Refugee Surge Revived

KEY WEST, Fla. (AP) — Refugee packed vessels of all shapes and sizes braved rough seas in the Florida Straits and straggled into Key West from Cuba today in one of the biggest surges since the "Freedom Flotilla" began 38 days ago.

After several days of relatively few Cuban arrivals, the influx picked up after sunset Friday. By early today, 1,730 refugees had arrived at government procession docks aboard 21 boats, bringing the total number of Cubans arriving in the United States since the flotilla began to 91,236.

Dallas Suburbs Bulging

DALLAS (AP) — People, unexpected hordes of them, are moving to Dallas suburbs in numbers that would make city planners wince and Thomas Robert Malthus blush in his grave.

Malthus worried in 1798 that the world's population would double and redouble until there wouldn't be enough food for everybody. He probably has some new believers in communities like Addison and Plano.

The North Central Texas Council of Governments predicted that while Dallas' population grew a healthy 8.3 percent during the last decade, the population of Addison, just north of Dallas, leaped from 395 to 8,750 — or a whopping 1,370 percent.

At that rate in 40 years the population of the seven square mile suburb would be more than the entire nation's.

No Trial For Talmadge

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Herman E. Talmadge, D-Ga., who was denounced by the Senate last year for financial irregularities involving campaign and Senate funds, will not be prosecuted in federal court, the Justice Department says.

Assistant Attorney General Philip Heymann announced Friday the department will not seek a federal grand jury indictment of Talmadge on any charges relating to the year-long Senate Ethics Committee investigation.

Japanese Minister Stricken

TOKYO (AP) — Prime Minister Masayoshi Ohira was taken to a hospital in an ambulance today as he was about to begin a crucial election campaign.

Aides said Ohira, 70, had an irregular pulse and was suffering from fatigue. He was expected to stay in the hospital for five or six days.

The prime minister was forced to cancel a trip to the southern city of Kumamoto.

Ohira called Japan's first double election, for both houses of Parliament, after his government was surprised by a vote of no confidence in the lower house on May 16. Ohira had been chosen either resigning or calling for general elections.

Israel To Invite Sadat

CAIRO, Egypt (AP) — Israel will invite Egyptian President Anwar Sadat to meet there with Prime Minister Menachem Begin, unofficial Israeli sources said today.

The sources said the invitation would be extended by Israeli Ambassador Elhahu Ben Elissar, who met with Sadat today and reports Israel is threatening not to complete its withdrawal from the Sinai Peninsula unless an international police force is formed in the one-time desert battleground.

The SDN Column

State Comptroller Bob Bullock's office has a publication called "Fiscal Notes," which devotes considerable space to an energy report in its latest issue.

One item that stands out is a graph charting the influence of prices on drilling decisions in the state's oil industry. Leaders in oil-producing states have been trying to convince those in the "consumer states" all along that domestic production of petroleum would increase if operators were allowed to charge enough for their oil to show a profit after going to the expense of punching costly holes in the ground.

Bullock's chart shows that the argument of the producing states is well founded. Titled "The responsiveness of crude oil drilling to crude oil prices in Texas," it shows that, back in 1974 when the average price of Texas oil was a little over $6 per barrel, there were 4,000 wells. By 1979, when the average price of Texas crude oil had exceeded $12 per barrel, the number of wells had increased to 7,500.

The story was similar for natural gas. In 1973, when the average price per thousand cubic feet was 30 cents, there were 1,500 wells, but in 1979, when the average price was $1.20 per thousand cubic feet, there were 3,750 wells.

Is there indeed a relationship between the nation's decline in productivity in all areas of the economy and government regulations, plus harassment from pressure groups? In his report, the state comptroller notes that a decline in active rigs seeking additional natural gas in the winter of 1978 and the spring of 1979 has been largely attributed to the uncertainty generated by the passage of the Natural Gas Policy Act in November of 1978. This is the regulation that provides some 28 pricing formulas for natural gas.

LAST TIME TOGETHER—Snyder High School's graduating class of 1980 sits together for what likely will be the last time all of them will be in the same assembly as they listen to the Rev. Miller F. Robinson, the commencement speaker Friday night in the Scurry County Coliseum. (SDN Staff Photo)

SHS Graduates Urged To 'Never Lose Heart'

Snyder High School's 1980 graduates were admonished Friday night to "never lose heart."

The Rev. Miller F. Robinson, pastor of Colonial Hill Baptist Church, speaker for the commencement program in the Scurry County Coliseum, told the graduating seniors that there will be times when they will be tempted to quit, but that they should never give up.

He cited instances in the Bible in which such personalities as Moses, Solomon and even Ezekiel faltered. However, he reminded that Paul, the apostle, urged Christians to never give up and he was one who had many opportunities as he fought life's battles as a great missionary.

Prior to the presentation of diplomas by Ted Crenweige, president of the school board, 43 scholarships were announced by John Short, Snyder High School Counselor.

Short said the scholarships, provided by many local individuals and organizations as well as colleges, were valued in excess of $25,000.

Lee Presswood, vice principal, introduced Sammie Dayton Robertson and Suzanne Denise Fisher as the valedictorian and salutatorian, respectively, and other students who graduated with honors. The speaker was introduced by Ray Courtney, principal, and the graduates were presented for their diplomas by Supt. Bill J. Hood.

Lava Raises Blast Chances

VANCOUVER, Wash. (AP)—Lava on the floor of the half-mile deep crater on Mount St. Helens could be as hot as 950 degrees — and could raise the chance of explosions on the volcano's scarred flanks, scientists say.

Glowing lava appeared on the mountain Friday for the first time since the volcano began rumbling March 27. The mountain erupted May 18 in a devastating blast that caused an estimated $2.7 billion damage to state and private property, according to state Budget Director Lyle Jacobsen.

Scientists had predicted the eruptions of gas and ash, which covered six states with a powdery fallout and filled rivers with mud and debris, would be followed by lava oozing to the surface to form a dome in the crater.

Runoff Voting Interest Sags

AUSTIN (AP) — A thin line of Texas Democratic and Republican voters will complete their nomination next Saturday of party candidates for the November general election.

The second party primaries, completely dominated by presidential politics in recent weeks, are expected to attract less than 750,000 of Texas' 3.3 million eligible voters, according to the secretary of state.

About 2 million voted in the May 3 primaries, which included a presidential preference poll by both parties.

The Democratic ballot will contain the only statewide runoff contests, two for the Texas Court of Criminal Appeals and one for the Texas Supreme Court. Less than 100,000 Democratic voters are expected.

Also on Democratic ballots in various parts of the state will be two runoffs for district congressional seats and 14 places in the Texas House.

There are no statewide contests on the Republican ballot. The only runoffs are for a Republican nominee for Congress and two GOP nominees for the state Senate.

In 1978, the second Democratic primary attracted 759,000 voters, mostly because of a hot race for the Texas Railroad Commission. There also were four runoffs for Congress.

In the runoff for Place 1 of the Texas Supreme Court, to succeed retiring Associate Justice Zollie Steakley, Democrat John C. Phillips, 62, former chief of the Austin Court of Civil Appeals, faces Jim Wallace, a former state senator and now on a Houston court of civil appeals. The winner faces Republican attorney Jim Brady, 59, Austin, in November.

The two Court of Criminal Appeals races are strictly Democratic, with no Republican opponents in November.

No Demand For Scurry Ballots

Interest in second primary voting here is zero so far, County Democratic Chairman Gene Bowlin reported at the end of the week.

"I don't think we will have 1,000 votes," said Bowlin.

His estimate could be liberal based on absentee voting figures. Through Friday, not a single absentee ballot had been issued at the county clerk's office for the June 7 runoff Tuesday is the last day for absentee voting.

The Democrats have only three races on their ballot, and the Republicans don't even have a runoff here this year.

The Democratic Party's ballot has three state court posts up for decisions. These include Place 1 on the Texas Supreme Court, with James P. (Jim) Wallace and John C. Phillips the candidates. Place 2 on the Court of Criminal Ap peals, with W.T. Phillips and Mike McCormick the candidates, and Place 3 on the Court of Criminal Appeals, with Tom Davis and Edith Roberts the candidates.

Bowlin said that in view of the anticipated light turnout, he plans to combine some voting boxes for the runoff, unless the Department of Justice objects. He plans to have Boxes 1 and 20 in Snyder voting together at the Scurry County Coliseum, Boxes 6 and 49 in Union and Crowder voting together at the Union Community Center, and boxes 15, 17 and 18 voting together at the school administration building in Snyder. Rural boxes will function at their regular sites, but all will have a minimum of workers.

This will reduce the cost of holding the election, Bowlin said.

Gasoline Levy Faces Scuttle

WASHINGTON (AP) — While banks are ready to honor benefit checks for 35 million Social Security recipients, President Carter's 10-cent gas fee appears headed for cancellation.

Opponents of the unpopular levy wrung a commitment from congressional leaders Friday for a showdown floor vote on the dime-a-gallon fee next Wednesday.

That was price paid by House and Senate leaders to obtain passage of an emergency five-day extension of the federal debt ceiling. Failure to pass the extension by midnight Saturday could have hung up Social Security and other government benefit checks.

Those on both sides of the issue now agree that once put to a vote, the gasoline levy — already blocked by a federal judge — will be permanently shot down by wide margins in both chambers.

And House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill, who supports the fee and had tried to block a floor vote on it, conceded Friday that opponents also seem to have enough votes to override the veto Carter has threatened.

Treasury Department officials said the stopgap legislation was needed to have enough cash to pay all of the $9.5 billion in Social Security benefits that come due June 3.

Failure of Congress to raise the debt ceiling, officials said, could have meant that some of those checks — already in the mail — would not have been honored by banks.

Ask Us

Q Must I stop at railroad crossings where the red lights are flashing or, seeing that the train is still quite a way from me, can I simply cross over the tracks without stopping?

A Stop, look, and listen is the rule of thumb. State law requires all vehicles to stop at railroad crossings when and where red lights are flashing. Once stopped, motorists are free to move on and cross the railroad track if they see it is safe to do so. Some vehicles, such as school buses and trucks carrying explosives, are required to stop at all railroad crossings, regardless of whether there are any flashing red lights.

U.S. Fears Europeans Endanger Peace Effort

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States is trying to head off a European peace initiative for the Middle East which officials here believe could destroy the Camp David peace process.

The differing viewpoints were brought out in the open Friday during a three-hour meeting between Secretary of State Edmund S. Muskie and French Foreign Minister Jean Francois Poncet.

Francois Poncet told a news conference France believes little progress is being made toward a comprehensive Middle East settlement under the Camp David formula.

Unless there is decisive action soon, the "trend toward radicalism and instability in the whole area will become a major source of trouble for all of us," Francois Poncet said.

He added that Muskie frankly told him the European proposal might damage the Camp David process.

At issue is the continuing usefulness of the now-suspended Israeli-Egyptian negotiations to create a self-governing Palestinian authority in Israeli-held territory.

Shortly after Francois Poncet spoke, a senior U.S. official, who asked not to be identified, told reporters that the Camp David process is still alive, "even though there is a pause in it."

He said the European initiative would not be useful at this point and added that the Carter administration is urging both Egypt and Israel to resume their negotiations.

Seattle Remains

Free Off-Fallout
SEATTLE (AP) The phone has been ringing off the hook with officials wondering if Seattle is a safe place for the June 8 meeting of the U.S. Conference of Mayors. The callers don't apparently know Seattle is one of the few places in the Northwest that escaped fallout from the eruption of Mount St. Helens. Even Portland, Ore., 175 miles to the south, got dusted.

Spiritual Comment

By JIM PATRICK
Director of Music
Colonial Hill Baptist Church

In Philippians 4:4, we find that Paul says to "Rejoice in the Lord always, and again I say rejoice." The letter that this passage is found in was written while Paul was in prison, and we as Christians should find comfort in such a positive attitude, for we have much to rejoice about. Let us think for a few moments about three aspects of our Christian lives we can rejoice in. First and foremost is our salvation. God had mercy on a sinful world and sent His most beloved possession His only Son. Through the Son we can find salvation. What can be greater to rejoice in than for the fact that we are assured that we can live with our Lord for eternity because of this act of love that we might attain this great salvation. "Rejoice in the Lord always."

The second aspect to rejoice about is sorrow. This seems to be unusual to be positive about something that is negative, but if we allow the Holy Spirit to take control in our lives in time of sorrow, we find that we can see "light at the end of darkness". He is the source of our strength and we can take comfort in the mere mention of His name. Nothing seems to calm as well as whispering the name of Jesus over and over again.

And finally, we can rejoice in the fact that we are called to service. We have a tremendous responsibility in our Christian lives to spread the Good News of Christ. We have been entrusted with the greatest news on earth, and we can do that service when we dedicate our lives to Him. What can be more exciting to us as Christians, than to proclaim to others about our wonderful Lord — Jesus Christ.

Each day holds new and exciting paths about our Lord and we would be able to say as Christians, "Rejoice in the Lord always, and again I say rejoice."

Why insulate a house — really?

Insulation retards the flow of heat — into the house during summer and out of it in the winter, says Sue Young, a housing and home furnishings specialist on the home economics staff of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

All that helps keep a home cool in the summer and warm in the winter — and saves money — really.

BOOKMOBILE TO HAVE FILMSTRIPS—Loel Forrest will be showing filmstrips at each stop of the Scurry County Library's Bookmobile during the summer months. The schedule includes Ira on June 3, 17, July 1, 15, 29, Aug. 12, 26 from 9:30 a.m. to 11 a.m.; Fluvanna June 5, 19, July 3, 17, 31, Aug. 14, 28 from 9:15 a.m. to 11 a.m.; Hermleigh, June 11, 25, July 9, 23, Aug. 6, 20 from 9:30 a.m. to 11 a.m. Participation in the Texas Reading Club is set for June 15-Aug. 15.

4-H Horse Clinic Set June 26-28

Youths between the ages of 9 and 19 with interest in improving their horsemanship will have this opportunity June 26-28 in Snyder at the 4-H Horse Clinic.

Each summer the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, through the Extension Horse Specialist, conducts horse clinics over the state. This year the Scurry County 4-H Horse Club will sponsor the clinic in Scurry County. Supervised instruction will be from 8 in the morning until 6 to 7 in the evening.

Instruction will be given in basic horsemanship such as: bits and biting, leads and circles, simple lead changes, flying lead change, stops and backing, sidepass, turns and pivots. After instruction sessions each participant will bring and use his own horse to practice these maneuvers.

The second day the group will receive instruction in showmanship at halter, western pleasure, western horsemanship, barrel racing, pole bending and other events if requested and facilities available. Practice sessions will follow each instruction period.

The third day will feature training and fitting horse for show at halter, equipment selection and use, and a special parent 4-H leader session.

A $25 fee will be charged each participant for the clinic. This will be used to pay the instructors, clinic expense and refreshments.

Any youth between the ages of 9 and 19 interested in attending the clinic or having questions contact Kent Miller, 4-H Horse Club leader, or Billy E. Roach, county extension agent, at 2605 Ave. M in Snyder.

Dear Abby

Nora Needs a Man; Mike Needs a Gag

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I am engaged to marry a very handsome, successful business executive I'll call Mike. Mike hired a secretary about three months ago. I'll call her Nora. I saw Nora only a few times at Mike's office. She's middle-aged, slightly overweight and very plain looking. She's a divorcee. Mike said she was very competent.

Yesterday Mike told me that Nora had come to his apartment on the previous Sunday afternoon and announced, saying she had something very important to talk to him about. He invited her into his apartment, without the slightest idea what she wanted to discuss. She then said she was very nervous and would Mike please pour her a drink. He said he gave her a drink and had one with her to make her feel more comfortable.

Then Nora told him that from the first moment she saw him she had a schoolgirl crush on him, and would he make love to her just once before he got married?

Abby, can you imagine such a request? Mike said he politely told her that he didn't think that was a very good idea, and she had better leave because he had an engagement.

What do you think of Nora? And what do you think of Mike?

SPEECHLESS IN ALBANY

DEAR SPEECHLESS: I think Nora is pathetically in need of a man. And Mike has a very big mouth.

DEAR ABBY: At age 76, this is my first letter to you. Ten years ago I had surgery for an enlarged prostate. My doctor told me that it would not affect my desire for sex or my ability to perform.

After the surgery, both were affected. I have no problem because neither my wife nor I miss the sex, but the question is, Was the surgeon wrong, or am I the exceptional case? I am sure there are many men and women who are interested in knowing, but if you use this letter, sign me.

WIMPY FROM PA

DEAR WIMPY: Much depends on the extent of your surgery. Perhaps the surgery was more extensive than the surgeon thought it would be. There is also the possibility that your inability to function sexually is due more to psychological than surgical reasons.

DEAR ABBY: A friend of mine has an oil painting of a naked lady hanging in her den. She claims it is a work of art, but it looks like pornography to me.

This friend entertains many religious and elderly people who avoid going into her den because they are embarrassed by this obscene painting.

Abby, if this woman is so fond of that painting, don't you think she should hang it in her bedroom where it wouldn't embarrass anyone?

RED-FACED IN GREEN BAY, WIS.

DEAR RED-FACED: Your friend has the right to hang whatever pleases her in her home. Pornography — like beauty — often lies in the eye of the beholder.

CONFIDENTIAL to those who have sent for Abby's booklets: Please, please be patient. I am literally deluged with orders and am getting them out as quickly as possible.

PERFORMING TODAY-Robert Williams is shown at the keyboard of the harpsichord he will be playing in the Scurry County Museum this afternoon. The instrument is a replica of one built by Hans Ruckers of Antwerp, Belgium, in 1617. Williams constructed this one with the assistance of a friend, Dr. Dick Sommerfeld, of Fort Collins, Colo.

Harpsichord Helps Provide Variety

Variety is apparently the spice of Robert Williams' musical life.

He is currently organist for the First Presbyterian Church in Sweetwater, where he and his wife, Lucile, have lived since 1977. Visitors to the Scurry County Museum this afternoon will see him in the role of harpsichordist, presenting a musical background for the opening of the Old Master Paintings exhibit.

A native of Dallas, Williams lived in various parts of Texas before joining the Army Air Corps during World War II. He studied music at the University of Denver after the war, graduating with a bachelor of music in piano and musical composition in 1949. Following a year of teaching in the Shreveport Conservatory of Music, he enrolled at Northwestern University in Evanston, Ill., and received a master of music degree in 1951. Since then, he has studied with C. Purves-Smith, Oscar Wagner and David Burge.

Williams has taught in his own studio as well as at Colorado Woman's College, Southern California Bible College, and Colorado State University. He spent eight years as accompanist-voice coach for G. Willard Bassett Studios in Santa Ana, Calif. The harpsichord he will be bringing to the museum, one he built incidentally, has been used in playing baroque ensemble music as well as for several weddings.

Hours at the museum today are 1-5 p.m. The Old Master Paintings exhibit opening during the afternoon is on loan from the widely-known Sarah Campbell Blaffer Foundation of Houston and includes 23 paintings. The exhibit has been on tour for three years, and will return to Houston when it leaves the museum here in late July.

Driving Course Set At WTC

Automobile drivers who would like to reduce their insurance costs may enroll for a defensive driving course to be offered June 2 and 9 at Western Texas College.

Classes will meet from 6-10 o'clock each night in room 110 of Building 2B. Dr. James Palmer will teach the course. Fees are $15 per person.

Persons wishing to reserve space in the course are to call the Continuing Education office at 573-8511, extension 240. Students who complete the course will receive certificates entitling them to reductions on certain types of automobile insurance.

in death in 1938. Surviving are five daughters, Evelyn Fenton and Isaluru Minor, both of Snyder, Norene Allred of Bellville, Kan., Iris Lynn Stewart of New Braunfels and Shirley Payne of Lubbock; two sons, Elwood Blakely of Dallas and Monty Blakely of Wassau, Wis.; and 20 grandchildren.

Plan Blockade Of Demo Convention

NEW YORK (AP)—A coalition of 20 protest groups says it will stage a "blockade" of the Democratic National Convention at Madison Square Garden in August.

Brian Hoffman, a spokesman for the Convention Protests Coalition, said Friday up to 200,000 participants are expected. He said the group planned to sit in streets to block access to the arena.

Theft, Three Mishaps Are Reported Here

A theft and three minor traffic accidents were reported to police Friday.

The theft was reported by James Stehley, principal of Snyder Junior High. He told Lt. Clay Scogin a guitar was missing from the school and was valued at $500.

The first traffic accident of the day was at 4:55 p.m. in the East Ridge Addition, southeast of town. There, a 1972 International owned by Walton Construction Co. and a 1978 Lincoln owned by Pat Burton of Fort Worth collided.

The next accident was at 5:50 p.m. at the Travel Lodge. Involved in it were a 1977 Chevrolet driven by Emma Mae Shuler and a 1962 Nash driven by Wayland Bruce Walton. The final accident of the day occurred at 3000 College Ave. at 6:20 p.m. and involved a 1970 Ford driven by Bradley Richardson, and a 1980 Ford driven by Barry Wayne Chaney. All the accidents were worked by officer Don Cheek.

Protest Of Fine Filed By Phillips

The OSHA office in Lubbock levied the fine May 2 for "serious violations" of federal safety standards the OSHA says may have caused the Jan. 20 explosion in the Panhandle plant.

Termites and all about them

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

One would be hard pressed to find someone in the United States with greater knowledge of termites than Frances M. Weesner.

It all started during World War II when she was a student at the University of California at Berkeley under the tutelage of the late Dr. S. F. Light, one of the foremost authorities on termites in the United States and co-author of "The Text" on termites. She has followed the scholarly example of Dr. Light.

In the early '60's she was lured back into the termite mainstream by Drs. Ralph E. Neal and Philip J. Spear of NPCA. She has authored "The Termites of the United States, a Handbook" for servicemen, as well as writing or collaborating in the writing of several books in other zoological fields. She has devoted the better part of three years to work on a massive, multi-authored, two-volume work on her favorite topic, "Biology of Termites," for Academic Press. Included in it will be the new data obtained by the termite flight and distribution survey in which NPCA members sent specimens to her from all parts of the nation.

BY FRANCES M. WEESNER (MRS. R. R. LECHLEITNER)

Termites were inhabitants of the earth long before the dawn of recorded history and now are one of the costliest of economic pests. They held this unfortunate position because of a peculiar biological fact — they are one of the few groups of animals capable of utilizing cellulose for food. Since modern man makes a supply of cellulose — most commonly in the form of wood — readily available in his dwellings and other buildings, termites are assured of an adequate, even abundant food supply.

Because they can consume cellulose debris, such as wood, dead grass and even humus, termites play an important role in the breakdown of such material in nature. If they limited their activities to breaking down old logs, branches and other similar materials, they would be a distinct aid to man. Their ability to consume cellulose in the form of wood, however, becomes of major economic importance when they invade — and eat — wooden structures or attack cellulose-based materials, such as paper.

Termites are rather small, social insects, always living in colonies which are essentially family groups. Such groups eventually number many thousands of individuals. Most termites live in the tropics but a few species have spread into both cold and temperate regions.

One group of termites in particular is restricted to the North Temperate areas of the world (including Europe and Asia as well as North America). These termites are commonly termed subterranean and belong to the genus Reticulitermes (Re-tic-u-li-ter-mes).

Reticulitermes are inconspicuous since they usually move through passageways in the soil, or are hidden within the wood upon which they are feeding. This wood may be in, upon, or even above the ground. Their presence in an area may go undetected unless a flight or swarm of the insects appears in the open and is observed, or until they have caused damage to man's structures.

Subterranean termites are responsible for most of the damage (a good estimate is about $500,000,000 annually) caused by termites throughout the continental United States.

WHAT ARE TERMITES?

Don't confuse termites (left) with "flying ants" (right). Termites have uniformly broad bodies and two sets of equal-sized wings. Ants have transparent and unequal wings (front pair much larger than rear). Ants have pinched waists — termites do not.

Most of the individuals in the subterranean termite colony are immature forms which are whitish and wingless. These are often referred to as "workers" since they feed upon the wood, extend passageways through the soil, construct covered tubes above ground under certain circumstances, feed the reproductives and soldiers which are present in the group or colony, and care for the eggs and the very young termites which have just hatched from the eggs. Despite their small size (about 1/4 inch), the workers attack and consume wood, although only a minute fragment is removed at a time. One termite does not have much effect, but thousands of individuals, working together, and over a period of time, can completely consume a log, and just as readily destroy structural timbers.

Thus the populations of termites which are native to an area may gradually increase over their potential in the natural situation when man's structures provide an environment which promotes year-round activity as well as a bountiful supply of food. Such a build-up of populations would explain the increase in structural infestations, which has occurred in the northern portions of the country. This has not occurred in a year or two, but very slowly over many years.

In addition to the necessity for food, and for a temperature level which permits activity, subterranean termites require a rather high moisture level for survival. Once again man's activities, in the form of irrigation near structures, as well as moisture provided by condensation on pipes, water leakage around fixtures, spillage around bath areas, etc., tend to supply the necessary sources of water and may actually constitute an improvement over pre-existing conditions (for the termite), especially in naturally arid regions.

INVASION OF STRUCTURES

Householders should know that the damage caused by subterranean termites is not the result of a structure being invaded by a swarm of flying termites, but rather from the attack of a well-established subterranean colony nearby. The time to really worry is not when a swarm is seen flying toward a structure, but when one is seen flying from it.

Invasions from nearby well-established colonies can take place rapidly and on a massive scale. On other occasions the invasion may be a minor one and the attack on a small scale. In many cases, years go by before attention is called to the presence of termites by visible damage or the sight of a departing swarm.

Termites can enter a structure through the most minute of cracks, such as are often found in foundation walls, or through the spaces around plumbing inlets. The preferred route is through a piece of wood that is in direct contact with the soil. This provides a direct and convenient avenue of attack for the hungry workers.

Termites may build shelter tubes usually of soil fragments, over impenetrable material to reach new food sources. These shelter tubes are built within spaces which cannot be examined (for example, hollow-lift foundation bricks) they may go undetected until damage has occurred.

DEVELOPMENT OF COLONIES

The appearance of alates or winged termites is often the first indication of a termite problem. Termite alates are usually produced in mature colonies each year and emerge in flight from the parent colony. Those that escape their natural enemies seek to pair with a member of the opposite sex. A tiny fraction of the couples establish new successful colonies. Most of the flights of subterranean termites in the United States occur during the day and in the spring, but others emerge in late summer and fall and sporadic flights may occur at any time of the year.

The winged adults are yellow-brown to coal black (depending upon the species). They have two pairs of wings which are approximately equal in size, are much longer than wide, and are flat laid on the back when not in use. The wings are longer than the abdomen. The flight of termite alates is relatively weak and fluttering since the movements of the wings are not well synchronized. These wings are shed rather readily after flight, usually as soon as the alate reaches the ground. At times the homeowner may not observe the flight but may find shed wings, particularly around windows or lamps since the winged alates are attracted to lights. The termites, or even the shed wings, should be retained for examination by the Pest Control Operator. They will permit a positive recognition of a termite population and even the type of termite involved.

WHERE DO TERMITES COME FROM?

The homeowner should be aware that termites are present in the natural habitats in most areas of the United States. Their numbers vary from region to region, and even in a particular city they may be common in one area, scarce in another. Colonies are situated in any suitable material, such as old roots, and in much smaller debris in the soil (not to mention pre-existing structures) and they may readily move into new structures erected in their vicinity. Subdivisions in previously wooded areas provide a convenient new source of food. In areas where cellulose materials are limited, as in the Great Plains, structures may actually provide an improved source of food material for the termites there. The fact that termites are quick to utilize new food source, is well illustrated in the plains areas by the rapid attacks upon stakes, fence posts, and untreated poles in undeveloped areas.

In addition to providing a convenient and even improved source of food, man's structures often create a controlled environmental situation which may favor the growth of the termite colony and ultimately of the population of termites in an area. In regions where winters are cold (as in most of the northern and central United States) termites in their natural situations retreat into the soil during the winter, thus, their periods of active feeding and egg-laying are generally confined to the warmer months of the year. In the southern United States the same termites remain active throughout most of the year and colony development is apparently much more rapid and population density is greater. It is becoming increasingly evident that termites which invade structures in colder climates may remain active throughout the winter when they are provided with the necessary temperature for continued activity. Indeed, such groups are often situated near furnace areas. This will logically result in increased feeding, increased egg production and an increase in the size of the group.

RESIDUAL GROUPS

The homeowner should be aware that flights of winged adults may occur immediately after treatment, or even a month or two later even if an effective chemical barrier has been established. Sometimes flights appear to occur as a response to treatment, even though no previous flight was observed. Such immediate response may result from the fact that the application of chemical in a water emulsion provides one of the stimulants for flight — that is, an increased moisture level. Later flights indicate that isolated groups have survived long enough to complete the usual cycle of activities resulting in the annual production of winged adults. Studies have shown that the individuals which will become adult winged termites have a relatively high resistance to drying out or desiccation and thus may persist to emerge even though the colony itself is doomed.

INDUSTRY'S ROLE

The control of termites represents more than 30 percent of the professional pest control work performed annually in the United States. Yet because much more termite control work still needs to be done, it is estimated that American home and property owners routinely cough up millions of dollars each year — at least $500,000,000 — to repair the damage done by this destructive intruder.

Discovery is only part of the termite battle. The property owner may observe them swarming in the spring or tunneling upwards into the frame of the dwelling. Then the dirty work begins: crawling under porches, drilling in concrete, and trenching around the foundation. There isn't just one tool for the job. Most homeowners, smitten by termites, have found the "do-it-yourself" approach an almost impossible avenue to effective control. They lack the equipment, time and knowhow to do a thorough job. Many have learned this lesson the hard way.

There are established principles of termite control procedure followed by virtually every reliable pest control firm. The goals of successful protection include:

1. establishment of mechanical and physical barriers to keep the termite away from and out of the structure
2. the provision of chemical barriers in the soil within and outside the foundation, to turn back termite infestations
3. flushing of infested wood with chemicals known to wipe out termite colonies working within the wood.

The chemical barriers established in the soil are of long lasting chlorinated hydrocarbons. Careful research by government agencies has shown that the chemical is firmly anchored to the soil particles where placed; there is virtually no runoff to streams through the subsoil and consequently no hazard to other and degradable forms of animal life.

"Before you invest — investigate" is recommended in purchasing termite control. Check a firm's references. A telephone call to your Better Business Bureau or your County Agricultural Agent is recommended. If your state has a structural pest control law, be certain you are dealing with a licensed firm. The National Pest Control Association will provide a list of members in good standing, assurance that the firm you select has an established place of business and has met certain admission prerequisites.

Most important of all, when you discover termites are attacking your home, don't panic. It will not collapse. Take time carefully to select a responsible firm to correct the condition. You will find a well-established industry ready to help you.

Scurry Speaking...

Slaying By Indians Near Dunn Ended Romance

(The Scurry County Historical Commission is dedicated to the preservation of our local history and heritage. The following article is one of a series concerning county history planned for publication in the Snyder Daily News this year.)

By Dr. Harry Krenke
It was the summer of 1849. The wagon train moved slowly westward across the flat Texas Panhandle. Riding near the creaking wagons, Mary Conway and Lieutenant Montgomery Pike Harrison talked quietly. The young woman was part of the Fort Smith Company, a group of emigrants bound for California; Harrison was an officer in the United States cavalry unit commanded by Captain Randolph Marcy that had been assigned to protect the train as it crossed Indian country.

Perhaps it was inevitable that on the long journey these two young people would meet and fall in love. Both were attractive, bright, and charming. Both were from distinguished families, she from a prominent Arkansas family, he the grandson of President William Henry Harrison.

Although Mary and her handsome lieutenant had known each other only a few weeks, the couple wanted to wed as soon as possible. Mary's father approved of the match, but insisted that the wedding be delayed until the family reached California. At Santa Fe, Lieutenant Harrison's unit left the wagon train to return to their duty station in Arkansas. In the sad farewell Harrison promised Mary he would come to California at the earliest opportunity.

Marcy's command broke camp at Santa Fe on Aug. 14 and followed a route that led east from New Mexico through present day Pecos, Monahans, Midland, and Big Spring. From Big Spring the troops moved northwest into present Scurry County. It was now October and on the sixth they made camp two miles north and west of what is today the Dunn Community. Because Marcy was suffering from dysentery, the troops remained at this camp a second night. On the morning of the second day Marcy ordered Lieutenant Harrison to reconnoiter the trail ahead and the 23-year-old officer rode away in an easterly direction. When darkness fell and the lieutenant had not returned, Marcy became concerned. Thinking that the young man had lost his way, Marcy ordered that the cannon be fired in hopes that the sound would lead Harrison back to camp. The cannon boomed, but only silence answered.

Early the next morning the cannon was fired again and Lieutenant Updegraff and the Delaware Indian scout Black Beaver were sent to look for Harrison. About a mile and a half from camp the two men found evidence that the lieutenant had met a small group of Indians and had ridden off with them toward the south. Two miles away they found Harrison's body. The young man had been shot in the head and scalped. The Indians, who were identified as Kiowas, were pursued by the troops but escaped.

A crude coffin was constructed from a wagon bed and the young lieutenant's body was covered with tar and placed inside two layers of charcoal. In this manner Lieutenant Montgomery Pike Harrison completed his journey to Fort Smith, where he was buried with full military honors.

This is what the cruel reality of the frontier had ended the life of the young man who had courted and won the hand of Mary Conway. He would never make the dreamed of trip to California. He would never keep his promise. He had met his fate on the lonely, wind-swept plains of what would later be known as Scurry County, Texas.

Charge Denied By Directors

NEW YORK (AP)—Directors of an exclusive Manhattan apartment building say there is no truth to Gloria Vanderbilt's charges that she was denied a $1.1 million duplex because of her relationship with a black entertainer.

Carl M. Muller, president of the board of directors for River House, said in papers filed Tuesday in Manhattan Supreme Court that the fashion designer's bid for an apartment was turned down because of publicity.

Registration For Aikido Still Open

Students who would like to study aikido in evening classes this summer may register through Thursday, Dr. Shel Hillis, instructor, said.

Classes meet from 6:30-8:30 p.m. on Tuesdays and Thursdays in the H-PE Building.

Aikido is the art of self-defense, Hillis says, stressing movement and technique. Strength is not the key factor in successful aikido, so anyone can develop skill.

Persons who would like to take the course on a non-credit basis may contact Hillis for additional information.

Western Sights JC Golf Title

LEHIGH, Fla.—Western Texas College is eyeing the No. 1 spot in the nation for the second time this year. The Westerners, who dominated the NJCAA National Basketball Tournament this year, are hoping for a second straight national title - here June 3-6 at the NJCAA Golf Tournament.

The meet will be a 72-hole stroke play event set at Mirror Lakes Country Club. Each day's scores will take the four low men from teams of five. There will be a cut after 36 holes to the low 15 teams and any school within 15 shots of the leading squad, and to the low 24 individuals or any individual within 15 shots of the leader.

Should Western Texas win here it would have to be considered a major upset. Though currently rated No. 6, the WTC squad - composed largely of freshmen - was not even the favorite to get out of the WJCAC conference this year.

Coach Bob O'Day's Westerners came on strong near the end of the season to net the conference title however, then took second at regionals behind McLennan Community College of Waco.

Playing for WTC will be a trio of freshmen, Jeff Wagner of Norman, Okla.; Richard White, of Pecos; and Chris Johnson of Seminole. Two sophomores, Mike Mahan of Midland, team captain, and Ken Lawrence of Albany, fill out the squad. Another freshman, Mike Cotter of Albany, will be alternate.

Boys' Track Starts June 9

Summer track for boys will begin June 9, announced program director, Winfred Shipp.

All boys ages 6-18 interested in participating are urged to see him beginning at 8 a.m. on the 9th at the Snyder High School track field (Tiger Stadium).

The group will participate in several area meets during summer season.

HEALTH TIP
from DEAN

Can weight reduction in overweight people prevent overt diabetes when the disease is already present in sub-clinical form? In a German study, 70 overweight patients with glucose intolerance (indicating developing diabetes) were observed over a five year period. 35 lost no weight, had less glucose tolerance, with 10 developing overt diabetes. Of the other 35, who achieved 20 percent weight reduction, glucose tolerance became normal (no diabetes).

Gov. Clements Says Protests On Tax Appraisals Premature

AUSTIN (AP)—Gov. Bill Clements said Friday Texans who are complaining about big increases in property appraisals for taxation are "protesting before they are really hurt."

The governor said he would not call a special legislative session to ease property taxes.

Dallas, Corpus Christi, Lubbock and some other cities have been racked by taxpayer protests after property revaluation sent appraisals soaring.

A new state law that consolidates city and special district tax appraisals in a single office in each county also requires appraisal at full market value.

"I think some of this protest is not well taken. They are protesting before they are really hurt," Clements told his weekly news conference.

He said many people do not understand the difference between evaluation of property for tax purposes and the imposition of the tax itself.

"How they assess and what rate they use with respect to that value is an entirely different process," Clements said.

The governor pointed out that the new property tax code law allows voters to roll back tax increases that boost revenue by more than 5 percent.

History Tied Rudeness And Courtesy

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP)—If you're rude to strangers, or if you're courteous in public, is your behavior just the whim of a moment? There's more to it than that, says a history professor. In fact, they are historical underpinnings for the way you act in public, and he's getting $10,000 to $20,000 to prove it.

John F. Kasson, associate professor of history at the University of North Carolina, is one of 40 scholars to receive a humanities fellowship from the Rockefeller Foundation. His research topic is, "Civility and Rudeness: A Historical Perspective on Public Behavior in the United States."

Kasson said he will focus on the mid-19th century through the first two decades of the 20th century, tracing the relationship of courtesy to social class, politics and technology. He said there has been increasing rudeness in recent years and it may be tied to the political unrest during the 1960s.

Referendum On Bar Ads Falls Short

AUSTIN (AP)—Chief Justice Joe Greenhill of the Texas Supreme Court says state bar officials might have to draw new guidelines for lawyer advertising since a referendum on the issue failed to get enough votes to establish criteria. It was the second election on the issue in three years. "I was disappointed by the referendum results in the sense that it leaves the question up in the air again," said Greenhill. "Everyone has a right to cast his ballot the way he sees fit. But this is the second time. Where do we go from here?" The proposed rules lawyers voted on May 22 would have allowed them to advertise on radio and television. But only 41 percent of the state's lawyers voted. Bar rules require a majority of lawyers to vote for referendum results to become official.

Boat-Related Deaths Increase

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Preventing goiter growth

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB—I'm a 27-year-old woman and last year my weight dropped from 130 to 110. At the time I felt fine. However, I saw my doctor and he discovered I had a goiter. I had blood tests taken and I have no thyroid problem. My weight returned to normal.

My question is, what caused the goiter? Is there any way it can increase or decrease in size and can it affect my health in other ways? I was told that goiters are fairly uncommon.

DEAR READER—Most goiters (a lump in the thyroid or a gross thyroid enlargement) are found on physical examination, as in your case. The vast majority of them produce no symptoms and the most common complaint is their appearance if they're large enough to be seen.

Some goiters are caused by iodine deficiency and others are apparently related to an inherited defect in hormone formation which allows the accumulation of a gelatin-like mixture inside the thyroid gland itself.

We don't see as many of these now as we used to. Goiters used to be endemic in the central United States, such as in Kansas, because of locally mined salt that did not contain iodine. When I was a student, I went skiing in Austria, and was startled to see many people in a small village with huge thyroid goiters. This was because the locally mined salt contained no iodine.

When a thyroid goiter is associated with an iodine deficiency, one aspect of treatment is proper dietary intake of iodine. Everyone needs a minimal amount of iodine in the diet and for most people this is met by using iodized salt. It's wise when people go to the grocery store to check the kind of salt they're using. There is salt available that doesn't contain iodine. People who use this salt are in danger of having an iodine-deficient diet.

Regardless of the cause of the goiter, many doctors recommend giving small amounts of thyroid hormone to prevent it from gradually growing to the point that it becomes unsightly.

Very few of these are ever associated with an overactive thyroid, but it is true that a hyperactive thyroid gland can cause weight loss even when a person is eating an adequate diet that contains sufficient calories.

I think the most important thing for you to do is to have regular examinations by your physician. You might be sure that you're using iodized salt and you might ask your doctor if you need to take some thyroid hormone to prevent the goiter from enlarging in the future.

Are red meats harmful to your health? Readers who want more information on their effects can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for The Health Letter number 8-12, Red Meats Good and Bad. Address your request to Dr. Lamb, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

LAUNDRING CARE HELP COLORS STAY PUT

"Bright new spring colors get "staying power" from easy-but careful-laundrying steps.

Color loss is a leading cause of damaged garments due to incorrect laundrying, ignoring care labels, mislabeling by manufacturers or dye problems—but wearers can overcome many color "snags" with watchful laundry-room tactics.

Before buying a garment, check the permanent care label for warnings such as "wash separately" or "no bleach." If they cannot become part of the regular laundry routine, it is best to make another selection.

To answer fading questions about a garment, test it before laundrying. Submerge it briefly in a small amount of water like the recommended wash temperature. Look for any change in the color of the water.

If still in doubt, take a few minutes to duplicate the actual wash.

Clip a small piece of each fabric or trim used in the garment from seam allowances or facings.

Place in a pint jar with one cup of water similar to the wash temperature. Add a teaspoon of detergent. Shake and let stand 10 minutes. Check the water for any color change.

Rinse the clippings and again check for any color loss in the rinse water. Let the clippings dry, then compare them to the original garment.

LAUNDRY CARE SAVES MOST COLORS

The following laundry pointers will minimize color damage.

—Launder garments soon, and frequently after soiling, as prolonged soaking is harsh on many dyes.

—Use cold or warm water to prevent harsh hot-water damage to dyes.

—Before using any stain remover, test it on seam allowances for color change.

—Remember, oxygen bleach is safe for all fabrics and colors—while chlorine bleach may remove or lighten some colors.

If in doubt about using chlorine bleach, mix one-fourth cup water and one tablespoon bleach—then place one drop of it on a seam allowance. Let it stand one minute and check for any color change.

—Some garments such as jeans, or fabrics such as madras, are designed to fade. Wash these together by similar colors.

—Wash all separate pieces of a non-colorfast garment together each time—even though all pieces are not soiled. Otherwise, separate pieces such as belts, pants and jackets may become different shades.

—Never wash nylons with non-colorfast garments. Nylon is a "color scavenger," readily accepting any dyes released during laundrying.

Take-out double examples

By Oswald Jacoby and Alan Sontag

1. South opens with one club and West doubles with S-A-J 9-4 H-K Q 6 D-K 10 7 5 3 C-6. North passes. East holds S-K 10 3 2 H-A 5 2 D-J 6 C-9 7 5 3. He bids one spade and after South passes it is up to West to act. He bids two spades. A jump to three would show a hand that would probably produce game opposite a really bad East hand.

East should bid either three or four spades — preferably four. If he just bids three West should go on to game.

The play for game is reasonably good. The best defense is to lead and continue clubs. East ruffs in dummy, comes to his hand with the ace of hearts, leads his low diamond and hops up with dummy's king. It will probably hold whereupon he leads another diamond, etc.

2. Again South opens with one club. This time West holds: S-A 10 2 H-K Q 10 5 D-A Q J 6 C-10 4 and has a really good double in high cards, but poorish distribution. East holds: S-K 9 3 2 H-A J 7 4 D-K 9 3 C-8 7. He should show his strength by a two-club cue-bid.

West will simply respond two hearts and East will take him right to game. Neither partner moves toward a slam because each one is looking at two quick club losers.

3. This really tough hand will be discussed next Tuesday. The opening bid is one heart. North doubles with: S-A K 10 4 H-Q D-A Q J 3 C-A Q 6 5 South holds: S-Q J 9 8 6 H-8 5 4 D-8 5 C-8 4 2. South responds: one spade. How would you carry on from there?

Beef Entree

Ideal Choice

For Buffet

When choosing a company buffet entree, a smart hostess looks for something that will let guests know they're special. Yet if she's wise in the ways of entertaining, she chooses something that is free from last-minute fuss and is easy to serve and to eat.

Meeting these qualifications deliciously is Buffet Party Beef Burgundy. Although company special, this entree won't strain the budget because it's made with waste-free beef round steak, points out the National Live Stock and Meat Board.

Buffet Party Beef Burgundy

- 2 to 2 1/2 pounds beef round steak, cut 1 to 1 1/4 inches thick
- 3 tablespoons cooking fat
- 2 to 3 tablespoons flour
- 2 teaspoons salt
- 1/4 teaspoon marjoram
- 1/4 teaspoon thyme
- 1/4 teaspoon pepper
- 2 beef bouillon cubes
- 1/4 cup boiling water
- 5 medium onions, sliced
- 1 1/4 cups red Burgundy wine
- 1/2 pound mushrooms, halved

Partially freeze steak for easy slicing. Cut crosswise into strips 1/4 inch wide, cut strips into 2 to 3-inch pieces. Brown strips in cooking fat in large frying pan. Pour off drippings. Combine flour, salt, marjoram, thyme and pepper, sprinkle over meat. Dissolve bouillon cubes in boiling water. Add bouillon, onions and wine to meat. Cover tightly and simmer 45 minutes. Stir in mushrooms; cover and cook 10 to 15 minutes longer or until steak and mushrooms are tender. 6 to 8 servings.

Sir Humphry Davis discovered in 1807 that if hydrogen and oxygen are mixed and then powdered platinum is added, heat is produced without combustion or flame. About 30 years later scientists found that electricity was produced also. Today this principle is used in energy cells to produce electricity for spacecraft.

JULY WEDDING PLANNED—Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Karas of Newton, Mass., have announced the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Gail Debra Karas of Laurel, Md., to Terry Lane McNair, also of Laurel. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Wacil McNair of Snyder. The wedding is set for July 6 in Boston.

NATIONAL MEET—Pictured at the candle light supper of the National Society of Daughters of American Colonist at the Mayflower Hotel in Washington, D.C., are Texas members Miss Josie Baird, organizing regent of George Cogdell Chapter of Snyder-Rotan; Mrs. P. M. McKee, Texas state president of Abilene; Mrs. H. L. Roper of Fort Worth and standing are Miss Frances Edwards of Longview; Mrs. Kenneth G. Beauty Tips For Women

By Diane Robbins, editor Beauty Digest magazine
Bianca Jagger told Beauty Digest magazine what she does to get ready for those all-night parties she adores: "I take a hot bath after fixing my hair and makeup. I find that the steam from the bath gives me an extra glow and softness."

It's no secret to get ready for a busy season if you care how you look from behind. Try this exercise: Kneel. With elbows on the floor, hold hands together and intertwine fingers to form a "V" in which you place your head. Keeping right knee on floor, exhale and extend left leg until it's straight behind you. Pause and inhale as you return leg. Switch to left knee. Do 15 times.

To cut calories in what you drink while dieting, try mixing fruit juices with equal parts water, or drink vegetable juices instead — 8 ounces of tomato juice has only 50 calories compared with 125 in apple juice or 160 in grape. A glass of skim milk contains only 90 calories, whole milk 165. Crave a malt? Blend one cup buttermilk with one cup frozen blueberries for a luscious drink that has 212 calories instead of 690 in a malt.

Water, not oil, is what your skin needs if it's dry. The most effective moisturizers are water-binding or hydrophillic, so check labels. Or do this test: Put a few drops of the lotion on your hand and, add water and rub. If the lotion is hydrophillic, the water will be absorbed. You can make your own skin cream with hydrophillic ointment U.S.P. bought at the drugstore. Mix four parts to one part water and smooth on dry areas.

Diet And Exercise

By Gaynor Maddox

A detailed report on nutrition and physical fitness has just been released by the American Dietetic Association, a group of experts in food and its application to health.

The association stresses that exercise and nutritionally adequate diets are major contributors to physical well-being. It recommends that good exercise and eating habits be established in childhood and maintained throughout life.

The experts advise that the intensity, duration and frequency of exercise be determined by the individual's age, health and general physical condition.

Don't just buy a pair of sneakers and start running. Consult your doctor first.

Think you might need to lose weight? The association recommends taking skinfold measurements rather than consulting the weight-height charts that appear in many diet books. Of course, most people who are overweight already know it.

The experts say that weight loss can best be achieved by a combination of dietary moderation and regular exercise rather than by one or the other alone.

The association stresses the importance of balancing calorie intake with energy output. If you want to lose weight, decrease calories (without eliminating important nutrients) and increase exercise. If you want to gain weight, do just the opposite.

Much what the association has to say to athletes and would-be athletes runs contrary to the traditional advice of coaches and trainers.

For instance, you can forget that old admonition against drinking water while working out. The association recommends that athletes consume fluids before, during and after exercise to avoid becoming dehydrated.

But your mother was right when she warned you not to go swimming for an hour after eating. A full stomach can make exercise more difficult and more uncomfortable.

Ho Chi Minh, president of North Vietnam, died in 1969.

TO MARRY—Mr. and Mrs. Billy W. Neeley of Rt. 3 announce the engagement and forthcoming marriage of their daughter, Sheryl Denise, to Thomas Eddy Wilking, son of Mrs. Pat Johnson of 1507 20th. The couple plans a July 11, 7:30 p.m. wedding.

Kids' Class In Swimming

Swimming classes for children will begin Monday at Western Texas College as part of the summer College for Kids.

Starting dates for swimming classes are June 2, June 16, and June 30. Each class offers eight hours of instruction, with classes meeting during morning hours Monday through Friday the first week and Monday through Wednesday the second week.

Fees are $35 per person. Carol Darby will be instructor for the classes, which will meet at the indoor pool in the Health-Physical Education Building. Students must be at least 48 inches tall.

Reservations for swimming classes and other College for Kids classes are to be made in the Scurry County Museum.

WASHINGTON (NEA)—
An important revision of the federal law governing the financing of political campaigns, necessary to restrain the influence of wealthy special-interest groups, is in danger of being scuttled by Congress.

The measure would for the first time establish a ceiling on the aggregate amount of campaign contributions a candidate for the House or the Senate could receive from political-action committees.

Those PACs — organized and operated by trade associations, corporations, labor unions and other groups seeking to influence congressional legislation — have experienced explosive growth in recent years.

During the 1974 campaign, candidates for Congress received $12.5 million in PAC donations. That figure soared to $22.5 million in 1976, increased to $35.1 million in 1978 and almost certainly will top $50 million this year.

Accounting for most of the growth are business-related PACs, which numbered fewer than 250 at the end of 1974 but proliferated to 1,100 by the close of 1978.

Expenditures by PACs within the pharmaceutical industry, for example, rose from $61,000 in 1976 to $314,000 in 1978, while PAC outlays went from $77,000 to $354,000 in the airline industry and from $214,000 to $502,000 in the chemical industry.

Any naive notions that such expenditures are made by patriots seeking to advance the cause of democracy by providing financial assistance to outstanding public servants can be promptly dispelled by a cursory examination of where the money comes from and where it goes.

Corporations and trade associations invariably concentrate their giving in the areas where their parochial interests can be most efficiently advanced. That usually means contributing to senior members of the congressional committees that have jurisdiction over legislation affecting their industry.

Thus, an average of $23,000 in PAC contributions was received in 1978 by candidates who had no opposition in either the primary or general elections but whose support was being solicited by various special-interest groups.

Similarly, several senior members of the House Ways and Means Committee, which initiates tax legislation that can cost (or save) individual corporations millions of dollars annually, received more than $100,000 apiece in PAC contributions in 1978.

Federal law currently limits individual PAC contributions was received in 1978 by candidates who had no opposition in either the primary or general elections but whose support was being solicited by various special-interest groups.

Last October, however, the House voted 217-198 to amend the law to reduce the maximum amount a candidate could receive in any election year to $6,000 from a single PAC and $70,000 from all PACs collectively.

Although that measure, co-sponsored by a Republican and a Democrat, received the support of more than two dozen GOP members of the House, it has been opposed by the Republican leadership in both the House and Senate.

Those GOP leaders claim their objections are based not on what the bill contains but on what it omits: There is no provision dealing with labor unions' use of members' dues payments to finance unrelated but equally controversial political operations.

Although outnumbered in the Senate, Republicans have bottled up the bill by threatening to mount a time-consuming filibuster if the House-approved measure is called up for debate on the Senate floor.

If the legislation isn't approved by the Senate before Congress adjourns in early autumn, the House effort will have been futile and the process will have to begin anew when the 97th Congress convenes next January.

In addition to thwarting a needed reform, the Senate Republicans are hurting themselves because more than half of all PAC contributions go to the chairmen of congressional committees — and they're all Democrats.

politicizing athletics

The Soviet Union is smugly and hypocritically charging that the United States' boycott of the Moscow Olympics is politicizing world athletics. The crocodile tears they shed should be of little concern to the West. The athletic programs in most communist countries make a mockery of both athletics and liberty. This is especially true of East Germany.

Recently Lynn Baker, a former member of Yale's national champion varsity women's crew, visited East Germany to try to get a better understanding of why that nation has been so successful in world athletic competition. What she found was a dehumanizing assembly line approach to sports that completely subjugates the individual to the goal of glorifying the state. She found a nation that more than other resembles the omnipresent state described in George Orwell's 1984.

The East German state starts developing its people into athletic stars at a young age. The program is administered through the school; compulsory athletic activity begins in state-run kindergartens. Unlike in the United States, athletic programs are considered in par with academic courses. And while this intensive training may well have beneficial effects on the individuals involved, its purpose is to benefit the state.

Baker, who speaks fluent German, found that training manuals for East German teachers made it abundantly clear that the athletic program was there to mold the student's mind as well as his body. One of the manuals, for example, said that athletic activities "are not ends in themselves, but are always means of political ideological education." Another manual instructs teachers to "plant deeply in the hearts of the younger generation the love of homeland, of our Workers' and Farmers' State." The same communists who wrote those words are now condemning the United States for trying to politicize athletics.

The entire population is manipulated in the name of building the athletic program, yet those that suffer the greatest loss of freedom are young people who show athletic potential. These children are honored by being accepted into special boarding schools where the training and regimentation are incredibly vigorous. Lynn Baker met parents of an eleven-year-old swimmer; they were able to see their daughter only twice a month.

East German athletics has an even darker side. For years rumors have made their way to the West that the East Germans are experimenting on their athletes with drugs and steroids. Last year a prize-winning female swimmer escaped to West Germany and confirmed she had been a victim of such experimentation. It had all but ruined her life. She escaped to the West in order to receive medical treatment for a reaction to chemicals in her body. Who said that Hitler is dead?

There are few things more beautiful than the sight of an athlete striving to do his best on the field of competition. By treating their athletes as medal-winning machines, communist nations, especially the East Germans, have degraded athletics. This degradation is a product not of communist ideology, but of the idea that the government should run a national sports program.

We should beware of such suggestions in the United States. Our nationalism could similarly degrade a beautiful human activity. But until then, Americans have nothing to apologize for when it comes to accusations that we are politicizing athletics.

The private opinions of public officials are seldom expressed until they are out of office.

As superintendent of Chicago's schools, Joseph Hannon felt he had to pull his punches.

As former superintendent, he is willing to tell it as it is.

An educator's report card for our nation's public school teachers and parents.

Joseph Hannon was the highest paid school superintendent in the United States. He resigned. Let's let him tell why.

"Public officials don't hit the issues the way they should because they're looking for some kind of perpetuity in office. As a result, you start playing it safe. A superintendent of schools should have one term, call the shots as he sees them, then move out."

What should be the public schools' first priority?

"We've got to promote excellence in education."

How first?

"Many teachers are not qualified to teach. We should require periodic recertification for teachers. Teachers have to be disciplined. Teachers there one day and on strike the next is no good."

Could parents help?

"Many parents themselves need help. Probably 15 to 20 percent of the parents of children attending public schools have never read a book in their lives. When those kids go home, what kind of models do they have to look at? Many parents are not 'parents'; they are just individuals who have created children."

They don't provide for their children — intellectual provisions — religious provisions — the kinds of support systems the youngsters need.

Are minorities in schools a positive or negative influence?

Mr. Hannon says, "I am an integrationist, always have been. But too many blacks have been lulled into blaming 'the system' for their difficulties.

"When different children have different needs they should be free to go to some other school."

You mean we're not all created equal?

"When I espouse encouraging excellence in education, some minority leaders brand such a philosophy 'elitist.' There's nothing wrong with elitism. When that youngster goes out looking for a job he or she will be in competition with people who do speak English and who can cipher and who are able to compute."

Hannon notes that Asians coming to the United States are not drowning in self-pity, not blaming the system, not sorry about whether they have been deprived. "And they are going to leave other minorities behind unless the others also learn self-reliance."

And Mr. Hannon offers his admonition for us all:

The Japanese and the Germans were flat on their backs in 1945. They have since surpassed us in almost everything. Part of it was the work ethic. They demanded quality, they demanded of themselves productivity. While we went the other way.

"Now we wake up 25 years later and ask incredulously, 'What's happened to our country?'"

We just chose to take it easy, that's all.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) You could experience a need today to mingle with many different types, because of a strong desire to broaden the base from which you get ideas.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Dare to be original when pursuing your goals today and you'll have better luck at achieving them. If one thing doesn't work, try another.

Aggie stories in Texas are as widespread as Johnson grass, and just about as hard to stop or eradicate.

But there's one Aggie that Texans ought to cheer — freshman congressman Phil Gramm, a conservative economics professor from A&M. Remember, he's the fellow who gave Sen. Lloyd Bentsen a run for his money a few years back.

The president came out strongly opposed to the Gramm amendment, and in the end, the House voted down the amendment by 246 to 164. Once again, this nation's military might must take second place to the social welfare program.

Did you hear the story about a young mother who looked in the bedroom one evening and saw her junior executive husband standing silently by the baby's crib, look thoughtfully. In his face, she should read his wonder and admiration. She went to him softly and took his hand in hers.

on earth can the manufacturer make a crib like this for $49.95."
