Reagan, Bush Say They Agree On Major Issues

DETROIT (AP)—Republican presidential nominee Ronald Reagan and George Bush, his second choice for a running mate, acknowledged their past differences today but declared themselves enthusiastically agreed on major issues of the 1980 campaign.

Appearing together at a news conference, scheduled originally for Reagan to disclose his choice for the vice presidential nomination, Reagan refused to disclose any of the demands that former president Gerald R. Ford had made as a price for taking the second spot on the ticket.

"He was most hesitant, most reluctant from the beginning," said Reagan of the negotiations with Ford that broke down shortly before midnight Wednesday.

After Ford declined to take the job, Reagan broke precedent early today and appeared before emotionally charged delegates to the GOP National Convention to inform them personally that he had chosen Bush—his most persistent rival in the primaries—to share the Republican ticket.

Reagan's visit to the hall capped an extraordinary night in which party leaders on the convention floor spread the word that Ford had agreed to accept the vice presidential nomination.

At Reagan's initiative, even former Secretary of State Henry Kissinger interceded to try to persuade Ford to accept Reagan's offer, Kissinger said today.

But sources on both sides said the negotiations broke down over the scope of the role Ford would play as a Reagan vice president. Finally, Reagan turned to Bush.

Asked whether he would agree that Bush was his second choice for vice president, Reagan replied that the possibility of a former president joining the ticket as vice president was "so unique" that he would not describe it as being a matter of a first or second choice.

Bush was asked if he was disturbed at being "the No. 2 choice for the No. 2 spot."

"Absolutely not," he replied. He then repeated Reagan's description of the situation as "unique." Asked about such issues as the Equal Rights Amendment, abortion and taxes that had separated him and Reagan during the Republican primary campaign, Bush answered: "Please, do not keep reminding me of the differences we had."

He said the big issues in the fall campaign would be inflation, unemployment, jobs and respect for the United States abroad. On those issues, Bush said, he and Reagan agreed.

During the primary campaign, Bush attacked Reagan's call for a 30 percent across-the-board cut in tax rates over a three-year period. But, referring to the news conference to similar Republican tax legislation introduced in Congress in Reagan's behalf, Bush said, "I see a tax bill and tax proposal that has my enthusiastic support."

Miami Violence Enters 3rd Day

MIAMI (AP)—Simmering racial tensions entered a third day today with the commandeering of a school bus by eight blacks shortly before dawn. Overnight, two women, including a pregnant teen-ager, were shot and a police woman was injured in the city's riot-torn Liberty City district.

"It's quiet but not everybody has gone home," police spokesman Thomas Banks said this morning. "We still have a few idiots running around out there setting small bonfires." Banks said there also had been reports of sporadic sniper fire.

At 5:45 a.m. a county school bus beginning its morning rounds was taken over by eight blacks, two adults and six juveniles, said police spokesman Ray Southerland. They were detained at a police checkpoint in the predominantly black Liberty City area when officers determined "the situation didn't look right."

Police found a firearm on the bus and arrested all eight people, said Southerland, but the charges were not immediately known.

The female driver, who had remained on the bus, was uninjured. He said the unidentified driver did not have any passengers on board.

A white couple drove into the area about midnight and their car was fired upon. The woman, 52, was wounded in the hand and she and her husband raced to a police checkpoint, said Southerland. She was taken to a hospital. Their identities were not known, Southerland said.

Police won praise for their handling of the violence. But several Dade County officers, protesting understaffing, department leadership and the "dangers they face in Liberty City, pitched their badges into a garbage can Wednesday night. They later retrieved them.

Heat Relief Allocation Announced

Scurry, Mitchell and Nolan Counties are listed for $29,000 in an emergency allocation announced by the Community Services Administration to help poor and elderly people cope with the scorching heat wave.

The announcement said $2.3 million had been cleared for Texas, with the largest chunk of $315,000 going to Dallas County, which will share its grant with Collin, Denton, Hunt and Rockwall Counties.

Activities that may be supported with the federal grant money include transportation to local and state-operated heat relief center, purchase or rental of low-cost appliances and payment of utility bills.

It was not known immediately how the allocation here would be administered. County Judge Preston Wilson said he had not received any official word on the grant. It was reported that the governor's office had waived a 30-day review of the grant and that the funds should be available by the end of the week.

Carter Offers To Debate

SAPELO ISLAND, Ga. (AP)—President Carter telephoned Ronald Reagan today offering congratulations for his selection as Republican presidential nominee and challenged his opponent to a series of debates.

Carter, who is ending his week-long vacation with a political trip to Florida today, also congratulated the former governor "on his selection of a running mate," according to White House Deputy Press Secretary Rex Granum.

The press spokesman would not say whether Reagan accepted the challenge to debate, leaving that comment to Reagan.

Texans Get 'Double Whammy'

AUSTIN (AP)—Railroad Commissioner James Nugent said today Texans are getting the "double whammy" in the energy market.

Nugent said government policies have resulted in the sale of Texas resources, "at less than market value" while "our utility bills have been inflated by the greed of every special interest that has seized this as the moment to extract their pound of flesh."

Nugent said Texas consumers, particularly those who get small oil royalties, "have been caught in a net that was not intended for them" with the passage of the windfall profits tax on crude oil production.

Water District's Demands Soaring

If demands continue through the last half of the month as for the first half, the Colorado River Municipal Water District is headed for a two-billion gallon July. This has not happened since July 1978.

For the first 15 days of July, the district delivered 999,037,000 gallons of water to its municipal customers. Odessa, with 520,700,000 gallons, an average of 34,713,000, led the list. Big Spring averaged 11,814,000 gallons, Snyder 5,488,000, Stanton 567,000 gallons, and Midland, which is limited by contract quantity, 13,553,000 gallons per day.

Odessa appears bound to exceed its previous record month of 881,612,000 gallons established in July 1978. Snyder also could surpass its previous record of 138,395,000 gallons in July 1978, but Big Spring is not likely to touch its peak month of 419,440,000 in June 1974 when Webb AFB was active and a customer.

Over all, July is not expected to set a new record for the month because in contrast to previous peak years, deliveries to oil companies have been cut to the bone and limited mostly to use of non-potable water.

Rodeo Parade Prize Winners Announced

In the parade yesterday that launched the 45th annual Scurry County Rodeo, the float sponsored by the Firemen's Auxiliary was judged the best.

In the senior riding club division, first place went to Fisher County. Second went to Big Spring, and the Post Riding Club placed third.

In the junior riding club division, only one award was presented and it went to the Lubbock Rangers.

This year, two new awards were also presented. They were for the best dressed man and woman. The man whose attire was judged to be most appropriate for the occasion of the rodeo was Roscoe Kropp and the best dressed woman was Jessica Eicke.

The rodeo continues through Saturday night at the Scurry County Coliseum. Showtime is at 8 p.m.

Featured in the rodeo are bareback riding, tiedown calf roping, saddle bronc riding, steer wrestling, barrel racing, team roping, and bull riding.

Although there aren't so many of them as there were a few years ago, there is more variety to names for new-born children these days, according to the American Council of Insurance and Health Insurance Institute.

The most popular names of the day don't even list George and Mary in the top 10 of their respective sexes, and John has dropped to seventh place. This is at least partially attributed to the "Dear John" letters of World War II, which were associated with unpleasantness—and also the names of those little outbuildings erected for temporary sanitary purposes on construction projects.

Now, they say, Michael has the No. 1 spot for boys' names, followed by Jason, Matthew, Brian, Christopher, David, John, James, Jeffrey and Daniel.

For the girls, Jennifer is the most popular, with runnersup Amy, Sarah, Michelle, Kimberly, Heather, Kelly, Rebecca and Catherine in that order. Tied for 10th place are Elizabeth, Julie, Melissa and Lisa.

So, it appears that Jane and John Doe may not be the typical American couple anymore.

The political convention season apparently leaves a lot of people "cold" (that's merely a figure of speech in case you are looking at a thermometer). We have heard several say they wish they didn't have to make a choice from the potential line-up these days.

Notwithstanding the disappointment and disgust over the situation in Washington, time has a way of changing things, even memories. We remember when there was a story making the rounds about a Texan flattening a fellow from another state and then apologizing after a misunderstanding was cleared up.

"He said Harry Truman raised taxes and I thought he said Harry Truman was raised in Texas," explained the penitent Texan.

More recently, someone said Gerald Ford left Washington in a mess and Jimmy Carter succeeded in upgrading it into unorganized disaster.

"Nowadays, there are plenty of people around who would like to see a Harry Truman in the White House. We shudder to think what the conditions will be like if and when the day comes when most folks would be overjoyed to see another Carter in the saddle.

tough act to follow

Considering the run of the news these days out of Iran, Cuba, Western Europe, Israel and other crisis centers including the American presidential campaign, any that might even remotely be described as good is doubly welcome.

There is some, involving a once-familiar name in many bad news reports.

Robert McNamara has announced his coming retirement as president of the International Bank for Reconstruction and Development - or, as headline writers among others prefer to refer to it, the World Bank.

McNamara's departure in itself is by no means good news. But the story of the World Bank during its 12 years under his leadership definitely is.

Set up following World War II as an institution for channeling resources from the industrial nations into the development of the world's economic also-rans, the bank during its early years did exactly that in a conscientious but cautiously conservative fashion. Dams, transportation facilities, agricultural improvement and similar highly visible projects where returns on investments were virtually certain and fairly rapid were its thing.

McNamara began diversifying the bank's interests and efforts as soon as he took over in 1968. Big projects continued, but he also pushed the bank into taking greater chances. Funds went into risk areas such as gas and oil exploration. A special "soft loan" affiliated lent to the poorest of the poor countries on long term and at minimal charge. Sociological problems, such as population control, as well as economic became bank concerns.

In little more than a decade under McNamara, the bank's annual commitments grew from $1 billion to $11.5 billion, and its currently supervises some 1,600 projects in more than 100 countries budgeted at $100 billion.

And all at no cost to the bank's own soundness. Its bonds in the capital markets, the source of the bulk of its lending funds, are top-rated.

It is an impressive achievement even in perspective - the dollars of 1980 not being those of 1968, a change for the worse with which McNamara is not entirely unconnected.

During the years immediately preceding his bank tenure, he was, as U.S. secretary of defense, one of the most prominent shapers of the involvement in Vietnam, an immensely costly and disastrously under-budgeted commitment that more than any other single cause is responsible for the destabilized American economy and institutionalized inflation of recent years.

Some would attribute McNamara's dedicated performance at the bank in part to penance for that at the Pentagon.

Possibly. But whatever the background, it is a performance that today stands on its own.

McNamara has given plenty of advance warning of his departure. It will not actually take place until June 30, 1981, his 65th birthday. That gives the United States - which with its 22 percent stake is the bank's largest shareholder and has to date provided the president and its more than 130 partners a year in which to find a replacement.

It won't be easy.

If Ronald Reagan is elected president, and I'll wager he is, what kind of off-brand entertainment can that First Family provide us, I wonder?

Whatever one may say about Jimmy Carter, one will have to admit he gave us for our perusal his brother Billy. Billy made the front page almost as often as Jimmy did, and he was so much more interesting. If he wasn't swilling beer, he was seeking treatment for alcoholism. Everything about Billy, from his smoking habits to his Bert Lance-backed loans, came under public scrutiny.

Gerald Ford was relatively bland while he was in office. It wasn't until after he left the White House that his family became entertaining. One son was hit with a paternity suit, and, according to the last I heard, still hadn't married the sweet little girl who filed it.

Richard Nixon, as I remember, showed us the stuff he was made of through the Watergate revelations.

Lyndon Johnson, a colorful character himself, had an even more colorful brother, Sam. Although it was a long time ago, I seem to recall an incident in which brother Sam was caught in shady circumstances with an American divorcee in Mexico. I don't think the truth was ever fully revealed about that.

What has Ronald Reagan to offer? Well, an ex-wife for starters. Will she come out of the woodwork to make her confessions? I certainly hope so. Maybe Reagan will grant a Playboy interview, as Jimmy Carter once did, and tell us about his secret longings? He has them, no doubt, and surely someone in his family will spill the beans. Maybe one of his children will do something noteworthy.

First Families can be so entertaining.

americans push back

Government has been pushing us around. Look out government, some Americans are beginning to push back!

What is supposed to be our government is ignoring us. Public servants have become dictatorial masters - forcing on us what they want: limitless immigration, cross-town busing, metric measure, seat belts, 55 mile speed limits.

For every new law passed by the Congress, unelected bureaucrats are turning out 10 new regulations with the force of law.

Urban Americans tend to cower and submit. But out of in the wide ninetenths of this country that's still country, some hard-handed individualists are closing ranks, mobilizing a "sagebrush rebellion."

Western states farmers and ranchers - after a generation of frustration - after letting Lilliputian bureaucrats of five administrations hobble and halter and checkrein 'em - have spit the bit. They are drawing a line. They are saying to the EPA and the FDA and the BLM and the OSHA - and all those other nameless, faceless officious officials - this is as far as we back down!

Here we stand and fight for our rights!

Specifically, what rights? Essentially, state's rights.

Americans in Eastern states will need help understanding this. Less than 10 percent of their land is federal government land.

In western states, however, most is. In Alaska, Nevada, Idaho and Utah, Uncle Sam owns more than 60 percent of every-

When those territories became states they were promised that most "public land" would be sold or given away to homesteaders. Since 1976, however, Congress has made the Bureau of Land Management a greedy landlord demanding more jurisdiction over more land - fencing the homefolks out.

As one example - in Idaho - in the name of "protecting the environment," Big Government wants to shrink grazing land in order to expand a 33,000-acre wildlife preserve to 750,000 acres for the benefit of eagles, falcons, crows and ground squirrels.

Interesting perspective: the BLM considers 320 acres sufficient for a nesting family of humans - but wants 1,000 acres each for the birds. Meanwhile, agricultural land is being gobbled up 6,000 acres a year by urban sprawl - further shrinking what's available for growing food.

If the present world war is an economic war over oil, the next one will be over food.

And the same shortsighted policies which reduced our nation's petroleum production, are now reducing our agricultural potential.

So what can be done about it? When government gets too big for its britches, freedom fighters don't just sharpen up the tines of a pitchfork anymore. They have to use their "smarts" - use legal weapons.

And where no one man can wrestle in that tub of taffy, organized they can. That is what the present

"sagebrush rebellion" is all about - western farmers and ranchers closing ranks, pooling resources to initiate court action, to educate voters, to claim vacant land for the multiple uses which benefit us all. It's everybody's fight. If government can acquire private land there; it can anywhere. Will all the steam blow off in the whistle? Maybe not.

The "sagebrush rebellion" already has some politicians running scared. It has already resulted in one significant legal victory.

In the land of the he-man handclasp, there is now a fist in the face of the bureaucracy that will not be easy to ignore.

new way to buy

NEW YORK (AP) - A newly conceived financing vehicle offers hope to people who want to buy a home but who cannot afford the down payment.

The plan, expected to be put into operation this fall by a group of real estate professionals, could help solve the dilemma of those who see prices rising faster than their ability to save purchase funds.

Under the plan, Home Partners of America Inc. would pay three-quarters of the down payment and share equally in the costs of closing, taxes, financing and insurance, becoming in the process a 50 percent owner.

Home Partners would also charge its partner a monthly occupancy fee, which would be a major portion of its return. In addition, it would be able to depreciate its share of the house for tax purposes.

Lois Vitt, founder of Home Partners, whose offices are in Westfield, N.J., said the plan is designed to serve two groups.

1. Those people who want to buy homes and who can afford the monthly charge, but who have been unable to save down payments. Among them are first-time buyers, the recently divorced, and former renters.

2. Investors who until now have had no institutionalized way of investing in the private home market, in which prices in recent years have outpaced inflation and many other invest-

WASHINGTON, D.C. - The House recently passed legislation that takes a major step toward energy independence for the United States, when my colleagues and I approved the Energy Security Act of 1980 by a margin of 317 to 93.

Commonly referred to as the "synfuels" bill, this act promotes research and development of numerous forms of alternate energy sources, aiding the U.S. in our effort to lessen dependence on foreign oil imports. The U.S. Synthetic Fuels Corporation (SFC), created by the legislation, will assist in the production of alcohol fuels, gasohol, solar energy, geothermal energy and various other types of badly needed synthetic fuels.

I have been working especially hard to secure government backing for alcohol fuels production and this bill provides for $1.45 billion in subsidies, through the departments of Agriculture and Energy, fuels produced from agricultural crops or crop residue as well as from various types of waste. The Congress has directed the SFC to work toward a 1982 production level of at least 60,000 barrels a day of alcohol. The goal for 1990 is for alcohol fuels to supply at least 10 percent of our nation's domestic gasoline consumption.

The total energy output goal for the synfuels program is the equivalent of no less than 500,000 barrels of crude oil a day by 1987. By 1992, the SFC should have aided development of alternate fuel sources to the point that they account for over 2 million barrels a day. Currently, the United States uses about 18 million barrels of oil per day, and of this approximately 7.5 million barrels are imported.

The federal government will be distributing loans, loan guarantees, price guarantees and purchase agreements to facilities that produce synfuels. Facilities that use agriculture and forestry resources to manufacture less than 15 million barrels of alcohol annually will be under the jurisdiction of the USDA, while most larger facilities will be overseen by DOE.

This far-reaching energy plan also provides government-subsidized loans to help cover the costs of installing solar heating equipment and making conservation improvements in residential or commercial buildings. In this way the government will be able to reward those who seek to make their homes more energy efficient as well as those who choose to use solar-powered electricity to heat and cool their structures.

With this energy bill, the Congress has finally begun to come to grips with the serious energy problems facing our country. By developing a wide range of alternate energy sources, we will lessen our dependence on the OPEC nations and others. As a result, the U.S. can begin once again to control our own energy future.

letters to editor

To The Daily News:

"Old soldiers never die; they just fade away. Or maybe some people just think so. Yes, Shirley, our veterans were mad. But most of all they were very hurt. Their mothers, fathers, wives, children, etc., were all hurt after what happened on the 4th of July, 1980, at the Scurry County Park in Snyder, Texas. On Independence Day, they were there and did a very good job.

But we have lived with it for years, of losing our loved ones who died or were left a cripple and never the same after giving their lives, living a life no one but they will ever know. To go out to fight our wars, they gave their all, so we all may live in a "free country." I have lived in Snyder all of my life. Now, I, too, am hurt that Snyder could do such a thing. Let's not blame our city, though. Let's blame just one man and he knows I know who he is.

So I told our Vets, next year, why even bother to show up to honor our men who gave their lives, or fly the flag, to walk proud in the parade? But our Vets are proud men. They will be there, no matter how mad, hurt or unhappy at what happens.

"Maybe to some people, "so what," or why make all of this such a big deal? People of Scurry County, have you lost a son, father, brother or husband? If you haven't, then maybe you don't care. But to the Vets and their families, no one will ever know how it hurts and always will, and it was to be an honor to the Vets and their families to be there to honor and carry our flag in the parade.

The people of Scurry County were there, they weren't going anywhere. They had all day to see the parade, etc.

So, couldn't they have waited just a few minutes more to start the parade?

To all of us on this one day, we as Vets and families, it is a day to honor our boys who have given their lives so we may live and to those who remain, they didn't get the chance to carry the flag high and proud in the parade to honor our country.

But knowing our Vets as I do, they will be there again and again, wherever it is, to carry our flag, to shoot the 21 Salute or anything else that needs to be done because they are courageous and honorable veterans now and forever, because they are men to be admired.

Common Sense Cooking

By RUTH McDANIEL

Dear Ruth,
I'm enclosing a stamped self-addressed envelope as I wondered if you had a recipe for making Marshmallows? I've heard there is one and if you have this recipe, could you send it to me?
Thank you.
Mrs. D., Palm Desert, Calif.

I sure enjoy your column in The Dairy World. Edie, Essex Junction, Vt.

Dear Readers,
I tried both of Edie's salad dressings and I commend them highly. Do try them. Note: There is no oil in either recipe. Ruth

Dear Mrs. D.,
I'm happy to send you this recipe for Home Made Marshmallows.

It comes from a Catholic Church Cookbook published in Wisconsin in the 1940's. It's the recipe submitted as the favorite treat of Sister Arnarda, the cook in the convent. I hope you'll enjoy it as much as our family has for many years. Ruth

HOME MADE MARSHMALLOWS

Boil 2 cups sugar and 1 cup water to soft ball stage.

Soak 2 Tbsp. gelatine (Knox) in 1/2 cup cold water; add to syrup mixture.

Cool slightly and add a speck of salt and 1 tsp. vanilla.

Beat until cold and thick. Pour out into pan 8"x8" thickly dusted with macaroon coconut - plain or toasted. Sprinkle some of the coconut on top and set in cool place to harden. Turn out cut into squares and roll sides in macaroon coconut. Powdered sugar may be used in place of macaroon coconut. Store in tin can.

Dear Ruth,
I'm sending you a couple of good salad dressing recipes. Since I got your recipe for making my own Sweetened Condensed Milk I can afford to make my favorite salad dressing as often as I please! It's wonderful for Cole Slaw or mixed with sour cream for potato salad. "Edie's Dressing" is my son-in-law's favorite. He'd never eat salad till he got a whiff of my dressing, and now he can't leave it alone!

FAVORITE SALAD DRESSING

Beat 2 eggs real well. Add 1 tsp. salt and 1 tsp. dry mustard. Beat well. Then add 1/2 cup melted butter or margarine (Let cool a bit before adding). Continue to beat.

Add 1 can Eagle Brand Milk or 1 recipe Ruth McDaniel's home made Sweetened Condensed Milk, and 1 cup vinegar. Add these very slowly continue to beat. The dressing will seem quite thin but will thicken as it stands. Refrigerate. If eggs are too cold, and butter too hot, the mixture may curdle. If this happens, set the bowl in a pan of hot water for a few minutes to remelt the butter, and stir.

EDIE'S DRESSING

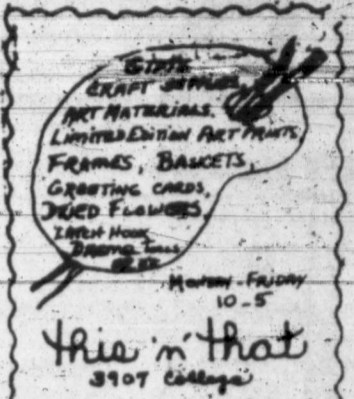

Fill a quart jar 2/3 full of white sugar. Add enough vinegar to dissolve (1 to 1 1/4 cup). When completely liquified, add just enough catsup to get the color you like.

Add: 2 slices onion
2 or 3 cloves garlic, cut
2 slices lemon

Let stand one week at room temperature. Shake every day. After a week, strain out the onion, lemon and garlic. Do not refrigerate. Note: If you warm the vinegar, it helps to dissolve the sugar. Very good on mixed greens.

After East cue bid three spades to show a void and an excellent hand interested in slam, West realized the ace of spades was a duplicated value in hearts, but good for defense in spades. He promptly doubled to warn East that his hand was unsuitable for any higher heart contracts.

West made what might be a good lead - his low trump. He hoped to gain the lead with his heart queen and continue spades, preventing declarer from scoring too many ruffs in dummy.

Unfortunately for the defense, declarer won the opening lead in dummy and immediately discarded a small heart on dummy's second high diamond. Declarer then led a small club from the table and won East's queen with the king. He returned another club which East won.

The fate of the contract hinged on East's return. West had played the eight and seven on the previous club leads to show an even number. East therefore knew declarer had started with four clubs, one diamond and probably six spades and two hearts.

East had to find an entry into partner's hand to lead more trumps. Accordingly, East underled his ace and king of hearts to West's queen. Ace and another trump finished declarer. South could ruff one club in the dummy, but at the end he had another club loser. Declarer lost one spade, one heart and two clubs.

West made an excellent decision to double four spades.

By Oswald Jacoby and Alan Sontag

Although North-South could easily defeat four hearts with a diamond lead, South was not looking at North's hand. He decided to take an inexpensive save in four spades, which might possibly make. This contract could only be defeated one trick. However, after the opening low trump lead, the defense had to work very hard to accomplish this.

West made an excellent decision to double four spades.

It's Either Buy Hay Or Sell...

Long Hot Summer Beefing Up Cattle Sales

By JANET PLUME
Associated Press Writer
OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)
The long, hot summer was beefing up sales at the world's largest stockyards this week as more cattle were expected to change hands in two days than normally do so during a heavy week.

When pasture land dries out and burns up, the rancher faces an extra cost of buying grain unless he decides to sell the animals early to feedlots. Feeding cattle, which should be sustaining themselves on pasture, can reduce a cattleman's gross profit considerably.

Heifers and steers normally are sold to feedlots when the animals range in age between 1 year and 14 months.

McGowan said the cattle sold to feedlots in the rush today "are all ready to go anyway" but admitted some of the stock might have been brought in prematurely.

He said the stockyards sales for the same two days the previous year were just over 22,000.

McGowan said the sudden surge in the cattle market this week does not indicate a crisis situation exists.

"If the weather stays like this another month, we'll have a real critical stress condition," said McGowan.

Other experts agree with McGowan. John Ikerd, a marketing economist at Oklahoma State University, said a sell-off could occur if the hot, dry weather continues. The sell-off could have an immediate effect of lower beef prices for consumers but less beef and higher prices in the future.

McGowan says that for now, "The market is good through. Prices have and has held all the way stayed real steady."

Also-Rans Get Personal Calls

By TOM RAUM
Associated Press Writer
DETROIT (AP)—Republican presidential nominee Ronald Reagan, after his dramatic turnabout selection of George Bush as his running mate, telephoned the vice presidential also-runs early today and prepared to accept his party's banner.

The nomination of Bush and delivery of acceptance speeches by the two candidates tonight were to wrap up the 1980 Republican convention and formally send the Reagan-Bush ticket off to battle the Democrats and their almost assured nominees—President Carter and Vice President Walter F. Mondale.

At a news conference today, Reagan was to present formally the new campaign partnership, a union formed Thursday night soon after the collapse of efforts to draft Reagan's first choice, former President Gerald R. Ford.

But the event may seem anti-climactic because the former film star upstaged himself by making an unscheduled post-midnight visit to the Joe Louis Arena to proclaim his selection of Bush from the convention podium to roars of approval from thousands in the hall.

He returned by motorcade to the Detroit Plaza Hotel through streets lined with cheering spectators, many waving "Reagan-Bush" signs. Then he sat alone in a room of his 69th floor suite and telephoned some on the list of those he had also considered for the job.

It was not immediately known how many of the eight or so he was able to reach—or if one of the calls went to Ford in the suite one floor up.

Although Reagan strategists originally planned to wait until today for the vice presidential announcement, mushrooming speculation that Ford would join the ticket, followed by the disintegration of actual negotiations for such a team, prompted the early announcement.

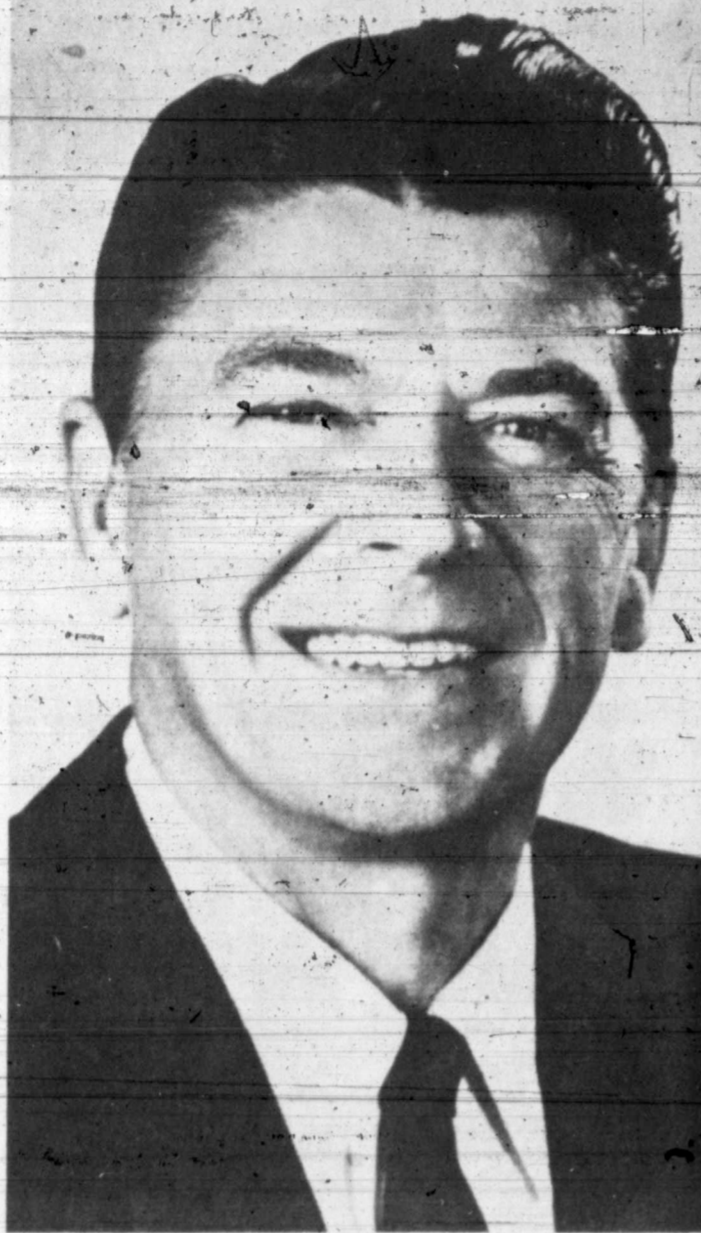

"We thought it would be a good thing to lay it all out at once," said Reagan's press secretary, Lyn Nofziger.

Nofziger said there's a good chance that Reagan and Bush will embark on a whirlwind two-day campaign tour this weekend, including a stop in Houston where Bush lives.

Bush, 55, a former United Nations ambassador and CIA director, is clearly a popular choice with the nearly 4,000 delegates and alternates, many of whom were originally Bush delegates before he dropped out of the race and released them.

However, the choice seemed likely to draw fire from right wing delegates, who consider Bush too liberal for the ticket.

Reagan strategists saw Bush offering balance to the ticket both geographically and politically. Although Bush now lives in Texas, his roots are in Connecticut.

GEORGE BUSH
...Tenacity pays off

Bush Survives Wildest Day In Political Arena

By Lawrence L. Knutson
Associated Press Writer
DETROIT (AP)—George Bush, survivor of one of the wildest one-day roller coaster rides in political history, opens a new career as Ronald Reagan's running mate vowing to "work, work, work" for the Californian's election.

Bush, who several times on Wednesday thought that he had been pushed off stage by former President Gerald R. Ford, planned to hold a joint news conference with Reagan today to discuss the coming campaign.

Bush learned Reagan had chosen him in a phone call from the former California governor just before Reagan himself went to the Republican National Convention to receive his own nomination as the GOP presidential candidate.

Then Reagan announced to the delegates, still stunned that Ford was not being chosen, that he would ask them to approve Bush's nomination for the No. 2 spot at their final session tonight.

The former U.N. ambassador and CIA director was Reagan's longest lasting, most formidable competitor in the primary campaign and their policies differed in some respects.

The Reagan philosophy is nailed into the 1980 GOP platform which does not endorse the Equal Rights Amendment.

Bush, who among other things is an ERA supporter, said he told Reagan that "I would do what all Republicans should do, enthusiastically support this platform."

"I told him I will work, work, work for his election," Bush said.

"If the convention does what he has asked them to do, I will be an enthusiastic running mate."

Bush told reporters that after the events of the day, the offer of the nomination left him "totally surprised."

He said it came "out of a clear blue sky."

But why should he have been surprised when he had been an obvious front runner for weeks, when reports as late as Wednesday morning had the Reagan camp 95 percent decided on Bush.

It was the Ford factor, Bush replied. Ford had been asked to take the job before. He had declined. He had repeatedly said he was not interested. He said his residency in California, Reagan's home state, disqualified him under the Constitution.

But by late Wednesday afternoon Ford was reconsidering. The Ford and Reagan staffs were in negotiations. Ford was said to be seeking terms. Members of Congress close to both men said Ford was Reagan's first and only choice.

Threatened By A Water Crisis

GRAFORD (AP)—The well is about to run dry again in this small North Texas town that ran out of water three months ago. The watershed for the community's reservoir is "about 14 inches below normal rainfall" and water is being used faster than expected due to the scorching summer heat, said City Secretary Arlene Howard on Wednesday.

Town officials are awaiting approval of a Farmers Home Administration loan and grant to build a new dam and reservoir on the Keechi Creek.

The negotiations collapsed. The deal fell through. At 11:37 p.m. Reagan called Bush. He made the offer. Bush accepted.

The phone call and Reagan's announcement of it triggered pandemonium on the convention floor and in the hotel rooms housing the Bush family, friends and staff members.

There were hugs, kisses, handshakes, slaps on the back, shouts and squeals of excitement.

"What an up-and-down seesaw," a supporter said.

Ms. Howard said the town, about 45 miles northeast of Fort Worth, has "enough water for maybe three weeks and then we'll have to start hauling again."

The town's 600 residents in late April and early May used water hauled from nearby communities in milk trucks donated by local businesses.

King Henry VIII of England died in 1547.

Reaction Mixed In Texas Camp

By GARTH JONES
Associated Press Writer
DETROIT (AP)—Texas supporters of George Bush celebrated until the wee hours today, but there were also less-cheerful headaches among some veteran Ronald Reagan campaigners.

Reagan's surprise revelation that Bush had been picked as his running mate stunned many of the 80-member delegation. Rumors until late Thursday night favored former President Gerald Ford who had been recommended to Reagan by Gov. Bill Clements.

Clements left immediately following the convention session for a yacht trip. An aide said he appeared surprised and called a morning news conference to comment on the Reagan-Bush ticket.

Sen. John Tower, R-Texas, gleefully said he had recommended Bush to Reagan Tuesday as his first choice for the vice presidential nomination.

Reaction to Reagan's choice of a running mate, which will be voted on by the convention tonight, added to the elation of Texans over the selection of Reagan as the GOP nominee.

"I am one happy woman," said Naomi Andrews, Houston, one of the delegation's few black members. "This will help me sell Reagan to the minorities in Houston. It gives the party a broader base."

However, Bruce McDougal, a Duncanville delegate, was not so pleased.

"I was very disappointed at the selection but I will not shrink from my duty to work for the ticket," he said. "Mr. Carter is just too grim to stomach. Now I have to go home and explain Mr. Bush to my friends. We have some real frazzled unity."

"I'm satisfied," said Jim Farr, Uyalde. "Bush is a good man, no doubt about that. Of course I am accepting Mr. Reagan's statement that Bush said he would follow the platform."

Roy Barnhart, Pasadena, former state chairman and long-time Reagan conservative, displayed a "Reagan-Bush" button he bought after leaving the hall. "I think it will work out," he said. "George is a very capable guy."

"I have been a longtime worker for Reagan but if he says George Bush is going to back him up then I'm going to work for the ticket," said Dr. Paul Laird, Irving. "This team is going to win."

"I was so upset I walked back to the hotel instead of riding the bus," said San Antonio City Councilman Van Archer. "By the time I got here I decided there are possibilities there for a good ticket. Bush is a good team player."

Texas' 80 votes were cast for Reagan's nomination, but came after he had enough support for the nomination.

"I'm so proud I probably will cry," said delegate Jeannie Turk, Sour Lake.

"Reagan will not only be great for America but also for all the free world. I get real emotional over him."

"There's no question the right man has been chosen for our nominee," said alternate delegate Robert Paxton of Midland. "We'll really be celebrating."

"I'm very elated," said Katrina Stone, alternate from Corpus Christi. "Four years is a long time."

The Spanish artist Francisco Goya often painted portraits in one or two hours, and virtually each one is considered a masterpiece.

Supreme Court Upholds Family Code Provision

AUSTIN (AP)—Texas law makes it hard for an unwed father to obtain parental rights to his illegitimate child, and the State Supreme Court says that is the way it should be.

In a 6-3 decision, the court said Family Code provisions on voluntary legitimation of children do not unconstitutionally discriminate against men.

The court minority, led by Justice Zollicoffer, argued the provisions violate the Equal Rights Amendment that was added to the Texas Constitution in 1972.

Under the Family Code, an unwed father may be recognized legally as his child's parent only if the mother consents and a court finds legitimation would be in the best interest of the child.

The issue arose when Catholic Charities of the Diocese of Galveston-Houston, which operates a home for unwed mothers, filed a routine suit to clear the way for adoption of an illegitimate baby.

The baby's 14-year-old mother consented to the suit to terminate her parent-child relationship and had agreed to put the baby up for adoption.

But the baby's 19-year-old biological father filed his own suit to gain custody of the baby, identified only as T.E.T., and to have her declared his legitimate offspring.

A Houston trial court and the 10th Court of Civil Appeals in Waco ruled against the young man, and he appealed to the Supreme Court.

The father contended or appeal the state law requiring the mother's consent as well as a finding that his parenthood would be in the child's best interest unconstitutionally discriminated on the basis of sex.

Mothers face no such requirements.

"The state has a valid objective in requiring the biological father to establish his 'status' as a parent. Otherwise, we would recognize a sperm donor, a rapist, a 'hit and run' lover, an adulterer, and the like in the same legal status as a father who had accepted the legal and moral commitment to his family," the court said.

A mother automatically is responsible for a child, the court said, and an unwed mother's wishes for its care should not be subject to the absolute veto of the biological father.

Believes Anthrax Is Under Control

UVALDE (AP)—A veterinarian is optimistic that a "sporadic outbreak" of deadly anthrax has been brought under control and will be confined to the Concan area in north Uvalde County.

Dr. Dusty Huddleston, active in combatting the virulent disease since it was first discovered two weeks ago, said Wednesday area ranchers had quickly vaccinated their cattle against anthrax when presence of the disease became known. "In a few more days we'll know," Huddleston said.

He said anthrax had cropped up from time to time in the area since the 1930s, but this was the first outbreak in recent years.

"Most owners already have vaccinated and I hope that's the end to it. It's a sporadic outbreak. All the cases have been localized around Concan. We hope it stays that way," the veterinarian said.

However, Uvalde County agriculture extension agent Darrell Smith said he was worried that the deer population could be affected by the disease which is carried by horseflies and affects all animals, including man.

"Deer cannot be vaccinated," Smith noted. "Anthrax generally is fatal to animals within 24 hours, but Huddleston said it shows up as 'more of a skin problem' in humans and that human beings can be treated effectively with penicillin. He said the danger to humans was inhaling the bacteria, which he termed highly unlikely.

Humans could contract anthrax by being bitten by infected horseflies or coming into contact with a diseased animal, such as in the skinning process, he said.

Huddleston said anthrax was confirmed in the deaths of four cattle, a mule, two horses and one deer in the Concan area, but that "there are probably some others that we're not sure of."

The veterinarian said he was optimistic the outbreak would be contained because cattle were vaccinated and because deer tend to forage in the same area, not roaming far from their breeding grounds.

Stacy Dam Permit Faces New Delay

The Stacy reservoir permit of the Colorado River Municipal Water District has encountered another judicial snag.

The Court of Civil Appeals in Austin has granted an extension of time to the lower Colorado River Authority, one of the protestants, to file its appeal brief. The deadline was to have been July 2, but when one of the LCRA attorneys pleaded a severe backache made it impossible to prepare, the Court extended the deadline for the brief to September 2. The CRMWD then would have until October 15 to file its brief.

Frank Booth, attorney for GRMWD, protested the motion to extend the deadlines, and, on the contrary, filed a motion for the appeals court to expedite the matter. In the meantime, the CRMWD is continuing to take concrete steps toward the Stacy dam project by core borings at the site of the dam and having a scale model of the proposed dam to be constructed and tested at Colorado State University.

Comptroller To Send Agent Here

AUSTIN (AP)—Comptroller Bob Bullock announced he is sending a representative from his Abilene office to Snyder on July 23 to assist local taxpayers and answer questions about state taxes.

Bullock said Enforcement Officer Royce Manning will meet with local taxpayers at the Scurry County courthouse jury room from 1 p.m. until 3 p.m.

"If Snyder area merchants, or anyone else for that matter, have any questions about state taxes or need help in preparing tax forms, Royce Manning will be there to assist them," Bullock said.

"We're trying to cut the red tape in this office and we believe these fact-to-face sessions with taxpayers help do just that," Bullock added.

Bullock reminded those taxpayers who are unable to meet with his represen-

High triglyceride level

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — My husband was recently informed by his doctor after a blood test that his triglyceride level was 531. The doctor said that normal was between 30 and 150. He is only 25 years old and otherwise quite healthy.

Can you tell me a little bit about this? What would have eventually happened if we did not discover this? His doctor told him not to eat milk products. What else should he avoid? What caused this?

DEAR READER — Triglyceride really means fat. A triglyceride test is a measurement of the amount of fat in your bloodstream.

Doctors change their minds from time to time depending upon available research data about different blood measurements. That's certainly true of triglycerides. A number of years ago many heart specialists thought that an elevated triglyceride was extremely important. Today it's not regarded to be such an important factor in causing fatty-cholesterol deposits that lead to heart attacks and strokes. That's particularly true if high triglycerides is the only abnormality. Now if it's found along with a high cholesterol level or other abnormalities, then its meaning is more significant.

A lot of the concepts about cholesterol and triglycerides have changed in recent years. It's now generally accepted that some people have "good" cholesterol as well as "bad" cholesterol. The good cholesterol is supposed to be in small fatty particles and the bad cholesterol is carried in larger fatty particles in the bloodstream.

Now I know that's rather complicated but I've simplified it in a longer discussion in The Health Letter number 15-2, Understanding Your Cholesterol, Triglycerides and Other Blood Fats. I'm sending you a copy. Other readers who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Send your request to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

A common cause for high triglyceride levels is being overweight. Elimination of excess body fat frequently will lower the triglyceride (blood fat) level. It follows that properly used exercise and a low-fat, low-cholesterol diet that helps eliminate body fat are both useful.

It's important for your husband to know what his cholesterol level is and it may be important because of his elevated triglycerides to know whether he has a good ratio between the "good" and "bad" cholesterol. Some people who have high cholesterol levels are not really so susceptible to heart attacks as others because they have a large amount of "good" cholesterol.

Brief Showers Bring Little Relief

By C.W. MIRANKER-Associated Press Writer

Brief downpours brought a few degrees of relief to a half-dozen dry, hot states, but a deadly heat wave still gripped the South, Southwest and Midwest and pushed northward to raise its death toll past 800.

The mercury reached 99 degrees Wednesday in New York City, where one man was reported to have died from the heat. And in Washington, where government workers sweltered in 103-degree temperatures, the National Weather Service issued a 30-day forecast predicting above-normal temperatures and only light rainfall across most of the country through mid-August.

The unrelenting heat has caused at least 840 deaths in 19 states, according to an unofficial tally by The Associated Press.

The loss to farmers has topped $2 billion, with poultry, livestock, corn, hay, grain sorghum, soybeans, wheat, tobacco and peanuts all suffering from the three-week-long heat wave and a severe dry spell from Texas to the Dakotas.

Southern and central Alabama got some relief from the heat Wednesday as thunderstorms produced heavy rain and gusty winds. Montgomery had 100-degree heat before a thundershower pushed the mercury down to 75 degrees.

But temperatures reached 105 degrees in Birmingham and Muscle Shoals, 104 in Pinson, 103 in Tuscaloosa and 101 in Gadsden and Mobile.

Youths cooling themselves in open fire hydrants in Mobile pelted police with bottles and rocks when officers turned off the hydrants. Hundreds of open hydrants had drained the city's water pressure, jeopardizing supplies for National Guardsmen arriving at fire stations because of a city strike.

In Illinois, the governor asked heat-relief centers to remain open as temperatures rose to 105 degrees in Centralia and 96 in Springfield. At the Menard Correctional Center near Chester, prison officials bought 20,000 pounds of Gatorade concentrate to give to inmates who are suffering from heat and lack of air-conditioning. The drink is advertised as a solution that helps replace body fluid. Two recent inmate deaths have been blamed on heat at Menard and a third has been said to be heat-related.

Gov. James R. Thompson asked the state's Department on Aging to keep its air-conditioned senior citizen nutrition centers open as shelters from the heat.

It was 104 degrees at Gage, and 109 in Tulsa.

Winds Fell Powerlines

By The Associated Press

Thunderstorms and winds gusting over 100 mph hit Michigan, Illinois, Delaware and Wisconsin, while blistering heat ravaged the South, Midwest and Southwest.

Winds up to 112 mph downed power lines in Eau Claire, Wis., and residents there may be without electricity for a week. Thousands of people also were without electricity in Michigan and Chicago.

A utility worker was electrocuted in Delaware as he tried to clear a fallen tree from a road. A 9-year-old Michigan boy was crushed to death when a tree blew onto his Hemlock Island home.

Storms also swept from the southern and central Rockies into the central Plains, with thundershowers in the mid-Ohio Valley, the northern and central Appalachians and New England. Thundershowers also were scattered from southern Louisiana across the eastern Gulf Coast and Florida.

The death toll from the three-week-old heat wave neared 850.

In Illinois, Menard Correctional Center officials bought 10 tons of Gatorade for inmates suffering from heat and lack of air conditioning. At least two inmate deaths have been blamed on heat at Menard.

Temperatures around the nation at 3 a.m. EDT ranged from 52 degrees in Bellingham, Wash., to 100 degrees in Blythe, Calif.

Preliminary Census Figures Produce Protests

By LEIGH SHIRLEY
Associated Press Writer
Many are surprised, a few are angry, but most Texas city administrators are just plain bemused by the U.S. Census Bureau's preliminary results, trickling in across the state.

"We don't want to complain, but..." said several city officials, who claim there are major discrepancies between their own head-counts and figures provided by the census.

They said they "hated to criticize," but criticize they did, with most complaints hinging on federal figures for vacancy rates — residences that were unoccupied for any reason when a census taker dropped by.

Most officials said that census workers did not put enough effort into rechecking such homes, and results were consistently too high.

A census official said cities have a 10-day grace period in which to file any complaints, but that the period can be extended if the city has a serious problem with the preliminary findings.

"We allow a little more time if there seems to be a serious discrepancy," said Al Mirabel at the bureau's regional office in Dallas.

But Wichita Falls city planner Roger McKinney said when administrators approached census bureau officials with a request for extra time, they were refused.

McKinney theorized that census officials miscalculated many homes in the city that were either destroyed or heavily damaged by last year's killer tornado.

"Many households were missed, for one reason or another," he said. "There are a lot of houses under construction and a lot of people living elsewhere temporarily because of the disaster last year."

Wichita Falls, one of the first cities to receive preliminary results, filed their complaint Friday with the Abilene Census Bureau, in charge of their district.

"Ten days just wasn't enough time to thoroughly investigate the problem," McKinney said. "But they told us that we had to stick to the time limit in order to keep within their time scheme."

"In our city, the bureau indicated an area to the north that they totally missed the first go around," he said. "And we provided them with information that showed a higher population and lower vacancy rate than they first estimated."

For Wichita Falls, the bureau's vacancy rate estimate was 12 percent compared to a city estimate of 6 percent.

"They also estimated our total population figure showing a decrease at 92,000 compared to the 1970 figure of 96,000,"

McKinney said. "That's just not right. Our estimates are more around 103,000 to 107,000."

The Census Bureau will now spend 45 days on the review process for Wichita Falls, McKinney said.

City officials in Amarillo and Waco said they "basically" agree with the census bureau's findings, except in the area of vacancy rates.

"We think the number was fairly reasonable and basically correct, except for their estimate on the vacancy rate," said John Ward, Amarillo assistant city manager.

"The 8 percent vacancy rate estimated by the bureau was low enough to set our total population down to 145,395, compared to our estimate of 154,000," he said. "We do intend to challenge that one area."

In Waco, city administrators thought the housing count was "very accurate," said Derwood Ringo, director of planning.

"Our figures indicate that they came up with some high vacancy rates in some areas, around 7.3 percent total," he said. "Their population figure was 97,791 — not way off, but about 5 to 10 percent low," he said.

"This census is much fairer than the 1970 census," Ringo said.

"In 1970 city officials had no input into the system and all city administrators could do was stand back and scream a lot."

"At least now we have the opportunity to prove it if we think they are wrong," Ringo said.

In San Antonio, Mayor Lila Cockrell already has taken steps to challenge the preliminary findings considered lower than her own staff estimates, jeopardizing San Antonio's chance at replacing San Diego, Calif., as the ninth largest city in the United States.

The census set San Antonio's population at 747,868, a 14 percent increase over the last count. Cockrell indicated that the federal figures were wrong and the city had obtained an extension of the time limit to investigate and file a formal complaint.

Smaller Texas cities and towns, however, seem to be creating the biggest fuss over the preliminary federal results.

Temple administrators, who claim their city is growing by leaps and bounds, greeted the census results with "absolute wonderment."

"Everything was low. We've documented 1,700 residence that they just totally missed," said City Manager Barney Knight. "Their findings revealed that Temple had 1,400 residences vacant. And the way this city is growing, the only reason they are vacant is because one's moved out and another is getting ready to move in."

Federal figures showed Temple's population at 41,468, just above figures that the city estimated for the 1976 population.

"We've grown since then, of course," Knight said. "From a very extensive survey done by the city we can document up to 46,000."

Pampa, a small West Texas town near Amarillo, also had a bone to pick with the federal head-counters.

"We were unpleasantly surprised at the figures, to say the least," said Mac Wolford, city manager.

"They were way, way off," he said. "According to their figures our population has decreased by 5.7 percent from 1970 to 1980."

"So why are houses and apartment complexes going up and being bought and leased?" he said. "They totally missed a 1978 annex to the city, and we have been assured that this figure will be included in the next results."

Federal figures indicated Pampa's total population at 20,497, more than 4,000 people less than in 1970.

"Our estimates show a total population of around 26,000," Wolford said.

East Texas cities, such as Lufkin, Tyler, and Longview are still anxiously awaiting the news, as are the state's two largest areas, Houston and the Dallas-Fort Worth area.

4 Arrests In Slaying

GARLAND (AP)—Four persons, including a 16-year-old juvenile, have been arrested in the rape-slaying last weekend of a pregnant teenager whose nude body was found in an alley near her home, Garland police say.

Garland Police spokesman John Hamilton identified those arrested as James Earl Miles, 19, James Earl Duckett, 19, Derwin K. Douglas, 20, and the juvenile.

Municipal Court Judge Randall Grubbs arraigned the adults Wednesday and set bond at $150,000 each. The adults remained in jail in lieu of bond and the juvenile was in custody of juvenile authorities today.

Officers said Cynthia Lynn Lowery, 18, was raped and strangled last Saturday night. She was last seen walking about 10 blocks between her sister's home and her home in this Dallas suburb.

Ms. Lowery's body was found early Sunday, about four hours after she left her sister's home, officers said.

The woman had been beaten, raped and strangled, a spokesman for the Dallas County medical examiner's office said. They said the cause of death was a head injury and strangulation. She was six months pregnant, the spokesman said.

Hamilton credited a person who lived near the crime scene with providing information about the case.

Stand-In For Defense Lands In The Slammer

BARTOW, Fla. (AP)—Jeffrey Streeter, 19, swears he'll never do another favor for a stranger. His last favor landed him in jail after he stood in for the defendant in an assault trial and was found guilty.

"And I'm afraid it's not over for me yet. They could send me back and make me serve time," the Haines City youth said.

Streeter was recruited to stand in for the real defendant in an assault and battery case by a defense attorney who said he wanted to prove witnesses could not identify the attacker.

"It was a real shock when I got convicted and sent to jail," Streeter said after he was released on his own recognizance Wednesday. "I told them I wasn't the real defendant, but they wouldn't believe me."

It was Streeter's first time behind bars, he says, and he didn't like it one bit. "I'm never going to stick my nose in anything again. No more favors. Never."

The switch occurred Tuesday as attorney Warren Dawson represented Lee Marvin Anderson in a non-jury trial before Polk County Judge Edward Threadgill on charges of assault, battery and resisting arrest in the beating of a 67-year-old man.

"I doubted the witnesses knew who Lee Marvin Anderson really was," Dawson said. He found Streeter in the corridor of the courthouse and asked him to sit in when Anderson's case was called. Streeter said he agreed after Dawson assured him he couldn't get in any trouble.

According to testimony, the assailant was angry that Francis Garrell's car was parked too close to his own and knocked Garrell down.

Threadgill, who was unaware of the switch, found Streeter guilty of battery, sent him to jail and called for a presentence investigation. Possible penalties range from probation to one year in jail.

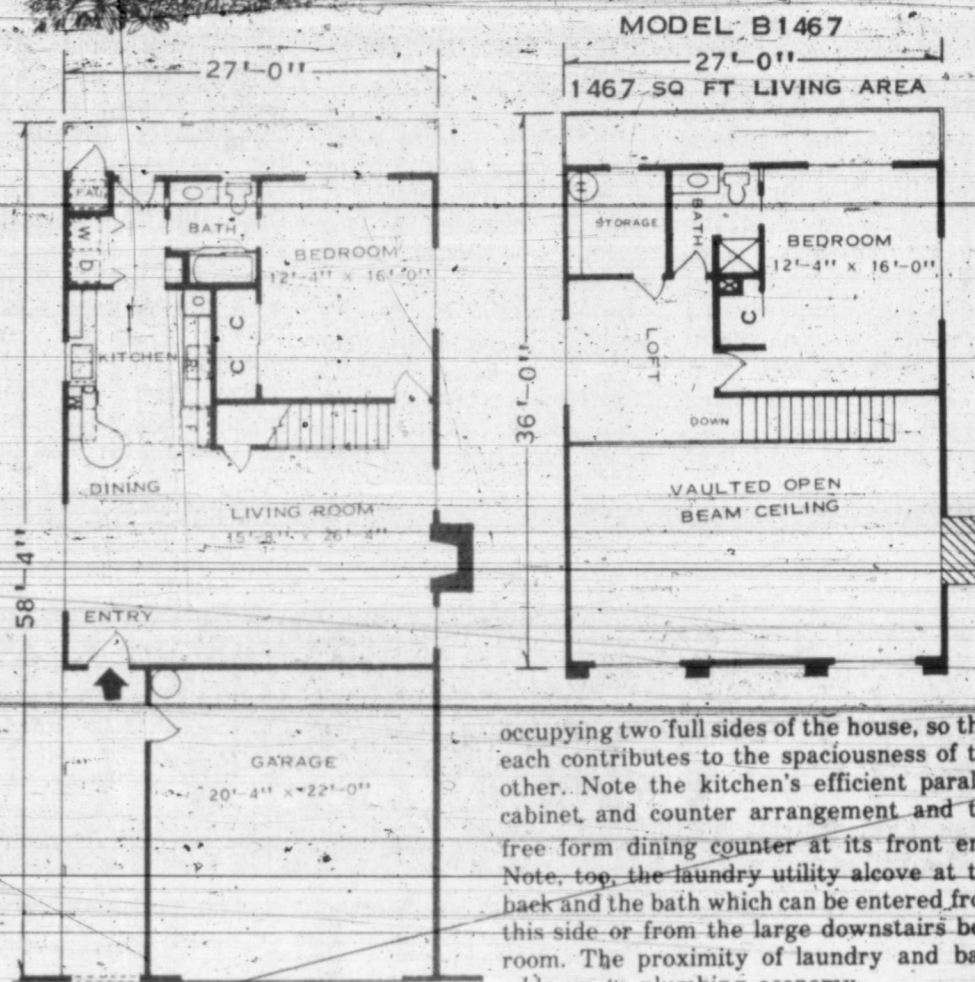

Streeter and Anderson are both black. Garrell said there were few blacks in Johnstown, Pa., where he worked before retiring to Florida.

"Since he was sitting at the defense table I just assumed that was the man," Garrell said Wednesday. "So did everybody else. If they had the real man up there I couldn't be certain I could identify him. It happened three months ago and it was getting dusk."

Dawson says that was his point — witnesses tend to identify the person sitting at the defense table. He said he rose after the identification to tell of the switch and brought Anderson forward.

By Larry Farnsworth

This lavishly-glassed, peak roof house is attractive to look at and provides a beautiful home that deserves the loveliest setting you can find for it.

The house is entered from a porch that has exciting decorating-planting potential. Enter into the tremendous living room spanning the front of the house and has a fine fireplace with a raised hearth for extra indoor living pleasure.

Open planning creates an interesting gigantic L of the living room and kitchen.

occupying two full sides of the house, so that each contributes to the spaciousness of the other. Note the kitchen's efficient parallel cabinet and counter arrangement and the free-form dining counter at its front end. Note, too, the laundry utility alcove at the back and the bath which can be entered from this side or from the large downstairs bedroom. The proximity of laundry and bath adds up to plumbing economy.

A basement option plan enters the staircase at the entry closet and runs under the existing staircase.

Upstairs a second-bedroom and second bath are located. There is also a large storage room and a loft which overlooks the entire living room and offers endless possibilities for TV, wet bar, hobby center or private library and lounge.

Liar's Bench Has Warm Place In Town's Heart

By JULES LOH

AP Special Correspondent CINCERO, Ind. (AP)—The bench on the sidewalk in front of Dudley Purkey's barber shop seats 10 comfortably. It is a sturdy old bench, once a church pew.

In small-town America, such sidewalk benches often earn titles of fond disrespect — loafers' bench, usually.

In Cicero, a town of 1,400, it is celebrated as the liars' bench, and it is as familiar a landmark as the post office or the firehouse. Tell someone to meet you at the liars' bench, he will know just where you mean.

"It is a last remnant of neighborliness," Dudley Purkey said.

"Nowadays," he said, "people lock themselves inside their air-conditioned mobile homes and never come out to visit."

FRAVIS FLOWERS
1912 37th

"In Cicero, the liars' bench is where the men-folk gather to say good morning, to start the day reassured that nothing much in their lives has changed.

On lazy afternoons, the liars' bench is a place to doze with the newspaper, a main street sanctuary.

On soft summer evenings, Dudley Purkey often has to drag a dozen extra chairs out of the barber shop to accommodate the men and ladies, oldtimers mostly, who wander down to the liars' bench to visit and chat about how the world was before it got in such an all-fired hurry.

Dudley Purkey, for his part, is seldom in a hurry. He always has time to visit. It goes with the haircut.

He has been Cicero's barber for 58 years, ever since he graduated to the barber chair from the shoe-shine chair. Not much that has gone on in town over the years has escaped his notice.

"We've had a lot of fun with that bench," he was saying the other day. "It has quite a history, you know."

"That one is not the first liars' bench. It's the second. The first met with a great disaster, the worst disaster in Cicero since they removed the town drinking fountain.

"The first bench was a pew from the old Christian Church, which was built in 1935. I got it when they put new seats in the church. Paid $5 for it. It was made of poplar and was better than 100 years old when I got it. You could still see the carpenter's plane marks.

"The bench stayed outside for many years, until 1977. That's when the disaster happened.

"During the blizzard of '77 they decided to plow the sidewalk. The plow hit the bench and busted it beyond repair. I felt sorry for the boy driving the plow, he was so full of remorse.

"Well, a town needs a liars' bench."

"When word got out the following spring what had happened, a woman over at Fishers called and said she had an old pew she would let us have. That's the one you see there now."

"It would be mighty hard to go through a summer in Cicero without a liars' bench."

And that's the truth.

Saban Reported Ready To Quit At West Point

By Herschel Nissenson AP Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—Disillusioned by unkept promises and frustrated by West Point's notorious red tape, Lou Saban, re-builder of moribund football programs, apparently has quit yet another job after one dismal season.

A formal announcement was expected today after a meeting between Saban and Lt. Gen. Andrew J. Goodpaster, superintendent of the U.S. Military Academy, but The Associated Press learned Wednesday night that Saban has submitted a letter of resignation to Col. Charles Johnson, Army's interim director of athletics.

Bob Kinney, Army's sports information director, said the letter "indicated a desire to resign." Efforts to reach Saban were unsuccessful.

Hired away from the University of Miami, the 58-year-old Saban came to West Point with a reputation as a confirmed job hopper, having held nine previous head coaching positions since 1950. "It bothers me to be called a quitter, but a man must do what he thinks is right," he said. "It didn't take long for Saban to sour on West Point, although he said he hoped to stay at the academy 'until they put me to pasture.'"

His remarks on Army's outlook became gloomier week by week. "I'm locked in. It's an impossible situation," he said last November at the end of a dismal 2-8-1 season. "You can't win without the tools."

"In this situation, I'm not sure I can see daylight." It was known that Saban did not get as much daily practice time as he wanted, nor was a weight room designated off-limits to anyone but football players. One of the few concessions he obtained was taking the team to a Miami before coming to West Point.

before a home game. A pro star with the Cleveland Browns, Saban was head coach at Case Institute from 1950-52. After a year as an assistant at both Washington and Northwestern, he became Northwestern's head coach in 1955. He spent 1956 in private business but returned to coaching at Western Illinois from 1957-59.

Saban coached the Boston Patriots of the American Football League in 1960-61 and moved to the Buffalo Bills from 1962-65, winning two AFL crowns. After a year back in the college ranks at Maryland, he coached the Denver Broncos of the National Football League from 1967-71 before a second tour of duty with the Bills from 1972-76. Saban then spent two years at Miami before coming to West Point.

WTC Set For 4th Tourney

The field is already more than half filled for the Fourth Annual Western Texas College Partnership Golf Tournament, Coach Bob O'Day reported today. The tournament is set for July 26-27 and the entry deadline is Wednesday, July 23. The field will be limited to 64 teams, and 34 already had signed this morning.

The entry fee is $70 per team and those wishing to enter may call O'Day or Barbara Weaver at the WTC pro shop, 573-9291. The cart fee for two days is $21.

First prize will be irons, second prize will be woods, while third and fourth prizes will be golf balls.

There will be a shotgun start each day at 9 a.m. and 2 p.m. with four flights. The flights will be designated following the first round of play Saturday.

A free barbecue will be held for entrants at 7 p.m. Saturday, with a fee of $5 for each guest. On Sunday, the second and third flights will tee up at 9 a.m. and the championship and first flights at 2 p.m.

The defending champions, Mike Waller and Britt Lindsey of Midland, who have won the event two years in a row, are expected to try for a third title. Both are former WTC golfers. O'Day said ex-WTC athletes along with other top-flight players over the region make the tournament one of the strongest partnership events in West Texas.

Pokes, Chargers Hold Scrimmage

THOUSAND OAKS, Calif. (AP)—Dallas Cowboys rookies, free agents and second-year players travel to Irvine, Calif., today for a scrimmage with San Diego Chargers rookies.

Quarterbacks, receivers, running backs, linebackers and defensive backs will make the trip, while the rest of the squad runs through drills here, team officials said Wednesday.

Veteran quarterbacks and receivers arrive Sunday for workouts.

Snyder LL Faces Rotan

Snyder's Little League All-Stars hope to get another shot at Hamlin in the playoffs, but to do so, they must oust Rotan tonight.

Hamlin edged Snyder, 7-5 in the opening round, but Snyder came back to down Stonewall-Kent, 16-8, and remain in the race. The winner in Rotan tonight will face Hamlin tomorrow night for the right to advance another notch in the playoffs. Tonight's game will begin at 8 p.m.

Volleyball Star In San Antonio

SAN ANTONIO—Billie Owens of Snyder will be playing for the West All-Star Volleyball Team for the Texas High School Girls Coaching Association in a game here Friday. Action will begin at 8 p.m. in the Blossom Athletic Center.

Joyce Elrod, girls volleyball coach, accompanied Ms. Owens on the trip.

Earlier this year, Ms. Owens was named to the all-region and all-state volleyball teams.

Tom Watson Hoping To Break On Top

MUIRFIELD, Scotland (AP)—Tom Watson, the top U.S. open in the 109th British Open Golf championship, says when today's first round is over the only place to be was out front and taking the pressure.

"I want to be in the lead in every round. That's the only way to be a winner," said Watson, who with Jack Nicklaus is co-favorite to carry off the world's oldest and most revered golf title.

A field of 151 is contesting the championship over the 6,926-yard, par 71 Muirfield links set beside the windswept waters of the Firth of Forth in the east of Scotland.

Watson made clear he is no subscriber to the theory of tucking in behind the leaders and saving the crucial charge for a later round.

"I don't agree with players who talk like that," said the 30-year-old two-time winner of the British Open, and leading money winner on the U.S. pro tour since 1977.

"If you're in the lead, you can afford to make a mistake. I'm not saying I don't feel pressure. It affects everyone. In my case, it makes me speed up a little bit."

Roberts Doubts He Will Return

ARLINGTON, Texas (AP)—Dave Roberts says he is happy about the contributions he's made to the Texas Rangers this season, but added that this probably will be his last year with the team.

Roberts, who has seen only spot duty this season, has 22 hits and 19 runs batted in, including three on a fourth-inning homer that led Texas to an 11-3 rout of the Chicago White Sox Wednesday night.

The 6-4, 200-pound athlete was one of the nation's top collegians at the University of Oregon, where he made the 1972 All-America team with a .410 batting average. He was in the San Diego lineup the same-day the Padres signed him in June of 1972.

He came last year to Texas, and manager Pat Corrales said Roberts can play eight of the nine positions, all but pitcher.

Because he is so versatile, Roberts has been highly sought by other major league teams.

But he doesn't like that role.

"I want to be a regular catcher. That's the position I want to play, but there's not much chance of that happening here. Suany (Jim Sundberg) is the catcher, and he's earned it," the 29-year-old Roberts said.

"I am content in the role I'm currently in. However, I will say I don't want to finish up my career as a utility player," he added.

As a sixth-year player, Roberts will be able to declare himself a free agent after this season and sign elsewhere.

He has the leading home run ratio on the team, with a round-tripper on the average of every 17.2 trips to the plate.

Due To Heat Wave...

Brown Says Ag Losses Could Exceed $1 Billion

AUSTIN (AP) — Updated assessments of crop and livestock damage in Texas, as due to the current heat wave indicate last week's $1 billion loss estimate was conservative, Texas Agriculture Commissioner Reagan Brown said today.

"The situation is growing steadily worse," said a release from Brown.

The Texas Crop and Livestock Reporting Service says new growth on ranges and pastures is almost non-existent and the quality of existing forage is poor.

The hardest hit areas include Southwest, South and North Texas, and the Hill Country, Brown said.

"Range conditions are estimated to be from 50-60 percent of normal," according to the commissioner.

The hot and dry weather has not caused panic selling of livestock, but Brown reported ranchers are trimming their operations to meet the declining conditions on the range.

"Conditions across the state have apparently caused no massive sales so far, but if rains do not come by Aug. 1, we will probably have increased marketings of older cows and even some basic breeding stock," Brown said.

"There have been a few scattered reports of cattle deaths due to the weather. There are always a few from age, disease, and predators, but ranchers are not going to just let cattle die if they can prevent it. They will reduce their herds to numbers the grass and supplemental feeding will carry," Brown said.

Poultry deaths in Texas are slowing down. A survey showed Texas has had 927,000 broiler deaths and 46,500 breeder hen deaths in the past three weeks.

South Texas ranchers have suffered through a drought that has lasted more than a year. Brooks County reported no growth in range grass for the past 45 days. Low stock ponds and dry wells are becoming common, Brown said.

"Overall range conditions in Southwest Texas are deteriorating rapidly from below average to critical," the release said.

Many Executions Expected In Iran

By The Associated Press

Many of the hundreds of Iranians accused of plotting against the revolutionary regime are expected to die before firing squads after brief televised trials beginning today or Friday.

Iran's justice minister, Ayatollah Mohammad Beheshti, announced he would lead a high council of judges in trying the accused and that the proceedings would be open to the public and broadcast on state television.

"The plotters are facing the death penalty," Beheshti said. "Their trial will begin within two days."

President Abolhassan Bani-Sadr, who met Wednesday with Iran's revolutionary leader, Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini, confirmed the trials would take place.

Khomeini's regime announced late last week it had uncovered a mili-

Income Of Americans Increase .4% In June

WASHINGTON (AP) — The income of Americans rose $8 billion, or 0.4 percent in June, more than the total increase for the previous three months, the government said today.

The Commerce Department reported that personal income — which includes wages, salaries, rental income, dividends and interest, minus Social Security payments — rose to a seasonally adjusted annual rate of $2.086 trillion.

At the same time, the department revised its May figure to an annual rate of $2.078 trillion, a 0.3 percent increase over April. Originally, Commerce estimated only a 0.1 percent rise.

tary plot to overthrow the government and by Sunday, some 500 Iranians, many of them military men from the southern city of Ahwaz, were arrested.

The government said their plans called for air force planes to bomb Khomeini's home and a number of other targets in Tehran and other cities.

A spokesman for the ruling Revolutionary Council said Iran had asked Turkey to extradite two Iranian air force lieutenants allegedly involved in the conspiracy who flew a helicopter to Turkey over the weekend and requested asylum.

The regime also closed the country's borders for two days beginning Wednesday in attempts to prevent the escapes of conspirators it said were still at large. There were no reports of further arrests by early today.

Beheshti, who has blamed the coup attempt on Israel and the United States, also said the U.S. presidential election campaign did not alter Iran's position on the 52 American hostages, in their 257th day of captivity today.

"Angel" Pilots Create Airline of Life

By Abigail Van Buren
© 1980 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR READERS: While reading the Sacramento Bee, which carries my column, an interesting item by Max Miller caught my eye. It seems that while Tom Goodwin, a Sacramento businessman, was enjoying the view from his airplane one day last year, he was struck by the notion that pilots who fly for a hobby should be able to use their time, talent and aircraft for something more productive than just flying around, burning up fuel.

Then it occurred to him that many lives have been lost because vital organs and rare blood types wait while physicians and transplant centers try to arrange commercial transportation — a service that is simply not available in many isolated areas of the state.

Goodwin then conceived the idea of mobilizing the skills and aircraft of private pilots to provide a network of air transportation for human organs, tissue and blood — on a volunteer basis.

Thus was born the idea of AirLifeLine, a non-profit organization of pilots working with doctors and hospitals to provide free airfield-to-airfield service in medical emergencies.

So far 35 aviation pilots in Sacramento have enlisted. They donate their time, aircraft and fuel, and are available 24 hours a day. The organization's goal is to enroll 1,000 volunteer pilots for a statewide transportation network.

There is no charge to the patient, donor, physician or medical facility. AirLifeLine, 1005 8th St., Suite 302, Sacramento, Calif. 95814, depends entirely on donations, so if there are any "angels" out there, your tax-deductible contributions would be welcomed with "open wings." And wouldn't it be wonderful if this idea caught on in other parts of the country?

Claim Royalty Owners... Profits Tax To Cost Millions

AUSTIN (AP) — President L. Frank Pitts of the Texas Independent Producers & Royalty Owners Association said today the so-called windfall profits tax would cost the oil industry at least $65 billion during the 1980s.

"Should these funds be available to the producing industry to spend in drilling wells at an average cost of $200,000, there could be an additional 325,000 wells drilled in this state," said Pitts.

"The oil-excite tax, the largest of its kind passed in history, is a dangerous, self-defeating measure which should never have been passed," he said. "It sets a serious precedent that will irrevocably harm the nation's energy objectives throughout the remainder of the century."

Pitts's testimony was prepared for delivery to Sen. Lloyd Bentsen's subcommittee on taxing and debt management. Twenty-seven witnesses signed up to testify.

Bentsen, D-Texas, says the 1980 federal tax penalizes millions of individual royalty owners, as well as major oil companies.

He is sponsoring a proposal to exempt royalty owners and independent producers from the tax on the first 1,000 barrels of daily production. Another bill co-sponsored by Bentsen and 30 other senators would exempt royalty owners and independent producers from the tax on the first 1,000 barrels of daily production. Another bill co-sponsored by Bentsen and 30 other senators would exempt royalty owners and independent producers from the tax, which went into effect March 1.

TIPRO also supports exemptions for independent producers and royalty owners.

The U.S. Senate Finance Committee rented the University of Texas Special Events Center — known as the "Super Drum" — for the hearing.

"Many of the 600,000 to 650,000 royalty owners in Texas are retired couples living in rural areas, or farmers and ranchers who would be unable to stay on their farms and ranches without royalty income," said Bentsen.

"One 62-year-old woman from New Braunfels, no longer able to work, wrote to tell me that she is dependent on her oil royalty payments for income," he said in a statement. "The windfall tax took some $66 from her payment this past April, leaving her with only $128 for the month."

"There has been a tendency to believe" that the tax "is targeted solely at the major oil companies which, according to conventional wisdom, stand to reap huge, unearned profits from oil decontrol," he said.

DEAR ABBY: My husband of 40 years says I have hang-ups about sex. I say the hang-ups are his, not mine.

Since menopause, my interest in sex is zero. He wants me to go with him to a motel where sexy movies are available on TV. He says if that doesn't turn me on, nothing will.

I think I would respond more to dinner out, a little wine, soft music and sweet nothings whispered in my ear.

NO HANG-UPS

DEAR NO: Compromise. First have dinner out, a little wine, soft music and the sweet nothings. And if that doesn't turn you on, go to the motel and turn on the TV.

DEAR ABBY: What do you say to a guy in the following situation? You don't particularly care for him, but he keeps asking and asking for a date, so you finally go out with him. You found him an OK-guy but boring. You know for sure you don't want to go out with him again, but when he says good night he asks you for a date for next Friday night.

If you say you're busy, he asks you what you're doing next Saturday, or Sunday, or Monday, and so on. You can't tell him you're busy every night for three weeks. I know this guy really likes me in a way I can't like him.

You hate to hurt his feelings, but you don't want to date him again because you know he would like you to be his girlfriend, but you don't want him for a boyfriend.

Please tell me the exact words to use, because I honestly don't know what to say. Besides, I have no guts.

SEVENTEEN AND NO GUTS

DEAR SEVENTEEN: Try this: "I'm flattered that you want to date me again, but I can't accept another date with you because it's obvious that you're looking for a girlfriend and I think of you as only a friend. In other words, the chemistry between us isn't right for romance."

Shock Trauma Unit Treats 1st, Diagnoses Later

BALTIMORE (AP)—Doctors race against death at the Shock Trauma Unit at the University of Maryland hospital. They treat first, diagnose later, knowing the fates of severe accident victims will be decided within 60 minutes.

So far, the Shock Trauma Unit is doing a good job, according to Dr. R. Adams Cowley, the thoracic and cardiovascular surgery professor who started the trauma center a decade ago. The center was the first of its kind in the nation and now is being copied by other hospitals.

"Over the years, trauma has pretty much been badly managed. I saw a need for a good system to save lives," Cowley said. And the center's life-saving percentages are favorable.

According to Dr. Alasdair Conn of the Maryland Institute of Emergency Medical Services, about 20 deaths occur among each 100 victims brought to the center each month.

"Thirteen will be dead on arrival and about three or four will be brain dead from head injuries," he said. "The other four we'll lose from infection."

The need for speed of treatment is helped by an agreement with the Maryland State Police. Through a program called Med-Evac, Shock Trauma has first dibs on police helicopters to carry victims to the center.

"We have the most efficient system in the country," Cowley boasted, explaining that 13 helicopters are at the center's disposal and four are always in the air.

"Shock Trauma has first call. We've dumped the governor from a helicopter ride five times. When there's a call, they stop whatever they're doing and answer the call," Cowley said.

While the action is still in the air, personnel at the Shock Trauma emergency room set up for the victim's arrival. Paramedics radio the victim's vital statistics to the center so the staff knows what to expect.

"Everything is set up before the victim arrives," Conn said. One of the first things doctors and nurses do is start intravenous feeding, he said.

Pat Kelly, 29, a nurse in the center's three-bed emergency room, said severely injured patients most often suffer from neck and head injuries.

"When they come in here, we isolate the neck, even if we don't know whether the patient has a neck injury. We assume, and most times it's a good thing we do," she said.

Conn said most Shock Trauma patients are from car accidents and the average age is 27. He said the center also gets victims of industrial accidents and those suffering from gunshot wounds.

Conn said Shock Trauma consumes half the blood used by the more than 25 hospitals in the city.

"We use 12,000 units of blood a year," he said. "That averages out to about 10 pints per patient."

Shock Trauma occupies four floors of the University of Maryland Hospital. In the basement is a hyperbaric chamber.

Looking like a gigantic white sausage, the chamber is used for victims of smoke inhalation and other poisonous gases. It simulates submerging to the equivalent depths of 300 feet to give patients oxygen under pressure.

The main unit, critical care, is on the second floor. It is equivalent to an intensive care unit at a regular hospital — only much more sophisticated.

The unit has 12 beds, beside each of which is a computer terminal monitoring the patient's heart beat, temperature and four pressure channels.

In the center of the room is an elevated command post where nurses and doctors can see all beds and computer screens.

"There are very few places with computers this large that are tied in with the patients," Conn said. No visitors are allowed in critical care.

The center also has its own laboratory, is manned 24 hours a day, Conn calls it one of the best around, with technicians "totally dedicated and very fast with results."

On the 13th hole of the course is a tall pine tree whose trunk has naturally grown into a loop. How about subtracting a couple of points from the score of the duffer whose ball passes through the loop on its way to the hole?

Airline Posts Quarterly Loss

DALLAS (AP)—American Airlines suffered losses of $76.7 million in the first six months of 1980, blaming high fuel prices for its poor performance, an airline official said.

Board Chairman Albert Casey also announced Wednesday that stockholders had elected Robert L. Crandall as the new company president. Before the meeting, Casey had been both chairman and president.

Operating expenses in the second quarter soared 19 percent to $946.6 million, despite a 10 percent reduction in fuel consumption, Casey said.

The Dallas-based airline paid $279.1 million for fuel in the last three months, almost 60 percent more than at the same time in 1979, Casey said.

He said that in the first half of the year it also suffered from a "fuel price disadvantage" compared to other carriers. The company said that in the last three months it paid between 1.6 cents and 7.6 cents more per gallon for its fuel than did other airlines.

"American would have spent $13.4 million less for fuel during the quarter if it had had the benefit of the average price paid by the other trunk carriers—and $19.5 million less had it had the benefit of the fuel price paid by its principal competition," Casey said.

The airline also was hurt by a decline in passenger traffic during the second quarter, which totaled a drop of 17.6 percent over the first six months, he said. The decline during the last months is 22.7 percent compared to 1979.

Revenues rose 4.6 percent in the last three months, mainly because of increased fares, Casey said. The company also sold off one of its two remaining hotel interests for an after tax gain of about $5 million.

The increased revenues were offset by the increased operating costs and decreased passenger traffic.
