Tired Of Waiting... Senate Orders Bomber Work

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate, unwilling to wait on the Carter administration, voted today to order development of a new strategic bomber to be in the air by 1987. Earlier, as it worked past midnight on a $51.9 billion weapons authorization bill, the Senate scrapped a quality-over-quantity proposal to cut the all-volunteer Army's manpower by 25,000. The Senate hoped to complete work on the bill today. The provision appropriating $91 million for initial development of the new bomber also would instruct the secretary of defense to report to Congress by Feb. 15 on comparisons between the B-1, which was canceled by President Carter in 1977, a stretch FB-111, and an advanced bomber still on the drawing boards. When he canceled the B-1 bomber, Carter ordered development instead of a workhorse plane to carry and deliver cruise missiles in the future. But as a hedge, he ordered continued study of the B-1, a stretch version of the FB-111 and other alternatives in case the military finds it needs a new manned bomber after all to replace aging B-52s. But the Senate, led by Sen. John Glenn, D-Ohio, and Senate Democratic Whip Alan Cranston of California, voted to order a bomber developed quickly. "These actions forcefully demonstrate that Congress wants a follow-on bomber and will wait no longer for the executive branch to request that new bomber," Cranston said. The House has voted to resurrect the B-1 as a cruise missile carrier.

Detroit In 2nd Day Of Strike

By The Associated Press Detroit struggled into its second day of a city workers strike with bus mechanics joining the walk-out today, and leaving more than 200,000 people without their usual means of transportation. At the same time, negotiators in New York City worked around the clock to avert a strike that 44,000 uniformed workers have overwhelmingly authorized for Thursday.

WASHINGTON (AP)—The public and press have a constitutional right to attend criminal trials, the Supreme Court ruled today, telling judges nationwide they can conduct trials or portions of trials in secret only as a last resort to insure fairness to a defendant. By a 7-1 vote, the justices said the Constitution's free-speech guarantees require public trials. The decision sparked seven separate opinions, and not all seven justices agreed in their approach to the critical constitutional issue. But the decision, nevertheless, was a victory for public and press access into the nation's courts. The decision said a Virginia judge, Richard Taylor, was wrong when he closed the two-day murder trial in 1978 of John Paul Stevenson. Stevenson was charged in the 1976 murder of a Hanover, Va., hotel owner, and had been tried three times previously. At the start of the 1978 trial, Stevenson's lawyer asked Judge Taylor to close the proceedings "because I don't want any information being shuffled back and forth when we have a recess as to what—who testified to what." Prosecutors voiced no objection to the request, and Taylor approved it. Two of the persons ordered to leave the courtroom were Timothy Wheeler and Kevin McCarthy reporters for the Richmond Times Dispatch and the Richmond News-Leader. They and their employer, Richmond Newspapers Inc., sued, challenging Taylor's action. The Virginia Supreme Court upheld the trial closure, but today's decision said the closure was unconstitutional. Stevenson eventually was acquitted. The reporters' appeal was supported by numerous news media organizations and the American Civil Liberties Union, which viewed the case as a major constitutional showdown. Blocked enforcement of the new standard proposed by the Occupational Safety and Health Administration reducing by 90 percent worker exposure to cancer-causing benzene. The 5-4 decision held that the government had failed to show that reducing exposure would reduce the incidence of leukemia. Affirmed by a 6-3 vote the authority of Congress to set quotas that guarantee minority-owned businesses a 10 percent share of federal public works grants. Agreed to hear arguments that racial quotas being used to preserve integration in two Chicago high schools place an undue integration burden on blacks.

Wednesday update

Tax Cut Thought Imminent

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Carter, caught in a congressional frenzy for an election-year tax cut, is moving reluctantly toward supporting a 1981 tax reduction. The biggest question now appears to be when.

Mudd Takes Top Post

NEW YORK (AP)—The reconstruction of NBC's struggling "Nightly News" has taken its most significant turn with the appointment of Roger Mudd, one of CBS' best-known reporters for nearly two decades, as chief Washington correspondent.

Mudd for years was considered their apparent to Walter Cronkite as "CBS Evening News" anchorman. His decision to leave the network after 19 years was due in large measure to CBS' selection of Dan Rather succeed the veteran anchorman early next year.

Bans U.S. Tracking Flights

MEXICO CITY (AP)—The United States has been stopped from sending hurricane-tracking aircraft over Mexico because some officials believe the seeding of hurricanes is playing a part in the drought in northern Mexico. Mexican Foreign Minister Jorge Casjaneda announced the suspension Tuesday while his government investigates the allegations.

Funds For Minorities OK'd

WASHINGTON (AP)—Affirmative action as a civil rights tool won a major victory today as the Supreme Court gave Congress broad powers to set aside federal funds for minority-owned businesses through fixed racial quotas. By a 6-3 vote, the justices said Congress acted within its constitutional and legal authority in 1977 when it reserved 10 percent of $4 billion in federal public work grants as minority set asides. Chief Justice Warren E. Burger delivered the opinion of the court, supported by two separate concurring opinions, all agreeing on the constitutionality of the set aside method of correcting past racial inequalities.

I Appointed To Appeals Board

A new member was appointed to the board of equalization and routine bills were approved at a board of directors' meeting of the Scurry County Appraisal District. Appointed to the board of equalization was Walter Stirl, who resides in the southeastern part of the county. He replaces Edwin Kuss who resigned. Also at the meeting, routine bills totalling $26,642 were approved. The largest single bill was a $14,875 quarterly fee charged by Thomas Y. Pickett Co. appraisers. The next largest bill was a $9,651 tab that included salaries and workman's compensation. Board members also authorized chief appraiser Ray Peveler to contact an out of town law firm for possible retention by the board. Attending the meeting were Peveler, and board members Ross Blanchard, John Reed, Pete Hester, and Kenneth Wilson. Board member Bill Hairston was absent.

WTC Trustees Meet Thursday

A special meeting of the trustees of Western Texas College will be held at 7 a.m. Thursday at the Las Palmas Restaurant. Only one item is on the agenda: Dr. Robert Clinton, president, said the board will consider bids for the construction of racquetball courts.

sympathy for sweetwater

ETTA FORT WORTH STAR-TELEGRAM N.E.A. 80
MULME

We have great sympathy for our neighbors to the east. Sweetwater is low on water, and the solutions are difficult and expensive. Next week, the CRMWD board will consider a request for that city to purchase water from Lake Spence near Robert Lee. There appears to be no hitch to the request since the idea really was offered by the water district. Our neighbor's dilemma has caused us to pause and be thankful for some far-sighted planning on the part of Snyder community leaders. Temperatures have exceeded the century mark for more than a week, and there have been new records for consumption of water within the community, yet there has been no shortage. Local residents can thank community leaders dating back to the 1950s. It was then that a decision to form a water district and to build Lake Thomas was made. Dreams of community leaders almost three decades ago have made this abundance possible. Later, a second lake was added to the district, giving Snyder an water insurance policy. Lake Thomas has been low, but Snyder has never had to rely upon water from Lake Spence. In addition, further security comes from knowing that the CRMWD plans yet another lake near Ballinger. This is the same type planning that resulted in the situation we now enjoy. Few things are more precious than water, particularly when you are without it. It is in those times of crises that cost becomes of little importance. There were lots of folks responsible for the success of the CRMWD, and we just wanted to say thanks.

Is it hot enough for you? Have you heard these words in the form of a greeting lately? Since we're going into the tenth day of 100-degree-plus weather I feel safe in my prediction since it was 80 at 7 a.m. Some safety precautions should be taken to prevent the two major factors of not too familiar but serious conditions caused by exceptionally hot summer days. Some of our daily living habits need to be rearranged a little to combat some complications which could occur from the heat, and to prevent feeling just plain old tuckered out. When eating keep in mind our body needs as many calories in the summer as in the winter, unless you are weight conscious, of course. Cutting down will bring on fatigue, so it is important to eat foods high in protein. It is important to drink lots of water. This is the best thing to do to ward off heat exhaustion and weariness. Drink liquids of all kinds, with the exception of alcoholic drinks which are likely to make you even hotter and also have a depressing effect to bring even more weariness. All during the day one should force himself to drink more water than he really wants. Getting enough sleep is a necessity for summer months because you'll get twice as tired doing the same work after losing even a couple of hours of sleep. Fatigued persons are much more susceptible to heat illness than those well-rested.

With the big weekend just ahead of us, and with a full slate of activities, most of which will be out in the open, extra care should be taken in the way we eat, drink and dress for the weather to insure a safe, healthy and fun-filled July 4th weekend. It is interesting to look back a year ago and see what happenings took place that made the news. Last year's update read something like this. An Agriculture Department panel of scientists has concluded after a two-year study that "boneless poultry" is generally safe, but has recommended several changes in handling and labeling the products. It went on to explain that mechanically deboned poultry, scientists said, has double the cholesterol level of hand-deboned poultry. Striking truckers wheeled their big rigs around New York City's Times Square and drank iced tea in the North Carolina governor's mansion as drivers in other states packed up their blockades and headed back to the highways. Hundreds of fire fighters battled timber and brush blazes in Idaho and the Southwest, keeping anxious eyes on the weather after thousands of acres of brush and timber went up in flames. Secretary of State Cyrus Vance says there are "some indications" North Korea may accept the invitation from President Carter and President Park Chung-hee to join in peace talks.

An actor whose name I've forgotten once said on a talk show, "Husbands and wives see one another at the worst possible part of the day -- a few minutes in the mornings when they're pressured and trying to get on with their day, and in the evenings when they have no more to give and are irritable and exhausted." It's true. How many of you have said, "I know I'm late and I didn't call, but you're my wife (husband) and I expect you to understand!"

We all play havoc with the most precious, fragile, important relationship we have -- our family. What would happen if a husband used the same guidelines at home that he used in other relationships? Do you give your wife the attention you give Abdul Jabbar? Do you give her the praise you give your secretary when she moistens the sponge for stamps on your desk? Do you listen to her with the intensity you devote to your auto mechanic? Do you give her the same trust you give your banker? Do you pamper her as you do your golf clubs? Do you love and protect her as you do your charge card? Do you share with her the joy you reserve for the comic page or the office Christmas party? Do you have the compassion for her pain that you do for the kid who parks your car and is going to have a root canal? Do you have the patience with her that you have with your biggest client who puts you, on Hold? Wives... do you have the honesty with your husband that you do with your gynecologist? Are you as enthusiastic for his return as you are when your washer repairman arrives?

NEW YORK (AP)—Inflation has its supporters and don't you forget it. On reflection, that admonition might be unnecessary in your case because, the statistics suggest, there's a very good chance you already are a supporter. Inflation, like ecology, has its constituency. While deeply in debt, many homeowners are also deeply indebted to inflation, which has helped to double the median price of existing single-family homes since 1974. That beats the consumer price index. "Home ownership," says the U.S. League of Savings Associations, "is one of the most distinctive characteristics of American society." Nearly 65 percent of all residences, it notes, are owner-occupied. Most are mortgaged too. About 69 percent of consumer debt is in the form of home mortgages, according to the National Consumer Finance Association. It put the yearend 1979 figure at $859 billion. The owner of a mortgaged house doesn't have to rely on appreciation only for his gains. If interest on his mortgage is less than the inflation rate he automatically comes out ahead. If inflation continues he repays in cheaper dollars. And he gets to deduct the interest on his income taxes. In effect, he has joined forces with the enemy. Homeowners are only part of the constituency. Almost all borrowers benefit to some extent so long as inflation continues. And almost all Americans are or have been borrowers. Some are constantly in debt. Last year the total of consumer debt outstanding was $1.24 billion, again according to the Finance Association, and $311 billion of it was for installment loans, mainly to finance consumers goods such as cars. There are other supporters, often tacit ones, because few people like to declare themselves in favor of something almost all people regularly denounce. You might even include recipients of Social Security checks. Checks now being mailed to recipients this week are swelled by 14.3 percent "cost-of-living" increases, increased based on the consumer price index, which often overstates retirees' cost-of-living increases. Business often benefits from inflation, particularly for products in strong demand and short supply. Collectibles of various sorts -- art, stamps, coins, gold, to name a few -- are beneficiaries. Oil might be. Housing often is. Even Japanese small cars can sometimes be included. Government can't be excluded from the list. In fact, it is considered by many to be the prime cause and the No. 1 beneficiary since politicians, it is observed, create inflation with spending programs designed to win votes, and win more votes by denouncing the result.

letter to editor

Dear Mr. McQueen, I take umbrage and rightfully so, my being a "yankee," on your article in this Sunday's paper. Believe me sir, people who live in the northern states, those referred to as southerners as "yankees," do act like people. We have feelings, manners and compassion for all men regardless of color, creed or religion. How many Christians in the South can make this claim? Not many in the state of Texas, this I say and so state by personal experience here in Snyder. Yet I do not condemn the entire state of Snyder for a handful of bigots. I was raised to be a good Catholic and my Christian belief is to forgive those who hurt us -- and at times it was very difficult, at times almost impossible. To get back to your very prejudicial and ungentlemanly attitude of attacking "yankees" in your article, I'm very surprised that a newspaper man would write such an untruth in his column. If people in Houston are unkind, I doubt sir, that they are all transplanted yankees. A "yankee" publisher would never make such an assumption and print his bigot prejudices in his newspaper. We do have principles. I strongly believe you owe all us yankees an apology. In the south as in the north, there are good and bad people, the "yankees" do not have a monopoly or arrogance. Read your own paper sometimes. The Texans are not all that perfect. They bleed as we do, they think as we do, some feel compassion for one another as we do, they also are God's creatures as we are -- and no one is perfect. That honor only belongs to our Maker. With the increasing number of women executives, says our favorite apple polisher, there'll be all kinds of opportunity for an enterprising yes ma'am. WASHINGTON (NEA) — The Carter-Mondale camp is not all that worried about polls showing Jimmy Carter lagging behind Ronald Reagan in the presidential race. The Carter camp is gearing up for what essentially will be a negative campaign — one in which the candidate runs not on his record but against his opponent. Obviously, Carter cannot run on his disastrous record. Instead, he will paint the presidency as a nearly impossible job that no one could do any better. He will say that the nation's economic problems were caused by outside forces and that he has made the hard decisions necessary to bring the economy under control. Carter's polls show that many Americans already believe that the presidency is an almost impossible job — and therefore that it doesn't really matter who occupies the White House. The president's camp figures that if voters are told often enough that Carter, "a good man," has done his best against almost invincible forces, by November they will believe it. Carter's key planners think their most effective commercials during the primary campaign were those that featured a series of ordinary people saying, "I just don't trust Ted Kennedy." In the fall campaign, they will do much the same to Reagan by trying to paint him as "dangerous." Look for a lot of talk about Reagan's "adventurous foreign policy."

state Democratic parties will be raising and spending millions of dollars on things that would normally fall within the campaign committee's budget. Election law bars independent committees like the one backing Reagan from having any contact with regular campaign committees. But no such restriction applies to the relationship between state parties and regular campaign committees. In fact, the state-party effort is being run by White House aide Les Francis, who is on leave to the Democratic National Committee; Francis remains in close contact with Hamilton Jordan, who is running the re-election campaign.

Yielding to temptation is like deliberately walking on hot coals; the consequences can be expected, as Solomon suggests. "Can a man take fire in his bosom, and his clothes not be burned? Can one go upon hot coals, and his feet not be burned?" — Prov. 6:27-28

Indigestion

Falacies

And Facts

FACT—Indigestion is also referred to as dyspepsia, upset stomach, acute indigestion or plain indigestion. It can produce mid-riff discomfort, upper abdominal pain, distention, gastrointestinal gas, nausea, or heartburn singly or in combination.

FACT—If you need an antacid for indigestion or heartburn, the best time to take it is usually one hour after meals.

FACT—Mild indigestion commonly will disappear if you do nothing more than avoid eating for a few hours. Loosening tight-fitting clothing may help and so does lying on the right side.

FALLACY—Contrary to popular opinion, milk is not an effective antacid.

FALLACY—Sodium bicarbonate is a harmless antacid. Although sodium bicarbonate can neutralize acid quickly, many physicians advise that it not be used over a long period of time because it tends to increase blood alkalinity. This may cause shallow or irregular breathing, prickling or burning sensations in fingers, toes or lips, muscle cramps, and in severe cases convulsions. Sodium bicarbonate is also high in sodium content.

FACT—Ask your physician about antacids. He may recommend a gentle but rapid-acting liquid or tablets such as Riopan which has a high acid-consuming capacity and no acid rebound.

FACT—When indigestion is severe or occurs frequently or chronically, medical advice is needed. The possibility of organic disease has to be ruled out.

Second hand low, third hand high, cover an honor with an honor are general rules that all bridge players learn when they start the game. Like all rules, however, they don't always apply. Before one makes the book play, thought should precede the action.

Today's hand illustrates the time to deviate from a rule. The auction needs some explanation. The first three bids are routine. East's two-spade call, while not generally made on such skimpy values, had good thinking behind it. After the opening, overcall and free bid, East reasoned, how many points could his partner expect him to have? His two-spade call, while not recommended by most experts, took up valuable bidding space. He was not likely to be penalized, because his trump length afforded some measure of protection.

South persevered with three diamonds and North had quite a problem. Although with both hands in view it is obvious that five of either minor is the optimum contract, at the table this was not easy to recognize.

North's three-spade bid was a Western cue bid, popular in California, which asks the cue bidder's partner to bid notrump with a full stopper in the enemy's suit. South dutifully bid three notrump and the wrong contract was played.

The opening lead was the four of spades and declarer played dummy's jack. It was up to East. If he played his king, declarer would have a double spade stopper and make four notrump. East realized South had to have the ace of spades for his three-notrump call, and if it were singleton, as the auction indicated, the nine of spades would suffice. East played the nine and South had no chance. When West gained the lead with the ace of clubs, it was an easy matter to take four spades and two aces.

Don't routinely cover an honor with an honor, as many players might, without giving it proper consideration. (NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSN.)

Everyone should have a hearing test at least once a year if there is any trouble at all hearing clearly. Even those who have been told nothing could be done for them should have a hearing test and find out if they are one of the many a hearing aid can help.

The free hearing test will be given at the Pal-O-Mar Motel, East Hwy. 180 Snyder, Texas. If you can't come Thursday call 915-673-4980 and arrange for an appointment at another time. In-home testing is also available.

More Women Now Working

GENEVA (AP)—Working primarily on farms, in industry and the service sector, women are joining the world's labor force in increasing numbers and now make up more than a third of the world's workers, according to the U.N.'s International Labor Organization.

From 344 million in 1950, their numbers had risen to 600 million by 1975 and by the end of the century should approach 900 million. According to the ILO study, China alone accounted for one-fourth of the world's working women with three other countries — India with 77 million, the Soviet Union with 63 million, and the United States with 36 million — accounting for more than 30 percent of the total.

President Orders Arms Airlifted To Thailand

WASHINGTON (AP)—In a token show of U.S. support, President Carter has ordered an immediate airlift of 1,000 rifles, some artillery and anti-tank guns to Thailand and army facing powerful Vietnamese forces along the Thai-Cambodian border.

Carter also ordered artillery and machine gun ammunition shipped as soon as possible. But it will have to go by sea because of its weight and bulk and is unlikely to reach Thailand for weeks. In a related action, Carter said Tuesday that the seaborne shipment of 35 improved M-48A5 tanks, with bigger guns and better engines than present models, will be "expedited" after a 30-day congressional review of the tank sale is completed July 24.

Originally, the Defense Department had planned to start sending the tanks to Thailand in September under a deal negotiated before the recent outbreak of Thai-Vietnamese fighting.

All the items covered by Carter's hurry-up action—valued at about $27 million—have already been bought and paid for by the Thais. They are a tiny part of a backlog of nearly $600 million in a long shopping list of military equipment, spare parts and other items the Thais have submitted to Washington over a period of years but which have yet to be delivered.

Pentagon officials said "we are continuing to examine the availability of additional items of equipment from U.S. service stocks which Thailand already has ordered," and indicated further shipments may be lined up in a matter of days.

The airlift of the M-16 rifles, 18 105-millimeter howitzers and 38 anti-tank recoilless guns will be carried out by six or seven U.S. Air Force C-141 transport planes which will collect them from U.S. arsenals and fly them directly to Bangkok.

Officials said the first flight may leave today—with howitzers from the Rock Island arsenal at Moline, Ill.

The 106-millimeter anti-tank guns are being drawn from Army supplies at the Aberdeen Proving Ground in Maryland and the 1,000 rifles are coming from Anniston Army Depot in Alabama.

Unless the United States follows up these relatively small shipments with massive supplies, it appears the small arms, artillery pieces and anti-tank guns and ammunition, by themselves, will add only slightly to the military power of the 145,000-member Thai army, which is heavily outnumbered by the Vietnamese.

HEALTH

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Help for tinnitus

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB—I'm 73 years old and have had high blood pressure for a long time. In the past years I've had ringing and rumbling in my ears or head when I lie down to go to sleep. It keeps me from sleeping. I've gone to doctors and they tell me that after 65, the ears get weak and hum and there's nothing to do about it. I'm really tired all the time. I'm OK during the day but when I lie down at night it keeps me awake.

DEAR READER—It's true that noises in the ear, ringing, humming, etc., increase in frequency as you get older. That doesn't mean that something can't be done to help in many cases.

Ringing or buzzing in the ear, which we call tinnitus, is a symptom. It can be caused by many different things. That's why it's important to have a medical examination. The ears may simply be plugged with wax. Tinnitus can be caused by changes in the circulation to the brain or the ear. In many cases, no cause can be found. Occasionally, it's caused from noise damage.

To give you a better idea of the problem and the many different things that cause it, I am sending you The Health Letter number 12-10, Help for Tinnitus—Noise of Ringing in the Ear. Other readers who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Send your request to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

Now after you have had an examination to find out what causes your problem, if it's not wax in the ear or something simple, there are several things that might be done. If your tinnitus is associated with hearing loss, sometimes a properly designed and fitted hearing aid will relieve the problem. If it's not associated with hearing loss and is one of the unexplained groups of ear noises, then you might use a tinnitus masker. This device creates a constant wide band spectrum of noise which masks the sound in the head. This is much more comfortable for many people.

If your problem is just at night as you describe, you may be able to mask the noise for yourself. You can use an FM radio and set it next to your bed and tune it between stations and then turn up the noise enough to create a constant sound.

There are a number of sleep aid devices marketed commercially that provide sounds of the sea or other sounds in the bedroom which help some people sleep. A number of these will help to mask the noise at night. But probably none are any more simple than using the radio as I've mentioned above.

DEAR DR. LAMB—Is chewing ice or ice cubes harmful to my health? I find it refreshing and often go through several trays of cubes a day. Some of my friends insist that it's not good. Can you help?

DEAR READER—No, it's not harmful. After all, it's just about the same as drinking water. Occasionally, there are people who eat large amounts of ice because of underlying medical disorders. We also see people who eat large amounts of clay and even laundry starch. Some of these cases appear to be associated with an underlying anemia. So, if you want you might have your blood checked. Otherwise, just consider it the same as if you were to ask if it's all right to drink two or three ice cube trays full of water a day.

Navy Hires Most

NEWPORT, R.I. (AP)—The Navy last year maintained its position as the largest single employer in Newport County and as the second largest employer in Rhode Island, with combined civilian and military payrolls of about $150 million.

That represents a $16 million increase over the 1978 payroll, according to the Navy.

Setting New Records In Use Of Electricity

Texas Electric's customers are setting new records for use of electricity this summer, and bills will be a lot higher than those of last year's cooler-than-normal summer unless people make every effort to conserve.

Although some of the increased use of electricity can be attributed to population growth, TESCO's service area, most of it reflects the record-high temperatures the state is experiencing, said H.F. Clark, TESCO manager in Snyder.

"In this heat, air conditioners are working longer and harder," Clark said. "We are continuing to recommend that customers take steps such as setting thermostats at 78 or higher and turning them off entirely when no one is at home."

For the first time in history, use of electricity at one time by TESCO customers passed the 4 million kilowatt mark this week. That record was set at 6 p.m. Tuesday when use hit an all-time high of 4,029,000 kilowatts.

Tuesday was not the first day this summer, however, that new records were set.

The record, prior to this summer, was set in 1978, when use hit 3,802,000 kilowatts. By contrast, the high point last summer, when temperatures were below normal, was 3,722,000 kilowatts.

The 1978 record was first broken this summer on June 18, with 3,914,000 kilowatts, and again Monday, with 3,953,000.

The record set Tuesday was 8.2 percent higher than the maximum use last summer and 6 percent higher than the 1978 high.

Clark recommended that customers also see that filters are clean and see that grass and plants are trimmed away from the outside compressors.

"We would also recommend that people keep outside doors closed as much as possible, and that they keep drapes closed. A simple floor fan also can help keep houses more comfortable and hold down the need for air conditioning," Clark said.

He said the company can offer other useful conservation information in its "Tips" booklet.

"We can't predict whether these kinds of temperatures will continue through the rest of the summer. But people can save money on their bills, regardless of the weather, by following some guidelines for holding down their use of electricity," he said.

Family Dies When Mother Kills Self

HOLLYWOOD, Fla. (AP)—When Nancy Sbarro closed her garage door, started the engine of her black Cadillac and stretched out on the front seat to die, she probably had no intention of killing her husband, son and daughter, police say.

But all four died when an air intake valve in the garage funneled deadly carbon monoxide gas into the central air conditioning system of the neat, new home.

And police say that jealousy—perhaps sparked by nude photographs of Mrs. Sbarro's daughter found in the wallet of her second husband—is the only motive they have to work with.

Police believe Mrs. Sbarro, 38, meant to commit suicide. The deaths of Jack Sbarro, 41, and her children from a previous marriage, DeEtta Maynes, 18, and Brian Maynes, 14, have been classified as accidental.

"We think she didn't mean to do anything with the other three, but only do away with herself," Hollywood police spokesman Fred Barbetta said Tuesday.

The bodies were found Monday by Donald Liberman, Miss Maynes' fiancé. They were to be wed next week.

"Somebody's going to have to tell DeEtta's grandparents," said a cousin, Lillian Romano. "They're on their way here from Iowa for the wedding. Somebody's going to have to call the wedding off."

"There was no reason for this," Liberman sobbed Monday.

"Everybody was happy. Everything was falling into place. We were getting married."

Dear Abby

Girl of His Dreams Gives Rude Awakening

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Six months ago I married a beautiful woman. She had the kind of beauty that most men can only dream about. She was cuddly and loving before we were married and until about a month after, then Bobby, her 9-year-old son, took over.

She prepares only Bobby's favorite food (mainly hamburgers) and never asks me what I want. When I suggest something, I'm told, "We aren't used to eating that!" She speaks of her rights and Bobby's rights. Never mine. She buys him any toy he wants. He already has more than 100 in cartons and tires of them quickly.

She allows Bobby to hold and touch her, but I am told it's not "proper" for a husband and wife to show physical affection in front of children. She's 43, I'm 46, but a 9-year-old rules our house. We have to watch his favorite TV shows, and when we eat out, we go where Bobby wants to go.

Abby, I was willing to accept her son, he's part of her. But I feel like an outsider looking in. Until he was 7, he slept with her. (He had no bed of his own!)

How can I get Bobby to share his mother with me? I'm not even allowed to correct him. If I try, she jumps all over me, so I just pay their bills and get nothing out of our marriage. What is your advice?

OUTSIDER IN CHICAGO

DEAR OUTSIDER: Tell your bride that you are dissatisfied with your marriage and will need her cooperation (and Bobby's) to improve it. Family counseling, involving all members of the family, will be required. If she refuses to cooperate, you can either dissolve the marriage or hang around while the lady "with the kind of beauty most men dream about" continues to use you.

DEAR ABBY: About three weeks ago I met a real neat kid. We hit it off swell together. He asked me for my telephone number and I gave it to him.

The next day he called and we made a date for that Friday night. He never showed up and never called. Yesterday I bumped into him by accident, and he said he was sorry about what happened last Friday, but something unexpected came up and he couldn't make it.

He asked if he could see me that night and I said yes. Well, he didn't show up and didn't call. Next Saturday night my girlfriend is having a party, and she told me to bring my own guy. Do you think I should give this kid another chance? I still like him.

HOLES IN MY HEAD

DEAR HOLES: If you do, you should borrow the rocks in his head to fill up the holes in yours.

DEAR ABBY: Would you care to speculate on why a man would lose three wedding rings in the first four years of his marriage?

HIS WIFE

DEAR WIFE: He either consciously or unconsciously doesn't want to a) be married, b) look married, c) feel married. Or a combination of all three.

Do you wish you had more friends? Get Abby's booklet, "How To Be Popular; You're Never Too Young or Too Old." Send $1 with a long, self-addressed, stamped (28 cents) envelope to: Abby, Popularity, 132 Lasky Drive, Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212.

Dead Mice Bring Big Settlement

WILMINGTON, Del. (AP)—Three dead mice in the bottom of a bottle of syrup were worth $95,000 to a man and his daughter who said they kept getting sick whenever they ate pancakes.

When Bozman, 62, of Bear, Del., and his daughter, Susan, 24, of Lindenwold, N.J., could not understand why they were getting nauseated by pancakes or French toast. Then Bozman noticed the dead rodents in the Log Cabin syrup.

When Bozman contacted General Foods Corp. about the problem, the company offered him $100, he said. He refused that offer and a top offer of $1,500.

A Superior Court jury decided Tuesday that Bozman and his daughter should receive $95,000 in damages.

Viewers Continue To Favor Reruns

NEW YORK (AP)—Despite a sprinkling of first-run programs like "Tom Snyder's Celebrity Spotlight" on NBC and "Nobody's Perfect" on CBS, viewers continued to favor reruns in greater numbers in the week ending June 29, figures from the A.C. Nielsen Co. show.

In fact, repeats of four CBS series were the week's most-watched shows, with "M-A-S-H" No. 1 with a rating of 23.2. Nielsen says that means of all the homes in the country with television, 23.2 percent saw at least part of the program.

Thirteen previously broadcast programs were ranked behind "M-A-S-H," and ahead of the first of the original shows, Snyder's 15th-place "Celebrity Spotlight."

CBS was the big beneficiary in the weekly audience survey, listing 10 of the week's 20 most-watched shows to six for ABC and four for NBC. CBS' ratings for the week was 14.1 to 13.4 for ABC and 12.5 for NBC. The networks say that means in an average prime time minute during the week, 14.1 percent of the nation's TV-equipped homes were tuned to CBS.

It was NBC's second week in a row in third place after a short-lived climb to the runnerup position early in June. NBC now has been No. 3 17 of the last 18 weeks.

In addition to Snyder's show and "Nobody's Perfect," several other new shows were moderately successful. An NBC special, "Debbie Boone: The Same Old Brand New Me," finished in a tie with "Nobody's Perfect" for 19th place, with "Phyl & Mikhy" on CBS 27th and "Willow B.: Women in Prison," 28th.

News specials did not do well. "Sadat's Eternal Egypt," a "CBS Reports" presentation, was No. 57 for the week, while an "NBC White Paper," "If Japan Can... Why Can't We?" was 65th.

Both ABC and NBC had two shows among the five least-watched. NBC's "Sanford" was No. 67, followed by "One in a Million" and "Galactica 1980," both on ABC. "Joe's World" on NBC and "The Stockard Channing Show" on CBS. Use Snyder Daily News Classified Ads 573-5486

Voice On Telephone Known By Millions

ATLANTA (AP)—You may not know Jane Barbe, but you'd recognize her voice. Every day she gives the time and temperature to 12 million people, including one woman in Texas who thinks the telephone company keeps her locked in a little room all day.

But the only room in which Mrs. Barbe is ever stuck is a recording studio, where that clear and silky voice purrs such information as, "I'm sorry, but the number you have dialled is no longer in service."

People in such countries as Saudi Arabia, Zambia, Canada, the Bahamas—as well as the United States—hear her voice each day when they call for the time or run into a problem with a telephone number.

"I get a tremendous kick out of telling people what I do," she said in a recent interview. "They say things like, 'Oh my God, you're the time lady.' And I get letters from people."

Mrs. Barbe says her telephone work is only part of her career. She is also an actress in television and radio commercials, which is how she got her part-time job 17 years ago at the Audichron Co., which manufactures public announcement equipment for Southern Bell.

Audichron Operations Manager Sam Medlin estimated that Mrs. Barbe's voice is used in 90 percent of "intercept messages," the recordings you reach when something is wrong with a telephone number, and her voice is used in about 60 percent of automated time and temperature services.

It would be extremely difficult, Medlin said, to find a female voice that records as well. "She has a frequency and timbre that records very well. Not husky, brass or shrill," he said.

Mrs. Barbe said a woman in Texas actually wrote a letter to a newspaper saying how sorry she felt for the poor woman who was stuck in a room all day answering time- and temperature calls.

"There are a few people who really think I'm chained to a desk, a clock and a telephone," she said. "But it's gratifying to know I don't sound like a machine."

Mrs. Barbe, whose voice normally has a slight Southern lilt, said she tries hard to sound natural in the recordings.

"I conjure up a mental image of someone and concentrate very hard to sound pleasant and not like a machine," Mrs. Barbe said.

To tell you the time, or that the number you have dialled has been disconnected, Mrs. Barbe does not actually record all the possible combinations of numbers. Instead, her voice is taped saying "one," "two," "three" and so on.

The fragments she records are then put together by the Audichron machines to give the right message. If you dial the time and it's 7:32 the machine would pick out a "seven," a "thirty" and a "two" from her pre-recorded voice fragments.

But the mechanics don't make it all impersonal.

Mrs. Barbe said she received two letters from elderly women who were handicapped and had no families. They told her they called time and temperature every hour just for the human contact of her voice.

Temperature Records Toppled By June Heat

By The Associated Press

Texans accustomed to fiery summer days got an early sample of the searing heat in June as temperatures continually soared past the century mark topping records across the breadth of the sun-baked state.

The mercury in El Paso rocketed to 100 degrees or more for 25 days in June—21 of those scorching days in a row.

Wichita Falls and the Fort Worth-Dallas area had 13 days of 100-degree weather.

San Antonio recorded on six days of 100 degree heat in June—the first in the last decade—four times in 1971 and twice in 1978—but in June the readings in the Alamo City reached 100 or more on nine days.

Fort Worth and Dallas had to go back to 1911 to find a June with 13 or more days of 100-plus readings, the National Weather Service reported.

The Dallas-Fort Worth Regional Airport had 10 record high temperatures established, including the last eight days. The 113-degree readings on the 26th and 27th were the hottest ever recorded in the area. The low temperature for the month was 65 degrees on June

Wichita Falls set heat records the last seven days of June, with the highest temperature of the month a 117 on the 28th.

That 117-degree reading, coupled with a 116 the day before, were the highest ever recorded at Wichita Falls.

In San Antonio, the last eight days set a record with 100 degrees or better. The nine June days at 100 degrees or more tied the record established in 1948. Twenty-eight of the 30 days registered maximums of 90 degrees or more.

The 100 degrees reached June 20th in the Alamo City was the first official 100-degree or better maximum temperature in the month since June 13, 1971.

June was Abilene's fifth hottest on record. The high of 109 on the 28th was a daily record, surpassing 105 set in 1928.

Not only was it hot, but also dry.

Weather archives in San Antonio will not show June 1980 as one of the driest on record, but in reality, it was, said the NWS. In fact, if it had not been for an early morning thunderstorm on Saturday, the 21st, when the monthly total of 0.52 inches fell, the month would have entered the books as the driest on record. The record years of 1914 and 1967 showed only 0.01 inches.

Wichita Falls had its driest June since 1933 when only 0.05 inches of rain was recorded. Total rainfall was 0.26 inches, which is 3.13 inches below normal.

D-FW Airport reported rainfall of 1.25 inches for the month, down 1.80 inches from the normal of 3.05. Measurable rain only fell two days. Total rainfall for the year is 11.09 inches which is 7.43 inches below the normal of 18.52 inches.

Abilene recorded 1.14 inches, 1.68 inches below normal.

Hot Weather Boon To Rice

HOUSTON (AP)—Texas rice growers are looking to the hot, dry weather to provide them a bumper crop since their fields had been suffering from a cold, wet spring.

"This is one of the better yields in recent years," said Dr. James W. Stansel, head of the rice experiment station near Eagle Lake. He said per-acre yields could be 5 to 7 percent above normal.

"For them" (rice farmers), this hot weather is the best thing that could happen," he said. "What is generally a bad year for other crops is one of the best for rice."

Democrats Hunkering Down For Convention

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Democrats are hunkering down for a long, hard convention that could rival their 1972 performance for blowing prime-time television by carrying platform fights and even nominations and acceptance speeches into the wee hours.

William P. Dixon, the convention manager, released a new schedule on Tuesday which anticipates endless hours of wrangling over the platform and party rules.

Robert Torricelli, executive director of the rules committee, also set out a scenario that almost assures a bitter floor fight over a proposed rule forcing President Carter's delegates to vote for him.

Supporters of Sen. Edward M. Kennedy immediately say they will fight the rule all the way. The committee takes it up next Tuesday.

The new schedule for the August gathering in New York City provides 57½ hours of convention time for business, compared to 28 hours in the original version. And that raises visions of the Miami Beach marathon eight years ago, when nominee George S. McGovern found himself addressing a scant television audience ordinarily reserved for the late, late, late show.

Dixon cited rules which allow 25 percent of the members of a standing committee to bring a challenge to the convention floor and 20 percent of the delegates to demand a roll-call vote on the floor for any measure defeated by voice vote.

As it is, Dixon now plans to open the convention at 11 a.m. on Aug. 11 and leave the hall 12 hours later. The second day is to begin at 10 a.m. and end at 1 a.m.

On the third day, which includes the presidential nomination, the most optimistic schedule now runs from 9 a.m. to midnight. And the final day, featuring nominations for vice president and acceptance speeches, goes from 8 a.m. to 11:30 p.m.

Long, Hard Ordeal Ahead...

2 Grass Fires Extinguished

Two grass fires were extinguished Tuesday by Snyder firefighters.

The first, reported at 3:35 p.m., occurred at 307 31st St. The second, reported at 10:45 p.m., occurred in the 1600 block of Ave. K.

A market that has increased drastically in the last 10 years is waste paper sold for export. In 1970, about 400,000 tons was shipped to foreign manufacturers. In 1979, about 2.2 million tons was exported—primarily to Japan, Korea, Canada and Mexico.
