

Prices Leap In March

WASHINGTON (AP)—Wholesale prices soared by 1.4 percent in March, an 18.2 percent compounded annual rate, while unemployment edged up to 6.2 percent, the government reported today. March's increase in wholesale, or producer, prices was only slightly less than the huge jumps recorded in January and February. Food prices at the wholesale level turned up in March following two months of decline while energy costs continued to soar at an annual rate of nearly 110 percent, said Janet Norwood, commissioner of the Labor Department's Bureau of Labor Statistics.

Wholesale prices are watched carefully by economists because they tend to preview similar increases at the consumer level in later months. Consumer prices rose at an 18 percent-plus annual rate through February, far beyond last year's 13.3 percent pace. The disturbing boosts in prices since January set in motion President Carter's budget-balancing efforts as well as new credit control steps by the Federal Reserve Board. The top two will be elected to the board. Donald Tate and Jack West are the only candidates for two places on the Hermleigh School Board. Also, there are no contested races for places on the Scurry County Junior College District Board. The candidates are Wacil McNair for Place 2, Howard Sterling for Place 3 and Dr. Robert Hargrove for Place 4.

Easter Services For Hostages

By The Associated Press Iranian militants announced today they will allow American clergymen to give Easter services for hostages at the U.S. Embassy in Tehran. The issue of the captives' transfer to government controls appeared bogged down.

A spokesman for the militants would not disclose the names of the clergymen, but the Rev. Darrell Rupiper, a Roman Catholic priest in Omaha, Neb., said he would perform the Tehran services this Sunday along with the Rev. Jack Bremer and the Rev. Nelson Thompson. Rupiper said all three are affiliated with the Committee for the American Iran Crisis Revolution, based in Lawrence, Kan., and would leave for Iran today. Rupiper said he traveled in Iran for two weeks in February.

Iranian state radio and television may record the Easter services, but no foreign reporters will be permitted to watch, the militant spokesman said. Government television filmed Christmas services given by three American clergymen, who said they saw 43 hostages inside the embassy, as well as three U.S. diplomats held at the Foreign Ministry since the Nov. 4 embassy takeover. Tehran Radio, meanwhile, reported that Carter apparently has turned down the Revolutionary Council's request to clarify his response to Iran's demands for transferring the American hostages to government control. "It seems that the U.S. president has rejected the Iranian Revolutionary Council's call to clarify his stand candidly," the broadcast said in reporting Washington's position on the issue. The Foreign Ministry said the Carter administration seems to be engaging in a war of nerves, and a spokesman for the militants who seized the 50 hostages in the U.S. Embassy in Tehran 163 days ago said, "We didn't expect the great satan of America to do anything but make empty threats." About 200 demonstrators gathered outside the embassy, meanwhile, declaring support for the militants and protesting what they said was U.S. pressure to release the hostages before the issue is decided by Iran's new Parliament. The Revolutionary Council delayed taking control of the hostages Thursday and demanded clarification from Washington of the U.S. response to Iran's conditions. In response, White House press secretary Jody Powell said, "The American position has been clearly stated. We hope the authorities in Iran will carefully consider that position and the full implications of the situation before making a final decision." Asked if this indicated President Carter might order new sanctions against Iran, Powell said it "generally was not productive to fix deadlines." But he conceded that his reference to the "clearly stated" U.S. position included past official pronouncements on possible retaliation. The strong implication was that Carter has gone as far as he is willing to in meeting President Abolhassan Bani Sadr's demand Tuesday that Carter promise to refrain from hostilities, propaganda or provocation against Iran until its new Parliament now being elected decides whether the hostages should be freed.

Transit Strike In Fourth Day

NEW YORK (AP)—Thousands of New Yorkers trudged to work in a heavy downpour early today — the fourth day of the city's bus and subway strike — as a mediator warned that no settlement is in sight. Early rush-hour reports put traffic at its lightest since the strike began early Tuesday. The 5.5 million people who usually use mass transit were blessed the first three days of the strike with warm weather. But a National Weather Service forecaster abandoned meteorological jargon to predict today as "lousy... the whole day."

At the same time, Mayor Edward Koch urged businesses in the nation's largest city to consider four-day work weeks. And some officials began to worry that a prolonged shutdown of bus and subway lines could hurt New York's fragile economy — especially in the garment center. "A strike settlement is not imminent," said Walter Gellhorn, head of the mediation panel that brought the striking union together with the Metropolitan Transportation Authority on Thursday. "I'd say the parties' positions have hardened by reason of this stoppage."

Traffic Commissioner Thomas Guthrie said the rains created "a tremendous visibility problem for motorists. Pedestrians are walking and you can't hardly see them. There are a few bicyclists out and they are almost unseen to the average motorists." "With this rain the problem is compounded. What normally is a half-hour trip and was taking two hours during the strike might take three hours

John Lawe, head of the Transport Worker's Union, said the MTA had "taken a hard-nose position at the moment." He said the authority was holding to its 12 percent wage offer and had repudiated a mediator's suggested 16 percent boost. Bus and subway workers, who earn an average $18,000 annually, are seeking a 25 percent raise over two years.

It seems that a farm woman called a doctor in Edenton from her home in Chowan County about her mule, Horace. Horace was sick and the lady was upset. "Doctor," she said, "Horace is sick and I wish you would come and take a look at him." "It's after 6 o'clock and I'm eating supper," the doctor protested. "Give him a dose of mineral oil and if he isn't all right in the morning, I'll come and take a look at him." The woman asked how she should give Horace the mineral oil and the doctor said to give it through a funnel. She said she was afraid the mule might bite her. "You're a farm woman and you know about these things," the doctor said, "Give it to him through the other end."

The woman went down to the barn. There was Horace, groaning in misery. She took the horn and nervously affixed it to the proper portion of the mule's anatomy. Horace was unperturbed. Still eyeing the mule, she reached behind her for the mineral oil.

Unfortunately, she picked up a bottle of turpentine by mistake and gave Horace a liberal dose. Horace's drooping head jerked upright. His eyes widened. He screamed like a panther, kicked down one side of the barn and took off down the road at a mad gallop. Every time he jumped, the horn would blow.

All the dogs in the neighborhood knew what that meant. The horn was blowing, so Uncle Bill was going fox hunting. Soon Horace had a pack of hounds in full cry behind him.

Those who witnessed the chase said it was an unforgettable sight. There was Horace, running at top speed with the hunting horn appended. Mellow notes were issuing from the instrument, the gold tassels were flying and the dogs were barking joyously.

Old man Hogan, who hadn't drawn a sober breath in 15 years, was sitting on his front porch as the spectacle swept past him. He gave up whiskey that day and later became active in the temperance movement.

It was good and dark by the time Horace and the dogs reached the Intracoastal Waterway. The bridge tender, who was running for sheriff of Chowan County and heavily favored to win, heard the horn and thought a boat was coming.

He hurriedly raised the bridge. Horace galloped right up the span, sailed off into the water and drowned. The pack of dogs went right in behind him; but they all swam to safety. The hunting horn went down with Horace and was never recovered.

Stories spread fast in that part of the country, and by the next morning, which was election day, everybody knew what had happened.

The bridge tender received exactly seven votes: one from himself and the other six from three close relatives.

Political analysts interpreted the election as follows: The people figured that any man who didn't know the difference between a boat coming up the waterway and a mule with a horn up his rear wasn't fit to hold public office in Chowan County.

The only difference between them and us is that we probably would have had the bridge tender appointed head of some state agency to get him out of the way and then elected the mule. —WACIL MCNAIR

Clayton Saying He's Optimistic

AUSTIN (AP)—House Speaker Bill Clayton said today he thinks the U.S. Justice Department feels "pressure" to obtain an indictment against him as a result of the FBI Brilab investigation but added he is "optimistic."

A federal grand jury in Houston has heard testimony, including Clayton's, in the Brilab bribery and labor "sting" investigation. "I'm optimistic myself and believe there is a chance of no indictment."

Clayton told reporters when asked about a Dallas Morning News report that he expects to be indicted. But, he continued, "There is a lot of pressure from the Justice Department" on the grand jury. "They (the Justice Department) have got a lot of money involved in it...I've got a feeling they will be making the decision (whether to indict). It's their baby, isn't it?" Clayton denied telling friends and associates that he expected to be indicted. "I don't think I've told any of my friends that. They may have surmised that," he said. During his grand jury appearance, federal prosecutors played for Clayton tapes made of conversations he had with informants who left him a large "campaign contribution" after asking his help in obtaining a state employees' group insurance contract. "I thought they (the tapes) pretty well told the story...I'm satisfied we can take the tapes to court and win," Clayton said. He again asserted he is innocent of wrongdoing and expected to be acquitted if he is indicted and tried in federal court. One of Clayton's lawyers said earlier Clayton had denied to him that he told anyone he expects to be indicted.

Ominous Tremors Shaking Volcano

VANCOUVER, Wash. (AP)—Ominous tremors again rattled Mount St. Helens, said Gov. Dixy Lee Ray declared a state of emergency around the rumbling, smoking volcano to clear a path in the event of a major eruption, which scientists say is likely.

"Harmonic tremors" twice shook the 9,766-foot peak in southwest Washington Thursday night. Scientists have said the tremors, which first occurred Wednesday, indicated movement of molten rock beneath the mountain that could erupt at any time.

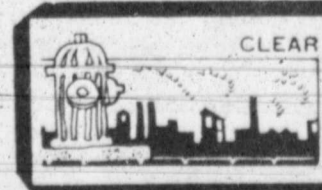

"We do know the magma molten material is moving," geophysicist Bob Christiansen of the U.S. Geological Survey said Thursday. "The harmonic tremor makes it seem likely we will go to a magmatic eruption."

"We've always said that was a likely possibility. It seems even more likely now, although not necessarily today or tomorrow. It could be a week or a period of weeks or more."

The governor said from the capital, Olympia, that "the possibility of a major eruption or mudflow is real" and urged sightseers to stay away from the mountain and surrounding areas to keep roads clear. The nearest residents were evacuated when a series of small quakes shook the mountain and it began to belch gas and ash last week. David Guier, a spokesman for the state Department of Emergency Services, said the emergency declaration served to alert other state agencies to help local officials, if necessary.

A scientific team from Dartmouth College sampling bases from the summit found a low concentration of sulfur dioxide, Mullineaux said. If the concentration rises, it could signal an imminent lava eruption he said.

'Mail-Back' Census Plan Gets Response

Bulging mail boxes at the Census Bureau's district offices indicate good response to the "mail-back" method of census-taking, Mitzi Jordan, local district manager has reported.

A relatively new technique in census-taking, this method will save taxpayers at least $180 million if all households that were asked to do so return properly completed questionnaires by mail. Census takers will have to go out looking for any questionnaires that are not returned within a reasonable time. This will add to the cost. So, those who have not mailed their questionnaires back are being urged to do so.

Also, it will save time and money if you make sure all questions that apply to your household and to the house have been answered, census officials said.

Friday update

DeBakey Optimist

HOUSTON (AP)—Although he says only the future will tell, noted Houston heart surgeon Dr. Michael DeBakey says it is possible the former Shah of Iran "may live a long time" despite the fact he suffers from cancer.

"I am always concerned with diseases of this kind," DeBakey said Thursday at a news conference, the first he has held since his seven member team removed the Shah's cancerous spleen last Friday.

"But his (the Shah's) past history has been good. His blood picture is perfectly normal now, and there is no danger from chemotherapy."

The surgeon said the Shah had been suffering from lymphatic cancer for the past seven years but that the disease had "responded very well to chemotherapy since then."

Held For Extortion

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A man acquitted 11 months ago on charges of poisoning food in an extortion plot is in custody today, accused of putting lethal doses of cyanide in pickles and teriyaki sauce on supermarket shelves to obtain diamonds and cash.

Richard Quincy Williams, 46, was placed in the Riverside County Jail overnight, the FBI said, after agents seized him at his trailer home Thursday and charged him with interference with commerce by threats or violence.

Drugstore Seige Ends

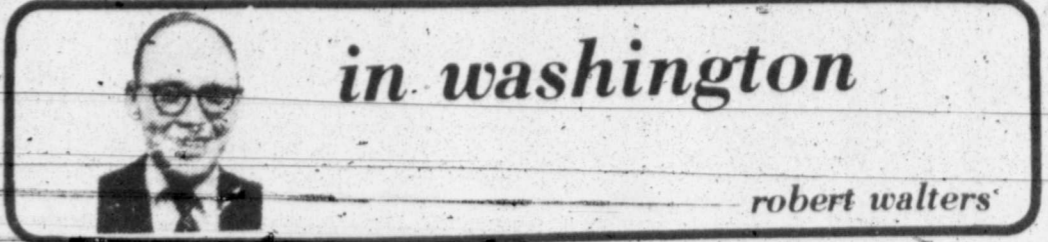

LAYTON, Utah. (AP)—Two gunmen who held five hostages overnight in a drugstore after they were cornered by police walked out the front door today, lay down on the ground and were taken into custody.

No shots were fired as the men, caught in an apparent attempt to steal drugs Thursday night, allowed the hostages to leave the store and were handcuffed by police after the 13-hour seige.

WASHINGTON (NEA)—
After more than 4½ months of self-imposed sequestration, President Carter reluctantly has returned to the political circuit.

But if the president's long-delayed 1980 debut as a campaigner was a harbinger of future performances, he would be well advised to return to the splendid isolation of the White House.

With the exception of weekend trips to Camp
Davis in Maryland's Ca-cactin Mountains, Carter has refused to leave the District of Columbia since the diplomats at the United States embassy in Tehran were taken hostage in early November.

The president has made occasional forays to various Washington hotel ballrooms to address meetings of assorted civil, labor, agricultural and business organizations, but all of those events were technically non-political.

Carter's aides claimed he couldn't afford to fritter away his time on mere political matters while he was coping with the hostages in Iran, Soviet troops in Afghanistan and various other global crises.

But only one day after losing to Sen. Edward M.
Kennedy, D-Mass., in the Democratic presidential primaries held in New York and Connecticut,
Carter found time to address the annual Democratic Congressional Dinner.

His staff insisted that it really wasn't a political appearance, but that explanation lacks credibility when the president stands before a room filled with fellow Democrats to proclaim: "I'm determined that we will win in November... We Democrats will deserve to win."

Carter surely isn't going to win, however, on the basis of the tedious, uninspired speech he offered to those who paid $1,000 per person to attend the dinner at a downtown Washington hotel.

A feeble effort to joke about his current political predicament included, for example, a reference to the site of this summer's Democratic National Convention in New York, City: "We're thinking about changing the name of Madison Square Garden
to Madison Square Rose Garden."

The body of Carter's speech was a torpid re-hash of the same address he had been giving for years, replete with his 1976 campaign promise of "competence and compassion in government"
and a string of clichés about "the challenge of inflation," the energy crisis and similar "responsibilities on my shoulders (that) are sometimes very heavy."

The applause ranged from respectful to tepid, and the post-speech assessment of the political professionals present were universally negative.

One of the most thoughtful comments came from Joyce Kravitz, a former employee of the Democratic National Committee and a longtime party activist. "1980," she said wistfully, "would have been Hubert Humphrey's year."

For almost two decades beginning in 1960, Humphrey repeatedly sought the presidency, the one prize denied to him during a long and successful political career. He died in early 1978 without ever attaining the position he cherished.

If he were still alive, he probably already would have been drafted by the Democrats who find themselves increasingly frustrated by the political necessity of making a
"least worst" choice between Carter and Kennedy.

Virtually every survey of voter attitudes in New York and Connecticut, for example, shows that Kennedy won the primaries in those states not on the basis of any positive attraction but because he was viewed as less unappealing than a president who once again is rapidly losing the trust and confidence of the electorate.

The crucial question the Democrats must consider is not whether Kennedy can capture the required number of convention votes to deny renomaination to Carter but rather whether either man can attain even a semblance of respect within his own party.

competition counts

With all the cries of woe to be heard coming from Detroit these days, it is perhaps surprising to learn that some European automakers are saying their biggest threat may come from the U.S.

According to press reports, Europe can protect its native manufacturers from Japanese competition through import controls, but American car makers own large operations right in Europe. They do not have to import their products.

The cause of the Europeans' fears is government demand for the American manufacturers to make more fuel-efficient cars. Since the car makers have to go to the expense of retooling anyway, they may make a major effort at the same time to create exciting new technology which would produce the desired cars at less cost than under the old methods. They may not have been willing to do that in the past, but the changing situation has made it economically feasible.
When Detroit could build any kind of car it thought would sell, there was less pressure to develop new techniques. Now that pressure exists, Ford and General Motors, at least, can afford the huge capital investment needed for such breakthroughs, many European competitors cannot.

American car makers can apply a great amount of new technology to their European divisions because European and American cars are coming to resemble each other more as American manufacturers stress economy and nimbleness.

This is a hopeful sign for U.S. industry. It points out the real solution to our sagging balance-of-payments problem.

The U.S. is not going to overcome foreign competition by shortsighted protectionism. It needs to make better products at a competitive cost. That is how the economy was built and that is how it can be restored.

American ingenuity, aggressiveness and the willingness to take a risk on something new made the U.S. great. Resting on laurels while seeking protection from innovative competition is not the answer.

a permanent home

One of the most celebrated war refugees of modern times appears at last to have found a permanent home.

Pablo Picasso's "Guernica" is returning to the country that inspired it, Spain, after more than 40 years of asylum in New York's Museum of Modern Art. In doing so, it becomes something of a peace treaty after long having been a symbol of opposition to repression.

The work vividly depicts the bombing of the town of Guernica during the Spanish Civil War. Picasso, who died in 1973, decreed that it should be given to his native country once democracy was fully restored.

All concerned parties - notably Picasso's heirs and the Museum - agree that Spain, which has made a remarkable transition in the less than five years since Francisco Franco succeeded the authoritarian Francisco Franco, has fulfilled the condition. Later this year, the monumental work will at last come to rest in Madrid's Prado Museum.

May it rest in peace.

at wit's end

In 1949, I married my husband for better or for ies.

He said they put him to too small for him to stretch out.

For over 30 years, I never understood a single joke at the Academy Awards.

That is why I couldn't wait until we got subscription television beamed into our home so I could watch all the films everyone talked about.

In watching them I realized that movies had changed considerably

since Bambi almost died in the fire.

Profanity has become a second language. Not only that, it has not added a single creative new cuss word since I was a kid.
Have you any idea how boring a vocabulary consisting of five four-letter words, one three-letter word, one five-letter word, one seven-letter word, and one 11-letter word can be?

We're talking about nine words that often have to carry a two-hour movie.
After the shock of hearing the same words over and over wore off, I began to listen to them in the context in which they were used and made another discovery. The profanity was not grammatically correct. Sometimes, the subject never went with the verb and more often, the noun was used as an adjective and most of the sentences were incomplete. There is nothing more unsettling than an incomplete profane sentence that is just strung together. The language definitely needs work if profanity is to continue on television.

You just cannot have John Travolta being edited for commercial television in "Saturday Night Fever" with his lips forming an S and hearing him say, "For corn's sake."

American's second language either needs help or should be discontinued altogether. It is becoming tawdry and predictable.
If those who use the language are serious about keeping it alive, then why not appoint a Creative Cussing Committee that would introduce new words from time to time?

We've fallen behind the entire world in profanity.
When was the last time you saw the words, "Deleted Expletive"? How often are "bleeps" being used on regular TV?
When did you last see a new word on the restroom wall in lipstick? Dirty words are being used up at an astronomical rate.

If someone doesn't do something soon, one of these mornings you'll hit your finger with a hammer and do you know what you'll say? Nothing.
You won't have a word for it.

"Help" that tells you what you're doing wrong.
The machine, originally developed for New York's Citicorp to improve that bank's back office procedures, is now being marketed nationwide by Axxa, which is based in the Los Angeles suburb of Woodland Hills.

Willoughby says two of the nation's largest insurance companies, two giant oil companies and the three biggest domestic aircraft manufacturers have already signed up.

American businesses will spend more than $800 billion this year on office operations, according to the management consultants firm of Booz, Allen, and Hamilton Inc., and twice that in 1986.
These huge costs make the office a prime target of efforts to improve productivity, says Willoughby, adding that managers and secretaries alike will have to adapt to machines like Axxa's.

"The only way for office productivity to make really significant gains is for everybody in the system to be part of the system," he said. "That's why our equipment is directed toward the manager as well as his secretarial and clerical support."

Willoughby, a 38-year-old Tennessee native who worked for Citicorp before becoming president of Axxa, sees the System 90 as the logical extension of earlier office machines.

"They started out with word processors," he said in an interview.

"Then someone else developed electronic mail.
Someone else developed a sexy calculator and someone else produced a desktop computer. What we did was put it all together."

The office of the future doesn't come cheap, with an average System 90 installation going for $42,- 000. But Willoughby sees a great future for Axxa's products and he's happy about something else -
his office has no wastebasket.

E.L. Hill won't be needing the services of the Easter Bunny this year.
He has chickens that lay multi-colored eggs.

They come in various shades of green, blue, brown and your choice of plain or speckled.

Hill, who keeps about a dozen chickens at his 2810 Ave. L address, says three of his hens tend to lay the colored eggs. He doesn't know why. And he says he doesn't care as long as they are good eating and he says they are good eating.

Hill grew up around chickens but doesn't recall ever seeing any that laid colored eggs. He figures it, has something to do with the way they are breeding them nowadays.

"The chickens laying these eggs are called blue chickens," he said.

Hill got back into the chicken business about a year ago after a long lapse.

"O.D. Brewer gave me about a half dozen and a preacher friend of mine in Colorado City gave me the rest," he said.

While he was in the office there was a technical question I meant to ask him concerning fowl.
Gregg Stansell out at Flu-vanna is in the egg business and his uncle Steve said that it was so windy one day last week that he saw one of the chickens lay the same egg three times.

Twice I would have believed.

Meanwhile, seven miles east of Ira some prank-sters have been at work the folk at Ira they are probably just chuckling about it.

Not me. If I was mayor

recruit some young militants and march to the county seat. There, I would take the White Buf-

Dear Abby

The Price of a Drink Doesn't Include Bed

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I struck up a conversation with a very good-looking guy at a bar and he bought me a drink (two actually). Well, before I was halfway finished with the second one, he was giving me this "your-place-or-mine" routine.

Abby, what gives a man the idea that all he has to do is buy a drink for a girl and he can make it with her? I realize that women have come a long way. A few years ago a woman without an escort wasn't even allowed to sit at a bar. Fortunately, times have changed, but the attitude of most men hasn't. They still don't consider women their equals. Men continue to do the pecking and choosing, and treat women like they were purchased on earth to satisfy men.

DEAR FED UP: One swallow doesn't make a summer, nor need one drink make a strange bed-fellow. But if you really want to promote equality between the sexes, the next time you strike up a conversation with a guy at the bar, you buy the drinks, and you won't owe him anything.

DEAR ABBY: Is it ever possible to forgive and forget?

DEAR JACKIE: Yes. But don't dwell on what you're "forgiving" — or you'll never forget.

DEAR ABBY: I recently attended a house party in a very crowded apartment. I had a cigarette in my hand when a friend walked by and brushed her sleeve up against my cigarette and burned a hole in her dress. She was very upset, and so was I. I told her to get the hole mended and I would be glad to pay for it.

She called me a week later to say that she had taken the dress back to the store where she purchased it and they said the hole could not be repaired. Then she said she called her insurance company and was advised that my insurance company would pay for the dress.

I then called my insurance company and was advised that since I had a $100 deductible policy, they could not pay for the dress. When I told my friend this, she said I had a lousy insurance company. By the way, this friend smokes at parties, too.

Abby, just what is my responsibility in this situation? I want to be fair.

DEAR SMOKER: Tell your friend to look in the Yellow Pages for a weaver who is expert at repairing cigarette burns. (Or you look, and tell her where to go.)

CONFIDENTIAL TO STUNNED BUT SILENT IN ROCHESTER: Tell your hostess. If a very good friend of yours had had money taken from her purse while a guest in your home, wouldn't you want to be told about it?

Do you feel left out? There are secrets in developing the art of making yourself popular. You're never too young or too old to learn. Get Abby's booklet: "How To Be Popular; You're Never Too Young or Too Old." Send $1 with a long, self-addressed, stamped (28 cent) envelope to Abby, 132 Lasky Drive, Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212.

Torturing Self Is Unnecessary

By Gaynor Maddox

One sound nutrition principle is that you need not torture yourself in adjusting to a healthier diet.

A simple but workable rule is "no seconds." One time around the dinner table or the fast-food counter is adequate.

Keeping our calorie intake balanced is another important principle.

One example I hunched awhile back with Dr. Frederick J. Stare, chairman of the Harvard Nutrition Department.

He ordered — to both my and the waiter's consternation — a cup of tea and a slice of unbuttered toast.

He smiled, apologizing for his scant repast.

"You see," he explained, "I love Italian food and tonight am invited to an Italian friend's home, for a gigantic meal. I try to balance my calorie intake for the entire day.

There is no suffering involved, just a few tugs on my self-control. Dieting need not be torture.

Similar advice for parents of overweight children comes from Dr. William Sebrell, chairman of the Columbia University School of Human Nutrition.

"Obesity in children can be controlled through careful balancing of the child's diet," he says.

You don't snatch away all the foods he or she seems devoted to. Rather, if he or she eats three slices of bread at one meal, begin by eliminating one slice. Later, two.

If he or she sloshes down the milk and neglects other foods, gradually diminish the amount of milk. Milk, of course, is an essential food and all of us need some. But not to the exclusion of other essential foods.

Baked Beans Are Outdoor Favorite

By Aileen Claire
NEA Food Editor

Friends and neighbors are turning to covered-dish suppers to help fight the high cost of entertaining. One of the favorites for picnics and other outdoor eating is a casserole of homemade baked beans.

Most of us know the quick method of doctoring canned baked beans to our tastes by adding ketchup, mustard and brown sugar.

Still, nothing beats the special flavor of old-fashioned made-from-scratch baked beans. They do take some time to cook, but the results are worth it.

You can use any leftover baked beans in sandwiches. Try some, hot or cold, on rye or pumpernickel.

By the way, beans are an even more economical source of protein when you buy them in bulk.

Ms. Turner Speaks To Art Guild

The Art Guild Study Club met April 1 at 6:30 p.m. at the Martha Ann Woman's Club with Mrs. Robert Melton as hostess and program leader.

Mrs. Melton introduced Ms. Betty Sandel, an instructor at Western Texas College, who came here in the fall of 1978 as a mid-management instructor-coordinator. This spring she was promoted to assistant director of adult and continuing education and is working with Jerry Baird in that capacity, said Mrs. Melton. Mrs. Sandel also teaches a class in mid-management in the Crosbyton Extension Center of WTC in human relations.

Ms. Sandel told the group of her early life in Scurry County. Her father, Travis Hicks, taught school at Hermleigh and was a principal at the Turner school west of Snyder. She also told of her years of training in college.

Mrs. Sandel read several of her poems which express emotions of love, joy, despair, hope and faith.

Mrs. Hugh Lowery, club president, conducted the business meeting.

Mrs. Melton served refreshments to 15 members and one guest.

The diagrammed hand occurred during a team of four match.

The optimum contract of five clubs, virtually laydown was missed in reaching an optimistic major-suit game.

North-South were playing five-card majors and consequently South might only have three clubs for his opening bid. Therefore, North responded one notrump rather than raising the dubious club opening. South introduced his heart suit in an attempt to describe his values and distribution.

North probably should have bid four clubs at this point but he did raise hearts. He thought he couldn't be counted on to have four hearts as he responded one notrump to the club opening, so raising hearts with the ace-king and another was fine. South continued to the major-suit game.

The defense started well. West led the spade king and continued the suit. South paused before playing to the second trick. If he fulfilled the spade and trumps didn't divide 3-3, the hand would slip out of his control. He couldn't ruff the spade, draw trumps and run his club suit.

Hope RRM's Will Protect

By GLENN RITT
 Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP)—Federal regulators have approved a new kind of mortgage they hope will protect homebuyers from being locked in at record high interest rates for as long as 30 years.

Five Cases Handled In County Court

Five cases have been handled in county court. One involved Maria Sepeda Moreno, charged with driving while her driver's license was suspended. She was fined $25 on a guilty plea. Ms. Moreno resides at Rt. 2, Hermleigh. A $25 fine was also levied against Gary Lee Rains, 210 35th St. He, too, was charged with driving while his license was suspended. A $50 fine was assessed William Edward Benedict, 1111 26th St., on a charge of driving while his license was suspended. Alvin Joe Porter, 2003 Ave. O, was fined $200 and sentenced to serve three days in the county jail on a charge of drunken driving. He had entered a guilty plea to the offense. A guilty plea to a theft by shoplifting charge netted Sally Arocha of Colorado City a $50 fine, plus $68 more in court costs. She was charged with shoplifting a $24 dress from Mode O Day.

RRM, could spell bad news for homebuyers if interest rates continue to climb.

The Federal Home Loan Bank Board voted unanimously Thursday to authorize RRM's, effective immediately. They can be offered by thrift institutions, savings and loans regulated by the board. The renegotiable rate mortgages let interest rates be adjusted up or down every three to five years. Rates cannot rise more than 5 percentage points or fall more than 5 percentage points during the life of the loan.

Last year, the board approved another innovation called the variable rate mortgage, which is similar to an RRM but allows interest rates to rise or fall only 2.5 percentage points during the life of a loan.

Variable rate mortgages have not proved particularly popular among lenders because of the smaller range allowed and various other restrictions. RRM's are the latest in a series of moves by the board to make more mortgage money available and to help shore up the battered savings and loan industry.

The earnings of many thrift institutions are eroding because they must pay constantly higher interest rates to attract deposits, while obtaining a much lower fixed rate on their long term mortgages, particularly older ones. With RRM's, mortgage rates can keep pace with other interest rates, it is hoped.

Mayor Byrne To Replace School Board

CHICAGO (AP)—Mayor Jane Byrne told reporters she planned to replace all 11 members of the city school board, then boarded a plane for a 10-day trip to Jerusalem.

Mrs. Byrne was accompanied by her press secretary-husband, daughter and two bodyguards when she left Wednesday to attend an international conference of mayors, focusing on city problems.

The board has reported that 266 of the 4,100 S&Ls it regulates reported a new loss for the six months ending Dec. 31. The average income of all S&Ls also is declining.

"It is not likely that the first half of 1980 will be any better than the last half of 1979," said board chairman Jay Janis.

The bank board is so concerned about S&L earnings that it is making available up to $4 billion in below-market loans to ailing institutions. The subsidy will cost the home loan bank system about $100 million.

The subsidized loans, at 2.5 percent points below market rates, will be available to S&Ls that suffer operating losses for 3 consecutive months, and meet other requirements.

Snyderite Enters PTK's Honor Hall

Carlton (Sonny) Lee, who served as president of the Psi Zeta chapter of Phi Theta Kappa at Western Texas College for 1977-78, has been selected for the organization's Alumni Hall of Honor.

Announcement of his selection was made at the spring national convention of PTK in Washington, D.C., where Lee is now a senior at the American University. He is also a member of Rep. Charles Stenholm's staff.

Lee worked with Drs. Duane and Mary Hood, faculty sponsors of the WTC Phi Theta Kappa chapter, in planning activities and sightseeing for the WTC students attending the convention. Activities included a luncheon with Stenholm in the House of Representatives dining room in the capitol. Lee also worked with the national PTK office in planning the national convention and in obtaining speakers. These included Sen. Mark Hatfield of Oregon, Sen. Nancy Kassebaum of Kansas, Gen. William Westmoreland, and Hodding Carter, State Department spokesman.

The announcement of Lee's selection for the Hall of Honor was made at the annual awards banquet, Dr. Mary Hood said. The WTC delegation knew that the award was to be made but Lee was not told until his name was read among the honorees.

Lee has been visiting in Snyder enroute to Washington from a trip to Albuquerque, N.M. Phi Theta Kappa is a national honor society for students in junior colleges.

HEALTH

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Cooked or still raw?

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

If the meat is cooked at a higher level, as you suggested, at first, then cooked slowly thereafter there will be no bacteria problem. However, the usual way to do this is to set the oven at least at the level that you want for the internal temperature of the meat. Thus if you want the internal temperature of a roast to be 170, the oven temperature for the slow roast should be 170, or if you prefer a little above. The idea is if the oven is set at exactly 170, the meat will not get any hotter than that.

I hope your mother-in-law won't hate me for agreeing with you about this but one of the main purposes of cooking is to eliminate bacteria that could otherwise be harmful if they weren't destroyed by the process.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I would like to know if it is possible for my 20-year-old son to have a tattoo removed from his chest. If so, what would the procedure involve?

DEAR DR. LAMB — Yes, sometimes a tattoo can be removed. Your son should see a dermatologist about this. There are different techniques employed but one is to use a salty preparation that literally induces a scab over the area, which sloughs off, taking with it some of the pigmentation. The proper choice of a technique depends on the size of the tattoo and location, so your son will need professional advice about this. How successful removal may be depends a lot on the nature of the tattoo itself.

O'Connor Eyes New TV Role

NEW YORK (AP)—Carroll O'Connor, who has played the loud mouthed Archie Bunker for nearly a decade on television, is interested in a new role — as the bombastic union chief who led New York City's 1966 transit strike.

The New York Daily News reported today that O'Connor has personally obtained the rights to the biography of Mike Quill. Lawyers for O'Connor and Quill's widow, Shirley, would not discuss details but, said one, O'Connor "is as Irish as Quill and wants to record the history, good and bad, about one of the sons of Ireland in the American labor movement."

OBITUARIES

Chasteen Rites

Funeral service was set for 3 p.m. today in the Bell-Seale Funeral Home Chapel for Ernest C. Chasteen, 75, who died Wednesday in Cogdell Memorial Hospital.

The Rev. Doug Stenberg, pastor of Union United Methodist Church, and the Rev. Buck Hatfield, pastor of Faith Baptist Church, were to officiate. Burial was to be in the Ira Cemetery, under direction of Bell-Seale Funeral Home.

Child Abuse Case Being Probed Here

A child abuse investigation topped the list of police reports.

The investigation centered on a 9-year-old boy, allegedly whipped with a belt from the shoulders down. The case was referred to police by child welfare.

The child was placed in a foster home Thursday afternoon, but the matter is still under investigation.

In other reports, police were called out to work a theft, a case of criminal mischief, and a minor traffic accident.

The theft occurred at Snyder High School and involved a missing camera. That incident was reported at 10:45 a.m. and was worked by Kerry Fritz.

The criminal mischief complaint involved several broken windows at 902 28th St., a house owned by Roswell Rigby. Damage was estimated at $250. The case was worked by Don Cheek.

The traffic accident occurred at 37th St. and Ave. A. It involved a 1972 Chrysler driven by Andrea Hill and a 1976 Chevrolet driven by Elnora Hamilton. It was reported at 1:20 p.m. and was investigated by Fritz.

BIRTHS

A 7 lb., 2 1/2-oz. baby girl was born at Cogdell Hospital to Steve and Teresa Hand of 3308 Ave. A. April 3, 11:35 a.m.

Agreement In OCAW Strike

DENVER (AP)—A contract agreement has been reached between the Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers Union and Mobil, one of the last major oil companies to settle in the nation's longest refinery strike.

The agreement was reached early Thursday and approved hours later by workers at several of Mobil's refineries, including a facility in Beaumont, Texas, which employs about 1,700 OCAW workers, union officials announced.

Workers at Mobil refineries in Cicero and East St. Louis, Ill., also went back to work Thursday, officials said.

The only major oil company that has not settled with OCAW is Chevron, which employs 2,500 union members, said Jerry Archuleta, spokesman for the union.

The union now has approved new contract agreements with firms that employ about 51,000 OCAW workers. But 7,900 union members around the country have refused to ratify those contracts because of local disputes, Archuleta said.

Most of the disputes involve disciplinary measures taken by officials of Gulf Oil Corp. and Texaco against workers for alleged improper actions on the picket line.

Disciplinary measures taken against an OCAW member at a Conoco refinery in Billings, Mont., have kept 180 OCAW members off the job there, Archuleta said.

The refinery workers in Billings also refused to ratify because Conoco officials wanted to impose a vacation time penalty against the strikers for time spent on strike, Archuleta said.

The Conoco settlement has been ratified by workers at crude oil production fields near Ventura, Santa Maria, and Long Beach, Calif., and at a refinery subsidiary at Paramount, Calif. and Wrenshall, Minn., officials said.

The agreements follow a model settlement made by the union and Gulf. It calls for a 52-cent hourly wage increase in addition to the 5 percent raise that went into effect Jan. 8. The agreement also provides for a 10.5 percent wage hike next January.

Also settling with the union were Champlin Petroleum, which employs 600 OCAW workers, and Tosco, with about 700 union members, Archuleta said.

Baylor Strips 3 Of Scholarships

WACO (AP)—Three junior journalism students accused of "thumbing their noses at Baylor" have lost their scholarships and will not be welcome at the Southern Baptist university in the fall, a school vice-president said.

"They will not be required to leave," Executive Vice President Dr. Herbert Reynolds said Thursday, "but I think they would be happier in doing so. I can hardly see how people would want to remain within a community that is antithetical to their beliefs and values."

The students are Jeff Barton and Cindy Slovak, former editors of The Baylor Lariat student newspaper, and Sheri Sellmeyer, president of the campus chapter of the Society of Professional Journalists.

Miss Sellmeyer worked as an intern at the Snyder Daily News during the summer of 1979.

Barton, Miss Slovak and Barry Kolar were dismissed from the Lariat in a disagreement over university policy concerning a Playboy magazine pictorial feature about "The Girls of the Southwest Conference."

University President Abner McCall said any Baylor coed who posed for Playboy would be expelled and the Lariat disagreed with McCall in a front page editorial.

Reynolds said Barton, Slovak and Sellmeyer were "thumbing their noses at Baylor" and were "unworthy" to continue receiving scholarships this fall.

"Scholarships are a privilege. We are not very concerned about the consequences of this," said Reynolds.

"Since we have such limited resources, it would be less than discerning, or maybe even a little stupid, to give scholarship money to a student who holds the university in disdain and has no confidence in the faculty."

"We felt we could better use our limited resources to provide scholarships to students with a more favorable perception of the university and the faculty," he said.

Excluding food and energy, all other finished goods - those ready for retailer's shelves rose only 0.5 percent in March, less than half the increases in January and February.

"In addition, the sharp diminution of price increases at both the crude and intermediate stages of processing is encouraging," she said in testimony prepared for Congress.

The Producer Price Index measures three stages of processing; finished goods, ready for sale to retailers, intermediate goods, which are partially processed; and crude materials, such as grain and livestock which have yet to be processed.

Among finished goods, the Labor Department reported a 7.2 percent increase in energy costs, nearly as much as in February and considerably more than in any other month in the past six years.

Gasoline prices shot up 8.5 percent, and prices for home heating oil were up 6.3 percent.

Consumer foods advanced 1.1 percent after declining 0.8 percent and 0.5 percent in January and February, respectively, the department said. Prices turned up sharply for eggs, pork, fresh and dried vegetables, fish and confectionary products. Beef and veal prices went down.

The slowdown outside of food and energy was due mainly to slides in the prices of precious metal jewelry, which declined 11 percent overall last month after climbing 55.3 percent from November through February, the department said.

Prices for apparel, household furniture, appliances, mobile homes and health products rose, but not as much as in recent months.

Capital equipment prices at the wholesale level went up 0.8 percent, about the same as in previous months. This equipment is used in the production of other goods.

Racers Finally On Same Track

INDIANAPOLIS (AP)—Peace has come to championship auto racing after a turbulent 17-month struggle that threatened to strangle Indianapolis-style racing.

Representatives of the U.S. Auto Club and Championship Auto Racing Teams have reached agreement, after months of bickering, threats and cajoling, on the formation of a Championship Racing League.

Members of both groups will take part in CART's Twin 200 race at Ontario, Calif., on April 13, as well as the USAC race at Texas International Raceway on April 27.

The original dual schedule of 27 races will be pared to a single slate of "about 15," with each race run this year under the rules set by its original sanctioning body. The agreement, announced jointly Thursday by Dick King, USAC president, and Pat Patrick, chairman of CART's board of directors, was finalized Wednesday at a marathon meeting in Hot Springs, Ark.

Cagers Resume Play Tonight

By The Associated Press

How effective is Seattle's pressure defense? Coach Len Wykes feels it helped the Sonics win the National Basketball Association championship last year, and also helped them beat Portland in the opening game of the playoffs in defense of that title Wednesday night.

But Jack Ramsay, coach of the Portland Trail Blazers, remains confident his team can cope with Seattle's pressure tonight when the teams meet in Portland in the second game of the best-of-three miniseries.

"Against their press, we should score every time," said Ramsay.

"It comes down, to very basic things, like passing before we were ready to receive the pass or passing to where a person was maybe a half-court before."

In tonight's other first round games, it's Phoenix at Kansas City, Houston at San Antonio and Philadelphia at Washington.

The Sonics' pressure defense helped their guards to account for 75 points against Portland, but Ramsay was more concerned by Seattle's 59-42 edge off the boards and ability to get inside.

The Kansas City Kings put on a 17-3 spurt in the final four minutes before bowing 96-73. Kings guard Otis Birdsong felt his team was going to pull out the victory.

Injuries could be a factor in the two Eastern Conference series.

Houston center Moses Malone has been hampered by a sprained ankle, and there's no telling how effective he will be against San Antonio. But he did manage to play 36 minutes and contribute 10 points and 13 rebounds to the Rockets' 95-95 opening victory over the Spurs.

"That was really disappointing - a game that Moses didn't dominate, but we didn't win," said Spurs Coach Bob Bass.

"We have just got to break their defense down."

The Spurs, who led the NBA with a 119.4 scoring average in the regular season, got only 11 points in the third quarter and 24 in the fourth quarter of the low-scoring opener, a game that left Houston's Rudy Tomjanovich shaking his head.

Another injured player is Caldwell Jones, who had 18 points and 26 rebounds in Philadelphia's 111-96 victory over Washington.
