPOLIS BUSINESSMAN

DEAR BUSINESSMAN: It's not "news" when people obey the law, love one another and live happily ever after. Crime, corruption, violence and misfortune ARE news.

I, like you, am inclined to expect the best from people, but when you leave your warehouse I'll bet you not only lock the door, you turn on the alarm.

Are there questions you can't ask your parents? Get Abby's new booklet: WHAT TEENAGERS OUGHT TO KNOW. Drugs, sex and alcohol are plainly discussed. Send $2 and a long, stamped (28 cents) self-addressed envelope to Abby, 132 Lasky Drive, Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212.
