Pinkerton-Whitman Reunion Scheduled Here Saturday

Incidents and events of 40 and 50 years ago, or longer, will be recalled and retold here Saturday, when the annual Pinkerton-Whitman and Foster Reunion is held at the American Legion Building.

The reunion is an annual get-together of former residents of the three thriving farm communities formerly located west and northwest of Haskell. Each year several hundred persons gather for the affair, many coming from various points throughout the state.

The gathering is strictly informal, with no planned program arranged. Principal features include renewing acquaintances first made years ago, and re-telling of happenings in the three communities.

Each family attending brings a basket lunch, and an old-fashioned basket dinner is a highlight of the occasion.

The reunion officially gets underway at 5 p. m., but many gather earlier in order to meet and renew acquaintances with friends from out-of-town.

Members of early day families in the three communities, and their descendants, are invited to attend the affair.

Farming Is A Big Business

How do we, as business people, think of our farmers, and his relation to the success of our business?

We feel that the people as a whole should become aware of and proud of our country's farmers and her agriculture business.

The public needs to realize that farmers have invested 203 billion dollars, which is equal to three quarters of the assets of all United States corporations added together. The investment of these farmer's businesses equals $21,300 per farm employee, almost 50 per cent greater than for each worker in industry.

We are afraid that few people realize that modern farming today is the nation's biggest industry, employing 7.4 million workers—more than the steel industry, more than the auto industry—and more than transportation and public utilities combined.

We in business can well afford to look upon farmers and upon agriculture business, in general, as the most important part of our country and probably the whole entire economy because:

The farmer is the chemical industries biggest customer.

Farmers use more petroleum than any other single industry.

Farmers use huge quantities of rubber, electricity and many other items, totaling nearly 26 billion dollars annually, just to produce the crops and livestock we buy or consume as food or fiber.

In fact, four out of every ten jobs in private employment are in agriculture business jobs related to farming.

Long Arm

Another income tax time has come and gone. And millions of us feel a sad flatness in the pocketbook.

Once the income tax was a rich man's tax—people of small and moderate earnings paid little or nothing. But now, as Citizens Public Expenditure Survey observes, "the long arm of the Internal Revenue Service, reaches out to nearly everybody."

Here's the cold statistical story: Of the total federal tax, people who earn under $5,000 a year pay 21 per cent. The $5,000-$10,000 group pays 39 per cent. The $10,000-$15,000 earners pay 11 per cent. The $15,000-$50,000 people pay 17 per cent. And the real big income group—$50,000 and over—pays only 12 per cent.

This isn't because the rich are favored—income tax rates reach a top bracket of 91 per cent. It simply reflects the fact that there are not enough wealthy people to foot the bill for government—but there are millions of individuals in the modest income brackets. So, inevitably, the latter must pay the great bulk of government costs. And they, collectively, would gain the most from reductions in non-essential governmental spending.

While admitting we've reached the stage where birthdays are not looked forward to with eagerness, they can still be pretty nice occasions.

Last Thursday, for instance, just as we'd walked into the Texas Cafe for our afternoon slug of coffee, waitresses and other workers in the cafe started singing "Happy Birthday" to cafe owner Stanley Furrh at a rear booth. Noting our entry, Stanley boomed a hearty "Come on back and join in." Then he let out the secret that our birthdays come on the same date, with the result that we got the "Happy Birthday" song, too, along with a generous helping of Stanley's cake.

To round out the celebration, the group of songsters called Dr. Frank Scott, whose birthday also came on that date, and gave him birthday greetings in song via telephone.

We hope it doesn't portend a repetition of history, but the Army convoy of some 30 or more vehicles which rolled through here last Thursday was reminiscent of the era two decades back, in early 1941. That was when Army units were being transferred from Oklahoma to new Camp Barkley at Abilene and the convoys became a common sight through this area.

The unit which came through Thursday was being sent to Yakima, Washington, officers in the convoy told members of the sheriff's department. It was estimated about a week would be required for the caravan to reach its destination.

Persons reading last week's classified ads may have stopped and read for the second time, as we did, the ad reading "Old bird dog for sale," and signed by Jason Smith.

Not knowing much about bird dogs, our thought was that Jake was getting rid of a hunting dog which had passed its prime.

Not so, however, because Jake's ad should have read "Six months old bird dog for sale." Somehow, in getting the ad in type, the first three words were lost, with the result that the dog aged considerably.

Anyone interested in securing a good young bird dog should contact Jake, The Haskell man rates as one of the top bird hunters in this area, and if anyone knows a good dog, he does.

On the subject of hunting, the country around Haskell furnishes some of the best hunting in season as any place in the state—quail, dove, turkey, deer—and occasionally a wild hog for excitement and good measure.

But game has not always been plentiful. In fact, some of our local sportsmen have seen a full cycle insofar as game is concerned.

Fellows like Alfred Pierson, Jake Smith, John Payne, Hill Oates, Earl Atchison, Oscar Oates, Sam Cobb and others recall that bob white and blue quail, doves, turkey and other game could be found in abundance in their boyhood.

Indiscriminate hunting over a period of several years thinned out wild game of all kinds, almost doing away with the sport of hunting.

Efforts at restocking game birds, and later deer and turkey, started in the 20's, was continued for a decade or longer, and in a few years results became noticeable as game birds became plentiful in all parts of the county when conditions were favorable.

Closed seasons on turkey and deer resulted in their spread over quite a bit of the rough country in the southeast and east parts of the county, as well as in the river breaks in Stonewall County.

As a result, local sportsmen have seen the return of plentiful, if not abundant, wildlife to this area which provides them, in season, with hunting on a scale with bygone days.

Game animals are not the only kind that are increasing according to Nightwatchman Joe Larned. He says that "polecats" or skunks are about to take the town at night. Claims there are more than he has ever seen before.

Joe vows he saw five of the little striped animals come out from under a building near the City Hall, and he's positive a family of skunks has dened up there.

He has seen others in alleys around the business section, especially at the rear of grocery stores where the animals probably forage for discarded vegetables in trash boxes.

Joe was given some advice on how to deal with skunks by Chief of Police Bull Barnett, who claims to be an expert on handling the critters.

"Simply pick the skunk up by the tail and hold him off the ground. As long as his feet do not touch the ground, a skunk is absolutely harmless," the Chief told Joe.

But Joe is far from being convinced, and he's not going to do any experimenting. Says he has a pretty fair idea what that skunk would be doing while he was picking the critter up.

Throckmorton, now only a good 30-minute drive from Haskell, once was a full day's drive in a buggy, while heavily loaded wagons required about two days for the 25-mile trip between the two towns.

After the Wichita Valley Railroad built into Haskell in 1907, enterprising wagon freighters built up a lucrative business between Haskell and Throckmorton.

The freighters had a midway overnight camping spot on North Paint Creek, near what is known as the Old Zelsko place. Because there was plenty of good water for both humans and stock, ample grass, shade and firewood, the spot became a regular stopping place for wagon traffic between the two towns. Farmers would haul their grain, corn, cotton and other farm products to Haskell and load up with supplies to take back.

According to old-timers, it was not uncommon to see a dozen or more wagons camped on North Paint for the night stop.

At one time, around 1910 or earlier, a cotton gin was built in that vicinity, on the north side of the road. It was operated for a few years, then either burned or was torn down and moved. However, for a long time the foundations and other relics of the gin remained but have long since disappeared.

Another landmark in that area, this side of North Paint, was the railroad dump graded up for a projected railroad through the Swenson lands. The road was to have started at Stamford and extended northeast. Considerable grading work was done over a stretch of several miles, but when financial backing failed to materialize, the project was abandoned.

However, traces of the road bed can still be seen, in the form of a slight ridge across ranch pasture.

Before State Highway 24 was built, the old dirt road to Throckmorton was routed over a steep hill a few miles this side of that city. The grade was not too difficult for empty wagons, but heavily loaded vehicles took a longer route which skirted the hill.

When Model T trucks began to replace freight wagons, the trucks also found the hill difficult to negotiate, and many a truck stalled and rolled back downhill, sometimes with disastrous results.

More daring and resourceful drivers at times resorted to driving their Model T trucks up the hill in reverse. This maneuver required a skillful driver, but it had advantages. The gearing ratio was lower in reverse, and this had the equivalent of adding to the engine's

When the evenin' shade is fallin' at the end of the day, An' a feller rests from labor and smokes his pipe o' clay, There's nothin' does him so much good, be fortune up or down, As the little country paper from his Ol' Home Town.

It takes the wrinkles away an' brushes off the frown, That little country paper from his Ol' Home Town. It tells of all the parties and balls at Pumpkin Row; 'Bout who spent Sunday with whose girl and how the crops'll grow;

An' how it keeps a feller posted 'bout who is up and who is down, That little country paper from his Ol' Home Town. Now, I like to read the dailies and the story papers, too, An' at times the yaller novels an' some other trash—don't you?

But when I want some readin' that'll brush away a frown, I want that little paper from my Ol' Home Town.

of the proposed water supply and detailed answers regarding the financing of the project. It also informed voters of cost to the tax payers and to the towns for water furnished by the Authority.

On June 17, 1958, the election to confirm the Water Authority was held in the seven towns mentioned above, and Rule voted 82 for and 39 against. Knox City and Rochester failed to confirm the Authority and were dropped out at that time. Plans and costs were revised for the project to serve the remaining five towns and a second letter was mailed to the voters in those towns prior to the election on Sept. 6, 1958.

According to your letter, this last election was the only one that really counted. Please be reminded of the length of time that elapsed from the election to confirm the Water Authority on June 17, 1958, to the final election on Oct. 11, 1958.

In your illustration of the man who lives in the country and owns a business in town, the water tax assessed against his business property is described as "Taxation Without Representation."

the governing bodies of England. You and all the people of the State of Texas were represented by duly elected Legislators when the bill that created the NCTMWA was enacted, and that same bill empowered the Water Authority to levy and collect taxes. Persons living outside the Rule Independent School District pay school taxes on the property that they own within the District, but do not protest that they are being taxed without representation because they are not allowed to vote on school issues, nor has dissolution of the Rule Independent School District been recommended because of the system of taxation outside the town shares with the residents the advantages that the town offers.

I realize that taxes will never be popular and will always present a problem to the people on low incomes such as Old Age Assistance, Aid for Needy Blind, Persons receiving such aid should consult the representatives of the Texas Department of Public Welfare who services their cases and investigate the possibility of an increased grant.

You have asked readers of your letter to observe Aspermont's well North of Rule as a part of your example of the plentiful underground water available to Rule, but if you are informed of developments to the north, you will already be aware that the Water Authority has been contacted by the Mayor of Aspermont relative to the purchase of water from the Authority.

You presented, as part of your argument against the dependability of surface water, Elephant Butte reservoir in New Mexico. Had you availed yourself of further information you would have learned that the Elephant Butte dam was built in 1916 by the Bureau of Reclamation.

for the proposed Miller Creek Lake. Fortunately, Fort Worth has not depended upon one lake to supply water for her growing population, but is now being served by two additional lakes. However, at the beginning of that wonderful city's history, she was dependent to a degree upon underground water, as we have been.

You say that you love your town and its people, and you vow that you despise unfairness. Yet in your letter you make malicious insinuations against your water commissioner and repeat rumors regarding another of your townspeople described as "a prominent man." You mention election irregularities and imply that you had knowledge of such irregularities yet you, as a citizen, did nothing to correct such corruption. You claim to know the history of your country and take the slogan of our beloved forefathers out of context and distort it for use in your examples. I find it hard to believe that you are sincere when you make such contradictions as these. You have heard a great deal, but you have learned nothing, and your letter indicates to me that you prefer listening to street talk and the spreading of rumors to learning of the situation that exists by studying information available to you.

Open House Held Sunday Honoring 100-Year-Old Haskell Woman

MRS. M. E. LANCASTER

... 100 Years Old

A frail, bright-eyed woman, born in Missouri the year the Civil War started, was the center of attention Sunday afternoon at open house in the Magazine Club, held in honor of her 100th birthday which was celebrated April 25.

Honor guest was Mrs. M. E. Lancaster, believed to be Haskell County's oldest resident and one of the few surviving pioneers who were the first permanent settlers here in the early days of the century.

The open house was hosted by Mrs. Lancaster's children and grandchildren, and scores of friends and neighbors called during the afternoon. Despite her age, the pioneer woman enjoyed greeting guests and well-wishers, many of them acquaintances for more than half a century.

Mrs. Lancaster was born April 25, 1861, in Carter County, Mo. Her parents were Wyatt W. Williamson and his wife, the former Mollie Ann Gravens of Moore County, N. C., whose parents moved to Missouri shortly after the beginning of the Civil War. Mr. Williamson joined the Confederate Army and died in a Federal prison in St. Louis. The widowed mother moved her family to Stone County, Ark., when Mrs. Lancaster was five years old. Her mother died when she was eight years old and she lived with an uncle, Adam Brewer, until her marriage to A. L. Lancaster Feb. 7, 1882.

In 1894, Mr. and Mrs. Lancaster moved to Texas, making the trip in a covered wagon, and settling near Killeen, in Bell County.

After farming in Bell County for several years, Mr. and Mrs. Lancaster decided to move their family to Haskell County in 1903. They traveled in covered wagons, bringing all their household possessions. The trip required about three weeks. After arriving here, Mr. Lancaster purchased a farm seven miles northeast of Haskell.

Looking back over almost 60 years she has lived here, Mrs. Lancaster recalls many changes that have taken place, as well as early-day experiences. Neighbors were few, there were no graded roads, while bridges were a rarity.

Farming was new to this section, and there were very few acres in cultivation in the early 1900s. Mrs. Lancaster recalls that their children used a surrey in going 10 miles to school each day.

After the death of her husband on June 13, 1927, Mrs. Lancaster continued to live on their farm until 1945. Since that time she has made her home with a daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Atchison.

Although now past the century mark, Mrs. Lancaster is still active. One regret is that she cannot walk far, but she enjoys riding in a car. She has been a member of the Methodist Church since childhood.

Six of Mrs. Lancaster's seven children are living. They are: H. B. Lancaster of Abilene, F. H. Lancaster of Roysse

City, Ray Lancaster of Irving, E. L. Lancaster, Mrs. Earl Atchison and Mrs. Frank Lewellen, all of Haskell. She has 24 grandchildren, 43 great-grandchildren, and 15 great-great-grandchildren.

B-58 Hustler To Fly Corridor Over Haskell

OFFUTT AFB, Neb. — The Free World's first supersonic bomber, the B-58 Hustler, soon will begin flying periodic training missions over towns and cities within a 40-mile corridor from Amarillo, Texas, to Matagorda Island.

The flights will be flown by crews of the Strategic Air Command's 43rd Bomb Wing at Carswell AFB, Texas.

The B-58 missions will provide operational training under all-weather conditions and may be made at any time during the day or night.

The Convair-built bomber will surpass the speed of sound, possibly causing sonic booms at altitudes between 35,000 and 50,000 feet. Training flights at lower altitudes will be flown at subsonic speed.

Sonic booms are merely thunder-like sounds that are heard when a shock wave is generated by an aircraft flying at supersonic speeds.

Soil Stewardship Is Termed the Responsibility of Everyone

(Soil Stewardship is termed everyone's responsibility in the following message from Donald A. Williams, administrator of the U. S. Soil Conservation Service. — Editor.)

Soil Stewardship Week, May 7-14, is an important time for people throughout America, both rural and urban, for it is time for emphasizing the importance of soil in the lives of people everywhere.

Soil Stewardship Week is a time for renewing awareness of man's responsibility to the land. It is not a reminder to the farmer or rancher alone, but a reminder to everyone who would put a spade to the soil. The contractor with his housing development, the lumberman with his sawmill, and even the gardener with his plot of ground, share in the responsibility this week emphasizes. It is a week also of acquainting the city dweller with the role good land use plays in his life.

Without a doubt, both rural and urban dwellers have an interest in the use of our natural resources, particularly the soil. This interest goes beyond the present use of our land. It must take into consideration the demands that will be placed on the land by future generations, and the obligation that man has to those who will follow him.

After all, to whom does the land really belong? To you? To me? Isn't it a fact that it doesn't belong to any of us at all? Aren't we really just stewards of the land as well as everything we acquire in life?

We come into the world with nothing and leave it the same way. For we return to the land from whence we came, and what we leave behind us we leave to those who come after us.

Perhaps this is what makes us feel a close kinship to the earth. Or it may be that the earth is that part of nature that the poet and philosopher Samuel Taylor Coleridge spoke of as the "agent" between God and man. Whatever the reason, each of us has a feeling of closeness to the land and through the land to the Creator of it. And with that closeness

Essay by Junior High Student Wins Second Place in District Contest

Judy Baitz, seventh grade student in Junior High School, had one of the prize-winning themes in the Eighteenth District Parent-Teacher Association "Safety Theme" contest.

Judy's article was awarded second place in the 13-county district, and she received an engraved certificate in recognition of her work. It reads as follows:

"Most of the accidents in the school happen in the gymnasium. There would be fewer accidents if the gymnasiums were properly constructed and equipped and kept in good condition. The students should not scuffle or fight or do anything harmful. The gymnasium floor should not be slippery. Sharp pillars and posts should be well padded.

"The students in classrooms can cause injuries by scuffling and fighting. Broken seats and desks should be reported at once. All materials should be stored neatly in safe places.

"Shops and laboratories present special hazards because of the kind of activities carried on in them. Students should know how to turn off machinery, so if they get an arm caught in it they will know how to turn it off. Bottles should be labeled so students will not get the wrong one.

"There are about as many accidents on the school grounds as there are in the building. Students should not throw things at each other. They should play games distances apart from each other. All accidents should be reported immediately so any necessary first aid can be given promptly."

Notaries Must Re-Qualify By June 1 and 10

Secretary of State Frank Lake has announced that all qualified Notaries Public desiring re-appointment for the term ending June 1, 1962, must re-qualify by the payment of the required fee and the filing of a new oath and bond with the County Clerk of his residence between June 1, 1961, and June 10, 1961.

Lake emphasized that Notaries Public should not send requests for re-appointment or for commissions directly to the Secretary of State. The law specifically requires that the County Clerks approve notary bonds.

Any person not now a Notary Public who desires appointment should apply to his County Clerk not later than May 20. This will assure prompt attention before the rush of procedure of re-appointing present Notaries.

The Secretary of State further pointed out that each person applying for a commission as a Notary Public must be at least 21 years of age and a resident of the county for which he is appointed. The exact name and permanent address of the applicant must be furnished the County Clerk.

Pet Collie Kills More Than 800 Baby Chicks

A pet collie dog, left unnoticed in a large brooder house at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Fischer in Southwest Haskell one night last week, destroyed more than 800 baby chicks valued at 45c each.

Mr. and Mrs. Fischer had received 1750 baby chicks on Tuesday of last week. On the following evening when Mr. Fischer went to attend to the chicks, the dog "Fistic" accompanied him and was left unnoticed inside the building when Mr. Fischer closed it for the night.

The year-old collie, a pet of the Fischer's three children, Carolyn, David and Marilyn, has never been vicious, and is believed to have crushed the chicks in attempting to play with them, the Fischers say.

HERE FROM ABILENE Mr. and Mrs. Karl McGregor, of Abilene were business visitors in Haskell Monday.

Typical of the action to be seen each night of the Jaycee-sponsored Rice Springs Round-Up May 18-19-20, is this picture made at a recent rodeo. This tough Brahma steer who has the hapless rider headed for the dust barely out of the chute, is an example of the rough and rugged rodeo stock that will be brought here by the H-K Rodeo Producers.
