Prime Rate Drops Again

NEW YORK (AP)—Morgan Guaranty Trust Co., the nation's fifth-largest commercial bank, today cut its prime lending rate by half a percentage point to 16 percent.

Morgan frequently has led major banks in cutting the base lending rate for loans to businesses since interest rates began falling in mid-April. The prime rate applies to loans banks make to their most credit-worthy corporate customers. Rates on almost all other commercial-industrial loans are scaled upward from the prime.

By the end of last week, the prime rates at most major U.S. banks declined to 16.5 percent from 17.5 or 18 percent. The prime peaked at a record 20 percent in early April.

Bank officials said the rate reductions have been prompted by sharp declines in banks' cost of acquiring funds in the open market and a dropoff in the demand for business loans.

Nixon's Pardon Upheld

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Supreme Court today rebuffed an attack on the legality of former President Richard M. Nixon's pardon from criminal prosecution in the Watergate scandal.

The justices, without comment, left intact a federal appeals court ruling that two Colorado men lack the necessary legal standing to challenge then-President Gerald R. Ford's pardon of Nixon on Sept. 8, 1974.

Robert Starr and James Ward, represented by Aspen, Colo., lawyer Carl Nutzhorn, had sought into invalidate the pardon.

Republicans Lose Seat

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—The Republican Party has lost the first-congressional seat it held in Louisiana since the Reconstruction.

Democrat Billy Tauzin defeated Republican James Donlon, 61,996 to 54,924, in a special election Saturday for the 3rd District seat. Tauzin will complete the unexpired four months of the term of Gov. Dave Treen and have the incumbent's edge in this fall's election.

Treen resigned in March when he was inaugurated as Louisiana's first GOP governor in 103 years.

Arsenic Alarm A Hoax

HOULTON, MAINE (AP)—A Maine truck driver who had New York City police searching for bags of potatoes that he said contained arsenic has admitted that the report was a hoax, police said.

Gary Bishop of Houlton told his employer, the Eastern Potato Dealers of Maine, and Maine State Police Sgt. William Robinson that he whipped up the story in hopes it would hasten the return of the missing potatoes.

Anti-Semitic Scenes Out

OBERAMMERGAU, West Germany (AP)—Some of the scenes regarded as anti-Semitic have been deleted from the 346-year-old Oberammergau passion play and some of the script has been revised, but there is still criticism.

Theodor Freedman, national projects director of the Anti-Defamation League of B'Nai B'rith in New York, said after the season's opening performance Sunday he was "deeply disappointed" by the new version.

Missile Tested By China

PEKING (AP)—China test-fired an unarmed intercontinental ballistic missile, 6,025 miles in a clear warning that it is capable of reaching the Soviet Union if it has to.

The missile was fired Sunday into the South Pacific, presumably from northwest Sinkiang province, and the official Xinhua news agency said the test "achieved complete success."

A ship from New Zealand in the splashdown area said the missile created a sonic boom. The Chinese task force in the region was made up of 18 ships.

Davis No Longer Bitter

NEW YORK (AP)—For a while, it seemed like singer-songwriter Mac Davis was living one of his cheatin' and weepin' country ballads. He and his wife Sarah split, and she married Davis' one-time friend and musical ally Glen Campbell.

But the bitterness has passed, and Davis told People magazine he's made his peace with his ex-wife.

In fact the tables turned in February, when she left Campbell three weeks after giving birth to their son.

"She's going through a tough time now and I've seen her and talked to her. I remember how I felt when I went through it. There were times when I really needed to talk to somebody."

"I want Sarah to know I don't hate her and that I have good feelings for her. But I'm not in love with her either," Davis says.

Riots In Miami Spark Deliberate Slayings

MIAMI (AP)—Fourteen-year-old Andre Dawson, gunned down as he walked to a neighborhood store, lay dead in the street for an hour before ambulance crews could reach him.

A white man jumped from a pickup truck and sprayed gunfire into a crowd in front of the Lakeview Lounge, killing Thomas Reese. The gunman fled.

An angry black mob pulled three young white men — a 21-year-old father of three and two teen-age companions — out of their car and beat them to death.

They were among 14 deaths — some deliberate and sadistic, others cruelly random — confirmed today as Miami's racial violence boiled into a second day. Several of the dead were suspected looters, police said.

Officials at the county morgue said eight of the dead were black and six were white. More than 200 persons were injured.

Related to the rioting — but not included in the official death toll — was

Volcanic Ash Over Three States

VANCOUVER, Wash. (AP)—Abrasive volcanic ash coughed up by Mount St. Helens drifted over three states today following a volcanic eruption that killed at least five people, left 21 missing, and forced thousands to flee a mile-wide wall of steaming mud.

The ash — which prompted health warnings — fell half an inch deep on the ground up to 500 miles away following Sunday's convulsion that turned day into night in much of eastern Washington, Idaho and western Montana.

A plume of steam and ash was still billowing 14,000 feet high from a crater a half-mile wide today, but there were no sightings of the gas fuming rivers of mud and gas which roared down the flanks of the peak earlier. There were no sightings of lava flows during the eruption.

Both the Cowlitz and the Toutle rivers were dropping after being swollen Sunday by the mudflows.

"It's still perking, but it is not as violent," Sam Frear, a spokesman for the Forest Service said. "We hope we've seen the worst."

Rescue helicopters planned to take to the air to search for the 21 people still missing. The Red Cross estimates between 2,500 and 3,000 persons have been evacuated.

The explosion early Sunday knocked 1,300 feet off the top of the once pristine and snow-covered 9,677-foot peak, which until March had been quiet since 1857.

"It looks like the aftermath of an atomic explosion," said Dwight E. Reber, a pilot for Columbia Helicopters Inc. of Aurora, Ore.

Ash and flows of gas and newly formed rock poured from the mountain throughout Sunday.

The mudflow — the consistency of wet cement — moving at 50 mph — pushed floodwaters before it, swept up cars and houses and snapped concrete-and-steel bridges like toothpicks.

Besides the five people killed, at least 21 persons were missing.

Bob Christiansen of the U.S. Geological Survey said a shock wave from the eruption devastated a miles-wide swath for 15 miles on the mountain's north side.

RAISE FUNDS FOR RETARDED—These riders were among a group of "Hike-Bikers" who raised money for the Retarded Citizens Association Saturday in an event sponsored by the Youth Aid Retarded Citizens (YARC) organization. The course of some 25 miles started at the Humble-Smith School and went to Union

Cotton Planting Delayed

Today, May 19, was scheduled as "cotton planting day" in Scurry County, but little if any planting was going on.

However, no farmers were complaining over the delay, said Billy Roach, county extension agent.

Virtually all cotton fields in Scurry County are "too wet to plow" as a result of last Thursday's heavy rains. Moreover, many fields sustained damage from floodwaters which will require repairs before planting can get underway.

Roach said some sandy land fields might be ready for planting late this week, but for the most part, there will be longer delays.

Farmers welcomed the rains, even if it meant delayed planting, Roach said.

"Without it (the rain), most of them couldn't have planted anyway, because it was too dry," Roach said. Also, he said the delay will not have a negative effect on the boll weevil control program.

NPS Plans To Shoot Burros

WASHINGTON (AP)—The National Park Service says it will start shooting the 400 or so burros in the Grand Canyon National Park in 60 days unless animal lovers come up with a feasible plan to lift them to a new home.

Park rangers say the animals are pests which erode the ecologically fragile canyon and deprive native bighorn sheep and deer of food.

The May 19 planting date had been set because a generation of boll weevils would miss out on the young cotton if the farmers waited until this date to plant. If a boll weevil hatch comes off when there is no cotton to nourish it, the weevils die. So, a later planting will serve just as well, because it was early planting the Scurry County Producers Association was hoping to discourage when it set the May 19 date.

"Last year it was the fourth week in May before they could begin planting," Roach reminded. "And even then more rain came before the farmers finished planting, and some planting was delayed until after June 10. It worked out well last year."

Indeed it did work out well, because Scurry County set a new record of more than 95,000 bales of cotton in 1979.

Roach said erosion from the heavy rains of last Thursday resulted in considerable damage to terraces, especially in the northeast part of the county where the heaviest rains fell. These fields will require considerable work before any planting can be started.

"But I don't believe any of the farmers will mind waiting now that we have the water in the ground," said Roach.

Permit Asked For New Apartments

Application for a permit to construct apartment units costing an estimated $384,000 here has been submitted to the city by Rogers and Rogers of Fort Worth.

The buildings covered in the permits will add 32 units to the firm's Kingswood Estates in the 100 block of 37th St., south of East Elementary School.

The plans call for four buildings with eight living units in each, with a total area of 19,952 square feet. The permit will push May to the forefront in city building figures this year, since construction contracts have lagged due to high interest rates for finances.

The addition of the new apartments will increase the Kingswood Estates total to 72 living units. Local officials said the expansion should help ease a shortage of rental units here.

Through April, expenses amounted to $1,081,592 as compared with a four-months projection of $1,341,457. The reason for the difference is in the charge for electric power of $550,533 as compared with a budgeted $787,385 for the period. Of the expenditures, $896,395 were for operations, $156,249 for general and administrative, and $28,948 recreational. Revenues for the first four months amounted to $2,387,971 compared with a budget estimate of $2,537,926 for the four months.

Plan To Free Hostages Reported Under Study

By The Associated Press
A plan to free the U.S. hostages in three stages is reported being readied for submission to Iran's new Parliament on June 5, seven months and a day after the Americans were seized.

Iran today began what Tehran Radio described as the biggest joint military exercises since the overthrow of the shah. President Abolhassan Bani-Sadr flew to the Persian Gulf island of Abu Musa to supervise the exercises involving planes and warships.

Soviet President Leonid I. Brezhnev and Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko sent a message to the Iranian government to mark the 60th anniversary of formal diplomatic relations between the two countries. The message praised Iran's "just struggle" against "imperialism and colonialism" and promised future Soviet-Iranian relations would be based on "equality, respect for sovereignty and territorial integrity, and non-interference in each other's internal affairs."

The hostage freedom plan was reported Sunday by the French news agency, Agence France Presse, which quoted

Water Costs Due To Rise

Through the first four months of the year the Colorado River Municipal Water District was running a quarter of a million dollars under budget for the period, but this was a seasonal distortion. As heavy pumping of water to meet summer peak demands begins, that margin will shrink steadily.

Through April, expenses amounted to $1,081,592 as compared with a four-months projection of $1,341,457. The Americans being held hostage there, was put into effect by Attorney General Benjamin Civiletti.

He ordered all Iranians visiting the United States as non-immigrant students to report to the Immigration and Naturalization Service by last Dec. 31. Those failing to report and those found to have violated the terms of their visas were to be deported.

Government lawyers say that 56,694 Iranian students complied with Civiletti's order, and that 6,366 of them were found to be deportable. In addition another 861 persons have been identified as failing to comply with the order.

Individual Iranians and a group calling itself the Confederation of Iranian Students sued the government. The suits contended that Civiletti's order violated the Iranian's right to be treated equally by singling them out from all other aliens for the status checks.

Today's action could speed up deportation efforts. Carter's order, an initial step in thus far unsuccessful efforts to break the siege of the U.S. Embassy in Tehran and free ill-advised planning

For more than 60 years mankind has witnessed the diabolical nature of communism in power.

The history of the Soviet Union is a chronicle of numerous reversals of basic policy.

Stalin's picture hung high in the Soviet Union for 25 years. No dissent could be seen; and he was lauded as a hero of the people.

Policy reversals in communist China have been no less devastating. After slaughtering millions during the takeover of the mainland, party boss Mao Tse-tung proclaimed in the mid-1950s that opposition would be tolerated.

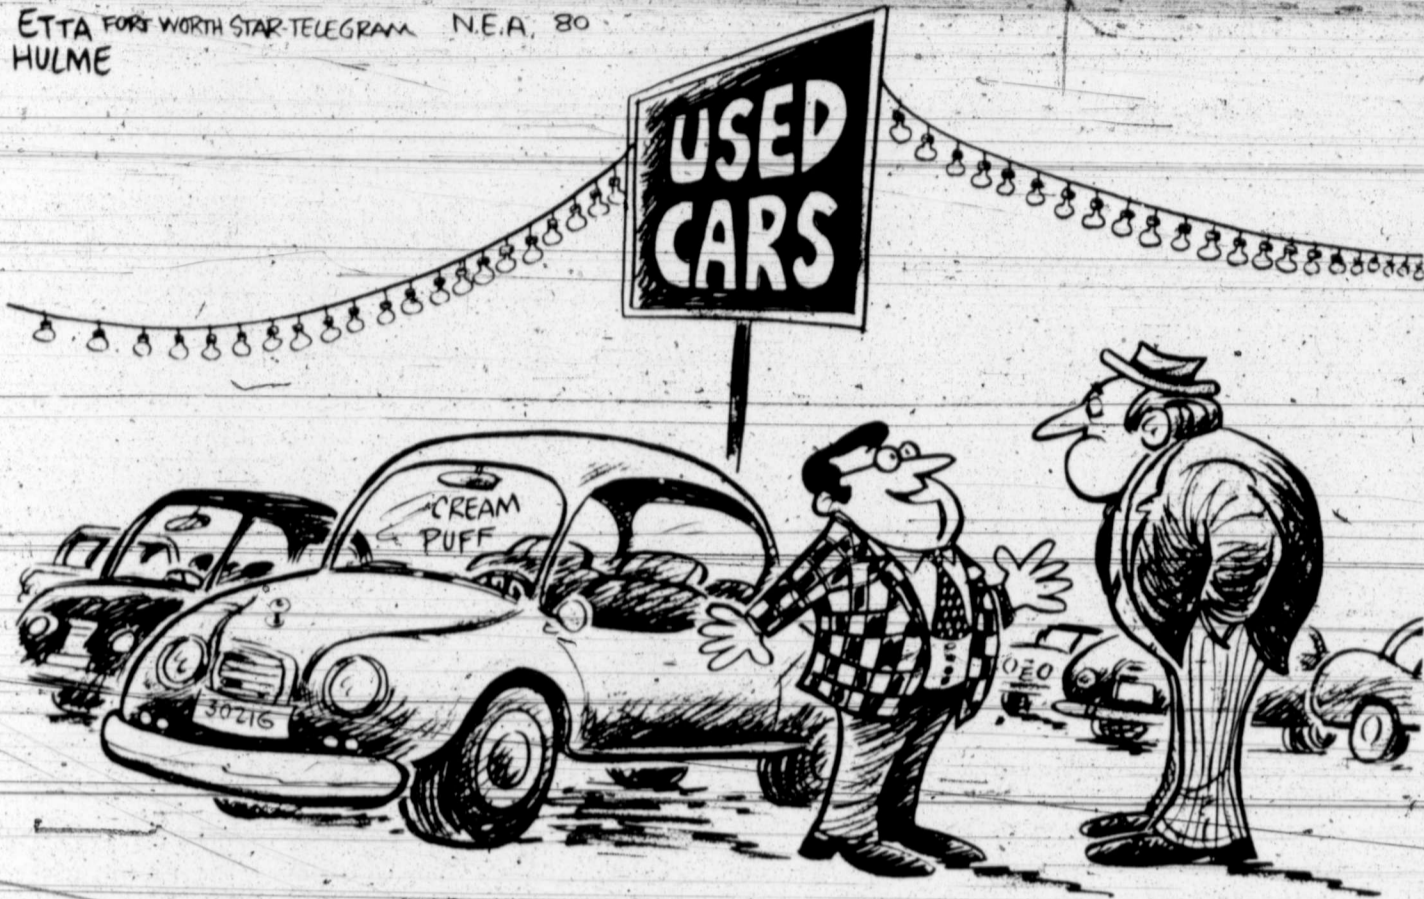

The most recent changes in China are repudiations of basic Marxist economic concepts. Inheritance rights, for example, were anathema to Mao's China.

Communist theory is based on the idea that once freed from the profit motive national leaders can scientifically plan a country's future in a way that will result in a better life for everyone.

The best way to insure consistency is to permit the largest number of people to make decisions about their own lives.

With power defused and in the hands of millions of individuals society will not suffer the radical changes in direction that occurs under a dictatorship, communist or otherwise.

education's dilemma

At the dedication of our nation's new Department of Education, President Carter promised "a tough new commitment."

He said, "Our country faces new challenges. We are on the cutting edge of change, of progress. If we are to prevail against our challenges we need a tough new commitment to education in America."

Obviously, he believed that the new education department can be a catalyst for such a commitment.

Gov. Reagan, if elected, would seek to abolish the Federal Department of Education and allow educational supervision to revert to the states.

Who's right? Public Education in our nation is failing its purpose: the academic skills of our young people which need to be enhanced are, instead, eroding.

Scholastic Aptitude Test Scores dropped again last year -- for the twentieth consecutive year. A Ford Foundation study concludes that federal programs aimed at wiping out illiteracy have not done so -- that 64 percent of Americans are unable adequately to read and write.

The Rev. Jesse Jackson says that in our public schools there is "a national epidemic of failure."

The one professional group you would expect to support public education -- is public educators. Yet they -- principals and teachers of public schools -- more than any other professional group -- send their children to private schools.

Since 1970, enrollment in nonsectarian private schools has increased 60 percent, is now 1.8 million.

Why? Better education. Whatever the factors inhibiting public education -- and they include violence, vandalism, narcotics -- it costs three times as much as private school and delivers less quality instruction.

Here are the latest results from the Stanford Test of Academic Skills: First graders in Christian schools are nine months ahead of the national average.

Eighth graders are 12 months ahead. At high school level results become progressively more impressive.

In the top quarter of the national group -- where the average public school student is reading at the 75th percentile -- Christian high school juniors and seniors are reading at the 99th percentile. Actually, what that number means is that their reading skills are beyond the upper reach of the exam.

Dr. Paul Kienel is executive director of the world's largest association of Christian schools. He says the larger benefits of a Christian education are not academic -- but because this is presently the world's standard for judging the merits of an educational system, he is proud that the "numbers" parallel the greater advantages. These he describes as a "Bible ethic for worship and work, for moral purity and personal integrity."

Does this indicate that the diploma from "a religious school," heretofore disdained, will hereafter be prized? I expect so.

common sense needed

NEW YORK (AP) -- The failures of economic policy in the past few years has proven the need for more common sense and less financial gadgetry, but that isn't to say the nation will guide itself by that knowledge.

Politics, the economists say, will always override sound fiscal and monetary judgments if only because politicians inherently believe that money solves problems, especially their own re-election challenge.

But economists too are at fault, some of them anyway, for they have failed to communicate the dangers and sometimes have buried their heads in clouds of statistics and analyses and printouts that add up to zero.

An illustration was provided the other day when a follower of -- if not believer in -- economic forecasts came upon a year-old assessment by an esteemed, highly paid member of the forecasting fraternity.

The forecast made back then in early 1979 stated that by the same time next year, which is now, the country would be emerging from recession. Understandable enough: It was a simple error. Anyone can make them.

Two factors, however, compounded the error: 1. Without apologies, the economist simply offered a new forecast: The recession into which we are descending (the earlier forecast had said we'd be recovering) would be more severe than was expected.

2. It was made to a group of lawmakers, who presumably wouldn't have accepted his testimony unless the possibility existed it might affect their thinking on how to run the legislative affairs of government.

The blame isn't limited weight of it all. The four World War II victor powers have returned to the scene of one of their few successes in post-war cooperation at the precise time when two of them are in greater disagreement than at any time since the depths of the Cold War.

The foreign ministers of Britain, France, the Soviet Union and the United States are in Vienna to commemorate the 25th anniversary of the Austrian State Treaty, an event that is a landmark of recent history on a number of points.

The agreement, signed with great ceremony in Vienna's ornate Belvedere Palace on May 15, 1955, returned Austria to the status of a sovereign nation after 17 years of occupation -- eight of enforced union with Nazi Germany and nine of four-power control.

It also was the first instance of voluntarily withdrawal from territory in the physical possession of Soviet troops, an ebbing of Soviet power from what was, until Afghanistan, the high water mark of Soviet expansion.

True, Moscow extracted a good price for the favor. Austria was pledged to neutrality between East and West and compelled to forswear union with Germany in any shape or form -- an undertaking that continues to be read as barring even membership in the European Economic Community. The country was required to buy back, for the equivalent of $150 million in goods and services, its own assets that had been seized by the Soviets and to continue to deliver a large portion of its oil production, one of its few natural resources, to the Soviet Union, the world's leading oil producer.

All in all, a pretty good deal for the Soviets. But one they most certainly would never have made under terms many times more advantageous had they had an inkling of what was coming in little more than a year.

That was the Hungarian Revolution. A free Austria next door did not make it possible to save Hungary. But it provided an escape route and haven for thousands of fleeing Hungarians. And it allowed the world an unimpeached and stunningly informative view of the true sentiments of peoples under Soviet rule and the ferocity of Soviet reaction to their attempts to regain control over their own destinies.

Austria thus stands as would never have made only such instance of voluntary Soviet withdrawal. And its performance during the intervening quarter of a century has given the Soviets other good reasons not to repeat the favor elsewhere.

Austria has thrived in freedom. A largely mountainous territory smaller than the state of Maine and with less than eight million people, it has one of the sturdiest economies of the developed world, in sharp contrast to those of its immediate neighbors and former partners in the Austro-Hungarian Empire: Hungary, with rich agricultural potential, and Czechoslovakia, the industrial heartland of the old monarchy, in comparison are embarrassing indictments of the socialist system.

Austria is without question one of the great post-war success stories. In fact, as the Austrians see it, the State Treaty marked the acceptance by the superpowers of the principle of coexistence which has been more or less the basis of East-West relations during the subsequent decades.

All this considered, there is good reason for making an occasion of this anniversary, although the Soviets might be expected to approach it with somewhat less enthusiasm than their erstwhile partners.

But there is more to this reunion in Vienna than the remembrance of a success past. Thanks in part to new U.S. Secretary of State Edmund Muskie's determination that his inheritance from predecessor Cyrus Vance is not going to include a second-banana position to presidential adviser Zbigniew Brzezinski, the Vienna ceremonies are the setting for the first top-level U.S.-Soviet conversations in the half year since the invasion of Afghanistan.

They are described as primarily a get-acquainted occasion for Muskie and his Soviet counterpart, Andrei Gromyko. But they could be the start of something more substantial.

If so, and if the developments from Vienna 1980 should be even a fraction as advantageous for our side as have been those of Vienna 1955 -- it could well be one of history's more significant reunions.

Oswald: "The late Hy Lavinthal invented the suit preference signal almost fifty years ago. Basically, you play a high card to show desire for a high-ranking suit and a low card to show desire for a low ranking suit."

Alan: "It usually is used when you are leading and in such circumstances is easy to read. When following to partner's lead, it is secondary to the more important signal of high card for come-on and low card for shift."

Oswald: "Here is a good example of it in operation by experts. East is allowed to hold the first heart with his king. He returns the jack and after South ducks the jack at trick two, West overtakes with the queen in order to lead back the ten spot which South has to win."

Alan: "South, who has chucked two clubs from dummy on the hearts, proceeds to run diamonds. On the third diamond East chucks a spade and South a club. On the fourth and fifth diamonds East continues to chuck spades. He knows that West has played the ten of hearts and reads it as a suit preference signal to show strength in spades. West would have led the eight of hearts if he wanted to show club strength."

Oswald: "Now the best South can do is to cash the ace-king of clubs and be down one. Without the suit preference signal East might have chucked a club with disastrous results."

Meteorites are large chunks of rock that fall to earth from the asteroid belt between Mars and Jupiter. Some people think they are composed of material left over when the solar system was formed 4.6 billion years ago, says National Geographic.

In 1930, the first non-stop Paris-to-New York flight began.

Losing 76 pounds changed the way I cook - and look!

Darla Overstreet can laugh about it now. "My problem area was everywhere," she says. "I'm five feet five, and do you believe I once weighed 204 pounds? I love to cook and to eat, but I knew I needed to do something about my weight. When I saw the Pat Walker's ads with the before and after stories, I thought...well, maybe I could do that, too."

No-sweat exercise gets results

LAFF-A-DAY

Couples Line Up For Spot On Adoption List

DALLAS (AP)—A long line snaked from the door at Hope Cottage this weekend, the "campers" oblivious to the hot afternoon sun and evening showers.

They waited with the devotion of rock star fans, hoping to get the best seats at a concert.

But they were young couples — many childless waiting for the chance to adopt a baby.

Mike and Debby Henry have waited nine years for a child, so the 64 hours they spent camped didn't seem so long.

The Henrys led a line of about 25 couples who have tried — and failed — to adopt a baby. In today's birth-control-conscious society, there is a decided shortage of adoptable infants.

But in a small newspaper ad last week, Hope Cottage said it would begin accepting applicants for infants at 8 a.m. today.

The wait, at least for the Henrys, was worth it.

"We've never been committed (assured that they will get a child) but we wanted to be here first," said Mrs. Henry. "We've been married nine years and have tried to adopt for three years. It's worth the wait just to get in (to apply)."

Hope Cottage Director Betty Ray Rushing said it will be the first time the agency has accepted applications for the adoption of white infants since April 10, 1978.

Couples whose applications are accepted probably will be able to adopt within a year, she said.

"I really hate to see them (prospective parents) do this (camp out), but I and my staff just haven't been able to figure out any more equitable way," Ms. Rushing said Sunday evening.

But Tom Deel, No. 14 in line, had no complaints.

Deel and his wife, Sally, were on the way to see their first adopted child, 17-month-old Jennifer, at a Dallas hospital when they passed Hope Cottage Sunday afternoon.

"When we saw there already were people there, I decided to stay," he said. His wife went on to the hospital, he said, where Jennifer is scheduled for cleft palate surgery today.

"We've been talking about adopting another child for some time," said Deel, who said Jennifer was adopted through a family, not an agency. "It (the desire for adoption) is something that just grows stronger all the time. It's just something we really want to do."

HEALTH

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Do what's natural

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB—Recently I read an authoritative treatise on prostate trouble by a well-known medical doctor. He said that prostatitis is caused either by too long abstinence from sexual activity or by too frequent ejaculations. In such cases moderation is recommended. I need more specific information. What would moderation mean in terms of sexual activity for a man of 70 years of age in order to keep my prostate healthy—once or twice a week, every two weeks or once a month?

DEAR READER—Through the years that I've heard my colleagues speak about this I've been impressed that there really isn't any useful data available to support any of their opinions. That's probably the reason some doctors think that when you have prostatitis that you shouldn't engage in sexual activity and others feel that it's helpful.

The best approach is do what comes naturally. Moderation in one person's point of view is excessive in another's. But since you seem to want a figure, I would say that many people in your age group and even younger are perfectly satisfied with sexual activity once a week. But there's no set rule. There's nothing wrong with three times a week, or more, if that suits your life style and what you want to do. And it wouldn't harm your prostate in any way.

On the other hand, if you've not maintained an active interest in sex and feel it's a chore to have sex once a week, it's not necessary to do it even that often. So suit yourself and don't count too much on your sex habits preventing or causing prostate problems for you. I'm sending you The Health Letter number 15-9. The Prostate Gland. It will give you more information about the conditions of the gland and the various disorders which involve it. Other readers who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Send your request to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

DEAR DR. LAMB—I would like to know what fruits and vegetables I should eat to get my daily requirement of potassium. Also, how necessary is potassium for body function?

DEAR READER—Potassium salt is the most important and most abundant salt inside your cells. If you have too much of it, it can cause your heart to stop and if you have too little of it, it can cause irregularities of the heart, some of which can be serious or even fatal.

Fortunately, many of our foods contain potassium; a reasonable amount is found in milk, as well. Fruits are our best source for potassium. Almost all of them contain some potassium including apples and pears. Of the fruit group, oranges, orange juice, grapefruit and bananas are some of the better sources for potassium.

I'm sure if you're eating a normal, well-balanced diet and just eat at least some fruit every day, you should be getting an adequate amount of potassium. The exception to that is the person who is taking medicine to wash out water from his body—some of the diuretics. Some of these medicines, but not all, will increase the potassium loss.

Parrots In Demand...

Feathered Aliens Add To Traffic On Border

By MICHAEL A. CHIHAK Associated Press Writer TUCSON, Ariz. (AP)—

These illegal aliens cross the border under harsh conditions - jammed into wire cages or gunny sacks, squeezed into hidden car-door compartments, often pumped full of tequila to keep them quiet. The mortality is high.

These aliens are birds. Parrots and other exotic birds are being sneaked over the Mexican border, and federal officials say they bring their smugglers millions of dollars for what often are small investments.

The illegal trade has gone on for decades but now is on the rise.

"There's been a marked increase in bird smuggling, which reflects the increasing popularity of birds as pets," said Jerome Hollander a federal Customs spokesman in Los Angeles. "More smugglers are seeing the value in it." Pet shop owners and individuals will pay top prices for parrots, and that means there's lots of money in smuggling them—pound for pound more value than in marijuana," Hollander said.

A smuggler can buy a bird in Mexico for a dollar or less and sell it for several hundred, Meisner said. Last month, a San Diego Customs auction of 120 birds seized in a 1979 smuggling attempt brought $50,000, including $2,100 for each of four macaws and $2,300 for a pair of eclectus parrots, Hollander said.

Dave Meisner, a Customs special agent in Southern California, said smuggled Mexican birds along bring $5 million to $10 million a year in the United States. Many other birds from South and Central American jungles are brought through Mexico, he added.

Smugglers often sell their birds to pet shops. They fill cages with parrots and carry them across the border in remote places, or they silence the birds with tequila, put them in sacks and stick them under the seats in the trunks, or in the door panels of their cars.

The object is to avoid the federal quarantine required for all imported birds.

The quarantine is aimed at preventing the import of diseases, including psittacosis, a bacteria that can cause pneumonia in people, and Newcastle disease, a virus that apparently is harmless to humans but deadly to birds. Federal authorities recall how Newcastle disease spread through California's poultry industry in the 1970s, forcing destruction of 12 million chickens at a loss of $56 million.

After that, bird imports were banned for a time. Later, strict import rules went into effect, requiring bird importers to submit them for 30-day quarantines for which importers must pay.

People bringing one or two birds across pay $80 to keep one bird for 30 days and $100 for two birds at the several border quarantine centers. Several places in Texas and California have commercial bird-import centers, with quarantine facilities available for thousands of birds. In the Los Angeles area, 47 quarantine centers handle birds arriving by air from international export areas.

"You can go down to Tijuana and buy a bird," Meisner said. "They'll strap it up and tell you how to smuggle it across the border. And they'll even take Mastercharge or Visa."

"Big-time operators are being caught at an increasing rate, with half a dozen major cases in Southern California and Arizona this year.

Among the cases are: Five persons arrested, including a Tucson pet shop owner, after Customs officers saw 156 birds passed through the border fence on May 1. The 139 half-moon conure parrots and 17 lilac-crowned parrots were valued at $10,000.

Three persons arrested April 13 when an undercover Customs officer took delivery of 50 military macaws worth $800 each.

A Mexican arrested April 3 after an officer found 70 parrots in his car at Nogales. The birds were worth $14,000.

On March 21 in Portrero, Calif., 250 yellow-naped amazons worth $125,000 were found in cages in a station wagon. Some of them had Newcastle disease; all were destroyed.

"If the birds are confined, it's no problem," said J.A. Peterson, a Department of Agriculture veterinarian in charge of the Nogales quarantine station.

"But some get away. In California in the early 1970s, some diseased parrots got loose and went to a nearby poultry farm," Peterson said.

"They passed on the virus and it went from there."

Personal Income Figures Sluggish

WASHINGTON (AP)—

The personal income of Americans in April showed its most sluggish performance since the 1974-75 recession as the deteriorating employment situation around the nation took its toll on wages, the Commerce Department reported today.

Meanwhile, the Federal Reserve Board said factories operated at 81 percent of capacity in April, down 2 percentage points from March and 5.7 percentage points from the average operating rate of the first quarter of 1979.

The operating rate was the lowest since factories operated at 80.4 percent of capacity in February 1977, Federal Reserve figure showed.

The April decline in factory operations, following drops of 0.9 of a percentage point in March and 0.5 of a percentage point in February, was further indication that the recession long-predicted for this year is under way.

Personal income grew $500 million last month, or only 0.02 percent, to an annual $2.07 trillion, the Commerce Department said.

This was the poorest showing since July 1975, when income fell $1.5 billion. Personal income had risen $14 billion, or 0.7 percent, to an annual $2.069 trillion in March.

Meanwhile, personal spending dropped 0.2 percent, in April to an annual $1.674 trillion. Personal outlays had risen 0.4 percent to $1.676 trillion in the previous month.

The $2.7 billion decline last month was the first since a $900 million drop from May to June last year and the largest since a $9.5 billion decline in January 1978, Commerce data showed.

The falloff in spending is yet another sign that the nation's economy probably has fallen into recession.

Dumped Reactor Not Dangerous

WASHINGTON (AP)—A nuclear submarine reactor was dumped into the Atlantic Ocean in 1959, but there has been no danger to the public or the environment, according to the Navy.

The reactor from the USS Scawolf was dumped in 9,000 feet of water 120 miles east of the Delaware-Maryland border, a Navy spokesman said Saturday. But the dumping was approved by the U.S. Atomic Energy Commission and the reactor core was removed.

Snyder High School's Tigers are scheduled to face District 4-3A champion Weatherford here Tuesday at 4 p.m. in a bi-district, best-of-three baseball playoff series.

Game Two of the series will be held in Weatherford, beginning at 2 p.m. Friday, followed by a Game Three, if necessary.

In the other Region I bi-district playoff series, 2-3A champ Monahans will meet 1-3A title-holder Lubbock Estacado in Monahans Tuesday evening and in Lubbock on Friday afternoon.

hits and six hits respectively.

Weatherford coach Kenny Cox is expected to start top Roo pitcher Ray on the hill here tomorrow and go with Pina in Game Two on Friday.

Talks Shelved; Snyder Leagues

NEW YORK (AP)—Just four days before a strike deadline, talks have been suspended in the baseball contract dispute with no new negotiations scheduled in the gloomy picture that threatens to interrupt the season Thursday.

"We have recessed negotiations subject to my call," said federal mediator Kenneth Moffett, who returned to Washington, D.C., following Sunday's fruitless talks. "I met privately with both sides and there was no movement as far as either side was concerned. Then I decided to call the recess because there had been no movement in either separate or joint meetings."

Sunday's joint meeting lasted no more than two or three minutes, although the two negotiating teams held morning and afternoon sessions. Moffett, who has been involved in these talks since March 31, seemed depressed.

"The chances for averting a strike are not good," he said.

Moffett said he would remain in touch with both sides and expected to summon them back to talks before the midnight Thursday deadline.

Controversy Mars Preakness Stakes

BALTIMORE (AP)—Genuine Risk, the nation's most beloved filly, has a welt over her right eye, a souvenir from Saturday's controversial 105th Preakness Stakes that ended her bid to become the first Triple Crown winner of her sex in history.

Angel Cordero Jr., who rode Tartan Stables' Co-dex to a 4 3/4-length victory over Genuine Risk, was absolved of any wrongdoing by the stewards after a foul claim was lodged by the filly's jockey, Jacinto Vasquez.

But the controversy lingers because of the following Genuine Risk attracted since May 3, when she became the first Kentucky Derby-winning filly in 65 years and because many television viewers, perhaps prompted by race analyst Eddie Arcaro, saw the race differently through the eyes of ABC cameras than the Pimlico stewards did.

Puff Game Slated 7 p.m.

Snyder High School Powder-Puff Football Game, originally set for 6:30 Tuesday, has been moved to 7 p.m. so as not to conflict with a Snyder-Weatherford bi-district baseball game here.

The Powder-Puff Game will be held at Travis Field.

Readers Cross Over Cross-Eyed Advice

DEAR ABBY: I wanted to scream when I read your advice to the 15-year-old who asked how she could help her best friend, who was pretty and had a nice personality but had no dates because she was cross-eyed. You told her a "kind and loving friend" would suggest it might be possible to correct her cross-eyes with surgery.

DEAR STILL: You are right, of course, as I soon realized after seeing the feedback in my mail. One letter came pouring in to support my naive and unrealistic approach. Mea culpa. Mea maxima culpa.

DEAR ABBY: There is this guy at work who keeps asking me to go out with him. So far I've turned him down because he's really nothing special, is rather loud, dresses carelessly and his language is on the crude side.

DEAR MANTOBA: I wouldn't. What if something better comes along and sees you out with him?

DEAR ABBY: Regarding the person who objected to left-handed handshakes: Boy Scouts always shake with the left hand, the reason being the left hand is closer to the heart. Baden-Powell, the founder of the Scouting movement, adopted this method of greeting people after his experience with the Masai tribe in Africa.

DEAR LEADER: Many others wrote to inform me that Boy Scouts shake with the left hand, but you are the only one who told me why.

DEAR ABBY: I've been wanting to write this for years. I am disgusted with all those wives who write to say how disturbed they are because of their husbands' snoring. I loved to hear my husband snore. I knew he was home, alive and safe with me.

7 Marines Are Killed In Copter Crash

HONOLULU (AP)—The bodies of seven U.S. Marines killed in a fiery helicopter crash on the island of Molokai have been transported to a Honolulu military mortuary for positive identification, authorities said.

Two other Marines who survived the CH-53 Sea Stallion helicopter crash were flown to Tripler Army Medical Center, Honolulu, where they were listed in critical condition Sunday.

Capt. Bill Wood, information officer, said the helicopter, stationed at Kaneohe Bay, apparently burst into flame upon impact. He said the two survivors were found near the wreckage, but did not know if they were thrown clear or crawled to safety.

Killed in the crash were the pilot, two crewmen and four passengers. The 27-year-old co-pilot suffered burns over 20 percent of his body, while the surviving passenger, 21, was being treated for burns over 60 percent of his body.

He was listed in Who's Who in American High Schools 1978-79, named All-Area, All Region, All-District, and All-State in choir, voted most outgoing and tied for most musical, voted outstanding senior male vocalist, and was the recipient of the Pleasant Hill Community Teacher Academic award.

Mandel Begins Prison Term

BALTIMORE (AP)—Former Maryland Gov. Marvin Mandel arrived at a federal prison camp in Florida today to begin serving his sentence on political corruption charges, a prison official said.

Mandel, 61, had requested that he serve his three-year prison term for mail fraud and racketeering charges at the prison facility at Eglin Air Force Base in the Florida panhandle.

Mandel is among the 20 percent of the inmate population convicted of white-collar crimes. About 60 percent of the 360 inmates were convicted of drug charges.

Mandel was scheduled originally to surrender to federal authorities last Wednesday, but U.S. District Judge Robert L. Taylor granted him a five-day extension to finish personal business.

Greater satisfaction in family life is expressed by at least three of every four persons today, in spite of evidence showing more instability of marriages and families, says Dr. Betty Jo Smith, a family life education specialist.

Dr. Smith is on the home economics staff of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

Water Cleanup Paying Off

WASHINGTON (AP)—A study of federal money spent to clean up the nation's lakes shows that the improved water provided benefits worth at least four times the cost of the clean-up.

The study, released Saturday by the Environmental Protection Agency, examined the results of the efforts to clean 28 polluted lakes. State and federal grants to aid the effort totaled $30.8 million but the benefits of the better lakes were worth $127.5 million, the study said.

The four movie producers - Universal Pictures, Columbia Pictures, Paramount Pictures and Twentieth Century Fox - produce many of the films that are seen on pay

Battle Lines Form On Pay TV Movie Sources

By NORMAN BLACK
Associated Press Writer

DALLAS (AP)—The theme of the cable TV industry's convention this year is "visions of the 80's," a reference to cable's potential to provide something for everyone.

But when the 29th annual convention got underway here Sunday, the first "vision" to present itself was an unseemly battle over who will provide the lucrative movies and other pay programs that help so many cable operators turn a profit.

The issue of pay programming is crucial to most of the cable operators who have gathered here. The success of their companies often depends on the willingness of subscribers to pay an extra monthly fee for the right to watch feature-length movies free of commercials.

Premiere was born last month amid controversy, and a Justice Department investigation, after Getty announced the film companies would refuse to sell their movies to any other national cable programmer.

cable channels. Premiere officials opened the convention by promising they would begin operation next January, ready and willing to supply films like "All That Jazz," "American Gigolo," "Chapter Two" and "The Blues Brothers."

"I don't believe Premiere will start up on Jan. 1 because it's illegal the way they're set up," said Nick J. Nicholas Jr. of HBO.

"Hopefully, the Justice Department will take some action. And we're doing everything we can to make sure our legal system is appropriately used."

Nicholas' comments came as HBO announced its own latest initiative, a new pay TV channel to be known as Cinemax. The new service will offer an extra range of movies and other special programs to complement the basic HBO service, including features for women during the day, children in the afternoon and "R" rated films for adults late at night.

Douglas Ditttrick, the chairman of the National Cable Television Association (NCTA), underscored the industry's need for programming in his welcoming remarks by noting the 1980's will be an "age of abundance instead of scarcity."

With cable operators planning systems with 54 and even more channels, they must find the programs to fill them, he said.

Even the NCTA's board of directors, however, said Sunday it had "serious questions as to whether the announced structure and practices of Premiere as presently configured are competitive or anticompetitive."

Earlier, the convention delegates heard a message from President Carter read by a White House aide, praising their efforts to offer Americans a "medium of diversity."

Congress Back On Budget Task

WASHINGTON (AP)—Facing growing time pressure and having already missed one deadline, House and Senate budget negotiators hope to complete work by mid-week on a compromise plan for balancing the 1981 budget.

The conference committee adjourned Thursday with members on both sides planning to draft package proposals aimed at resolving some of the major outstanding points of dispute.

Those differences, however, are expected to be the most troublesome ones confronting the negotiators: defense, jobs programs and food stamps. The conference was slated to resume work today.

The Senate favors a huge boost in military spending in its proposed $613.1 billion budget for fiscal 1981, which starts Oct. 1. It also wants deep cuts in job programs, food stamps and other social spending to pay for the higher military outlays.

The House-approved $611.8 billion proposal seeks a much smaller defense increase and more modest cuts in social programs. President Carter's proposed $611.5 billion budget generally parallels the House package. Last Thursday, the negotiators missed a deadline set by the Congressional Budget Act for adopting a target budget for fiscal 1981. However, failure to meet the deadline has no practical effect.

More serious is the shortage of funds facing a number of government programs, such as black-lung benefits for disabled miners, refugee aid and disaster relief.

Supplemental appropriations to pay for the programs cannot be approved until Congress votes to raise the 1980 spending ceiling, a change that is part of the 1981 budget package.

The delay in approving the 1981 budget also creates more difficulties for the already troubled drive to balance the budget for the first time in 12 years.

Both House and Senate budgets contain orders to report out bills by mid-June to save a total of more than $9 billion. The proposed Senate deadline is June 9 and the House deadline is June 15.

The largest island in the world is Greenland, followed by New Guinea, Borneo and Madagascar.
