Says Supreme Court...

New Life Forms Can Be Patented

WASHINGTON (AP)—New forms of life created through "genetic engineering" can be patented, a deeply divided Supreme Court ruled today.

By a 5-4 vote, the justices said the government must approve a patent request made by General Electric employee Ananda Chakrabarty for a laboratory-developed bacterium that eats crude oil more quickly and efficiently than natural bacteria.

The Carter administration had opposed the granting of such patents, telling the court about the "very significant" economic implications "given the vast area that it opens to patentability."

The court's majority opinion, written by Chief Justice Warren E. Burger, said Chakrabarty's microorganism fits the definition of "manufacture" and "composition of matter" covered by federal patent law.

"Congress is free to amend the applicable patent law so as to exclude from patent protection organisms produced by genetic engineering. Or it may choose to craft a statute—specifically designed for such living things," Burger said. "But until Congress takes such action, this court must construe the language of the law as it is. The language of that section fairly embraces Chakrabarty's invention."

Burger's opinion was joined by Justices Potter Stewart, Harry A. Blackmun, William H. Rehnquist and John Paul Stevens.

Justice William J. Brennan Jr. wrote a dissenting opinion that was joined by Justices Byron R. White, Thurgood Marshall and Lewis F. Powell Jr.

Brennan said "Congress plainly has legislated in the belief that patent law does not encompass living organisms."

In other actions today, the Supreme Court:

Rejected an attack by the U.S. Chamber of Commerce on government regulations claimed to force firms doing business with the government to establish impermissible racial quotas in hiring.

Agreed to decide whether defendants in federal antitrust cases can try to limit their potential liability by spreading the blame for alleged violations. The case involves three corrugated-container manufacturers who face most of a potential $5 billion in triple damages if found guilty of participating in an alleged price-fixing conspiracy.

Israeli Patrol Kills Three

TEL AVIV (AP)—An Israeli naval patrol intercepted and killed three Palestinian terrorists in a speedboat before dawn today, less than 24 hours after Prime Minister Menachem Begin's government warned the Common Market's call for Palestinian involvement in mideast peace talks was an invitation to Nazi-like liquidation of the Jewish state.

The military command said the guerrillas were heading down the coast from Lebanon, apparently to mount an attack along the Israeli coast, when their fiberglass boat was intercepted by an Israeli patrol boat.

Phone Workers Returning

SAN ANGELO (AP)—The Communications Workers of America began returning to work Sunday, and all strikers were expected to be back at General Telephone Co. of the Southwest by June 30.

Those with the most seniority were being called back first, said GTE spokesman Clovis McAllister.

Suspect Eluding Manhunt

BROWNWOOD, Texas (AP)—An 18-year-old man, being held on the largest bond in this county's history and described as "extremely dangerous, eluded a massive manhunt over the weekend, authorities said.

Elijah Sanchez bolted from his cell about 4 p.m. Saturday after officers unlocked it to return another prisoner, said Police Chief Victor Fowler.

Arrested Friday on charges of burglary, aggravated rape and aggravated kidnapping, Sanchez was being held on $1.5 million bond. Brown County Peace Justice Joe Bob Morgan set the bond, the largest in the county's history.

Clark Back From Iran

NEW YORK (AP)—Declaring "I am a free person and I speak my mind freely," Ramsey Clark has returned from Iran, challenging government officials to prosecute him.

At an airport news conference Sunday night, Clark said he was simply exercising his rights as an American when he violated President Carter's ban on travel to Iran and went to Tehran to participate in a 54-nation conference on U.S. "crimes" in Iran.

Clark, who was attorney general under President Lyndon B. Johnson, was to detail today nine steps the United States could take to gain freedom for the 53 American hostages held by Iranian militants since Nov. 4.

OLDTIMERS GREET—Charlie Hunnicutt of Fluvanna and Ruby Browning of Snyder, formerly of Fluvanna, greet during the homecoming at Fluvanna this weekend. They were among the 750 or more who attended the every-five-year event. (SDN Staff Photo)

At Fluvanna... No Hitches At Homecoming

FLUVANNA—"I believe everyone thoroughly enjoyed themselves," said Orval Mathis, general chairman of the Fluvanna Homecoming. The every five year event wound up Saturday afternoon with the dedicating of the 1980 Homecoming to L.M. Dawson, a former superintendent and community leader.

"Henceforth, this will be referred to as the L.M. Dawson Homecoming," said Mathis.

The final headcount indicates about 750 people were served at the noon meal, he said.

Entertainment at the awards ceremony was provided by Cindy Hataway, a Fluvanna High School graduate well known in the West Texas area for her singing talents.

Several "earliest" awards were also presented at the ceremony.

Tom Squires was the earliest graduate present. He graduated in 1916. The earliest teacher present was Mildred Mathis who was teaching in 1920.

Joe Glass was the earliest superintendent. He was there from 1948 to 1951. The earliest school board member there to accept his award was Wallace Jones. He was on the board in 1927.

The earliest preacher was Roy Phemister. He served as minister of the Church of Christ in 1949.

Arlis Haynes was the earliest Roscoe Snyder and Pacific Railroad employee attending. He worked for the RS&P from 1925 to 1970.

Also, Velma Ball was the mother with the most children to graduate from FHS, five boys and five girls.

Cecil Smith traveled the farthest to attend the homecoming. The Smiths are from New York City.

Also present for the occasion was Francis Stavely Belew, who wrote the school's song.

Mass March Planned On Embassy In Tehran

By The Associated Press—The hostage crisis can be solved only as part of a comprehensive settlement of all U.S. - Iranian problems, Iran's foreign minister said today. Meanwhile, Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini's revolutionary guardsmen were to lead a mass march on the U.S. Embassy in Tehran, where some of the 53 hostages were believed spending their 226th day in captivity.

"The hostage crisis is not an isolated issue," Foreign Minister Sadegh Ghotbzadeh told a news conference at Iran's foreign ministry. "It can be solved only through a comprehensive settlement of all Iran-U.S. problems." He did not elaborate, but up to now Iran's main conditions for release of the hostages have been the return of the ousted shah and his wealth.

Ghotbzadeh also attacked Iran's dominant Islamic Republican party and pro-Moscow Communist Party, accusing their newspapers of "collusion to force Iran into international isolation." Again he did not elaborate.

Thousands of Iranians were expected to turn out for today's march and rally marking the birthday of the Iman Hussein, patron of Iran's dominant Shiite Moslem sect, who was born in 626 A.D. Tehran Radio said Khomeini's son, Ahmad, and President Abolhassan Bani-Sadr would address the crowd outside the "American den of espionage."

The rally follows Khomeini's weekend declarations calling for a "Cultural Revolution" in Iran to "finish the enemies of God," and his demand that non-Moslems be purged from the state-run radio and television networks.

County Gets Two Requests

Scurry County commissioners discussed fire detection equipment in the jail and sheriff's office and salaries of library personnel at their meeting this morning.

Two members of the library board, Joyce Landon and Mindy O'Banion, asked the commissioners to consider salary increases for the library personnel.

Sheriff Keith Collier told commissioners that the fire detection equipment at the jail was considered inadequate.

Commissioners instructed the sheriff to prepare specifications for additional equipment to the system and they took the library salary situation under advisement.

Investigate Derailment

SIERRA BLANCA, Texas (AP)—The derailment of a westbound Southern Pacific freight train near here was under investigation today as workers kept a close eye on a leaking tank car carrying a dangerous chemical, authorities said.

No one was injured and railroad workers were letting a fire that ignited in the wreckage burn out, a Department of Public Safety dispatcher said.

Report Fracas At KKK Trial

GREENSBORO, N. C. (AP)—Three members of the Communist Workers Party were taken into custody today after scuffling with police outside a courtroom where six Ku Klux Klansmen and American Nazis went on trial in the slayings of five communist activists.

The fracas broke out when CWP members were denied admittance to the Superior Court room where jury selection was getting under way.

Holder Funeral Set Today

Funeral service was set for 2 p.m. today at First Christian Church for C.O. Holder, 85, who died Saturday morning in Cogdell Memorial Hospital.

Mr. Holder, who lived at 2902 33rd St., was a retired pipeline contractor and was chairman of the board of Snyder Savings and Loan. He was a member of First Christian Church and had served on the board of directors of the Snyder Chamber of Commerce.

The Rev. Gary Dudder, First Christian minister, was to officiate at the funeral service, and burial was to be in Hillside Memorial Gardens, under direction of Bell Seale. Masonic rites were to be conducted at the graveside.

Surviving are his wife, Kathryn; three sons, Waylen Holder of Snyder, Bob Holder of Midland and George Holder of Grand Prairie; and a sister, Wilma Lynch of DeSoto. Pallbearers were to be Paul Sizemore, Fred Gilliland, J.H. Young, Victor Zajicek, J.B. Sullenger, Frank Konvicka, Lee Smyth and Roger B. Mize.

ted's deceptive plan

When Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass., began his presidential campaign many thought his support for a national health program would be a focal point of his attack on President Carter. Instead Kennedy has kept the health issue off center stage and focused on issues pollsters find of more interest to the public - taxes, inflation and foreign policy. But Kennedy's national health proposal is far from dead; after the campaign it will be a big threat to the pocketbooks of the American people as ever.

There are many proposals for a national health program still circulating through Congress. Kennedy's is the worst of the lot. While Kennedy's bill does not encompass an immediate takeover of the private health industry, it would leave no part of American medicine uncontrolled by a massive new bureaucracy. The government's role under the Kennedy bill would not be solitary health insurance provider, as was advocated in his past proposals, but rather omnipresent regulator - big brother.

Kennedy calls his idea National Health Insurance. The proposal is as deceptive as its name. Obviously it is not insurance. No one is going to retain the right of choice now part of the private insurance industry.

Kennedy's proposal would more accurately be called national health control, or even more accurately, bureaucratic health control.

One of the more dishonest aspects of the legislation is that it seemingly promises something for nothing, which is not uncommon with congressional legislation. A federal takeover of the health industry would, on the face of it, add massively to the federal budget. Federal regulation, on the other hand, creates the impression that one is receiving benefits without increasing the price. But federal regulation always increases cost, and it is always the public that pays the increased price tag.

Kennedy's bill, ostensibly, tries to limit increased medical costs. That is one of the purposes of the immense bureaucracy created by the bill. The proposed legislation includes 37 pages just detailing the administration of the new program. And all of the new agencies and committees established under Kennedy's plan have no fear, will be instructed to keep medical costs under control. But who is going to pay their salary? The proposal will add the cost of a monstrous new bureaucracy to the already high cost of medical care.

Furthermore, Kennedy's proposed national health program will rapidly increase demand for medical services, thus fueling the inflationary pressure on medicine even more. If the new bureaucracy tries to clamp a lid on prices, the quality of service is bound to suffer.

There is little reason to believe that a national health program in the United States will be any better than those functioning in other nations. Every country attempting government control of medicine has suffered as a result. In England people wait for months for simple operations. The Australian economy was severely damaged by that government's attempt at a program similar to Kennedy's proposal. Canada is just now beginning to experience the side effects of a socialist medical system.

One wonders why with so much failure in evidence that politicians keep pushing for government-controlled medicine. Well there are some politicians who obviously will not be satisfied until the government controls everything. That group - including Kennedy - has more government solutions than there are problems.

There also are people who think that government intervention is needed to put a lid on the skyrocketing cost of health care. What this group fails to realize is that much of the pressure for increased medical prices comes directly from the government.

Those who want to develop better and more affordable health care must understand that providing medical treatment is no different than providing the other necessities of life. And as in the production of other goods and services, government regulations and bureaucracy adds to the cost and lowers the quality - even when the opposite is intended. With that in mind, Teddy Kennedy's health care proposal should be forgotten.

Move over, Khomeini - you've got competition as the man Americans love to exorcise.

Ramsey Clark. The former attorney general's mission to Iran in an effort to resolve the hostage crisis has drawn about as critical a press as is possible these days for anyone who is not an active presidential candidate or doing public relations for an oil company.

And not only in the United States. As thanks for his efforts, which included a denunciation of 25 years of American wrongs against the Iranian people through support of the shah, the revolutionary radio labeled him a CIA agent. Not just any old operative, mind you, but "the vilest agents of them all."

All this and more considered, Clark at this stage of the never-ending and increasingly bizarre hostage game should perhaps be spared further belaboring by his countrymen. If anyone has lost in this round, it is he - his convictions, or illusions as the case may be.

Clark, it may be remembered, spoke out before the shah's downfall in favor of the revolution and of Khomeini. He had made personal contact with the exiled ayatollah in Paris and had marched in the streets of Tehran with the revolutionaries. In attending the anti-American conference, he was defying his own government's ban on travel to Iran at the possible penalty of imprisonment and fine.

Yet as special credentials, all this added up to less than those possessed by the mother of one hostage, who at least was admitted to the captured embassy and talked with the militants and officials who refused to deal with Clark.

There are lessons to be learned in the incident, not only by Clark and his companions but by the broader public.

First is the basic miscalculation that there is anything to be gained in negotiation with the existing fractious Iranian power structure. The interest of the extremist religious forces that hold if not the upper hand at least veto power is in exploiting the existing situation, not ending it.

Second is the problem of personal diplomacy. It has its uses at times; it was, for a recent example, a factor in the American rapprochement with mainland China and in the opening of the Egyptian-Israeli dialogue.

But it also has its potentially disastrous disadvantages, particularly when conducted in the full glare of publicity as was the case with the Clark mission.

Clark could not bring the revolutionaries what they claim they want - the shah himself. But he did bring them what, pragmatically, they know they can get and use to advantage - attention. They derive this benefit from the mere presence of a controversial celebrity such as Clark, without needing to put themselves out even to the extent of granting him good intentions. So what's to be gained by even a show of dickering?

Clark has only repeated the earlier mistake of the Carter administration whose policy he criticizes by focusing attention on the hostages, thereby keeping Iranian grievances at the top of the news and enhancing the captives' value to the hardliners.

It is worth noting that Iranian President Bani-Sadr, who for all his anti-American rhetoric is still the figure considered most likely to find a way out of the impasse if only he can hold on to what power he has, plays it very cool on the hostage issue. He seldom mentions the subject.

In the long run, the Clark affair will be little more than a footnote to the chapter history eventually writes on the Iranian revolution.

It has certainly not improved the situation, but it is questionable that it has made it measurably worse. What could, other than another cavalry-to-the-rescue fiasco?

About the best, and the worst, that can be said of it is that it has been an exercise in utter futility, and its well-meaning author more to be pitied than censured.

Democrats' 24. The seven remaining delegations are evenly divided.

If all representatives voted along party lines, Carter would receive 24 votes and Reagan would receive 19. The remaining seven delegations would be deadlocked, with half their members voting for Carter and half for Reagan. If the House followed the same rules as it did in 1825, the votes of those split delegations would simply not count.

Thus, neither Carter nor Reagan would have the 26 votes needed for election. Meanwhile, the Senate would be exercising its authority under the 12th Amendment to choose a vice president from the two candidates with the most electoral votes - in this case, Walter Mondale and Reagan's yet-unnamed running mate.

Currently Democrats hold a 58-41 majority in the Senate. (There is one independent.) Though Republicans could make significant gains in the House if the November election is close, they would be unlikely to gain a majority in the Senate. Assuming its members voted along party lines, the new Senate would re-elect Walter Mondale.

If the House did not select a president by inauguration day, the new vice president would become acting president until the impasse was broken. And it might not be broken until after 1982 congressional elections.

Even if the Democrats then regained control of a majority of state delegations, would Carter be called back from "retirement" after two years of a Mondale presidency? Probably not. Mondale would end up serving four years as "acting president."

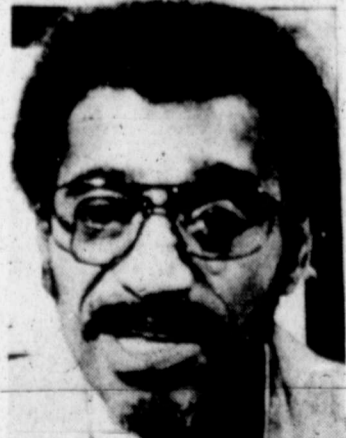

Is all this possible? Technically, yes. Is it farfetched? Of course. But the very fact that some credible people in this town are discussing the possibility shows that many think this will be a strange political year indeed.

"I may have become a bit of a bore."

Fallacies, Facts On Almost Perfect Food

Milk has been called an almost perfect food because of the array of nutrients it contains. Yet a number of fallacies have arisen about its quality and usefulness. Some of the most common according to the nutrition information of Dairy Council Inc.

FALLACY: Milk is fattening.

FACT: No food by itself is fattening. It is the total calories absorbed in a day that make the difference. When food intake must be curtailed, it is important to keep in your diet such foods as milk that provide generous amounts of nutrients and moderate amounts of calories.

FALLACY: Adults do not need milk.

FACT: Sixteen ounces or more of milk each day will furnish the calcium recommended for an adult. Two glasses of milk will also provide 54 percent of the riboflavin, more than 30 percent of the protein, 30 percent of the niacin equivalents and 14 percent of the vitamin A daily requirements for women. These nutrients are also in other foods, but the milk-cheese group by far the most fuel efficient source.

FALLACY: Skim milk (non-fat milk) has little of the vitamins, protein and minerals of whole milk.

FACT: Skim milk is simply whole milk with the butterfat (which includes vitamin A) removed. Buy skim milk fortified with vitamin A and you'll get the same nutrients as whole milk, but none of the fat. According to the U.S. Department of Agriculture, an eight-ounce glass of whole milk contains 3.5 percent or more milk fat and averages 160 calories. The same amount of skim milk has less than half a percent milk fat content and averages about 90 calories.

FALLACY: Milk cannot be frozen.

FACT: Milk can be frozen and kept at the normal freezer temperature of zero degrees or less for up to three months. Freezing does not measurably change the nutritive value of milk, but can alter taste and appearance.

FALLACY: Rapid heating of milk reduces the nutritional value of milk.

FACT: As long as milk is not scalded in the warming process, no nutritional loss occurs.

FALLACY: Buttermilk is made from the liquid whey that remains after butter is churned.

FACT: Buttermilk produced in commercial dairies in the United States is cultured buttermilk. This means that a lactic acid-producing organism is added to fresh skimmed or partially skimmed (low-fat) milk to produce a culture that gives buttermilk its characteristic tangy flavor and consistency.

FALLACY: Chocolate milk and chocolate dairy drink are the same.

FACT: Chocolate milk is made with whole milk, chocolate and sugar that add flavor and calories (totaling 205 calories in an eight-ounce glass) to plain milk. Chocolate dairy drink is made from skimmed milk or partially skimmed milk; the milk-fat content and calories are less (190 calories in an eight-ounce glass) than that of chocolate milk.

Muppets May Bow Off Air

LONDON (AP)—Could it be curtains for Kermit and his Muppet pals? Are the idols of millions planning to bow out of TV?

The British press reported today that the series of Muppet television shows now being filmed in Britain could be "the end of the Muppets in their present form."

"But that's not to say they won't return to TV at some future date," said Lord Lew Grade, the man who brought Kermit the Frog and Miss Piggy to television screens around the world.

The Muppets, created by American Jim Henson, are now filming a 24-show TV series at Grade's independent ATV television network studios in Britain.

Losing 38 pounds took me back 11 years to my pre-baby figure.

Nancy Hutchins knows babies can bring a little something unexpected into your life—extra pounds. Weight that's tough to get rid of when you're busy caring for children—looking for them, snuggling on the floor, don't think about it, you just have to live with it.

But when you're a mom, you know your body is a problem. She's up to 151 pounds, more than her 5'6" frame could handle.

"My husband says he's kind to say anything about it," Nancy says. "But he started dropping quiet hints like, 'You don't really need to eat that, do you?'"

Although she realized she had to do something about it, she wasn't sure what. When she heard about Pat Walker's from a friend, she was skeptical.

Could it possibly work for her?

Privacy is the rule
 Nancy especially liked the privacy of Pat Walker's. Because you don't work up a sweat, street clothes are perfectly comfortable and suitable. So you don't have to wear a leotard, or reveal your figure flaws to a roomful of other women. From your initial consultation, you're getting 10 hours with Pat Walker's professional counselors to your sessions on the passive exercise unit, every aspect of your redefining program is conducted in complete privacy. You're a special and valued patron of Pat Walker's, not a schoolgirl in a gym class.

Results tell the story
 Before long, Nancy was a believer. "When I began to notice how big the waistlines in my clothes were getting, I really got excited! I started out a size 14, and now I'm a 7. And let me tell you, I just love buying new clothes. My husband doesn't even complain when I buy another new dress—he likes me so much!"

Now thirty-eight pounds and 52½ inches (total) smaller than she was, Nancy Hutchins is delighted with her new look. You'll like yours, too.

 The best way to find out what Pat Walker's can mean to you is to make an appointment for a free, no-obligation consultation at a Pat Walker's salon. We'll tell you in detail about the entire program—how much you can lose, how long it will take, how much it will cost. And we'll treat you to a session on the Symmetric unit, so you can see how relaxing it is.

Come on, Call us. As Nancy Hutchins says, "If Pat Walker's can do it for me, they can do it for you!"

The easy way to exercise
 Nancy discovered that Pat Walker's is not a put-on-your-leotard-and-let's-exercise place. Pat Walker's exclusive passive exercise unit, called Symmetric, requires only that you lie back and let it do the work. As it tones, tightens, and smoothes your body, you have the sensation of a gentle, pleasant workout.

Parachutist Plunges 10,000 Feet To Death

FREDERICKSBURG, Va. (AP)—While his parents watched from below, Sgt. 1st Class Thomas Johnson, a member of the Army's crack Golden Knights sky diving team, pulled the ring on his parachute and plunged 10,000 feet to his death.

seconds more he would have made it," said another Golden Knight after the accident Sunday. Thousands of people attending the air show at Shannon Airport near here looked on as the veteran of more than 5,200 jumps fell to his death. In the crowd were a dozer of Johnson's relatives, including his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Johnson of De Ruyter, N.Y., and his brother, Charles Johnson Jr. The accident occurred as the 33-year-old Johnson, a veteran of more than 5,200 jumps, leaped from an airplane with Sgt. Carter

Edge. Only one parachute appeared. The second jumper continued to fall, trailing the red smoke that was part of the demonstration. Some spectators at first thought the jumper deliberately was delaying the opening of his parachute. Then came chilling words from an Army announcer: "It looks like we have a parachutist with a problem." Maj. Thomas Woods, public affairs officer at Fort Bragg, N.C., where Johnson was stationed, said Johnson and Edge had jumped from the plane at 10,000 feet, made a baton pass, and then pulled the rings to deploy their parachutes. Edge's chute opened, but Johnson's failed. Woods said when the small pilot chute used to pull the main chute free broke away. Woods said Johnson waited too long to try his reserve chute. Both his main and reserve chutes began to open, trailing behind him, moments before he struck the runway. It took several minutes for some of those in the crowd to realize what had happened. Some spectators said they thought it had been a dummy—a part of the show. "I could tell the man was in trouble," said Gardner Campbell, an announcer for radio station WFVA who was broadcasting live from the show. "He did not flail. He came down feet first, with his arms out, just like he had a parachute, but he didn't."

Reagan Touts Wide Range Of Domestic Policies

WASHINGTON (AP)— Ronald Reagan, long ago a New Deal Democrat, now is promoting a wide range of domestic policies that would chip away at some long-entrenched social programs, pare the federal bureaucracy and reverse trends dating back to FDR.

In words he has used time and time and time again, the Republican near-nominee says, "I would like to be president. I would like to get government off your backs and out of your way."

This is what candidate Reagan has said. President Reagan would try to achieve:

- Cut income tax rates 30 percent.
- Freeze government hiring.

- Get rid of the Department of Energy, born 1977, and the Department of Education, born 1980.

- Clamp a ceiling on federal spending, limiting it to a set percentage of the Gross National Product.

Reagan is proud of his positions, but has no desire to come across as an extremist or a heartless conservative.

"There is a basic belief that somehow I am lacking in compassion, the cliché that I would balance the budget on the backs of the poor," Reagan said recently. "I think my record as governor reveals none of that is true. We never did anything of that kind."

At the heart of Reagan's 1980 domestic program is a belief that the federal government is spending too much money, and spending it inefficiently.

He repeatedly promises that in his first 24 hours in the White House, he would start a "war on bureaucracy," freezing government hiring. He did just that in California, though his freeze contained large loopholes and failed to trim the state workforce.

His probable opponent, President Carter, has emphasized programs to battle the nation's inflation and energy dependency. Reagan focuses on these problems, too, but takes dramatically different positions.

Reagan says he would remove all price controls on energy products. He adamantly opposes one key Carter program: he would not tax the oil companies, "windfall" profits stemming from higher prices.

Reliance on imported oil would be reduced with more exploration and the development of domestic reserves and synthetic fuels derived from coal. He calls for private development of synthetic fuels rather than the federal government.

If his proposals were adopted, says Reagan, the U. S. can be energy self-sufficient within five years. However, the thrust of Reagan's energy plan has been debated by experts who believe he is overestimating how much oil lies beneath the nation. He supports wider use of nuclear power, "within strict safety rules," but he does not say whether he wants to tighten existing regulations.

The "Republican way" to fight inflation, Reagan said in Beverly Hills, is to reduce that inflated government which is leading to inflation, to bring it back down as a percentage of the gross national product and do that by simply having the will to squeeze the fat out of government and get rid of the useless extravagances that are adding to government's costs."

Reagan would eliminate "useless regulations" on the shopkeeper, the farmer, individual entrepreneurs, and major industries that cause "a blizzard of paperwork" restricting the competitiveness of U.

S. products in the international marketplace.

On other economic matters, "President" Reagan would:

- Oppose wage and price controls.

- Favor a minimum wage for unskilled teen-agers lower than that for adults. The minimum wages are now the same.

- Give private companies the primary role in fighting unemployment, rather than relying on federal job programs that now are a multibillion dollar budget item. Reagan says the federal CETA jobs program merely trains people for jobs that don't exist.

- Try to simplify environmental regulations. He believes they should be handled by state governments rather than Washington.

- Oppose any plan for national health insurance.

- Attempt to get rid of "double-taxing" the tax on a corporation's profits and then on the dividends it pays to stockholders.

- Seek an end to the inheritance tax and reduce business taxation in general in an effort to stimulate investment. He says the inheritance tax is essentially a nuisance tax which doesn't bring in much revenue. He also would try to end the tax on savings account interest.

- Appoint a task force to study Social Security finances. He would like to cut Social Security tax increases, but he emphasizes that any reform would have as its first priority the guarantee that all those counting on Social Security will continue to receive their monthly checks and that their benefits won't decline in purchasing power.

Reagan opposes abortions and federal funding for them and has said he would support a constitutional ban on abortions "except for a case where the life of the mother is at stake."

He also opposes the proposed Equal Rights Amendment to the Constitution, preferring elimination of sexual discrimination through enforcement of laws rather than a constitutional amendment.

Basket Making Class Scheduled

Basket making will be taught in a continuing education course at Western Texas College from June 23-27.

Classes are to meet from 7-10 p.m. in the Fine Arts Building. Fees will be $15 per person, plus supplies.

Karen Sears will be instructor for the course. She was one of the artists invited to participate in the recent Kerrville arts festival, and baskets were among the items she featured.

Persons wishing to reserve space in the basket making class are to call the Continuing Education office at 573-8511, extension 240.

Jeopardizing Federal Aid...

Chrysler Funds Seized By Bank

DETROIT (AP)—Michigan National Corp. has seized some $900,000 in Chrysler Corp. deposits as partial repayment for the automaker's outstanding bills to the bank holding company, according to the Detroit Free Press.

The move could jeopardize the $1.5-billion federal loan guarantee package Congress approved for the struggling No. 3 automaker, a spokesman for the U.S. Chrysler Loan Guarantee Board overseeing the aid told the newspaper.

The Free Press said Chrysler was informed of the $900,000 seizure on May 9. The newspaper quoted unidentified banking sources in today's editions as saying Michigan National apparently feared it would lose all its approximate $17 million in loans to Chrysler.

Stanford C. Stoddard, president of the Bloomfield Hills headquartered corporation, would not comment on the report, the Free Press said.

Michigan National officials were to meet today to discuss the situation, the newspaper said.

A spokesman for the loan board told the newspaper the nearly 400 private lending institutions involved in the bail-out plan have agreed among themselves that none will agree to Chrysler concessions, such as extending overdue loans, unless all the banks do.

The unidentified spokesman said Michigan National's action "in theory... could break the loan guarantee deal."

About six U.S. and European lending institutions have yet to sign the private financing agreement, but the loan board has said it was confident the deal would be approved. The board said last week it hoped to approve on Wednesday the first third of the government-backed installment.

Chrysler officials could not immediately be reached for comment.

Arrest Made In Shooting Of J.R.

DALLAS (AP)—The question "whodunnit J.R.?" may have been answered when Dallas police, or rather, actors portraying Dallas police, clapped handcuffs on Cliff Barnes, the rejected lover of J.R.'s wife.

The "arrest" occurred as filming for the fall season of the hit CBS television series "Dallas" began here this weekend.

J.R. Ewing, the mean, scheming oil tycoon-hero of the show, was shot by an unknown assailant on the final program of the series this spring.

And there's so much speculation on the identity of the assailant that the real Dallas police have gotten calls from as far away as England.

Barnes, played by Ken Kercheval, was handcuffed and taken to jail Saturday night after being apprehended in the Ewing Building—actually the First International Building—in downtown Dallas.

The scene shows J.R. with his shirt ripped open and paramedics giving him oxygen as he is wheeled from his office to an ambulance. Barnes stands among a crowd of 50 onlookers and is apprehended soon after the ambulance rushes to the hospital.

Lorimar Productions spokesman Tom Bishop would not say if Barnes will be charged with the shooting.

Barnes is only one of a dozen or so characters with a motive for trying to kill J.R., played by Larry Hagman.

To keep the identity of the "real" assailant secret, Lorimar has prepared several different scripts and is filming several versions to make sure cast and crew stay confused.

Rumor has it that if Hagman fails to agree on a new contract with Lorimar, J.R. might succumb to his wounds.

Needs medical supervision

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I'm 80 years old and have trouble with my bowels. I've had this trouble all my life. I thought it would be nice if I went once a week. This I do. The sixth day I take a purge of laxative pills. I started out with two pills but now I take six at a time. I have to get my bowels to move. They're like water when I do and it's five or six times a day. What can I do for this or must I have a colostomy?

DEAR READER — For most people who have spastic or irritable colon and minor irregularities, a good general bowel program works. But there are a small number of people who are unable to solve their problems with simple dietary changes, such as including bulk in the diet. These people must have medical supervision in correcting whatever their basic problem is. Obviously, you are one of them.

To give you some general information about laxatives, however, I'm sending you The Health Letter number 12-8, Laxatives, Enemas and Suppositories. Other readers who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Send your request to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

Now no one should be taking six laxative pills at a time. Those severe watery eliminations that you have mean that you're washing out a lot of salt and water which can upset your body chemistry and be very serious in a person in your age group.

I believe you should have a careful examination by your doctor and let him help you with your program. It's not something that's going to be solved overnight but it sounds to me like at least it can be significantly improved. It is most unlikely that it's the kind of a problem that would require surgery.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I believe I have a ganglion on my wrist. I use my wrist all day as I work in a factory. I would like to know if it is dangerous if I don't do anything about it. I'm told that if I have it operated on it could come back as long as I keep using my wrist as I do now. What causes ganglions; is there anything you can do to relieve the hurt or burn?

DEAR READER — A ganglion is a cyst. The tendons and some other structures around joints and the hands and feet are encased in a fibrous sheathlike substance. It physically resembles the plastic wrap material that you use in the kitchen. If part of this develops a little pocket (usually rounded) and fills with fluid, it's called a ganglion.

One of the old treatments for ganglions in strategic locations was to use the family Bible method. The person would lay the afflicted part on the table and the family doctor would take a big heavy Bible and swat it. This would break the little cyst and the fluid would run out and often that would be the end of the problem.

A small ganglion may be

JP Doubts Ax Murderer A Psycho

WYLIE (AP)—Shocked by the gruesome bludgeoning death of a 30-year-old mother, residents of the quiet town spent the weekend behind locked doors for fear the ax-wielding killer would strike again.

But Justice of the Peace John "Buddy" Newton said he felt residents had nothing to fear. The murder, he speculated, was purely personal and did not indicate, as some townspeople fear, that a "psycho" was on the loose.

Former schoolteacher Betty Gore was hacked to death Friday in her $75,000 home by a killer who apparently struck her repeatedly with the family's three-foot ax, then washed off her blood in one of the home's showers.

"Think of yourself lying on your back and someone smashing an ax through your head three times," he said. "She was damn near dismembered."

Police said Sunday they had neither a suspect nor a motive.

On Sunday, Dallas police picked up a man for questioning, but he was not arrested or charged in connection with the slaying.

"A couple of waitresses overheard him talking about the case and we picked him up," said Dallas homicide investigator J.H. Gholston. "We talked to him and Wylie police talked to him, but there isn't anything to link him to it the Gore slaying."

Newton said he thinks the slaying was the result of a personal vendetta.

"It's just my personal opinion, based on no evidence, that this was a one-shot deal executed in a moment of frenzy," he said Sunday. "I don't feel like there's a psycho on the loose. I think the person was the intended victim and there was no reason other than what motivated the killer.

"I could be entirely wrong, but it is just a gut feeling," Newton said. "They (the killer) went after the person they wanted and did a very thorough job of it."

Newton said his speculations were based in part on the fact that Mrs. Gore was killed with an ax that belonged to the family.

"If they had not found the ax there, and I thought there was somebody out there ruming around with it, it might be different. But I don't expect a repeat of it tonight or tomorrow morning or tomorrow night."

The toxic insecticide DDT is referred to as that because its full name is dichlorodiphenyl trichloro ethane.

Rondeau Claims 48th Running Of Le Mans

LE MANS, France (AP)—Like the America's Cup or the Grand National steeplechase, winning the Le Mans 24-hour road racing classic can become an obsession.

Jean Rondeau, born here 34 years ago and taken to the 8.5 mile track outside town for the first time at the age of three, fed that passion Sunday. He won the 48th running of the event and set a new piece of its history, the first man to win driving a car he built.

But he didn't completely state his passion because, he said, "A victory must never stand alone. It must be followed up. I'll be back."

So will Dick Barbour, another who admits having been badly bitten by the Le Mans bug. The record of the portly, 39-year-old businessman from San Diego, Calif., is good here. He was fifth in his first appearance in the tough, highly specialized event and second last year, also with class and group wins after leading for much of the first half of the race.

"Sure I'll be back next year," he said after picking up three handsome trophies and a check which might just cover the cost of his tires.

Grays Take Twilite Event

Dick and Alice Gray turned in a 30 to take first place in the Twilite Swingers held at Snyder Country Club last week. The event is held each Friday.

Don and Shirley Head and Don and Lu Wolf tied for second with a pair of 32s. Taking fourth were Jack and Kaye Cypert.

GIRLS LEAGUE

Beavers 21, Muggers 3

Rosie Pena, winning pitcher, slugged four singles and April Danelly, Michelle Osborne and Kim James added two banehts each as the Beavers ripped the Muggers in this Division II game played Saturday evening.

Tina Cowan rapped a double for the winners and Karen Cowan and Denise Derrick added a single apiece.

Annette O'Bryan and Denise Yandrich each clouted two singles for the Muggers while Dawn Patrick, Mary Warren, Tracy Hicks and Rebecca Powell knocked a single apiece.

Rebels 17, Red Devils 9

Haley Vineyard rapped a triple and a double and Alicia Valadez knocked four singles to aid the Rebels past the Red Devils in this Division I game held Saturday.

Melody Pickering powered a triple and a single. Anessa Reed drilled a double and a single and Shea Fenson added two singles for the winners. Also hitting for the Rebels were Paula Caldwell, a double; and Della Webster and Amy Webster, a single apiece.

Tommy Gray hit two, and Jennifer Spence and Kena Burcham knocked one single apiece for the Red Devils.

Ends Dry Spell With Open Triumph...

Nicklaus On Top Again

SPRINGFIELD, N.J.—Jack Nicklaus has won his fourth U.S.—Open Golf championship and already is looking forward to going after his fifth.

The 40-year-old Nicklaus, winner of 18 major titles, made it clear after he captured the title at Baltusrol Sunday that he does not plan to retire any time soon.

He suggested, however, that he had thought about it over the past two winless years, admitting that at times he had self-doubts about his ability to play competitive golf and that "I want to stop the retirement talk right now," said Nicklaus after winning with an Open-record-breaking score of 272, 8 under par and two strokes better than Japan's Isao Aoki, who also broke the Open record. "I'm not going to retire. Perhaps I should but I don't have any sense."

Nicklaus said that now that he has won the Open, preparation for the next two major championships—the British Open and the PGA—should be easier. He said in addition to those tournaments, he will play next week at the Canadian Open and in the World Series of Golf.

Nicklaus played outstanding golf during the four days at historic Baltusrol, a par-70 course which plays up to 7,076 yards depending on the tee placements. He etched his name alongside the other winners of three Opens—Willie Anderson, Bobby Jones and Ben Hogan.

Pirates Rob Houston, 4-1

PITTSBURGH (AP)—The Pittsburgh Pirates, who fell from atop the National League East a week ago, have that winning feeling again.

"We showed people what we are made of this weekend," Ed Ott said Sunday after he drove in two runs to back the pitching of John Candelaria and help Pittsburgh beat the Houston Astros 4-1 before a Jersey Day crowd of 49,541.

The Astros, leading the NL West, came here with eight victories in a row. But the Pirates won two of three weekend games to move within a game of first-place Montreal in the East Division.

Sunday's victory also halted an 11-game home winless streak for Candelaria, dating back to last season.

He is 4-5 overall this season, but he had not won in seven starts this season at Three Rivers Stadium.

Though Ken Forsch, 7-5, took the pitching loss, he said it was one of his better games this season.

Astro Manager Bill Virdon agreed.

"I thought that was the best he's pitched in his last three or four times out," said Virdon. "His stuff was better."

Candelaria, 4-5, escaped a bases-loaded jam in the first inning after allowing a run-scoring double by Cesar Cedeño.

With the bases full in the Houston first inning, Julio Gonzalez tapped the ball down the third base line.

Gonzalez, figuring it was a sure foul, stood at home plate as the ball rolled from foul to fair territory.

He was thrown out by third baseman Dale Berra to retire the side.

"If he had run to first base, they would have scored and who knows what would have happened after that?" said Candelaria. "It was just lack of hustle, I guess."

Virdon chose not to publicly criticize Gonzalez, who was also tagged out in the seventh when he overran third base, completing a Pirate double play.

"You do what your eyes tell you. And when they fool you, you have a problem," Virdon said.

Nicklaus tied the 18-hole Open record of 63, set by Johnny Miller in 1973 at Oakmont, Pa. He also broke the 72-hole mark which he set when he won it in 1967 and which Lee Trevino tied the following year at Oak Hill in Rochester, N.Y.

Nicklaus's opening 63 was only good enough to tie fellow Ohioan Tom Weiskopf. He came back the next day with a 71, to hold the lead by himself, then shot an even-par 70 to tie with Aoki, and finally a 68.

In Sunday's round, Nicklaus went head-to-head with Aoki, as he had the previous three days, but he also was pushed by others, such as Keith Ferguson, who finished in a tie for third with Lon Hinkle and Tom Watson. Nicklaus appeared ready to run away from the field when he birdied No. 3 to go 7 under and take a 2-stroke lead over Aoki and Hinkle, a 3-stroke lead over Watson and a 4-stroke edge over Ferguson and Mark Hayes.

He bogeyed No. 4 and No. 7 to drop to 5 under and into a tie with Ferguson, who had made two birdies. They were one stroke ahead of Watson and two ahead of Aoki and Hinkle. That's the way it remained, except that Watson bogeyed to drop to two strokes off the pace, as Nicklaus made the turn home.

Head-Reed Ist In MGA Play

Herb Reed and Don Head came up with a 27 to take top honors in weekly Men's Golf Association play at Snyder Country Club last week.

Joe Michie and John Lack tied with Mackey Greene and John Reed at 27 for second, while Pinky Ferguson and Russell Yorgeson tied with Don Sealy and Bear Hardin at 30 for fourth.

Play was best ball of the twosome.

Records Set At AC Meet

WALNUT, Calif. (AP)—Ray Sharp set an American record in the 5,000-meter walk with a time of 20 minutes, 27.8 seconds at The Athletics Congress Outdoor Track and Field Championships.

Madeline Manning scored a sensational victory in the women's 800-meter race, winning in one minute, 58.75 seconds, the second fastest time ever by an American. In a major upset, Karin Smith of UCLA beat Kate Schmidt in the women's javelin. Smith's best toss was 199-1.

Jays Jar Rangers; Texas 11 Games Back

TORONTO (AP)—Wins are what it's all about but, to a pitcher, complete games are the icing on the cake.

Prior to play Saturday, American Petroleum Institute-API and Society of Petroleum Engineers (SPE) members attended a dance held Friday evening. A barbecue followed the tournament on Saturday.

Bob Messer carded a 34 net to take first place in the Third Flight. Gary Hyatt took second with a 38. O.K. Fletcher, also turning in a 38, claimed third place. John Gibson finished with a 37 to win the Fourth Flight. He was followed by John Kohn and Tommy Williams respectively, both with 38s.

Special Event winners were Tracy Witherspoon, Mike Taylor, David Monroe, Roger Lyle and Leo Gard.

The annual API-SPE Golf Tournament was held under clear, if hot, skies here at Snyder Country Club Saturday. Approximately 140 golfers participated in the nine-hole tournament, handicapped after play.

Walt Williams, turning in a net 35, won the First Flight competition, edging out Bear Hardin and Phil Ator by a point. Hardin defeated Ator for second by a card playoff.

In the Second Flight, Bill Harris took top honors with his 38. That score tied with second place Pinky Ferguson and third place Gerald Greene, but a card playoff again settled the issue.

When the Rangers pushed across a run in the seventh, it snapped at 18-2-3 his streak of scoreless innings.

In his previous start, the Chicago native blanked the White Sox 1-0 on a four-hitter.

"Yeah, that Clancy's a good pitcher," conceded a downcast Pat Corrales, manager of the Rangers.

"We were hoping it would be like yesterday's game," he added, referring to Saturday's 7-6 Toronto victory when the Blue Jays scored twice in the bottom of the ninth.

parlayed three singles and a walk into two runs.

Reliever Jerry Garvin came on to retire Richie Zisk with two runners on base and preserve a 5-3 victory for the Blue Jays.

Earlier in the game, the 6-foot-5 right-hander was in total control, cruising along with a no-hitter for the first five innings.

R's or inches

It's not the thickness of insulation that counts; it's the R factor—a measure of its resistance to heat.

Batts, blankets, rigid board, loose fill or foamed in place insulation are the most common types of insulation. But within these types are a variety of substances; rock wool, cellulose fiber, glass fibre, all with varying R factors. While FHA minimum specifications call for R-11 in the walls and R-19 in the attic, R-11 to 15 in the walls and R-26 to 30 in the attic is recommended in Texas.

Building or remodeling? Check the R factor of your insulation.

HOW'S THE WEATHER down there, Shorty? That may have been the question that Henry Cooper, an 18-hand-high shire horse, posed to Long Ears, a 26-inch-high miniature donkey, when the two met recently at an English brewery. Incidentally, Henry Cooper was named for an English boxer.

Screwworm Plan In U.S. Success

MISSION (AP)—Statistics tell the success story of the battle to rid the United States of pesky screwworm flies that prey on livestock. Last year, there were 90 cases nationwide, confined to Texas, New Mexico, Arizona, Nevada and California. In 1972, Texas alone recorded 90,980 cases.

The program's record means it will gradually phase out operations in this country and by 1982, it will be confined to Mexico. "We've been very successful," said Dr. James Novy, director of the U.S. Department of Agriculture screwworm laboratory. "The whole objective is to eliminate the screwworm from Mexico to the Guatemala border."

The fly larvae feed off wounds in warm-blooded animals and can weaken or kill livestock if left untreated. Since 1962, the lab here in the lower Rio Grande Valley has grown flies sterilized them and distributed them from airplanes. Sterile flies mating with wild flies will break the insect's life cycle.

The laboratory is located at a former Air Force base, which houses several other USDA programs. "The original plan was that we would close down here by 1981, but in 1978 we had an outbreak in Arizona, New Mexico and far West Texas which set the program back," Novy said.

"It's conceivable that we could close by the end of 1981 but it's in the plans to continue to 1982," he said. "Some of the 500 employees will be absorbed by other programs but not all will find government jobs. In the next two or three months, approximately 100 workers in the plant and distribution section will get pink slips. Only 20 employees will be absorbed into other offices by the end of the year, he said.

Another fly distribution center in Douglas, Ariz., closed in January although aircraft for Mexican flights are maintained there.

The phasing out of American offices means more work will be done in Mexico. The Mexico-United States Commission for Screwworm Eradication is headquartered in Mexico City.

"As the work moves south, we'll open distribution centers deeper in Mexico," Novy said. Programs in Hermosillo and Obregon, both in the northern state of Sonora, are being phased out.

New offices opened earlier this year at Mazatlan and Culiacan in north-west Mexico. Cooperation of ranchers has been a big factor in the program's success, Novy said.

AT FOLK FESTIVAL—Juan E. Martinez of Laredo stacks bundles of grass to make a thatched roof. Other pioneer crafts such as shingle splitting, syrup making, chimney building and horsehair rope spinning will be demonstrated at the ninth annual Texas Folklife Festival, on the grounds of The University of Texas Institute of Texan Cultures at San Antonio, July 31-August 3.

Coming Up In San Antonio...

Texas Folk Festival Features Early Skills

SAN ANTONIO—An old cowboy pauses from telling a tale and drops a plug of tobacco behind his lips, then continues his oral recreation of early ranch days in Texas.

A silk trouser-clad Lebanese dancer hikes her pants legs to give herself more kicking room while doing the "fais do-do" to Cajun music.

Two gospel singers, one black and one white, compare singing styles in the cool of the brush arbor.

This grab bag of activities is a typical scene from the annual Texas Folklife Festival, a program of The University of Texas Institute of Texan Cultures. The characters are four of more than 6,000 volunteer participants who travel to San Antonio to stage a celebration of their heritage and culture.

One hundred and eighty towns and cities will be represented by these Texans-turned-teachers July 31 through August 3 when they congregate on the downtown HemisFair grounds of The Institute.

Because of the Festival's spirit of sharing, visitors become active participants in the Festivities. Some roll up their sleeves, seize a saw and help build an outdoor kitchen, others sit at the feet of a gray-haired grandmother and learn a style of tatting that is generations old.

Others with culinary curiosity create a palette of foreign foods by combining a Norwegian potato specialty, country-style chicken fried steak, Lebanese tabouleh and an iced drink.

Youngsters can be found discovering the games of their pioneer forebears in "frontier playland", an area that provides hay to jump in, games to play and farm animals to pet. Other demonstrations also are for children. Toy makers let the top players help create a wooden whirlygig. An old wagon pulled by a gentle horse circles the grounds with a load of young trail blazers. Muzzle loaders show youngsters how the old guns were loaded and fired.

Sitting under a tree lazily watching sheep being sheared or dancing to music from the German oompah band may seem an unusual way to learn your state. But Festival organizers believe that first-hand experience with the people—their music, dance, games, contests, arts, crafts and folk tales—best shows the origins of Texas' colorful history. The diversity of the settlers, and their sharing of skills, has made the modern-day Lone Star State an exciting, unusual place to live.

The common elements that helped early settlers seal the bond of friendship that created a state also became more apparent. For example, the lack of refrigeration forced all settlers to learn canning and preserving food. The teaching of that skill was a German contribution to the state's homemakers and at the Festival, visitors can learn the art from a first-generation German Texan.

Chefs from 31 ethnic, cultural and national groups vie for the visitors' attention with their exotic blends of homestyle cooking. And they all share recipes. Those with small appetites can sample as many different dishes as their heartier friends because cooks offer 20 or 40-cent samples along with the larger, full-priced portions.

Tickets for this, the ninth annual, Festival went on sale at the Institute on June 1 and are offered at various San Antonio and Austin locations.

The Advance ticket prices are $3.00 for adults, $1.00 for children under 13 and children under six are admitted free of charge. At the gate, prices go up to $4.00 for adults. A hand stamp allows visitors to enter and leave the Festival grounds as often as they wish during a single day.

Low cost shuttle bus service will be available from downtown parking lots. Park and Ride buses coming from Wonderland Mall on IH 10, Windsor Mall on IH 35 and South Park Mall on Military Drive will take visitors to the Festival grounds for a $1.50 round trip fee.

The Festival is open from 5 p.m. until 11 p.m. on Thursday, July 31, and from noon until 11 p.m. Friday, Saturday and Sunday (Aug. 1, 2, and 3).

Additional information is available from The University of Texas Institute of Texan Cultures at San Antonio, P.O. Box 1226, San Antonio, Texas 78294.

Underpass Makes Salad

INDIANAPOLIS (AP)—A too-tall fruit truck tried to negotiate a short underpass and spilled its load of grapes, peaches and nectarines in the process, authorities said.

The top of the 13-foot-high truck was broken off and the vehicle split down the middle in Sunday night's accident on the city's east side, police said.

The driver, George D. Grounds, 38, Albuquerque, N. M., who wasn't injured, told police he was making a run from Albuquerque to Buffalo, N.Y., when he noticed he was almost out of fuel. A van driver using the handle "Gypsy King" on the citizens band radio told Grounds he would lead him to a service station that sells diesel fuel.

The van went through the underpass easily enough but Grounds' truck got hung up on the underpass, shearing off several large chunks of concrete, police said.

OBITUARIES

Paul Gilliam

Paul Gilliam, 81, former Snyder resident, died Friday night in a nursing home at Alvarado.

Funeral service was set for 4 p.m. today in the Bell-Seale Funeral Home Chapel. The Rev. Virgil Mott was to officiate, and burial was to be in the Snyder Cemetery, under direction of Bell-Seale.

He is survived by a daughter, Mozell Benton of Dallas; two sons, Bobby Gilliam of Alvarado and Jim Linebaugh of Houston, and a brother, Fish Gilliam of Como.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Because you're able to see and appreciate the other fellow's point of view today, it will do much to help shore up important alliances.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Take pride in your work today, regardless of its significance. Being productive and performing at your best will greatly enhance your self-esteem.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Things should go smoothly today because you're not apt to take yourself or your involvements too seriously. Ego won't enter the picture.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Be persistent today in situations that can enhance your material well-being. Tie down all the loose ends before going on to things less profitable.

Extrication Demonstration Set Saturday

An extrication demonstration has been scheduled for Saturday by an EMT class being conducted here.

The demonstration, which will show how to remove victims trapped in wrecked cars, will be held between the hours of 9 a.m. and 5 p.m. Saturday at Bill's Auto Salvage.

The Texas State Technical Institute will have its extrication equipment on hand for the demonstration, and the public is invited to witness the demonstration.

More Felony Charges Filed

Three more felony charges have been filed against Ricky Dale Slaughter in connection with a rash of burglaries that hit the city about two weeks ago.

In the latest round of charges, filed Friday by District Attorney Pete Greene, Slaughter, 17, 2011 KSNY Drive, is alleged to have entered buildings owned by James Smiley, Ruben Bingham, and Gary Abrahams, all on June 4.

In an earlier charge, Slaughter had been filed on for allegedly entering a building owned by Murray Jackson.

Interest Rates

Continue Fall

WASHINGTON (AP)—Interest rates have been dropping recently and are expected to continue their decline in the wake of the latest action by the Federal Reserve Board.

On Thursday, the Board voted 6-0 to drop its discount rate, one full point to 10 percent.

Motorcycle

Missing In Burglary Here

The burglary of a What-Not-Storage stall resulted in the theft of a $5,000 Harley-Davidson motorcycle, police reports show.

The burglary, reported by motorcycle owner, Floyd Hollis, was reported at 7:20 p.m. Sunday. The motorcycle was a 1967 Electra Glide Harley-Davidson.

Taking the burglary complaint was Sgt. Ed Covington.

Also Sunday, Bill Schiebel, 3011 Ave. T, reported a criminal mischief incident. He told officer Kerrie Fritz two tires on a car were cut, resulting in a loss of about $150.

Four traffic accidents were investigated.

The first was reported at 7:40 a.m. Saturday in the 2400 block of 27th St. Involved in it were a 1975 AMC driven by Melvin Edwards that struck a dumpster. The accident was worked by Joe Bob Martinez.

Don Whittenburg investigated a two-car collision Saturday at 9:40 p.m. in North Park. The collision involved a 1966 Ford driven by Andres Gutierrez and a 1965 Ford driven by Jessie Hernandez.

Shortly before 1 p.m. Sunday, a two-car collision occurred at 30th St. and College Ave. According to a report filed by investigating patrolman Fritz, the accident involved a 1973 Chevrolet driven by Brad Woolsey and a 1976 Pontiac driven by Roy Rogers.

The latest accident on the police blotter was called in at 2:40 a.m. today, in the 4000 block of Ave. V. There, a 1971 Dodge driven by Manuel Gomez Martinez of Lubbock struck a telephone pole. The accident was worked by Robert Harbin.

Says Commerce Secretary...

No Chance For Tax Cut

WASHINGTON (AP)—Commerce Secretary Philip Klutznick says there's no chance that taxes will be cut this year, even though a top Republican economist says a cut is needed because of the "virtually insane" economic policies of the Carter administration.

Klutznick, appearing Sunday on the ABC program "Issues and Answers," spiked rumors that circulated last week that the administration might change its position and seek a tax cut this year to help spur the economy's recovery from its current recession.

That speculation began after Courtenay Slater, the chief Commerce Department economist, wrote in a department publication that the government should seek a tax cut of up to $39 billion.

"Courtenay Slater does not speak for the administration," Klutznick said. He added that "my own judgment is as a practical matter that there could not be a tax cut until next year at the earliest."

George Schultz, secretary of labor and of the treasury under President Nixon, said Sunday "I think we should have a reduction in taxes now."

Schultz, appearing on NBC's "Meet The Press," said he did not think the 1981 budget passed by Congress will be balanced, a claim Democrats have made.

He predicted that by the end of the fiscal year, the budget will run a deficit "above $50 billion."

Ronald Reagan, the GOP nominee apparent, would devise better policies if Reagan is elected in the fall.

He said Carter's budget has "a gigantic tax increase" and said the recent credit controls imposed by Carter "were a bad mistake."

Klutznick admitted that the budget might be unbalanced "if business declines, if incomes decline and there are automatic actions that increase expenditures such as unemployment insurance."

A deficit would increase the chances of a tax cut, Klutznick said.

Child Warrior Shoots First Man At Age Eleven

GONA GEDO, Ethiopia (AP) - Mohamed Farah killed his first man last year when he was 11.

His best friend, Mohamed Abdulahi, was only 13 when he aimed his Kalashnikov assault rifle and cut down four fleeing soldiers.

Farah and Abdulahi are not unique in the Horn of Africa. They are children of the Ogaden - a new breed of pre-teen and adolescent warrior caught in the maelstrom of guerrilla war between the Ogaden's independence-minded ethnic Somali tribesmen and Ethiopia's Soviet- and Cuban-backed army.

The Ogaden is a region of scrub and cracked earth located in south eastern Ethiopia and bordering Somalia. The area ceased to be a conventional battlefield 27 months ago when government forces, backed by sophisticated Soviet weaponry and Cuban shock troops, blunted the drive by guerrillas of the Western Somali Liberation Front and the regular Somali army to free the region from nearly 100 years of Ethiopian military rule.

Intense fighting, however, continues unabated in the Ogaden. Thousands of poorly equipped but determined rebels roam the countryside, battering isolated army outposts and ambushing supply convoys from their makeshift base camps.

Boys like Farah and Abdulahi play a key role in the conflict. Unlike youngsters elsewhere in Africa, who dress in oversized uniforms and wield toy guns in government-organized youth groups, the children of the Ogaden are frontline combatants. They wait in ambush, set mines, join in attacks and patrol along with their older compatriots.

Their lives have been totally shaped by the war, which has sputtered on since the early 1960s. Their chief motivation for fighting is revenge, a point of honor among the Ogaden's nomadic peoples.

"The Ethiopians killed my father in 1976," Farah said in an off-hand manner. "They also killed my mother last year when they bombed our village.

"I want my revenge. It is my duty and my right."

WSLF commander Abdulrahman Mohamed, in charge of the central region around the towns of Degahabur, Aware and Segag, says between 300 and 400 youths bear arms under his command. Thousands more are believed fighting elsewhere.

"We lost many young men in 1977 and 1978," he said in his command tent beneath the branches of a thorn tree. "The younger ones have taken their place.

"You must remember that we Somalis have an extended family system. All of us have lost loved ones to the Abyssinians Ethiopians. The only ones who do not fight are those too old or those who are the only ones left to care for the youngest children."

At Gona Gedo, 12 miles from Degahabur, a major Ethiopian tank base, this reporter saw about 15 children of Farah's and Abdulahi's age. All carried East-bloc Kalashni-kovs - the favorite automatic rifle of revolutionaries. Most were combat veterans. Many had killed. Many had been wounded.

"Yes, I have killed," said Farah, his angular cheek resting against the stock of his loaded rifle. "I killed some wounded. They were left behind on the battlefield when the others ran away."

"It was right to kill them. I was very angry. They killed my mother and my father."

Farah was shot through the fleshy part of his left forearm last year when guerrillas attacked soldiers at Degahabur who were vacating their trenches in a rain storm.

"I was attacking with my people when I was hit," he said, pointing to a large, round scar. "I knew I was wounded. My hand just went senseless."

A one-time American League umpire, Billy Evans, later became the general manager of the Cleveland Rams football team.
