

Activity Plunges...

Index Points To Recession

WASHINGTON (AP) — A government index designed to forecast future economic activity plunged a record 4.8 percent in April, suggesting that the nation is in for a steep recession, the Commerce Department reported today.

The April decline eclipsed the previous record one-month drop of 3 percent set in September 1974, when the economy was falling into what was its worst recession since the Great Depression.

The falloff in the Composite Index of Leading Indicators came as all 10 components of the economic barometer fell for only the second time in the three-decade history of the index.

The April decline eclipsed the previous record one-month drop of 3 percent set in September 1974, when the economy was falling into what was its worst recession since the Great Depression.

The Carter administration has been predicting a "mild and short" recession this year, but private economists have said they believe the downturn will be closer in magnitude to the 1974-75 recession.

Adren Cooper, a Commerce Department analyst, said the April slide "probably does say something about the depth" of the downturn.

"The index does have some relationship to industrial production, and that makes up about one-third of the total economy," he said. "In that sense, it suggests a problem."

The April slide in the composite index was the seventh in the last 12 months and followed drops of 2.1 percent in March and 0.4 percent in February. Revised data showed no change in the index in January and December, the report added.

Three consecutive monthly declines in this economic barometer traditionally have signaled that a recession was imminent.

The Commerce Department index is made up of 10 measures of economic health, ranging from the layoff rate in industry to stock prices and building permits.

Felicks Tamm, a Commerce specialist on the index, said the only previous time all components of the index had fallen was in November 1957, again a recessionary period.

"Layoff rate contributed the greatest decline," the report said, suggesting that the sharp increase in unemployment from 6.2 percent in March to 7 percent in April may be followed by further large rises in joblessness.

Some private analysts are predicting that the unemployment rate for May, due for release next Friday, could rise to 7.5 percent. That would translate to nearly 8 million jobless persons.

The composite index in April stood at 126.3, meaning that it was 26.3 percent ahead of its 1967 base of 100. The figure was 12 percent below the peak of 143.6 hit in October 1978.

A recession occurs when the nation's output declines for two consecutive quarters, by traditional measures. Weakness has been evident since February, when industrial production, factory utilization and retail sales began dropping.

FBI Suspects Conspiracy In Shooting

FORT WAYNE, Ind. (AP)—Three youths in a car shouted racial slurs at Vernon Jordan and his white female companion, but police said today they couldn't have fired the shot that seriously wounded the black Urban League president a short time later.

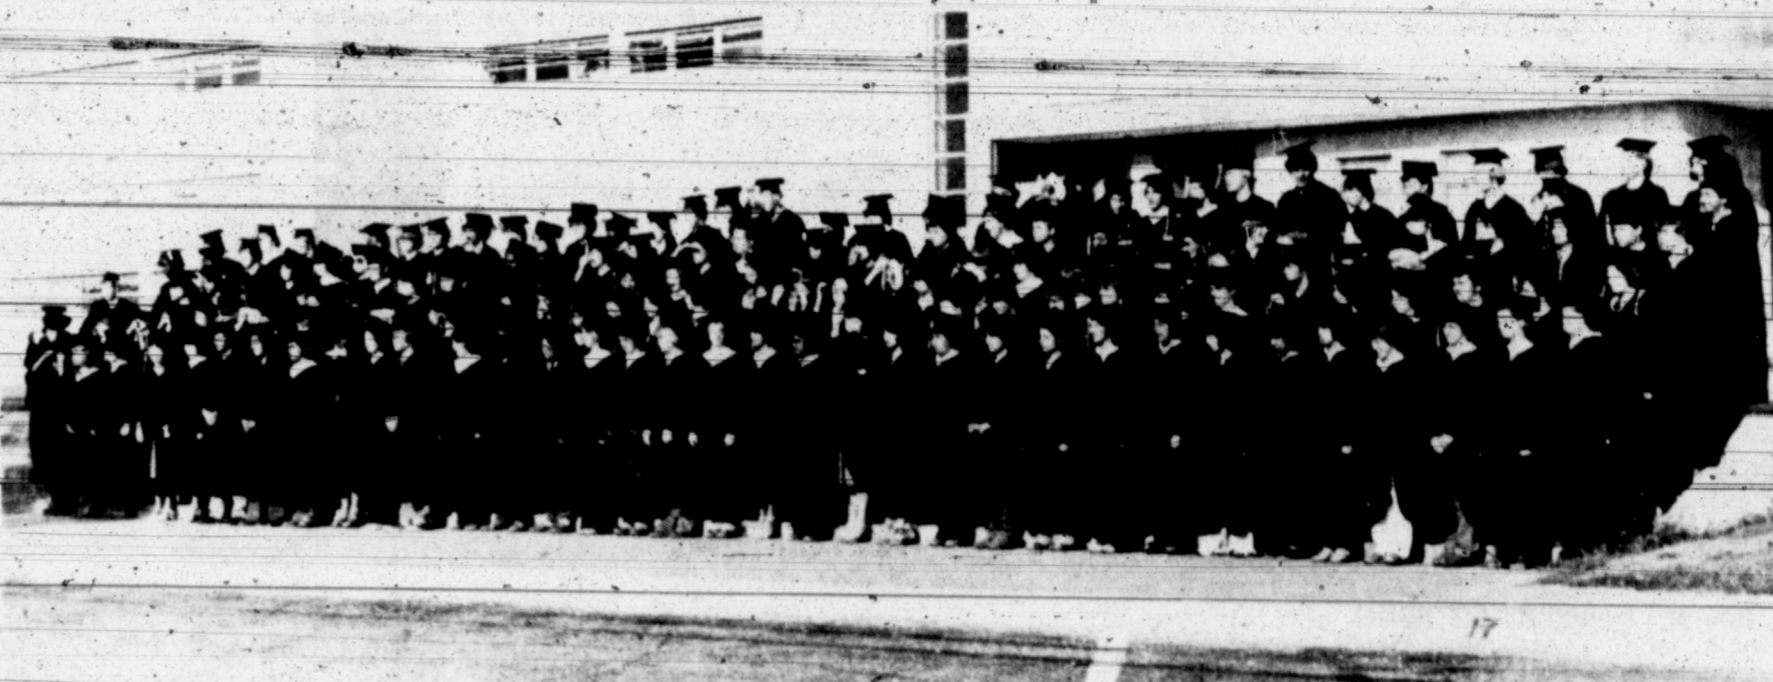

That incident prompted an FBI investigation of a possible conspiracy in the shooting, but local police spokesman Dan Gibson said, "There's no way they would have had time."

Doctors, meanwhile, said today that Jordan was in "guardedly good" condition after being shot by a hunting rifle in a motel parking lot early Thursday. He was given a good chance of making a complete recovery.

The 44-year-old black civil rights leader, under police guard in Parkview Memorial Hospital's intensive care unit, was off the critical list, but he was still in very serious condition.

More Home Loans Due

AUSTIN (AP)—Texas savings and loan associations and homebuyers can look forward to increased savings, reduced mortgage interest rates and more home loans, a lending industry report said today.

The report was prepared for the Texas Savings and Loan League by Kaplan, Smith and Associates of Pasadena, Calif.

Interest rates on six-month treasury bills — a key indicator for savings and loan associations — dropped from 13.33 percent in March to less than 9 percent in early May, the report said.

Gas Fee Batted Around

WASHINGTON (AP)—Government checks, possibly including some Social Security benefits due next week, could be held hostage to a congressional effort to repeal President Carter's controversial dime-a-gallon gasoline fee.

Foes of the gas fee succeeded late Thursday in linking the energy issue to debt-ceiling legislation needed, to extend the government's borrowing authority.

Air Search Called Off

VANCOUVER, Wash. (AP)—As the search at Mount St. Helens nears an end, the Cowlitz County coroner will begin issuing "presumptive" death certificates for the 55 persons still missing after the mid-May eruption.

Coroner D.F. Winebrenner said Thursday the death certificates will be for those persons proved to be near the volcano when it exploded May 18. Under state law, a coroner can issue a certificate if a body is not recovered and if the official is convinced the missing person has died.

Emergency officials called off the air search Thursday and said an air-supported ground search would continue only for a few days.

Keeping tab on our neighbors:
Walter Buckel of the Lamasa Press-Reporter reminisced about his baseball days as the threat of a strike by major league players was narrowly averted the other day.

"I'm afraid being 'inside the frame' dims the economic picture for both major league baseball players and owners alike," said Buckel. "We're glad the strike is settled and we have major league baseball for the summer, but the deadline reminded us of a few old professional ballplayers around here who choke on such astronomical salary figures as they discuss in the majors today. The old sidesticker, Eulis Rosson, who runs the Exxon Station at 4th and Dallas started out with Muskogee, Okla., in the old Western Association in 1946 at $70 a month! When it became apparent he was going to be a 20-game winner in his first year in professional baseball, owner Joe Magoto gave him a raise to $140 a month and wanted him to pitch every other day to earn it! Not only that, Eulie got $1.25 a day for meals, money while on the road."

Rabies Threat At High Point

AUSTIN (AP)—Animal rabies — at its highest point in 27 years — will threaten the lives of Texans until local governments get tough about controlling animals, state health officials say.

Not since 1953, when local mass immunization clinics had to be established along the Mexican border to cope with rabies carried by dogs, has the situation been so bad.

Dr. Jerome Greenberg of the State Health Department told House subcommittee Thursday 1,195 cases of animal rabies were confirmed in Texas last year, twice as many as in 1978 and 25 percent of the total number of cases in the United States.

Health department figures submitted to the subcommittee on rabies showed that of the 1,195 animal rabies cases, 857 or 72 percent — involved skunks.

William Brownlee, a wildlife management expert with the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department, suggested the upsurge in rabies among skunks may be linked to an increase in the price of coonskins.

He said trappers killed 500,000 raccoons last year as the price of a single pelt went as high as $45 in late December and January. He said skunks and raccoons have similar diets, and when trapping reduces the population of raccoons, skunks "tend to fill the vacuum."

Brownlee said the price of raccoon pelts has now dropped by one-half, "and in the next year or so will not approach what it was."

Dr. Foy McCasland, chief of the Bureau of Veterinary Public Health, suggested the Legislature set up a $100,000 fund to lend money to small communities to build animal shelters.

an ancient question

The man who can figure out two of life's greatest mysteries could write his own ticket, so to speak, by letting his fellow males in on the secret. The two questions have plagued man since Adam and Eve were told their lease on the Garden of Eden had been terminated.

One of the questions is easy: "What does woman want?" The answer should be equally easy but it is not. Man has never figured out what woman wants, probably because a woman herself doesn't know.

The second question has been asked repeatedly in each generation. "What makes men attractive to women?" Lend that some thought. Can Adam's Rib herself supply the answer?

Some of the homeliest looking men in history have attracted some of the world's most beautiful women. The question is: Did they do it with looks, money or their charm? If we had to pick one of the three, we'd have to go with charm but what one would classify and isolate as bewitchment would turn aside another individual.

The late Aristotle Onassis attracted women like sugar lures flies, and not especially because of his money. Those who knew and studied him insist he would have been irresistible to the female species, even had he been a barber. Physically, Onassis was anything but impressive. He was too short. He had very ordinary features and, as far as is known, he wasn't a masterful talker. But woman were forever seeking out his company.

One thing is for sure: The man who rallies a great deal of energy and confidence in the presence of the distaff side has a lot going for him. Invariably, women are impressed by the man who is sold (but not oversold) on himself.

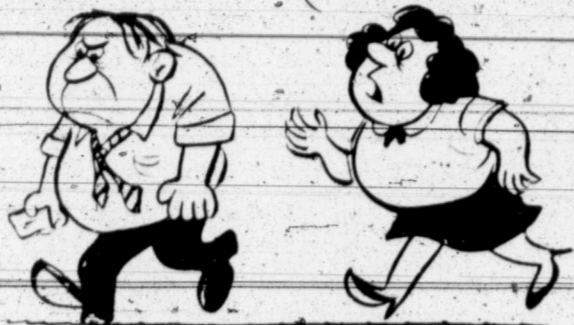

The ugly man, more often than not, succeeds in charming a femme - perhaps because he tries harder. And he tries harder because he knows he has farther to go. Nature, he knows, has deprived him of the endowments he needs to compete, so he studies, the prey with detachment and the curiosity of a man of science. To his credit, while the chase is going on, he never lets his attentions wander.

Some men of great wealth will tell you that it is easier to make your first million than it is to win the heart of a desirable woman, although the poor wretch will argue that point. The man who lacks material things will argue that his conquest would come much easier if only he could court with roses, Rolls Royces and weekends in the Bahamas.

The astute observer, the kind who is always studying human nature, says the real secret of the man who succeeds the most at turning the heads of the ladies is the good listener. It's a theory not hard to buy, since what male doesn't have to traif himself to listen, or at least to appear to be listening? If he succeeds at marriage, he stays tuned in. And the more he listens, chances are the more fondly he is regarded by the better half.

So that brings us back to Square One? What does woman want?

I can take just so many Dinah Shores, Walter Cronkies, and Mary Tyler Moore's, and I go into diabetic shock.

I love all three of those people. They're wonderful, warm, friendly and true, but Lord, this country needs a villain every once in a while to get rid of our frustration.

J.R. Ewing of the "Dallas" TV series has given this country what it has needed for a long time - an honest-to-goodness, low-down, vile, disgusting, loathsome, insufferable, offensive, unprincipled, vulgar, ill-mannered, conniving, black-hearted cad!

(He's kind to his mother Miss Ellie, but no one is perfect.)

J.R. embodies a little bit of all we deplore. He's the girl who promised to go to the prom with you, but when she got a better offer, lied and said she had to babysit. He's the creep who eavesdrops on your personal conversation and then repeats it at the dinner table. He's the sadist who puts chili powder on the cat's feet to make it dance. He's the blackguard who scrapes your car door in the parking lot and never stops to leave a note. He's the jerk who borrows your best sweater, drops mustard on it, and then says it was there when he borrowed it. He's the driver who lays on his horn one second after the traffic light turns green.

You can heap all the hate on J.R. you want and he'll help you do it. It's easy to hate a tall, good-looking, rich, powerful Texan who looks great wearing a Stetson hat with a business suit and who shows $3,000 worth of capped teeth when he's having you escorted out of town.

J.R. has added a new dimension to profanity. Every Friday night thousands of viewers sit in front of their TV sets waiting for J.R. to "get his." Next to hot tubs, it has become the No. 1 pastime.

Let the hostility roll. Economy bad? "Old J.R. isn't suffering any setback sitting down there on his oil wells." Energy crunch? "Oh, sure, and guess who's still tooling around in his gas hog!"

Politics getting to you? "Well, if we were J.R. we'd just buy the kind of politics we want." Husband inattentive? "Who do you think you are, J.R.? Fooling around with Bing's daughter. You men are all alike!" Having problems with the children? "Next thing you know you'll tell me they aren't yours... like J.R."

Oh, yes, I see a real need for J.R. in this world. After all, how can you have people who triumph over evil when you have to hunt for the evil?

Followers of "Dallas" who know that J.R. has been shot by an unknown assailant will be interested to know that CBS is not going to reveal the culprit until the show returns next fall.

J. say, "Who cares? Just as long as J.R. got his!"

code alarm

NEW YORK (AP)—A bill to recodify the federal criminal code is now before both houses of Congress, and businessmen the nation over are in a lather about it. They feel it could put them behind bars.

They say the proposed standards could also kill innovation and add to business expenses. And, they suspect, the whole mess could come about simply because the recodification is loosely and subjectively worded.

Jail is too great a price for that, they say. So, after paying little attention to the proposal, which has been around for a dozen years, they have suddenly become attentive, and howling mad too.

They are not alone. The American Civil Liberties Union, among others, also is disturbed by content and wording. But it is business, through the National Chamber of Commerce, that seems most exercised, and its greatest concern involves a section on criminal endangerment.

That section, section 1617, states that "a person is guilty of an offense if he engages in conduct that he knows places another person in imminent danger of death or serious bodily injury, and his conduct manifests an extreme indifference to human life or an unjustified disregard for human life."

"How do you defend yourself from this?" asks Jeffrey Perlman, a young chamber lawyer. "It's an absurdity," he said. "What does it mean - unjustified disregard for human life?"

As Perlman and the chamber's outside attorneys see it, endangerment as so defined could be a club to hold over the head of any business person involved in disputes about potential injuries from environment.

Suppose, says Perlman, a U.S. Attorney claims I dumped pollutants in the river. He tells me I should have known they could get into the drinking water supply. I say I didn't do it. I won't admit to it.

Under endangerment, as described in the proposed bill, says Perlman, that attorney could force me into a nolo plea by threatening me with endangerment, in which I face not just a fine but a jail sentence too.

No, said Perlman, nobody has to be hurt. Intent doesn't even have to be shown. "It's a precedent, not just a recodification. We don't have this section now. It doesn't exist in federal criminal law."

How, he asks, can a company conduct an experiment? How can it determine by experimentation if a substance, such as a pharmaceutical, is hazardous? Such experiments, he pointed out, are necessary in many industries. Often they are conducted in the interests of better health.

ing to a close, it's an appropriate time to assess this year's experiment in selecting the major party candidates for the country's highest elective office.

The first, most obvious and almost universally popular conclusion to be drawn from the 1980 experience is that there probably are too many primary elections.

At least some of the 25 states (plus Puerto Rico and the District of Columbia) that held primaries this year ought to and probably will return to the caucus-convention system that served them well in the past.

The surfeit of primaries has produced indigestion even among this city's political guttuns. Among those elsewhere with more modest appetites, the attitude of weariness is in danger of turning to rejection of the entire process.

Fortunately, that process includes a self-correcting mechanism. The format for selection of the Republican and Democratic presidential nominees remains highly fluid, as it has been throughout the past decade.

Many of the states that adopted the primary system in recent years were motivated, in great measure, by a desire to attract the type of nationwide attention long enjoyed by New Hampshire, Wisconsin, Oregon and other states with a history of highly publicized primaries.

But this year's overwhelming number of primaries has diluted the impact of virtually every individual contest. Only New Hampshire, determined to retain its first-in-the-nation status at any cost, has been immune to that trend.

The likely result of that development is that many states will conclude that their flirtation with the primary system is an expendable extravagance, to be abandoned in favor of an alternative procedure under which delegates are selected through a series of caucuses and conventions at the precinct, county, legislative district, congressional district and statewide levels.

That shift also should satisfy some of the objections of traditionalists who have argued that the political reforms of recent years have placed too much emphasis on popular elections in which votes are cast by casual, ill-informed participants. The caucus-convention system, on the other hand, allows political activists and party professionals to wield greater influence in the delegate-selection process.

Scheduling primaries in future presidential-election years poses problems less susceptible to easy resolution.

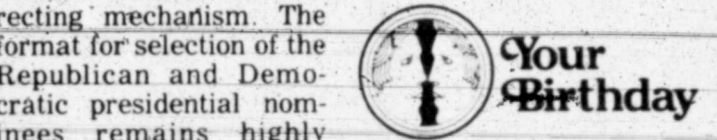

A unified nationwide primary in which voters in all states would ballot on the same day has been advocated by some, but that would offer an unfair advantage to candidates who have celebrity status or superior access to wealthy contributors.

Proponents of regional primaries have offered various formulations, some based on slicing the country vertically into four to six regions similar to time zones and others relying upon the more traditional grouping of the states.

But that approach wouldn't resolve the problem inherent in the fact that the regions voting early probably would receive more attention and exert more influence over the outcome than those at the end of the schedule.

Another solution, how-

Conservation Refuge Planned

WASHINGTON (AP) — A conservation group has bought 54,000 acres of prairies and forest in north central Nebraska for $10.8 million to create a conservation refuge. In announcing the purchase here Wednesday, the Nature Conservancy said the 84-square-mile area, near the South Dakota border, is one of the largest remaining expanses of prairies in the United States. The organization used funds from the estate of Katharine Ordway, who it said "saved the prairies through creation of a series of grassland sanctuaries in five states." Nature Conservancy scientists said the area contains one of the largest prairie dog towns in the Midwest as well as pronghorn antelopes and extensive fossil deposits from the Ice Age.

Bubonic Plague Claims Victim

Here is another hand from England. South was John Collings, one of the world's best dummy players.

North's two-club opening was forcing in the ACOL system. They were playing John's two-heart response was positive so after asking for aces. North bid seven diamonds. The game was rubber bridge and he wanted to score his honors. West made an injudicious double. He was 99 percent sure to set diamonds, but he might not be able to beat seven notrump. When it got back to Collings he rescued to seven hearts. North left it in even after East doubled. He knew that Collings had a reputation for being able to pull rabbits out of a hat and John obliged. East had to really go out of his way to give John his chance, but John did take full advantage of East's naivete. East started out by ruffing the first diamond. John overruffed, led a spade to dummy and played another high diamond. East ruffed again. John overruffed, went back to dummy and played another diamond. East ruffed with the 10. John overruffed, played his ace of trumps to drop the king and queen and made the ridiculous grand slam contract.

LAFF-A-DAY

Snyder Looking To Sew Up A State Tournament Berth

Snyder's Tigers opened the Region 1 playoffs with a feat they had been unable to accomplish since Albert Lewis took the head coaching reins four years ago -- win Game One of the series. Tomorrow the team sets out to do what no other Tiger squad has done in 15 years -- earn the right to represent West Texas at the Class AAA State Baseball Tournament. Wednesday's victory was a breath of air for the Tigers, and no doubt a choker for Coach Vince Buffamonte's Estacado Matadors, who will try to even the series 1 p.m. in Lubbock Saturday. A third game, if necessary, will follow Game Two at Estacado Field. Tickets for the possible two-game session are $2 adults and $1 students. Behind by a 3-1 score with two out in the seventh inning, Paul Gafford's bases-loaded infield single -- followed by a passed-ball steal by Bobby Degrate -- lifted the Tigers over the Matadors 4-3 here Wednesday. The win gives Snyder the edge in the series, putting the pressure on Buffamonte's brigade. But Lewis doesn't intend for his Tiger to let up. "I've got a lot of respect for Estacado," he said during workouts Thursday. "They have a real fire ball team. We'll have to work hard to beat them." Tony Degrate, 9-5, took the win for Snyder Wednesday while Joe Benavidez, 10-5, absorbed the loss. While it is conceivable both could start in Game Two, Lewis cited William Robinson, 7-6, as his probable mound man. He feels Estacado will open with Benavidez again, because, "You have to dance with the one that bring you." The other Matador hurler is freshman Wayne Dotson, 4-2. "Dotson is a good pitcher, but he's only thrown for them a few times," said Lewis. "Benavidez has been their man. He's the one that got them where they are." Snyder tried for state bids in 1977 and 79 but was shot down both times by Pecos. Ironically, the Tigers are showing an 18-15-1 record this season, their meekest record since Lewis took over for former coach "Speedy" Moffett in 1976. However, the Tigers started off 4-10 and have won 14 of their last 19 ballgames, including five playoff victories.

That's an understatement, for sure. The come-from-behind victory over Lamesa landed Snyder a spot in the District 3-3A playoffs where the Tigers defeated loop favorite Brownfield in a best-of-three series, 10-3, 1-5, 5-2. Conference 4-3A champ Weatherford then eeked to a 1-0 victory before Snyder rallied in games Two and Three of the bi-district series to reach the regional playoffs. And Wednesday, with what appeared to be almost insurmountable odds -- behind 3-1 with one out left -- Snyder again came back to win Game One of the current Region 1 series with Lubbock Estacado, 4-3. Willis won't guarantee anything, but he likes Snyder's chances as they take Estacado Field in Lubbock for Saturday's 1 p.m. Game Two start. "If we hit the ball we'll win. And we should hit the ball," he said determinedly. "And I might as well say it -- we're hell on the highway. We haven't played well at home at all. People who don't touch the ball at home hit well on the road. I don't know why it is." But whatever it takes to beat Estacado, he's sure it will be a team effort. "We'll, you know, we just keep playing. We don't quit. Everybody pulls for everybody else. I just work as hard as I can, do the best I can, like everyone else. Try not to quit. Then if we come out on bottom -- which I hope we don't do -- we can say we did the best we could."

Classic Underway; 20 Teams Entered

The first annual Snyder Classic Slow Pitch Softball Tournament was to begin at Winston Park Field here today with games extending through midnight. Twenty teams have entered the three-day tournament which boasts $1,200 worth of trophies and prizes. No admission will be charged, and spectators are urged to attend what may be the best slow pitch softball tournament in West Texas this year.

Teams from Snyder, Midland, Lubbock, Colorado City, Brownwood, Abilene and other cities fill out the field. Ellenberger Pleads Innocent

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP) -- Norm Ellenberger pleaded innocent in district court to 11 counts of fraud and 11 counts of making false travel vouchers while he was head basketball coach at the University of New Mexico.

A concession stand will be available. Saturday's play gets underway at 8 a.m. The championship game is slated for 4 p.m. Sunday.

Abdul-Jabbar Named Most Valuable Player

LOS ANGELES (AP) -- Kareem Abdul-Jabbar feels that at the age of 33, he's not getting older, he's getting better. "I think I've changed as a person and as a player the last couple of years, and I'm proud of the change," said Abdul-Jabbar, who was named the National Basketball Association's Most Valuable Player for a record sixth time in his brilliant 11-year career. "I've matured as an adult," he said. "My roots may be in the 1960s, but this is 1980 and I hope I've matured since then."

long as I can maintain the standards I've set for myself, stay in shape and stay healthy, I'm going to keep on playing."

When the 1980 baseball season began, few had much hope for Albert Lewis' Tigers. A 4-10 start only echoed those feelings. Nope, it wasn't to be Snyder's year. But then, almost suddenly, it all changed. Now, fourteen wins and only five losses later, the Tigers are on the verge of gaining a berth to the Class AAA State Tournament -- a goal that has eluded them for 15 years. All-district first baseman Pete (Sammy) Willis, one of 11 seniors on the squad this year, points to the final regular district game with Lamesa as the major turning point. "We were behind 6-0 with five outs left and we scored eight runs to beat them," recalled Willis, who goes by the nickname "Slop." "If we had lost, we wouldn't be here right now, that's for sure. I think that marked a whole big change for us. That was when it all began." What began was a sort of

Pope Hopes Visit To Attract Young People

By JEFFREY ULBRICH Associated Press Writer
PARIS (AP)—Pope John Paul II begins a historic visit to France today, a pastoral journey he sees as the opening phase of a global campaign to attract young people back to the Roman Catholic Church.

The visit will be the first by a pope to France since 1804 when Pius VII went against his will for Napoleon's coronation in Notre Dame Cathedral. It will be in the same cathedral that John Paul celebrates Mass today.

Tens of thousands of security personnel have been mobilized to handle the crowds not only at the cathedral, but in the Champs-Élysées at the foot of the Eiffel Tower where the Polish pope will meet 15,000 members of France's Polish community Saturday, and at Le Bourget Airport where the pope will celebrate Mass before some 1 million French of all backgrounds Sunday.

"The Holy Father wants to convey a message, that the Roman Catholic Church is an exciting and rewarding place to be for today's youths," said a Vatican-based U.S. prelate who asked anonymity.

"He believes the church must redouble its effort to attract the young people, and France is a good place to start the campaign."

Vatican figures show more than 80 percent of France's 53 million people are Catholics, but only 35 percent of the children from Catholic families go to Mass regularly.

JOINS CHURCH STAFF—David Askins of Tyler has joined the staff of Morningstar Baptist Church to assist with youth, music and education programs during the summer months. He is a graduate of Jacksonville Baptist College, a two-year college, and plans to enter a senior college this fall. He is a licensed minister, pianist and singer. (SDN Staff Photo) typical phenomenon the church faces in industrialized Western nations.

Despite a slight increase in recent years, only 100 priests are ordained in France every year, compared with 1,000 in 1951. The archbishop of Paris, Cardinal Francois Marty, is over the Vatican retirement age of 75 and nearly 10 other key bishops are over 70.

In 22 speeches and homilies in three days, the pope is expected to appeal directly to French youth, "to try the church for problem-solving and peace of mind," while calling on bishops and priests to make themselves more responsive to the needs of the young.

He said the French church was undergoing "growing pains" — an apparent reference to problems related to the progressive and traditionalist groups that have sprung up since the reforms of the Second Vatican Council of 1962-65. But he quickly added that he did not "dare to make any judgment."

Influential French prelates have been pressing the Vatican for an early papal ruling on the case of maverick French Archbishop Marcel Lefebvre, leader of a traditionalist movement with a global following.

Another thorny issue is likely to be France's abortion law, which has been a sore point between the Vatican and the French government since it was enacted in 1975.

John Paul's trip to France is his sixth outside Italy since he became pope. He has traveled to the Dominican Republic and Mexico, Poland, Ireland and the United States, Turkey and six African nations.

The Vatican also has announced a 10-day papal trip to Brazil beginning June 30. He is also expected to visit the Philippines in November.

Dear Abby

20,000 Americans to GI's: "We Think of You"

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: A great big thank you from all the soldiers, sailors, airmen and Marines in the U.S. Forces in Korea! You have helped to relieve the loneliness of over 20,000 military personnel stationed in Korea by providing them with a glimpse of home through a stranger's eyes.

It all began when a soldier named Allen wrote to you about the depression many GIs feel as they walk away from mail call empty handed.

You ran his letter asking your readers to write to those forgotten kids half a world away, and you gave the address: Commanding General, Eighth Army, Seoul, Korea, APO, San Francisco, Calif. 96301.

Letters came in by the thousands, cutting a broad swath through America's heartland. Envelopes bearing postmarks from Canada, Puerto Rico and each of the 50 states came in by the bundles!

There were letters from children. One boy sent his week's allowance ($1) so that a serviceman would be able to buy stamps.

Another youngster sent a letter and enclosed five rare and valuable 1-cent stamps. Obviously someone in his household was a stamp collector. (We returned the stamps.)

There were letters from mothers and grandmothers, opening with "Hello, Son!" They told of their experiences in wars of a different era; some told of their relief when their sons came back from Vietnam — or of their emptiness when no one returned to them.

Many letters carried news from home. They wanted to make sure we knew that the U.S. hockey team had beaten the Russians. They were proud of their country, and proud of us for serving in the military.

School children wrote to express their feelings of loneliness, fear, doubt and hurt — feelings they couldn't share with their parents or friends. But somehow they felt a serviceman would understand.

What a morale-booster those letters were! What happy excitement you created here.

So, Dear Abby, we send our thanks to you and all those generous American people who wrote. Thanks, on behalf of every serviceman who has ever been lonely. Sincerely,
THE U.S. FORCES IN KOREA

DEAR U.S. FORCES: God bless each and every one of you in every corner of the world, working to defend our great country.

DEAR ABBY: I have a job I really like. It pays well, and my boss (whom I'll call Mr. R.) is the greatest.

During the daytime he never makes a move toward me, but when I work evenings he gets a little too friendly. Mr. R. is married and I'm not, but I do have a boyfriend. And even if I didn't have one, I wouldn't be interested in Mr. R. because he's old enough to be my father.

Last night while working late, he turned on the stereo and asked me to teach him how to disco. I told him I had a sore toe (not true). Then he said I didn't have to worry about his wife walking in on us because she lives in the suburbs and doesn't drive.

Can you give me a few suggestions on how to keep Mr. R. in his place? I don't want to hurt him — just discourage him.
WORKING GIRL

DEAR GIRL: Tell him you like your job and don't mind working nights, but your boyfriend holds a black belt in karate, doesn't live in the suburbs — and he does drive.

DEAR ABBY: Every year I make a donation to the American Cancer Society in honor of my father.

No, he did not die of cancer. He had cancer, but recovered after undergoing surgery and treatment.

If more people would celebrate their loved ones' recoveries in this manner, even more lives might be saved in the future.
THANKFUL

CONFIDENTIAL to those who have sent for Abby's booklets: Please, please be patient. I am literally deluged with orders and am getting them out as quickly as possible.

Reagan To Get All Texas Votes

By GARTH JONES Associated Press Writer
AUSTIN, Texas (AP)—Republican presidential candidate Ronald Reagan will get all of Texas' 80 national convention votes, state party leaders say.

This would be a repeat of the sweep he made of Texas' nominating convention delegates in 1976 against President Gerald Ford, who later became the nominee but lost Texas to President Jimmy Carter.

Throughout Texas, GOP delegate selection committees will meet Saturday in the 24 congressional districts to carry out dictates of the May 3 presidential primary.

At least 19 of Texas' national GOP convention delegates will carry the George Bush banner, but Bush's state campaign headquarters said Thursday they are pledged to support front-runner Reagan.

Bush quit last Monday as an active candidate for the GOP presidential nomination but he retained the delegates he has won and said he would not release them until the Detroit convention voting begins.

Bush's headquarters in Houston said his 19 Texas delegates would go to Detroit July 14-17 as Bush delegates but at the convention Bush will ask them to vote for Reagan on the first ballot.

"These people stuck their necks out for me, and I won't just leave them hanging," Bush said Monday as he acknowledged Reagan has won.

According to the May 3 presidential primary, which was binding in selection of national convention delegates, Reagan got 61 delegates, Bush 19 and none uncommitted.

Seventy-two of the delegates will come from the selections made Saturday in the 24 congressional districts. Earlier in the week, eight at-large delegates were picked, all for Reagan since he carried a majority of the statewide vote.

The statewide delegates include Gov. Bill Clements, Texas' first GOP governor this century; Midland Mayor Ernest Angelo, Reagan's state campaign manager; former Gov. John B. Connally, an unsuccessful aspirant for the GOP nomination who now supports Reagan, and State GOP Chairman Chester Upham, Mineral Wells.

Another statewide delegate is Sen. John Tower, R-Texas, who remained neutral until Reagan had the race in hand.

Each congressional district gets three national convention delegates.

In 17 districts, Reagan will have all three delegates, according to the May 3 vote.

In six districts, Bush will get all three delegates. In one district, Dist. 9, in the Houston-Galveston area, Reagan gets two delegates and Bush one.

All delegates selected Saturday, and by the at-large committee, must be formally approved by the state GOP convention June 21 in Houston.

The delegate selection committees were named by the campaign organizations of the candidates in the May 3 primary.

Special Service

At Church Of God

Special services have been planned for Sunday evening at the Church of God, located at Ave. O and 21st St.

A visiting group from Lamesa will present a service of singing and also provide the minister for the evening preaching service. The service will begin at 6 p.m. and the public is invited to attend.

Harpichord Program Set At Museum

A program of harpichord music by Robert Williams of Sweetwater has been scheduled for the enjoyment of visitors to the Scurry County Museum Sunday.

The museum will also be opening a new exhibit, Old Master Paintings, on Sunday. The paintings are on loan from the Sarah Campbell Blaffer Foundation of Houston, and date back to the 14th century. Since the harpichord flourished from the 16th to the 18th centuries, the musical program is very fitting for the occasion.

Sunday hours at the museum are 1-5 p.m. The museum is on the south side of the Western Texas College campus.

Sweet drinks no substitute

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB—I have a grandson who has been given pop and tea to drink almost since he started using a cup. He is now 3 1/2 and has a 12-ounce can of pop occasionally besides getting tea quite often. He also gets weakened cocoa.

I've objected to this but gotten nowhere. I feel the amount of caffeine he gets in these beverages is harmful and I don't think he should be getting much chocolate at all.

His mother is very conscientious about seeing that he gets a well-balanced diet and he drinks milk, although not as much as I think a child his age needs. I don't have anything at hand to reinforce my beliefs and they always ask me if I have any proof. So will you please send me any information to convince them of the danger of giving him these beverages?

DEAR READER—Everything is relative and, of course, it really depends on how much of these your grandson is getting. It's certainly true that caffeine is a powerful brain stimulant and what seems like a small amount for an adult can be a pretty big jolt for a child. School teachers frequently see a problem called "caffeineism" which is associated with students hitting the cola machine, using lots of chocolate and sometimes consuming considerable amounts of coffee.

Pop doesn't necessarily contain caffeine. The soda pops such as grape soda basically just provide a sweet drink. These usually don't provide any nutrients other than calories and are a source of sugar. The recurrent ingestion of sugar may contribute to an increased incidence of dental problems. Tea, of course, does contain caffeine and if it's used regularly by a small tot,
