PITTSBURGH (NEA)— At one session of a recent national conference here, the speaker displayed an elaborate organizational chart illustrating the relationship between his parent company and its 30 subsidiary corporations.

He hopes to finance its elaborate consumer assistance program through the expected annual sale of $2.1 million worth of memberships in a pre-paid group legal services organization.

In other workshops, participants talked knowledgeably about venture capital, loan packages, leveraging techniques, equity requirements, leasehold improvements and assorted other sophisticated financial matters.

In Boston, Massachusetts Fair Share, one of the country's most successful citizens' organizations, is investigating the possibility of selling low-cost energy audits to homeowners.

But there were virtually no business executives among the more than 600 men and women who gathered here for the sixth annual Conference on Alternative State and Local Policies.

In Baltimore, an affiliate of the South East Community Organization boasts of a profitable housing rehabilitation operation and is considering establishing its own real estate agency.

Most of the attendees were community organizers - youthful activists dedicated to mobilizing previously powerless people struggling for improved housing, equitable taxation, affordable fuel and better medical care in their neighborhoods.

If those efforts are successful, community organizations will enjoy the financial independence they need to operate successfully while simultaneously removing themselves from the rolls of 'charity cases' in need of foundation, government or church support.

the futile protests

The protest era of the late 1960s and early 1970s seems a distant memory now—a bad memory, perhaps. Yet it did exist. All the street violence, polarization and irrational rhetoric happened.

Opposition to the war in Vietnam managed to radicalize huge numbers of young Americans. Many of them, like Cathlyn Wilkerson, were from affluent families. These rich kids made up the nucleus of those organizations that advocated violence; their affluence made the rhetoric hard to take seriously.

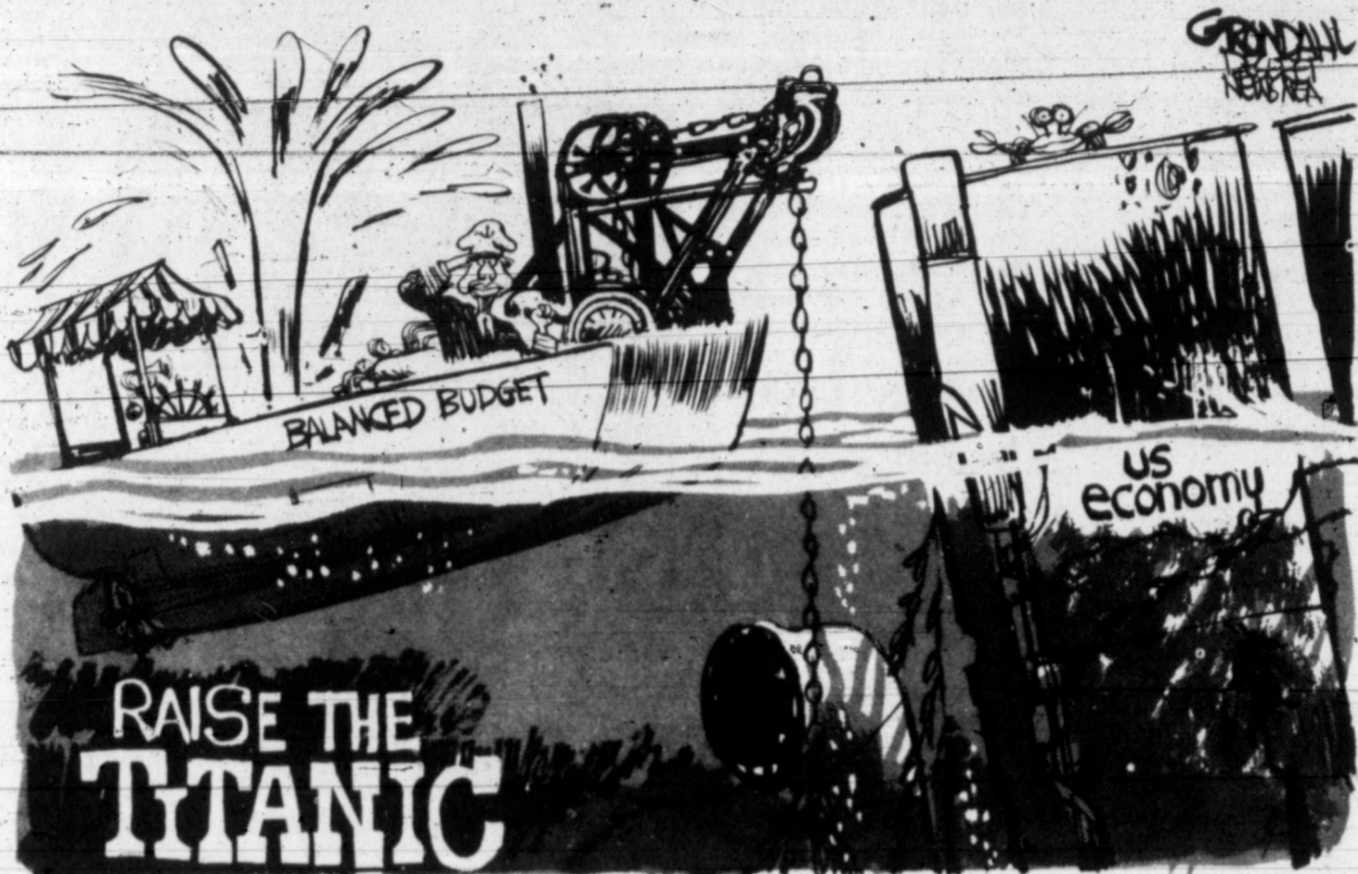

Exclusive Eastern colleges, like the one attended by Cathlyn Wilkerson, spawned a host of slogan-chanting radicals who thought nothing of trampling the rights of those who got in their way. These same schools had produced the vanguard of establishment liberalism only a few years before. No one should have been surprised.

The notion that society must be molded by an elite was consistent to both street radicals and the Ivy leaguers who have dominated Washington, D.C., since the time of Franklin Roosevelt. By the 1960s, with the Vietnam war staring them in the face, idealists could see that the government was not turning the country into a peaceful egalitarian society.

It was, of course, not a revolution. That term implies a fundamental change in direction. Although they chanted about power to the people, had they succeeded, which they came nowhere near, it would have meant power to them.

The rich kids, as it turned out, made lousy revolutionists. Cathlyn Wilkerson and three comrades managed to blow up themselves and her father's expensive Manhattan townhouse while trying to make bombs to attack the establishment.

Wilkerson's surrender is a proclamation that she no longer is a revolutionary. The revolution didn't work. Yet those who think that government can create a new society still cling to their dream.

Parents. When you call your children to go visit your friends with you, do they hide under the car and refuse to come out? Do they make excuses for not going like they have to stay home and rotate the tires on their tricycle?

Then these words are for you. Suppose - just suppose - the situation was reversed and you were being dragged along to visit their friends. It might go something like this.

"Look, Mom, would you and Dad stop dawdling or we're going to be late at Debbie and Mike's house. And I'm telling you before we go, I don't want you whining around about when are we coming home and running in and out every two minutes to 'tell.' And for crying out loud, take something to do - some of your favorite toys. Mom, why don't you take your needlepoint? That would keep you occupied for awhile. Your home workshop is out of the question, Dad. It's too big. Take something small - like maybe your key ring to play with."

At the house, the introductions are brief. "This is Mom and Dad, but you'll forget their names anyway. Say hello. And would you look at your parents. I swear they've grown a foot since we last saw them. How are things at work? And where did you get that pretty dress? I want you to meet my parents. Mom is 34 and Dad is 36. You should have a lot in common. Now run along and get acquainted. Maybe their Mom will show you her new microwave oven and their Dad his new power mower. Keep it down now."

Later, as the children are really having a good time, the four parents approach the children.

"Kids, when are we going home? All the parents are sleepy. Besides, Dad has to be in court early tomorrow and he has a brief to write tonight."

"The kids look at one another. 'Isn't that just like a parent? Putting everything off until Sunday night. How long have you known about the brief?'"

"Since last Friday," says their father.

"A likely story. Don't they drive you crazy? I swear you can't take parents anywhere and have a good time. What say we get together sometime soon without the A-D-U-L-T-S?"

"In the car on the way home, you hear the kids say, 'I love Debbie and Mike, but their parents are really spoiled brats. I hope you two didn't drink a lot of liquids or you'll be up all night. And don't you dare fall asleep on the way home or we'll leave you in the car all night. Tell me, did you have a good time?'"

the seers are busy

NEW YORK (AP) - While it still might turn out to be the second worst recession since the Great Depression of the 1930s, the current downturn is already being written off by some allegedly far-seeing seers.

This, of course, is an ancient behavioral trait of so-called economic observers. They love to anticipate. They spent two years telling us a recession was coming; now they are telling us an upturn is on the way.

There is prestige in calling the turns, and money, too. It pays to go out on a limb, because if you happen to be right you can forever advertise the fact. And if you are wrong, you can help people forget.

One well-known economic forecaster helps that process along by means of his own poor memory. If events trip him up, he merely adjusts the record and advises his clients: "As I told you six months ago..."

There is another class of seer who forecasts not for money but for politics, and we are seeing plenty of that ilk in the past few weeks. They are an indomitable sort, always trying to offset misery with hope.

Are we in a recession? Well, it's hard to deny it, but you can try. Isn't it really more civilized to say, as did Treasury Secretary G. William Miller, that "we're forming the basis for a recovery." So much has been made of the distant recovery, and so little of the immediate recession, that some of the less-publicized don't split 5-0. South can make it impossible for West to use his last trump to do his side any good."

Oswald: "This involves working things out so that if West does ruff with it, he will be ruffing his partner's trick, not declarer's."
Alan: "South simply leads the ace and a low heart. If West ruffs, the last low heart will be played from dummy. Later on, South can cash dummy's king of hearts and ruff another heart with the queen of trumps."
Oswald: "If West doesn't ruff, South scores dummy's king and leads a third heart. East wins, but can't lead a trump and South gets to ruff a heart. Then he can pull West's last trump and claim."

Oswald: "It shows that you must consider working on your side suit before you draw all the enemy trumps."
Alan: "Declarer ruffs the diamond lead. If he plays three or more rounds of trump, the 4-1 heart break will leave him one trick short. Needless to say, a top-flight declarer will try to work out a plan to guard against any and all 4-1 heart breaks."
Oswald: "The winning technique is to cash the ace and ten of trumps and then leave trumps alone and go after hearts."

Common Sense Cooking

By RUTH McDANIEL

Dear Ruth,
I happen to be a vegetarian so I wish you'd put more meatless recipes in your column.
A good source of protein is dried beans. I think these 2 recipes will be useful to both vegetarians and meat-eaters, alike. I like your column and will be looking for more meatless main dishes. Bernice, Mesa, Ariz.

In these days of high meat prices, I think many of us are looking for tasty main-dish recipes that use little or no meat. If you have a recipe like this, I'd appreciate hearing from you. Ruth.

ARIZONA BAKED FRIJOLE BEANS

Soak 2 pounds pink or pinto beans overnight. Drain. Place in cold water in kettle to cover. Add 1 onion, quartered, 1 bay leaf, 1 tsp. salt, and 1 clove garlic. Cook till beans are tender.
Place 2 finely chopped onions, in casserole. Add 3 tbsp. honey. Drain water from beans and place drained beans in casserole over honey. Season with celery salt, a few grains of cayenne pepper and 3 tbsp. chopped chives.
Rub lid of casserole with garlic. Cover casserole. Bake at 350 degrees till beans are almost but not quite dry, about half an hour.

ITALIAN BAKED BEANS

Soak 2 cups navy beans overnight. Next day put beans and water into kettle. Add more water if necessary to barely cover. Add bay leaf, 2 medium onions, grated, 2 clove crushed garlic, 2 tbsp. chopped parsley, 1 tsp. chopped dill, salt and pepper. Boil till beans are tender but not soft, about 1½ hours.
Cook 2 cups strained tomato pulp with ½ cup olive or salad oil slowly in pan. Stir in 3 small chopped pickles, ½ cup chopped green olives, 1 cup chopped celery. Cook to gather till tender. Then pour over beans. Put in casserole. Cover and bake at 275 degrees about 2 hours. Remove from oven and top with ½ cup grated cheese. Return to oven till cheese browns and serve at once.

Dear Ruth,
Do you have a recipe for a Maple Syrup or Corn Syrup cake? I remember having them as a child, and would love to find these recipes. Thanks. J.J. Corning, N.Y.

Here are 2 recipes. One from a reader in Girard, Pa., the other from Atlanta, Ga. I hope one of them is like the one you remember. Ruth.

CORN SYRUP SPONGE CAKE

3 eggs
1½ cups corn syrup
½ cup vegetable oil
1 tsp. lemon extract
2 2-3 cup flour
2¼ tsp. baking powder
½ tsp. salt
Beat eggs, syrup and oil together. Add lemon flavoring and flour mixed with baking powder and salt; beat well. Pour into well greased and floured tube pan. Bake 45 minutes in preheated 300 degree oven. Serve with following sauce:

SAUCE
½ cup sugar
2 eggs
2 cups milk
4 tsp. cornstarch
½ cup water
1 tsp. vanilla
Beat sugar, eggs and milk together in pan. Cook over medium heat till mixture starts to boil. Mix cornstarch and water together, then add to mixture. Continue cooking till thickened. Add vanilla and serve over Sponge-Cake slices.

MAPLE SYRUP CAKE

1 egg yolk
¾ cup maple syrup
1 tbsp. butter
6 tbsp. milk
1½ cups flour
2 tsp. baking powder
½ tsp. salt
1 tsp. vanilla
Beat egg yolk. Mix in syrup, shortening and milk. Add flour, baking powder, salt and vanilla. Mix well. Pour in greased 9x9" pan. Bake at 350 degrees about 30 minutes.

UNCOOKED MAPLE FROSTING

¼ cup butter
2 cups powdered sugar
2 tbsp. strong coffee
3 tbsp. maple syrup
2 tbsp. milk
Cream butter. Add sugar, coffee, syrup and milk. Beat till smooth and creamy. Spread on cake.

Something for your sweet-tooth. You've never tasted such good desserts! Make perfect piecrust, Apple Pie in a Bag, Stove Top Bread Pudding, Never Fail Meringue and many more. Send $1 plus 25c postage and handling to: Ruth McDaniel, Dept. "E", c-o this paper, 11409, 116 Ave. N., Largo, Fla. 33540.

Relieving arthritis pain

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I have arthritis of the hip and leg. The pain has been terrible. My doctor put me on Motrin. It has eased the pain. What I'd like to know is will my body get used to this medicine and will the medicine lose its effect? What is this medicine? I'm 77 years old.

sodium salt diet will help. That also greatly decreases a person's enjoyment of food.

I wish I could give you a more encouraging answer but it's important that you understand the basic problem and the limitations available in treating it.

(NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSN.)

DEAR READER — Motrin has actions very similar to aspirin and is very useful in relieving arthritis pain, particularly the kind of pain commonly found in osteoarthritis. In your age group, and since it's your hip and leg that's involved, the probability is that you have osteoarthritis. I'm sending you The Health Letter number 4-10, Osteoarthritis, Degenerative or Wear and Tear Arthritis, to give you more information about this problem. Other readers who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Send your request to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

No, your body probably will not become accustomed to the Motrin and it will continue to be effective in helping to prevent or control your pain. There are a number of other pain-relieving medications that also are frequently used to control the pain of arthritis.

DEAR DR. LAMB — My mother is 83 years old and has swollen legs which are swollen from the feet to her knees. The doctor says it's caused by hardening of the arteries and poor circulation. At present she's taking potassium chloride slow release tablets, Diuril and Digoxin. The legs also leak fluid which is hard to stop. What causes this and what do you suggest for stopping it? Is there another medication that could be used to help decrease the swelling of her legs? Her blood pressure is good and the heart is good also.

DEAR READER — The Diuril is to wash out salt which also eliminates excess water. Unfortunately, it can also result in loss of potassium and that's why your mother is taking potassium. The Digoxin is to strengthen the contractions of the heart.

The combination of these medicines plus your doctor's comment about poor circulation indicates that he believes that your mother's problem is caused by a weak heart. The heart is no longer able to contract strongly enough to provide good circulation. We call this heart failure.

You can think of it as pump failure. When this happens and involves the right side of the heart, swelling of the feet and ankles and sometimes the abdomen occurs. The success in medical treatment depends a lot on how weak the heart is and how much the heart muscle is damaged. Your doctor is doing essentially everything that can be done in those circumstances. There are limits in what he can do to improve the function of the heart as a pump once it's affected in this way.

The legs could be wrapped in elastic bandages or other pressure devices but that would simply shift the fluid to other parts of the body and not correct the basic heart failure problem. Occasionally strict adherence to a very low

Study Says Farmland Disappearing

SANTA FE (AP) — Half the farmland in New Mexico could be lost to residential and commercial development by the year 2000, a land study says.

"I hate to see our prime agricultural land go into housing development," said Dr. William P. Stephens, state agriculture secretary.

"I saw one projection that by the year 2020, there will be almost zero farmland (in the state)," he said. Every day, 12 square miles, or 3 million acres yearly, of farmland in the United States are converted to non-agricultural uses, said the Council on Environmental Quality's 1979 National Agricultural Lands Study.

If residential and commercial buyers continue to develop farmland at a rate they did from 1967-77, New Mexico would lose 50 percent of its farmland during the next 20 years, the report said.

And Texas would lose 5 percent, California 15 percent, New Hampshire and Rhode Island 100 percent, the study said.

Some states have passed laws to discourage "the taking over of fertile farmlands by rural development," Stephens said.

"But what I'm up against, and so are most farmers is what if city people say you cannot sell your farm for development?" he said. "I could sell it for development and get maybe 10 times what I could get if I sold it for agricultural purposes."

"If we pass laws that restrict what the farmer or rancher can do with his land, then society has to reimburse him."

New Mexico has a law that allows tax breaks for owners of rural property within five miles of metropolitan areas, Stephens said. The rural property is taxed according to the land's agricultural value, and not higher urban development value, providing an incentive to retain farmland, he said.

No Prosecution Of Tax Cheaters

NEW YORK (AP)—The National Law Journal says the Internal Revenue Service has decided not to prosecute most tax evaders who cheat for less than $7,500 over three years — but the IRS is advising taxpayers not to press their luck. "The jails are full of people who thought they knew what they could get away with," said an IRS spokesman, Leon Levine. He refused, however, to confirm or deny the report.

More Afghans Have Defected

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — Some 4,500 of the 5,000 Afghan government troops guarding a garrison outside Kabul deserted or joined the Moslem rebels they were fighting, a report from Afghanistan said.

Cattlemen's Round-Up Vital WTRC Factor

ABILENE—After 21 years, the Cattlemen's Round-Up for Crippled Children has seen a few changes, but the objectives remain the same.

When the late Conda H. Wylie donated 20 steers to be sold to defray operational expenses of the West Texas Rehabilitation Center, it was the start of a big annual tradition. Now ranchmen from throughout the Southwest cut out a few head of livestock every fall and donate to WTRC. As a result, several hundred head are auctioned off with proceeds going to WTRC.

Cowboy movie star Rex Allen will be on the banks of the Concho River in San Angelo Sept. 6 to officially kickoff the 1980 Cattlemen's Round-Up for Crippled Children.

Focus will draw to Abilene on Sept. 29 for CRCC cattle sale. CRCC Horse Sale will be Oct. 4 in Abilene and CRCC Livestock Sale in Coleman Oct. 8. CRCC Sheep and Goat Sale will be Oct. 13 in Junction.

"Last year, the cattlemen's round-up sales raised $200,000 for the Rehab Centers of Abilene, San Angelo, and Snyder," states Shelley V. Smith, WTRC executive director. "When dollars are converted, the amount provides care for almost 8,000 handicapped people from throughout the Southwest."

No one had any idea 21 years ago what the late Mr. Wylie's idea would spur. He came to Smith with the suggestion that 20 top steers be cut from his Fort Chadbourne ranch near Bronte that autumn of 1960. Other ranchers wanting to donate to WTRC but, broke from a long drought of the 1950's, had to find a way of giving other than money. A few head of cattle they could spare.

The response was deeply gratifying to Smith and other center officials. The gathering of the cattle was almost immediately called the "Cattlemen's Round-up for Crippled Children."

The unique method of funding the center was copyrighted that first year and is now a vital part of the annual funding for WTRC.

Jim Alexander of Abilene is overall roundup chairman. Jim Franklin of San Angelo is roundup chairman in the Rehab Southwest Texas region. They have selected various county and area chairmen in almost every area of the Southwest.

Smith praised the West Texas ranching industry for its tremendous help in raising funds for the WTRC through the Cattlemen's Round-up program.

"Gifts are the bulk of the WTRC income," he added. "The 1980 budget of more than $2.5 million calls for about 75 percent coming from gifts."

WTRC is a private, non-profit diagnostic and treatment facility for the handicapped in the Southwest. With a goal for treating the whole patient rather than just the handicap, services offered include physical therapy, social services, psychology, orthotics, diagnostic services, education, adaptive equipment shops, audiology, medical clinics, genetics counseling and transportation.

Miss Lillian Claims Sons Did No Wrong

ARGYLE (AP)—President Carter's mother told a Texan her eldest son, the president, and her youngest son, Billy Carter, have done nothing improper in their dealings with Libya and the current furor is only a plot to deny the president re-election.

"All intellectual people know this was not out at this time to try to defeat Jimmy," Lillian Carter said Sunday during an open house at the Texas retreat of her daughter, evangelist Ruth Carter Stapleton.

She was questioned repeatedly about reports that Billy Carter acted improperly, without registering, as an agent for the Libyan government and that the uproar has damaged President Carter's chances for the Democratic presidential nomination next week.

"I think it (the Libyan controversy) is absolutely blown out of context," she said. "It's been blown sky-high. You see every day that he'd done absolutely nothing wrong. It's going away day by day."

The whole issue, she contended, has been caused by "someone trying to cost Jimmy the election."

"It will all be cleared away before election day," she said, adding, "I believe this—I think Jimmy will get the nomination."

Mrs. Carter, 81, refused to answer questions about whether it was proper for Billy Carter to receive $220,000 from the Libyan government.

"Sorry, I have no comment," she said. "I will not answer political questions. That's Billy's business and Jimmy's business. It's certainly not mine."

She said she will attend the convention, but Billy will not, because of a Senate investigation into the Libyan matter scheduled to begin today in Washington.

Dear Abby

Heavy Wife Needs Husband's Lighter Touch

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1980 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: Why would an intelligent, good-looking, loving man encourage his 300-pound wife to overeat? He appears to adore her, and she seems eager to lose weight, yet between his adoration and her good intentions she has become one whale of a gal!

When they go to a movie, he buys her candy and popcorn. After the movie, he treats her to pizza. At potluck suppers, he brings her several pieces of pie!

This dear lady is my sister. She can't tie her own shoelaces, and I know relatives who hesitate to invite her to their homes for fear the springs in their chairs and sofas won't hold.

There is something funny going on here. I would like your evaluation of this situation.

CONCERNED

DEAR CONCERNED: Unless one knows what is in the heart and head of her husband, it is impossible to evaluate the situation accurately. But one thing is certain: Offering fattening foods to a 300-pounder is tantamount to giving alcohol to an alcoholic or sugar to a diabetic. Your sister's husband is neither intelligent nor loving.

DEAR ABBY: I'm 29, male and unattached. For the last three months I've been talking on the telephone with a young lady whose firm does business with our firm. I really dig her voice and manner of speaking. She says she's 27 and single, and she sounds bright, sharp and witty.

I would really like to meet this chick and am considering asking her for a date.

The guy who lives with me says I'm crazy to take a chance that she'll probably turn out to be a dog.

What do you say?

INTRIGUED IN CHICAGO

DEAR INTRIGUED: Ask her anyway. If she's willing to date you sight unseen, she's risking as much as you. But don't get your hopes up. She may not dig you!

DEAR ABBY: How can conscientious parents keep children who are old enough to read from reading all those trashy girlie magazines they pick up at the newsstands? Our son is not quite 15, and some of the magazines we find in his room are pretty racy for a lad his age.

Any suggestions will be greatly appreciated.

KANSAS-CITY DAD

DEAR DAD: All adolescents have a normal curiosity that is satisfied in this way. A healthy, well-adjusted boy will pass through this stage unharmed in spite of the trash he reads. And so will your son. Don't make a big deal out of it. Just make sure you have plenty of good reading material available.

Then keep your eyes open. If your son appears to be overly preoccupied with trash to the exclusion of everything else, and his taste doesn't improve with maturity, he may need professional help.

CONFIDENTIAL TO PARENTS: No one said it better than Philip Wylie in his essay, "Why a Child is Important":

"To give a child material things and withhold discipline is more cruel than to strangle it. For such a child is headed for a lifetime of emotional strangulations—a walking death. Parents who leave untouched the immense problem of child discipline and substitute the abundant gifts do not actually love their children at all. They love things."

Bush Flying To Dallas For One-Day Visit

DALLAS (AP) - Hoping to drum up support of traditional Democratic voters, Republican vice presidential nominee George Bush today interrupts his vacation for a one-day visit to his adopted home state.

Bush flies from his Kennebunkport, Maine, summer home to this conservative Texas city—his first appearance on the campaign trail since he was named Ronald Reagan's running mate at the GOP convention in Detroit last month.

Upon arrival at the Dallas-Fort Worth Regional Airport, the former CIA director and United Nations ambassador was to address the National Medical Association, the National Dental Association and the National Nurses Association board of directors meeting here.

"George thinks he's getting old. He was a protester in the 60s, but last week he couldn't climb the fence around a nuclear plant!"

Aid Available To College Students

By LOUISE COOK

Associated Press-Writer

One out of every three college students today is over 25, but rising college costs often makes it hard for adult learners to support themselves, their families and their studies—all at the same time.

A recent booklet published by the College Board, a non-profit association of schools and educational institutions, indicates there is plenty of help available, if you know how and where to look.

Do not ignore government aid programs, like grants and guaranteed loans. Many people think of these programs in terms of younger students, but there are no age limits. Get further details from the financial aid officer at the school you are considering.

Adults also have some opportunities that younger students don't. The College Board booklet, "Paying for Your Education: A Guide for Adult Learners," lists dozens of specific sources of help. The 65-page booklet costs $3.50. It is available from: College Board Publication Orders, Department C-88, Box 2815, Princeton, N.J., 08541.

You can start your search for financial aid right on the job, the guide says. Find out if the fringe benefits provided by your employer include money for education.

In some cases, you can get college credit for training you have received on the job, based on recommendations of the American Council on Education. Ask your employer if in-house training programs have been checked by the council.

If you want to alternate between work and study, consider a cooperative education program at a college near your home. Information is available from the National Commission for Cooperative Education program at a college near your home. Information is available from the National Commission for Cooperative Education, 360 Huntington Ave., Boston, Mass., 02155.

Tax breaks can sometimes ease the bite of education bills. There are two major federal income tax deductions available for adult learners. If you itemize deductions, you can, as a general rule, deduct the cost of education used to maintain or improve skills needed in your current job. The deduction will not be allowed if you use the courses to qualify you for a new trade or business.

The second major type of deduction covers child-care costs. If you are a full-time student, are married to a working spouse and have children under 15, you may deduct babysitting, nursery school or day-care expenses on your federal income tax return. You do not have to itemize deductions to qualify for this kind of tax break. For more information on educational deductions, ask the nearest office of the Internal Revenue Service for pamphlets 503 and 508.

You can cut costs by cutting the time you spend in school. Consider these options:

-Credit by examination. Many schools will give you credit toward a degree based on the results of standardized tests. You may be able to get up to two years worth of credits.

-Credit for prior learning. Everyday life and work experiences may be counted for credit, even if they do not involve formal courses.

-External degree programs. You may be able to earn an undergraduate degree without classroom attendance by combining independent study and low-cost examinations.

Olympic Games End

MOSCOW (AP)—The first Olympics in a communist country ended in the same manner they began: with pageantry, pomp and unprecedented circumstances in the history of the Games.

No American team marched in the colorful, festive closing ceremony Sunday night because, for the first time since the Olympics were re-established in 1896, no American team came. The U.S. orchestrated a boycott to protest the Soviet military intervention in Afghanistan, and 35 other nations endorsed it by staying home.

In the closing parade, 16 teams demonstrated their own political protest by flying the five-ringed Olympic emblem instead of their national flags. As was the case in the opening ceremonies, these nations were: Australia, Andorra, Belgium, Great Britain, Denmark, Ireland, Spain, Italy, Luxembourg, Portugal, New Zealand, Puerto Rico, San Marino, France and Switzerland.

A representative selection of athletes — about 700 out of the 6,000 competitors — marched together in a group instead of country by country.

In a switch from its television coverage of the opening ceremonies July 19, Soviet TV did focus Sunday night on the maverick Olympic flags. The official in charge of televising the opening ceremonies had said at the time that to show the flags would have been as much a political statement as not showing them.

SHS Boys Set For Physicals Tuesday

All high school boys who plan to participate in any school-sponsored athletics during the 1980-81 school year at Snyder High are urged to take physicals Tuesday evening at the Field House.

High school girls will follow the same time schedule and will take physicals on Thursday, also at the Field House. Junior High boys will take physicals Aug. 25, beginning at 7:30 in the Field House. Junior high girls are slated to take physicals beginning at 7:30 p.m. Aug. 26, also at the Field House.

Abilene Blanks Lubbock, 13-0

Abilene Dixie took advantage of four walks, four errors and eight wild pitches to nail Lubbock Dixie 13-0 here Saturday and earn a berth into the upcoming State Little League Tournament in Waco.

The sixth to exit the Lubbockites. Though the early 3-0 lead gave the Abilene team momentum, it was the seven-run third that did Lubbock in. Abilene came up with five hits — including a two-run homer by Chris Moore — and took advantage of a walk and three Lubbock errors in the inning.

Astros Reclaim Lead; Stop New York, 3-2

NEW YORK (AP)—Of late, both the Houston Astros and Cesar Cedeno have been struggling, but Cedeno enabled his team to snap a four-game losing streak with a very timely home run.

Having now only hit eight homers this season, Cedeno led off the 10th inning off Jeff Reardon, 6-6, with the drive that gave the Astros a 3-2 victory over the New York Mets and moved them back into first place in the National League West.

Pressure is something you put on yourself," said Cedeno after his fourth game-winning hit of the season.

"We needed the win," said Houston Manager Bill Virdon. "We were close to running out of gas." Joe Sambito, 7-1, pitched hitless relief after entering the game with the bases loaded in the eighth and got the victory.

Red Sox Stake 6-4 Win Over Rangers

ARLINGTON (AP)—When you're running short on pitchers, like Boston's Don Zimmer is, it makes you do things differently.

Mike Torrez started Friday for the Red Sox in the first game of their series with the Texas Rangers, and Zimmer had been planning to go with Bob Stanley in Sunday's game.

Rice's place in left field and Rice left the game. "If Lockwood doesn't get Roberts, then Burgmeier comes back to pitch to (Mickey) Rivers," Zimmer said later. "But Roberts popped up for the final out and the left-handed Rivers never came to the plate."

Hughes Will Not Have Surgery Now

THOUSAND OAKS, Calif. (AP)—Just when Randy Hughes thought he had an unfettered claim to the starting free safety job with the Dallas Cowboys, his right shoulder popped out again and will have him on the sidelines for at least two weeks.

SWEETWATER — Snyder's Oilers, Division II Junior Teenage champions, were scheduled to meet Cameron at 3 p.m. today in round one of the Texas Junior Teenage League State Tournament here.

An earlier report which had Snyder playing Sweetwater, was incorrect. Eight teams are entered in the double-elimination tournament. Snyder and Cameron, the Division I champion, open the meet at 3, followed by Hillsboro and Palestine at 5, Brady and Sweetwater at 7, and Port Lavaca and Kermit at 9.

Red Sox Stake 6-4 Win Over Rangers

While Sambito retired all six men he faced, Reardon entered the game in the top of the 10th and he fed five pitches to Cedeno before the Houston outfielder slammed his homer.

Hoffman, who had nine runs batted in and one homer going into the game, hit a two-run homer off Jon Matlack, 7-6, in the second inning and lined a two-run, bases-loaded single in the fifth.

After the Rangers scored two more runs off reliever Dick Drago to whittle Boston's lead to 6-4, Tom Burgmeier came in to get Richie Zisk on a line drive to short that left runners stranded on second and third.

Scorned Beauties Tell Tales In Pageant Suit

FORT WORTH (AP)—When the 1980 Miss Texas crown was awarded in a courtroom instead of on the Tarrant County Convention Center stage, long-festering backstage complaints about the pageant turned into daily headlines.

The tawdry stories revealed in court—tales of minor cheating, backbiting and resentment of pageant officials by contestants and sponsors—marked a further step in the Texas pageant's evolution from a beauty contest to a high-stakes, high-pressure business.

"We just take the pageant more seriously than some other states," admits B. Don Magness, Miss Texas Pageant chairman and the target of most of the heated complaints.

"We work at it very hard," Magness said of the effort he expends grooming Miss Texas for the Miss America contest. "When we go up to Atlantic City, we go up there to win."

A woman earns the right to compete for the Miss Texas title, which carries a full college scholarship, a vintage sports car and a large cash prize as well as a ticket to the Miss America pageant, by winning local pageants licensed by the state contest.

And local pageant directors have complained privately about the Miss Texas contest every year for the past 10 years, charging favoritism.

Some years ago the El Paso pageant directors said Magness decided in advance which local winners would make the best Miss Texas, brought them to his suburban Fort Worth home and groomed them for weeks before the Texas pageant.

One of them, Miss Denton, Shirley Cothran, eventually became Miss America of 1975. The El Paso people went public with their complaint and the El Paso franchise was revoked. There was no Miss El Paso at the 1980 Miss Texas Pageant.

The reigning Miss Houston, Lu Ann Caughey, is a two-year veteran of Miss Texas competition, but 1980 was her last shot.

"I'm never going back, never. And I'd never encourage it for anyone," she said.

Miss Caughey said criticism was rampant, and that the judges had picked the top 10 finalists in time for evening gown rehearsals, hours before the official announcement.

"All the girls, all 69 of them, practiced once to be the top 10 practiced twice," she said. "They must have thought we were dumb or something. Everyone knew who the finalists were."

This year, the sponsors for Miss Dallas, Bobbie Lynn Candler, sued when their contestant finished second to Miss Lubbock, Terri Eoff. They claimed Miss Eoff ran overtime in the talent competition, gaining unfair advantage over other contestants, and did so with the tacit approval of Magness and other pageant officials.

Pageant attorneys retaliated with claims that Miss Candler had, herself, violated the rules by lying about her height and wearing the wrong style of shoe during a rehearsal.

After judge Hal Lattimore ruled against the suit, ordering Miss Eoff to keep her crown, Miss Dallas officials said Magness tried to make sure Miss Candler did not win, and even tried to keep her from entering her third Miss Texas competition.

"He didn't want me in the contest," Miss Candler said of Magness.

"See, it's his hobby and passion in life to remake a girl for the Miss America pageant. I think that's why he disfavored me. I was already prepared to go to Atlantic City. The only thing he might be able to do for me is help me with my wardrobe."

Magness' response to Miss Candler's accusation was a terse "No comment," but on the subject of grooming Miss Eoff for Atlantic City, he waxed enthusiastic about a project that will reach from hair—"I don't like it. It's too fluffy... it can look better"—to toe.

"We'll buy her a new wardrobe, have her work with a coach on her talent—everything to get her ready," Magness said. "Her eyebrows in particular need help. They're not as I'd like them to be."

OBITUARIES

Jackson Officer Of Association

EDWIN JACKSON

Edwin Jackson of Midwest Electric Cooperative at Roby has been elected second vice chairman of the Texas Member Services Association, the statewide organization of community services personnel of Texas' 81 rural electric systems. The action came during TMSA's annual conference last week in conjunction with the 40th annual membership meeting of the Association of Texas Electric Cooperatives in Houston.

Jackson has been with the Roby-based cooperative for 20 years, as a lineman, serviceman based in Snyder, and since 1977, member service director for the system. He's a native of Girard and graduate of Jayton High School.

He and his wife, the former Lynda Suzanne Jenkins of Hamlin, are parents of three sons: James Kevin, 17; Michael Darren, 14; and David Allen, 13, public school students in Snyder, where the family resides and is affiliated with the Colonial Hill Baptist Church.

Jackson is also a member of the Lions Club and a coach-instructor in the House Has Heavy Damage From Blaze

A house at 409 29th St. sustained heavy damage from a fire, Snyder firefighters reported.

The occupants, Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Pavlik, are newlyweds, having said their vows Friday night, and they were away on their wedding trip when the blaze occurred. The house is owned by Art Roberts, and the fire was reported at 4:40 p.m. Sunday.

Also Sunday, a barn was razed in a fire at Camp Springs. The barn, reported Snyder firefighters, is owned by Carl Williams and leased by Oscar Garcia. That fire was reported at 8:20 a.m.

Early Sunday morning, at 5:40 a.m., firefighters doused a stove and mattress that had caught fire in the home of Pearl James. That house was located in the 3400 block of Ave. M.

Saturday, two grass fires were extinguished. The first, reported at 12:50 p.m., occurred about seven miles southeast of town. The second, reported at 2:35 p.m., occurred north of Top Acidizers on the Lamesa Highway.

Lost Battalion Meets This Week In Austin

By JACK KEEVER
Associated Press Writer
AUSTIN (AP)—The Lost Battalion of World War II soldiers, sailors and Marines whose years in Japanese captivity forged a bond closer than brotherhood—will meet here to renew friendships and to honor their dead.

The 36th annual reunion is scheduled for Thursday through Saturday. It will be the first time the battalion has met in Austin.

Vice President J.M. Hicks of the Lost Battalion Association traces the name "Lost Battalion" to inquiries from angry wives who wanted to know where their husbands were.

The Lost Battalion consists of the 2nd Battalion, 131st Field Artillery, which was snared in Java when the Dutch Army surrendered to the Japanese on March 8, 1942, and survivors of the U.S.S. Houston, a heavy cruiser which was sunk in a fierce fire-fight in the Sunda Strait a week earlier.

These young men—many of them teen-agers—from the Great Depression had challenged the Japanese with 1918 Springfield rifles and, in the case of the Houston, mounted guns that ran out of ammunition near the end.

They came together in a POW camp known as Bicycle Camp in Batavia, Java. They seemingly had disappeared.

Beatings, hard labor and starvation took their toll as 166 of the 912 prisoners died in 3½ years of captivity in POW camps throughout Asia, Java, Sumatra, Borneo, Singapore, Thailand, Burma, French Indochina and Japan.

Many of the men worked on "Death Railway" in Burma and Thailand.

"Wives up in arms went to Washington and asked the government, 'Where the hell are our husbands?'" Hicks, a former PFC in the 131st, recalled in an interview.

"I guess they're lost," was the government's reply as Hicks remembers the story. "I guess they're separated."

The first reunion was held in Wichita Falls in October 1945, before some of the men had even returned. It has been held every year since on the weekend nearest to V-J Day, Aug. 15.

"We have nothing to sell, and we're not trying to impress anybody," said Hicks, a retired Austin school teacher. "We draw strength from each other."

Executive Secretary Crayton Gordon of Fort Worth, former member of the 131st, keeps tabs on all moves and distributes new addresses three or four times a year.

Hicks carries a complete roster underneath his car seat.

"These men are closer than my own brothers," said Hicks. "When you talk to your own brother, you don't get goose bumps."

Hicks himself credits a can of sweetened condensed milk and two buddies who forced him to boil grain with saving him from a possible fatal attack of malaria. He weighed 98 pounds at the time.

Their daily lives and attendance at the annual reunion testify to the continued closeness of the Lost Battalion.

Scene Of Double Ax Murder...

Curious Turned Away From Infamous House

FALL RIVER, Mass. (AP)—Eighty-eight years ago today, a two-story house now owned by John and Josephine McGinn was the scene of a pair of unsolved murders that found their way into children's rhyme — the ax slayings of Lizzie Borden's parents.

The McGinns still celebrate the day — by coincidence it's their 57th wedding anniversary.

The curious still stop by the wooden house and ask to see the rooms where the crimes occurred. The McGinns don't let them in — and don't much care about the legend that grew up around the quiet Sunday school teacher.

"I walked by this house for years and never knew it was Lizzie Borden's," McGinn says. "We never had any idea this was her house when we bought it."

It was sometime between 9 and 9:30 on the morning of Aug. 4, 1892, when someone entered the guest bedroom on the second floor of the Borden home and hit Abby Borden on the head with 19 blows of a hatchet.

Shortly after 10:30, Andrew Borden, Lizzie's father, came home and lay down for a nap in the downstairs sitting room. He was killed with 10 hatchet blows.

Miss Borden, 32, was at home when her stepmother and father were killed, but said later she heard nothing. She was charged with the murders a week later.

After a highly publicized 13-day trial, she was acquitted. But many here were convinced she was guilty, and Fall River children chanted:

"Lizzie Borden took an ax
And gave her mother 40 whacks.
When she saw what she had done,
She gave her father 41."

Miss Borden moved out of her home shortly after the trial and died a natural death in 1927. The house has served as a bookie joint, a rooming house and a Kewpie doll factory.

Since 1947, it has been occupied by McGinn, 78, and his wife, Josephine, 75, who run a printing business out of their home.

Although the two-story house has no plaque or sign, tourists still find the place and ask for tours. McGinn or his wife will chat with the people and maybe even give them a copy of a newspaper story about the house, but they never let strangers inside.

"We're not much interested in curiosity seekers," McGinn says. "Our interest is keeping our printing business alive."

McGinn said he does not know or care much whether Lizzie was guilty.

"People who know tourism say this house is worth a fortune," he said. "But it's the print shop that's worth something to us. This is our home. We don't care about the Lizzie Borden thing."

Kiwanians Go To Convention

Three local men have returned from a district convention of the Kiwanis Club held recently in Oklahoma City, Okla.

Attending the convention from here were Joe Cheyne, president-elect of the Noon Kiwanis Club, Roy McCloskey, lieutenant-governor elect, and Hubert Cargile, a past local club president.

The convention was held Tuesday through Saturday of last week.

Adolf Hitler was appointed chancellor of Germany in 1933.
