Horsemanship Clinic Being Conducted Here

A horsemanship clinic is currently underway at the Old Rodeo Grounds on West 30th St. "They're studying horse-ship, everything about it from basic horse-ship to how to partici-pate in shows," said Billy Roach, county agent, of the approximately 30 children enrolled in the clinic. The participants, he said, come from Snyder and Scurry County, Tahoka, Borden County, and Rotan. The clinic started Thursday and lasts three days.

The clinic, the first of its kind in Scurry County, is sponsored by the Scurry County 4-H Horse Club. Teachers for the clinic are Cindy Salsman and Janet Wilkinson, both with the A&M University Extension Service, Horse Specialist Office. Hours of the clinic are from 8 a.m. until 5 p.m.

Abilene Toddler Killed In Crash

ASPERMONT (AP)—A 3-year-old Abilene girl was killed and her parents critically injured when their single engine plane crashed on the runway during takeoff Thursday night. The victim was identified as Holly Portlock. Authorities said she was pronounced dead at an Aspermont hospital. Her parents, Walter and Katherine Portlock, were in critical condition at an Abilene hospital today.

Driver Dies In 1-Car Mishap

Jackie Kenneth Culpepper, 35, of 2800 Ave. F, became the third 1980 traffic fatality of Scurry County late last night when he was killed in a one-car rollover near Hermleigh.

Troopers of the Department of Public Safety, who investigated the accident, said Culpepper was driving a 1978 Dodge which left the road and overturned. The accident occurred about 10:45 p.m., approximately 12 miles east of Snyder on Highway 84. He was pronounced dead at the scene by Justice of the Peace Dan Callaway. A native of Abilene, Culpepper had been living in Snyder for about two weeks. Funeral service has been set for 2 p.m. Saturday at the Assembly of God Church in Hamlin. The Rev. P.A. Mitchem and the Rev. Freddy Weaver will officiate. Burial will be in the Fairview Cemetery at Tuxedo, under direction of Bell Seale Funeral Home. He is survived by his mother, Mrs. Twila Culpepper of Snyder, and five sisters, Patsy, Walton of Burleson, Bettie Baxter of Lubbock, Judy Stultz of Breckenridge, Peggy Stevenson of Sylvester and Janice Latrace of Fort Worth.

7 Now Dead From Heat

DALLAS (AP)—At least seven people are dead as the result of a blistering heatwave that has shattered temperature records in most major Texas cities. Forecasters predicted sweltering afternoon highs to top out near 113 degrees again today. The heat was blamed for five deaths in Dallas, on Thursday, when the mercury reached an all-time high of 113. In initial reports, medical examiners said heat was a factor, but expected more specific causes of death after performing autopsies. Two deaths in the Dallas area had been blamed on the heat earlier in the week. David Michaelson, 72, owner of a downtown clothing store, and his sister, Sadie, 86, were found dead in their beds by a relative Thursday night.

The air conditioning was broken and homicide investigators said the temperature was 110 degrees in the home. Alejandro Parra, 50, collapsed on his landscaping job and died after being taken home. Gertrude Forrester, listed in her 60s, was found dead by a neighbor in the 100-degree heat of her un-air-conditioned home. Arthur Wygant, 59, of Dallas, died while unloading a truck about 2 p.m.

privileges being suspended. Cy Miller, hospital administrator, said these revisions were submitted by the State Health Dept. following a recent visit to Cogdell by two state officials. Previously, the local hospital had not notified medical staff members of appointments and re-appointments in writing and had allowed 30 days before incomplete medical records were considered delinquent. The manager's report showed a daily patient census of 72 during the month of May. The patient census for the calendar year so far averages 74.

Snyder Logs 103 Again

It was a monotonous situation, weather-wise, Thursday in Snyder. The official high reading was 103 degrees again. It was the third day in a row for the thermometer at the city water plant to top out at 103. And forecasts indicated that it could very well make it a fourth today.

Carter Energy Bill Defeated

WASHINGTON (AP)—Lawmakers worried about environmental impact and states' rights defeated a key plank in President Carter's energy program today, a proposal to put high-priority energy projects on a "fast track" through the bureaucracy. The House voted 232-131 to send the proposal back to a House-Senate conference committee for further work. Supporters of the measure have said such a vote would kill the bill for this session of Congress.

The bill would have created a three-member Energy Mobilization Board with authority to waive some federal, state and local regulations that tie up such projects as power plants, pipelines and oil refineries. It did not cover nuclear plants. Opposition came from an unusual coalition of House conservatives, worried about giving the federal government waiver rights over state laws, and environmentalists concerned about the effects waivers would have on the environment. "If the principle embodied in this bill is applied to the other problems facing this nation, the Constitution of the United States is dead," argued Rep. Robert E. Bauman, R-Md., chairman of the Conservative Caucus. Supporters had argued that strong action was necessary to ensure the United States becomes more independent of foreign oil imports. "I know you're concerned with states rights. So am I," argued Rep. Clarence Brown, R-Ohio. "But there are other principles involved here than states' rights, and they include, perhaps, just perhaps, the survival of the country." But many of the regulations affected are intended to protect air and water quality, and environmentalists oppose the idea of sacrificing pollution standards in the rush to produce more energy.

Three More Names On Queen Candidate List

Independence Day Queen candidates are still coming in threes, the chamber of commerce reported this morning.

The latest three increased the total to nine candidates who are representing local clubs and organizations in the queen's race.

They are Diane Sentell, sponsored by the Snyder Rotary Club, Trudy Hatway, sponsored by the Snyder Jaycees, and Kathy Northcott, sponsored by the Gay 20 Club.

Candidates nominated earlier include Virginia Whitson, sponsored by the Kiwanis Club; Martha Jane Beavers, sponsored by the Business and Professional Women's Club; Cathy Cypert, sponsored by the Lucky 13 Club; June Deen, sponsored by the Senior Center and RSVP; Stephanie Weaver, sponsored by the 20th Century Club, and Melanie Jarrell, sponsored by the Lions Club.

Sponsors may still nominate candidates for queen of the local July 4th Celebration by merely notifying the chamber office and picking up supplies of July 4th tickets.

The queen, who will be crowned on the evening of July 4 in Towle Memorial Park just prior to the big fireworks display, will be determined on the basis of ticket sales.

Chamber officials expressed hopes this morning that the list of candidates would increase to at least a dozen. Sponsors may continue to sell tickets until noon on Friday, July 4. The ticket sales help pay the cost of the fireworks display.

Promises Aid To Thailand

Resting At Camp David

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Carter rested at Camp David today after an eight-day European journey designed to bolster relations with America's allies. The president returned Thursday night and declared that the partial troop withdrawal from Afghanistan the Soviets announced last weekend was "a token withdrawal that has relatively little strategic significance unless it is permanent and is rapidly followed by step-by-step withdrawal of all Soviet forces."

Demos Call For Bigger Cut

WASHINGTON (AP)—While holding fast against the tax plan of Ronald Reagan and his fellow Republicans, majority Democrats have put President Carter on just a few weeks' notice to serve up a 1981 cut of his own or risk having one forced upon him by Congress.

That was the message Thursday, when Senate Democrats rejected the 10 per cent tax-cut bid by a virtually united minority and instructed its Finance Committee to write a more acceptable version by Sept. 3. The decision was yet another unofficial concession that there is very little hope left for a balanced 1981 budget, even as that remains a formal target.

Hundreds Starve In Uganda

KAMPALA, Uganda (AP)—Food shipments from abroad have been sharply increased for 400,000 famine-stricken tribal people in northeast Uganda, but relief officials say hundreds of them still die every day of starvation and disease.

"The death rate in Karamoja has definitely not slackened," Melissa Wells, American head of the United Nations Development Program in Uganda, said in an interview.

Hospital By-Law Revision Okayed

The board of managers of Cogdell Memorial Hospital last night approved the administrator's monthly report and agreed to revise hospital by-laws as directed by the State Health Dept.

As revised, the by-laws require that the board send written notice of reappointments to medical staff members each January; medical records not completed become delinquent after 15 days, and upon becoming delinquent a staff member shall be given 10 days to bring records up to date; failure to bring the records up to date within the specified time will result in staff

The SDN Column

Keeping tab on our neighbors: Good Housekeeping magazine has come up with ratings for the nation's first ladies, and not surprisingly, a lot of them place higher than their husbands.

And who do you think the first, First lady is, according to GH's system? None other than Lady Byrd Johnson.

Out of a possible score of 120, she marked up a solid 92 to just beat out Eleanor Roosevelt's 89 and Lou Hoover's 83. The magazine ranked the presidents' wives in a dozen categories, each on the basis of 0 to 19. Lady Byrd was one of the few who did not receive a single 0. The categories included: Hostess, Campaigner, Leader in Causes, Interest in Politics, Feminist, Traditionalist, Improving White House, Influence on President, Helpful to President, Outspoken, Charisma, and Inspiration for Women.

Others in the top 10 are Betty Ford, with a score of 73; Jacqueline Kennedy, 69; Helen Taft, 69; Rosalyn Carter, 68; Pat Nixon, 63; Bess Truman, 60; Florence Harding, 60.

Finishing last was Ellen Wilson with 48 points. She beat out Grace Coolidge, 52, and Mamie Eisenhower, 53, for that dubious honor.

Although the system used may be open to question, it seems to us that most people can be more objective in ranking presidents' wives than the presidents themselves. There have been times, no doubt, in all administrations when a lot of people felt that the wife might do a better job of steering the country than her husband. Like the incumbent, for example. We doubt that Jimmy Carter could match Rosalyn's sixth place.

"To quiet consumer criticism, I've decided to offer a 10-year guarantee on our product," he told his sales manager.

"I know," said the president; "But we'll print the guarantee on paper that falls apart in two years."

Trying To Make Bond For Ax Killer Suspect

MCKINNEY (AP)—Defense attorneys hoped to post bond for Candice Montgomery, being held today for questioning in the brutal ax murder of a Wylie schoolteacher, a state district judge said. Mrs. Montgomery, 30, surrendered to Collin County sheriff's deputies late Wednesday night after an arrest warrant was issued Wednesday afternoon. She was jailed under $100,000 bond. State District Judge Tom Ryan said a bond reduction hearing was scheduled for 10 a.m. today, but

Mrs. Montgomery's attorneys told him they would try to make bond. Mrs. Montgomery remained in the Collin County jail as of noon today, and sheriff's officials had not received notification of bond, said Lt. Joe Stewart. Justice of the Peace Glen Swanner issued the arrest warrant Wednesday afternoon, but Mrs. Montgomery did not surrender until 11:15 p.m. She was accompanied by her attorney, Robert Udashen, when she surrendered.

osha's poor record

The Occupational Safety and Health Administration has little to show for the billions it has spent since its creation in 1970. Complaints about OSHA inspectors have been heard throughout the private sector. Now Sen. Jesse Helms, R-N.C., has introduced legislation, S. 1572, which will permanently exempt small farmers and ranchers from OSHA regulations. It should be passed immediately.

Originally designed for regulation of the industrial sector, OSHA has not done a good job even for what it was intended. Although the statistics are debatable, some figures suggest that industries closely watched by OSHA actually have worse records than those with few inspections. Put another way, OSHA inspection while costing billions may not mean fewer accidents. And whereas that may be debatable, serious job injuries have clearly increased - by 25 percent - after eight years of OSHA regulation.

The protection OSHA allegedly provides costs the American people a bundle, both as taxpayers and consumers. Over the years the OSHA budget alone runs into the billions of dollars. Then there is the cost of meeting the often unrealistic safety regulations mandated by the federal agency. Businessmen have complained for years about the arrogance of both OSHA regulations and the inspectors, but eventually they swallow their pride and spend whatever is necessary to appease OSHA. The cost of this folly is, of course, passed along to the customer.

Realizing that many small farmers and ranchers could not withstand cost-expanding regulation, Congress four years ago temporarily exempted them from OSHA's purview. This only happened after the federal agency demanded portable potties for field workers and issued paternalistic warnings about the hazards of slippery cow manure. The Helms legislation permanently exempts farmers and ranchers with less than 10 employees from OSHA regulation.

The bill will have a major impact on the cattlemen and farmers and is vigorously supported by the National Cattlemen's Association. For example, over 90 percent of all farms would permanently be free of OSHA's dictates of S. 1572 passes. Over half of those employed in agriculture work on those small farms and ranches.

The Cattlemen's Association points out that ranchers and farmers don't need OSHA. They try to maximize safety because it is good business, not because some federal bureaucrat says so. If a farmer or rancher is laid up because of an injury, the job doesn't get done. These days that means lost money. Undeniably, these same arguments can be made for exempting all business.

Sen. Helms does, in fact, support the total abolition of OSHA. Realizing that abolition is politically impossible at this time he is trying to do what he can. We applaud his efforts and hope that someday the rest of American business can be exempted from the dictates of this miserable federal agency.

I know John Wayne is dead but surely, somewhere in America, there is a better man for president than is being offered in our current crop of candidates. I know, I know, you hear that same complaint every four years, but good gosh, look at our choices. There are Carter and Reagan. Whoopee! That is like being told we are to be scalped and then given the choice of having it done with a rusty meat cleaver or a dull razor blade. And those are the good guys. If Kennedy or Anderson should win, we will be doing more than just kidding around about losing our scalps.

However, there is no reason for despair. Somewhere out there is the right man for the job and it looks like it is up to you and me to find him. Don't panic; it's only a matter of elimination. We start by considering everybody and don't stop until we have found just the right man.

First, he must come from the southern part of the United States so he will know the importance of the oil and ag industries. That takes care of over half the people (including Kennedy and Anderson) already.

Let's continue. We need a man who will go after what he wants and not quit until he gets it. For too long our leaders have run this country based on what the opinion polls say. We need a man who is not afraid of a little public disfavor.

Narrowing the field even more, we need a man from a solid family. He should be bred to accept responsibility and know how to use influence. Let's face it. We have not been getting our money's worth. When the richest nation on earth gives billions in foreign aid to some banana republic it should get more in return than just a place to park a few tanks.

Likewise, we need a man who commands respect from friends and enemies alike so even the weaker nations won't push us around just because they know they can get away with it. (So much for Carter)

And, as it has been pointed out, every president that has been in office in a year divisible by 20 since 1840 has died in office, so our next chief of state must be tough, right? This also indicates we need a younger man, (sorry Reagan) preferably one who could even survive being shot.

Good Grief!! We have described J.R. Ewing!

Everyone is talking about pyramids—the make-money-quick scheme that is a lot like a chain letter only you send $1,000 to everyone on the list and by the time your name is at the top you owe IRS a lot of money.

But how many of you have been involved in the spend-money-by-association chain?

It works like this. Your best friend (?) invites you to a plastic party. Everyone likes you and wants to be your friend—especially the plastic person with the order book who approaches you to host a party. She promises you a plastic cantaloupe keeper that will lock in flavor and lock out offensive odors.

You invite 12 of your friends to your party. The next day you have invitations from six of the 12 who attended your party to attend their plastic party. The other six invite you to attend a plant-party, sports clothes party, pots-and-pans party, perfume party, encyclopedia party and silverware party.

At the plastic parties, you meet 72 new faces who also invite you to their plastic parties. Out of the other six parties, three of them are into fabric parties, toy parties and home interior parties.

At the home interior party, you meet another who is into copper parties, one into smoke alarm parties and another who is giving a bra party.

By the end of the second week, you have invitations to 388 parties.

By the end of the month you have made 1,076 new-found party friends and have a supply of bras which you are using as planters, bun warmers and extra pockets to hold snacks as you vacuum.

The spend-money-by-association chain started long before home parties. It was begun innocently enough by a professional volunteer fund-raiser who one day pledged to fill a table of eight for a group of mothers who wanted to go to camp. She filled the table with only seven phone calls.

However, the next day, one of the women sold her a ticket to a dogs-born-under-Virgo luncheon, another sold her a raffle ticket on a pony, another a box of peanut brittle for Scouts, and another nailed her for a donation which would benefit women who could not uncross their legs in hot weather. Unlike the pyramid or the chain letter, you never get off the list, let alone make it to the top. A few women have said "No" to tickets and offers of parties, but I know something awful would happen to me like it did to Wanda Goodroad. She announced she had gone to her last home party and the next day... her cantaloupe keeper leaked!

bulls roar on wall street

NEW YORK (AP)—Amidst the wailing that accompanies some of the worst economic news in years you can hear the roar of the bulls on Wall Street.

Recessions, the bulls say, are a time for looking up, a time to think of the future, a time for investing. Forget the present, the bulls say - there's profit in the future.

"Incongruous as it may seem the market has repeatedly posted large gains during recessionary periods," a brokerage house economist reminds us. "And, with unemployment rising, it takes reminding.

The explanation isn't hard to grasp when you consider that successful investors live way out in the future, using the present only as a reference point. And the future, they are guessing, will be better.

Aubrey Zaffuto, economist at Schroder Naess & Thomas, comments that the high expectations result in part from the reactions of businessmen and consumers during a recession.

"For those who are not badly impacted, either by facing layoffs or sharp reduced demand, it is a period of saving.

Both the consumer, who pulls in his horns a bit, reduces borrowing and increases his savings, and the corporate treasurer who tries to improve his balance sheet, contribute to a higher level of saving.

"This increase in savings is usually associated with a dramatic rejuvenation of the savings institutions and hence housing, and the stock and bond markets. The rise in savings lowers interest rates."

John Wright, whose Wright Investors' Service endorses a conservative point of view, now recommends a fully invested position in equities "in anticipation of a higher level of stock prices by yearend.

"During the last six recessions," Wright comments, "the Standard & Poor's 500 average bottomed at a point which always occurred well before the end of the recession, usually close to the halfway point."

Smart investors note that when short-term interest rates peak a major market bottom may also be reached, a correlation that is hardly a coincidence. The two, in fact, are facets of the same phenomenon.

High interest rates, for example, add to business expenses and also drain money away from stocks into bonds. When rates begin to decline so do business expenses. And funds are released for investing in stocks.

The explanation for those who dislike details is that a recession corrects imbalances and creates the mood for a new beginning. People and corporations get their financial houses in order for a big push.

In the new perspective people are less worried about the worst that can befall them because, as is often the case, they have survived, although often with wounds.

The future offers an opportunity. Instead of balancing on a high ropes and wondering if they'll fall, people find their feet planted on firm ground. They have fallen. The downward risk has been reduced, and the odds on rising, at least to where they were, are in their favor.

Timing remains the big question. Some of those who earn a living trying to see the future believe we haven't yet seen the bottom, and that the recession will last well into 1981.

But if you listen to the bulls, and it is hard to avoid hearing them, they will try to convince you that stocks are the bargain basement buys today because economic conditions will begin improving later this year.

Berry's World

... And, sir, this is a perfectly legal moneymaking opportunity - NOT a chain letter."

officials in five counties and the Lahotan Water Quality Board share a common cause: They all want to "Save Lake Tahoe."

Unfortunately, those well-intentioned yet ineffective rescue efforts too often have contributed to the problem rather than the solution.

Indeed, the modern miracle of Lake Tahoe is that it has survived not only the development schemes of casino operators and real-estate entrepreneurs but also the meddling of scores of federal, state and local politicians.

Virtually everyone agrees, in theory, on the importance of preserving the spectacular beauty of North America's largest alpine lake, a sparkling body of water more than 20 miles long and 10 miles wide.

The rugged splendor of the region stretches beyond the shores of the lake, encompassing the rugged mountains and tranquil alpine meadows that encircle the water as well as the vast forests of towering pine, fir and tamarack trees.

But much of that beauty already has been sullied, especially on the lake's south shore where quickie-marriage wedding chapels, taco stands, hamburger parlors, service stations and run-down motels advertising water beds and Jacuzzi line the perimeter road for mile after mile.

During the past decade, all three branches of government - executive, legislative and judicial - have attempted without success to resolve the problem of balancing preservation requirements with development pressures.

Complicating that difficult task is the fact that the California-Nevada state line runs right through the lake. In addition, no fewer than five counties share jurisdiction over the Lake Tahoe Basin - Placer and El Dorado in California and Washoe, Carson and Douglas in Nevada.

There's also the Tahoe Basin Council of Governments, the Lahotan Water Quality Board, the South Tahoe Public Utility District and a host of other bureaucratic structures.

Back in 1968, California and Nevada officials sought to surmount those difficulties by establishing a joint Tahoe Regional Planning Agency with representatives from state and local governments.

But instead of restricting potentially destructive growth, TRPA members bowed to local political pressures and approved dozens of development schemes that the agency's own technical staff had vigorously opposed.

Disturbed by that trend, California Gov. Edmund G. "Jerry" Brown Jr. moved soon after taking office to establish a California TRPA that brought development on the California side of the lake to a screeching halt. An official of the bistate TRPA promptly denounced the staff of the California TRPA as "Satan's helpers."

In 1978, Brown and Mike O'Callaghan, then Nevada's governor, agreed on a proposal to strengthen and revive the bi-state agency - but before that plan could be implemented, O'Callaghan was succeeded by Robert List, Nevada's current governor, who failed to press for the necessary legislative approval.

Frustrated citizens have turned to the state and federal courts, filing countless civil suits to resolve conflicting claims. Members of Congress have drafted federal legislation to resolve the problem - but conflicting solutions are embodied in the various bills.

Carter joined the fray only recently - exactly four days before California's June 3 Democratic presidential primary - with a statement promising environmental safeguards for the mountain lake he described as "a national treasure."

But a close examination of the White House announcement revealed it to be essentially meaningless. Its principal promise, for example, was that the federal government would do nothing to contribute to further environmental deterioration.

Finally, Carter promised to soon create yet another government agency to resolve the problem - the Lake Tahoe Federal Coordinating Council. Anyone who believes that's going to "Save Lake Tahoe" doesn't know much about government or politics.

FAVORITE TREAT—Homemade ice cream is summer's outdoor treat.

Everyone Can Make Ice Cream

Nature rewards those who turn the crank or guard the motor-driven ice cream maker. Homemade ice cream is incomparable to anything on earth. Even though the finished product is so enjoyable, many people avoid making ice cream because the equipment is unfamiliar.

There are several types of ice cream makers available. The newest is a small size (two quart) electric model which utilizes two or three trays of ice cubes and table salt. Regular models can make up to a gallon of ice cream and are either the manual crank or the electric motor type. If you don't have an ice cream freezer, you can save the expense of buying one by asking friends and neighbors for the loan of their equipment in return for a dish of the finished product.

First, follow the instructions that accompany the freezer. Freezers are made of different materials which can make a difference in the ice-salt ratio you should use. However, if you don't have an instruction book, here are the basic steps:

Wash the can, dasher and cover in hot soapy water.

Then cool.

Select your ice cream recipe. Purchase the ingredients, make the mixture and chill. If possible, pour the mixture into the can, insert the dasher and chill and entire unit.

Weight and-or measure salt. For freezing one gallon of ice cream, you will use about three to four cups of rock salt (approximately two pounds) and approximately 20 pounds of crushed ice. You will need less ice and salt if you harden or ripen the ice cream in the refrigerator freezer rather than the ice cream freezer.

FOR FREEZING:
-Position the container and dasher in the freezer bucket. Pour the ice cream mixture into the can, filling it no more than 1/2 to 3/4 of the can's capacity. Place cover on can; fit motor or dasher into the cover; and secure to bucket.

For an electric freezer, plug in the motor and allow it to run for one minute. For a hand freezer, turn the dasher to stir the mixture for the same length of time.

While the freezer is turning, add ice and salt in layers. Begin with 6 cups of ice (about 2 inches), then evenly distribute about 1/4 cup of salt. Alternate ice and salt until the container is surrounded and almost to the top of the can.

-Make sure that the hole in the freezer bucket remains unobstructed to allow the brine to drain.

-When the motor labors heavily or stops, immediately unplug it (with dry hands). With a hand freezer, turn dasher faster to whip air into ice cream. Continue until it becomes difficult.

-Drain the brine by tilting the freezer. Clear away ice and salt down to about 2 inches below cover. Remove motor or crank. Wipe cover and can free of ice and salt. Carefully remove cover and dasher.

FOR RIPENING:
-Push ice cream down from top sides of can, blending the soft and firm portions. Cover the can with foil and replace the cover.

-Pack the freezer bucket with ice and salt, using a ratio of more salt to ice than what you used for "freezing." Wrap the freezer in a heavy towel or newspapers and place it in a cool area for 2-3 hours. Drain the brine and check the ice and salt frequently. Add more if necessary. Or, harden in the family freezer. Pack ice cream in plastic containers, but be sure to leave room for expansion. Or, leave the ice cream in the can, cover and store in the freezer.

-Homemade ice cream is best when eaten right after hardening. If you wish to store it, transfer it to suitable containers after three hours of hard-

By Oswald Jacoby and Alan Sontag

West's two-spade opener was one of those weak two bids. It got past North and East with no stir of interest, but gave South a problem.

South's eyes bugged out as he counted his 24 high-card points. He thought of all sorts of slam action, but couldn't find any better bid than three notrump.

West opened the queen of spades. Dummy came down and South remarked, "We didn't miss a slam." The he proceeded to win that first spade with no further ado.

His lead to trick two was a trifle slower. He finally picked a diamond. East took his ace and led back a spade and South's goose was cooked. He had to let West in with the ace of clubs.

"I never guess right" was his complaint.

You can all see where South went wrong. It wasn't the bad luck or a bad guess, but rather his failure to think before playing to the first trick.

He should let West hold that first trick. If West held both aces the play would not help South. But as long as West held just one it didn't make any difference which suit South played.

Children's Anxiety Can Be Reduced

BETHESDA, Md.—Shortening the time of specific dental procedures within a dental appointment may help reduce anxiety-related behavior in preschool children, according to the National Institute of Dental Research. "Dental fear, which often originates in childhood, can result in avoidance of needed dental care throughout life or in disruptive behavior in the dentist's office," the report published in the N.I.D.R. Research News states.

Analyses of study involving 60 children ages 3-5 years of age showed that the length of a given preclinical phase was significantly related to an index of fear-related behavior. Longer treatment phases were associated with more squirming, exclamations of pain, protest, whimpering, or screaming.

Use your imagination. Any type of ice cream flavor is possible. Homemade Country Style Ice Cream is an excellent opportunity for an outdoor party where guests have the chance to create their own old fashioned desserts by adding sauces, nuts or fresh berries to a creamy vanilla delicacy.

COUNTRY STYLE VANILLA ICE CREAM
3 eggs
1 1/2 cups sugar
3 cups milk
3 cups whipping cream
2 tablespoons vanilla extract
1/2 teaspoon salt

In a large mixing bowl beat eggs until foamy. Gradually add sugar; beat until thickened. Add milk, cream, vanilla and salt; mix thoroughly. Chill. Churn-freeze.

For any of the variations below, reduce the amount of vanilla to 1 tablespoon. (Banana Marshmallow): a 10-oz. bag of marshmallows, 2 cups pureed ripe bananas, 1 tablespoon fresh lemon juice. Reduce sugar to 1 1/2 cups. Heat milk. Add marshmallows, stirring constantly until melted. Cool. Combine puree and lemon juice to avoid discoloration.

Black Walnut: Add 2 cups finely chopped black walnuts after ice cream mix is cooled and before chilling.

Peanut Fudge Ripple: 3/4 cup chopped salted peanuts, 1 cup fudge sauce. Omit salt. Add nuts before chilling. After freezing transfer ice cream to plastic freezer container, alternating layers of ice cream with cooled fudge sauce; swirl each layer with spatula for marbled effect.

(Praline): 1 cup chopped salted pecans, 1/4 teaspoon maple flavor. Substitute brown sugar for white. Omit salt.

Dear Abby

It's Not Adultery; It's Got Another Name

By Abigail Van Buren

1980 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: I am a healthy, sociable, easy-to-get-along with 59-year-old widower whose wife died eight months ago. I am a Catholic but haven't been to church in years and do not want to talk to a priest.

I am seeing a very attractive woman who is 58, never married and is still a virgin. She is apparently normal in all respects, enjoys kissing and very heavy petting, but refuses to go all the way for religious reasons. She insists that her religion (also Catholic) does not allow her to complete the sex act without marriage, for to do so would be committing adultery. I know she is not holding out as a means of getting a husband.

I tried to explain that adultery is engaging in sex with a partner other than one's legal spouse, so as long as neither one of us is married she wouldn't be committing adultery. However, I can't seem to get through to her.

I am not the type to pick up girls at bars, neither would I go to a house of prostitution. I was married for 36 years and am a one-woman man. I don't want to marry yet, and perhaps I may never marry again, but I don't want to end my sex life while I am still able to enjoy it.

Is there anything in the Catholic religion that prohibits voluntary sex between unmarried adults?

PERPLEXED

DEAR PERPLEXED: Yes, there are several Biblical injunctions against fornication. Read, for instance, the seventh chapter of I Corinthians.

DEAR ABBY: I understand that there are more psychiatrists in Beverly Hills, Calif., than plumbers. That seems incredible. Is it true? And if so, why?

CURIOUS IN NEBRASKA

DEAR CURIOUS: It's true. Their sinks are OK, but their heads are clogged up.

DEAR ABBY: Somewhere out there a couple is bringing home their newborn adopted baby. This letter is for the baby's new grandmother.

I know you are happy for the couple, but you're having doubts about the baby's "real" or biological mother. I am that girl's mother.

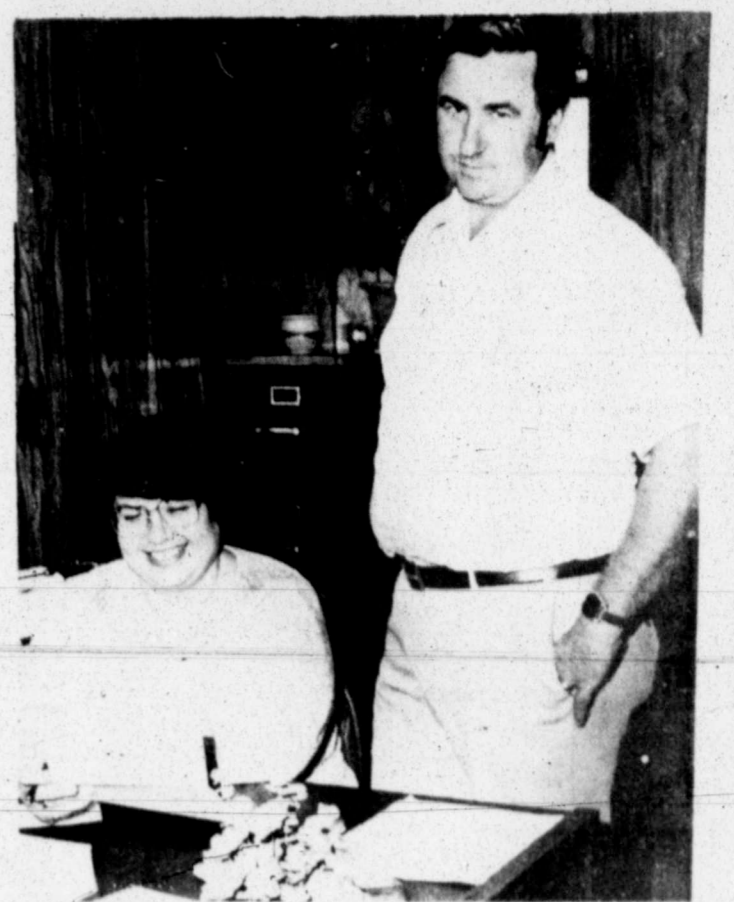

It has been an agonizing ordeal for her as well as for us—her family. I made sure she ate properly, took her vitamins and iron and was cared for by the best doctors in our area. We all knew from the beginning that giving up the baby for adoption was the right decision, but as the time drew closer to delivery, our selfishness got in the way and we wanted to keep the baby even though it would have been a hardship financially.

For a teen-ager, my daughter showed remarkable maturity and unselfish love for this child to have given it a mother and father through adoption.

This is my first grandchild, and I will not be able to spoil it, but you can, so please love it enough for both of us.

A GRANDMOTHER

East Side Church Sets Homecoming

Plans are being readied at East Side Church of Christ for a July 6 homecoming. The homecoming will be the 20-year anniversary of the construction of the present main church building.

Doug Allee, minister of the East Side church, said former ministers of the church, including Sam Kitching, Raymond Kelcy, Glen Pace, Bill Minick, and Don Browning, will be attending the homecoming.

The homecoming will be July 6 from 9:30 a.m. until 7 p.m. Invitations have been sent out and Allee urged all persons planning to attend to notify the church by June 29.

Kelcy, said Allee, will speak at an adult Bible class at 9:30 a.m. July 6, while Pace will speak at the 10:25 a.m. worship service. A lunch will be served at the Scurry County Coliseum from 11:30 a.m. until 2:15 p.m. Then, at 2:30 p.m., Minick will address a group at the East Side auditorium. Browning will speak at the evening worship service at 6 p.m.

Snyder Slates Tracksters Meet

Snyder girls and boys summer track programs will sponsor a track meet July 2 at Tiger Stadium.

The meet is open to any boy or girl ages 6-13 as of Jan. 1, 1980. Youngsters do not have to be a member of the summer programs to compete in the track meet.

Entry fee will be $2 per individual and athletes may enter any and all events in each age group. Registration will be held at 9 a.m. Wednesday with field events to start at 10.

Mariners Sink Texas Crew, 8-4

ARLINGTON (AP)—Things looked harmless enough. After a double play, Texas hurler Jon Matlack was facing the bottom third of the Seattle lineup in the second inning Thursday night.

But then the unexpected happened. The No. 7 hitter, Jim Anderson, singled to center.

And the No. 9 hitter, Larry Cox, a .156 hitter, boomed a two-run home run into the left field seats.

By the time the game was over, Anderson had scored three times and Mendoza and Cox had driven in three runs each as the Mariners pounded the Texas Rangers 8-4 to salvage the final game in a three-game series.

"That's a lot out of the No. 8 and 9 spot," and the No. 7 guy didn't do badly," Seattle manager Darrell Johnson said.

The entire game was played in temperatures of above 100 degrees, as the Dallas-Fort Worth area recorded its highest thermometer reading in history, 113 degrees, Thursday afternoon. It had "cooled" to only 108 by gametime.

Floyd Bannister, 5-6, allowed Texas only three hits until the Rangers knocked him out of the game with a walk and four straight hits in the seventh, cutting the final margin to 8-4.

The teams argued that Cannon had sent the telegram because he wanted his son to sign with the Yankees and was trying to discourage other teams from drafting him. The elder Cannon, the 1959 Heisman Trophy winner at Louisiana State who later played pro football, said he sent the telegram because none of the teams were willing to give his son, a shortstop, the signing bonus he was asking for—reportedly $350,000.

Four teams had protested the Yankees' selection of Cannon on the third round of the recent amateur draft.

Connors Back With A Smile...

Rain Covers Wimbledon Still

WIMBLEDON, England (AP)—Three former Wimbledon champions have given notice that they intend to be around a while longer.

Jimmy Connors, 1974 men's singles champion, trounced Sherwood Stewart 6-0, 6-2, 6-1 Thursday and announced: "My career is far from finished."

That trio was among a handful of players to complete matches Thursday, when the program was once again wrecked by the notorious English weather, which brought hailstorms this time.

Four days into Wimbledon, former women's champion Chris Evert Lloyd has yet to hit a Billie Jean King, six-time winner of the women's singles, and Evonne Goolagong, 1971 champion, both moved in to the third round of the women's singles and made similar pronouncements.

Lloyd, winner here in 1974 and 1976, had a bye in the first round and has spent four unhappy days waiting for the clouds to lift. They seldom have.

Bjorn Borg, four-time winner of the men's singles title, has played only one match in defense of the championship. His second-round match against former Israeli army sergeant Shlomo Glickstein Thursday was another victim of the rain.

That match is also scheduled to be played Friday, as is No. 2 John McEnroe's encounter with Australian Terry Rocavert. They were 2-2 in the first set when the rains came Thursday.

Women's champion Martina Navratilova meets American Rayni Fox in her second round match—also postponed from Thursday.

Connors' performance Thursday was the most impressive. He took just one hour and 12 minutes to destroy doubles expert Stewart with a display of controlled aggression that he has seldom matched.

"Right now I am hitting the ball as well as I ever have," said the third seed, mellowed by his marriage and the arrival almost 11 months ago of son Brett.

Last year Connors scowled his way to the semifinals, refusing interviews. Twelve months later he is calm and confident, giving freely of his time to both fans and media.

Connors' performance Thursday was the most

Local Event Over; Moore Tops Again, Two Carded 69's

Abilene again dominated yesterday's West Texas PGA Junior Tour event held here at Snyder Country Club, but boys from several other area towns made their marks also.

Many of the 12-18 year-old contestants were to compete in the Masters Tournament at San Angelo today.

Todd Moore came away with his second first place finish in two days Thursday as he shot an 83 over the 18-hole distance to win the 12-13 age bracket.

Moore, from Abilene, had already carded a 79 at Western Texas to win Wednesday's tournament.

Taking second was San Angelo's Steve Alexander with an 85. Brad James of Seminole tied at 87 with Mike Shaw, but defeated the Abilenean on the first hole of a playoff to grab third.

Abilene's Cole Thompson tied for the low score of the day in winning the 14-15 bracket. Thompson shot a 69 to win the division by four strokes over Andrews' Brad Boynton, who had a 73. Third was Gene Gibson of Brownwood with a 74.

The other 69 scored in the junior meet was by San Angelo's Ronnie Fletcher. He took the 16-18 age bracket by three strokes over Lubbock's Tom Lauer, 72. Mike Claburn of Monahans tied with Grant Maples of Abilene at 74 for third place. Claburn defeated his opponent in a sudden death playoff on No. 1. Maples had finished third Wednesday at the WTC course.

Fletcher's 69 also made him the top qualifier in the North Texas PGA Junior Qualifying, a separate event held in conjunction with Thursday's four at Snyder Country Club.

Others who qualified were Claburn of Monahans; Sam Hansard, Lamesa, and Kevin Boscamp, Brownwood, with a 76 each; Jeff Covert, Lubbock, 79; Chuck Moreno, Amarillo, 80; and David Stephens, Big Spring, 83.

Stephens and Sid Grant of Baird each carded an 83, but the Big Spring youth won a playoff on No. 1 to gain the final qualifying spot. Grant and Derek Boscamp of Brownwood, 84, will serve as alternates. The competitors advance to the state-wide tournament to be held in July in Baytown.

At the end of the 1979 season, Pete Rose of the Philadelphia Phillies had posted 15 seasons in which he had at least 600 times at bat.

16-17-18 AGE BRACKET—Ronnie Fletcher of San Angelo, Tom Lauer of Lubbock and Mike Claburn of Monahans took the first three places, respectively, in the 16-17-18 bracket of the West Texas Junior Tour here Thursday at Snyder Country Club. Fletcher carded a 69 to win the bracket and also the top qualifying spot for the North Texas Qualifiers held in conjunction. Claburn was also one of the seven who qualified. See article at right. At Houston Luncheon...

GOP Plans Another Show Of Unity Today

By ROB WOOD
Associated Press Writer
HOUSTON (AP) The Republican party, sensing a split in the Democratic ranks and expecting a victory in November, plans a fifth show of unity today at a $250-a-plate luncheon in Houston.

Reagan has enough delegates in the fold to insure his nomination at the national convention in Detroit. Now he is attempting to help the losers and show a united front for the upcoming campaign and election. Joining Reagan at the $250-a-plate affair will be former Texas Gov. John Connally, Sen. Howard Baker, R-Tenn., Sen. Robert Dole, R-Kan., Rep. Phil Crane, R-Ill., and Los Angeles businessman Ben Fernandez.

George Bush will miss the luncheon because of a prior commitment for a speech in Fort Worth. A spokesman for Bush said, "He has been doing fund-raisers almost every day. He attended two of the previous unity meetings, but can't make this one. And, I think it is important to know that Mr. Bush is not receiving one penny from any of the unity luncheons. He has appeared at two of them in an effort to help the others who failed in their bids for the nomination." Connally and Baker, who have the largest campaign debts, will each receive 43 percent of the funds raised, with Dole, Crane and Fernandez each getting about 4 percent.

Bush spent $16.2 million on his campaign and won close to 300 delegates. Considered a prime vice presidential candidate, Bush said he would ask his delegates to vote for Reagan on the first ballot during the Detroit national convention. But, he is keeping the delegates until then so he can qualify for matching federal funds to pay off debts for the Michigan primary.

Why remove the gallbladder?

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB— Would you please tell me the difference between a nonvisual and a nonfunctioning gallbladder? I had X-rays in 1965 and in 1974 and each time several X-rays at different days. At no time was my gallbladder visualized. I do not think I have any symptoms of gallbladder trouble. I have no pain and I have no problem with digesting my foods. One doctor insisted on surgery. I did not agree to this. A team of doctors at a clinic explained that a person's gallbladder can be removed and he will fare fine without it but they saw no reason to remove mine. Both X-rays were on routine physical examinations. I am now 67 years old.

NY 10019

As discussed in The Health Letter I'm sending you there are differences of opinion about gallbladder surgery. When a person doesn't have any symptoms of gallbladder disease and it's a nonfunctioning gallbladder, some doctors think it should be taken out because of the increased risk of having cancer of the gallbladder or bile duct at a later date, or the fear that there may be complications from it later in life when a person is not in such a good state of health.

The other side of the coin is the risk of the gallbladder surgery itself which, by the way, is relatively small in the hands of an experienced surgeon who has done a lot of gallbladder surgery. The risk, of course, is also partially dependent on the general state of health of the patient involved.

(NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSN.)

DEAR READER— The gallbladder is literally a storage reservoir for bile. If the gallbladder has been inflamed or the bile duct (tube) to the gallbladder is blocked, there is no way the bile can enter into the gallbladder and be stored there. This is a non-functioning gallbladder.

A common X-ray test to visualize the gallbladder involves either swallowing tablets that contain a dye or injecting a dye into the veins. This dye is cleared from the bloodstream by the liver and comes out of the liver in the bile. If a person has a normal functioning gallbladder, the bile containing the dye will be stored in the gallbladder. That way it can be seen on an X-ray. If the opening to the gallbladder is blocked or the gallbladder has been diseased or scarred so it no longer can function as a reservoir, obviously the bile containing the dye doesn't enter it and it will not be seen. Therefore, it's a nonvisual gallbladder.

There are some technical problems, which can sometimes prevent the gallbladder from being seen. For example, it can contract and empty the dye-containing bile before the X-ray is taken. Or if you took pills they may not be absorbed adequately and then you won't have enough concentration of dye in the gallbladder to see it. If you eliminate these technical problems, all other things being equal, a nonvisual and a nonfunctioning gallbladder are the same thing.

'Dallas' Scripts Keep Popping-Up

LOS ANGELES (AP)—As the plot thickened in the mythical mystery of who shot the chief villain in the television soap opera "Dallas," real-life mysteries surrounding the story also became more entangled.

disappeared. Dale declined to say when the script had been obtained or whether the newspaper had paid for it. Earlier in the day, a New York-based tabloid, The Star, said it had received two offers to buy copies of the secret episodes.

A Los Angeles daily newspaper Thursday turned over to police an allegedly stolen copy of a secret "Dallas" script, while a New York weekly said it had received two offers to sell it copies of the episodes that tell who shot J.R. Ewing, an unscrupulous Dallas oilman. Frank Dale, publisher of the Los Angeles Herald Examiner, said the script had been obtained "some time ago" from an unnamed "news source."

"We got a call last week offering us a script and another call from someone else on Monday offering us a script," Malcolm Abrams, articles editor for The Star, said in a telephone interview. But he added, "We're not in the business of buying stolen property."

On Wednesday, Lorimar Productions, which films the popular weekly series, reported that several scripts dealing with the identity of J.R.'s attacker had been stolen from Lorimar offices on the MGM lot in Culver City sometime between June 3 and June 24, while story editor Arthur Lewis was on vacation.

From Mexico To U.S....

Okay Nears On Pact To Return Stolen Cars

By SOLL SUSSMAN
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP)—U.S. and Mexican negotiators are close to an agreement for recovering stolen vehicles after they are taken across the border, according to Robert Krueger, ambassador-at-large for Mexico.

Both sides are now very close to an agreed text. We have been assured that Mexican approval can be expected momentarily," he said Thursday.

Krueger said an estimated 10,000 to 20,000 stolen U.S. vehicles, including aircraft, are taken across the border each year but in 1978 120 vehicles were recovered from Mexico.

"Continued and expanded cooperative efforts between the U.S. and Mexico are required if the flow of stolen vehicles is to be reduced," he said.

The former Texas congressman said one stumbling block is the Mexican preference to confiscate a stolen vehicle if it is used in the carrying out of a felony after being taken across the border.

In a wide-ranging review of U.S.-Mexican relations before the House subcommittee on Inter-American affairs, Krueger also said that trade relations between the border nations are in a state of uncertainty because of the Mexican government's decision against joining an international trade agreement.

Mexican President Jose Lopez Portillo announced in March that Mexico did not plan to join the General Agreement on Trade and Tariffs, or GATT, for the time being.

"We look to continued expansion in trade with Mexico but it appears that the growth may be slower than what might have been expected with GATT adherence and the multilateral trade negotiations agreement," Krueger said.

He predicted that protracted negotiations will be required to formalize a bilateral U.S.-Mexican trade agreement.

A Mexican decision to join GATT eventually would have reduced trade restrictions between Mexico and the major industrialized nations.

Krueger said trade in April between the two nations was 50 percent higher than it was in the same month last year.

He said there is a generally hopeful outlook for relations between the U.S. and Mexico.

Firefighters Called Twice

Snyder firefighters doused two fires Thursday afternoon:

The first, reported at 4:35 p.m., was a grass fire. It occurred near the Ave. E and Highway 84 bypass.

The second, at 1906 Coleman St., was reported at 5:05 p.m. Indications that a portion of an apartment wall had been scorched by a small fire.

April estimates show American farmers will plant 82 million acres of corn this year. This is three percent more than in 1979, according to Sperry New Holland.
