Libyan Ties Arouse Controversy

Billy To Be Star Of Probe

WASHINGTON (AP)—An agreement among Senate Republican leaders today apparently cleared the way for a congressional investigation of Billy Carter's ties with Libya and the way his case has been handled by the Carter administration.

A spokesman for Senate Minority Leader Howard Baker, R-Tenn., said Baker and senior GOP members of key Senate committees in the case decided to accept a Democratic proposal for a seven-member panel drawn from the Judiciary Committee.

In lengthy sessions on Wednesday, Republicans had pressed for a larger special committee similar to that which investigated the Watergate scandals during the administration of Republican President Richard M. Nixon. Democrats insisted on the Judiciary panel.

The Baker spokesman, Tom Griscom, said Baker planned to meet later today with Majority Leader Robert C. Byrd, D-W.Va., to put the finishing touches on the agreement.

Griscom said Republicans would be prepared to ask the Senate to approve a larger Watergate-style committee "if during the course of the Judiciary hearings there is a feeling that the committee is not really going after the facts."

White House spokesman Jody Powell objected Wednesday to any comparison of the matter with Watergate, but said, "In general, we are dedicated to the proposition that we ought to be as forthcoming and straightforward in this matter as we possibly can be."

Powell added, however, that he could not say whether President Carter's aides would be available to testify before Congress concerning the activities of the president's younger brother.

Billy Carter registered under protest last week as a foreign agent for Libya and said he had received $220,000 in payments from the Libyan government which he said were the first installments of a $500,000 loan.

On Tuesday, the White House announced that the president's national security adviser, Zbigniew Brzezinski, used Billy Carter as an intermed-ary last fall in seeking Libyan assistance to free the American hostages in Iran.

The Washington Post reported in today's editions that President Carter met with the same Libyan diplomat as Brzezinski about three weeks later, on Dec. 6, to discuss a stiff U.S. rebuke over the burning of the U.S. Embassy in Tripoli four days earlier.

However, the Post said there was no suggestion that Billy Carter helped arrange the president's meeting.

At the Capitol, Senate leaders agreed to continue their discussions today in an effort to break an impasse over whether the matter should be investigated by the Judiciary Committee, by part of that committee or by a special panel drawn from several committees.

Diggs Enters Prison

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP)—Former Rep. Charles Diggs Jr. of Michigan entered the federal prison camp here today to begin serving a three-year sentence for mail fraud and payroll kickbacks.

Diggs entered the prison camp at Maxwell Air Force Base at about 8 a.m. CST. He had until 5 p.m. to surrender to federal custody.

Pleads For Tax Cut Delay

WASHINGTON (AP)—Treasury Secretary G. William Miller, told that the Senate probably will pass a tax cut this year, says the administration is not about to reverse itself and pretend that today's persistent inflation has become acceptable.

The that's exactly what would be required for the administration to endorse a Republican plan calling for Congress to vote immediately on a tax cut to take effect Jan. 1, Miller told the Senate Finance Committee on Wednesday.

He pleaded for the committee to delay action on any tax cut until early next year, saying a premature vote might undo all the government's recent efforts to slow inflation by restricting credit and federal spending.

Remaining Hostage Rescued...

Police Regain Control At Idaho State Prison

BOISE, Idaho (AP)—Heavily armed police regained control of the smoldering Idaho State Penitentiary this morning after a tactical team rescued the last remaining hostage being held by rioting prisoners.

No deaths were reported but several inmates were injured.

"We have a lot of inmates who are angry and upset out there," said state Corrections Director C.W. "Bill" Crowl, "but our top priority is getting this prison back in operation again."

Crowl said the most pressing need was to find a place to hold about 50 maximum-security prisoners.

Crowl said inmates apparently took a car from the prison repair shop and plowed it through the middle of the maximum-security wing.

After the hostage was freed and the prison yard swept by law officers, all of the approximately 500 inmates were herded out to the prison athletic field and were served breakfast surrounded by about 100 armed officers. After two hours the prison was declared under control.

Firemen were busy putting out the last of the fires. Nearly all the prison was burned during the night by the rampaging inmates.

A special prison tactical team using tear gas freed the guard, Lynart Orr, who had been held hostage for nearly 18 hours and been protected by five inmates from other rioting prisoners.

Charges Filed In Death Of Six Horses

The alleged death by thirst of six horses has prompted a cruelty-to-animals charge to be filed against Durwood Kruger of Hermleigh. The charge is a Class A misdemeanor.

Deputy sheriffs who investigated the incident reported Kruger placed the horses in a pasture about 3 1/2 miles northeast of Hermleigh where water was supplied to a trough by a windmill. The windmill, however, broke down, stranding the horses without water. Of the nine horses in the pasture, deputies said, six died from thirst.

The case was reported to the sheriff's office Monday. The charge was filed yesterday in county court.

We noticed this piece that came in on the news wire the other day about the cost of sending a student to a privately-endowed college or university in Texas is going to be more than the median income of U.S. families.

Yet, there are reports that the private schools in the state are attracting more and more students. This is attributed to the fact that families moving to Texas from the industrial Northeast as industry is attracted to the state are accustomed to paying much more for educating their children in private schools. In fact, some of them pay almost that much to attend state schools.

Not many private colleges and universities in Texas have been in operation long enough to acquire the prestige, or perhaps recognition is a more appropriate word, that Eastern schools have attained, but apparently they are getting there.

Also, there is more and more evidence that degrees from little-known schools often are as valuable as those from older and more tradition-steeped institutions of other regions.

Also, costs are going up in the state schools. In fact, it costs as much to attend tax-supported colleges today; over-all, as it did to attend a private school 10 years ago, and it is going higher.

This makes the two-year colleges by far the most economical source of education beyond the public school level. Tuition is the lowest available anywhere, and in most cases, less travel is involved. Also, many students in two-year colleges continue to board at home, which further reduces the financial outlay.

Despite the 43 percent increase in the food price index since 1973, the average American family spends about 17 percent of its disposable income for food. In the Soviet Union, it's 56 percent.

Seeks Penny Tax On Aviation Fuel

AUSTIN (AP)—The director of the Texas Aeronautics Commission today said the state should place a one cent per gallon tax on all aviation fuels.

Currently, all aviation fuel is sold tax-free in Texas.

C.A. Wilkins, testifying before the House Transportation Subcommittee on Appropriative Matters, said the tax would raise a needed $4 million in fiscal 1982. The money would be used for improvements at some of the state's 250 airports.

However, Wilkins said the tax should not necessitate fare hikes.

Peter Sellers Is Dead At Age 54

LONDON (AP)—Royalty, celebrities and millions of the ordinary people who were his most devoted fans today mourned British comedian Peter Sellers, who died in a hospital soon after midnight following a massive heart attack. He was 54.

Sellers, one of the world's best-loved actors, made more than 40 hit movies in 20 years and was best known to Americans as the bumbling Inspector Clouseau of Pink Panther movies.

Prince Charles, one of Sellers' greatest fans, radioed a message of condolence from the Royal Yacht Britannia in the English Channel to the actor's widow, British actress Lynne Frederick, who will be 26 on Friday.

The text of Charles' message, sent as the heir to the British throne returned home from a visit to France, was not released. The prince's message was only one of thousands that poured into the Dorchester Hotel, where Miss Frederick locked herself away in Sellers' $470-a-day suite after his death.

Sellers' funeral will take place Saturday at Golders Green crematorium in North London, his publicity agent and longtime friend, Theo Cowan, announced. Cowan said the funeral would be a "private family occasion."

Miss Frederick, Sellers' fourth wife, whom he married in 1977, was at his bedside in the fourth-floor intensive care unit of the Middlesex Hospital when Sellers lost his last battle against a heart condition that has plagued him since 1964.

With her was Victoria, Sellers' 15-year-old daughter from his marriage to Swedish actress Britt Ekland, his second wife. Also there was Michael, 26, Sellers' son by his first wife, Anne Howe. Miss Ekland, 37, whose five-year marriage to Sellers ended in 1969, told reporters: "I did not feel it right to go to the hospital."

Hospital administrator David Johnson said Sellers died at 12:28 London time after a 36-hour battle to save his life.

"His heart just faded away," he said. "His condition deteriorated very suddenly and he was gone."

"Every effort was made to keep his heart going, but it just didn't respond. He had all the drugs and all the machines it is possible to have. But there's a limit to what can be done."

Sellers collapsed in his Dorchester Hotel suite Tuesday and was rushed to the hospital. Friends said it was his ninth heart attack since the problem was first detected in 1964.

Cowan said Miss Frederick, who flew from Los Angeles on Wednesday to be at her husband's side, "is composed and coping very well."

The actress and Sellers separated last year and had only recently been reconciled.

Zone Hearing Set Tonight

The Snyder Planning and Zoning Commission tonight will hold a hearing on a request for zoning changes for property where development of an apartment complex is being planned.

A group of local investors announced recently that plans were being made to construct apartments on 36th Place east of Ave. E. Part of the property involved already is zoned for multi-family dwellings and change to similar zoning for the remainder will be considered by the commission.

The meeting is set for 7:30 p.m. in the council room at city hall.

economic paradoxes

We have reached that dreaded time, some economists think, when we have suddenly stopped buying things we do not need. It could touch off a depression, the likes of which we haven't seen in five decades or more, according to the educated gentry who specialize in this sort of fortune-telling.

Doing without, even without the creature comforts we do not need, is not the American way. Now Americans are becoming frugal again; at least enough of them, to worry the pundits no end.

Some of us are driving our automobiles an extra year. There are those who don't serve caviar at their social bashes anymore. A few have even stopped buying alligator-hide boots.

Not too many years ago, a Detroit mayor was moved to say:

"When the nation sneezes, Detroit catches cold." Well, America has sneezed and Detroit is on the verge of taking to its bed with pneumonia. A lot of Americans have declined the chance to buy American cars in recent years. (You know the situation is bad when one manufacturer calls in Frank Sinatra to talk about it). One assumes the U.S. motor moguls will be able to overcome the problem of Americans having at least one foreign export in their driveway once our giants in Detroit retol. That changeover, however, will take a couple of years. In the meanwhile, the nation's car makers are shivering in the winter of their discontent, laying off people here, shutting down plants there, sending their most persuasive people to Washington to promote a loan.

Considering the fact that one working person in every five depends directly or indirectly upon the automobile industry for their living, we may all be in for a heap of trouble.

It's little wonder most of the people feel confused. On one hand, they are told that if they keep spending and keep borrowing, the American dollar will eventually compare with the 1923 German Mark.

Five years after World War I ended, Germans were hauling their money around in wheelbarrows, only to find they couldn't buy a loaf of bread with it.

Then we are told that if we insist on putting our money in savings and 'doing without,' the American economy will plunge into such a deep dive that it never will recover.

The apolitical person can only be amused when he hears about the party not in power staging a $1,000-a-plate dinner for its candidate, who proceeds to charge the dais shouting "throw the rascals out and stop this reckless spending." It's a rallying cry that always attracts a lot of interest and no where more than with that segment of voters who aren't especially enamored of political rhetoric.

To understand politics and politicians, you have to maintain your sense of humor. The politicians appreciate that fact. At the same time they know nothing appears very funny to a person standing in a breadline. That's the reason they promise you two chickens in every pot.

Viewers of the popular television program, M-A-S-H, are aware that this drama about a field hospital in the Korean war is effectively anti-war.

Viewers have also learned about "trriage." When a chopperload of casualties arrives from the front, doctors must make discriminatory decisions concerning which ones get treated first based on the urgency of their need and their likelihood for survival.

Triage is sometimes called "the lifeboat concept."

When too many seek safety in the lifeboat, some must be turned away - mercilessly if necessary, beaten off with oars - and left to drown.

When the alternative is to swamp the lifeboat and drown everybody.

For generations America has been the world's "lifeboat."

But in 1980, limitless numbers seeking refuge from poverty threaten to impoverish us all.

A newsman friend in Miami, Bill Viands, has been describing the situation there from the point of view of the homefolks.

A large section of his once-beautiful city is charred rubble. The immigrant invasion has overburdened welfare rolls and compounded local crime.

From a comfortable distance the national news media preoccupies itself with the "human rights" of the Cuban masses "yearning to breathe free - the wretched refuse" of unhappy foreign shores.

And Bill demands at least some, if not equal, time to reply.

What about the human rights of the native born U.S. citizen who obeys the law and salutes the Flag?

Whose biggest single expense in his entire life is taxes - 25 to 30 percent of his earnings - which he has been paying since he was a teen-ager.

The only government checks he ever sees are the payroll checks received while serving in the armed forces.

He has never been in jail, has always paid his bills. He supports his church, his family and assorted charities.

He votes every election - yet politicians ignore the majority he represents in favor of the noisier, angrier, belligerent groups.

So the majority gets limitless immigration, crosstown busing, ever more welfare, employment quotas and metric measure.

Like it or not!

Now his heart breaks to see his city and gradually his country taken over by an illegal invading army.

He feels his government has abandoned him for them.

He feels neglected, helpless, hopeless.

He is beginning to know how the American Indians felt 100 years ago.

(c) 1980, Los Angeles Times Syndicate

WASHINGTON—It is difficult to conceive of a situation when the U.S. could be served by a Democratic President and Republican Vice President, but just such a possibility - albeit a slim one - exists during this election year.

Such a stunning scenario centers around the candidacy of independent presidential candidate John Anderson and whether or not he might be able to carry enough states to prevent a majority of electoral votes from going to either the Democratic or Republican candidate.

Should no one person win a majority of the electoral votes, the House of Representatives would be called upon by the Constitution to elect the president among the three highest electoral vote recipients in the general election. On the other side of the Hill, the Senate would then select the vice president. Therefore, if one political party controlled the House and another party the Senate, we could wind up with a president and vice president of different parties. Highly unlikely, but possible.

The Constitution is rather hazy and does not spell out all of the actual procedures involved, but each state's delegation in the House is given one vote in such an election. No mention is made of what happens if a state's House delegation divides evenly. While unlikely in Texas' delegation, with 20 Democrats and four Republicans, there are eight states having an equal number of congressmen from each party.

In the case of tie votes within a state's House delegation, no one would receive that state's one vote until the tie was broken. This could prevent any candidate from receiving the necessary 26 votes for a majority in the House.

A number of unresolved matters would have to be decided by the House Rules Committee before the House would ever vote, including whether the election would be open to the press and the public or be conducted behind closed doors. The 1825 rules, the last time such a situation occurred, provided that the election was conducted in a closed session of Congress.

Decisions would also have to be made on: Whether Members would vote by secret ballot or have their votes made public; whether the vote of each state would be by secret ballot or be made public; and whether a plurality or a majority is required within a state caucus to determine that state's one vote. A majority is more than half, whereas a plurality simply means the vote would be determined by whoever receives the most votes, even if he received less than a majority.

In all likelihood, these speculations will remain just that - speculations, although interesting ones. Any such situation would rely on the success of an independent candidate and independents have rarely done well in our history.

The complicated electoral system has been questioned in the past, as many feel that the presidency should be by majority vote, period. If such a presidential election should be left to the House this year, we would almost surely be forced to face this issue squarely, to prevent the possibility of a President of the United States being elected who was not the choice of the majority of voters in this country.

Scientists are in a dither to quell the Mount St. Helens volcano in Washington State. After all, you can't turn a fire hose on it and it won't go away through optimistic thinking.

I, however, believe I have the whole thing figured out. What the residents of that area need to do is sacrifice a virgin to the volcano.

That's the same sort of thinking the ancients did. If it worked for them it can work for us moderns, too. Don't forget, either, that sacrifices are spoken of favorably in the Old Testament of the Bible. Who knows, there may even be a Biblical basis for what I am suggesting.

Because the volcano is erupting, the spirit of the volcano is clearly angry. That makes sense to me. And, because the volcano just keeps erupting, the efforts to appease it have so far fallen short, right?

Well, drastic action is needed. I say - I say - an altar needs to be erected at the base of the mountain for the sacrifice, and great pomp and circumstance needs to accompany the work. The spirit of the volcano must be shown that we recognize his authority, and his anger, too, and that we are doing something about it. If the sacrifice of a virgin doesn't work, I think a geologist ought to throw his life in for good measure.

While on the subject of shams, I was reading in the latest issue of Runner's World about plans for the first annual Rosie Ruiz Ripoff Race.

Miss Ruiz is the controversial runner who crossed the finish line at the Boston Marathon last April to place first in the women's division, but there was doubt as to whether or not she legitimately crossed the starting line. Initially, she was awarded the women's first place trophy, but that was later taken from her and she was disqualified. She allegedly jumped from a group of people near the finish line to race to her "victory."

In the Rosie Ruiz Ripoff Race, there would be one qualified runner to enter a race. He would run the course, but before he could cross the finish line, someone would jump out from the sidelines to nip him.

DETROIT (NEA)—Is there a publicist anywhere worth his or her salt who does not lie awake nights dreaming of having 8,000 journalists as a captive audience? Those dreams came true for many of them at the recent Republican Convention.

An army of journalists was stuck in an unfamiliar city to cover a relatively uneventful convention. Into this news void stepped an army of publicists seeking the rewards of newspaper copy and television air time.

Since it was a political convention, virtually every group espousing some social cause sent its flak. Pro-ERA and anti-ERA, Gay Vote '80 and The American Family Movement, Irish National Caucus and Croatian Independence League, all were anxious to tell their story to any interested journalist.

There were representatives of serious candidates like independent John Anderson and Barry Commoner of the Citizens Party. There were also representatives of some not-so-serious candidates. Campaign materials were handed out by a professed supporter of Mark Twain for vice president; he was actually an actor named William McLinn who makes his living portraying Twain in one-man shows. And a full-blown "Betty Boop for President" effort featured bumper stickers, campaign buttons and a small marching band that was always turning up at downtown hotel lobbies.

The most industrious publicists during convention week were those promoting clients who have little or nothing to do with politics.

Of course, it was only natural that Detroit's automobile companies were on hand to beamon their financial plight and push their new models. Both Ford and Chrysler made prototypes of their 1981 cars available for inspection and test drives. General Motors was only too happy to send a bus by a reporter's hotel to take him or her on a tour of an assembly plant or a test facility. GM even went Ford and Chrysler one better by throwing in a free lunch.

Carl Byoir and Associates, a major public-relations firm, opened a big media reception center in Cobo Hall adjoining Joe Louis Arena. There a reporter could obtain free pizza, beer, soft drinks - and more information than he or she could ever want about any number of local Byoir clients.

Among them were the Southeastern Michigan Transportation Authority and its new buses (delegates were carried around in them), the University of Detroit and the new Urban Rail Transportation System planned for the city. The firm would also arrange for a member of the local Junior League to take any interested journalists on a guided tour "to see where Detroit's people live and work."

The ranks of the convention's busiest publicists included those working for the news media itself. Every day the networks put out dozens of press releases crowing about the scoops they had scored. Minutes after a reporter for ABC, CBS or

NBC got a good quote, releases were delivered to all newspapers and wire service in the hope that they would use the quote, and, of course, credit the network.

But the publicity campaign that generated the most talk around the convention was run by 20th Century-Fox for the forthcoming comedy film "Middle Age Crazy." Correctly assuming that many in the news media are middle-aged and were by mid-week going a little crazy, the studio orchestrated a publicity campaign using attractive young women, a gag newspaper, and the theme "The Republican Convention is Middle-Age Crazy."

Perhaps the story of the convention was the so-called Great CBS Tub Problem.

It seems that CBS reserved one of the two "presidential" suites at the Pontchartrain, the luxury hotel nearest to the convention site, for its chairman, William Paley. To the network's shock, the $350-a-night suite turned out to have no bathtub, only a shower stall. And Paley apparently likes to soak in the tub.

The other presidential suite in the hotel was occupied by Dick Tuck, a well-known political prankster. Tuck was quick to respond when CBS asked if he would switch suites. He would not move, he said, but Paley was welcome to use his tub.

and eat it too. East has two diamonds and three trumps but this line of play still brings in 10 tricks. After the two rounds of trumps South cashes dummy's ace and king of diamonds and leads a third one toward his hand. If East ruffs, South is left with the good queen of diamonds and can discard one of dummy's hearts on it which will leave him with just one heart loser instead of two. If it turns out that East has two trumps and four diamonds then West would get to ruff the queen of diamonds. South would get to ruff his small diamond later on, but would still be down one. Here is a fairly standard type hand. South ruffs the second club and sees that if diamonds are kind enough to break 3-3, or if the man with long diamonds makes a mistake and discards down to three, there are 10 easy tricks. Can South do anything to handle a 4-2 diamond break? He certainly can. All he has to do is to play two rounds of trumps and then go after diamonds. Dear Readers, If you make your own jams and jellies you know how much better "homemade" is! If you run out of jelly or jam there's no need to wait for the harvest. It's so easy to make from canned or frozen fruit. Here are 2 recipes you can make any time of year.

PINEAPPLE JAM
 20 ounce can crushed pineapple
 3 Tbsp. lemon juice
 3 1/2 cups sugar
 1/2 bottle liquid pectin
 Combine pineapple and lemon juice in a kettle. Add sugar and stir real well. Place on high heat. Stir constantly, bring quickly to a full boil with bubbles over the entire surface. Boil hard for 1 minute, stirring constantly. Remove from heat; stir in pectin. Skim. Let stand for 5 minutes. Fill and seal containers. Process 5 minutes in boiling water bath. Makes 4 or 5 half-pint jars.

ORANGE JELLY
 2 cans (6 oz. each) concentrate, thawed
 2 1/2 cups water
 4 1/2 cups sugar
 1 box Sure-Jell
 Mix thoroughly the sure-jell, orange juice concentrate and water in large pan. Stir constantly over high heat till bubbles form all around edge. Immediately add all the sugar and stir. Bring to a full rolling boil and boil hard 1 minute. Stir constantly. Remove from heat. Skim, pour and cover at once with paraffin. Yield 6 cups.

'Chop' Is Essential To Man In Taiwan

TAIPEI, Taiwan (AP)— In Taiwan a man cannot get married, divorced, buy a house, borrow money — in fact, do just about anything — without his "chip," or personal seal. Chop carving — the engraving of intricate Chinese characters on fine stone, ivory or jade — is an art in itself. Take Wang-wang Sun. In his 53 years as a master chop carver, Wang estimates he has engraved 170,000 animated Chinese characters and cut more than 30,000 chops for government officials and dignitaries.

TAPPING THE GULF—Offshore platforms in the Gulf of Mexico tap into underground reservoirs of natural gas. Some of the gas produced at this platform, operated by Aminoil USA, Inc., supplies Texas homeowners with fuel for cooking and heating. Four Baylor 'Bares' Show Up In Playboy WACO (AP)—Four Baylor University coeds bared more than their souls when they chose to expose curvacious forms in September's issue of Playboy magazine, despite administrative threats of expulsion to any would-be posers.

Three of the four apparently escaped the wrath of university President Abner McCall by graduating before the magazine featuring "Girls of the Southwest Conference" was published.

But a spokesman for the University said disciplinary proceedings will begin against the fourth coed, though she, too, may graduate before the pending action goes through.

When Playboy solicited coeds to pose last spring, McCall vowed to expel any Baylor student who appeared in the magazine.

Playboy spokesman Dan Sheridan said the Baylor coeds were chosen because they were about to graduate and would not be liable for any kind of retaliatory action.

The Southwest Conference cover article features 38 women from nine schools in the conference.

The pictures include identical twins Shirley and Suzanne Williams of Southern Methodist University, who posed clothed, as well as Texas Tech coed Dee Dockray who who sprawls on the edge of a bathtub in the buff.

Anne Brinkman of the University of Houston posed nude with an oil pump, and Baylor's Kai Lynne lounges in a hot tub covered by no more than warm water.

SMU psychology graduate Erin Bann, who posed partially clad in a lilac nightgown, cooed "my parents think it's wonderful."

"I've always had a creative flair, and this is one more thing to do," she added.

Cheryl Coggins, Baylor psychology graduate, said she was "very flattered" to be asked to pose.

"They told me the more skin you show, the better chance you have of getting in the magazine," said Beverly Banks, a Texas Tech communications major who posed with her pet horse on the banks of Marine Lake near Sagnaw.

"So I said, this is what I'll show, and got in." She said her mother "doesn't talk about it."

Playboy plans an extensive media campaign in Texas and Arkansas and is shipping an extra 120,000 copies of the magazine to the area.

Mohandas Gandhi, the 78-year-old Hindu spiritual leader who helped lead India's campaign for independence from the British, was shot to death in New Delhi in 1948 while on his way to prayer. His assassin, a 25-year-old Hindu, was later hanged.

History-Rich Island To Become A Public Park

By BOB ROBINSON
Associated Press Writer

PARKERSBURG, W. Va. (AP)—Hidden just beneath the scrub that covers Blennerhassett Island are the remnants of a dream that failed and changed American history in the process. But soon the ruins of Harman Blennerhassett's outpost of civilization on the frontier will once again see the light of day. An ambitious plan to turn the island into a public park is nearing completion. Overseeing the work is Dan Fowler, executive director of the Blennerhassett Historical Park Commission, who describes the island as "a very special piece of real estate" in the history of the Ohio Valley and the American frontier.

An archaeologist, Fowler has spent years laboring in the deep, sandy soil where a half-dozen prehistoric Indian villages have been discovered.

But the island's ancient history is overshadowed by the legend of the man who gave it his name at the dawn of the 19th century.

Harman Blennerhassett was an Irish aristocrat who came to the New World only to become tragically involved with Aaron Burr, the young nation's vice president. The alliance ended in death, ruin and bitterness for all concerned.

Blennerhassett, from his ornate island mansion, contributed men, money and materials to Burr's grandiose scheme for military conquest in the Southwest. The expedition made it as far as Natchez before disbanding, its organizer and bankroller soon to face treason charges.

Although neither Burr nor Blennerhassett was convicted, the episode left the career and finances of both in shambles.

Historians still argue over their motives, with some saying Burr wanted to spark a secessionist movement in the Louisiana territories while others speculate that he hoped to establish an empire in Mexico.

Blennerhassett Island's 227 acres lie about a mile south of Parkersburg. The park commission is trying to hack away years of neglect and put in their place hiking trails, picnic areas, sternwheeler excursions and an array of special events.

Commission historian Ray Swick says visitors will be taken by paddleboat to the park, which is tentatively scheduled to open in early fall.

The work is being paid for with part of a $2.8 million appropriation authorized by the legislature in 1975. Fowler says he expects the rest of the money to go for the eventual construction of a Blennerhassett Island museum.

On the island are the ruins of Blennerhassett's lavish estate, modeled after the mansions of the European aristocracy and built over the course of two years at the then-exorbitant cost of $40,000. Still standing are the Neale House, a large brick structure built in 1832, and the remains of a late 19th-century broom factory.

The last time the island was given a facelift was in the mid-1930s when retired businessman Amos K. Gordon planted hundreds of black walnut, sycamore and elm trees. With his death in 1956, the island went to weed.

The latest restoration plan harkens to the decade before the turn of the century, when Blennerhassett Island was a popular park with a shooting gallery, bowling alley and dance pavilion. It had a lovers' lane where couples could stroll quietly down a boulevard of trees, wild grapes and honeysuckle. Major-league baseball teams including the Cincinnati Reds and Pittsburgh Pirates played there.

But the island's mystique goes back even further, says Swick, who has devoted more than a decade of study to it.

Fowler has found evidence that the island was inhabited as long as 12,000 years ago.

For some of the early residents, river clams were a diet staple. Flint needed for toolmaking was also abundant, and the island's desirability apparently led to a good deal of bloodshed. Fowler has unearthed numerous Indian graves, the bodies riddled by arrows.

But it was a peaceful paradise that Harman Blennerhassett and his wife found when they came to the island at the close of the 18th century.

It took the couple two years to build their island estate, and when they were through, its Spanish-white mansion and lush gardens were unlike anything on the frontier.

It was to this Eden that Burr came in 1804 in search of someone to finance his military plans. Whatever his goal, the fiasco that ensued signaled the end of the Blennerhassett's idyllic life on the island.

Heat Not Reflected In Prices

WASHINGTON (AP)—A senior Agriculture Department official says the recent price boosts for some commodities, including hogs and broiler chickens, are mainly the result of producers cutting back, not of the scorching weather that has gripped much of the nation.

Juvenile Held In Theft Case

Sheriff's deputies reported arresting a 16-year-old juvenile for the theft of 402 gallons of gasoline. The gasoline, they reported, was pilfered over a two-month period from Snyder Farmers' Co-op Store on 37th St. In addition to the gasoline that was stolen, deputies said $30-$35 in cash was also taken earlier this week. The juvenile was arrested last night. The case will be referred to juvenile court.

Moreover, Howard W. Hjort, the department's chief economist and policy analyst, says this summer's heat wave, although it has caused extensive crop and livestock loss in some areas, so far has not had much effect on food prices in general. Even if the hot, dry weather hangs on the rest of the summer, it probably would not have much effect on food prices this year or in the first half of 1981, Hjort told a news conference Wednesday. Despite recent price increases for some items, Hjort said, "By and large, farm prices for foods are still below where they were a year ago." Corn prices are now up 3 percent from a year ago, hogs up 10 percent—after being severely depressed last spring—slaughter steers up 6 percent and broilers up 50 percent, he said. But farm prices of wheat are down 3 percent from a year ago, soybeans 4 percent, slaughter cows 3 percent and feeder cattle 16 percent. Since last fall, the USDA has been predicting retail food prices in 1980 would go up an average of 7 to 11 percent from 1979 levels, depending on the weather, crop yields and the general economy.

Firemen Called

A grass fire was extinguished Wednesday by city firefighters. The fire occurred at 2807 Ave. N and was reported at 6:05 p.m.

NATIONAL SECURITY ADVISER Zbigniew Brzezinski is reportedly getting on better with Secretary of State Edmund Muskie than he did with Muskie's predecessor, Cyrus Vance. "I detect no differences between Mr. Muskie and myself on any major issue," says Brzezinski, who appears to have retreated from the spotlight since the change of leadership at the State Department.

Two Mishaps Reported Here

Two minor traffic accidents were investigated by police Wednesday. The first occurred at 3:05 p.m. in the 1800 block of Cogdell Blvd. and involved a 1970 Chevrolet driven by Vetta Underwood and a 1978 Chevrolet pickup driven by Joe Rigby. The second accident was at 4:35 p.m. at the intersection of 25th St. and Ave. H. There, a 1980 Cadillac driven by Alice Eiland and a 1969 Ford truck driven by David Jackson collided. Both accidents were worked by officer Don Cheek.

In 1953, the worst storms in 500 years flooded England's southeast coast and breached dikes in the Netherlands.

Miss Texas Selection Challenged In Lawsuit

DALLAS (AP)—Disgruntled sponsors of the Miss Texas-Pageant first runner-up contend in a lawsuit that the contest was unfair and the winner should be ordered to surrender her crown.

Pageant organizers called the suit "sour grapes" and said there was no reason to dethrone the reigning Miss Texas, Terri Eoff.

If a state district judge grants Miss Dallas Scholarship Pageant's request during a trial next Monday, Miss Eoff's title and her spot in the upcoming Miss America competition will go to first runner-up Bobbie Lynn Chandler, the current Miss Dallas.

Miss Dallas sponsors claim Miss Eoff violated the time limit during the talent competition that counted towards half the contestant's final score.

The sponsors contend Miss Eoff's dramatic reading at the July 12 pageant in Fort Worth ran four minutes and 45 seconds, well past the two minute and 50 second limit spelled out in the Miss America Pageant entries committee manual.

"It was to her benefit to be allowed to continue well beyond the time limit," said Rose Railey, a director of the Miss Dallas pageant. "I don't know of anybody that's ever violated the time limit that excessively after signing a contract that says she will abide by the rules."

"If they (Miss Texas officials) are going to arbitrarily choose which rules they are going to enforce, how can I continue to enter girls in good faith?"

Miss Eoff was not available for comment, but her sponsor in the Miss Lubbock Pageant, Jack Geddis, called the lawsuit "a bunch of hogwash."

Pageant organizers said the rules are only considered guidelines.

"There is no statement in the Miss America rules that says a girl will be penalized if she goes over (the time limit) - it just says she may," said B. Don Magness, chairman of the board for the Miss Texas Pageant, said.

"If she (Miss Dallas) had won, there wouldn't have been anything said about it. This is just a case of sour grapes."

But Miss Candler, who is not a party to the suit, said she had been treated unfairly.

"I have no sour grapes," Miss Candler said. "I'm not directly involved in the suit. I have no malice to Terri or any qualms about her. I think she's an excellent actress. She's obviously a good enough contestant to beat several girls who were veterans."

"She doesn't seem the type to violate the rules, whether she knowingly did it or not. But it wasn't run fairly and I didn't have a fair chance to win."

Many observers had picked Miss Candler to win the Miss Texas title. She had been a runner-up twice before and, according to unwritten rules, a girl can compete only three times for the crown.

Miss Dallas sponsors said if Miss Eoff is not forced to surrender her crown then they will file suit to recover $25,000 they spent to prepare their contestant.

Dear Abby

Gift of Sight Leaves Lasting Legacy

By Abigail Van Buren
1980 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: As a teen-ager a few years ago, I underwent two cornea transplants — one in each eye. I have seen your columns urging people to donate their organs. Maybe the two corneas I received came from people who got the idea from your column.

I want to address my feelings to my unknown donors: "I never knew you, yet your generosity changed my life. You died, yet a part of you still lives."

"You gave of yourself. It was the last thing you gave, and you gave it to someone you didn't even know."

"My life is so different because of you. Every day I am reminded of the gift you gave me."

"I wonder about you often. Who were you? What were you like? What wonderful things did you see through these eyes?"

"Your generosity helped a stranger, and with the help of God you created a miracle — the miracle of sight."

Abby, I can only praise your work in this area. It means the world to those of us who have benefited from it. God bless you.

Food Stamps Are Easier To Obtain

In the past, people who wanted to apply for food stamps could only do so through food stamp or welfare offices.

Now, the U.S. Department of Agriculture and the Social Security Administration have made arrangements for certain people to apply for food stamps through the Social Security offices. This service is intended to make it easier for those people to obtain food stamp assistance.

A person may apply for food stamps at a Social Security office under the following conditions:

1. If you and your household (all the people who live and eat with you) are applying for Supplemental Security Income.
2. If you and your household already receive supplemental Security Income but are not receiving food stamps.

Persons already receiving food stamps who did not apply for them through a Social Security office, must reapply at the food stamp office when their stamp certification period ends.

Also, persons still may apply for entry into the food stamp program at a food stamp office rather than the Social Security office, if they so desire.

Applicants who have questions about this change or want more information may call the toll-free Food Stamp hotline at 1-800-252-9330, or may contact their local food stamp or Social Security office.

The new service starts Aug. 1.

Negotiators Try To Avert Phone Strike

DALLAS (AP)—Union negotiators say they are not optimistic about reaching an agreement with Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. on a new three-year contract before the current pact expires on Aug. 9.

But Bell-spokesman Joe McNamara said he expects the negotiators to avert a strike that would be the first since 1971, when Communications Workers of America workers walked off the job for eight days.

"We don't want a strike. We don't think there will be a strike and we don't think the union wants a strike," McNamara said Tuesday.

But Frank Crow, secretary for the CWA Local, said negotiators for the union and American Telephone and Telegraph, Bell's parent company, are "at an impasse."

"Their people (negotiators) and the ones for Bell locally have said 'No' to everything we've asked for," said Crow.

Neither Crow nor McNamara would reveal details of the negotiations.

DEAR SEEING: Thank you for a beautiful letter as well as another opportunity to let readers know that they, too, can give the gift of sight. To get a donor's card, call your local Lions Club. It is listed in your phone directory.

DEAR ABBY: My boss jingles the change in his pocket constantly, which drives me nuts!

Whenever he stands up, he puts his hands in his pockets, then it's jingle, jingle, jingle until I want to scream. He stands by my desk while doing this.

I told him that it bothers me, and he said, "Oh, it bothers my wife too, but it's an old habit I can't seem to break."

Abby, how can I help him break this old habit? He knows it's irritating to me and others, but he goes right on doing it.

UP A WALL

DEAR UP: Ask him if he really wants to break the "old habit." And if he does, try this: As soon as he approaches you, ask him if he has change for a $5 bill, a $10 bill, or whatever it takes to deplete his coin collection. Repeat this procedure daily. End of problem. (P.S. It could also be "end of job," but it's a solution.)

DEAR ABBY: Since it was recently graduating time, as well as the season for weddings, please say something in your column about thank-you notes.

These people have the time to send graduation invitations (or announcements) to people they haven't seen in years. The same for weddings, and even to some bridal showers! They just put anyone they can think of on the list, no matter how long it's been since they last saw him. Just get those gifts rolling in!

A thank-you note takes less than 15 minutes to write. The stamp is only 15 cents and the card or note paper is about a dime. They get a gift worth $10 or more. That's a pretty good return on such a small investment.

But what gets me are people who don't even acknowledge the gift with any kind of thank-you note.

They say everything comes back in style eventually. Tell me, Abby, do you think good manners will ever make a comeback?

R.C. IN ALEXANDRIA, LA.

DEAR R.C.: Good manners have never been out of style. Unfortunately, there will always be those who are too lazy, thoughtless or ignorant to use them.

Do you have questions about sex, love, drugs and the pain of growing up? Get Abby's new booklet: "What Every Teen-ager Ought to Know." Send $2 and a long, stamped (28 cents), self-addressed envelope to: Abby, Teen Booklet, 132 Lasky Drive, Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212.

Singapore Experiencing An Identity Crisis

Several events sparked the seeming identity crisis.
When China defeated Indonesia in a badminton match played in Singapore in February, some Indonesians accused the fans of partisan support for the visiting team from their Chinese "homeland."

Badminton is virtually Indonesia's national sport and the loss to China rankled. But so did charges that the behavior of Singaporeans in the crowd proved they were still pro China and cast doubts on efforts to forge
a unique national identity.

In a debate in Parliament, 13 lawmakers rose to assert their country's individuality.

"We are as Chinese as President Eisenhower was German."

"We are as Chinese as President Kennedy was Irish," said Fong Sip
Chee.

Acting Culture Minister
Ong Teng Cheong said,
"Many ethnic Chinese Singaporeans who have visited China have returned to realize how un-Chinese they are, and are more convinced than ever that Singapore is the place for them to live."
"A national identity takes many years and much conscious effort to evolve. What might have seemed an impossible dream, after 15 years of independence, is today closer to reality than many even among us
would dare to hope," Ong

Another parliamentary debate on the use of fore-the English taught in schools here touched on national identity.

said Lau Teik Soon.

"If this is so, and if it

Westernized values and

The Ministry of Culture
recently launched a campaign to find distinctive

Perhaps a less worri-

Cowboy Veterans Due; Rookies To Scrimmage

THOUSAND OAKS, Calif. (AP)—Dallas Cowboy rookies finished two-day workouts Wednesday and will taper off to just one afternoon practice Thursday in preparation for a scrimmage against the Los Angeles Rams rookies.

The majority of Cowboy veterans are due to report to camp at California Lutheran College Training site on Thursday. Veteran quarterbacks, receivers, running backs and centers reported Sunday and have been working out lightly this week.

Veterans will undergo physicals Friday morning prior to their initial practice Friday afternoon. Rookies will travel to Fullerton, Calif., Friday morning to scrimmage the Ram newcomers.

Veterans and rookies will begin two-a-day workouts together on Saturday.

Three players suffered minor injuries and were unable to practice Wednesday. Second-year cornerback Steve Wilson had an injured hamstring; third-round draft choice, James Jones, a running back from Mississippi State, had a knee injury; and guard Kurt Petersen, a fourth-round pick from Missouri, had an injured thigh. All three are expected to resume workouts Thursday.

Teens Slate Practice Bout With Seniors

Snyder's league-winning Teenage team, the Oilers, is scheduled for scrimmage action tonight, 8 o'clock, at Moffett Field. The team, in preparation for the upcoming Teenage League District Tournament in Cisco, will take on a group of Senior-leaguers.

According to Oiler manager Charly Freeman, a daw will be held Sunday in Cisco to determine pairings in the District Tournament.

Teams entered are Snyder, Colorado City, Clyde, Comanche, Haskell, and Eastland. Games will begin Monday. Two teams will receive byes to Tuesday.

The double-elimination tournament stretches through July 31.

Assisting Freeman are Gerald Hicks and Mitch Mackey.

Lady Luck With Boston As... Sox Clout Rangers, 12-5

BOSTON (AP)—Just when they thought they had been deserted entirely by lady luck, the Boston Red Sox found out otherwise. The fickle lady still is flirting about, although possibly just teasing them in a frustrating year at once friendly Fenway Park.

The Red Sox capitalized on Texas errors, walks, hit batsmen, passed balls and just about everything else that came their way Wednesday, snapping a four-game losing streak with a 12-5 victory over the Rangers.

"You might say it's about time some of the breaks of the game went our way," Boston Manager Don Zimmer said.

"We hit some long balls, but we also found some holes. We also finally managed to put together a couple of big innings, and we got excellent relief pitching."

"We got a good effort out of Doc Medich before he just ran out of gas," Texas Manager Pat Corrales said. "A couple of their balls just had eyes."

Trailing 4-2, the Red Sox narrowed the gap in the sixth, picking up an unearned run on rookie Dave Stapleton's two-out single which brought John Henry Johnson from the bullpen to replace Medich, winner of eight straight decisions over Boston since 1974.

Rid of their old nemesis, the Red Sox went to work on Johnson, a hard-throwing left-hander, and knuckleballer Charlie Hough, recently acquired from the Los Angeles Dodgers.

Veteran Tony Perez led off the seventh with his 15th homer of the season and No. 338 of his career, a tremendous clout over the high screen in left-center, tying the score.

Carlton Fisk reached when Mickey Rivers dropped his fly in right-center, but Johnson got Carl Yastrzemski on a called third strike. Fisk then stole second and the Rangers elected to walk Dwight Evans intentionally.

Hough replaced Johnson and walked pinch-batter Gary Allenson, filling the bases. Larry Wolfe then grounded a ball which appeared headed for the hole at short, but third baseman Buddy Bell dived and speared it.

However, Wolfe, 0-for-8 since his recall from the minors last weekend, was credited with an RBI single as Bell was unable to hold on to the ball. Rick Burleson forced Evans at the plate, but Stapleton followed with a three-run double off the wall in left center.

Good Day For Maddox; Cedeno's Not So Hot

HOUSTON (AP)—You'd think Elliot Maddox would be happy with his exploits Wednesday night. The New York Mets third baseman played errorless third base, tripled in the ninth inning and scored the winning-run on Jerry Morales' sacrifice fly.

All that amounted to a 4-3 win for the Mets over the Houston Astros, but Maddox was far from happy.

Maddox is disgruntled because the Mets won't renegotiate his contract which runs through the 1982 season. The Mets moved Maddox to third base this season and he looks forward to being the first Met to start two years in a row at third.

"I think I've done a better job than anyone expected," Maddox said. "I take defense very seriously. I like to stay in the lineup and I don't mind where I play."

Some of the other Mets sported happier faces, like relief pitchers Jeff Reardon and Neil Allen. Reardon, 5-5, got the win and Allen finished up in the ninth for his 16th save, which made Manager Joe Torre happy.

"It's hard for young relief pitchers to go from day to day and not get overconfident at the victories and not get too down at the losses," Torre said. "They need to stay on an even keel.

"Allen was the real Allen tonight. He took charge out there. That's what's been getting us beat on this road trip. We'd let the first man get on and then make a mistake."

Astros centerfielder Cesar Cedeno had both the good and the bad. He scored the first Houston run, had a double in the eighth for his 1500th career hit, but committed two errors that resulted in two unearned runs.

Cedeno got on base in the second inning on a passed ball and, after Art Howe walked, consecutive RBI singles by Enos Cabell and Luis Pujols brought in two runs. Craig Reynolds' sacrifice fly made it 3-0.

But disaster struck Cedeno in the third when New York closed the gap to 3-2. After Pete Falcone singled, Lee Mazzilli doubled and Frank Taveras forced Falcone at the plate, Steve Henderson's sinking liner spelled trouble.

Cedeno missed the ball for one error, and was charged with another when his throw to third base went into the Mets dugout, allowing Mazzilli and Taveras to score.

The Mets tied it up on consecutive singles by John Stearns, Mike Jorgensen and Joel Youngblood in the sixth.

Brazile Wants Fair Contract

HOUSTON (AP)—Houston Oiler Coach Bum Phillips says he can't imagine fielding a football team without linebacker Robert Brazile and Jerry Argovitz, Brazile's agent, hopes Phillips' worst dreams don't come true.

Phillips got the impression from a recent session with Argovitz that Brazile will not report to training camp with other Oiler veterans Friday if the Oilers refuse to renegotiate Brazile's contract.

"We're not trying to hold a gun to anybody's head," Argovitz said Wednesday. "I personally feel this thing is going to be worked out with no pressure exerted on anybody."

"They (Oilers) have no obligation to renegotiate Robert's contract. We all know that. We're trying to get them to do what is fair for Brazile. He is being punished for being a poor businessman and one of the best linebackers in the National Football League."

Asked if Brazile had told Phillips he would be a no show, Phillips said "No, but I think that's the gist of the thing."

Brazile, the Oilers' first round draft choice in 1975, renegotiated his contract in 1977 and is believed to be earning near $100,000 annually.

Argovitz, however, who negotiated Billy Sims' multi-million dollar deal with the Detroit Lions, says Brazile is the most underpaid linebacker in the National Football League.

"I understand management's (Oilers) problem," Argovitz said. "They said if they renegotiate, they'll have 44 other players wanting to do the same thing. But they don't have 44 more Robert Braziles."

USGA Resumes Play At 5 O'Clock Tonight

Odessa all-star teams open up United Girls Softball Association tournament play in three divisions here this afternoon and evening, taking on Big Spring in two of the tilts and Midland in another.

Two of Snyder's squads also begin action this evening; the third will hold off until Friday morning.

Nielsen Inks 3-Year Pact

SAN ANGELO (AP)—Gifford Nielsen, the Houston Oilers' backup quarterback, will be playing for the club at least another three years, according to a club spokesman.

Nielsen signed a contract Thursday, the spokesman said, becoming the fourth player in an option year to sign a contract this week. Fullback Tim Wilson, guard David Carter and punter Cliff Parsley also agreed to terms this week. Among the starters still unsigned are tight end Mike Barber and linebacker Robert Brazile. Coach Bum Phillips said he hoped Brazile would show up Friday with the other veterans.

Phillips also said the Oilers had made Barber the "best possible offer" in the latest round of contract talks.

Snyder jumps into the act as early as 7 p.m. when its Division I All-Stars host Midland at the Girl's Field. Also at 7, Big Spring and Midland Division II teams vie at the Farm League Field.

Tonight's 9 o'clock games call for Snyder to meet Odessa Blue in a Division II game at the Girl's Field, and Odessa to try Big Spring Division III at the Farm League Field.

All other games depend on tomorrow's win-loss situation, with the exception of a Division III contest which pits Snyder against Midland at 8 a.m. Friday. Winner of that contest will play either Big Spring or Odessa at 5 p.m. Friday. Losers will vie at 9 p.m.

In Division II, the Snyder-Odessa Blue victor will receive a bye into Friday's 7 p.m. contest with either Midland I or II, or Odessa Gold or Big Spring. A loss tonight for Snyder would put its Division II girls back on the field again at 10 a.m. tomorrow.

Snyder's Division I crew would play again Friday at 10 a.m. in the event of a victory. A loss would pit them with a Big Spring-Odessa loser at 7 p.m.

In each of the cases listed above, Friday's winner's bracket games would be played at the Girl's Field. Losers vie at the Farm League Field.

The double-elimination tournament will continue through Saturday. Earlier in the week, Midland rallied back to win two straight games and take the Division IV title.

Pickering Aces No. 1 In Preparation For WTCPartnership Event

John Pickering, Jr. aced the No. 1 hole at Western Texas recently while practicing for the upcoming WTC Partnership Tournament, to be held Saturday and Sunday.

Pickering used a 9-iron on the 147-yard, par three stretch. The ball hit an estimated 18 inches past the pin and backed up into the cup. Playing with Pickering were Mackey Greene, Larry Wall, and Ewell and Steve Mackey.

The field for the tournament is 64 teams, and includes two-time champions Mike Waller and Britt Lindsey of Midland. The two former Western Texas College Western standouts head a field which director Bob O'Day feels should make the tournament one of the strongest partnership events in West Texas this year.

Action will begin each day at 9 a.m. with a shotgun start. Afternoon rounds begin at 2.

A free barbecue will be held for entrants at 7 p.m. Saturday, with a $5 fee for each guest.

Russians Dominating Games, Everything Else

By Fred Rothenberg
 AP Sports Writer
 MOSCOW (AP)—The problem with perfection is you can only go down. The problem with spectacular buildups is that they rarely achieve any height.

Nadia Comaneci learned the first lesson Wednesday when her individual lead in team gymnastics slipped away in a tumble from the uneven parallel bars. Conameci, who couldn't improve on her perfect routines at the 1976 Olympics and here on Monday, finished fourth in the competition won by the awesome Soviets.

But the acrobatic Romanian was to get a chance for redemption in the individual all-around event today.

The Moscow Olympics today will also begin to see if the second lesson is true when Sebastian Coe and Steve Ovett, two running Britons engaged in a running feud, embark on their collision course.

Among the events in today's opening Olympic track and field session are finals in the women's shot put, the men's 20-kilometer walk and the women's pentathlon, plus the first heats for the men's 800-meter race. Coe is the world record holder in this event, 1:42.4, with Ovett right on his heels. The semifinals are Friday and the long-awaited final Saturday.

"I'd like to think I'm well-prepared," said Coe. Ovett predicted his chance of winning the 800 is about 50 percent.

If all goes as planned and they meet in Saturday's final, then their next confrontation would be next week in the 1,500 meters, in which they share the world record of 3:32.1.

Since no one has ever run a faster 1,500 than the two Britons, a case could be made for them being the best middle-distance runners of all time. Throw in the facts they don't take tea together and they've only raced twice against each other, and you have a couple of "Races of the Century" coming up.

Oops, there's that big buildup again. Well, better to wax hyperbolic about races than to write about the conditions here at these first Games behind the Iron Curtain, says Vladimir Popov, vice president of the Moscow Olympic Organizing Committee.

On a day when sports—and not politics—managed to dominate, it was Popov who raised the possibility of deporting journalists for negative reporting. Popov was critical of western press coverage that has included stories on the stringent Soviet security here and the police's manhandling of an Italian gay rights demonstrator.

"You may be sure that if the national dignity of the host country has been offended, we shall demand that resolute sanctions should be taken against these journalists," Popov said through an interpreter at a news conference.

Par Arvidsson of Sweden, a current University of California swimmer, won the gold medal in the 100-meter butterfly in 54.92 seconds.

Aleksander Portnov of the USSR won the springboard event, but the awards ceremony was postponed until Friday because the second, third and fourth place finishers protested the Soviet victory.

Rica Reinisch of East Germany won her second gold, breaking her world record in the 100-meter backstroke with a time of 1:00.86. Lina Kachushite of the Soviet Union also won her second gold, winning the 200-meter breaststroke in 2:29.54, an Olympic record.

Stevenson Up For 3rd Gold

By WILL GRIMSLEY
 AP Special Correspondent
 MOSCOW (AP)—Teofilio Stevenson starts the rocky trail toward his third gold medal in the Olympic Games Friday—a quest he says will prove he is the best heavyweight fist-fighter in the world. Pro or amateur.

Stevenson, the distant, silent man of the Moscow Olympics, reclined on a sofa in the foyer of the Olympic Village training quarters, watching swimming competition on TV, but he finally consented to discuss his illustrious career and future plans.

A pretty Russian guide sat next to him. People kept pushing forward to request autographs. Teofilio responded coldly, never showing recognition. A few newsmen pushed into the circle.

The 28-year-old Cuban fighter appeared to notice no one as he kept his eyes glued on the TV set.

Stevenson is a handsome 6 feet, 4 inches tall and weighs 220 pounds, with a long, strong-looking neck that is associated with aristocracy and busts of the great.

He closely resembles Muhammad Ali and has many of Ali's characteristics—whether by accident or design—without the latter's bombast, occasional puckishness and flair for the limelight.

To English-speaking interviewers, he holds up a hand and says, "No speak English." It is his handy weapon: Yet he understands and speaks English very well. When a Swedish reporter with a sprinkling of Spanish interceded, the Cuban heavyweight was stripped of his defenses and acceded to an informal interview. It suited his fancy. Otherwise, he would have gotten up and walked away.

"Ali is coming back again and fighting Larry Holmes in October," someone said. "Who do you think will win?"

Without looking away from the TV screen, he replied: "Holmes. Ali, he is too fat and out of shape. He should quit."

"Do you ever wish you had fought Ali or Holmes?" he was asked. Stevenson shrugged his shoulders.

"I asked Ali to fight me once—three, four rounds," he replied.

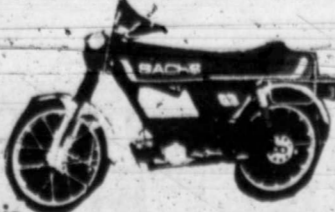

"I say, yes, Ali, he say, 'No.'"

Would he be willing to fight Holmes the same way?

"Yes," he replied in Spanish. "I ask him, too. He says, 'No.' Only three, four rounds, no more," Stevenson repeated.

HEALTH

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.
Conflict on leg cramps

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I'm 71 and active and I hope healthy

STUDENT WORK ADS

16 year old wants lawns to mow. Call 57-8616.

I will paint, mow and do odd jobs around the house. Call Mitchel at 573-9030.

but I've had leg cramps off and on for 40 years. I thought it was a circulatory problem and did nothing about the cramps until I heard about vitamin E. I now take 200 units daily and very rarely have any cramps. If I do, I take 400 for a couple of days and then return to my previous level.

Some of my friends who are doctors have said that if you have a balanced diet you don't need vitamins but when I ask about this, they just shrug. What do you think about this?

DEAR READER — In general, there are no diseases in humans that appear to be cured by vitamin E. It's almost impossible to cause a vitamin E deficiency in man. Our metabolic system is quite different from the animals that require vitamin E for normal health.

I'm sending you The Health Letter number 4-12, Vitamin E: Miracle or Myth, to give you more information about this vitamin and to help clarify some of the health misinformation widely circulated about it. Other readers who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long-stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Send your request to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019. Now, a vitamin E deficiency can cause a form of anemia in premature infants.

And you will be particularly interested to know that there is some evidence that taking vitamin E will relieve leg cramps in some people. Many doctors who have used this have told me about it and there are some research studies that help to support this, although there are other studies that conflict with these conclusions.

I think anyone who has leg cramps should have a medical examination to find out what the underlying cause is. That will help avoid the possibility of neglecting a serious medical problem while just taking vitamins. If there's no other underlying problem—that needs attention; there isn't any reason not to try vitamin E for leg cramps.

Many readers tell me that wearing heavy socks to bed helps prevent leg cramps at night. These should be long socks well above the calf. Other means of keeping the legs warm at night also seem to help.

DEAR DR. LAMB — About a year ago I was being prepared for abdominal surgery. X-rays showed a deformity in the kidneys. It seems that when the kidneys were supposed to have split forming two kidneys during fetal development, mine didn't. Consequently, I have one very large kidney which the doctors call a horseshoe kidney.

My doctor said there is no danger other than the chance that if I were in a wreck and the doctor tried to remove a kidney it would be the only one I had. I'd like your views on this subject.

DEAR READER — I wouldn't worry about it. It is a rare birth defect. In all probability, you do have two kidneys. The usual abnormality is that the two kidneys are fused at their lower end just like joining together two kidney beans at their lower end. That's what causes the horseshoe shape. These kidneys function in a perfectly normal manner. If you happen to develop a stone or renal infection, that might involve both kidneys.

I think it's highly unlikely that a surgeon would remove your one kidney. The unusual shape of the horseshoe kidney would alert him at once to the problem.

'High' On Ban Of Head Shops

WICHITA FALLS (AP) — A city ordinance banning the sale, possession and use of drug paraphernalia gave Wichita Falls police officers "a real high."

The ordinance, based on a model statute by the Drug Enforcement Administration, was passed by the city council Tuesday night.
