'Miss Merry Christmas' to be Chosen At Christmas Wonderland Nov. 27

On Monday, Nov. 27, a colorful Christmas Wonderland will be presented in the High School Auditorium at 7:30 p. m., sponsored by the Progressive Study Club.

At that time a "Miss Merry Christmas" will be selected, and she will have a prominent role in the Christmas Parade opening the holiday season in Haskell.

Eligible for the title of "Miss Merry Christmas" will be girls from the First Grade through the Sixth Grade. Full details of the event, and entry blanks, will be given to all little girls in these grades.

The top five girls selected will ride on the Progressive Study Club's float in the Christmas Parade.

"We are anxious for all the girls in Grade School to dress up in their Sunday best and enter the contest," a spokesman for the Progressive Study Club said. "Out-of-town judges will judge the girls on appearance and poise."

Purpose of the Christmas Wonderland is to stimulate interest in the approaching Christmas season. In addition to the selection of "Miss Merry Christmas" an interesting and entertaining program will be presented. Complete details will be published as soon as the program is arranged.

Christmas Parade Set For Dec. 1

The Christmas Season in Haskell will open on Friday, Dec. 1, with a downtown parade at 4 p. m.

New Christmas decorations purchased this year will be installed in the business section around the square, to give the downtown area an exciting and colorful new look.

The Christmas Planning Committee of the Chamber of Commerce has adopted a new idea in connection with the annual parade entries. It was announced this week.

Instead of merchants building their own floats, as in the past the Committee suggests that the merchant sponsor an entry in the Children's Parade, if he prefers. This means the merchant will sponsor someone to build a float or any other entry, or individual entry. It will be permissible to enter clowns, robots, nursery characters, etc., in addition to the floats.

This does not mean that merchants or anyone else will not have decorated floats in the parade—the more floats the better! Anyone may sponsor a float or any other entry in the parade and be eligible for prizes, if rules are followed.

Merchants sponsoring entries will pay for, or furnish all material used in entry. The amount spent will be left to the discretion of the merchant. It is thought that around $25 will be average. The merchant is to contact a reliable person who will be in charge of his entry and make all arrangements for the complete project.

It is suggested that groups or organizations responsible for an entry plan, build, enter in parade, dismantle and store materials if need be. In other words, the merchant and group should have a "turn key" job and thorough understanding about all details.

Groups or organizations desiring a merchant to sponsor an entry should contact the individual merchants or the Chamber of Commerce.

To be eligible for prizes nursery rhymes or other theme relative to Christmas, must be used. Adults must be in charge of each group of children entering parade.

All entries must be listed with the Chamber of Commerce not later than Nov. 27 in order to be assigned a place by the Parade Chairman.

Pet Parade
A special section in the parade, "The Children's Pet Parade" will be sponsored by the Rotary Club of Haskell. Information concerning entries and prizes in the Pet Parade can be secured from the Rotary Club.

Plans for this year's opening of the Christmas Season have been made with the hope that every child in Haskell County will be able to enjoy and take part in the parade.

Santa Claus will be present in person and there will be free candy for all the children. In addition, there will be valuable cash awards for adults to be given away during the holiday season.

Stores Will Fly Stars and Stripes On Nov. 11th

The U. S. flag will be flown in front of virtually every business establishment in Haskell Saturday, in recognition of Armistice or Veteran's Day.

The Nov. 11 date commemorates the signing of the Armistice in 1918 ending hostilities in World War One.

Members of the Haskell fire department will place the flags on display early Saturday and take them down shortly before sunset. The department purchased 125 flags, staffs and holders early this year to be used for this purpose.

The long-delayed program of the North Central Texas Municipal Water Authority faces another court challenge Monday in 39th District Court, when the suit filed in August last year by J. E. Walling Jr., et al, challenging validity of the Water Authority as created by Legislative action, is scheduled for hearing before Judge Sterling Williams of Snyder.

Judge Williams, well-known West Texas jurist, replaces Judge B. C. Chapman who is disqualified as a resident and taxpayer in the water district (authority).

The lawsuit was dismissed by Judge Williams in September, 1950, when he granted a plea of abatement filed by NCTMWA attorneys. His ruling was affirmed by the Court of Civil Appeals at Eastland, but was reversed by the State Supreme Court and sent back to 39th Court for trial on its merits.

Attorney for Walling, et al, is Ed E. King of Abilene. Plaintiffs allege that action of the NCTMWA Authority in fixing tax rates and assessing and collecting taxes is unconstitutional and void; that the Act of the Legislature creating the said Authority is unconstitutional under Art. 1, Sec. 2 of the Constitution of Texas; that provisions of the Act giving cities authority to appoint directors is contrary to the Constitution; and specifically contends that fixing tax rates, assessing and collecting taxes by directors not elected by the people of the water district constitutes taxation without representation.

Attorneys for the Water Authority are Hudson Smart of Abilene, and Tom Bullington of Munday.

Also entering the suit on the side of the Water Authority as interested parties are Texas Attorney General Will Wilson and attorneys representing bond underwriting concerns, and possibly others.

It is significant that the Legislative act creating the local water authority is identical to legislation under which numerous other water districts have been formed, particularly with reference to the appointment of directors.

If the NCTMWA is held to be unconstitutional, such a ruling could jeopardize similar water districts and taxing agencies involving expenditures of multiplied millions. Water Authority officials have pointed out.

Water Authority Tax Collections Ahead of 1960

Tax collections in the North Central Texas Municipal Water Authority for 1961 are running well ahead of last year, Tax Collector Pete Beecher said Wednesday.

Collection of current taxes, which became due Oct. 1, amounted to $11,157.38 at the end of October, Beecher said. This is approximately $2,000 more than total collections during the same period last year, he stated.

Beecher and L. B. Patterson, Munday, president of the Water Authority, said that conditions were also more favorable for a higher percentage of tax payments this year than last. People are in much better shape financially, they said.

Last year, 1960, was the first year taxes were assessed by the Authority, and 82 per cent of all taxes assessed were paid before becoming delinquent.

Indians Lose To Stamford; Anson Tigers Friday

Anson has a strong team, and is given the edge over Haskell by virtue of the Tiger victory over Stamford.

In Friday night's game, Haskell scored four plays deep in the second quarter when fullback Robert Bartley hit left tackle for three yards. Quarterback Hadaway launched the drive with a 26-yard pass to end David Anderson, who was hauled down at the Stamford three. The play began on Stamford's 41. Conversion try failed after Bartley's TD.

Haskell's second TD was set up at midfield when Hadaway flipped a screen pass to Bartley who carried to the 26. Another pass, this time to Anderson, moved to the 15. An off-side penalty against Stamford moved the ball to the 10 where fullback Dwight Stone skirted end for the TD. Lonnie Sturdy's kick tied the score 13-13, at the half.

Stamford scored in the first period when halfback Lanny Miller broke over right end, and for a 46-yard TD run, and tackle Ronnie Harrison kicked the extra point.

The Bulldogs hit again in the second with Quarterback Ranzard Stevenson making 4 yards to pay dirt on a keeper. Try for extra point failed.

It was Miller again in the fourth for the Bulldogs winning TD, when he carried from the two-yard line and reserve quarterback Keith McKeever kicked extra point.

The Indians fought stubbornly in the fourth and moved to the Stamford 35, and Hadaway fourth down and four, Hadaway's pass missed end Volly Ivy in the clear on the five.

Memories of Nov. 11, '18 Remain Vivid To World War One Vets

The passing of 42 years since signing of the Armistice ending the first World War has somewhat dimmed the memory of the momentous event and dampened the patriotic fervor with which victory was celebrated on Nov. 11, 1918.

But to those veterans of the first global conflict, the memory of that day is still as clear as if it were yesterday although time has softened the long-past hardships to the point that most veterans recall only the highlights of their GI days.

D. H. (Dave) Persons, a corporal in the 131st Field Artillery, Battery D, 36th Division, recalls that his outfit had arrived in France Aug. 12, and was billeted at Camp Coesquadon, a staging area quite a distance from the front. Men and officers of the battery were anxious to get into action, he recalled. About the time rumors of the armistice began to float around, Cpl. Persons received a brief note from his brother, an infantryman, who had been at the front for 28 days. That news tempered the young man's eagerness, and news of the armistice signing was welcomed. However, Battery D was among units remaining overseas during the winter and Cpl. Persons did not get back to the States until March 29, 1919.

Signing of the Armistice also cancelled overseas duty for Pvt. Leon Robertson, member of an M.P. detachment stationed in San Antonio which was scheduled to leave Nov. 16 for overseas. He was a Dickens County farm boy when he entered the Army, and after finishing basic training was assigned duty as Military Police. "News of the Armistice set off the biggest celebration I ever expect to see," he recalled. "The GI's were given all possible leeway within reason, but at that every MP in the camps around San Antonio had to work from 14 to 36 hours," he still remembers. Even though hostilities had ended, Pvt. Robertson did not receive his discharge until April, 1919.

George Neely, who entered the Army in 1918 and saw duty as an infantryman in the Mexican border clashes where he earned his stripes as a Sergeant, was in an Officers Training Camp at Camp MacArthur, Waco, when the Armistice was signed. His class had completed six weeks of an eight-week course toward receiving commissions. After news of the war's end had been confirmed, Sgt. Neely's commanding officer in a "fatherly" talk urged the group of potential officers to transfer to Camp Pike, Ark., for the final two weeks and qualify for commissions. "With the war over, we felt the Army had plenty of officers, so we politely declined," he explained. Two weeks later he received his discharge and was at home for Christmas.

George humorously relates that he became a GI because he liked to play basketball. He had gone to Silver City, N. M., in 1916 as a salesman in a shoe and dry goods store. The 1st New Mexico Regiment of the National Guard was located there, and had the best basketball team in that area. "One night when a member of the camp team failed to show up, George replaced him, with the opposition unaware he was not a member of the National Guard." (Continued on Page 10)

Hallowe'en Incidents — Haskell and Dallas Style

We read of an incident in Dallas on Hallowe'en night involving small children which, we regret to say, was directly contrary to the actions of one group of Haskell youngsters.

In Dallas, so the news story relates, a party of children out "trick or treating" learned that a little girl in the neighborhood was ill and unable to take part in the Hallowe'en fun.

After gathering up sacks of goodies, the youngsters went to the little girl's home, dumped the collection on her bed and wished her a speedy recovery.

Compare that with what happened in Haskell: Three small youngsters, homeward bound after a happy evening of "trick or treat" were stopped on a dark street corner by five older boys in a car. Threatened by the older boys, the three small lads were compelled to give the treats they had collected to the five older boys.

The incident can be dismissed as a childish prank, if you wish. But we think it deserves more sober thinking when you consider it in the light of what actually happened: The use of threats and force to take something from someone else.

Young boys who are old enough to be permitted to drive cars are old enough to assume the responsibility of good citizenship instead of playing the role of young gangsters. Emboldened by success in their first adventure, temptation can easily lead to something bolder, and eventually, to serious crime.

Straight Talk

In an editorial on Soviet intentions, The Saturday Evening Post says: "Everything hangs on one factor: The will of the Western World and particularly that of the American people. If we are puny enough to be demoralized by threats from without and subversions from within, that could be the ball game. And we'd better carry the fight to the enemy, for Krushchev's Mein Kampf warns us of the grim alternative."

Free Enterprise Produces Abundance

The Iron Curtain countries have long been plagued with food shortages. Bare subsistence diets are the rule rather than the exception. Meat is a rarity. The pitifully small quantities of it that the average family obtains is of poor quality and is exorbitantly priced.

The regimented citizens of these "Workers' Paradises" will, it is safe to say, never be allowed to read an item that appeared in a recent issue of the Michigan Farmer. It pointed out that this year Americans will consume an average of 85 pounds of beef, 64.5 pounds of pork, 6.1 pounds of veal, and 4.4 pounds of lamb, along with an abundance of dairy and poultry products.

Then it adds that the average worker needs only 20 minutes of working time to earn enough to pay for a pound of meat—as against 35 minutes some 30 years ago. Putting it another way, the retail price of meat has increased less than 10 per cent in the last 10 years, as against a 37 per cent increase in average hourly earnings.

The American meat industry, in all its ramifications—producer, packer, retailer—is a competitive, free enterprise operation. It is run by the natural law of supply and demand—not by the fiat of dictators. The results speak for themselves—plentiful supplies.

According to an analyst with the Citizens Public Expenditure Survey, revenue collected from the American people by federal, state and local governments increased a staggering $20 billion in a single year. The total was $154 billion in 1960, as against $134 billion in 1959.

People, Places & Things

By A. PATE

A story now going the rounds should be investigated by the NAACP. It tells about the Negro lad, playing in the yard, when he suddenly discovered he was turning white.

Running inside the house, he excitedly told his mother, "Mommy, look, I'm turning white!" His mother cut him short with, "Don't bother me, I'm busy."

Going to his father, the colored lad got the same treatment, with the Old Man snapping, "Be quiet, I'm reading."

The boy, still excited, bounded into his sister's room with the news and was met with the remark: "Get out of here, can't you see I'm getting ready for my date?"

Stalking angrily out of the house, the urchin mumbled: "Ain't been white over 15 minutes, and here I am already hating Negroes!"

If an officer isn't available to deal with a thief, make the thief go to the officer.

That's the theory of a nervy and resourceful Haskell businesswoman—and it works.

One day recently Mrs. Morrell Dick noticed a Bracero stealing merchandise in the Modern Way Food Store. Her husband was out of the store at the time, so she handled the matter herself. After confronting the culprit, she told him to remain at the store while she called officers.

Unable to locate an officer at the moment, Mrs. Dick told the bracero firmly, "Follow me to the courthouse," as she started toward the Sheriff's office. The culprit obeyed, and soon was in the hands of the "law."

The braceros are peculiar in their customs and actions. For instance, the bracero caught stealing by Mrs. Dick had only moments before selected and paid for a religious candle. Then he turned right around and attempted to steal something!

Working in a cotton field, farmers say a bracero will start out at the truck or point where sacks of cotton are weighed and emptied, and drag their sack to the far side of a field in filling it. Then they will shoulder the heavy sack and trudge back to the weighing point.

It would be a simple matter to save most of the heavy drudgery if the worker would carry his empty sack into the field and pull back toward the weighing point. But that is not their custom and can't be explained to them, farmers say.

Occasionally, a member of a group of braceros is well educated and able to speak English fluently. Sometimes a lawyer, or teacher, out of work in their native Mexico, sign up as braceros seeking farm work.

However, most braceros are just what they appear to be, uneducated Mexicans from the interior of the country. Many of them have never seen a town larger than a small village and the modern stores in cities like Munday, Knox City and Haskell tasteless them.

Carl Wheatley tells of the Mexican bracero pulling cotton on a farm near Knox City, as related to him by the farmer.

The bracero had filled his sack, containing possibly 130 pounds, and was about a half mile from the weighing truck. Trudging back, he was almost exhausted when he reached the truck with his burden. As the sack of cotton slid from his shoulder he was heard to remark in perfect English: "Don't mind pulling cotton, but I'm no d--- pack mule!"

Farmers say the braceros are good workers, that they will start in and work steadily all day with only a short break for dinner.

However, we're told one thing that will disrupt a crew is to let a cottontail or jack-rabbit show up in the field where they are working. Braceros will "shuck" their sacks and take after the hapless rabbit until it is caught. Then they make quick work of cleaning and cooking the animal over a small fire.

Despite the fact that the majority of braceros have never had the benefits of modern conveniences, their contracts require that certain standards be met in providing housing and living quarters for them.

These requirements are meager compared to American standards, and in the main simply call for floored living quarters, running water, stoves and sanitary facilities.

In many instances, however, braceros prefer to do their cooking outside over an open fire, use their cots as tables, and sleep on the floor. And, the least used conveniences are the showers.

One Haskell ginner had an embarrassing experience in connection with the facilities he had provided for a crew of some 100 braceros.

Adequate living quarters were fitted with cots, tables, heating and cooking stoves and running water.

One large room was fitted with a number of shower baths, separate from the rest room. Everything was new, and as neat as a pin. Braceros occupying the quarters seemed well pleased.

One day an inspector with the U. S. Labor Department dropped by to inspect the facilities. The ginner, justifiably proud of the bracero quarters he had built at a cost of several thousand dollars, was showing the inspector through the buildings.

Saving the best until the last, the ginner said to the inspector, "Now I want you to see the shower room we've provided for the workers. We are real proud of it."

Opening the door, he followed the inspector in, and both almost dropped in their tracks. There in the shower room four braceros were busily at work on two large hogs they had butchered!

After the initial shock, the ginner questioned the men and learned that an enterprising local Mexican had been selling the braceros one or two hogs each week and the shower room, with its hot and cold running water, had made an ideal slaughter house.

The inspector, well versed in the ways and customs of the Mexicans, gave the quarters 100 per cent approval, but admonished against any further butchering operations.

The workers from the southern Republic can't stand cold weather, and when winter temperatures begin to prevail the majority of the braceros will pack up and return to Mexico.

The recent cold snaps have resulted in several groups leaving the area, declining to renew their contracts for the remainder of the harvesting season.

A threat to "blacklist" Stamford because of alleged discrimination against Latins, which developed two weeks ago, will in all likelihood prove to be an empty threat, for two reasons. First, harvest of this year's crop is well in hand; and second, many bracero crews already have finished their contracts and are returning to Mexico.

The threat may develop again next year if conditions are favorable. That means if a bumper crop is in prospect, and help in gathering the crop is not available locally.

If next year's cotton crop is only fair, you'll hear no mention of "blacklisting" Stamford, Haskell or any other towns in the area. Neither will there be any complaints of "discrimination."

But if a bumper crop is produced next year and farmers face a labor shortage that puts them "over a barrel" you can bet a plugged nickel that we'll be hearing plenty about being blacklisted.

With thousands of braceros in the country for a few months, all earning good money, it is surprising that we have not had an influx of Gypsy bands. They can usually be counted on to show up and take advantage of the easy picking during seasonal boom periods.

Up until World War II, bands of Gypsies would regularly hit this area each fall during crop harvesting, and sometimes they would show up in spring and early summer when there was extra money in the country.

Gypsy bands had their heyday during the boom period before the United States entered the war. Army camps and flying fields were being built throughout Texas. Workmen were well paid and spent freely.

One band of Gypsies made headquarters here for several months during the summer and fall of 1941. A swarthy man in his mid-30's appeared to be the king pin, and he must have been the boss over several bands operating at widely scattered points in this part of the state.

We happened to be in the Western Union office at Payne's Drug one Sunday afternoon when the Gypsy leader came in to send several telegrams. He had been here about a week, and explained to the operator he would be expecting telegrams frequently and told where he could be found.

Then he wrote out his messages. As we remember, one

The one low-price compact that's every as lively as it looks—Valiant '62!

You're looking at the sports-loving compact car given an award of merit by the Society of Illustrators for design excellence! Come see it!

Unlike some compacts, Valiant will take off like a scared kitten at the drop of a "Scat!" You'd have to pay extra for an optional engine in most any other compact at Valiant's price to match Valiant's standard 101-hp Economy Six.

A modified version of this engine shot Valiant to victory over all American compacts competing in the 1960 and '61 Daytona Beach compact car competitions! Yet, for all its go, Valiant puts plenty of care-free miles between gas pumps. A Valiant scored 26.13 mpg in the last Mobilgas Economy Run!

And this new Valiant has the distinctive good to match its gumption. America's most famous artists recently honored the 1962 Valiant. For the first time in seven years, the Awards Committee of the Society of Illustrators has bestowed its citation on a car—Valiant!

That's even more proof that the 1962 Valiant indeed the Style Leader of the Compacts!

For looks and liveliness, you just can't match Valiant at Valiant's low initial price! And this year's Valiant offers a bundle of economy extras. Like half-price oil changes and almost-never 32,000-mile lubrication on major chassis points. See your Plymouth-Valiant dealer. ## Hunters Subject To Check For New Licenses

With the opening of the major hunting seasons of the year, game wardens now are beginning a careful check of licenses according to J. B. Phillips, coordinator of law enforcement of the Game and Fish Commission.

A resident hunting license costing $3.15 is required of every citizen of Texas who hunts outside the county of his residence, or who hunts deer and turkey in the county of his residence. Exceptions are those citizens who are under 17 years of age, or 65 or over, and citizens hunting on land on which they are residing. Exemption licenses are required for each of these exceptions, when hunting deer or turkey.

Non-resident general hunting licenses cost $25 each. However, non-residents may buy a 5-day migratory bird license for $5, and a migratory waterfowl license for $10, issued on a reciprocal basis. A non-resident also may buy a $3.15 license for use on shooting resorts only.

Landowners who lease hunting rights also are required to pay a $5 license. They also are required to register and keep a list of persons who hunt on their lands for a fee.

In addition, a Federal regulation requires that all hunters of migratory waterfowl buy a $3 "duck stamp" which can be obtained from your post office.

More than 50 per cent of the falls of elderly people are on the same level and the principal area of these falls is the bedroom.

More than four-fifths of all fatal accidental poisonings occur in the home.

A Real Indian

For the past few weeks various students and their work have been mentioned in this article, this week has been set aside for one special student. Many of you remember the story of "The Devil and Dan Webster." It is said that when Dan Webster stood up to speak stars and stripes came right out of the sky and when he spoke against a river he made it sink into the ground.

This all happened many years ago and the old Dan Webster is gone but one person in Haskell High leads me to believe that he is a descendant of Dan Webster or maybe he just represents the modern day Webster.

This person could be no other than Barry O'Neal the most industrious person in Haskell High. The teachers have said that when homework is assigned Barry finishes as soon as possible and asks if there is any thing more he might do.

He works every day during lunch at Woody's, after school everyday at Renfro's and every Friday and Saturday at Modern Way Food Store.

Barry is a sophomore in our school and vice-president of his class and Spanish II. He is senior patrol leader in troop 36 and assistant crew leader in Explorers post 36.

His hobbies range from taxidermy to playing the violin. He kills, skins, stuffs or tans the hide of every living creature he can get his hands on.

Yet, Barry has time to go to the show, take Cub Scouts out exploring, and visiting, do his work at home, and the most amazing thing is, he seems to be the happiest student in Haskell High.

See you in seven moons.

Ready to Cooperate In Wide Warning System

Utilities Commission... power companies can and should participate in the interest of national defense. Young pointed out that the Institute in recommending participation characterized as a "very fair proposal" the statement made by Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara last August before the Military Operations Subcommittee of the House Committee on Government Operations. Secretary McNamara said, "If extensive system tests in Michigan prove successful, it is proposed to begin national installations of this warning system, which operates on electric impulses imposed on regular power lines. Federal funds would be used to cover the cost of signal generators. The receiver (signals) would be sold to the general public."

The basis of the NEAR project is a proposal of the government to install high frequency generators at strategic locations in the various electric companies' transmission and distribution systems. Small alarm receivers which would be purchased by individuals would be plugged into any ordinary appliance outlet on the electric companies' premises. In case of atomic attack, the generators would send a high frequency impulse over the regular electric lines which would activate the alarm receiver in the customers' homes, offices, shops, etc. Young pointed out that this would in no way interfere with the usual electric service and that his company would, under this proposal, offer the use of their transmission and distribution facilities without charge.

"I am sure that the nation's investor-owned electric light and power companies will offer the Office of Civil Defense their fullest cooperation in further testing of NEAR," Young noted. He pointed out that testing on the lines of Consumers Power Company in Michigan has been under way for more than a year.

French M. Robertson Named On U. of Texas Board of Regents

French M. Robertson of Abilene, former Haskell lawyer and County Attorney here for several years, has been appointed to the Board of Regents of the University of Texas. Robertson, Abilene oil operator who was chairman of the State Board of Hospitals and a member of the State Democratic Executive Committee, has resigned both positions to accept the appointment on the Board of Regents. He was sworn in as a member of the U. of T. board Monday at the office of the Secretary of State.

Robertson's first board of regents meeting as a member will be in Austin Nov. 9-11. In the past Robertson has served as chairman of the State Prison Board, chairman of the Governor's Oil Import Study Committee and as a member of the Texas Finance Study Commission. He also has served as vice chairman of the Governor's Committee of Education and Welfare, and chairman of the Subcommittee on Taxation.

Robertson has served as president of the West Central Texas Oil and Gas Assn. and of

Bottles Present 'Triple Threat' On Highways

Stop the "triple threat" this fall—not on the football field, but on the highway. The broken bottle on Texas highways and roadsides is the dangerous "triple threat" of our highways, according to State Highway Engineer D. C. Greer. This triple hazard grows worse during the football season, due to thoughtless acts by high-spirited travelers.

These are the triple threats of broken bottles:

- They slash automobile tires and may cause a blowout and an accident.
- They injure people who step on them.
- They start grass fires by means of the sun's concentrated rays.

Thrown carelessly from open car windows, bottles smash on the pavement or on the roadside shoulders, posing a lethal hazard to highway traffic—especially on busy football weekends.

The safety rest areas along Texas highways (Roadside Parks) also come under the danger of the triple threat. A traveler stopping in a rest area may learn of this threat the hard way when he, his wife, or their child steps on the broken glass.

Bottles are the cause of destructive grass fires. The sun's hot rays are concentrated by the glass to an intense heat that sparks fires along roadsides, threatening property and jeopardizing the safe passage

Haskell Boy Praised for Progress Made Since Going to Boys Ranch

Bobby Tatum, a former Haskell boy and one of the 275 boys from all over the nation who make their home at Cal Farley's nationally famous Boys Ranch near Amarillo, was recently commended for the progress he has made since coming to the Ranch.

Bobby, 15, arrived at the Ranch last August and made a quick adjustment to the Ranch and the educational, vocational and recreational programs that are offered to the boys. Bobby is a student in the fully-accredited Boys Ranch

School and according to his teachers, he is a boy who tries hard in all of his classes.

The former Haskell boy's favorite spare-time activity is horseback riding and although there are not enough horses for all of the boys who like to ride, Bobby saddles up at every opportunity.

"Bobby is a fine young man and I'm happy we are able to give him the help he needs," Cal Farley, Ranch founder, said. "He is becoming the kind of citizen the people of Texas and Haskell can also be proud

Guard. Teammates were so impressed with his playing that they prevailed on him to join the Guard, then on peacetime status. A few short weeks after that, Mexican Rebel Villa started acting up, and the New Mexico Regiment was called to active duty. From then on, George and fellow Guardsmen spent their spare time policing up the grounds of their temporary camps, or on KP duty instead of playing basketball as the 1st Regiment chased Villa up and down the Rio Grande and in and out of Mexico.

Sgt. F. B. (Frank) Reynolds had loaded his duffel bag on a boat at Newport News, Va., as his unit of Heavy Artillery prepared to embark for Brest on Nov. 11, 1918. Rumors of the war's end were flying thick and fast, but the men in the ranks had heard so many, none believed that the end of the war was so near. "Most of us felt that the war wouldn't end until our outfit got over there and ended it," he recalled. Then, when the signing of the armistice resulted in cancelling their embarkation orders, the former Army sergeant recalls, "We really had a celebration one that Newport News will never forget."

Cpl. Frank South recalls very vividly the morning of Nov. 11, 1918. He was the only occupant in the driver's seat of an Army wagon pulled by four big mules, hauling ammunition and barbed wire into the small village of Seine, France, near the river of the same name. The Americans had fought their way into the village the evening before and held about half of it, with the Germans doggedly occupying the remainder. "At daylight on the 11th, we started pushing the Boche out and they were slowly giving ground but our GI's were having to fight them every inch of the way," he declared. Finally, the Germans were driven into open country and were retreating rapidly when the "Cease Fire" order of the Armistice was received. Army discipline with a humane touch then asserted itself, Cpl. South declared. Where minutes before opposing forces were battling furiously, when the "cease fire" came, German and American soldiers alike discarded their weapons and began giving aid to dead and wounded on each side, paying no heed to whether a helpless soldier wore an American or German uniform.

Cpl. South was attached to the 315th Engineer Company supply train of the 90th Division. The unit consisted of 47 mule-drawn wagons and 14 trucks. Cpl. South had charge of the group of wagons which hauled groceries, ammunition and other supplies, including barbed wire. "Don't tell anyone a feller won't get scared driving a load of ammunition toward the front with the enemy lobbing shells all around you. I never made a trip that I wasn't scared half to death. Furthermore, I'd been off and running if there'd been any place to run to," he admits with a grin. Cpl. South's supply company ran into a lot of work after the Armistice and didn't return to the States until June, 1919, when he was discharged.

Rev. Ortiz Is Guest Speaker At Rotary Club

The Rev. Victor Ortiz of Munday, missionary to Spanish people in this area and who did not become a Christian until 1934, related the highlights of his life in a talk at the meeting and luncheon of the Rotary Club Thursday. A Senior Active Rotarian, Ortiz is transferring his membership from Big Spring to the Haskell club.

President R. A. Lane gave a report on the directors meeting Thursday morning and Past District Governor Robt. R. King brought a message on Rotary Information. He defined Rotary as "Ideals in action." Program Chairman Tom Barfield introduced the guest speaker, Rev. Ortiz, 66-year-old Indian and native of Oklahoma used "Thanksgiving" as the theme of his talk. "God has a purpose for me, and every day I give Him thanks for the blessings that have come to me," he said earnestly.

He told of going to work when he was 13. Although he had little schooling, he managed to send his six children through college.

Rev. Ortiz answered a call to preach in 1946. A few years later, he entered Hardin-Simmons University, graduating in 1952. He told of many discouraging, and sometimes humorous incidents, but declared "God was with me and I was determined to get an education."

Reminding his audience of the nearness of Thanksgiving, he declared that all "should be thankful to God for our country."

H. V. Woodard led the club singing. Guests introduced were Rotarians Herman Gam-mill of Rochester, Jim West Sr. of Stamford, and HHS Senior Lonnie Sturdy.

Most Wells Now Plugged In Once Prolific Lawson Pool

Final chapter is being written in the history of the Lawson oil pool east of Haskell, with most of the pool's 15 pumping wells having been plugged and abandoned.

Some of the last wells plugged were reportedly yielding about one barrel of oil to 1,000 barrels of salt water in the final production stages.

The wells were owned by the Thos. D. Humphrey Estate, developers of the field.

A residence also belonging to the estate, was sold recently, to be moved from the premises in closing out the Humphreys holdings, according to J. C. (Carl) Wheatley, who

Wichita Falls Man Enters Race For Congress

First to make an official public announcement of intention to run for the pending vacancy in Congress for this District is Joe Meissner Jr., a Republican and mayor pro-tem of Wichita Falls, Texas.

Incumbent Frank Ikard is known to have accepted a position in private industry and his resignation is expected momentarily. Ikard is scheduled to begin his new duties on the first of the year, and the special election to name his successor is likely to fall in January, 1962.

Meissner, a native Texan has lived in Wichita Falls since 1926. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Bailey Meissner of Wichita Falls. He is a Marine Corps veteran of World War II and of the Korean Incident. He was educated in Wichita Falls schools and earned degree credits at Rice, University of Louisiana, Oklahoma A & M, and T. C. U.

In his announcement he classified himself as a "conservative-thinking businessman," who is "willing to go to Washington to try to stop the break-neck rush toward Socialism."

Meissner predicts that the vacancy will "set off a mad scramble among present office holders to further their political careers" but predicts that the voters will support the conservative candidate.

He has resigned his position as the City Council to make the race.

Nov. 11 to 18 Designated As Veterans Week

To commemorate the 43rd anniversary of the armistice which brought to an end World War I, the week beginning Saturday, Nov. 11, has been designated "World War I Veterans Week" in Texas by Gov. Price Daniel.

The Governor's official memorandum designating the special week reads as follows: "Veterans Day, Nov. 11, has for the past several years served as a day of commemoration for the veterans of all American Wars. This observance, originally called Armistice Day, began as the tribute by a grateful people to the American soldiers, sailors and marines who fought and died in World War I.

Texas members of the Veterans of World War I of the U.S.A. are sponsoring World War I Veterans Week beginning Nov. 11. The observance begins on the 43rd anniversary of the signing of the Armistice which ended hostilities between Germany and the Allies on Nov. 11, 1918. On Nov. 12, 1961, at 1:30 p. m., a World War I Memorial Monument will be unveiled on the State Capitol grounds in Austin.

It is fitting that Texas, in the week beginning with Veterans Day, 1961, remember the sacrifices of those who took up arms in the cause of democracy and freedom in World War I.

Therefore, I, as Governor of Texas, do hereby designate the week beginning Nov. 11, 1961, as World War I Veterans Week in Texas, commemorating the 43rd anniversary of the Armistice and in tribute to the Texas veterans of the first World War."

Some cars have new names. this name will have a new car

The name is familiar—the Ford Fairlane 500. The car itself is totally new—you'll see nothing else like it this year. It is one of Ford's milestone designs and will be as influential in its way as the first mass-produced car (a Ford Model T), the first popular station wagon (a Ford Wagon), the first four-passenger car (a Ford Thunderbird), the world's most successful compact (a Ford Falcon).

Right between Galaxie and Falcon in size and in price, the 1962 Ford Fairlane 500 is just the right car for just about everybody; you have never been able to buy anything so right before. Big in room, ride and performance, it is still priced under most compacts. It nurses a nickel as though it never expected to see another. It moves like a rabbit on roller skates. Twice-a-year maintenance Service is reduced to a minimum—$0,000 miles on many items, twice a year on the rest. You go 50,000 miles between major lubrications, 6,000 miles between oil changes and minor lubrications. You don't have to touch the engine coolant-antifreeze for two years—or 50,000 miles—at a time. Brakes adjust themselves. All-new economy Eight from world's V-8 leader The hand that honed the Thunderbird—sped the Falcon to all-time Economy Run honor—turned to a new problem here, the world's most economy V-8. Made possible by new Ford foundry methods, the new Challenger V-8 is as strong as iron—and a lot lighter than iron's ever been before. As light as you'd like... thrifter than you'd expect a V-8 to be... it's a natural powerplant for America's first eat-your-cake-and-have-it-car. For those who want even greater thrift, there's a new Fairlane Six. Its economy would be gratifying in a car this size it's a downer. Preview America's new Fairlane 500's are riding highways and main roads. Watch for them. See what's already seen—and rave about it when you see it. We think you'll agree Ford is just right for your body. No matter how you've looked at it, you'll think like this one. It will be Dealer's next week. It will be yours now. Be sure to see it.
