Against Iran...

Allies Threaten Strong Sanctions

By The Associated Press
America's major European allies ordered token action against Iran now and threatened strong sanctions May 17 if the release of the 53 U.S. hostages is not in sight by then. Washington was disappointed and Iran defiant, threatening the West with a permanent oil ban and tilting toward Moscow.

The foreign ministers of the nine Common Market countries announced after a two-day meeting in Luxembourg Tuesday their governments were banning new export and service contracts with Iran and all military sales to Iran, were reducing their diplomatic staffs in Tehran, were cutting Iranian diplomatic staffs in their capitals, and reimposing visa requirements for Iranians traveling to their countries.

The ministers said if there was not "decisive progress leading to the release of the hostages" by May 17, their governments would impose the economic sanctions called for in the U.N. Security Council resolution vetoed by the Soviet Union in January.

Such action would halt all exports from the nine countries to Iran except food and medicine, cutting off an estimated $7 billion in sales annually.

The foreign ministers' communique made no mention of stopping purchases of Iranian oil, now running about 650,000 barrels a day. But they reportedly agreed to ban buying of Iranian oil at prices above the levels of the rest of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries.

Since Iran is now demanding $35 a barrel, $2.50 above the highest other OPEC prices, this amounts to a ban on new oil contracts or spot sales.

Iran on Monday suspended shipment of the 530,000 barrels Japan imported daily because the Japanese refused to pay the price. The Japanese government is to decide Thursday what steps it will take to help get the hostages freed, and Tokyo's leaders have indicated they will go along with the Common Market's plan.

Chase did not immediately comment on its move. Analysts, however, had predicted further reductions in the prime because interest rates in money markets have fallen recently and demand for loans has been declining in the face of a worsening economy and high borrowing costs.

Chase Lowers Prime Rate

NEW YORK (AP)—Chase Manhattan Bank, the nation's third-largest commercial bank, today reduced its prime lending rate 1/2-point to 19 percent.

Chase did not immediately comment on its move. Analysts, however, had predicted further reductions in the prime because interest rates in money markets have fallen recently and demand for loans has been declining in the face of a worsening economy and high borrowing costs.

Outstanding Students At WTC Get Awards

Renae McBroom of Haskell and Kenneth Levens of Anson were named outstanding students at Western Texas College for 1980 at the college's annual awards ceremony Tuesday.

Top students in various fields, along with those named to Who's Who in American Junior Colleges were recognized during the awards program.

Miss McBroom is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W.H. McBroom of Haskell. A sophomore, she is an active member of Phi Theta Kappa, serves on the student senate and is a WTC cheerleader. She also was a nominee for the title of Miss WTC for 1979-80.

Levens, a sophomore agri-business major, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J.C. Levens of Anson. He is president of the student body, a member of the energy committee and was student senate chaplain for 1978-79. He is an active member of Phi Theta Kappa, the judo team, the Fellowship of Christian Athletes and has been nominated for Mr. Trailhand both years at WTC. He is listed in Who's Who in American Junior Colleges for 1979-80.

Named outstanding students in various fields were the following:

Brent Cleveland of Jayton, freshman mathematics; Lois Eicke of Snyder, cosmetology; James Melton of Sweetwater, engineering technology; David D. Brown, male law enforcement student; Penny L. Hatfield of Merkel, female law enforcement student; Wayne Barclay of Abilene, mid-management; Stephanie Johnson of Seminole, OEA; Cheryl Jackson of Snyder, office occupations; Dilla Munro of Snyder, business administration; Linda Key of Santa Anna, American History; Luis Rios of Colorado City, U.S. Government; Wesley Kruger of Hermleigh, state government.

Also, Rebecca Hancock of Snyder and Tracey Williamson of Hermleigh, economics; J.D. Sheffield of Lorraine, social science; David English of Snyder, geography; Barbara Neves of Snyder, psychology; Carolyn Weems of Rotan, Carla Fuller of Colorado City, Shirley Anderlee of Hobbs, Phyllis Vickers, Debra Burney, Cynthia Chapman and Stan Pavlik, all of Snyder, sociology; Sabra Murray of Maryneal, female health and physical education student; Tim Garland of Shallowater, male health and physical education student; Britt Fuqua of Hermleigh, journalism; Lisa Anderson of Colorado City, yearbook service; Lois Gleason of Snyder, newspaper service; David Fleming of Snyder, drama; Sheryl Burk of Snyder, vocal music.

Recognized for listing in Who's Who among Students in American Junior Colleges were the following:

Darrell Ashley, Scott Barrett, Bill Bass, Betsy Benson, Andra Crenshaw, Jeana von Roeder Duke, Paiga Lou Eiland, Beckye Everett, Britt Fuqua, Tim Garland, Brigette Hamilton, Annelle Harris, Jerry Lee Hendon, Jan Holley, Kenneth Levens, Mike Mahan, Belva Marsh.

Also, Danny McCormack, Laurie Partian, Ginger Peden, Susan Pherrigo, Joyce Plagens, Delbra Ray, Sheila Sandbothe, Soyla Santos, Monette Sentell, Patrick Toombs, Carolyn Weems, Tracey Kruger Williamson, Lynn Wimmer, Rocky Youngblood, Mark Zimmerman.

Plans Made To Finance July 4th Celebration

Chamber board members approved plans to finance the annual 4th of July celebration in Snyder during the board's monthly meeting Tuesday night.

Directors voted to sell tickets to help defray the cost of the celebration, which concludes with a giant fireworks display in Towle Park.

Four donation tickets will gain admission to the tractor pull which is held in conjunction with the celebration. There also will be prizes given away at the celebration, but anyone may place their name in the drawing box and no donation is required.

The board also voted not to take bids on concessions at the tractor pull and to allow the Snyder Jaycees to operate the concession in exchange for the selling of tickets for the celebration.

Bill Warner, chamber of commerce manager, said invitations for the arts and crafts exhibitors and for the tennis tournament will be mailed shortly. David Hines is 4th of July general chairman.

The board also discussed the itinerant merchants ordinance now being considered by the Snyder city council. The board voted to turn the chamber's support of the ordinance over to the retail merchants committee.

Warner gave the board a preliminary report on a recent motor freight service survey. The board agreed to invite freight company representatives to attend a membership meeting of the chamber to discuss mutual problems.

The board also gave a green light to the cleaning of the carpets at the chamber office and the purchase of a used refrigerator.

The board approved one of two requests for use of the chamber board room. The Snyder Jaycees were granted approval for use of the room for human development courses for persons placed on probation in county and district courts.

A request from Palmer EMS to use the room to conduct an EMT class was denied.

Warner gave two financial reports. He said a total of 612 tickets were sold for the recent chamber banquet, resulting in an expected net income of approximately $1,552. A recent High Sky Strollers Camper Club rally with nine units resulted in a net loss to the chamber of $25.13.

SNYDER TEMPERATURES: High Tuesday, 84 degrees; low, 52 degrees; reading at 7 a.m. today, 58 degrees; precipitation, none; total precipitation for 1980 to date, 1.53.

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (AP)—President Josip Broz Tito's doctors said today the 87-year-old Yugoslav leader lapsed into a coma and has been in a state of shock since Tuesday night.

Exxon Earnings Set Record

NEW YORK (AP)—Exxon Corp., the world's largest oil company, reported Wednesday that its first-quarter profits surged by nearly 102 percent from last year's levels to a record $1.925 billion.

Exxon's revenues in the quarter climbed to $27.6 billion from $18.8 billion, and pre-share net income rose to $4.40 from $2.16 on last year's first-quarter earnings of $955 million.

To Run As Independent

WASHINGTON (AP)—Republican candidate John B. Anderson will announce Thursday morning that he will run for president, as an independent, knowledgeable sources said today.

The sources, who declined to be identified, said the formal announcement would be made at 11 a.m. EST Thursday at the National Press Club in Washington.

The SDN Column

Tuesday's economic report disclosed that prices were still going up. It wasn't exactly a disclosure, more like a confirmation of what everybody who has bought anything recently already knew.

They're still trying to figure out in Washington what is causing inflation. But they are looking in the wrong places, which leads to wrong decisions on possible solutions.

Take the field of health care, for example. We read the other day that we now have 166 agencies which have jurisdiction over our hospitals, of which 23 review admittance procedures, 31 regulate patient safety and 33 regulate patient's rights. It costs the average hospital around $35 per patient per day just to comply with the government-decreed paper work.

Similar situations exist in most other necessities. Moreover, instead of cutting down, the crew in Washington has laid a couple of new cabinet-level agencies on us that hold no prospect of contributing to anything except the tax bill — or more properly, the national debt. The Department of Energy and the Department of Education, the new bureaucracies, are budgeted for billions of dollars. The DOE, of course, will never produce a barrel of oil, a cubic foot of natural gas, or a kilowatt of electric power. But it is contributing to what the consumer pays for these things.

The DE is going to cause school budgets to go up, strew more red tape in the path of educators which will, in turn, reduce the time and energy devoted to actual teaching, plus take a toll of federal funds.

And they wonder why prices continue to soar and inflation continues to hold its grip on the nation's economy.

Everybody is entitled to a few mistakes, but there is a limit to what the nation can endure, and experts botching up the obvious can be embarrassing.

Like the mathematics teachers in an English school who found themselves in a tedious situation. They apologized that they had awarded the arithmetic prize to the wrong team in a contest. They confessed that they had added up the scores wrong.

Channel Cleared Into Lake Thomas

Maintenance crews of the Colorado River Municipal Water District are all but "greasing" the river channel in an effort to realize maximum flow into Lake J.B. Thomas this year.

What they are doing is pushing several thousand cubic yards of sandbars and debris out of the Colorado River channel from the upper end of the lake at FM 1205 to below the Murphy road, a distance of four miles.

At one point, a natural indentation at the mouth of a horseshoe bend in the river has been lowered a couple of feet so that if the river should overflow, the water will cut directly across and speed flow into the basin.

While the channel banks are being pushed back and smoothed, brush on either side of the river is being cleared off in an effort to reduce the retardation of flow to an absolute minimum. Normally, the sandbars are washed out by heavy floods, but several years of sub-normal flow has resulted in the deposits piling up until they act like dams. This forced water into low brushy areas where it soaked instead of getting into the reservoir.

O.H. Iyie, general manager of CRMWD, estimated that the present maintenance efforts will reduce the channel loss at the lake by at least half, and possibly more.

Health, Morale Problems Plague Colombia Hostages

BOGOTA, Colombia (AP)—Health and morale problems are reported among the 16 diplomats who today are spending their 57th day as hostages in the Dominican Republic's embassy.

Some of the captives of the M-19 guerrillas are beginning to exhibit health problems, said a source connected with the Inter-American Human Rights Commission after two representatives of the commission spent two hours at the embassy Tuesday.

The source, who asked not to be identified, refused to elaborate on the health problems or say which of the hostages were affected. But one of the visitors, Prof. Thomas Farer of Rutgers University, said the diplomats' living conditions in the small embassy were "bleak," and they have to sleep on mattresses on the floor.

The leader of the guerrillas, who uses the alias Comandante Uno, told the newspaper El Espectador in a telephone interview that he was having difficulty keeping up the morale of his prisoners. He also did not go into details, but a Swiss psychiatrist from the International Red Cross visits the embassy daily to talk with the captives.

U.S. Ambassador Diego Asencio, one of the hostages, says in daily telephone calls he is allowed to make to his embassy that he remains in good health and good spirits, members of his staff report.

In a surprise move, the guerrillas on Tuesday released another hostage, Dominican Consul-General Raul Augusto Sanchez, who left the embassy with the human rights investigators.

WTC Rodeo Opens Here Thursday

The Western Texas College collegiate rodeo will open Thursday at 8 p.m. in the rodeo arena on West 30th Street.

Tickets are $2 for students and $3 for adults and may be purchased at the gate.

Contestants in the rodeo will be from colleges and universities in the Southwest Region of the National Intercollegiate Rodeo Association: Harry Vold of Fowler, Colo., is providing the bucking stock.

The rodeo will continue Friday and Saturday nights, with performances at 8 each evening.

poor getting richer

Quick now, of all 220-plus million Americans in the 50 states, who are the richest?
On the basis of per capita income, Alaskans, Citizens of the territorially largest state - where the similarly record-high cost of living can still mean just scraping by - are the leaders of the leaders in a Conference Board survey of the changing distribution of wealth in the United States.

Following Alaska in the top 10 (per capita incomes in the $10,963-$8,493 range) are Nevada, California, Connecticut, Illinois, New Jersey, Wyoming, Delaware, Washington and Michigan. The list shows two changes in the last decade: New York, traditionally among the richest states but now down in 13th place, and Massachusetts, 17th, have dropped out, to be replaced by Wyoming and Michigan.

There also has been some shuffling at the bottom end of the scale. Kentucky, Louisiana and West Virginia are no longer among the 10 poorest states ($6,575-$5,529 per capita), replaced by Maine, Utah and North Carolina in a ranking that now runs, from lowest up: Mississippi, Arkansas, South Carolina, Alabama, Maine, Tennessee, Utah, Vermont, New Mexico and North Carolina.

The changes at top and bottom and in the income categories between reflect the ongoing shift of economic vitality and population from the industrially declining Northeast and Midwest to the sunbelt states of the South and West.

But what may be of greater significance is a steady narrowing of the gap between rich and poor states. States at the low end of the scale, the New York-based economic research organization finds, are gaining more rapidly than those at the upper.

Back in 1940, per capita income of the bottom quintile of states was only 36 percent of the top group's. By 1978, the year of latest official statistics, income of the poorest had risen to 72 percent of the richest as overall the national average moved steadily upward.

A case, we might say, of the rich getting richer and the poor even more so.

a law-and-order judge

Texas voters will have an opportunity next month to return to the Texas Court of Criminal Appeals a judge who has served ably and with distinction in this capacity for the past 11 years.

He is Leon Douglas, who before becoming a judge was the state's attorney before the court.

He has received the prestigious Rosewood Gavel Award from St. Mary's University School of Law as "an outstanding jurist of the State or Nation in recognition of his contribution to the democratic process." Judge Douglas participated in decisions or wrote opinions for 395 cases in 1979, more than handled by any other of the nine judges or two commissioners of the court.

He is a native West Texan, and his decisions label him as a hardliner on law and order. With a rising crime rate in the state, we need more men like Judge Douglas on the benches of our courtrooms.

He is peculiarly qualified by training, temperament and experience to continue to serve the people of Texas in the position he now holds. His ability and unquestioned integrity, combined with the expertise and wisdom gained through many years of public service, make his re-election among the wisest possible choices for Texas in the May 3 Democratic primary.

Arising early each morning comes easy as falling off a log for some, and then there are those who struggle with apparatuses like alarm clocks loud enough to rock the room to pull them out of a deep slumber. Some even move the alarm clock to another side of the room or even to another room in the house, so they'll get up out of bed to turn it off and defy the risk of dozing back off once the earth-shaking noise has been turned off.

Alarm clocks come in many styles. Some feature a little timer device so that coffee can be ready upon arising. Then, some have a snooze control to let one get a few more winks, accompanied with soothing music.

Sleeping habits vary. Every person does not need seven to eight hours of sleep each night. Some persons get along well on less sleep. Others require more. Generally, a person has had enough sleep if he wakes up in the morning without being called, and if he is not drowsy during waking hours, especially in the afternoon.

A person's daily schedule usually involves a fixed time for getting up, but not for going to bed.

Good sleep habits are established by following a regular daily schedule.

There should be regular amounts of time set aside for work, meals, recreation and sleep. Such a routine, even with occasional exceptions, allows the body to develop a 24-hour rhythm of activity and rest.

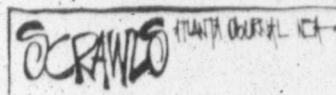

When one has established such a rhythm, he is able to sleep more soundly and to awake refreshed.

Come Sunday, April 27 our daily sleeping habits will be invaded again and asked to readjust to a slightly different schedule with Daylight Saving Time.

Daylight-Saving is a plan in which clocks are set one hour ahead of standard time for a certain period. As a result, darkness comes one hour later than on standard time. The advantages of this plan, they say, will include an additional hour available for recreation in the evening.

Great Britain adopted daylight time as an economy measure during World War I. The United States adopted it in 1918. Congress repealed the law in 1919, but many cities continued to use daylight saving.

After World War II began, daylight saving was again used in the U.S., depending on the wishes of individual states and cities. In 1966, the U.S. Congress established a

A reporter the other day was impressed by the fact that a 1959 Barbie doll in mint condition was sold at auction two years ago for a staggering $501.59.

Those naive little fools. They were looking at one of the treasures of the 20th century and let it go for a mere $501.59. Do you have any idea what the odds are against a 20-year-old doll having both eyes?

If collectors knew children at all, they'd cancel tours of the Mona Lisa, Cleopatra's jewels and the riches of Tutankhamen and in their place shroud Barbie in a display of glass and security and send her around the world for all to marvel at. We bought our first Barbie in 1959, the first Christmas they came out. Our daughter was passing through the toy department when she said, "Mommy! Mommy! There's a doll just like you." I picked up this doll with the two-inch bust, spaghetti legs and removable head who looked like she whipped through puberty in about 15 minutes and said, "Well, there are similarities." I followed this with the second dumbest remark I have made in my entire life, "Where are her clothes?"

Twenty years and $12,000 worth of wardrobe later, Barbie had turned into a senior citizen. Her left knee was chipped. Her blonde ponytail had been cut with pink shears. One arm hung about 1/4 inch out of the socket. Her live-in, anatomically weird boyfriend didn't look any better. His teeth had lipstick on them. A foot was gone and someone had painted a permanent "S" on his chest with black paint.

Considering what they survived, neither of them looked bad. They had been stuffed in a trunk and dragged on a camping trip where they were left all night buried in the sand.

They had been run over with a lawn mower when they were abandoned in high grass. They had fallen between the car cushions and been lost for a month. Barbie's head was found in a beer cooler in the garage. Ken's teeth melted in the sun. Their cardboard house had been crayed on and all their friends were under the bed naked.

Children's dolls take a beating - literally. You wonder how any of them survive. Oatmeal is forced into their rigid lips. Combs pull their hair until they're bald. Their eyes are closed manually. They're spanked, shaken, and tied into knots.

And when one of them appears 21 years later in mint condition, there is only one explanation - one of them fought back!

letter to editor

To The Daily News:

In response to the statements made by Dr. Robert Taylor in last Sunday's Daily News regarding the proposed dog pound, to be located at 37th St. and the East Highway, the people in this area of East Snyder are intelligent, hard-working, taxpaying citizens just like anyone else. We have the mental capacity to think for ourselves and have our own opinions about what we want and don't want in our community. Personally, I don't want a dog pound, or animal shelter, or whatever one prefers to call it in this area of town if it were 10 stories tall and built of gold.

If the people on the west side of town think that the proposed pound would be such an asset to their area of town, then I suggest that it be built on the west side of town where it will be appreciated. (I have heard a few people who live in West Snyder express the opinion that they think it would be a good thing.)

So, no use to waste such an asset on people who don't want it. As for the 50 some-odd people who have signed the petition against the proposed dog pound, they were not pressured or harassed into signing said petition. They are mature, honest, intelligent people who are perfectly competent of thinking and making decisions for themselves.

Thanks to the editor for a little space in a fine newspaper.

carter weakness

NEW YORK (AP)-President Jimmy Carter has a splendid, rational mind - analytical, logical and observational. But he has a defect too, and it undermines his ability as a leader. So says a student of leadership.

"It is a defect that is seldom offset by experience," said Prof. Eugene Jennings, author of "Anatomy of Leadership," a 1969 study of leadership from the days of the ancient Romans to modern times.

The professor, who spends much of this time counseling top executives of major corporations, calls the weakness "maze dullness," a term he draws from laboratory observations of rats in an experimental maze.

It is characterized, he says, by a low level of intuition, in which lab animals show little ability to sense the route to the cheese and instead race down dead ends where, time after time, they are shocked. They fail to learn from experience.

"Jimmy Carter can analyze and break problems into parts, and his conclusions follow logically from premises," said Jennings. "But he lacks the ability to synthesize the parts into a creative solution. He can take apart, but he cannot put together in a new orientation."

Intuition is the missing ingredient, says the professor, who besides advising executives and teaching graduate-level courses at Michigan State has written many books on executive mobility and leadership. Jennings maintains that ward a resolution, Ayatollah Khomeini was true to the refusal to deal directly with the situation that has been his form throughout the six months since seizure of the American embassy.

The only thing really surprising in the latest dashing of hopes is that anyone of consequence in Washington actually thought there might be a possibility of coming to reasonable terms with the Iranians. You don't negotiate with chaos, and that is still the best description for the Iranian revolution with its powerless president, venomously divided Revolutionary Council and irresolute iman who has proven himself infinitely better at the seizure of power than its exercise.

So now it is back to more nerve-straining watching and waiting, at very likely some political cost to Jimmy Carter despite the all-new get-tough policy on Iran. You can only go so many times to the well without bringing back water before washing out your own credibility.

But likely also at some cost to Iran and Khomeini. Iranians, to be sure, have responded with heightened revolutionary fervor as they have each previous time the malevolent United States and satanic Carter have been rebuffed. The old David and Goliath bit.

The highs, however, must be getting progressively lower as the same confrontation script is repeatedly replayed. Instead of producing the shah or anything else of substance, they are pre-empting attention and sapping energy urgently needed elsewhere, for the rescue of a disintegrating economy and the construction of a political system operating on some basis other than whim.

Khomeini has been remarkably successful to date in letting others take the falls for his repeated failures to provide post-revolutionary Iran with much more than rhetoric. But there is a question as to how long it can continue.

The continuing support for Khomeini within Iran is, however, much less surprising than continuing efforts by some quarters outside Iran to explain him in rational, even sympathetic terms.

Such as the recent first-person report of an American minister who came away from an audience with the news that Khomeini is not the "lunatic" envisaged by most Americans. How can he tell? Well, in response to the oft-asked question as to how the holding of hostages could be reconciled with Islamic injunctions to protect the foreigner, Khomeini responded with a "hard" question of his own: How could Western followers of a Christ concerned for the downtrodden remain silent as on the plight of the contemporary world's oppressed?

Well, there are various definitions of "lunatic," one of which is "given to extravagant folly," which might fit. But that aside, Khomeini's question neither answered the original query nor was it "hard." It primarily demonstrated his inability or unwillingness to comprehend the world outside his own very narrow focus.

There are, of course, multitudes in the West, practicing Christians and otherwise, who care deeply about the world's disadvantaged and persecuted and attempt to do something for them, individually and through numerous organizations. As examples of the latter, name Amnesty International, Oxfam, Freedom House, the International Rescue Committee and you've only started.

Their area of concern is broad enough to include

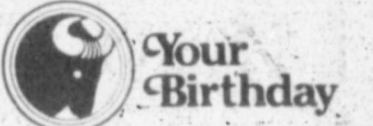

Indochina's refugee masses, harassed Soviet dissidents, South Africa's repressed black majority, the victims of authoritarian Latin American regimes, racial minorities in the United States still striving for full economic and political equality and even, pre-Khomeini, many Iranians who suffered for their opposition to the shah.

Their concern often leads to conflict with government policy. This is a plurality of principle and purpose that may not always be easily accommodated but is comprehended in Western democracies.

Not, however, in Khomeini's Iran. His comprehension is that of many in history before him who similarly claimed a monopoly on truth. That there is no other reality and no other right than his own. And as a result, their rule becomes not a revelation of truth but a despotism of lies.

Now that, unfortunately, is consequence.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) This could turn out to be a pleasant day for you when someone to whom you've been kind comes through for you in a big way.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) A hope that isn't necessarily material has an excellent chance of becoming a reality today. The more exposure you have with others, the better your odds.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) A person who is in a position to bolster your career or add to your income is looking at you with favor today. Rewards that are due might be forthcoming.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) It isn't likely you'll find any obstacles in your path today, because Dame Fortune is walking in front of you, picking up all the stumbling blocks.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Large benefits might be in store for you today when someone invites you into an extremely promising situation.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Negotiations could be taking place today involving a new project you're interested in starting. You may be offered more than you expected.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) You're lucky today in that you might be standing in the right place at the right time, and be given an opportunity to work for something of great promise.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) You'll easily outpace others where personal popularity is concerned, though you may not be aware of it until you reflect on all the nice things that happen today.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Through you something good could happen today that would have a very beneficial effect upon you and your family or other loved ones.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) You have good reason to look optimistically upon things today, so act accordingly. You'll produce the desired results.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Center your attention on ways to make money to get something expensive you've been wanting. You're more fortunate today than you may think.

Here is an apparently uninteresting hand. South is in a perfectly normal three-trump contract — so normal that every South player in a match point duplicate got there. Every West player opened the six of hearts. East played the 10 and South was in with the king.

South led a club to the jack and another back to his king. West played his ace and led the jack of hearts.

A couple of declarers played low from dummy and made three notrump for a tie for top. The other South players decided that West was underleading the ace and rose with dummy's queen, whereupon East took the trick with the ace. Every East but one promptly led back the four and West took his three.

remaining hearts for a one-trick set.

The one exception was a really great player. He had carefully counted the hand and knew that South only had eight top tricks. Three spades, one heart, one diamond and three clubs. He would need another diamond to come to nine. So this East led a club back to South.

The unfortunate South saw no danger. Obviously West had led from a six-card heart suit and South could afford to take a diamond finesse. If it worked he could go about his business of making the contract. If it failed East would not be able to lead a heart to his partner.

South took the finesse and was down two when East produced the four of hearts. (NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSN.)

Local Artists Place High In Post's 10th Annual Art Show

The 10th Annual Post Spring Art Show, sponsored by the Post Art Guild, was held in the community center April 18-20 with 470 entries. Two local artists were winners in the show judged by Gale Waddell and Ann Epple Upson of Albuquerque, N.M.

Over all best of show was awarded to LaVerne Lee for her oil painting, "Souvenir of San Antonio" ($100 cash award). Mrs. Lee's "Trees" in mixed media placed second; also she received honorable mention for "Along the Way," a watercolor.

Myrtle Jginer received three purchase awards. They were for "Stately Yucca" from Sentry Savings Association, Post; "Wild Flower," from A.C. and Jo Don Cash of Post; and "Side Walk Sale" from Mr. and Mrs. Jim Brown of Post, all oil paintings.

Gale Waddell received her bachelor of fine arts degree from Drake University in Iowa. She has studied with George Post, Barse Miller, Robert El Woods and Millard Sheets.

Ann Epple Upson attended Purdue University in Indiana and was a draftsman and illustrator at Glenn Martin Aircraft during World War II. She studied at John Hopkins University and the University of New Mexico, and studied with Rex Brandt, Millard Sheets, Oie Mie Shu, Cen Chi and Charles.

Explorer Henry Hudson discovered the Delaware River in 1609.

Carols, Commandments Sanctioned By Courts

TV Casanova Out of Focus

By Abigail Van Buren
© 1980 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: I was having trouble getting a clear picture on my TV, so I phoned a TV repair service in my neighborhood. A nice-looking young man came right over and examined the set.

When I asked him how much it would cost to have it fixed, he smiled, looked me over, and said, "That all depends on how nice you are to me." We both laughed, then he said, "Don't worry, lady, I'll give you my rock-bottom price." Then he took my set with him and said he'd bring it back in a few days.

Well, a week passed and no set, so I called him and asked when he was going to bring my set back. He said, "When you call and tell me your husband isn't home." "That's where we stand. How do I get my set back without causing a fuss? If my husband knew about this, he would go to that shop and take that little punk apart."

NO TV IN ELIZABETH, N.J.

DEAR NO TV: Call your friendly neighborhood Casanova and tell him if he doesn't have your set back today you will (a) tell your husband, and (b) report him to the Better Business Bureau. (P.S. I'm betting you get your TV set back fast with a clear picture and no hassle.)

DEAR ABBY: Four years ago my husband and I loaned my divorced mother $2,000 (interest free) to help her buy a home. She works very hard, earns a minimum wage and can hardly pay her bills. As far as I'm concerned, the money doesn't have to be repaid until after her death.

My husband is constantly arguing with me about it and getting my mother down because she has been unable to pay any part of this debt. In the last four years we have given his parents many expensive gifts, and they are very well-off financially.

We are comfortable and don't really need the $2,000, and I feel no bitterness toward my mother because she still owes us the money.

Should I ask my mother to start paying us back to satisfy my husband? Or should I continue to tell him that I feel good and Christmas-like for having helped my mother?

CAUGHT IN THE MIDDLE

DEAR CAUGHT: Since you and your husband don't really need the money, and it would be a hardship for your mother to repay it now, tell hubby to get off your back, and refuse to engage in any further dialogue about it.

DEAR ABBY: I hope you won't think this question is too dumb to answer, because I really want to know the answer.

When a pair of twins are born, and one is a girl and the other is a boy, is it true that the girl twin will never be able to have children? A neighbor who is studying veterinary medicine told me this, and he should know.

I'm an 11-year-old girl with a twin brother.

WORRIED

DEAR WORRIED: Your neighbor is wrong. He is assuming that the same reproductive laws that apply to cattle also apply to humans. They don't. With cattle, when a male and female are twin-born, the female (called a "freemartin") is almost always sterile. This is not true in humans.

CONFIDENTIAL TO S.J.O. IN ODESSA, TEXAS: The most important job a parent can undertake is giving his/her child a proper childhood. Karl Menninger, still one of the most respected psychiatrists around, said, "People repeat in adult life emotions they experienced in childhood. Many of the people whom I spent the last 30 to 40 years treating at so much per minute wouldn't have needed any treatment at all if they had had the right care as children."

Christmas carols are part of the nation's cultural heritage and the Ten Commandments are a code of conduct appropriate for the moral training of American youth, courts ruled in deciding classroom controversies in South Dakota and Kentucky.

The decisions Tuesday turned back attempts by civil libertarians and an avowed atheist to stop public instruction in religious songs and the biblical code of ethics. Appeals are likely.

"It is like playing overtime. Nobody likes to let it stand that way," said Kentucky Civil Liberties Union attorney William C. Stone after the state's high court deadlocked 3-3 to uphold a law allowing the posting of the Ten Commandments in classrooms.

In the South Dakota case, a federal appeals court - cautioning that its decision would not apply in all cases - ruled against a parent's attempt to have religious songs banned from Christmas programs in Sioux Falls public schools.

Roger Florey, an avowed atheist, touched off a statewide furor in 1978 when he complained about the use of the hymn "Silent Night" in his son's kindergarten Christmas program. He contended the use of the song violated the doctrine of separation of church and state. However, the 8th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in St. Louis upheld the Sioux Falls board of education policy allowing religious songs for instructional and educational purposes. The appeals court said the policy was not promulgated with religious purposes in mind.

"We view the thrust of these rules to be the advancement of the students' knowledge of society's cultural and religious heritage, as well as the provision of an opportunity for students to perform a full range of music, poetry, and drama," the court ruled.

At the same time, the judges said, the opinion was limited to the policy upheld in 1978 by U.S. District Judge Andrew Bogue.

Florey, 34, said he expected the American Civil Liberties Union to appeal and added he would keep his son, Justin, home from school on the days Christmas programs are rehearsed. Meanwhile, a rare tie vote by the Kentucky Supreme Court made possible when a former state attorney general disqualified himself, left intact a 1978 ruling by Circuit Judge Squire Williams Jr. that a state law permitting display of the commandments is constitutional.

"Basically, the Ten Commandments is a code of conduct which just happens to be rooted in Judeo-Christian history," said Justice Boyce Clayton.

Argued Justice Robert Lukowsky, "It is an inescapable conclusion that the Ten Commandments are a religious creed."

"I used an old trick...I got him to fall in love with me!"

Squeeze Is On...

Public Payroll Getting Smaller

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer
The country's public payroll is getting smaller.

More and more cities and states are laying off workers or not filling vacancies as they try to balance budgets squeezed by rising costs and a drop in federal aid.

Large-scale firings are still the exception rather than the rule. Most areas report they are managing to cut employment by attrition instead. But government and union spokesmen say the situation will get worse as the economy weakens and as July 1 - the start of the fiscal year in many places - approaches.

Federal statistics from the Census Bureau show that state and local employment grew at an annual rate of 4 percent in the years from 1967 to 1974. The rate of growth slowed to 2 percent and then, in 1977 and 1978, to 1 percent. After 1978, public employment started to drop. "It's not new," said Don Wasserman, director of research for the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees.

Virginia is typical. State employment had been growing by 5 percent a year until 1979 when Gov. John Dalton put a freeze on hiring. Dalton said job vacancies could be filled only if the agency involved could justify its action to him. About 115 jobs - roughly two-tenths of a percent of the state payroll - have been eliminated so far.

Gov. Hugh Gallen of New Hampshire has proposed a similar plan; vacant jobs could not be filled unless he and a fiscal committee from the Legislature agree. Gallen also wants to freeze upgrading of state employees from one pay level to the next.

Virginia and New Hampshire have avoided outright firings. Detroit hasn't. Almost 400 police already have been laid off. Mayor Coleman Young, facing a potential budget deficit of $56 million, wants to lay off an additional 703 members of the 4,600-member force - 670 of on Sept. 5 and the rest on Jan. 1, 1981.

Officials in New York City say no layoffs are planned, but the city payroll has been reduced by attrition. Kansas City, Mo., is laying off 76 of its 5,110 employees, ranging from professional engineers to laborers. An additional 100 jobs will be left vacant. "We're trying to minimize layoffs and maximize transfers," said Tom Lewinson, the city's personnel director.

A major problem for many cities is the potential loss of federal revenue sharing funds. President Carter has proposed eliminating the $2.3 billion program under which the states got block grants, then passed about 44 percent of the money on to local governments.

Unemployment in the private sector also is putting pressure on public workers. Tax revenues - from individuals and companies - are going down at the same time demand for services is going up. "We anticipate that we'll see some layoffs, particularly in local government as the tax bases start to shrink with the shutdown of certain companies," said Thomas E. Schneider, executive director of the Montana Public Employees Association.

Executions In Liberia Described By Reporters

FORT WORTH (AP)—Nine posts, nine men. One turned his eyes to heaven, another toward hell, and they died.

Paul Rowan used those words in a copyright story in the Fort Worth Star-Telegram today to describe the executions of former government leaders in Monrovia, Liberia.

Rowan and photographer Larry C. Price were in Liberia Tuesday when 13 former government leaders were shot to death by a firing squad in what the two men described as a carnival-like atmosphere on a beach outside Monrovia.

Both men told of the executions in copyright stories in the Star-Telegram.

"There was silence. Then shouting. Thousands of Liberians cheered the executions and massed onto a long, lovely, littered equatorial beach of dunes and palms," Rowan wrote in describing the public executions, first of nine men and then four others who were tied to the stakes just above the bodies of the first group to be executed.

Rowan said a spectator shouted, "They (the persons being executed) brought it on themselves."

After the initial blasts from rifles and machine guns by the firing squad, other bullets were fired into the 13 bodies "as though mere death was not enough," Rowan wrote.

Rowan and Price said that after the executions, the soldiers allowed some of the thousands of persons in the crowd up near the bodies.

"They were elated. Many spit upon some of the bodies. I saw one soldier go up and he kicked the head of one of the dead," wrote Price.

Price said some of the soldiers wanted him to photograph them with their feet on the dead bodies. He said the soldiers appeared to want that sort of coverage.

Both men told of being treated well in Liberia.

They also said all foreign residents, including about 5,000 Americans, are "unharmed, but cautious." They also reported 46 Baptist missionaries, including 11 graduates of Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary in Fort Worth, are safe and many are staying at the Liberia Baptist Theological Seminary about 10 miles from Monrovia.

The two Texas newsmen also attended a news conference held by Samuel K. Doe, a 28-year-old army master sergeant who engineered the coup that wrested control of Liberia from assassinated President William Tolbert.

Doe, described by Rowan as a slightly built man, dressed in green fatigues and carrying an elaborately carved African sword over his shoulders, told the reporters he intends to return the country to civilian rule "when the time is right, when things have calmed down."

Gen. Paul von Hindenburg was appointed chief of the German Army's general staff in 1916.

WHILE MOST GOVERNMENT and industry prototypes of electric cars are in the economy class, several private companies are chasing wealthy buyers who can afford vehicles like this one. The $14,000 sports car is said to be able to go 75 miles on a charge at speeds of up to 75 mph.

Kennedy Squeezes Past Carter In Pennsylvania

By WALTER MEARS
AP Special Correspondent
PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Sen. Edward M. Kennedy squeaked past President Carter early today to capture a Pennsylvania presidential primary so close that the winner and the loser wound up almost evenly splitting the state's Democratic nominating votes.

George Bush beat Ronald Reagan, 54 percent to 45 percent, in the Republican primary and said of his catchup campaign: "It's working." Reagan said he couldn't envision circumstances that would enable Bush to overtake him now.

The victory was crucial for Kennedy to nurse along his shaken, big-state strategy in the challenge to Carter. Even White House press secretary Jody Powell said it would "certainly be a boost to him."

But the margin — Kennedy had 47 percent of the vote, Carter 45 percent — did nothing to shake the president's firm command in the competition that counts most — for delegates. Kennedy got 94 Pennsylvania delegates; Carter 91.

Carter emerged from Pennsylvania with 1,038 of the 1,666 votes it will take to win the Democratic nomination. Kennedy had 569.

Kennedy's slender victory was built in Philadelphia; almost everywhere else, Carter was the leader.

Reagan called the Republican preferential primary "a meaningless horse race." The former California governor said he won what he sought, nominating delegates.

Reagan's managers claimed he picked up at least 50 of the state's 83 GOP delegates, but they could identify only 24 firm supporters. Rep. William Goodling, state chairman for Bush, scoffed at the claim, saying all delegates will go to the convention uncommitted.

Bush, trailing by a margin of more than 4-to-1 in total delegates, said he doesn't believe Reagan is too far ahead to be beaten.

The former U.N. ambassador said his effort to contrast his views with Reagan's is starting to register with GOP voters. Bush said that will be his strategy tonight, when he and Reagan meet in a televised campaign debate in Houston.

At the White House, Powell said Kennedy would have to capture almost 70 percent of the remaining Democratic delegates to catch the president.

Robert Strauss, Carter's campaign manager, said the president would gain 60 of the 77 delegates from Missouri, which held its Democratic county caucuses on Tuesday.

Kennedy countered by saying he had scored "a very solid victory" in Vermont, where he led Carter in Tuesday's installment of Democratic caucuses that continue through the end of the month. That pointed to a reversal of the judgment rendered when Carter won the state's March 4 primary, which did not bind delegates.

In Houston...

Reagan, Bush Squaring Off

HOUSTON (AP)—It'll be the Ronald Reagan-George Bush show tonight as Campaign '80 presents live from Houston another in the continuing series of presidential debates.

With Rep. John Anderson remaining off stage, Reagan and Bush will have the cameras to themselves in the faceoff sponsored by the League of Women Voters.

Anderson's withdrawal was announced Tuesday by League officials here. The veteran Illinois congressman is considering abandoning his quest for the GOP nomination in favor of an independent presidential candidacy.

The path to tonight's Republican debate is strewn with men who played roles in earlier debates — Howard Baker, John B. Connally, Philip Crane and Bob Dole.

Reagan, the former actor and onetime sportscaster, is getting to be an old hand after initially refusing to face the cameras in Des Moines, Iowa.

Bush has been there all along — punctuating his remarks with frequent hand movements and an occasional clenched fist.

Staying out of the initial debate in Iowa probably hurt Reagan because he lost the precinct caucuses to Bush in that corn-producing state.

The debate gave the nations a new, phantom campaign figure — "Big Mo." But he was sacked by Bush following the former United Nations ambassador's loss to Reagan in New Hampshire. "Big Mo" is the term Bush used to describe the momentum the Iowa victory had given his campaign.

Seven Republicans did battle in the League-sponsored debate in Manchester, N.H., on Feb. 20. But with so many players, no one stole the show.

Since Bush had beaten Reagan in Iowa and in the Puerto Rico primary and looked like an emerging threat, the Nashua N.H. Telegraph tried to sponsor a debate limited to the two.

But the other candidates hollered foul, and the whole thing became an embarrassment to the front-runners. When the Federal Election Commission questioned the legality of a corporation sponsoring an affair that excluded most of the candidates, Reagan offered to pick up the tab.

Bush eagerly obliged.

Just as showtime arrived, the GOP plunged into what may have been the zaniest moment of this or any other campaign.

When Bush showed up to debate Reagan on Feb. 20, he found the former California governor had brought along Anderson, Baker, Crane and Dole.

Bush and the newspaper protested the last-minute change of format. Denied a part on the program, the four exiles accused Bush of "arrogance" and "closed door politics."

Apparently the New Hampshire voters didn't like the script very much, either, because three days later, Reagan trounced Bush in the primary.

"I was challenged by Governor Reagan to a one-on-one debate," Bush protested. "I kept my commitment. I kept my word."

But it was to no avail. Bush's campaign never fully recovered from the Nashua debacle.

Grave May Belong To Missing Coed

BEAUMONT (AP)—Police say the body found in a shallow grave in a remote part of Galveston County may be that of a 23-year-old coed abducted 18 days ago.

An autopsy has been ordered, and the medical examiner was trying to determine if the body was that of Susanne Knuth, a junior at Lamar University.

A 31-year-old man, who surrendered to police in Houston, led officers to the gravesite early Tuesday.

Police said the man has made a statement, has been charged with kidnapping and was being held without bond in jail in Beaumont while authorities prepare capital murder charges.

Mrs. Knuth was abducted April 4 after she and her husband, Calvin Knuth, had car trouble. Knuth ran ahead to get another car while Mrs. Knuth stayed behind.

Witnesses told police they saw a man dragging the woman into a car. An intensive search including use of police helicopters was unsuccessful.

Police said they traced the woman's disappearance to the owner of a late model, gray Oldsmobile. The man traveled to California, but returned after friends telephoned him and persuaded him to come back and surrender.

Police said the man led them to the site, a grassy marsh near some old Sun Oil Co. well heads between Crystal Beach and Kaplan, about 5 a.m. Tuesday.

The victory was crucial for Kennedy to nurse along his shaken, big-state strategy in the challenge to Carter. Even White House press secretary Jody Powell said it would "certainly be a boost to him."

But the margin — Kennedy had 47 percent of the vote, Carter 45 percent — did nothing to shake the president's firm command in the competition that counts most — for delegates. Kennedy got 94 Pennsylvania delegates; Carter 91.

Carter emerged from Pennsylvania with 1,038 of the 1,666 votes it will take to win the Democratic nomination. Kennedy had 569.

Kennedy's slender victory was built in Philadelphia; almost everywhere else, Carter was the leader.

Reagan called the Republican preferential primary "a meaningless horse race." The former California governor said he won what he sought, nominating delegates.

Reagan's managers claimed he picked up at least 50 of the state's 83 GOP delegates, but they could identify only 24 firm supporters. Rep. William Goodling, state chairman for Bush, scoffed at the claim, saying all delegates will go to the convention uncommitted.

Bush, trailing by a margin of more than 4-to-1 in total delegates, said he doesn't believe Reagan is too far ahead to be beaten.

The former U.N. ambassador said his effort to contrast his views with Reagan's is starting to register with GOP voters. Bush said that will be his strategy tonight, when he and Reagan meet in a televised campaign debate in Houston.

At the White House, Powell said Kennedy would have to capture almost 70 percent of the remaining Democratic delegates to catch the president.

Robert Strauss, Carter's campaign manager, said the president would gain 60 of the 77 delegates from Missouri, which held its Democratic county caucuses on Tuesday.

Kennedy countered by saying he had scored "a very solid victory" in Vermont, where he led Carter in Tuesday's installment of Democratic caucuses that continue through the end of the month. That pointed to a reversal of the judgment rendered when Carter won the state's March 4 primary, which did not bind delegates.

Karen Blaker Ph.D.

How to end the star wars

By Karen Blaker, Ph.D.

DEAR DR. BLAKER — We try to be creative in motivating our children to do their household chores.

We have posted charts near where each job is performed so they can see the stars that indicate their record of responsibility.

And lately we have made things even more attractive by giving $1 to the child who earns the most stars each week.

Our problem now is that the children want the stars so much that they are willing to cheat. We have even found some stars missing from the box where they are kept. Maybe the only answer is to hide the box.

DEAR READER — It may stop the cheating, but it won't do anything to correct the basic problem.

Unless your children are chronic cheaters, my approach would simply be to make household chores somewhat less competitive.

Sibling competition is useful in motivating children to achieve, but it is usually there already and does not need to be encouraged.

Let each child keep his or her own chart. Give a prize if it is perfect. That way all the children can win if they meet their responsibilities, one will not triumph at the expense of the others.

Cheating often occurs when competition gets out of control. Do something now and end the star wars.

DEAR DR. BLAKER — My 11-year-old daughter tells me about having the same dream over and over again. It's beginning to bother me because I don't understand why it is so important to her.

Maybe you can help. Here is her dream:

She goes to Girl Scouts after school to find that new leaders are in charge. The afternoon turns into a frightening night with rain and lightning. The power goes out. She borrows a dime to call me, but the phone won't work.

The leaders offer to take her home. They drive for a long time and finally stop in front of a store with big question marks all over its windows. That's the end.

DEAR READER — The most important thing is to let your daughter talk about the dream and the feelings it stimulates.

She is probably anxious about getting home safely if something goes wrong. This is a common childhood fear and is often worked out through dreams.

If there are no other changes in her behavior, repetitive dream-telling is nothing to be concerned about.

Allison Services Friday

MIDLAND (AP)—Funeral services will be held Thursday for philanthropist Helon Allison, 75, who died Tuesday after a long illness.

Mrs. Allison's husband, James N. Allison, was publisher of the Midland Reporter-Telegram until his death in 1975. Their son, James N. Allison Jr., then took over as publisher. After he died of cancer last year, the paper was sold to the Hearst Corp.

Mrs. Allison donated $2 million to the Allison Permian Basin Cancer Therapy Center, now under construction at Midland Memorial Hospital.

She also contributed $750,000 to Midland College to establish the Allison Chair of Journalism as a memorial to her late husband and son, and gave $150,000 to the Midland Memorial Foundation for a new inhalation therapy department.

The Allison Fine Arts Building at Midland College is named for her.

Funeral services are set for 2 p.m. Thursday at the Episcopal Church of the Holy Trinity, with burial at Resthaven Memorial Park. The Newline W. Ellis Funeral Home is making arrangements.

Mrs. Allison is survived by two brothers, Ernest Young of Dallas and J.C. Young of Texas City; two sisters, Hazel LeBaron of Fredonia, N.Y., and Beth Flynt of Lubbock; and two grandchildren, Alyson Ann Allison and James N. Allison III, both of Midland.

The United States leads the world in coal production, with the Soviet Union and China in second and third places. In the developing countries, coal reserves are most abundant in India, Swaziland, Botswana, Indonesia and Brazil.

Roloff Decision Reversed

AUSTIN (AP)—The 3rd Court of Civil Appeals today reversed a district judge's order fining Evangelist Lester Roloff $22,850 for illegally operating three children's homes without a license.

The court dismissed Roloff's appeal of another part of the order that told him to get a license or shut down. The court said the order could not be appealed because it was not final.

Roloff went through the motions of closing the homes last June rather than obey State District Court Judge Charles Mathews' order to get a license. The state has the right to appeal today's decision to the Texas Supreme Court.

Roloff closed the Anchor and Lighthouse Homes for Boys and the Rebekah Home for Girls last summer after refusing to comply with Mathews' June 18, 1979, order to get a license.

Since then, he has reopened the homes under the auspices of his People's Baptist Church in Corpus Christi, again without seeking a license from the Department of Human Resources. The appeals court dismissed Roloff's appeal from Mathews' order telling Roloff to get a license by June 19, 1979, or shut down because, it said, the order was not final.

To be final, the appeals court said, an order must dispose of all issues involved in a case so that no future action by the trial court would be necessary.

The judgment of June 18, 1979, ordered the closure of the facilities unless appellants (Roloff Evangelistic Enterprises Inc. and directors of the homes) applied for and obtained a license from the state by June 19, 1979. A subsequent hearing would be required for the court to determine whether or not appellants had applied for and received a license.

Only upon a negative determination by the court, in such a hearing, would the closure of the facilities, as directed in the judgment of June 18, 1979, be operative," the court said.

It said Mathews had not held a follow-up hearing to determine if Roloff had applied for and received a license. Roloff, in fact, did not seek a license, which he claimed would violate the constitutional principle of church-state separation, and gave the Rebekah girls an emotional send-off last summer.

In throwing out the $22,850 in civil penalties, the court agreed with Roloff that the state had not proved Roloff had violated the Child Care Licensing Act by housing children under 18 without a license.

The court observed that three Department of Human Resources investigators testified they had seen a number of children at the Rebekah and Lighthouse homes but did not know their ages.

The court said it could only conclude "there is a complete absence of proof of a vital fact for the recovery of civil penalties under the Child Care Licensing Act, that being whether appellants were providing care and training for children under the age of 18 years."

The former Ethiopian emperor, Haile Selassie, died at the age of 83 in 1975.

Tigers Jump Ahead Of Brownfield

Snyder's Tigers, short-changed in first-round district baseball play, opened round-two here yesterday by slapping Brownfield's Cubs, 4-1.

Tiger hurler Tony Degrate, 4-4, nailed the Cubs to the dugout throughout the afternoon, accumulating 14 strikeouts and allowing only one hit.

Brownfield won the first half of the schedule with a 5-1 record while Snyder finished at 4-2. The mini-title means the Cubs will be involved in any 3-3A playoffs if that becomes necessary. And Snyder obviously plans to make them necessary.

"We can't afford to lose any this round," said a happy Coach Albert Lewis after his Tigers broke a 1-1 tie to defeat the Cubs. "Brownfield could win it all with a tie. We have to get everything we can get."

The Cubs could outseat Snyder as defending champs by winning or tying for the second round. Should Snyder claim the round-two title however, the two teams would have a playoff for the district crown. Snyder has won District 3-3A the past three years.

Bryan Vincent's first-inning run gave Snyder the lead here yesterday — until the fourth inning, when Brownfield used a balk to tie the score.

Tiger hurler Tony Degrate struck out the first two batters he faced, but Kelly Reid and Mark Dobson drew walks. Reid made his way to third on a couple of stolen bases before misfortune befell the Snyder team.

Next-up batter Jim Smith had slapped a foul ball past first baseman Sam Willis. Willis ran out of position to help retrieve the strike, but his pitcher didn't realize it.

When Degrate began his windup for the next pitch, Snyder coaches tried to alert him that a player was out of position. Hearing the calls, the hurler stopped in mid-throw, was called for a balk, and Reid came strolling home.

But Brownfield was not to get off that easily. Snyder went back in front in the fifth inning as Ricky Gambol singled on first, took second on a steal and third on a wild pitch, and made it, to home on a single by Toby Neves.

The Tigers added a couple of insurance runs in the sixth stanza. Willis opened with a triple and Kyle Short singled to score him. Shawn Ragland then sacrificed Short to second and Paul Gafford ripped a double to bring him in.

Smith, 5-1, recorded his first loss of the season. Snyder's next outing will be April 25 at Lamesa, 4:30 p.m.

SLIDES IN SAFE—Snyder's Paul Gafford reaches third on a steal during yesterday's Tiger-Cub game here. He was originally called "out" until Coach Albert Lewis pointed out that baseman Raymond Gibson had lost the ball. Snyder won the game, 4-1. Snyder High School plays again Friday in Lamesa, at 4:30. Rangers Belting But Not Scoring ARLINGTON (AP)—The Texas Rangers hammered Dave Rozema around for the first five innings, but when the smoke cleared the 23-year-old Detroit right hander had a 2-0 shutout that left him amazed.

"I can't remember when I had a game like this. I had a good change of pace and a lot of God's good luck. They hit me hard, but I scattered the hits and they got no walks and no doubles at the right time," Rozema said.

Center fielder Kirk Gibson, a former football all-America at Michigan State, smashed a Ferguson Jenkins curve ball over the left field fence with teammate Alan Trammell aboard in the eighth inning to give Rozema, 1-1, all the runs he needed.

Texas' Pat Putnam hit two balls "as hard as I could hit them" that Gibson ran down on the warning track, more than 400 feet from home plate. Al Oliver sent Steve Kemp bouncing off the left field wall on another pitch Rozema allowed to drift too high in the strike zone.

"They hit him several times, but the balls they hit were up," Detroit Manager Sparky Anderson said. "Everything he got up they hit. When he kept it down low, he was able to handle 'em."

Canada Plans Olympic Boycott

OTTAWA (AP)—Canada will boycott the Moscow Olympics and will ask Third World countries to follow suit to protest the invasion of Afghanistan by the Soviet Union, External Affairs Minister Mark MacGuigan announced.

LAUSANNE, Switzerland (AP)—The International Sports Federations, in a resolution polished up by Prince Philip of Britain, unanimously condemned governments which are putting pressure on athletes to boycott the Summer Olympic Games in Moscow.

Horner Burning Mad; Demands Trade Now

ATLANTA (AP)—Bob Horner said Tuesday night that two years with Ted Turner and his last-place Atlanta Braves has been a living hell and he wants to be traded rather than shipped to the minors.

"There's no reason for this," said Horner who led the Braves in hitting, homers and RBI last year but is off to a 2-for-34 start with six errors this year.

He said he telephoned General Manager John Mullen Tuesday, and "I asked to be traded."

"I've really gone through hell over here for two years," he said. "I played my rookie season with a torn cartilage in my shoulder (and still won Rookie of the Year honors) and had it operated on two days after the season."

"I had a contract hassle with them last year (settled by arbitration) and still played well for them. They've done about everything wrong that could be done. They're testing the limit of human endurance. How much of this do they expect me to do?"

Horner said he's almost sure he won't report.

"As of right now, that's the way I'm thinking," he said in a telephone interview from his suburban home. "I don't see how I'll change, but I'm not positive on that. There's no way I can see that I should be there. It's just ludicrous to me."

Horner said he's almost sure he won't report.

Talent Plenty For AAA Meet...

Regional Field Loaded

ODESSA—A pair of 10.3 sprinters, a 24-foot long jumper and the state's top pole vaulter indicate the caliber of talent to be on hand when the boy's Region I AAA track and field finals are held at WT Barrett Stadium.

Action actually begins Friday at 3:30 with preliminaries in the 120 yard high hurdles. Prelims for the 300 intermediate hurdles will be held at 5:30. All other events will be held as finals, beginning at 1 p.m. Saturday.

Odessa, Ector's James Ricks, and Lubbock Estacado's Kelvin White lead a pack of super-fast

100 meter racers, in what is traditionally known as the closest race in high school track. But Saturday's meet promises photo finishes in several other events, including the 200, 440, 880 and the hurdles.

Four participants in the 220 have been clocked within one-tenth of a second of each other this season, led by Andrew's Van Pearcey, which has eclipsed the 200 meters in 21.2.

Pearcey again leads challengers in the 440 dash, though he'll expect strong competition from at least four other athletes, which have run the quarter in the low 48s.

The meet also boasts four half-milers which have run the 1600 in less than 1:58, and at least two intermediate hurdlers capable of running the 300 meters (330 yards) in the 37s.

In fact, few participants are expected to dominate. Snyder's 5-6 pole vaulter, Dale Jenkins, would have to be favored in his event, but he could find competition from Pendley of Burkburnett, who has hit 15-foot this year.

Pearcey is the only long jumper who has reached 24 feet. He may be pressed by Snyder's Thomas Gilman and Brownfield's Gilbert Franco. Selmon, for instance, leaped 24-4 1/2 last week but the effort was nullified when he touched the sand behind him in an attempt to get out of the pit.

Only three other events have what could be a clear winner, and those are certainly not guaranteed. Snyder's Brad Richardson has leaped 6-10 in the high jump, bettering anything else in the region by four inches.

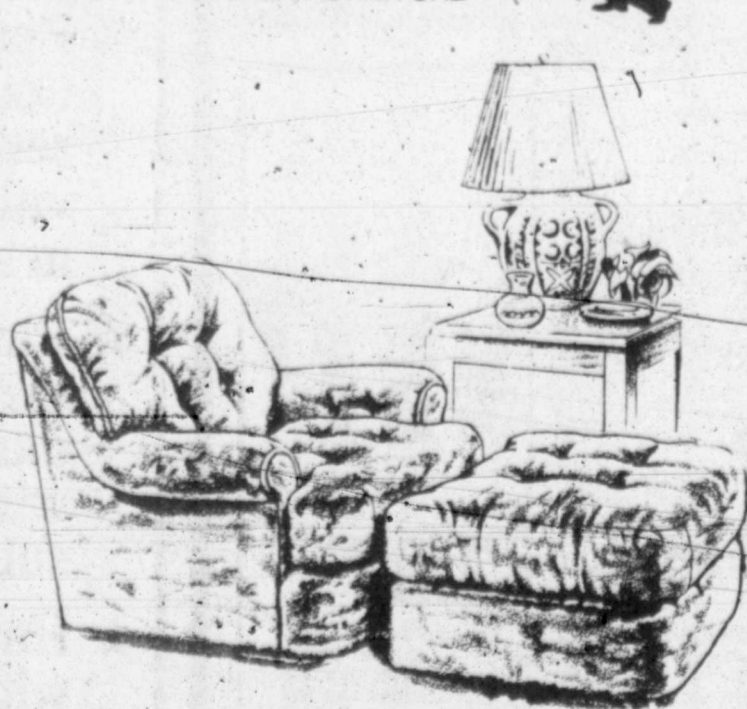

The other two probables are Gene Aduddell of Canyon, whose 176-0 effort in the discus beats his nearest competitor by 15 feet, and last year's AAA state champion miler, Andrew Daniels of Burkburnett.

Odessa Ector is the meet favorite, followed by Dunbar, Estacado, Snyder, Canyon, Andrews and Burkburnett.

House Subcommittee To Question Hunt Brothers

By JAY PERKINS Associated Press Writer. WASHINGTON (AP)—A House subcommittee looking into last month's collapse of the silver futures market has voted to subpoena the testimony of two Texas billionaires who invested heavily in the precious metal. The House Government Operations subcommittee on commerce, consumer and monetary affairs took the action Tuesday after its chairman, Rep. Benjamin Rosenthal, D-N.Y., asserted that Nelson Bunker Hunt and William Herbert Hunt, "figure prominently" in the collapse of the silver futures market. There was no word on when the subpoenas would be formally issued. The chairman of the full committee, Rep. Jack Brooks, D-Texas, must sign them before they can be transmitted to the Hunts. Brooks was out of town Tuesday. The subpoenas were issued even though the Hunts have agreed to appear voluntarily before the Senate Agriculture Committee May 2 to discuss their silver investment. Lawyers for the Hunts may have attempted to corner the silver market and actively intervened in the federal regulatory process and in the self-regulating activities of the commodity exchanges," Rosenthal said.

had information essential to the subcommittee's investigation of silver futures but so far they had declined to appear voluntarily. "We know from documents and other information made available to the subcommittee that the Hunts may have attempted to corner the silver market and actively intervened in the federal regulatory process and in the self-regulating activities of the commodity exchanges," Rosenthal said. But the subcommittee voted instead to compel the billionaire brothers to appear before it next Tuesday. Attempts to reach the Hunts for comment were unsuccessful. Issuance of the legal documents came after Rosenthal said the Hunts

Should stop hormones?

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — About 16 years ago, when I was 35, I had a hysterectomy but my ovaries were not removed. I did not have the artificial change of life but about five years ago, when I was 46, I started experiencing dreadful hot flashes and started taking Premarin. When I don't take it I again experience those unpleasant hot flashes.

I would like to know how long the hot flashes continue? Is there a time when I will no longer experience them? DEAR READER — I wanted to include your letter in the column because it illustrates the point that many women seem to forget. You can have your uterus removed as you did at an early age and that will not affect your normal hormone cycle. As long as the ovaries haven't been damaged and are not diseased, such a woman will continue to form normal amounts of female hormone as in your case. That means that when such a woman reaches the normal age for menopause, she'll have one. At that time, she'll begin to experience symptoms and may want some medicine.

As I've indicated to other women who have written in about this question, if you don't have a uterus you can't possibly get cancer of the uterus and that removes one of the major concerns about taking female hormones. The other question, of course, concerns the breasts. But if they're normal the evidence that female hormones could cause cancer of the breast, if it does at all, is minimal. It's hard to say how long hot flashes will last. Some doctors think that they shouldn't last longer than two years just from the menopause, but it's surprising how many women continue to have problems for years.

The only new items on the list of things that might be done include the use of progesterone (the other female hormone besides estrogen) which may be helpful in some cases and possibly the use of Inderal which neutralizes adrenaline and may be helpful.

I'm sending you The Health Letter number 5-12, Menopause, to give you more information about the changes you can expect. Other readers who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Send your request to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

DEAR DR. LAMB — Some time ago a person wrote to you regarding a parent who had a very large nose and wondered if when she was older her nose would also grow big. I have the same problem. My mother was a beautiful woman and had only one bad feature. At the age of 73, she had an overly large nose. In your column you said it was some form of a disease but you didn't say what disease. I would like to know what the disease is.

DEAR READER — You probably read one of my columns about "runny nose," sometimes called rhinophyma. This is a bulbous nose with large pores and it is often red. That is a disease. That's distinctly different from what happens to most noses in the course of time. Our noses stop growing when we mature but cartilage keeps on growing. Since cartilage makes up a major portion of the nose and the ears, as you get older the ever enlarging cartilage causes a person to develop a large nose and larger ears. (NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSN.)

Oil Tanker Hits Ferry

By WILLIAM C. MANN Associated Press Writer MANILA, Philippines

(AP)—A Philippine oil tanker rammmed and sank an inter-island ferry-fighter with at least 960 persons aboard in the central Philippines, but the commander of the Philippine coast guard said tanker and other craft rescued 887 survivors.

Commodore Simeon Alejandro reported 14 bodies were recovered and 59 persons were missing following the sinking Tuesday night of the 1,372-ton motorship Don Juan.

Jose Reyes of the rescue coordinating center in Manila said American military flight crews had sighted survivors in the water as late as midday today, 13 1/2 hours after the collision.

Several passenger and cargo vessels were in the area, and officials said it was possible that many of the missing could have been rescued. But some rescue officials said they feared a number of first-class passengers who were asleep in their cabins might have gone down with the ship.

Reyes said the Negros Navigation Co., owners of the ferry, reported it carried 878 passengers and a crew of 85, a total of 963 and three more than Alejandro accounted for.

There was no indication any foreigners were aboard the 300-foot ship, which had a capacity of 971 passengers.

The Don Juan sank 14 minutes after it was hit by the 1,943-ton tanker Tañoban City in the shark-infested Tablas Strait, a survivor said.

"We heard a noise like the ship bumped into something," Sonny Carpio, 30, told The Associated Press in a telephone interview from Batangas City, 60 miles south of Manila; where most of the survivors were taken.

"There was a commotion. Everybody started to panic. Before we knew it water was rushing in."

"It took the ship exactly 14 minutes to sink. I looked at my watch. I was just able to get my head out of the window and started climb up to the upper portion when I went in the water.

Ernesto Alipis, the Don Juan's radio operator, got off a distress call before the ship went down in 1 1/2 to 2,400 feet of water, miles east of the island of Maestre Campo and about 50 miles southeast of Manila.

The Don Juan was on run from Manila to Batangas City, in the central Philippines, when the Philippine National Oil tanker rammmed it between two hatches about 10 p.m.

Negros Navigation reported the night was clear and hot, and the sea was calm, it said.

Pedro Limbad, a dispatcher for the national company, said the Tañoban City had just delivered a load of oil in central Philippines.

Optimists Provide Test On Biking; Safety Form

EDITORS NOTE: This quiz and form have been supplied by the Optimist Club who is sponsoring the awareness program. The optimists urge all cyclists to test their knowledge of the sport and its machine and for all motorists to be on the lookout for bicycle riders.

The correct answers to these 50 true or false questions are circled.

1. A bicycle is considered a vehicle and should be ridden on the right hand side of the street. (T)
2. Bicycle riders should observe and obey all traffic signs, stop signs and signals and other traffic control devices. (T)
3. Bike riders should try to crowd ahead between cars at a stop sign so they can be in front when the light changes. (F)
4. Pedestrians do not have the right of way on sidewalks or crosswalks. (F)
5. The signal for a right turn is extending the right arm straight out. (F)
6. Night riding without a white headlight and red tail light or reflector is unsafe. (T)
7. Bicycle riders hitching a ride on another vehicle can easily have an accident. (T)
8. It is safe and proper for a bike rider to carry a passenger. (F)
9. A bike in poor mechanical condition is safe if the rider is skilled. (F)
10. It is safe to ride bikes three abreast when riding in a group. (F)
11. The roadway is a safe place to park your bike. (F)
12. Bikes should be inspected twice a year by a reliable service man. (T)
13. The headlights of a bicycle should be seen from at least 500 ft. (T)
14. Riding single file is the sensible thing to do. (T)
15. The proper way to make a left turn is to cut the corner. (T)
16. It is safe to enter the street from the sidewalk without first seeing whether a car is coming. (F)
17. When passing a slow moving car going in the same direction, you should pass to the left. (T)
18. Bicyclists should keep to the right while riding in the street. (T)
19. Bike riders should give hand signals when stopping or turning. (T)
20. Hitching a ride on another vehicle is safe if the rider is careful. (F)
21. icy or slippery streets are dangerous places to ride a bike. (T)
22. A bike rider should look only straight ahead when crossing an intersection. (F)
23. It is safe for two people to be on a bike if one is on the handlebars. (F)
24. Cyclists should ride at least three feet away from parked cars. (T)
25. On country roads cyclists should keep to the left, same as pedestrians. (T)
26. Broken or loose spokes should be replaced immediately. (T)
27. Pedals should not be worn or broken. (T)
28. A broken coaster brake can be easily fixed at home. (T)

Cleanup Day At Fluvanna

FLUVANNA—There will be a community cleanup day Friday beginning at 8 a.m. A sandwich lunch will be served at the community center.

The cleanup is being done in anticipation of the homecoming scheduled for June 14. Those wishing to help should gather in town, said Esma Kingston, a spokesperson for the cleanup effort.

NOON MISHAP—Miraculously, no one was seriously injured when this 1978 MG failed to stop and smashed into the side of Rip Griffin's Restaurant at 11:45 a.m. Tuesday. Even the car, driven by Sharon Sutton of Snyder, appeared to sustain only slight damage. Bonnie Sue Gehl of Iowa Park was the only one of four people sitting at the demolished booth who was taken to the hospital where she was treated and released. (SDN Staff Photo)

Sale Of Natural Gas Reaches 30 Year High

By SALLY CARPENTER Associated Press Writer

DALLAS (AP)—Sales of natural gas, labeled a fast-dwindling resource a few years ago, reached a 30-year high in 1979, the chairman of the American Gas Association says. C.C. Ingram blamed the dire predictions on competing industries and uneducated government officials who since have changed their tune.

Sales last year rose 6.1 percent nationwide and more than 13 percent in industry, he said, adding natural gas was a major factor in reduced foreign oil imports.

"I think there's an entirely different belief now and a more optimistic belief by the officials in Washington," said Ingram, in Dallas for the Southern Gas Association annual meeting.

Natural gas prices have risen higher in percentage than oil, "but it's so inexpensive compared to electricity. In the 1990s, electricity is going to cost three times what gas will cost. Coal will cost more than oil, generally," he said Tuesday.

"Gas wells are going to decline in the amount of volume that's available each year from now on. But we have enough gas that at the present usage ... we could go for 35 to 60 years on what we think we have in the way of conventional gas to be discovered and produced."

Imports from Canada and Mexico and extraction of gas from "unconventional" sources such as salt water and synthetic processes would raise the figure to 25 to 30 trillion cubic feet by the year 2000. "We think that will maintain our present market share, which is about 25 percent," Ingram said.

gram said. Ingram, 63, also is chairman of Oklahoma Natural Gas, where he has worked since his graduation from the University of Oklahoma in 1940. As head of the AGA, he oversees legal, financial and lobbying efforts on behalf of the 300 member gas utilities.

He has high hopes for synthetic gas and coal gasification - transforming coal into methane gas. While this method has been used in Europe for sometime, the United States won't have its first plant operating until 1985, he said.

Since a pilot plant would cost about $1.5 million, "they're going to have to have some government guarantees that if it doesn't work, the bankers will get their money back," Ingram added.

Much research is being devoted to appliance efficiency, he said. The AGA has participated in developing a furnace that is 90 percent efficient, compared with 60 percent for the typical gas furnace.

Heating is the area of greatest research, both for homes and industry, he said.

A billion-dollar government study showed Americans would have used more natural gas had the most energy-efficient methods been used, he said.

Thefts, Mishaps Keep Police Busy

Thefts and traffic accidents were the main bills of fare investigated by Snyder police yesterday.

Lucille Goswick told Sgt. Jerry Parker that tenants in a rent house at 1700 Ave. Q tore up the house to the tune of $2,000, plus stole some furniture worth an additional $400. That was reported at 9:45 a.m.

Tuesday afternoon police were told of a car theft. The vehicle, a 1972 Chevrolet pickup registered to Tommy Bills, was reportedly stolen from Snyder Motor Co. sometime between April 18 and 22. That incident was reported to Don Whittenburg at 4:16 p.m.

The first traffic accident was at 12:20 p.m. at the intersection of 27th St. and College Ave. It was worked by officer Joe Bob Martinez and involved a 1971 Chevrolet driven by Tonya Nobles and a 1977 Ford driven by Chester Fritz Ratliff.

The next accident was at 5:20 p.m. in the 3400 block of Ave. A. It was worked by Whittenburg. Involved in it were a parked 1972 Chevrolet, owned by Paul Voss and a 1971 Ford driven by Mary Jean Tullis.

The final accident resulted in moderate damage to the vehicles and sent one Snyder woman to the hospital.

Injured was Vivian Waters Cruthers. A hospital spokesman said the woman was admitted for observation.

Police reports show Mrs. Cruthers was driving a 1976 Toyota that was in collision with a 1976 Ford driven by Randall Jay Cook. The accident occurred at 6:50 p.m. in the 4500 block of College Ave. It was worked by Don Cheek.

OBITUARIES

Inez Lowry

Funeral arrangements were pending this morning at Bell-Seale Funeral Home for Inez C. Lowry, 72, who lived at 2208 42nd St.

Mrs. Lowry died at her home Tuesday afternoon after suffering an apparent heart attack. Her husband, Hugh (Blue) Lowry found her dead when he returned home at about 6 p.m. She apparently had been working in her yard earlier in the day.

Mrs. Lowry was a former Secretary in the audiovisual department at Snyder High School and later was employed at the Learning Resource Center at Western Texas College. She is survived by her husband; a daughter, Charlene Atwood of Port Angeles, Wash.; two sisters, Fern Hall of Amarillo and Beatrice Gilliam of Pampa; and a brother, Clifford Clark of Amarillo.
