Has Own Secret Formula...

'Witcher' Branching Out Into Oil Business

By JOHN LONG

There is power, H.L. Spitzer believes, that enables some people to witch water wells and oil wells. Spitzer, a retired chiropractor in the process of moving from Lubbock to Snyder, has been "witching" water wells for years, and he has lately tried his hand at finding oil wells. Through his witching he claims to have found a small oil well two miles east of Ira.

Located on the Leona Smallwood farm, Spitzer said preliminary estimates place the well's production at about 20 barrels a day. That well was brought in last week and it is the first in what Spitzer hopes is a series of oilfield strikes.

Of the power that enables him to find water and oil wells, Spitzer knows little.

"I wish I had all the answers, but I don't," he said. Spitzer believes the power to be "an electrical impulse going through me." Although he isn't certain, he believes gravity plays into the process somehow. He believes, too, that the power is God-given.

In addition to the powers within him, Spitzer has concocted his own "secret formula" that enables him to dowse wells. In locating a well, Spitzer uses a single brass rod at the end of which is tied a vial of the secret formula. One brew enables him to find water wells, he says, and another brew of the formula permits him to find oil wells.

Of oilfield geologists Spitzer says, "I can find oil before they even get started."

"The oil companies laugh at you. They think you're crazy," he said. The last laugh, however, is on them. Spitzer believes some oil companies commonly use dowsters and just don't admit it publicly.

If the power within him and the secret formula at the end of the brass rod enable him to find oil and water, then practice makes perfect. Spitzer was first introduced to water witching as a boy when he saw his mother dowse a water well for his father. That was back in 1919 in Haskell County.

Spitzer tried his hand at water witching, and found he could do it. Over the years he has dowsed about 50 water wells and claims a 95 percent success rate in finding water. What worked for water, he felt, could work for oil.

He concocted his secret formulas for water and oil 27 years ago. Through (See Witcher, Page 13)

CAIRO, Egypt (AP)—Egypt has asked Israel to delay sending its advance party to prepare resumption of Palestinian autonomy talks until Israeli Prime Minister Menachem Begin receives President Anwar Sadat's reaction to controversial Jerusalem legislation, Foreign Ministry sources here said today.

The talks were to resume in the Mediterranean city of Alexandria on Monday, and the Israeli advance party, composed mostly of technical staff and advisers, was expected here Sunday.

Sadat met with his top advisors in his home village of Mit Abul Kom Friday, and decided to send a "personal message" to Begin.

Ossama el-Baz, Egyptian undersecretary for foreign affairs, told reporters of Sadat's decision following the meeting, but he would not disclose the contents of the message. But it was expected to condemn the new Israeli law making united Jerusalem the capital of the Jewish state.

Foreign Ministry officials stressed that no decisions had been made on whether to cancel the next round of the autonomy talks.

Egypt, Israel's partner in peace, has questioned the propriety of raising the issue at this time as the two nations attempt to negotiate autonomy for the 1.2 million Palestinians living on the Israeli-occupied West Bank of the Jordan River and in the Gaza Strip.

Sadat already is on record as saying the new Israeli law violates the "spirit and wording of Camp David," which is the basis of the Egyptian-Israeli peace treaty signed in Washington last year.

Foreign Ministry sources said the message would be delivered to Saad Mortada, Egypt's ambassador in Tel Aviv, who will then relay it to Begin on Sunday.

El-Baz said a copy of Sadat's message to Begin also would be sent to President Carter through the U.S. ambassador to Egypt, Alfred Atherton.

The Jerusalem issue led Sadat to suspend the talks in May, but he agreed to a resumption following a meeting of the heads of the three delegations to the talks in Washington last month.

Butros Ghali, minister of state for foreign affairs, cutting short a visit to France to consult with Sadat on Friday, stressed that it was necessary to "maintain the dialogue" with Israel.

"In the Camp David accords, it is necessary to distinguish between the basic principles and the institutions created by the accords," he told reporters in Paris. "What's important are the principles."

Atherton was to meet with Sadat Saturday night at Mit Abul Kom, according to a Western source, but not regarding the question of the resumption of the autonomy talks.

Mineral Values Up...

Scurry Tax Bills Late This Year

Property taxes are in the spotlight throughout Texas these days as the various entities move toward the new, unified appraisal districts and demands for funds increase.

The tax message for Scurry Counties has been delayed, as this county is among the first to initiate the county-wide appraisal system and the consolidation and up-dating of reords for all taxing entities of the county still is in progress.

However, the process has reached the state that some estimates are possible, and like most other counties, taxpayers generally face larger bills.

However, there is some good news along with the bad news.

On the "good" side, it appears that mineral (oil and gas) values will be up considerably, which helps cushion the pressure on local taxpayers. Oil prices for Scurry County production finally are increasing enough to become significant in the over-all value pattern.

Ray Peveler, chief appraiser for the Scurry

County Appraisal District, said the valuation engineers have advised that mineral values for the county are likely to reach $2.04 billion. Add an estimated $160 million in local values to that, and the total hits $2.2-billion. The county's 100 percent value figure last year about $1.4 billion.

Scurry County and the Scurry County Junior College District will assess on the total value for the county. For Snyder Independent School District, a rough guess at last report was a total valuation of around $1.7 billion. Ira and Hermleigh School Districts will assess on small-

Ask Us

Q—What is happening to trees and shrubs, even in the park, where they seem to be dying, and why aren't they removed?

A—The Texas Forest Service says dead leaves and bare trees are dotting streets, parks and landscaped yards throughout the state mostly because of the stress of drought and extremely hot weather. However, they say, if leaves are brown and dropping, don't crank up the chain saw yet. Wait until next spring to see if some branches bud out. If so, trim off the dead branches to encourage new growth. If they don't bud out, turn them into firewood.

Retires From Railroad After 33½ Years There

By JOHN DUNNAM

Although the industry is becoming more mechanized all the time and less manpower is needed, Raymond Phipps would recommend a career with the railroad for an ambitious young man. He should know something of which he speaks because he worked on the tracks for 33½ years. He retired Thursday. Now he plans to: "... fish, paint the house... pull weeds out of the yard..."

Phillips, 1903 Ave. M, hired on with Santa Fe in 1947. He started out with a surfacing gang on the old Bernecker section northwest of Sweetwater. His chores included such things as raising track, replacing ties and other jobs that gave railroad work a tough reputation. "We did it all with hand tools then," he said. "Now it is all highly mechanized work."

Phipps said a gang of eight men with their machines could make more headway now than the 65 allotted to his section could when he started his career.

The amount of men it takes to turn out the work are not the only changes Phipps has witnessed in the railroad business. In the last three decades he has seen it go from boom to bust and back and believes there is no end in sight to the latest boom.

"Right here on this line, I expect to see the number of trains double," he said. He attributes this to a number of factors, the energy crisis being the biggest.

"Due to the gas shortage we will be hauling a lot of lignite (coal). And just the cost of gas is making

Seek Housing For Students

Officials at Western Texas College are seeking information about available student housing in preparation for the fall semester which begins Aug. 27.

All dormitory space at the college is filled, and students planning to attend classes here this fall will be needing housing. Persons with rent houses, apartments and rooms are asked to fill out a form contained in today's paper.

The form should be completed and mailed to the Dean of Student Services at WTC.

Weekend update

Snyder Man Hurt In Crash

A 25 year old Snyder man was injured in a one car accident Friday night on the Ennis Creek road northeast of Town.

Ronald Wayne Porter, 409 31st St., remained in Cogdell Memorial Hospital Saturday after he failed to negotiate a curve in his American Motors car about 11:50 p.m. Friday. The car also sustained heavy damage in the crash, said investigating highway patrolman, Kirby McCravey.

Porter was taken to Cogdell by a Palmer EMS ambulance.

Census Supervisor Fired

SAN BENITO (AP)—Incompetence in the Cameron County's census office ignited a population dispute here, led to the firing of a census supervisor and may spark a numbers squabble in nearby Brownsville and Harlingen, officials say.

Deficiencies in preliminary census figures for San Benito stemmed from a county census director's alleged failure to hire sufficient personnel or provide an accurate account of master address registers, said Francisco Rodriguez, supervisor of the regional census bureau in Corpus Christi.

The county director, recently terminated, failed to "properly train crew leaders and enumerators," Rodriguez said.

SNYDER TEMPERATURES: High Friday, 98 degrees; low, 64 degrees; reading at 7 a.m. Saturday, 69 degrees; precipitation, none; total precipitation for 1980 to date, 10.77.

West Texas: Change of afternoon and nighttime thunderstorms mainly Panhandle and extreme southwest towards mid week. Otherwise continued sunny hot days and fair and warm nights. Highs mid 90s to 105. Lows mid 60s to mid 70s except near 60 mountains.

The SDN Column

Aside from pride and the personal satisfaction of dwelling in a growing community, concern about census figures stems from two major factors. One of these is of more concern to some areas than others. That is the fact that Uncle Sam takes population into consideration when he determines the size of certain handouts.

The other is representation in the nation's government. It has been predicted for some time that several Northeastern states will lose population to the South, Southwest and Far West, which in turn means that states realizing gains in head-count also will pickup seats in Congress at the expense of those on the loser's side.

Bringing it closer to home, state legislative districts will be affected. Some observers already are predicting that redistricting, for both state and federal purposes, will be the hottest potato in Austin during the 1981 session of the legislature.

The precise requirements cannot be determined until census figures become final, but our own District 63 in the Texas House of Representatives very likely will be enlarged. The district now embraces six counties—Scurry, Borden, Dawson, Howard, Sterling and Coke. The most populous of these, in order, are Howard, Scurry and Dawson, and the preliminary 1980 census figures indicate that their combined population has declined. Howard County is down by more than 5,000 and Dawson is down by 1,200 or more from 1970. Scurry County's gain of around 1,800 doesn't come close to making up the difference.

We haven't seen figures on Sterling and Coke Counties, but Borden County also is down by some 41. If Sterling and Coke Counties should come up with 10,000 between them, we would have a district total of only around 75,000.

Some of the "ballpark" estimates we have seen indicate that a legislative district will require about 90,000 people next year. This would mean an area yielding at least 15,000 souls would have to be added to our district to put it in line. That could be another county of approximately the same population as Dawson, or several smaller counties.

And even closer to home, there have been indications that Scurry County has managed to hold off redistricting of its commissioner's precincts without challenge only until the new census figures are in.

So, the interest in the census is not merely pride and federal handouts.

USDA Still Uncertain About Crop Damage

WASHINGTON (AP)—It will be another 10 days before the Agriculture Department has an accurate fix on how much damage has been done to corn and other crops by this summer's heat wave and drought.

A much-anticipated report on the impact of this summer's sweltering weather was issued Friday, but it fell far short of saying much new about the U.S. crop situation.

Mostly, the report summed up what has been said by USDA officials in recent weeks: Although high temperatures and drought have hurt farmers in some areas, the weather has not had a severe impact so far on agricultural production or consumers.

But officials warned that "weather developments over the next several weeks could change the outlook for crops and livestock considerably."

Food prices still are expected to rise between 8 percent and 9 percent in 1980, well within the range of 7 percent to 11 percent that the USDA has predicted since last fall, the report said.

An acceleration in food prices is occurring in the third quarter of this year but "should moderate" in the fourth quarter, it said. That also had been indicated previously by USDA economists.

The report was sent to Sen. Herman E. Talmadge, D-Ga., who had asked the USDA to assess the effects of this summer's massive heat wave and drought conditions that have plagued much of the nation.

Agriculture Secretary Bob Bergland told Talmadge, chairman of the Senate Agriculture Committee, the report would be updated as the situation warranted.

The report did not include estimates of actual crop production losses from heat and drought but it did cite some crop estimates officially made by USDA last month and noted that crop prospects have deteriorated since then.

Another full-scale report is scheduled to be released on Aug. 11. It will provide the first hard figures that will help in determining more accurately the losses to key crops.

Department analysts said:

—The hot-dry conditions for the most part have not been centered in the main growing areas of the major spring-planted crops. Exceptions are cotton in Texas, sorghum in Texas, Oklahoma, Missouri and Arkansas and spring wheat in the northern Great Plains.

—Stocks of grain carried over from last year's bumper harvests "are large in absolute terms as well as relative to projected usage." Of about 1.7 billion bushels of corn expected to be on hand when the harvest begins this fall, almost 1 billion are held by farmers in the governments' reserve program.

"Thus, even if conditions do not improve... the large carryover stocks will provide a cushion for any further reduction in crop prospects and will accommodate large domestic and foreign requirements," the report said.

Hot weather has killed an estimated 8 million broiler chickens and production "may be reduced somewhat from previous expectations" in coming months. But that will be offset by more beef output, the result of "marginally larger" cattle slaughter in the July-September period, the report said.

"While returns to farmers in severely impacted areas will be smaller, USDA's drought assistance programs will aid farmers and ranchers hurt by the prolonged drought and heat wave," it said.

Looking at corn and other feed grains — which form the most important grains for U.S. production of cattle, hogs, poultry and dairy products, the report said:

—Since July 1, crop prospects have deteriorated for all feed grains, particularly corn and sorghum. Hot, dry conditions have reduced corn yields in most states, with the most severe impacts in Missouri, Georgia, Nebraska, South Dakota, Texas and southern and western parts of Iowa and Illinois.

—Sorghum crop prospects have also declined in the major producing states of Texas, Kansas, Nebraska and Missouri. For the week ending July 20, the crop was generally in fair to poor condition in the southwestern and Delta states but conditions remained fair to excellent in the Corn Belt.

Defensive Driving Course Offered

Automobile owners interested in cutting insurance costs are invited to enroll in the defensive driving course to be offered at Western Texas College on the next two Monday nights.

Students who complete the course receive certificates entitling them to reductions on several types of car insurance.

The saving on insurance is really a bonus, Dr. Jim Palmer, instructor, points out. Defensive driving is designed to help make the driver a better driver and to prevent accidents which result in deaths, personal injury, and great loss in time and money each year.

Defensive driving classes will meet from 6-10 p.m. on Aug. 4 and 11 in the cosmetology classroom at the east end of the campus.

Fees are $15 per person. Students must attend both class meetings to receive completion certificates. Students who miss either session and want to make it up at a later time will be required to pay the $15 fee again.

Space in the class is to be reserved by calling the Continuing Education office at 573-8511, extension 240.

New Miss Texas To Keep Title

FORT WORTH (AP)—A state district judge says Miss Texas Pageant officials did not transgress "reason, common sense, fairness or the laws of Texas" in the election of a titlist and he will not order her to surrender the crown.

Judge Hall Lattimore refused to grant a temporary injunction Friday that would have de-throned the reigning Miss Texas, Terri Eoff, and given the title to the first runner-up, Bobbie Lynn Candler.

"It's almost like winning again," Miss Eoff said Friday.

The injunction, sought in a suit filed by Miss Dallas sponsors, would have prevented pageant officials from grooming Miss Eoff for the Miss America Pageant until after a full hearing on the suit.

The suit was filed July 21, nine days after Miss Eoff won the crown over the predicted favorite Miss Candler, the current Miss Dallas and a three-time Miss Texas runner-up.

The Miss Dallas sponsors contended during three days of testimony earlier this week that Miss Eoff, former Miss Lubbock, won the contest because she was allowed to violate pageant time limit rules.

They contended the time limit violation gave Miss Eoff an unfair advantage over Miss Candler.

Miss Dallas sponsors claimed pageant officials had a contractual obligation to enforce a two-minute 50-second time limit because of franchise agreements on the enforcement of contests rules existing between state and local pageant organizations.

Lattimore rejected the claims, saying the administration and control of the pageant is "solely internal," and pageant officials did nothing wrong when they permitted Miss Eoff to run two minutes over the time limit.

Rose Raley, spokeswoman for Miss Dallas Inc., said they would decide over the weekend whether to pursue their case further.

Miss Eoff said she isn't bitter about the court battle because, "you can't be when people are just standing up for what they believe is right."

"I'll just have to chalk it up to experience," she said.

Ms. Raley expressed disappointment with the judges' ruling but said she was pleased the case was taken seriously.

Miss Candler said she wasn't surprised at the ruling, just "disappointed" because Lattimore's ruling "doesn't say anything about pageant rules."

The current Miss Dallas said she doubted she would compete a fourth time because "this means any girl can come back next year and compete and the rules won't be enforced."

The Dallas sponsors are also suing to collect more than $30,000 that they said they lost unfairly when they spent the money to hold the Miss Dallas pageant and groom Miss Candler for the state contest.

That trial is expected to be scheduled later this month.

On Missouri Farm...

Family Planning To 'Live Off The Land'

By JOHN LONG
The lure of being his own man, of not being beholden to oil companies and utilities, has prompted John Loftin of Snyder to pull up stakes and head for Missouri where he plans to live off the land.

"To tell the truth, I don't know why I feel like I do," said the city-bred Loftin, "but I've always wanted to be on a farm and live fairly self-sufficiently."

Loftin's desire for self sufficiency has prompted him to buy 240 acres of his wife's grandfather's farm in Missouri, approximately 30 miles south of Springfield, in the heavily forested Ozark Mountains. On it he plans to build, by his own hand and using as many materials as the local land can provide, an underground, solar-powered home.

"I hate to be at the mercy of oil companies, gas companies, and electric companies," declared the 31-year-old Loftin.

Accompanying Loftin will be his wife, Karen, and their 6-year-old daughter, Tori. Another child is due in December, so Loftin doesn't plan to start construction of his dream house until next spring. The family has, however, already pulled up stakes and gone to Missouri. Loftin plans to take a job at a backpacking store in Springfield until the spring. The family left Snyder Saturday.

The land, forested in walnut and white oak trees, will furnish lumber for the house and logs for the winter. Once the energy-efficient house is built, Loftin will be free to turn his attention to growing his own food and making his own clothes.

Each year will bring about a little more self-sufficiency than the year before, he has it planned. Loftin's return to nature is not a retreat to primitivism, he maintains. He plans to subscribe to newspapers and magazines as well as keep a telephone in the home. He will use a power saw for cutting the trees on his farm, too. Gone, however, will be the television.

"I'm for sane progress, responsible progress," said Loftin. "I don't want to go back to the pioneer days. There was too much suffering."

Self sufficiency, in Loftin's philosophy, is not a goal in itself but a way of life.

"Enjoy what you're doing and always improve on what you're doing. That's the way you keep progressing," he said.

"We're looking for a balance," he added, "for a harmony where everything balances together."

Karen Blaker Ph.D.

Patience is not the answer

By Karen Blaker, Ph.D.

DEAR DR. BLAKER
You recently advised a woman whose 4-year-old son started wetting his bed after some family crisis to let up on the discipline and try to understand that becoming a baby again was his only way to communicate his insecurities.

I appreciated seeing the column because I have a similar problem with my 10-year-old daughter. So, even though I have some strong feeling about knocking some sense into her, I am going to try your patient approach. I hope it works.

DEAR READER - I hope so too, but I have my doubts.

Even though you have written about your daughter's problem, I can tell that you may be faced with something more serious than the slight regression of a 4-year-old who does not have the language skills to communicate effectively about his plight.

Because your daughter is 10 years old, her loss of bladder control should be discussed immediately with your doctor. Whether the cause turns out to be psychological or physiological, this should be your first step.

Second, I want to use this opportunity to warn you and other readers about using advice that runs contrary to your usual practice. For example, if you believe strongly in firm discipline of children, you probably would not be able to carry through consistently with an approach of patient acceptance or benign neglect.

DEAR DR. BLAKER - I am a sophomore in college.

I'm rooming with a very strange girl. She wears the same clothes every day and washes them out in the sink every night. She sometimes spends days at a time in bed without talking or eating.

The most frightening thing is that I have awakened during the night to find her standing over me, just staring down.

Until last month, we never talked about this strange behavior. Then something happened that really upset me and I had to tell her how I feel.

One Sunday I was getting dressed to visit my parents in town when she grabbed me from the rear, holding my arms behind my back. With her free hand she started massaging my breasts. I broke her hold by throwing her off balance with my feet. And I ran out of the room.

I talked to my parents, and they said I should talk to her. I tried, but I can't seem to get through to her.

I guess I also feel a little guilty. Maybe I did something that sexually excited her. Maybe it's my fault.

DEAR READER - Don't

Teenager Faces Murder Charge

SAN ANTONIO (AP)-A teen-ager accused of stabbing a 17-year-old boy 108 times and impaling him on a stake has been indicted on a murder charge by the Bexar County grand jury.

Richard Duarte, 17, who has been certified as an adult for trial, was charged with the March 10 slaying of Daniel Rocha Jr.

assume responsibility for what happened.

If merely getting dressed in front of another woman provokes a homosexual attack, there definitely is a problem. But it's not yours.

From the other behavior you describe, your roommate sounds seriously disturbed. For that reason, I advise that you not talk with her about her problems. That might put you in an even more dangerous position. She needs professional help.

Talk to the school counselor about what has been going on and request an immediate room change. Don't feel guilty about telling on your roommate. In the long run, you will be doing her a service. Her bizarre behavior is, after all, a cry for help.

Fun, laughter and entertainment await those who attend the upcoming Colorado City Playhouse production of "Never Too Late," say its actors.

This three act comedy will be presented nightly August 14, 15, 16, 21, 22 and 23 with curtain time set for 8 p.m. each night.

"Never Too Late" is a riotous comedy, revolving around Harry and Edith Lambert, a middle-aged couple who live in Calverton, a small town in Massachusetts, he says.

The entire production takes place in the living room of the Lambert home. Harry, a stately, personable man who owns the largest lumberyard in town, is suddenly confronted by the possibility that he may soon become a father again after more than twenty years.

To add to his dismay, his wife who has always been a quiet, complacent, though energetic person has suddenly become independent, domineering and demanding.

Improvement In Trade Balance

NEW YORK (AP)—The latest figures on U.S. trade showed a marked improvement in this country's ability to sell as much as it buys abroad.

The amount spent to buy foreign products still outstrips the amount earned from selling U.S. goods abroad. But the U.S. deficit on merchandise trade improved by a dramatic 40 percent between the first and second quarters.

It fell to $8.1 billion in the April-June period from $13.5 billion in the first three months of the year. The second-quarter deficit was the smallest trade gap since late 1978.

That improvement doesn't mean that U.S. trade will avoid ending up in the red for the fifth consecutive year. In fact, many economists believe that it will be a bit worse than last year's $37 billion deficit.

The high cost of imported oil, which has more than doubled price in the past 18 months, continues to be the biggest burden in the import bill, despite a decrease in quantities the United States imports.

Morgan Guaranty Trust Co., in a recent report, estimated that the cost of imported oil this year will reach $85 billion, about double the 1978 bill before oil prices soared.

But some economists still find encouraging signs amid all that red ink.

Manufacturers Hanover Trust economists pointed out in a report, for instance, that the level of U.S. exports has managed since 1977 to grow faster than the level of imports even though they do not yet offset import costs.

In 1977, exports rose 5 percent from a year earlier, but gained 18 and 26 percent in the next two years. Imports in 1977 grew 22 percent from the previous year and 16 and 22 percent in 1978 and 1979.

In the first half of 1980, exports were up 19 percent from the 1979 total and imports were 18 percent higher. If they continued at that rate for a year, exports would total $215.6 billion and imports $259 billion this year.

The bank report suggests several reasons for the relative improvement in exports. The decline in the value of the dollar relative to other currencies over the past several years helped make U.S. exports more attractive.

Drought To Cut Pecan Yields

COLLEGE STATION—Drought conditions in Texas could easily put a serious dent in an already short pecan crop.

Dr. George Ray McEachern, horticulturist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System, said Texas pecans are currently experiencing serious water shortage problems. He said the predicted harvest is already down about 40 percent in non-irrigated orchards and if the drought continues for three more weeks harvest could be down as much as 80 percent.

Young trees have stopped growing and mature trees will have short crops of smaller-than-usual nuts. McEachern said trees growing in sandy or shallow soil are suffering the most. Young trees need a uniform soil moisture level during the growing season, from April to October.

Without question, irrigation is a must, and large trees that are producing need large volumes of water. He said large trees use over 100 gallons per day in July and August.

Bearing trees should not be drought-stressed. Important irrigation periods are early spring when growth begins, mid-summer when the nut develops and early fall as the kernel develops. A fall drought can reduce the percentage of kernels significantly, McEachern said.

Homeowners should apply two inches of water to lawn trees if over two weeks of drought occurs. Shallow or sandy soil will need more frequent irrigation. To avoid salt burn on leaves, homeowners should not sprinkle foliage, the specialist said.

Electronics Course For Hobbyists Set

Hobbyist Electronics, a basic course for students from ages 10-16, is to be offered at Western Texas College from Aug. 11-13.

Classes will meet from 8:30-11:30 a.m. each morning with Randy Mosley as instructor. Fees are $20 per person plus a $20 lab fee. The lab fee will cover the equipment needed to build sound effects, a crystal radio and small transistor radio which the student will keep and can use in continuing experiments at home.

Mosley also plans to offer the course for students in Colorado City from 1:30-4:30 p.m. on the same dates. The fees will be the same.

Persons interested in the class are to enroll by calling the Continuing Education office at 573-8511, extension 240 as quickly as possible. Registration deadline is Aug. 8.

Elvis's Cousin Now Tries His Hand At Singing

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—Tony Smith has had his share of driving trucks, just like his cousin. So he's going to try singing, like his cousin.

Tony Smith, a guitarist-singer like cousin Elvis Presley, has released his first record: "Road to Success." Just as Presley gave up driving a truck for Crown Electric Co. about 25 years ago in Memphis, Tenn., Smith, also of Memphis, has forsaken driving a truck for a landscaping company to concentrate on his singing.

Smith, 26, has assumed a stage name of Tony Presley, his first and middle name, to help his career. "I want to be a singer and be able to perform and excite the people," he says.

The record is out on the third anniversary of the rock 'n' roll king's death. Elvis Presley died of heart failure at his Graceland Mansion Aug. 16, 1977.

Also out is a 25th anniversary, limited edition, eight-record Elvis Presley album, "Elvis Aron Presley."

"I've been to the grave a couple of times but I don't like to go," Smith says.

"When I drive by Graceland, I get vibes," he says, without elaboration.

The young singer's father was a brother of Presley's mother. There's a slight resemblance vocally, but the new Presley says he's not trying to copy his famous cousin.

"Some people tell me I sound a lot like him, especially in parts of the record, but I don't want to make people think I'm trying to capitalize on him. I don't expect to be as big as he was. I just want to make a living."

He couldn't pass up the chance, however, to use the Presley name.

"Obviously," he says. "He remembers his famous cousin 'as an idol. But he was just another person, too. With a lot of money."

The late singer once used some of that money to buy his young cousin a guitar, amplifier and microphone.

"He told me he wanted to hear me when I got good but I never could catch him," Smith says. "He was never alone. There was always a whole bunch of people with him."

WE BUY NATURAL GAS THE WAY YOU BUY GROCERIES.

Lone Star shops for the best values. Just as one brand of green beans might be a better value even though it costs a penny or two more, gas that costs the least could prove to be the most expensive.

We have to consider a number of factors. How much gas can we expect from a new field? How close is it to our existing pipelines? How much processing will the new gas need? Is the BTU content high or low?

As a result of this careful shopping, Lone Star's weighted average cost of gas in 1979 was $1.76 per MCF (1,000 cubic feet) of gas — lowest of any major intrastate gas company in Texas.

This savings is passed on to you because your monthly bill is based on our average cost of gas.

Ag Teachers Go To Workshop

Billy Bob McMullan and Floyd Collins, Snyder vocational agriculture teachers, will attend an in-service education workshop in Fort Worth the coming week.

Some 1,600 vocational agriculture teachers from throughout the state are expected for the workshop, which is held each year by the Vocational Agriculture Education Department of the Texas Education Agency, Austin.

First general session is set for 9 a.m. Tuesday in the Tarrant County Convention Center. Keynote speaker will be Dr. Harry E. Olson Jr., director of the Executive Program Center, Excelsior, Minn. The annual awards program is set for Tuesday night at which time pins and other awards will be presented.

On Wednesday and Thursday, teachers will participate in separate workshops on 12 different topics. Congressman Charles Steinhilf of the 17th Congressional District will address the group during the second general session Wednesday morning. The last general session will be held at 9 a.m. Thursday. ## Best Of 400 Watercolors Go On Exhibit In Scurry Museum

The best of 400 entries in the annual Texas Watercolor Society show may be seen in the Scurry County Museum this month as the Society's circuit show is featured there.

Elizabeth Osborne, painter and teacher from Philadelphia, Pa., was juror for the annual exhibition this year.

"I have been impressed by the broad range of styles and techniques I have found," she said. "It was particularly interesting to me that so many artists followed their own inspiration, ignoring trends and popular fads, thus giving the show a very personal and individual quality. I have enjoyed the great enthusiasm and understanding of the watercolor medium. The paintings I have singled out for awards show quality, imagination, skill and a personal intensity that deserve special mention."

The Texas Watercolor Society, which moves into its fourth decade of existence "as we enter the

'80s, was founded when the stream of watercolor was running dry, Amy Freeman Lee, president of the Society, says. "We have helped tap the wellspring of this demanding art form," she continues. "Not only is the water continuing to rise, but also our star, so we pause to give thanks as we enter the new decade."

The watercolor exhibit is to remain in the Scurry County Museum through Aug. 25. Museum hours are 9 a.m. to 12 noon each weekday, 1-5 p.m. Monday through Thursday, 4 p.m. on Fridays, and 1-5 p.m. on Sundays. The museum is on the campus of Western Texas College.

Judge Rules Out Paraphernalia Ban

FORT WORTH (AP)—A federal judge has told the city of Fort Worth it cannot, for the time being, enforce its new ordinance banning possession, sale or use of drug paraphernalia.

U.S. District Judge David Belew issued a temporary restraining order Thursday, prohibiting enforcement of the new law, until he can conduct a hearing on its constitutionality Aug. 11.

The ordinance was to have taken effect Thursday, and was designed to shut down so-called "head shops," stores which sell such items as opium pipes, cocaine holders, clips for marijuana cigarette butts, hypodermic needles and other items police say are commonly associated with drug use.

The ordinance was passed unanimously two weeks ago, but some city council members have said privately they doubted it would stand up in court.

Gasification Plant Causes Boom

BEULAH, N.D. (AP)—Coal, electricity, and natural gas are changing this sleepy prairie city - creating a boomtown where the population doubled and now doubles again, bringing jobs and new workers, higher crime and children to crowd the schools.

Commercial coal gasification plant - a major synthetic fuels project that is part of the nation's drive for energy independence. Major construction is nothing new in this remote western North Dakota city where two coal-fired power plants are also being built - and residents say they are unshaken by the prospects of another giant new neighbor.

The Great Plains Coal Gasification Project, a $1.4 billion plant to convert lignite, a low grade coal, into high-energy synthetic natural gas, is due for completion in 1984, and will produce 125 million cubic feet of gas daily - the equivalent of 20,000 barrels of oil.

The project has already made itself felt in Beulah, a one-story city nestled on the rolling plains west of the Missouri River that was chosen for the plant because of its proximity to lignite and water.

The network of gasifiers, boilers and water cooling towers of the gasification plant will sprawl over 1,000 acres seven miles northwest of the farming city - a new sight on the prairie already broken by the boxy power plants, one with a boiler towering a record 347 feet.

The new project is expected to employ 3,000 workers - equal to Beulah's current population - when construction peaks in 1982. About 500 workers will stay on when construction ends.

Many residents say the project means much-needed relief for Beulah's ailing job market, hit by a slump in electric plant construction.

"I think it's a great idea. It pays for the jobs," says Dor na Gilbert, who works at the Sunshine Ice Cream Parlor on Main Street.

Miss Gilbert, 26, moved to Beulah two years ago and has no qualms about the influx of project workers and their families.

"There's a lot of strangers. It's nice, though. You can see the town growing. Before, it was like a little ghost town," she said.

Bernard Teske, railroad station operator since 1969, foresees some crowding because of Beulah's rapid growth. The population has doubled since 1975, and is expected to reach 6,000 by 1982.

"People in general get out of hand when they get in large groups. They don't respect people's rights," said Teske.

Mayor Darold Benz said

Fish Kill

Feared From Chemical Spill

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—

The discovery of a deadly chemical in crumbling bags at the bottom of a canal and the detection of contamination in some nearby oysters has mobilized a cleanup effort designed to prevent a devastating fish kill that could persist for years.

Lake Borgne was closed to fishing and water sports today as crews began rigging a vacuum to pick up the remains of the chemical.

The chemical - pentachlorophenol, or PCP - was discovered by divers more than a week after it went overboard in a ship collision. The loading container that held the bags of PCP was "wrinkled like an accordion," diver Bob William said, and the bags were rotting and crumbling.

"I had a hard time trying to pick up one without it breaking," he said. One bag fell apart in his hand as he brought it to the surface.

The vacuuming operation involved "putting a big pipe down and running a compression hose back up through the pipe," said Jerry Hill of the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration. "This forms a suction and it just pulls the material right up in the hose and into an open hopper barge."

The container would be cleaned in the same way, and scientists would then "take sediment samples to see how much PCP is left," he said.

Scientists say PCP can devastate marine life and poison people who eat contaminated seafood. The region has a fishing industry that brings in $150 million a year.

Canyon Burros Given Asylum

TYLER (AP)—About 300 burros threatened with death will be given asylum, of sorts, on a 200-acre East Texas Ranch.

The burros, airlifted from the Grand Canyon and other abused and unwanted animals from across the nation will be cared for by the Fund for Animals, a national humane group.

The group bought the ranch, its first national animal shelter, from a Wyoming man recently using $210,000 donated by the society's membership.

"Besides being a holding place for the animals until they can be adopted, the ranch will also serve as a place where they can live out the rest of their days without any problems or abuse," said the fund's chief officer, Jerry Owens.

About 60 of the burros will arrive at the ranch sometime next week. They will be joined by fellow refugees from the canyon floor, a diving horse from New Jersey, wild horses from Nevada and goats from San Clements Island in California.

The Fund for Animals organized the airlift of the Grand Canyon burros to keep them from being killed. The burros have lived in the bottom of the canyon for several decades, but recently the U.S. Park Service said they were depriving other animals of food and causing environmental imbalance, and would have to be exterminated.

Owens said work already has begun to get the ranch's two houses and several barns ready for the animals and their caretakers.

"We're having to rebuild some fences and plant the proper grasses for the different animals, but it's been so damn hot," Owens said. "It has been a lot of hard, manual labor."

He said the ranch's animal adoption services should be available to the public by December, with a screening and information center to be set up in Tyler.

Hospital To Start Own Nursing Pool

DALLAS (AP)—Parkland Hospital will start its own nursing pool, rather than hiring nurses through agencies, to cope with current staff shortages, hospital officials said.

Six nursing supervisors have resigned from the county-supported hospital within the past week, to protest the hospital's dropping of agency nurses as a budget-cutting measure.

The resigning nurses claimed cutting the number of agency nurses hired during a staff shortage could hinder proper patient care. About 40 staff nurses met with hospital administrators Thursday night to discuss the nurse shortage, after which officials announced the nursing pool plan.

Chargers Ready For Summit?

SAN DIEGO (AP)—A year ago, on the way to their first playoff appearance in 14 years, the San Diego Chargers lost their top defensive player, their leading scorer, placekicker and their brilliant first-round draft pick of 1979. But they didn't lose faith.

Instead of buckling, the potent Chargers, mixing an explosive passing attack with a tough-minded defense, tied the Pittsburgh Steelers with the best record - 12-4 - in the National Football League.

"It showed what type of team we have here," said two-time All-Pro defensive tackle Louie Kelcher, who sat out the entire year with a torn knee ligament.

Without Kelcher, kicker Rolf Benirschke and rookie tight end Kellen Winslow, the Chargers merely finished 1-2-3-4 in key NFL categories - passing, pass rushing, overall offense and overall defense.

"In the past, we depended a lot of Louie," said linebacker Ray Preston. "When he was gone, we pulled together. It brought out the best in us."

National League Roundup

A Tale Of Three Pitchers

By The Associated Press
 San Diego's Steve Mura, struggled and won against Jim Bibby, the pitcher with the National League's best record. Philadelphia's Bob Walk struggled and won against the Cincinnati Reds. And Bob Forsch of St. Louis pitched well and lost because of two mistakes.

Mura, who said, "I think I threw one curve ball for a strike all night long," got a sixth-inning run from Gene Richards and ninth-inning relief help from Bob Shirley and Rollie Fingers to beat Bibby and the Pirates 1-0 in Pittsburgh Friday night.

Walk, who threw 90 pitches in the first four innings and 167 for the game, ended up on the happy end of a 3-1 decision against the Reds.

Then there was Forsch, who was two outs away from a 1-0 triumph over the Dodgers when Jay Johnstone hit his first National League home run since 1977 in the ninth inning to tie the game and Joe Ferguson won it with a 10th-inning blast to give Los Angeles a 2-1 victory.

"He just made a mistake," Ferguson said after his game-winning drive. "I had two strikes on me. I'd have to be an idiot to think home run in that situation. He just made a bad pitch."

That's all Walk seemed to be doing in the first four innings against Cincinnati. He walked four over the first four innings and had Reds runners in scoring position in each of the first three, but stranded 10 runners over the first six innings and gave up only one run.

"He seems to make the 3-1, 3-2 pitches when he has to," said Phillies Manager Dallas Green.

"It's a quality you can't teach. He has it within him, and I'm darn glad."

Walk, 8-1, was glad Mike Schmidt drove in Lonnie Smith with a tie-breaking sacrifice fly in the sixth. Philadelphia got insurance in the eighth when Smith doubled and scored on a single by Bake McBride.

The Padres got their run on only one hit in winning their sixth straight and snapping the eight-game winning streak of Bibby, 13-2. Over eight innings, Bibby surrendered just three hits; but one of them was to Richards leading off the sixth.

Richards moved to second on a sacrifice by Ozzie Smith, then stole third. He scored when the throw by catcher Ed Ott eluded Pittsburgh third baseman Bill Madlock.

Mura and the two relievers made that run stand up, handing Bibby his second loss of the season and his first since May 18, when the Pirates dropped another shutout - a 2-0 decision in Los Angeles.

In the other NL games Friday night, the New York Mets rallied past the Houston Astros 5-4, the Montreal Expos beat the Atlanta Braves 4-1 and the Chicago Cubs defeated the San Francisco Giants 5-3.

Houston Falls Again...

Mets Slip Astros, 5-4

NEW YORK (AP)—Frank Taveras was traded from the Pittsburgh Pirates to the New York Mets last year, and, despite the fact that the Bucs became world champions, he couldn't be happier.

"I don't even want to go back to Pittsburgh when we play there, I hate the place," said Taveras after his eight-inning single drove in New York to give New York a 5-4 victory Friday over the Houston Astros.

Taveras upped his average to .281 with three singles off Astro starter Ken Forsch and the game-winner off reliever Dave Smith, 1-4. Houston had built a 4-0 lead with a first inning outburst against the Mets John Pacella. But the Astros where held to three hits over the next innings by Pacella, Ed Glynn, Dyar Miller and winner Jeff Reardon, 6-5.

"Our relief pitching was the key to our winning," said New York Manager Joe Torre. "If the reliever can hold the other team like they did tonight, you always have a chance to come back."

After narrowing the lead to 4-1 with a run in the sixth, the Mets tied it in the seventh when Steve Henderson smashed a three-run pinch-hit homer off Smith.

Jerry Morales opened the seventh with a single and Taveras singled to finish Forsch. Henderson greeted Smith by drilling his second pitch for New York's first homer in 11 games.

New York had picked up one run in the sixth when Claudell Washington opened with a double and scored on a two-out single by Mike Jorgensen.

In the eighth, Alex Trevino singled with one out and moved to third on Doug Flynn's hit.

One out later, Taveras slapped a single through the middle that second baseman Rafael Landestoy couldn't stop, the ball glancing off his glove into short center.

Bell Leads Rangers Past Boston Red Sox

ARLINGTON (AP)—If Buddy Bell played on the East Coast he'd get far more recognition, Pat Corrales said.

"He played with Cleveland, which was never a winner, and in Texas we don't get the coverage they get in other places," the Texas Rangers manager added. "If he played in New York or Baltimore he'd get more recognition."

"But we know how good he is here, and he's played hurt all year," Corrales said.

Bell's bad back wasn't evident Friday night. The Texas third baseman went 5-for-5, scoring twice and driving in two runs, to lead the Rangers to a 7-5 victory over the Boston Red Sox.

Boston manager Don Zimmer also is well acquainted with Bell's abilities.

Bell is 23-for-47 against Boston this season for a .489 average. Lifetime he has 173 hits at 514 at-bats for a .337 average.

Boston committed four errors, two by first baseman Carl Yastrzemski, one by starting pitcher Mike Torrez and one by left fielder Jim Rice.

The Red Sox took the lead twice only to commit errors that let the Rangers battle back.

"The reason they (his players) have been getting in trouble is they can't catch the ball. If they do, they throw it away," Zimmer said.

"It isn't because we didn't work on it in the spring. We worked on it for eight or nine days straight until they got tired of it," he said.

"But fundamentals aren't worth anything if you can't execute in the game," Zimmer added.

Fred Lynn hit a two-run homer against Doc Medich, 9-5, in the first inning. Boston added single runs in the third, fifth and eighth.

Win Remmerswall, the second of four Boston pitchers, got the loss, dropping his record to 2-1.

Juniors-Seniors Enter In State Play Monday

SWEETWATER — Snyder's Oilers, District II Junior Teenage League champions, begin their search for a State Tournament title here at 3 p.m. Monday.

The Oilers, who won four straight games to win last week's Division II meet in Cisco, will reportedly take on host team Sweetwater of Division I. Other teams entered in the tournament were not known.

Starting pitcher for the Oilers will probably be Charles Bollinger, 3-0, who pitched three innings of relief in last Tuesday's 14-2 win over Colorado

City. If Bollinger doesn't get the nod, it will most likely go to Gerald Don Hicks, 9-0, who was the winner in Snyder's first and last games of the district series in Cisco.

The Oilers opened the tournament by nailing Haskell, 10-3, then defeated Colorado City by a score of 14-2. A come-from-behind victory over Eastland, 3-2, put Snyder in the tournament finals, from where the team outlasted a rallying Comanche team to take the championship, 10-9.

A mishap in the series' first game with Haskell left the Oilers one man short as Curtis Gafford, a .659 hitter and 7-1 pitcher, suffered a broken ankle.

Also in that game, Barry Davis unleashed the first Junior Teenage League home run ever hit in Cisco's City Park. Davis was awarded an autographed baseball at the end of the tournament.

In other baseball news, the Senior Teenage League District champion

Sweetwater Tigers will compete in Midland Aug. 4-7 for the Senior state championship. Among the Sweetwater team members are two Snyder pickups, Mike Roemisch and William Robinson.

Fan's Catch Stings Chi-Sox

By The Associated Press
If Kansas City speedster Willie Wilson can't catch up to a fly ball, nobody can, right?
Wrong! An unidentified Chicago fan sitting in the left field stands at Comiskey Park made a sparkling grab of a ball hit over Wilson's head Friday night and it may have cost the White Sox a game.

Trailing 4-2 in the eighth inning, Chicago's Ron Pruitt singled. Two outs later, pinch-hitter Kevin Bell walked and Greg Pryor lined a pitch from Larry Gura toward the seats.

It would not have been a home run but Wilson couldn't reach it.
However, a fan in the first row did. Leaping over the wall and wielding a glove, he stabbed the drive, prompting second base umpire Steve Palermo to rule it a ground-rule double. Pruitt scored but Bell, who was running with the crack of the bat and likely would have scored, was stopped at third. The White Sox never did get the tying run home and lost 4-3.

"It's one of those things. I've got to say there was some luck involved," said Kansas City Manager Jim Frey.

The victory kept the runaway Royals 12 games ahead of Oakland — the A's nipped the Cleveland Indians 2-1, and 12½ in front of Texas; the Rangers downed the Boston Red Sox 7-5 in the American League West.
Elsewhere, the New York Yankees trimmed the Milwaukee Brewers 9-4, the Baltimore Orioles edged the Minnesota Twins 3-2, the Detroit Tigers swept a doubleheader from the Seattle Mari-

Blue Jays 9, Angels 8
Bob Davis' double in the bottom of the ninth inning scored Lloyd Moseby, who drew a two-out walk off Mark Clear. Toronto fought back from a 6-0 deficit and tied the game in the eighth when Damasco Garcia tripled and scored on Roy Howell's sacrifice fly.

OILER QUARTERBACK KEN STABLER

Stabler Hosts Snyderite In Photography Session

Harley Bynum had opportunity knock recently, and he answered. The native Snyderite rekindled an old friendship with Houston Oiler quarterback Ken Stabler and was able to join a Sports Illustrated photo session featuring the former Super Bowl champion.
"We're actually old college buddies," said Bynum, who, in addition to being an oilfield chemical representative, is a portrait, wedding and commercial photographer.
"We were both at the University of Alabama together. I ran track, and, of course, Kenny played quarterback. We got to be good friends," Bynum added.

Bynum graduated from Alabama in 1969, and didn't see Stabler until recently.
"I heard he was coming to Houston (to play for the Oilers) and I knew they held workouts in San Angelo. So I went there, walked out on the field and introduced myself. He remembered me, even called me by my first name," said Bynum.
On this led to another, and Stabler invited Bynum back the next day to shoot pictures along with a crew from Sports Illustrated.

"I took everything they did," said Bynum of the photo session. Sports Illustrated took action shots and the Snyderite took these also, as well as a number of portraits.
"I'm going to go back in a couple of weeks and take some pictures of him in street clothes, by his pickup and things like that," added Bynum. "I'll profit from the publicity and he'll profit because he wants some photos for his personal use."
Bynum contends that Stabler "is no different from the guy I knew at Alabama," but that fame had heaped its problems on the former Oakland Raider thrower.
"We talked about an hour and he told me that he was always getting calls from old friends and things. He never really has any privacy. Otherwise, he's the same person."
Stabler is the second celebrity Bynum has met, come to know and photograph. He had a photo session with Gunsmoke's Festus — Ken Curtis last year. He added that he had taken photos of other sports greats such as Roger Staubach and Dan Pastorini, but does not know them personally.
From the Sports Illustrated session with Stabler will come a cover photo, scheduled sometime in August.

Coe Out Steps Overt; 'Series' Stands One-One

MOSCOW (AP)—Sebastian Coe beat fellow Briton Steve Ovett in their first 1,500-meter match-up, and after weeks of buildup and thousands of printed words about their supposed enmity, the two arch-rivals laughed together and shook hands.
Coe won the gold medal in the Olympic 1,500 Friday, squaring their Moscow rivalry at 1-to-1. Ovett had won their 800-meter clash earlier in the week after Coe ran a dismal race.

"You've seen an athlete literally come back from the grave," said Peter Coe, the gold medalist's father and coach.
And on the final day of the Olympic track and field competition, unheralded Gerd Wessig of East Germany broke the men's high jump world record, providing a dramatic finale.
That left the boxing finals Saturday as the major event remaining in an Olympics that probably will be remembered most for its no-shows. The United States and 35 other countries did not send their athletes because of the Soviet military intervention in Afghanistan.
Heavyweight Teofilo Stevenson of Cuba was bidding for an unprecedented third gold medal, fighting Pyotr Zhev of the Soviet Union.
Coe emerged from the final bend with a strong kick and won the race in 3 minutes, 38.4 seconds with no real challenge from Ovett, who was beaten out of second place by Gunter Straub of East Germany.
Straub set the pace early in the race and held on for the silver medal in 3:38.8 with Ovett—a disappointing third in 3:39.0.
Coe said that only after watching a videotape did he realize that Ovett was so far back at the finish. Ovett, as is his style, failed to show up at a press conference for medal winners.

British Olympians chose to flout the American-led boycott, but the British Olympic Association agreed not to allow the British flag to be flown in ceremonies here.
British fans were here in force for Coe and Ovett, though, and they waved Union Jacks and bellowed out the words and tune of "God Save the Queen" as the Olympic hymn was played at the medals presentation.
Wessig won the high jump by clearing 7 feet, 8¾ inches, bettering the old mark by one-quarter inch, and the East German quartet won the women's 400 meters relay in 41.60 seconds, despite two poor passes, for the two world marks.

Miruts Yifter of Ethiopia became the only track competitor to win two individual golds by dominating the final of the 5,000 meters in 13:21.0 minutes.
The Soviet Union, which has reaped a record harvest of medals — 76 gold and 180 total — in the face of the boycott, emerged as the No. 1 team in track with 41 medals — 15 golds, 14 silvers and 12 bronzes.
East Germany had 11-8-10 in track. Other track gold medal winners were Britain 4, Italy 3, Poland and Ethiopia 2, Cuba 1.

ASTRO-GRAPH

Your Birthday Bernice Bede Osol

August 3, 1980

Patience is a virtue you'll need this coming year. You will move ahead slowly until late autumn when your progress will speed up. By staying calm you won't lose sight of your target.
LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Be sure to share equally if you're involved with another in a project that is now showing a return. If not, your ally could suddenly become an enemy. Find out more of what lies ahead for you in the year following your birthday by sending for your copy of Astro-Graph. Mail $1 for each to Astro-Graph, Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify birth date.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Just because you're experiencing a couple of lucky breaks, don't go out on a limb and forego your carefully laid plans. A setback could occur.
LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Before jumping into an enterprise with another today, mull things over quietly in your own mind. Your inner voice will guide you correctly if you take the time to listen.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) You won't have any trouble finding lots of friends to spend time with today. However, you'll have to be extra careful not to sound off on something without thinking.
SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Lady Luck is trying hard to help you in a competitive situation today, yet you may give her little cooperation because it's hard for you to keep your mind on what you're doing.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) If you want to take chances with your own things that's O.K., but don't draw others into doing the same. You'll be blamed if there's a foul-up.
AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Much of your present efforts in sharing are apt to go unappreciated today. Instead of letting it get you down, chalk it up to experience.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Don't let others do your thinking for you or pressure you into changing it. The results could create a confusing situation, difficult to unwind.
ARIES (March 21-April 19) "Easy come, easy go" could be your "sway" song if you aren't careful about what you spend today. Think before splurging.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Your enthusiasm is contagious, but you'll lose everyone's support unless you stick to a game plan. Instead of making adjustments to suit today's ever-changing whims.
GEMINI (May 21-June 20) In a moment of compassion you may agree to do something quite nice today, only to feel later it might be too much trouble. Once you're committed, don't let this person down.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) There is nothing wrong with your ideas today, only the people with whom you choose to share them. They could talk you into some expensive alterations of your plans.

Patience is a virtue you'll need this coming year. You will move ahead slowly until late autumn when your progress will speed up. By staying calm you won't lose sight of your target.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Protect your interests today so that what is justly due you is not overlooked. Others may not mean to do that, but it could happen just the same. Find out more of what lies ahead for you in the year following your birthday by sending for your copy of Astro-Graph. Mail $1 for each to Astro-Graph, Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify birth date.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) You'll be grateful for you took the time in the past to master a difficult subject when you are faced today with a situation calling for that experience.
LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) You may be asked today to help someone with a job that's not easy for you to do. The pride you'll derive from it will be all the payment you'll need.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Associates who seek your opinions today expect you to tell it like it is. Be tactful and considerate, but also lay the facts out as you see them.
SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Devote as much time as possible to your own priorities today, even if it means you'll be working exceptionally hard. You'll be glad you did.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Don't put any plans into practice today until you have taken sufficient time to study all aspects. There should be no guesswork as to what the outcome could be.
AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Be patient and realistic in all your dealings today. Insist upon a full disclosure of all pertinent information when others are involved.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Stand behind the promises you make today. Being a person of your word will help strengthen your image of reliability.
ARIES (March 21-April 19) Before putting out fresh funds for something you feel you need, check to see if you can make do with what you have at your disposal.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Situations that come under your direct care may need extra attention and controlled handling today. You'll face your responsibilities firmly.
GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Let someone who has been helpful in the past know that you are a loyal friend, and can be called upon if they're in need.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Don't hesitate to question or ask advice about a subject others think you know all about. They'll respect you for admitting your shortcomings.

Business Booms On Padre Isle

EDITOR'S NOTE: One year ago Thursday, the first oil from a runaway well off the Yucatan Peninsula washed ashore on the beaches of Texas. In this report, Associated Press newswoman Susan Stoler reviews the events of last year's spill and its long-term impact.

By SUSAN STOLER
Associated Press Writer
SOUTH PADRE ISLAND, Texas (AP)—During the worst days of last summer's oil spill, Carmen Garcia, whose liquor store is a stone's throw from the beach, sometimes waited five hours for a thirsty customer. This summer it's hot even by Texas standards, the beaches are clear and business is booming.

A year after being tarred by the world's largest oil spill, South Texas resorts are basking in one of their best tourist seasons ever. The ugly black ribbon of crude oil that once covered some beaches are gone. Vacationers who were chased away by last summer's sticky mess, are back. Many hotels are booked through Labor Day. Even the rare brown pelicans have returned to their summer roost at Port Isabel. But while the tourist industry seems to have recovered, the long-term environmental impact of the oil that soiled Texas beaches and waterways remains uncertain.

Local officials who complained last year that news reports of the spill were exaggerated now gladly concede that the widespread publicity was the best kind of advertising—free.

"We could never buy all the publicity we got from it," said Glenn McGehee, mayor of South Padre Island. Building permits here total $15 billion so far this year, up 50 percent from the total for all of 1979.

McGehee said that at last count the area lost $15 million after the spill drove off tourists during the peak summer season.

The first tar balls washed ashore a year ago Thursday. That was more than two months after Ixtoc 1, the powerful Mexican test well, blew out in the Bay of Campeche off the Yucatan Peninsula.

The well spewed more than 110 million gallons of oil from one of the world's richest oil formations before workers finally choked it on March 23.

The Coast Guard has yet to close its books on cleanup expenditures, but a spokesman said he expects the bill for round-the-clock operations to exceed $8 million this year.

Before it disappeared, oil from the spill marred 200 miles of South Texas beach.

Drought Said Starving Deer

UVALDE (AP)—A wildlife specialist says 30 to 60 percent of some deer herds have starved in the Hill Country and South Texas because of the prolonged drought.

"The lack of rain means less green forage for deer to feed on," said Dr. Dwight Guynn, area wildlife specialist for the Texas Agriculture Extension Service. "This lack of feed has caused many deer herds to starve."

Guynn said there are fewer deer with smaller antlers because of the drought's reduction of the food supply. He said lack of food has resulted in poor nutrition for does before and during fawning, causing predictions this year's fawn crop will be low.

Buck antler development also is highly dependent on ample food supplies and a high intake of nutrients, he said.

Despite the reports of deer starvation, Guynn said the outlook for ranchers and hunters may not be as bad as some people project because many areas of the Hill Country and some parts of the South Texas brush experienced overpopu-

Fisher Hostage Taker Feared

PONTIAC, Mich. (AP)—The veteran autoworker who held 17 people captive at gunpoint in a General Motors Corp. body plant "felt that society and the people he worked with were against him," his lawyer said.

Franklin Rainey, 47, of Detroit, was admitted to the psychiatric ward at Pontiac General Hospital for three days' observation after he surrendered Thursday.

His lawyer William Waterman said Rainey apparently suffered "a classic psychotic breakdown. You could tell there was really some psychosis."

"He thought there was a conspiracy between black and white people on the job against him and they had told people in Detroit he was less than a man, a faggot."

Waterman said Rainey came to work prepared to deal with the imagined conspiracy with a hammer taped to his leg, a bag of bullets, food and a rope.

Rainey could be charged with felonious assault, but Pontiac Police Capt. Robert Wachal said police would wait for a doctor's evaluation before deciding if Rainey would be prosecuted.

ions of deer in recent years.

He said it has been difficult to reduce the deer population during hunting season. "An average harvest in the Hill Country is about 10 percent of the herd," Guynn said. "But a 25 percent harvest is necessary to keep the herd from increasing and a harvest over 25 percent is needed to decrease the size of a deer herd significantly."

The wildlife specialist said the drought has accomplished what many landowners and hunters have been unable to do.

"With lower deer populations at more manageable levels, landowners have a better opportunity to balance their herds with the available forage on rangelands," he said.

Explosion Rips Railway Station

BOLOGNA, Italy (AP)—An explosion ripped through the main railroad station in this northern Italian city today, collapsing a large section of the building and killing at least 55 people, police said. Some 180 others were reported injured, and some victims were feared still trapped inside.

The cause of the explosion was not immediately known.

"We don't know yet if this was a terrorist action," a police spokesman said in a telephone interview.

The explosion might have been caused by a bomb or the boiler in the station restaurant might have blown up," he said.

Police said the section of the building that collapsed had housed a restaurant and the first and second class waiting rooms.

First reports said part of the collapsed section fell over three or four cars of a passenger train bound from Ancona to Basel, Switzerland. Police said an unknown number of passengers inside the cars were trapped by the wreckage and that they feared some of them were either killed or injured.

First indications given by police said the explosion might have taken place inside the second class waiting room, close to the restaurant. The waiting rooms and the restaurant were believed to have been crowded at the time of the blast. Hundreds of firemen and policemen using bulldozers and diggers began rescue operations shortly after the explosion took place, police said.

Dozens of ambulances and private cars took an unknown number of injured to different hospitals in Bologna.

Two Accidents Reported Here

Two accidents were investigated by the Snyder Police Department Friday and Saturday. Both were worked by officer Kerry Fritz.

Saturday morning about 11 a two car accident was reported at 1100 25th St. Involved were a 1977 GMC pickup driven by Raymond Walker of 1609 Ave. Y and a 1971 Oldsmobile driven by Torres Faustino of Rt. 2. The Oldsmobile sustained heavy damage but no injuries were reported.

The police department investigated a two-car mishap at 11:25 a.m. Friday at 37th St. and Ave. V.

Involved were a 1979 Oldsmobile driven by Ouida Jones, 3750 Highland Drive, and a 1977 Datsun driven by Karen Loftin of 3005 39th St. No injuries were reported.

ler amounts. Valuations in the City of Snyder are due to increase from about $80 million to $135 million.

The taxing entities will levy their taxes on 100 percent of the valuations this time. Previously, they had based their actual levies on a percentage, ranging from 25 percent for the county and junior college district upward. Under the new state system which becomes mandatory, state-wide next year everybody will assess on 100 percent of appraised value.

This, of course, will mean a reduction in tax rates for the entities, but not necessarily a reduction in tax bills. In fact, inflation, increased demands for services and other factors will undoubtedly result in some increases on the bottom line. But it probably will be late September or early October before anyone knows precisely how much.

The new state system requires that the value of property throughout the county be appraised on the same basis. Peveler said that values are being brought into line as best as the appraisal office staff can this first year, but the valuation process will be continuous from here on. The law requires that all property be appraised within 10 percent of actual market value, except for that which qualifies for valuation based on agriculture production. In most cases, value changes in the rural areas of Scurry County this year will involve improvements on property. However, city property in Snyder will generally increase in value as it is brought into line with valuations established by the Snyder School District two years ago. This will put it within the 10 percent-of-market value as of 1978, which are the newest figures available at present.

Peveler said the 1978 figures may well be obsolete already, and the appraiser's staff will be re-amping them next year. The valuation engineers, J.Y. Pickett Co., advised that they would not be ready for the board of review (equalization board) to hold hearings on mineral values until Sept. 3. Hearings on local values will follow about a week later. Then, the red tape involving notices and hearings by the entities will take place over a period of some three weeks. All of this must occur before the entities can set their tax rates and send out bills.

Transit Vote Next Week

DALLAS (AP)—Residents of the Dallas-Fort Worth area vote next week on a multi-million dollar transportation scheme that planners say is essential if the region hopes to avoid strangling itself in traffic.

Voters will be asked to improve creation of the Lone Star Transportation Authority. The authority would define and direct the transportation future of this area, which has gained 211,000 new residents in the past five years.

The growth is due in part to migration to Sunbelt cities such as Fort Worth, Dallas, and Houston—which is cited by the authority's supporters as a city with a non-existent transportation system and an example of what Dallas and Fort Worth should avoid.

Proponents say the need for regional mass transit is obvious after one look at local roads. Four-hour traffic jams on Dallas' busiest freeways are not uncommon, according to city police studies.

Retiree

He sees a bright future for anyone who makes a career with the railroad. "A young man can start at the bottom and work his way up to a good job," he said.

There is one thing that hasn't changed for a railroad man, he said. "The work is still there, all he has to do is do it."

TIA Faces

Suit If It Tries Move

DALLAS (AP)—Texas International Airlines will face a lawsuit if it tries to resume in-state flights from Dallas Love Field, the mayor of Fort Worth said.

Airline officials and members of the Dallas city staff said Wednesday, after an executive session with members of the city council, that TIA plans to begin construction on ticket facilities at the Dallas airport within a week.

Dallas officials said they can not legally prevent the airline from resuming flights at the city-owned airport, but Fort Worth Mayor Woodie Woods said he plans to try.

Woods said he was "shocked and disappointed" that TIA had begun plans for Love Field flights without consulting the Dallas-Fort Worth Regional Airport Board or the City of Fort Worth.

He said TIA has a contract to use D-FW Airport exclusively for all flights in the area, and that his city attorney definitely would sue to prevent resumption of Love Field service.

D-FW airport officials repeatedly have said erosion of flight service back to Love Field by the carriers at D-FW would hinder the regional airport's ability to generate revenue and pay off its construction bonds.

practice, Spitzer claims he can find water and oil by walking the ground or by driving over the ground in his car. He speculates he could also find the wells by flying over the land in question in an airplane, if the airplane was flying slow enough. He can tell whether the well, be it water or oil, is a large or small well, but he cannot gauge depth.

Back in the 1950s, he served as a kind of unofficial consultant for an oil man in Lea County, New Mexico. Company geologists had spotted 23 oil wells and Spitzer's job was to double back and determine whether the wells would be good producers or small wells. He claims a 100 percent accuracy rate for that type work.

Back then, however, oil was selling for $2 a barrel and Spitzer said he didn't fool with oil again until the Ira venture. Bringing in the Ira well was the Abilene firm of Lawrence and Cannon. Backing for the Ira strike was provided by Merlin Roberts of Morton, said Spitzer.

"I don't hesitate to go out with anyone, anywhere," he said.

On an optimistic note, Spitzer feels there is as much oil still under the ground as has been produced in the nation's history.

Austin Due Budget Hike

AUSTIN (AP)—The City of Austin staff has proposed a $418 million 1980-81 budget that would require increases in property taxes, water and sewer charges and garbage pickup fees to pay for $71 million in new spending.

The proposal is 20 percent higher than the current $347 million budget. "That's incredible," said Councilman Ron Mullen. The budget proposes a 6-cent increase in the effective tax rate, which is now 72 cents per $100 of the property's full-market value.

"Inflation is the driving force behind the budget increases," said Assistant City Manager Daron Butler.

Man Survives Bite Of Krait

MONROE, La. (AP)—A 24-year-old man bitten by a krait—a snake far more poisonous than the deadly cobra—has been saved by a blood transfusion from a man who says he has survived more than 100 poisonous snake bites, officials say.

James Lee, 24, an amateur in herpetology, the study of snakes, was in serious condition today at St. Francis Medical Center. He was bitten on the finger Wednesday while feeding one of the six kraits in his collection of 30 snakes.

"He still cannot move his eyes. He cannot lift his eyelids more than about halfway. But he is alert. He is conscious. He never lost consciousness through the whole thing," said Dr. Ernie Rutherford, who is treating Lee at St. Francis.

The blood transfusion came from Bill Hagst, operator of the Miami Serpenterium Laboratory. "It turned out to be very fortunate for him that we both have the same blood type—A-Positive," said Haast, who flew to Monroe Wednesday night with his assistant, Nancy Harrell.

LOFTY PERCH—Amid the tall towers at Tenneco Inc.'s Petro-Tex chemical plant in Houston, Assistant Stillman Tommy Drouillard appears small indeed as he operates a valve from this lofty perch. Petro-Tex is a leading producer of MTBE, a blending agent that increases the octane rating of unleaded gasoline.

Dr. Lee Recommends Continued Use Of Gas

By MAX SKELTON
AP Oil Writer

HOUSTON (AP)—Dr. Bernard S. Lee says a $100 billion investment ranks at the top of a number of important reasons why the United States should maintain the role of gas in its energy mix.

Lee is a Nanjing, China, native who now is president of the Institute of Gas Technology, a not-for-profit membership organization founded in 1941 to conduct research into a variety of energy conversion processes.

For many years, the major coal gasification research and development efforts in the United States have been carried out by the Chicago-based Institute and by the U.S. Bureau of Mines. Lee has had primary responsibility for the development of the Institute's Hygas process for producing pipeline quality gas from coal.

Natural gas now provides about 25 percent of the nation's total primary energy needs, including 41 percent of residential and commercial energy requirements and 36 percent of its industrial fuel.

Lee says conservation is a major tool for reducing dependency on foreign oil supplies but adds that the nation must have production from its own supplemental resources.

"There is now a world surplus of oil but we are still importing 7 million barrels a day and we are still in a heck of a hole," he said.

"If we want to back down imports further, we must look at synthetics." Existing and developing technology, he said, will permit synthetics to help maintain the major role now held by gas in meeting the nation's energy demands.

Lee, who recently visited in China, said the Chinese have vast quantities of natural gas but no distribution system.

"Once you have a distribution system, gas is economical and that is why gas is a natural thing for the United States," he said.

"The United States is covered with a gas transmission and distribution network which cost $50 billion to build and which is literally irreplaceable today. An additional $50 billion has been invested by gas customers in gas burning equipment."

Lee said maximizing the use of the system and equipment will provide continuing economic benefits to gas consumers.

"Maintenance of adequate gas supplies is necessary to permit customers to benefit from their investment," he said.

"Substitute natural gas from coal can play a major role in meeting future gas requirements."

Lee said the nation's energy requirements, although mitigated somewhat by conservation, will continue to rise.

"Energy analysts project energy requirements by the year 2000 will be in the range of 95-110 quadrillion British thermal units per year, compared with the current primary energy consumption of about 80 quadrillion BTU per year," he said.

Lee said the gas industry can maintain or even increase its current contribution to energy requirements by developing a number of alternate supply sources to supplement conventional gas supplies.

"We firmly believe we can provide up to 30 trillion cubic feet per year of gas, both natural and synthetic, by the year 2000 compared to our present production of 19.5 trillion cubic feet per year of natural gas," he said.

"These supplies will come from a number of sources -- conventional production, pipeline imports from Canada and Mexico, Alaskan gas, imported liquefied natural gas, and gas from the tight sands of the west, the Devonian shales of the east, coal seams, geopressed zones, oil shale, coal, peat and biomass."

Lee said the capital cost of a coal gasification plant can exceed a billion dollars but high and medium-BTU gas from coal can be processed in the range of $4 to $6 per million Btu.

"Imported oil at $35 per barrel is about $6 per million Btu."

Blaze Burns Lumber Yard

DALLAS (AP)—A five-alarm fire destroyed a lumberyard near downtown Dallas Wednesday, causing an estimated $500,000 damage.

The Dallas Fire Department sent 85 firefighters and 17 major pieces of equipment to fight the blaze, fueled by exploding cans of flammable paints and solvents.

The firefighters worked in 106-degree temperatures for about an hour before they were able to extinguish the blaze at American Wrecking Lumber Co. on the eastern outskirts of downtown Dallas.

A huge column of black smoke towered skyward as fire raged out of control for almost an hour. No one was injured, but numerous firefighters suffered from heat exhaustion, Fire Capt. Milton Washington said.

He said the fire was believed to have started in an area where paints, solvents and thinners were stored.

Employees of the firm attempted to put out the fire with regular fire extinguishers, but had to move away and call for additional help when the cans of paint and other flammables began exploding, spreading flames to stacks of stored lumber.

GRAZING DROUGHT STRESSED FEED

If you are considering turning in and grazing out drought stressed feed, you need to be real careful or you could experience livestock losses.

NITRATE POISONING

Prolonged, dry, hot weather has caused stress to sorghum plants. Many producers are considering grazing out stressed crops or harvesting them for hay or silage in order to salvage the crop.

Plants that have had their growth arrested by drought are more apt to have a high nitrate content than normal plants with the highest concentration in the stalk.

Ensiling is a good way to make high nitrate forage a safer feed, since silage often loses 40-60 percent of its nitrate content during fermentation. High-nitrate silage should not be fed until fermentation has stopped, which occurs about 21 days after storage. Forages harvested as hay are more likely to be a problem.

It is a good management practice to have the forage analyzed for nitrate prior to feeding it. Silage should be analyzed after it has undergone fermentation and hay after it has been baled. Crops that are going to be grazed out should be analyzed prior to turning cattle into the field.

Most labs can analyze for nitrates quickly and the test is relatively inexpensive.

Forages that contain over 1 percent nitrate have been shown to be potentially lethal if fed as the total diet. Generally, if the nitrate content is less than 0.5 percent, the forage can be fed as the total diet with no toxicity, but performance may be reduced if the nitrate content is over 0.1 percent.

PRUSSIC ACID

Plants of the sorghum group (Johnson grass, sorghum, sudan and hybrid sudan) have a high potential for prussic acid poisoning. These plants have cyanide-containing compounds which are converted to prussic acid when the plant cells are disrupted due to drought, hail, harvesting, frost, etc. Prussic acid is liberated in the rumen, absorbed into the blood and carried to the tissues where this potent toxin interferes with oxygen utilization. If absorbed rapidly, it can cause respiratory paralysis. Early symptoms are labored breathing, frothing at the mouth, irregular pulse and staggering.

Stressed plants should be checked for prussic acid before they are grazed. When growth conditions change due to rainfall, drought, frost, etc., analysis should be conducted to head off problems. If prussic acid is detected, cattle should be removed until analysis shows the prussic acid has dropped.

Delay feeding hay or silage for 4-6 weeks to allow time for breakdown of the prussic acid.

Before grazing sorghum forage plants, check with your local veterinarian about having a prussic acid and nitrate analysis made of the forage.

Class Cutters Mean Failure

DALLAS (AP)—Habitual class cutters in the Dallas school district would flunk under a new strict attendance policy unveiled by Superintendent Linus Wright.

The proposed policy, which requires school board approval, calls for automatic failure for students who miss more than five classes each semester without good justification, Wright said Thursday.

The policy allows for extenuating circumstances such as hospital confinement or a death in the family. In those instances, more than five days of absence would be allowed without penalty, Wright said.

Students now are permitted to miss up to 45 days each school year.

English is spoken by about 358 million people in the world.

Problem with ear noise

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB - I'm 53 years old and a registered nurse. I, too, have a problem hearing sounds constantly. I went to an ENT doctor and he sent me to a hospital for an audiology test but nothing was found. The sound is similar to a very low-pitched foghorn as if someone was blowing into a bottle. It is maddening.

DEAR READER - I'm not surprised that you didn't get any help. The methods to help people with ear noises that you describe are rather new. There's more than one cause for such ear noises. They can be caused from having wax in the ear, from circulatory disorders, problems within the ear itself or still other causes.

This condition is called tinnitus. Individuals who have a hearing loss, c.n. sometimes have the problem solved by wearing a properly fitting hearing aid. You can have a hearing loss and not know it if it isn't involving the sound frequencies that we normally use for conversation.

There's also a device now available called a tinnitus masker. It's worn like a hearing aid and by providing a relatively constant sound, which isn't particularly annoying, it can block out the sound that is bothering a person. Not everybody can provide the tinnitus masker to you because audiologists (specialists in hearing and sound) have to take a special course to be allowed to fit them.

I'm sending you The Health Letter number 12-10. Help for Tinnitus: Noise or Ringing in the Ear. It will explain in greater detail the many causes for this problem and what can be done about it. Other readers who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Send your request to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

It's important to remember that ear noise is just a symptom, not a diagnosis. A complete examination is necessary before anyone can begin proper treatment of the condition.

DEAR DR. LAMB - As a sexagenarian, married to a younger woman for a year, I am very happy and really enjoy life. We both work and jog over two miles four times a week, square dance, round dance, ballroom dance. I snore a blue streak. It robs my wife of restful sleep and could ruin our marriage. My doctor's silly grin implies he feels I should be so fortunate if this is my most serious problem! Please do not suggest separate bedrooms with closed doors or ear plugs which only sidetracks the issue. There must be a permanent cure for snoring. What is it?

DEAR READER - If there is a cure for snoring that works for everybody and is safe, it has certainly escaped the majority of the public as well as the medical profession. I'm afraid that snoring is a relatively normal event. Usually it's related to body position and breathing through the mouth. If you happen to sleep on your back, you may find that lying on your side helps to diminish the problem. One aid suggested to help prevent lying on the back during sleep is to tape a ping pong ball to the middle of the back. Then if you roll over on your back, it will awaken you and cause you to turn back to your side.

Perhaps some of our readers will have further suggestions. If I receive any good suggestions, I'll pass them on.

Woman Loses Weight Religiously

By KAREN MILLS Associated Press Writer NEW BRIGHTON, Minn. (AP) - Neva Coyle weighed 248 pounds and was so desperate that she took all the mirrors out of her home and refused to look at her reflection in store windows.

That was nine years ago. Today she weighs 146 pounds and plans to get down to 138 - with the help of God and the organization she's founded - Overeaters Victorious Inc.

During her period of desperation, Mrs. Coyle, who is now 37, underwent an intestinal bypass operation and lost 60 pounds over a five-year period. But she gained it right back and says the operation was a total failure.

"I had every known complication with the operation, plus a lot of complications that doctors hadn't run into before," she says.

When she had gained back 19 of the 60 pounds, she panicked. "I'm a born-again Christian and it dawned on me one day that I was counting on God for everything but this. I felt that God was either too busy or too big, that he didn't care or he didn't know."

"So I started reading the Bible and I found some answers," Mrs. Coyle says. "When I started applying God's word into this area of my life I took off 45 pounds in five months and I've kept it off."

People began asking Mrs. Coyle if she could help them. She began speaking to women's groups. "The demand got greater and greater, so I decided I couldn't keep going to the people. It was time for the people to come to me," she says.

With that decision in the fall of 1977, Overeaters Victorious was born.

OV is a non-profit, interdenominational organization which uses biblical principles to help its members lose weight. It can be as private as the individual members wish.

Staff counselors offer guidance by letter and telephone. In some parts of the country, small groups meet weekly for support and prayer sessions. Mrs. Coyle estimates that 1,600 have finished the program and another 800 are currently enrolled.

"We really believe overeating is a spiritual problem, not a physical problem," Mrs. Coyle says. "If you don't solve the spiritual problem, you'll just exchange one compulsion for another."

OV requires its members to spend a brief period of each day in study and prayer.

The curriculum can be completed in a year. About half of the members get enough from the first three-month segment to solve their weight problem and don't need the additional segments.

The total course is now six segments and eventually will be eight, Mrs.

Coyle says. OV has a psychologist on its board of directors. It provides a simple outline diet, biblical references for study and encouragement and government publications explaining weight-related health changes.

Mrs. Coyle says overweight people tend to carry more guilt than anyone else knows. But the counseling system is positive, rather than playing on guilt feelings. The group's guidebook, "Free to Be Thin" by Marie Chapian, reinforces the positive attitude.

"All right, you blew it. So what? Pick yourself up and continue on. Your eating program is not geared to last for just a couple of weeks or months. It's a lifelong commitment," it says. "The Lord is with you and he loves you in spite of everything ... He'll see that you're not going to sink into guilt and despair every time you blow it."

Says Mrs. Coyle: "God loves overweight people, thin people. He loves everybody. It does not say in the Bible that being overweight is a sin, just that gluttony is a sin.

But for me, being overweight was a pain. God saw that and helped me.

because he loves me, not because he didn't like me fat.

wooing young voters

With the polls showing that less than 20 percent of the electorate considers itself Republican, common sense dictates that the Grand Old Party find and recruit new voters to its cause. So, there was much discussion among party strategists at the recent Republican National Convention about finding and tapping into new constituencies of previously apolitical Americans.

Of the various untapped pools of potential voters, one of those most talked about in Detroit was youth. Research was cited showing that few young people are registering and voting in comparison with the rest of the population. One study much in evidence in Detroit predicted that fewer than half the eligible 24- to 30-year-olds - and an even lower percentage of 18- to 23-year-olds - will go to the polls in November.

Though low voter turnout is traditional for this age group, it has been made more dramatic numerically by the coming of age of those born during the post-World War II baby boom. In addition, the big upswing in political participation that used to occur as people reached their mid-to late-20s is no longer apparent.

So, given the sheer numbers of likely non-voters within the 18-to-30 age group, it's no wonder the Republicans are talking about an all-out campaign to attract the youth vote in November.

The Republicans may also be encouraged by studies clearly showing that today's young people are considerably more conservative than their counterparts of 10 or 15 years ago. Former Yippie Jerry Rubin, now 40, recently changed his famous slogan of "Never trust anyone over 30" to "Never trust anyone under 30 - they're too conservative."

There is further evidence of conservatism, patriotism and stability among today's youth in reports that 98 percent of the country's young men are registering for the draft without fuss or fanfare.

There are some reports of protests and many television shots have been transmitted showing protesting groups, but the truth of the matter is, very few have been making noise, obviously in an attempt to attract the TV cameras and get their "movement" reported in the press.

Like most other protesting or crusading cases, these small groups do nothing at all when the cameras and reporters are not around.

But what interests the politicians most about the younger set is the fact that an estimated nine million potential voters attending colleges are not expected to bother with voting in November. If either party can motivate this group, it will be a big plus for its slate.

cancer odds improve

I've waited months with my fingers crossed before writing these words. Even now I am hesitant - not wanting to celebrate in a manner which might tempt fate. But after a decade of struggle, son Paul has stopped smoking. Of course I am aware that many families have more serious problems than this, but it was no small thing to his wife and his parents; it answered many prayers. Now, when a smoker stops smoking, how much does it improve his odds for survival against cancer?

Thirty years ago the cure rate for cancer was 33 percent. Today it is 41 percent. President Vincent De Vita of the National Cancer Institute (NCI) is so encouraged by experiments presently underway that he predicts the cure rate will improve to 50 percent within five years!

There is even encouraging evidence in the laboratory that vitamins A and C might actually "prevent" some cancers. The statistics would appear much better than they do except for the mostly self-inflicted disease of lung cancer.

After investing $57.5 million in an attempt to develop a harmless cigarette, the NCI has given up on that. Instead, it will concentrate future efforts on behavioral studies with the objective of discouraging smoking.

Chicago's Dr. Paul Meredith recently published the problem into sharp focus when he published a study of cigarette smoking under the heading of "Drug Addiction." Dr. Meredith reminded his colleagues that nicotine, by designation of the Department of Health and Human Services, is "an alkaloid poison, generally understood to be the addictive element in tobacco."

By definition, an addict is a person who cannot resist a habit, especially the use of drugs or alcohol, for psychological and physiological reasons. Dr. Meredith believes smokers will stop smoking only when they become aware that they are, in fact, "drug addicts."

What's the incentive? If you quit smoking, how much does it change the odds? Any effort to project "numbers" on any reduced rate of lung cancer has to be based largely on conjecture. We will have a more accurate measure of this cause-effect within another year or so.

This much we now know: If you quit smoking, your bronchitis (cough) will improve almost immediately. For heavy smokers who quit, the chances of avoiding premature coronary artery disease improve by 25 percent the first year.

The smoker who quits will add years to his life. As closely as this can be projected statistically

(the age at which one stops smoking being the principal variable), quitting will mean 8.3 more years of living. Quit younger, you'll last longer. (c) 1980, Los Angeles Times Syndicate

Even Insects Seek Relief From Heat

DALLAS (AP)—Invading hordes of insects driven by the blistering heat of a torrid Texas summer are seeking cool shelter in the damp recesses of Dallas homes.

Legions of scorpions, ants, ticks and fleas have joined the army of other Dallas residents trying to avoid the heat in a city where the mercury has rocketed past the century mark for 39 consecutive days.

"For the most part insects are like other terrestrial animals and have to consider conserving water in order to survive," said John Owens, urban entomologist with the Texas A&M Extension Service in Dallas.

Scorpions are leading the migration, Owen said. Thursday. But fire and carpenter ants, ticks and fleas are finding comfortable new quarters in the air conditioned homes of Dallas.

He said other bugs, such as spider mites and grasshoppers, thrive in the scorching temperatures and are content to remain outdoors. "Scorpions tend to be in wall voids, under furniture, wherever there are places to hide," he said. "They stay out of the way during the daylight and come out at night to feed on other insects."

Owen said ants travel long distances to escape the summer heat, and fleas and ticks are ferried into the homes by family pets also seeking a respite from the heat.

The entomologist suggested residents battle the invaders by sealing outdoor cracks in their houses, filling weep holes in mortar and by using yellow instead of white lighting outdoors.

"If you seal your house and change the lighting, you have a better chance of keeping the insects outdoors," he said.

lars into an unprecedented effort to capture seats in state legislatures all across the nation.

The Democrats, still scrambling for money to finance President Carter's re-election campaign, face the prospect of being outspent by wide margins in those legislative contests.

Liberals disenchanted with Carter appear oblivious to those races, preferring instead to support embattled Senate Democrats seeking re-election or to contribute to the presidential campaigns of Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., and Rep. John B. Anderson, R-Ill.

The disparity in funding those legislative races could produce adverse political repercussions for "every progressive constituency in America" - including labor, consumer, environmental, feminist and minority organizations.

That warning to liberals comes from a report produced by the Conference on Alternative State and Local Policies, a Washington-based organization that recently held its annual convention at the University of Pittsburgh.

"Who wins the state legislative races this fall - and how they redraw congressional-district lines next year - will have a profound effect on the political and racial composition of Congress throughout the 1980s," says Lee Webb, executive director of the conference and co-author of the report. Republican, conservative and business organizations are well aware of those implications. The Republicans National Committee has allocated to its local-elections division $2.7 million of its current $20.8 million annual budget.

The staff of 30 people in that RNC unit is offering Republican candidates for legislative seats throughout the country detailed technical advice, elaborate training sessions and access to a computerized data bank.

In addition to the $1.4 million earmarked by the RNC for direct aid to state legislative candidates, a separate Washington-based political action committee called GOPAC plans to distribute $1 million to Republican contestants.

In contrast, the Democratic National Committee this year expects to spend $4.2 million - about one-fifth of the RNC budget - and the DNC has no staff members assigned exclusively to assisting Democrats seeking office in state legislatures.

Although federal law prohibits corporate contributions to candidates for Congress or the presidency, no such restrictions exist in most states. Thus, both the RNC and GOPAC are soliciting corporate donations for legislative contests.

In addition, dozens of corporations expect to make direct contributions to pro-business candidates. Standard Oil of Indiana, for example, expects to provide financial assistance to legislative candidates in 20 states.

Similar efforts have been mounted by a host of conservative political action committees, including those affiliated with the National Rifle Association, National Right to Work Committee, Public Service Research Council, National Conservative Political Action Committee and Fund for a Conservative Majority.

The most likely battlegrounds, according to the report issued by Webb's group, are California, Florida, Illinois, Indiana, Minnesota, New York, Ohio, Pennsylvania and Washington.

Ranking just below those states in priority are Arizona, Colorado, Iowa, Missouri, Oregon and Wisconsin.

Vast infusions of money don't necessarily guarantee the success of such efforts. In California, for instance, the Republican Party spent $1 million during the 1960s specifically to control the reapportionment of congressional districts by gaining a majority in both houses of the state legislature.

By 1971, however, when the time arrived to redistrict the state on the basis of the 1970 census, the Democrats controlled both the state Senate and the state Assembly.

But this year's campaign on the part of Republicans and conservatives is unique in its scope, planning and implementation. As a result, the Democrats are in danger of losing more than the presidency.

The feller on Deep Creek says, "Men call a 50-mile hike training for physical fitness, but women call it shopping."

Snyder is a unique community in many respects, but one thing that has impressed us the most is its ability to retain its young people.

Everyday we meet folks who were born and reared in Snyder. Snyder natives come back to Snyder, and they stay. It's unique for a small town and for all of West Texas.

It reminded us of a column in the Midland Reporter-Telegram a few weeks back. The article was written by Larry Moffitt, a 1967 Midland graduate. He is a columnist for The Daily News World in New York. But after an 11 year absence, Moffitt recently returned to his hometown and penned the following:

"In high school we used to joke that an exciting Saturday night in Midland was going to Gibson's to watch them unload trucks. In our minds, Midland was a sinkhole, a grave with the lid left off, and other unkind images. For high school seniors, the most important parts of Midland were the roads leading out.

"Going to Texas Tech was an acceptable degree of 'getting out' and The University of Texas represented a clean slice through the umbilical cord. But going beyond that to say, Cal Tech or Vassar, was really burning your bridges. Going to Oklahoma, especially if you played football, amounted to driving a stake in the heart of your gray-haired mother.

"But the main thing we all had in common, no matter where we planned to go, was that we weren't coming back. With the exception of Christmas visits and family reunions Midland would only be thought of in historical terms.

"So what I want to know is why, after 11 years of absence, do I return for a brief visit and suddenly find myself looking at Midland as though I stumbled into heaven? Did I go soft in the head? Have I lost the spirit of adventure that drives me over the top of every hill?

"I think that change in me began when I stepped off the plane and noticed the air was clean. In New York, when the air isn't brown, it's because it's black. The next day it rained and I noticed the rain was made of water instead of battery acid. How unusual, I thought, rain you can drink. I stood outside in my clothes.

"People I didn't know, complete strangers, nodded their heads and said howdy when I walked down the street. At first I thought they were mistaking me for someone they knew, but it happened so often that by the second day I began to say howdy back.

"In New York, even Houston, speaking to people you don't know is done with great caution. Muggers ask you for the time so they can see if the value of your watch warrants their attention. A Mickey Mouse watch is sufficient.

"And then there's the subway. Survival instinct dictates that you stand in the middle of the platform as the train approaches because there is a growing psychopathic element that likes to push people in front of oncoming trains for laughs.

Moffitt further related he went to the store with his father and was shocked when his father failed to lock his door. A guy in the shoe shop said save your money, because the boot didn't need fixing. He continued, "The clincher for us disillusioned wanderers is that Midland is one of the only decent places left in which to raise kids. In New York schools, the teachers travel in pairs for safety..."

"My New York friends ask me about Texas as a place to live. 'Is it true,' they ask, 'that Texas is still pretty much in the Dark Ages, with dirt streets, not so much electricity and killer rednecks who'd just as soon blow your head off as look at you.'"

"Yes," I assured them. "Who needs the crowds, right?"

Dear Abby

"Living Will" Depends On Where You Live

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: My beloved wife of 42 years recently died after a long and painful terminal illness. I feel that she was kept alive much too long after it became obvious that there was no hope for her recovery. If you had ever watched a beautiful 130-pound woman reduced to a 79-pound skeleton, you would understand my feelings. She begged for months to die, and we who loved her suffered with her. Her hospital bill alone was over $28,000. Thank God we could afford it, but what do poor people do?

How I wish my dear wife had signed the Living Will you mentioned in your column. When I told my doctor I wanted to obtain a Living Will, instructing all those who loved me that they were not to keep me alive should I fall victim to a terminal illness and there was no reasonable hope for my recovery, he said, "You don't need one because California is one of the 40 states that have the Natural Death Act."

Is this true? PLANNING AHEAD IN MODESTO

DEAR PLANNING: No. You need a document specifically prepared for the state in which you live because the law in each state differs slightly.

The 10 states that have the Natural Death Act are: Arkansas, California, Idaho, Kansas, Nevada, New Mexico, North Carolina, Oregon, Texas and Washington.

The Society for the Right to Die, 250 West 57th St., New York, N.Y. 10019, has prepared forms and guidelines specifically designed for each of the above states. It will send you the proper form on request. There is no charge for the document, but the society is a non-profit organization, so please send a few dollars to cover the cost of the document and mailing.

If you live in one of the other 40 states (many of which now have bills pending), you will be sent a Living Will declaration to sign as evidence of your wishes. Meanwhile your name will be recorded and the society will send you a proper form if and when the law is enacted in your state.

DEAR ABBY: I have never seen a problem like mine in your column, and it's a tough one. For the last two years my fiance and I have lived together, so it is assumed by everyone who knows us that we will be married. (We probably will, although no date has been set.)

The problem is his kid sister. More than once she has said, "When are you two getting married? I can't wait to be a bridesmaid."

Abby, how do I let her know that I am not planning to ask her to be in my wedding party? I hate to come right out and tell her because I don't want to hurt her feelings.

Thanks for a snappy comeback. J. IN TORONTO

DEAR J.: More than a "snappy" comeback, you need a gentle and diplomatic way of letting the "kid sister" down. It's unfair to let her assume that she'll be in the wedding party if she's not going to be.

The next time she mentions it, tell her the truth. The longer you put it off, the more disappointed she'll be.

DEAR ABBY: I am 18 and very much in love for the first time in my life. Michael is 21, and a more honest and decent guy I've never met. He doesn't drink or smoke and he's working to put himself through college.

So what's the problem? My father doesn't like Michael. And why doesn't he like him? Because Michael doesn't look you straight in the eye when he talks to you.

Abby, Michael is shy and it's hard for him to look people in the eye, but that doesn't mean he doesn't have good character.

Don't you think my father is wrong for holding this against Michael? LOVES MICHAEL

DEAR LOVES: Yes! The world is full of charming crooks who can look you in the eye and lie through their teeth if there's something to be gained by it.

Do you wish you had more friends? Get Abby's booklet, "How To Be Popular; You're Never Too Young or Too Old." Send $1 with a long, self-addressed, stamped (28 cents) envelope to: Abby, Popularity, 132 Lasky Drive, Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212.

Fire Ravishes 12,000 Acres

HOLIDAY Texas (AP)—A wind-driven grass fire roared over some 12,000 acres of pasture and grassland in Archer County before it was brought under control late Wednesday.

Wichita County fire coordinator Sidney Smith said the enormous blaze was first reported about 1 p.m. some 5 miles from Lake Kickapoo near Dundee.

Boys' Ranch Provides 2nd Chance To Succeed

BOYS RANCH (AP)—Illegitimacy suddenly was the least of Kirk's concerns. He had developed an annoying habit of stealing and, worse, he was getting caught.

At age 12, Kirk was headed for reform school. That was about all he and Jackie had in common, except a broken home. Jackie did have a father, at least until a rainy August night in 1961.

That's when Jackie removed a shotgun from a closet and blew the old man into oblivion.

He was 11 years old and up to his scarred ears with parental abuse. The court was sympathetic but its option were limited and not at all pleasant.

Then, there were five young brothers who were building a remarkable reputation as incorrigibles, the collective scourge of a small Detroit suburb.

All but abandoned by their mother, their father was in jail and it seemed a good bet the boys would soon be joining him there.

Finally there was Mark, 6, whose only crime to date was being born. His mother celebrated his second birthday by giving him to a relative.

He lived then with an uncle in Houston, where he was no more loved than welcome, which was not at all.

As fate would have it, this star-crossed group wound up here in the Texas Panhandle, at a former ghost town, a place called Cal Farley's Boys Ranch.

Farley, a wrestler—by profession and a humanitarian at heart, is now dead, but his unique legacy is alive and well and overrun still by the Kirks and Jackies and Marks of the world.

The boys' names and hometowns have been changed and the time sequence has been altered, but it is safe and almost accurate to report that all but one of the group are now "successful graduates" of Boys Ranch.

The exception, one of the five brothers from Detroit, distinguished himself by running off and killing a cop.

From the elegant Amarillo Club, one can look out a 30th floor window and see for miles, although not quite to the Boys Ranch 40 miles northwest of town. "Cal Farley was a damn good swindler," chuckled Virgil Patterson during an interview at the club, "a swindler in the kindest sort of way. Patterson is a retired bank executive and current unpaid president of Boys Ranch."

The last British garrison evacuated the Suez Canal zone in 1956.

Detroit Seeks Federal Loan

DETROIT (AP)—The city may build a new 500-acre assembly plant for General Motors Corp. if it can obtain a federal loan to finance the project, Mayor Coleman Young says.

Emmett Moten, Detroit's top development official, was meeting federal officials in Washington today to discuss financial arrangements for the plant, which would have an estimated price tag of at least $500 million.

Site acquisition and preparation would cost another $120 million to $150 million, city officials estimate.

Under the plan, the city would build the plant and lease it to GM to recover construction costs. But federal officials are pessimistic about the city's chances of obtaining such a large loan.

GM wants to build its new plant on the site of the old Dodge Main plant in Hamtramck, a city within Detroit, to replace its aging Cadillac and Fleetwood Fisher Body facilities.

Young said the city would seek most of the money from the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development under a program that lends cities money at low interest rates.

Further Stayman responses

By Oswald Jacoby and Alan Sontag

When you play Stayman, the response of two in any suit but clubs is a weakness bid and says that you, as responder, are looking for a better spot than one notrump to play a part-score contract.

Opener is expected to pass, but may bid again with the right sort of maximum notrump.

Here are some examples after you open notrump and partner responds two spades.

1. S-K Q x H-A x x x D-A x x C-A x x Rebid two notrump. If partner holds six spades to the ace, you will have nine tricks at notrump.

2. S-A Q x x H-A x D-K J x x C-A x x Rebid three spades. You might even bid four spades if you know that partner won't be bidding that two spades with five spades and an absolute bust.

What do you do as responder to one notrump with: S-x x H-Q x x D-x x C-J x x x x? You want to play in a club part score.

We suggest using the immediate three-club response for this purpose.

When you do this you should be showing something like: S-K x x x H-x x D-x C-A K x x x x by responding two clubs and rebidding three clubs. This might get to a slam if partner's notrump was S-A Q x x H-K x x D-A x C-Q x x x. The bidding sequence would start 1 N.T. - 2 C - 2 S - 3 C. Partner would rebid three notrump and then you would bid four spades. This would show that you could have bid four spades right over two and he would bid the spade slam.

Next week we will discuss two-way Stayman invented by Dave Carter of St. Louis. In two-way Stayman, the two-club and two-diamond responses both ask for a major. But two clubs may be very weak and definitely denies slam possibilities, while two diamonds always show some slam chance.

Miss Neeley, Wilking Wed In Formal Ceremony

Solemn nuptial vows were pledged by Sheryl Denise Neeley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Billy W. Neeley, and Thomas Eddy Wilking, son of Mrs. Patsy Johnson, all of Snyder. Double ring vows were exchanged in the East Side Church of Christ July 11 at 7:30 p.m. before an archway entwined with greenery, two candelabra holding nine tapers each, and two large sprays of yellow and white daisies adorned with baby's breath and greenery. Doug Ailes, minister of East Side Church of Christ, officiated.

The bride's father presented her in marriage as she was attired in a white formal gown of miramist organza over taffeta. Chantilly lace outlined the high neckline and sheer yoke of illusion. The empire lace bodice, belted with white satin ribbon and covered with matching lace, was jeweled with touches of seed pearls. Her full swing skirt, with a deep ruffle flounce finished with Chantilly lace, flowed to a chapel train. Her lace-bordered, mantilla of silk illusion was held by a lace cloche.

The bride carried a bouquet of yellow and white daisies with ribbon streamers.

WARDROBE NEEDS: Wardrobe needs vary with changes in lifestyle. Retirement, a move to a different climate and involvement in active sports are examples of major lifestyle changes that influence clothing needs.

Picture a typical week's or month's activities as a pie with each slice a grouping a major activities such as work, recreation, leisure, after-five, and so forth. Most slices will vary in size or percentage and often differ between spring-summer and fall-winter seasons.

Compare this pie to the current season's wearable wardrobe.

It's important to exclude unwearable clothes — those that don't fit, out-of-fashion, worn out, uncomfortable.

Rid the closet of these unwearables — they're only in the way.

Use the differences in the current season's wearable wardrobe and lifestyle activities as the plan for strengthening the wardrobe.

Add garments needed, and avoid adding more to those categories that comprise more garments than needed.

For example, after-five garments may be glamorous and elegant, but a great buy on sale is a waste if other garments are needed now.

Know yourself by your major activities. Combine these with your preferences to build a wardrobe that works rather than a closet full of nothing to wear.

STAMPS FOR CHILDREN—Packages of cancelled commemorative stamps are being readied for mailing to the New Jersey Orthopedic Hospital for Crippled Children by Tejas Chapter Chairman, Mrs. Leland S. Herod. Mrs. Herod is being assisted by her granddaughter, Kelly Lynn Herod of Fort Worth. Kelly Lynn is a junior member of the society.

National Project Aids Children

One of the projects of the National Society of Colonial Daughters of the Seventeenth Century is contribution of cancelled commemorative stamps to the New Jersey Orthopedic Hospital for crippled children. With the proceeds from the many stamps sent by members of the society, valuable equipment has been purchased for use in rehabilitation of crippled children. Among items of equipment procured are such things as specially rigged tricycles for use in exercising.

Mrs. Leland S. Herod, corresponding secretary of Tejas Chapter, has served as chairman of commemorative stamps since the chapter was organized in 1977. Mrs. Herod has sent many stamps to the hospital. In addition to the commemorative stamps, rare stamps and old stamps from the envelopes of keep-sake letters filed away for many years are also sent.

The parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. Allen Vansickle, 412 31st. pearls. In keeping with tradition, the bride's gown was something old, something new was her veil, she borrowed a necklace from her sister-in-law, Kay Vansickle, and her garter was blue. She carried a bouquet of daisies, mint green carnations and baby's breath. Maid of honor was Isabell Allen. She was attired in a street length mint green dress and carried a bouquet of yellow and green carnations and baby's breath. Also wearing a mint green dress was Barbara Peek of Pecos, bridesmaid. Flower girl was Susan Vansickle, sister of the bride. Best man was Thurman Allen.

A reception followed the ceremony in the Vansickle home. The wedding cake was three-tiered, topped with a miniature bride and groom. Lime punch was served from a cut glass bowl. Serving were Kay Vansickle and Janie Coppedge. Following a week's trip to San Angelo at the Old Coach Inn, the couple is at home at 412 31st St. The bridegroom graduated from Palo Duro High School, Amarillo, in 1970 and the bride is a 1978 graduate of Snyder High School. Bolden is employed by Welltech, Inc. Out of town guests for the wedding were from Pecos, Seymour and Andrews.

Musick, Freeman Wed

Sherry Renee Musick and Richard Freeman Nixon were united in marriage at the 37th Street Church of Christ at 7:30 p.m. Saturday, July 19. Gordon Musick, father of the bride, officiated at the double ring ceremony.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Musick, 3730 Ave. U, and Mr. and Mrs. Freeman Nixon of Houston.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She was attired in a lace covered crepe gown which featured a set-in yoke accented with seed pearls. The long, full sleeves were gathered at the wrists, and ended in a ruffle of lace decorated with seed pearls. The dress was made by the bride. Her two-layered fingertip veil of illusion, edged in lace, was attached to a cap of lace and pearls like those on her dress. She carried a bouquet of yellow and white silk carnations and baby's breath. Walter Wilhoit, cousin of the bride, made her bouquet.

For something old, the bride wore a bracelet belonging to her great-grandmother; something new was her dress; something borrowed was her veil, from Lynn Leavell Spivey; and the traditional something blue was her garter.

Attending the bride as maid of honor was Rebecca Musick, her sister. She wore a gown of yellow crepe with a white and yellow lace cape, fashioned like the bride's. Melinda Masters, bridesmaid, wore a gown identical to that of the maid of honor. The attendants carried seven long stemmed yellow and white silk carnations. Rebecca Musick made the floral arrangements and corsages.

Mike Renzelman of Houston was best man. Curtis Blair of Lubbock was groomsmen. Stan Musick of Houston and Kerry Musick of Brownfield, brothers of the bride, were ushers and candlelighters.

Mrs. Janet Musick and Mrs. Fawn Musick registered guests. The church was decorated with two brass candelabra and brass archway decorated with greenery.

A quintet composed of Chiva Pitner, Beth Garner, Charlie Garner, Arlie and Barbara Eicke, sang "More," "The Twelfth of Never," "Whither Thou Goest" and "The Lord Bless You and Keep You," during the ceremony.

The reception, given by the bride's parents, was held in the Christian Student Center at Western Texas College. Mrs. Janet Musick, Mrs. Fawn Musick and Miss Sharon Laird of Lubbock, served at the bride's table. The three-tiered wedding cake was decorated with yellow and baby blue flowers and two white wedding bells. Miss Laird made the cake.

Other members of the house party were Mmes. Dot Wolfe, Carol Laird, Elizabeth Leavell, Rozelle Martin, Ruby Clark, and Mary Westmoreland. Miss Tracey Westmoreland registered guests at the reception. Bobby Musick, nephew of the bride, passed out rice bags.

Parents of the groom hosted the rehearsal luncheon at K-Bob's Steak House.

Following the couple's short trip to Palo Duro Canyon and San Antonio,
