Allen Punishing Texas Coastline

BROWNSVILLE, Texas (AP)—Tornados struck this southernmost Texas city, floodwaters closed coastal escape routes and an oil-laden tanker with 37 crewmen aboard foundered in heavy seas as the leading edge of deadly Hurricane Allen, the strongest Atlantic hurricane in 45 years, buffeted the Texas coast today (Saturday).

Spiral bands of drenching rain, each band more intense than the one before, pounded onto the coast with 50 to 60 mph winds in advance of the storm.

The National Hurricane center in Miami said the center of the storm was expected to move across the extreme South Texas coast by sundown. Forecasters said as much as 15 inches of rain would spread inland ahead of the hurricane track tonight, with possible inland flooding.

Coast Guard Lt. Lawrence Fontana in Corpus Christi said an 840-foot Liberian tanker filled with 280,000 barrels of oil was disabled about five miles off Padre Island.

He said the tanker "Mary Ellen" left Port Aransas on Friday, intending to clear the Gulf ahead of the storm, but lost power. Fontana said three tugboats have been dispatched to help the drifting tanker, but said a helicopter rescue would be impossible because of the weather.

Two private tugboats were dispatched from Corpus Christi and one from Galveston to aid the tanker. They were due to arrive at about 11:30 a.m.

An estimated 130,000 Texans have fled Allen's fury, said Davis Wells of the state emergency operations center. The vulnerable coastal towns of Port Isabel, Port Aransas, and South Padre Island were completely evacuated before being cut off by rising tides.

Shortly after 6 a.m. Corpus Christi Mayor Luther Jones urged residents to remain inside their homes. U.S. Highway 181, which crosses Corpus Christi Bay, was closed because of heavy rains. Tides in the bay were three feet above normal at 7 a.m.

Brownsville City Manager Neil Haman urged residents who planned to evacuate to do so before 7:30 a.m.

Across the Rio Grande, in Matamoros, Mexico, Gen. Manuel Sanchez Rocha, head of disaster relief, estimated 40,000 of the city's 300,000 residents had gone to shelters. Federal troops were posted throughout the city.

Tides were two feet above normal at Brownsville, and four feet above normal at Galveston, nearly 300 miles up the coast.

STAR VISITS SNYDER—Powers Boothe, a 1966 graduate of Snyder High School, has been nominated for an Emmy in the "Best Actor" category for his portrayal of Jim Jones in the "Guyana Tragedy." Also in the running for the award are acting heavies,

Home Town Star Finds Time To Visit Snyder

By JOHN DUNNAM

Powers Boothe has gone a long way from Snyder and high school plays since he graduated in 1966—all the way to New York where he did Broadway plays to Los Angeles where he is now a sought-after star after his dazzling performances in "Skag," "The Plutonium Factor" and finally "The Guyana Tragedy" for which he has been nominated for an Emmy for his portrayal of the demonic Jim Jones.

But he still enjoys coming back to his home town, the place where he was married, the place where it all began, so to speak.

Boothe, 33, was born the youngest of three sons of Mr. and Mrs. Vestal Boothe. They have since moved to Carthage in East Texas. Booth began his acting career at Snyder High School under the direction of Gerald Gafford and Sue Parham. He got a taste of success early.

"We (the SHS cast) won state. It was the first time in about 30 years Snyder had done something like that. Since then, it's been almost an annual affair to go to Austin. Jerry Worsham (SHS drama coach) is really good."

That accolade to Worsham comes from a certified sought-after star of television. Boothe has been nominated for an Emmy award for his portrayal of Jim Jones, the leader of a cult that committed mass suicide in the jungle of Guyana in late 1978.

Also up for the award are acting heavies, Steve McQueen, Jason Robards and Henry Fonda.

Boothe's next big project is an NBC Movie-of-the-Week tentatively called "You Go To My Head," scheduled sometime in December. He will co-star with Susan Blakely.

Also, he has had several offers of leading roles in feature films and is looking at the scripts now, he says.

After Boothe graduated from high school he attended Southwest Texas State University in San Marcos. Then he attended Southern Methodist University in Dallas.

In 1969 he married his high school sweetheart, Pam Cole, here in the First Baptist Church, with Rev. A.B. Lightfoot performing the ceremony. Unlike many show people's marriage, they are still together. "I couldn't do without her," he confesses.

After college he went to See Star, Page 3a

The SDN Column

The hot, dry weather is producing, among other things, animal stories. The wire services had a story the other day about wild animals foraging around homes as their food and water supplies in the wild are cut short.

We also have heard that the heat and the lack of water is causing insects to invade homes. They are searching for places out of the sun.

However, from the reports we have heard, it hasn't reduced the tick population and snakes are as plentiful as usual.

And in the course of events, we happened upon a rattlesnake story. It seems that a man was milking his cows late one afternoon when he was interrupted by an extremely huge rattler coiled nearby. He calmly went into his barn, picked up a hoe and killed the viper. Later, while discussing the day's events with his wife over supper, he mentioned killing the snake in the barnyard. She asked about the rattlers, and he said he didn't bother to get them. She said she would like to have them and he promised to go back to the barnyard and retrieve the rattlers.

Well, darkness had set in before he got around to it, but he dutifully made his way back to the barnyard, went to the spot where he had killed the snake, reached down and snipped off the rattlers.

Next morning, when he went back to the barnyard, there was the snake he had killed the afternoon before—with its rattlers undisturbed.

But, getting back to the general wildlife situation, we figure that the varmints suffering out in the hinterlands would have it a lot easier if they could get a message to Uncle Sam that they are on the verge of becoming extinct. Plentiful wildlife don't get much attention, but if they can convince certain groups that they are in danger of being wiped out, they could get on easy street.

Take those little fish down there on the border, for example. Nobody knew they were even there—even the wildlife enthusiasts and the federal watchdogs didn't know there was such a species until recently. But they are in line for all kinds of help. Just how the nation managed to exist before they were discovered is a big mystery. But now they have become important enough to stir things up in Washington. Like the snail darter in Tennessee a few years ago, they may figure in the expenditure of several million dollars in tax money.

Ask Us

Q—What is making Snyder's water taste "dirty," and is it safe to drink?

A—We have been experiencing what once was referred to as the lake "turning over." City Engineer Mike Smith says this is a misnomer, although lake water does shift during these occurrences. It usually happens twice a year when the water temperature reaches a certain point that causes water at the top to change places with water at lower levels. This dislodges algae (small, aquatic, non-vascular plants), which, in turn, cause the bad taste. The city uses activated charcoal to combat the problem, but it is never really successful. As for being safe to drink, the treatment plant takes care of that and it is safe, Smith assures. However, if anyone fears that he has contaminated water coming from his faucets, the city will test it at the user's home.

SNYDER TEMPERATURES: High Friday, 94 degrees; low, 69 degrees; reading at 7 a.m. Saturday, 75 degrees; precipitation, none; total precipitation for 1980 to date, 11.10. West Texas: Chance of thunderstorms with no important temperature changes. Lows 60s mountains to upper 70s south. Highs in the 90s.

Weekend update

AMC Sold Trucks To Libya

WASHINGTON (AP)—The American Motors Corp. has sold almost 2,900 trucks to Libya over the past four years, some of which are said to have been earmarked for the Libyan Army for "general purpose use."

The disclosure drew an indignant reaction from Rep. Millicent Fenwick, D-N.J., the author of a 1979 amendment barring the sale of U. S. equipment which could have a military purpose to countries engaging in the export of international terrorism.

"It's madness," Mrs. Fenwick said Friday in a telephone interview, adding that she will demand an explanation from the State and Commerce Departments.

Strike Deadline Nears

WASHINGTON (AP)—As negotiators try to head off a nationwide telephone strike, company officials are telling customers they would be hard-pressed to tell any difference in service if a walkout does occur at midnight tonight. (Saturday)

And even some union officials acknowledge privately that a strike would have to last several months to cause any serious deterioration of telephone service.

The Bell System is so highly automated that most calls will not be affected by a walkout, said American Telephone & Telegraph Co. spokesman Pick Wagner. He conceded some delays would occur in operator-assisted calls and equipment servicing since supervisory personnel will take over many of those duties.

Students New To SHS Sign Aug. 12

High school students new to the Snyder schools will register Aug. 12 from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. in the Counselors' Office. Health records are necessary for all new students, and it would be helpful for students to have a transcript, school officials said.

Incoming 9th grade students, or students new to the Snyder High School, will have an orientation program Friday, Aug. 22 at the high school, at 10 a.m. The purpose of the program will be to acquaint the students with the first day activities and to tour the building. Seventh and eighth grade students new to Snyder will register at the Junior High School on Aug. 12, 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. at the junior high office.

Elementary registration for all elementary students will be on Tuesday, Aug. 26.

'Lost Battalion' Gets High Praise At Reunion

AUSTIN (AP)—Former Marine sergeant Charley Pryor of Dallas told the Lost Battalion of World War II on Friday "there is no higher calling than serving one's fellow man."

Pryor reminded members of the predominantly Texas outfit, which left 166 dead in Japanese POW camps, that "none of us could have made it alone."

Prayers were said for "those who have fought the final battle and gone to rest" with God, and taps were played at a downtown hotel, site of the battalion's 36th annual reunion.

The Lost Battalion consists of the 2nd Battalion, 131st Field Artillery, which was snared in Java when the Dutch Army surrendered to the Japanese on March 8, 1942, and sailors and Marines aboard the U.S.S. Houston, a heavy cruiser that was sunk by the Japanese in the Sunda Strait a week earlier.

They came together in a

POW camp known as Bicycle Camp in Batavia, Java.

Over the next 3½ years, the 912 prisoners were scattered among POW camps in Asia, Java, Sumatra, Borneo, Singapore, Thailand, Burma, French Indochina and Japan.

Many of the men worked on the "Death Railway" in Burma and Thailand.

They seemingly had disappeared.

The POWs were later recognized as the "Lost Battalion" and have held a reunion in Texas every year since 1945 on the weekend nearest to V-J Day, Aug. 15. This was the first time for the reunion to be held in Austin.

An organizer of the reunion said it will be held in Laredo next year.

Miniature American flags were presented in memory of 16 men who had died since the 1979 convention in San Antonio and three who had died earlier unbeknownst to battalion officers.

"I see you not just with my eyes," said Pryor. "You are and have been part of my very heart. We are bound closer than brothers."

Approximately 500 of the battalion are alive, and more than 200 registered for the reunion from 25 states and the Philippines.

Battalion members, said Pryor, are "living memorials to those who preceded us in death."

Sketch Prepared In Rapist Search

AMARILLO (AP)—Police in four Texas cities hope a composite sketch made from witnesses' descriptions will help them catch a man suspected of raping 11 women while their companions were forced to watch the assaults.

The first such assault was reported in Wichita Falls on Nov. 9, but Amarillo Police Capt. Jimmy Davis said two similar incidents occurred here Aug. 1, and his officers released the composite sketch Friday.

The man is suspected of three rapes in Wichita Falls, four in Abilene, two in Lubbock and two others in Amarillo, according to the Texas Department of Public Safety.

In Amarillo, Davis said, the man entered two unlocked apartments on the city's west side.

"The rapist terrorized the victims by coarse and vulgar language and overpowered them with threats," Davis said. "He bound the victims' husbands or male companions and forced them to remain in the room while he raped or terrorized the females."

The man, wearing a ski mask and gloves, was armed with a small pistol, he said.

Investigators believe the man stalked out the victims and made sure male companions were with them, Davis said.

Davis said police made the sketch from descriptions of witnesses who saw the man around the apartment complexes shortly before the assaults.

Pride's Plane Mishap Probed

FORT WORTH (AP)—Tapes of air traffic controllers, weather analysis and interviews with pilots may help determine what caused a head-on air collision that killed two people and narrowly missed injuring singer Charley Pride, federal investigators said.

A small Cessna crashed with a Fairchild 27 carrying the country singer and his musical entourage, said a National Transportation Safety Board investigator Friday.

Warren Wandell said investigation into Tuesday's air crash showed the Fairchild struck the Cessna's left wing at the cabin, shearing off the wing and causing the Cessna to plunge out of control.

The four-seat aircraft, on a training flight from the aviation school at Meacham Field here, crashed in a rural area north of Bridgeport in Wise County. The student pilot, Dan Murff, 19, of Beaumont, and his instructor, John Lee Fitzgerald, 37, of Arlington were killed.

Funeral wreaths were placed on the door of the Meacham administration building and the flying school Friday in memory of Fitzgerald. He was buried Friday. Murff's burial was scheduled today.

The Fairchild landed safely at Meacham, although the collision "knocked off about 4½ to 5 feet of its vertical stabilizer," Wandell said.

Pride and his companions were uninjured and performed at a private concert at the University of Dallas Tuesday night. Wandell said the Fairchild was making a standard instrument approach to Dallas Love field when Fort Worth controllers warned the pilot of a nearby aircraft less than two minutes before the collision.

Initially, both planes were southbound, he said.

Gulf Search Called Off

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—The Coast Guard called off its search today for a helicopter that crashed in the Gulf of Mexico while evacuating oil rig workers in the advance of Hurricane Allen.

"We've used every method we have to search in a reasonable amount of time," said Coast Guard spokesman Steve Begich. "It's all pending further developments, like someone spotting something out there. There are other vessels out there searching but they are not Coast Guard vessels."

Farmers Going To Demo Convention

WASHINGTON (AP)—The activist American Agriculture Movement's national chairman today said farmers in his organization will take their tractors to the Democratic National Convention to dramatize their "dump Carter" stand.

Marvin Meek of Plainview, Texas, said a small number of tractors would be brought to New York City on flatbed trucks to satisfy local regulations.

"We don't want to get into a confrontation with the New York police," he said at a news conference across from the White House. "They have told them if you unload the trucks when you get there, they will be impounded."

New York police lawyer Michael Shilensky has said that tractors on city streets would need full safety insurance and a license to operate.

Meek said the farmers were bringing the tractors to make agriculture an issue at the convention, to continue their opposition to President Carter that started in 1977 and to support the move to open the convention.

The burly farmer said the organization did not plan to endorse any candidate to take Carter's place, although he said Rep. Glenn English, D-Okla., who is not a candidate, has an acceptable stand on agriculture.

The grassroots movement started in 1977 with prolonged demonstrations in the capital that sometimes turned violent, supporting higher prices for farm products.

About five trucks carrying tractors started a motorcade around the national mall "for old times sake," according to David Senter, the group's Washington lobbyist.

Meek, an uncommitted convention delegate from Texas, said the trucks carrying tractors would arrive in New York on Sunday afternoon.

"We're going to park the tractors in front of the convention. We'll be there to answer questions to the people of New York," he said.

"We feed the people in New York and we want them to realize it."

Meek said about 30 trucks carrying tractors from around the country were turned back when the organization learned that a Manhattan tractorcade would not be permitted. Joe Flanagan of Corsicana, Texas, could not be reached in time. He said his truck would lead the small motorcade to New York. It will cost about $1,400 for the trip, he added.

Baby Market Thrives Along Mexican Border

By SUSAN STOLER
Associated Press Writer
BROWNSVILLE, Texas (AP)—A black market in which tiny babies are bought and sold like produce thrives along both sides of the Mexican border and authorities in this country say they're having little success halting the trading.

"I think it's always been a problem but we hear of it more now," said Remberto Arteaga, child welfare supervisor for the Texas Department of Human Resources in Brownsville.

Arteaga says baby selling often involves an illegal alien who approaches a midwife and arranges to have a couple in the United States buy the child after it is born.

Sometimes a child born in Mexico will be bought by Americans for anywhere from $25 to $200 and issued an American birth certificate, he said.

"The system for registering births is wide, wide open in Texas. In the country, a person can come in and say they delivered a child and fill out the birth certificate. In a year, you have a couple thousand instant U.S. citizens," Arteaga said.

Midwives deliver an estimated 70 percent of births in this border city because of financial considerations and cultural traditions.

In a case currently being heard in a state court in Brownsville, a midwife faces misdemeanor charges of placing a child with a Brownsville couple without the natural mother's consent.

The adoptive parents, Santiago and Norma Zarate, testified in preliminary hearings that they had tried to adopt a child for three years through the midwife, Enriqueta Navarro Gonzales.

On March 2, according to the testimony, Mrs. Gonzales assisted Aurelia Ramirez, a 19-year-old illegal alien, in the delivery of a baby girl. Mrs. Zarate picked up the child the same day.

The midwife testified she told the mother the child was dead and would be buried in Houston.

Mrs. Zarate, a licensed vocational nurse, said she paid a midwife fee of $250 and gave another $250 to Ms. Ramirez — strictly as a gift.

In addition to criminal charges against the midwife, the natural mother has filed suit to obtain custody of the little girl. A judge temporarily has placed the child with its adoptive parents.

Tom Sullivan, the prosecutor handling the Gonzales case, says baby selling goes on frequently and often involves Mexican babies carried into this country.

"People come across the bridge from Mexico all the time with babies. They'll go to a midwife, who goes to a justice of the peace and lies that she's delivered the child," he said. That accomplished, the baby becomes a U.S. citizen, Sullivan said.

Arteaga said that in another case, an illegal alien arranged to sell her child to an American couple. The alien and the adoptive father sent for the midwife, who delivered the child and registered it under the man's name.

"He paid her (the natural mother) for so many months and then she said she wanted to see the child," Arteaga said. "She picked up the child and never returned. And there's nothing that couple can do. They were willing to give this lady all their belongings and move to Houston if she would return the child."

Gustavo Guevara, Laredo city secretary, says baby selling and fraudulent birth registrations have long plagued officials there.

"I'm concerned about children born in Mexico and being registered here by midwives. The arrangements are made before the birth with some family who wants to buy or take the child. That's the baby black market," he said.

Children with U.S. birth certificates are eligible for welfare benefits, he said.

Guevara said that before 1979, parents of children born in the United States could immigrate automatically. The law has been changed to require families to wait until the child is 18, Guevara said.

Both Arteaga and Guevara favor a state law requiring midwives to register, once a year. Some cities already have such requirements.

A bill introduced by Rep. Hector Uribe, D-Brownsville, passed the Legislature in 1979 but it was vetoed by Gov. Bill Clements.

"In an indirect way, it would help control the baby selling problem," Uribe said of the legislation, which he will sponsor again next year.

FAIR ASSOCIATION MEETS—The Scurry County Fair Association met Friday to firm up plans for the fair scheduled for Sept. 18-20 in the coliseum. Oregon and did Shakespeare. Then it was to New York where, after a few years of bit parts, he landed a leading role in a play about Texas called "Lone Star."

His performance in that role led to a TV offer and soon home town people were seeing him in Skag, which has also been nominated for an Emmy. "The Plutonium Factor" followed. Then came Jim Jones.

"I had a good feeling about the chances for 'The Guyana Tragedy' as soon as I read the script. I was the first one cast and then when I saw the quality of the other actors they were choosing, I was sure it was going to be a quality show."

He was right. During its two-night run it shut out the other networks and turned out to be the second most watched show of the season.

The entry fee is $2 per class.

Trophies will be awarded 1st through 4th places in each class. Buckles will be awarded to High Point Individuals at each age group.

The key to the success of the Jim Jones character, Boothe believes, was that the different facets of Jones' personality were portrayed.

"They (the script writers) went after the whole man. He wasn't just a cardboard character."

Boothe prefers a part "with some meat to it," he says. "A person should be able to walk away believing that the character actually exists."

Despite the demands on his time, Boothe makes it back to Snyder once or twice a year to visit friends and relatives. Relatives include his mother-in-law, Barbara Yorgensen, grandmother, Mrs. Sterling (Boothe) Taylor, and grandparents at Hermleigh, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Reeves. Friends are too numerous to mention.

Of Snyder Boothe says: "It has grown a lot. There is more industry and it seems cleaner. But basically it's the same town." Fame has its drawbacks and less privacy is one of them. Being recognized by the general public can sometimes be a problem, he admits, but says most people are respectful of his privacy. The biggest problem he has is people treating him differently since his splash into the bigtime.

"Even people in Snyder treat me differently now," he says, "and I'm the same person I always was."

Boothe enjoys the fast pace of life in LA, but says he hopes his career will allow them to have a place to get away to outside the city someday soon.

"We pretty much avoid the LA party scene," he said.

Trapeze artist Lillian Letzler (1893-1931) was the first performer named to the Circus Hall of Fame.

Country Stars Cancel Concert

CALLAWAY, Va. (AP)—"When you fool with people that big, you're gonna get screwed," says the promoter of a concert here after stars Willie Nelson and Johnny Paycheck cancelled performances.

Nelson manager Mark Rothbaum said the Texas singer, who performed Friday in Milwaukee, cancelled because of hostility from the Franklin County sheriff and a fear spectators would be arrested.

Paycheck cancelled because a $10,000 check from the promoter bounced, said Joe Harris of Buddy Lee Attractions in Nashville.

"Damn, it's going to be hard for me to salvage this weekend," said Don "Whitey" Taylor, promoter of the Saturday and Sunday concert at Franklin County Speedway.

A barn near the speedway was burned after several hundred fans already here learned Nelson and Paycheck weren't coming. The barn, hay, a tractor and a hay elevator were destroyed.

Charged with arson were Karen Thomas Whited, 26, of Roanoke; Audrey Turner Lankford, 19, of Ridge-way, and Clinton Gardner, 22, of Martinsville, the sheriff said.

Franklin County Sheriff W.Q. "Quint" Overton said he would arrest Nelson if the singer drank onstage and that drug and alcohol laws would be enforced strictly.

Overton set up a command post in Callaway School and called in more than 50 Virginia State Police troopers to direct traffic, state liquor agents, police dogs and an armored car.

After a private meeting with Taylor in the county seat of Rocky Mount, Overton slapped the promoter on the back and said, "You better start picking a guitar, buddy." Taylor said the concert would go on and that he plans to sue for breach of contract.

Overton said he didn't think his public statements caused the cancellations.

"Sheriff Overton has compared Johnny and Willie as being outlaws," Harris said. "Willie is no outlaw. Sheriff Overton has residents scared to death."

Rothbaum said Nelson's reason for cancelling were unique and that the singer never before had encountered such "official hostility."

But Clarence Milliron, a resident of this village some 30 miles from Roanoke and a leader of a protest against the concert, was relieved.

"It's lifted a burden off of us," Milliron said. Overton's precautions came partly in reaction to a 1976 concert in Carroll County where traffic and crowds tied up the area for several days.

Carroll County residents were trapped in their homes by the traffic and harassed by some concert goers, including a motorcycle gang.

Taylor learned of the cancellation from newspaper reporters.

"It's dirty and lowdown," he said before going to call his lawyer.

"If he (Nelson) was going to cancel, he should have did it two weeks ago so I could tell everybody. They probably been keeping up with the stories and the threats. With the influence and money he's got he doesn't need to come down here and get thrown in jail."

"They may as well have sent somebody in here and shot me. It wouldn't have been any worse. The sheriff's screwed me out of this..."

Recession's Not Over Says Economic Expert

By WILLIAM GLASGALL

AP Business Writer
NEW YORK (AP)—Many commentators are suggesting the recession is near its end. But some analysts still believe Americans will be hearing a fair amount of disheartening economic news in months to come.

"The recession is not over," says economist H. Erich Heinemann of the brokerage house of Morgan Stanley & Co. Inc.

"Despite the marked slowing in the rate of economic decline ... the contraction is continuing," he says.

"Although we do not expect coming quarters to repeat the drastic second-quarter decline in non-financial companies' product or output of roughly 12 percent at an annual rate, we continue to expect this recession to be deep and prolonged," says the economic consulting firm of A. Gray Shilling & Co. Inc.

"We continue to expect economic activity to remain weak through the end of next year," the report says.

The pessimistic predictions have come despite the government's announcement that its index of leading economic indicators, which is designed to forecast trends, rose 2.5 percent in June — its first increase in a year.

"In past recessions, an upturn in the index preceded a recovery by three or four months on average." Thus, "the rise in the leading indicators in June after a year of persistent declines could mean that the economy may begin to recover several months from now," speculates European American Bank.

While the bank cautions that its prediction is tentative, other forecasters point to several signs — including rising business inventories and interest rates, and weak consumer spending — that economic weakness may be continuing.

One major sign is the condition of business inventories. In the 1973-1975 recession, manufacturers were burdened with costly stocks of unsold finished goods that had to be liquidated at a loss.

Although manufacturers have kept inventories relatively tight since then, stocks of unsold goods apparently are building up again. The National Association of Purchasing Management Inc. reports the 225 corporate buying agents it surveys each month now believe inventories are being "liquidated at a faster rate than previous months."

"Those reporting lower inventories" have reached "a level not seen since August 1975," the association says.

Adds Morgan Stanley's Heinemann, "it seems clear that a period of at least moderate inventory liquidation is just now getting under way."

The impact of interest rates on the housing industry — along with autos one of the centers of this year's recession — also is being watched closely.

People Suspicious Of Free Diamonds

SEATTLE (AP)—Investing gems may be a good hedge against inflation, but the owners of a new jewelry store couldn't give diamonds away this week.

Area Forum On Aging Slated Here Sept. 15

Representatives from three organizations concerned about the elderly met Wednesday at the Snyder Senior Center to organize an area forum on aging in conjunction with the White House Conference on Ageing scheduled for 1981.

Helping plan the forum were Gloria Shaw, director of the senior center; Wanda Justice, president of Eagle Forum; and three staff members from the Green Thumb employment program, Nita Rodriguez, Susan Armstrong and Karen Barlow.

"An area forum is the first step and a very important step towards the White House Conference," said Mrs. Justice. "It's the grass-roots level where we can critically evaluate government programs for our elderly. Information and opinions shared at the local level will greatly influence national legislation for the next ten years."

"Sept. 15 is the date for the forum to be conducted at the Snyder Senior Center," said Mrs. Shaw. "All elderly persons, community leaders, and other interested persons are encouraged to attend. We will serve lunch and provide transportation for those who need it."

The Snyder center will host the event for representatives from eight counties: Scurry, Stonewall, Kent, Fisher, Haskell, Jones, Mitchell and Nolan. There will be a pre-registration to facilitate meal preparation and transportation. Local senior centers will serve as sign up points.

More details regarding speakers and the agenda will be announced soon, said Ms. Rodriguez. Anyone interested in assisting with the forum plans may contact Mrs. Shaw.

The CWA, which represents 525,000 of Bell's unionized employees, has vowed to order a coast-to-coast walkout against the nation's largest private employer if a settlement is not reached by midnight Saturday, when current three-year contracts expire.

The company said its 240,000 supervisors and other non-unionized employees had been given assignments and training to fill in if necessary for operators, installers and other strikers.

Hazard-Alert Issued To Pool Owners

By RANDOLPH SCHMID Associated Press Writer WASHINGTON (AP)—The Consumer Product Safety Commission has issued a hazard alert, urging people never to swim in pools that have a cover partially in place. The commission issued the warning, particularly mentioning the new "solar pool covers." in the wake of a triple-drowning accident in suburban San Francisco.

Officials said that in the June incident a 30-year-old woman and her two sons, aged 5 and 2, drowned when they apparently became trapped under a solar pool cover.

The commission said it has received reports of four other drownings related to pool covers, plus one pet dog which fell into a pool and drowned beneath a solar cover.

These solar covers are made of translucent plastic and are designed to float on the surface of the pool. They heat the water by collecting solar energy and advertisements suggest they also can reduce evaporation.

Several hundred thousand of the covers have been sold, the commission estimates, some supplied as original equipment.

People who swim under a solar cover risk surfacing into the device and being unable to breathe. In attempting to find air they may become disoriented and unintentionally swim further under the cover, the commission staff warned.

The commission urged pool owners not to leave the covers partially in place and warned swimmers never to enter a pool that is partly covered by one of the devices.

Ask Before Being X-Rayed

Here is a health tip from the U.S. Office of Consumer Affairs:

If your doctor or dentist orders an x-ray, ask for an explanation of how it will help with your diagnosis. Generally speaking, x-rays should not be taken unless they will be of some help.

Let the doctor know about any similar x-ray exams you may have had. Keep a record in your wallet for an easy reference list of past x-ray exams.

Routine or screening exams might not be necessary as part of annual checkups or employment requirements. Federal guidelines suggest that dental examination x-rays should not be routinely used without prior examination of the teeth by a dentist.

Finally, don't insist on getting an x-ray if your doctor doesn't order one.

Strake Okays Closing Polls

AUSTIN (AP)—Secretary of State George Strake on Friday authorized all political subdivisions in 49 counties possibly threatened by Hurricane Allen to postpone Saturday elections if elections were scheduled that day.

The counties affected are those where Acting Gov. Bill Braecklein declared an "emergency condition" existed.

"Persons seeking information on whether an election in their area is postponed should contact the local authority responsible for the election," Strake said in a statement.

For other details, he said, persons should call his office here, 512 475-3091.

The 49 counties that have authority to postpone elections are Angelina, Aransas, Austin, Brazoria, Brooks, Calhoun, Cameron, Chambers, Colorado, DeWitt, Duval, Fayette, Fort Bend, Galveston, Goliad, Grimes, Hardin, Harris, Hidalgo, Jackson, Jasper, Jefferson, Jim Hogg and Jim Wells. Also, Kennedy, Kleberg, Lavaca, Liberty, Matagorda, Montgomery, Nacogdoches, Newton, Neches, Orange, Polk, Refugio, San Augustine, San Patricio, Shelby, Starr, Trinity, Tyler, Victoria, Walker, Waller, Washington, Wharton, Willacy and Zapata.

Measures 6.5 and 6.8 On Richter...

Quake Shakes Central America

By The Associated Press A strong earthquake rocked mountainous, sparsely populated areas of Central America overnight, causing some damage but no immediate reports of casualties, local authorities said today.

Scientists said the quake measured between 6.5 and 6.8 on the Richter scale.

The quake, which hit shortly before midnight local time, jolted areas of Guatemala, Honduras and Belize.

In Puerto Cortez, Honduras, firemen reported "violent" tremors drove people fleeing from their homes. They said the quake damaged about 50 houses, a hotel, gas station, part of a rail system belonging to United Fruit Co., a Texaco oil refinery and the city's electrical system.

The Red Cross said 25 Puerto Cortez residents were treated for nervous shock.

Officials in the Honduran capital of Tegucigalpa, about 150 miles south of Puerto Cortez, said they had not received any immediate reports of damage and had not felt the quake there.

In Belize City, local authorities said they felt the quake but that there were no reports of damages.

"We felt it for a couple of seconds," said Stanley Smith, a Belize City fireman.

In Puerto Barrios, a banana-shipping port on the Caribbean coast of Guatemala, firemen said two houses were damaged but that there were no injuries.

The quake was not felt in Guatemala City, 180 miles to the southwest, according to a resident who was watching television at the time the tremor was reported.

A quake measuring 6 can cause severe damage.

In Mexico City, the Taouabaya Seismographical Station said the quake registered 6.5 on the Richter scale at 1:47 a.m. EDT. The station placed the epicenter 810 miles southeast of Mexico City, off the coast of Belize in the Caribbean. Authorities said they were unaware of any aftershocks.

The U. S. Geological Survey in Washington said the quake registered 6.5 on the Richter scale and was centered about 100 miles south of Belize City, the capital of the small, autonomous British territory of Belize.

That estimate would put it in eastern Guatemala or western Honduras. Belize is on the Caribbean between Guatemala and Mexico; Honduras lies about 140 miles south of Belize City.

The Richter scale is a measure of ground motion as recorded on seismographs.

An earthquake of 3.5 on the scale can cause slight damage in the local area, 4 moderate damage, 6 considerable damage, 6 severe damage. A 7 reading is a "major" earthquake, capable of widespread heavy damage.

Beware Of Parvovirus...

Dog Owners Warned Of Disease

By DON KENDALL AP Farm Writer WASHINGTON (AP)—If that prized bird dog is expecting a litter or that new family puppy has had some accidents in its young life, better take some precautions against a new intestinal disease of dogs, parvovirus.

The Agriculture Department says it also is a good idea to keep family pets from loitering on street corners with neighborhood cronies and that owners should be careful of what they bring home on their shoes.

Farmers and other rural dog owners, many of them breeders, are included in the precautions as well as city residents.

Manufacturers have stepped up requests for government approval of vaccines, but until those are licensed there is a shortage of available vaccine, officials said Friday.

"Parvovirus is a new type of viral enteritis that was unknown before 1978, and some people may not be aware of its importance," said Pierre A. Chaloux, deputy administrator of USDA's Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service.

The agency has licensed a type of vaccine known as a "killed virus" vaccine to help protect dogs against the disease but "supplies are extremely short," Chaloux said.

Other producers of biologics are working to get USDA approval for vaccine, but those have to pass rigid federal standards before sales can begin.

Meanwhile, Chaloux recommended that breeding females be vaccinated by a licensed veterinarian. This is especially important when puppies are to be shipped or when they are exposed to other dogs.

The puppies will get protection against parvovirus from antibodies passed through the mother's milk during the first few days of life but is usually ineffective after they are 6 weeks old, he said.

Chaloux also said brokers, dealers and others should keep dogs from different sources separated for at least a week. Runs, cages, food bowls and other equipment should be thoroughly disinfected with a diluted chlorine solution comprised of four ounces of chlorine bleach per gallon of water.

Cleanup and sanitation are crucially important because the disease appears to spread principally through contact with contaminated feces.

"The disease strikes rapidly and hard," Chaloux said. "It is characterized by loss of appetite, vomiting, severe diarrhea, dehydration, high temperature and low white blood cell count." Chaloux said. "People can carry the virus home on shoes and clothes, thus exposing their dogs," he said. "The virus is not known to cause any health problems in humans."

High-heels too high? There's hope for some.

Take high-heel shoes to a shoe repairman to determine if heel heights can be lowered for comfort and fashion without harming the arch, suggests Becky Saunders, clothing specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

Chaloux said he was "particularly worried" about what would happen if the disease broke out in the commercial marketing chain that supplies pet stores with puppies.

"If the premises of brokers and other dealers became contaminated, the trouble could spread rapidly to retail pet stores and the homes of their customers," he said.

Willie Nelson Booked For Jaycees Benefit

Snyder Jaycees will put tickets on sale here Monday for a concert featuring Willie Nelson.

The concert is set for Aug. 31 in Memorial Stadium in Big Spring, with Snyder and Big Spring Jaycees joining forces as sponsors. The proceeds will be used for civic projects sponsored by the Jaycees and to benefit the Texas Jaycee Campus of Victoria College.

Advance tickets will sell for $8 each. The price at the gate on the evening of the performance will be $10 each.

Nelson, currently one of the "hottest" entertainers in the country, was named Entertainer of the Year in country music circles. In addition he branched out into motion pictures. His first starring role was in "Honeysuckle Rose," a picture that has been drawing huge crowds to theaters across the nation. The Jaycees hope to give the Texas Jaycee Campus of Victoria College a big financial boost as a result of the Willie Nelson concert.

The Jaycee campus offers a two-year associate degree program for paraplegic and quadriplegic students. The purpose of the school is to help handicapped students learn to care for themselves while earning degrees so that they may transfer to four-year institutions upon completion of their program.

It is unique in the nation as the only such facility offering resident care for severely handicapped individuals without consideration of financial status.

Currently, the Texas Jaycee Campus is designed so that a physically disabled student can obtain the 62 hours of college required for an associate of arts degree within a two-year period. Academic course work is accredited by Victoria College and the credits earned are transferable to other colleges and universities.

In addition to the academic degree, the program demands that students learn to live as independently as possible. Optimum development of psychological and social adjustment skills is stressed.

The campus provides a small, well-structured, non-threatening atmosphere which allows for the development of skills necessary for the majority of the students to continue their academic careers in four-year institutions.

Air Museum Head Faces Drug Count

DALLAS (AP)—The operator of an East Texas air museum, who rented his vintage aircraft and flying skills to several television programs and movies, has been arraigned on out-of-state drug charges.

Isaac Newton Burchinal Jr., proprietor of the Flying Tiger Air Museum in Paris, surrendered to U.S. marshals Friday after the charge was made public. Bond was set at $100,000.

The charge stemmed from a sealed indictment returned by a federal grand jury in St. Louis. The indictment, made public Wednesday, charged 14 men, including Burchinal, with conspiracy to distribute and possession with intent to distribute marijuana, hashish and methaqualone, a depressant also known by the brand-name Quaaludes.

In addition, Burchinal was charged with interstate transportation in aid of racketeering. Ten of the men were charged with interstate transportation of controlled substances, four were accused of using the telephone to commit felonies and three with selling controlled substances to an undercover St. Louis police officer.

The indictment says the conspiracy began in August 1978 and continued into this month. Of those indicted, authorities would only release the names of Burchinal and two Arizona men, Russell Jack Kern and John Gerard.

Eight of those indicted were said to be from the St. Louis area, one was said to be from Kansas City, Mo., and one from Florida.

The museum, owned by Burchinal's father, and its collection of vintage airplanes have been a tourist attraction in Paris for several years.

The collection includes several working, World War 2 vintage fighters and bombers, which were used by producers of the TV series "Black Sheep Squadron" as well as the movies "Battle of Britain" and "The War Lover."

Conservation Funds Increased

In June, a bill extending the Great Plains Conservation Program (GPCP) from Dec. 31, 1981, to Sept. 30, 1991, became law.

The new legislation, Public Law 96-263, will increase GPCP funding from $300 million to $600 million and will raise the yearly cost-share limitation from $25 million to 50 million.

"This is a positive step to insure that farmers and ranchers throughout the Great Plains will have added incentive to apply conservation measures on their land," Erwin Pavlik, district conservationist for the Soil Conservation Service, U.S. Department of Agriculture at Snyder, said.

Under the GPCP, landowners can speed up soil and water conservation work by signing agreements for 3 to 10 years. The contracts guarantee cost-sharing by the government to apply and maintain conservation measures. Contracts have been written for about half of the land eligible in the 10 states.

The Soil Conservation Service has administered GPCP since the program began in 1956. Through the program, working together with conservation districts, SCS has given technical and financial assistance to 55,000 Great Plains farmers and ranchers in treating critically eroded farmland and making appropriate land use changes.

"Two hundred and fifty-nine landowners have taken advantage of the program in the Upper Colorado Soil and Water Conservation District," Pavlik said.

Over the next 10 years, SCS and districts hope to help even more Great Plains farmers and ranchers plan for the install the most effective conservation practices on their land.

"The hazardous climate and easily eroded soil in the 10 Great Plains States require lasting protection of soil and water resources," Pavlik said. "The drought of the 1970's, and the summer of 1980, is a reminder that we must adequately protect the Plains from wind and water erosion to reduce the likelihood of another disastrous Dust Bowl."

"Despite a good record of success for work done under the GPCP, much work remains in order to combat serious droughts and persistent erosion problems," Pavlik concluded.

U.S. Olympic Team Shines In Germany

BERLIN (AP)—It was as close as the U.S. Olympic team ever got to Moscow this summer, and they made the most of it. The team scored 12 victories Friday in a 25-event track and field meet featuring athletes from 24 countries.

U.S. sprinters Stanley Floyd, Carl Lewis and Harvey Glance finished 1-2-3 in the 100 meters. Floyd clocked 10.25. Edwin Moses, meanwhile, missed his own world mark of 47.13 by only four-hundredths of a second in winning the 400 meter.

In some respects, it was a battle of the Olympic boycotters.

Athletes from the United States, West Germany, Kenya, Canada, China, Japan and elsewhere stayed away from the Moscow Olympics last month to protest the Soviet intervention in Afghanistan. Many of them showed up Friday night in Olympic Stadium, site of the 1936 Games manipulated by Adolf Hitler into a glorification of the Nazi Reich.

Canadian Angela Taylor was the only double winner taking first in the women's 100 and 200 meters.

Kenyan Kip Rono electrified the crowd of about 55,000 with a fast start in the 3,000 meter steeplechase but tired on the last lap. He won in 8 minutes 16.9 seconds, but the time was well off the 8:05.4 world record of countryman and namesake Henry Rono, a Washington State product. American Henry Marsh was second in 8:27.2.

Fred Taylor, Clifford Wiley and Steve Williams completed another U.S. sweep in the 200 meters. Taylor won in 20.82.

Apart from Moses' fast 400 hurdles, world records six of which fell in Moscow's Lenin Stadium — never appeared in danger.

"I never knew I was anywhere near that record, or I would have gone for it," Moses said. "When you get these rabbits on the track you need to have those little hundredth-second clocks around so you can see your times."

The cavernous stadium here had only one clock visible to runners, and it could be seen only from the finish side of the track.

McQueen, who coached Temple to the Texas Class 4A championship, used his "belly bum" play three times for touchdowns during last year's Texas high school playoffs.

The Texas All-Stars tried the play three times Friday night and it worked once to set up the only touchdown and Texas' 7-3 win over Oklahoma.

The play required Academy Award acting from the Texas backfield. Quarterback Alfred Anderson of Waco Richfield faked a handoff as everyone on the team headed to the right, except for full-back Freddie Wells of Lewisville, who faced to the left and slumped over. Anderson slipped him the ball and Wells waited several counts before he dashed around left end. Wells fled 42 yards downfield before he was tackled and five plays later Victor Langley of Richardson scored on a 10-yard run.

The touchdown stood as the game-winner as Oklahoma could manage only a 34-yard field goal by Gary Schornick in the second quarter.

Texas fumbled 11 times and lost the ball on three occasions, while Oklahoma fumbled five times and lost the ball twice.

Tigers To Hit Practice Field Monday Morning

Like eight other schools, Snyder High School begins its quest for a District 2-AAAA football championship Monday.

That's the first day most Texas high school squads will be allowed to start gridiron workouts, and SHS's Tigers will jump in at 8 in the morning.

Junior varsity athletes are to report at 2 o'clock Monday for issue of equipment and a "light workout." Varsity players will report at 8 and return later for a 5 p.m. workout.

Snyder finished the 1979 football season with a 6-4 record, 3-1 in District 3-AAA play. This season the Tigers welcome back several skilled people, but will have to rebuild its defense almost from scratch.

Monday also marks the beginning of volleyball workouts. Varsity and junior varsity girls will pick up again at 2, while varsity workouts resume in the afternoon at 4.

District opponents — in both volleyball and football — include former 3-AAA members San Angelo Lake View, Lamasa and Sweetwater, and former 2-AAA members Pecos, Monahans, Andrews, Fort Stockton and Odessa Ector. Lake View will not participate in volleyball this year.

Grid coach Mike Jenkins will take his Tigers to scrimmage Vernon, 7 p.m. Aug. 21 in Stamford. Varsity volleyball girls will stage their first scrimmage on Aug. 21 also, at Seminole.

The first varsity football game will be held at Tiger Stadium, 8 p.m. Sept. 5 against Big Spring. Coach Joyce Elrod's Tiger Felines will open Aug. 26 by hosting San Angelo Central, at 6.

Seven-Time Winner...

Seale To Defend Her Women's Golf Title

Seven-time champion Finnie Seale will be one of four former winners headlining the annual Women's Golf Association Club Championship, to be held Aug. 12, 13 and 14 at Snyder Country Club.

Mrs. Seale, the current champion, took titles in 1966, 1968, 1969, 1974, 1975 and 1977 as well as 1979. She shot her best round in June of this year with a 34-41. The 75 total is the lowest round to date by a local woman or a member of the association.

Other former club champions who plan to participate in this year's tournament are 1970 winner Ethel Patterson, 1976 title-holder Wilma Dillard and 1978 champ Jo Sterling.

Edith McKanna, instrumental in the organization of the Women's Golf Association in 1949, will sponsor the tournament. Mrs. McKanna began her sponsorship in 1974.

Mrs. Dillard, WGA vice president, is tournament champion.

Format for the three-day tournament will be stroke play, no handicap. Tuesday's play will be a qualifying round for position within three flights, with that score included in the 54-hole total to determine winners in each flight.

Luncheon and presentation of awards will follow the final round Thursday. Ladies Club Champions (from 1966)

Funds Still Needed To Put Pair In AAU Meet

Donations are still needed in order to help send two Snyder athletes to the upcoming AAU National Track and Field Meet, reports Snyder High School track coach Winfred Shipp.

Thomas Selmon and Lloyd Benson will represent Snyder and Texas at the meet, to be held Aug. 15-17 in Santa Clara, Calif. Another individual, Dale Jenkins, also qualified for the National Finals, but a foot injury will keep him from competing.

Selmon, who recently signed a track scholarship with Texas Tech University, qualified in the triple jump with a leap of 44-8 3/4. Selmon had advanced to the class AAA State Track Meet in Austin the past two years in long-jump competition.

He is scheduled to take his first efforts at the National Meet on Friday, Aug. 15, to qualify for the finals on Aug. 17.

Benson, a qualifier in the 400 meter dash at 48.2, will compete in Thursday's prelims, in a Friday elimination round, and in the finals on Sunday, depending on his performances each time.

Benson has signed a letter to run track for Abilene Christian University.

Jenkins, the state's top high school pole vaulter, qualified for the Nationals with a vault of 16-0, but later suffered a foot injury which will not allow him to vault for several months.

Anyone wishing to help send these young Snyderites to the meet is asked to contact Shipp at 573-8427 or 573-9192.

Police Car, Other Auto Hit By Shots Saturday

Police are investigating an incident in which a patrol car was shot early Saturday morning. The incident occurred about 1:50 a.m. at the Fina Truck Stop. Reports indicate the patrol car was unoccupied and parked when it was hit with what appears to be a .22-caliber bullet. The slug pierced the left front door and embedded in the dashboard. Also hit at the same time was a window in a car owned by Chris Holcomb. It, too, was parked and unoccupied at the Fina Truck Stop. About 12:15 a.m. Saturday, in an unrelated incident, police were told by Carolyn Massey that her motorcycle was missing. The motorcycle, she said, was parked at the Club Sundown parking lot. It is valued, she added, at between $450 and $500. Taking that complaint was Sgt. Clay Scogin. Police worked four traffic accidents Friday, two of which resulted in minor injuries. At 5:45 p.m., a 1972 Ford driven by Claude McCormick Sr. was in collision with a parked 1970 Ford owned by Mike Roemisch. Reports show that Nancy Roemisch received minor injuries in the accident. She was taken to Cogdell Memorial Hospital where she was treated and released. The accident occurred at 3105 Ave. A. Working that accident was Ed Neeley.

At 10:50 p.m., Keith Ward investigated a two-car collision at 1600 37th St. There, a 1979 Ford driven by Beth Denise Ellison was in collision with a 1977 Ford driven by Vivian Moore. Ms. Ellison, according to reports, was taken to Cogdell where she was treated and released. Don Cheek worked a one car accident at 6:50 p.m. in the 600 block of 35th St. In that mishap, a 1974 Oldsmobile collided with a fence.

Sgt. Jerry Parker worked a traffic accident at 10:20 a.m. that occurred at the intersection of Farm to Market Road 1673 and Ave. E. There, a 1975 Ford driven by Ellen Reed was in collision with a sign and pole.

sonar principle. The machine is used primarily in abdominal scans. An advantage of the device over X-ray machines is that it emits no harmful radiation. (SDN Staff Photo)

Six Cases Handled In District Court Here

Six cases were handled Friday in 132nd District Court. Receiving a 10-year prison term was James William Stephens Jr. of Ft. Worth. He was charged with unauthorized use of a motor vehicle for taking a car belonging to James Louis Butrum of Scurry County.

Receiving a 90-day sentence in the county jail was Melvin Lee Edwards. Edwards pleaded guilty to a charge of driving while intoxicated that dated back to a June 14 arrest. He was also fined $500. He resides at 1002 33rd St.

Another 90-day jail sentence and $500 fine was levied Jerry J. Trice, 302 28th St., also on a DWI charge. Trice had been arrested June 14 on the offense, and his sentence was based on a guilty plea. Ricky Dale Slaughter, 2011 KSNY Drive, was given a five-year probation on a burglary charge. The charge states he broke into a building owned by James Smiley on June 4. Dismissed in the Slaughter case were three

Big Moving Job

MADISON, Wis. (AP)—Moving a mastodon is a mammoth job. Klaus Westphal has discovered. The geology museum at the University of Wisconsin is being moved to a new building seven blocks away and among the items to be transported is a 10,000-year-old mastodon skeleton, found in Richland County in the 1890s.

Suit Filed By Robt. Oswald

DALLAS (AP)—The brother of Lee Harvey Oswald, accused assassin of President John F. Kennedy, contended in a suit filed Thursday that his constitutional rights were violated by a recently broadcast movie about the slaying. Robert Oswald, a 46-year-old Wichita Falls salesman, filed the suit against Columbia Broadcasting System, Inc., which broadcast "Four Days in Dallas" July 30. Oswald, saying the movie "appropriated and commercially exploited his name and character and invaded his right to privacy," asked U.S. District Judge Robert Porter for a jury trial and $500,000 in damages. He said the movie was broadcast without his consent and in malicious disregard for his rights and made public certain personal facts about his life. Paintings Shown BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP)—"The Working American," an exhibition of 31 paintings, is on view at the Birmingham Museum of Art through Aug. 31. The paintings date from 1847 to 1951.

Dallas Sued

DALLAS (AP)—The widow of a man fatally shot by Dallas police has filed a civil suit against the city and two police officers, despite a $75,000 settlement reached last month. Attorneys for Mattie Page filed the suit Thursday asking for an unspecified amount of money in the Oct. 25, 1979 shooting death of her husband, Lee Douglas Page, 39.

In Anticipation Of Allen...

Gulf Beaches Abandoned

By MACK SISK
Associated Press Writer
PORT ARANSAS (AP)—
Texas beachfronts along the boiling, cuddled Gulf of Mexico were abandoned late Friday except for law enforcement officers and weather-hardened old-timers who chose to stay and risk the onslaught of the worst hurricane in 45 years.

Hurricane Allen, classed in the National Weather Service's "Category 5"— the strongest a hurricane can be—is listed as the second-strongest Category 5 storm in history. It chased Texas Gulf Coast residents and tourists inland Friday, turning resort cities into ghost towns.

By 5 p.m. Friday, most of this town's 5,040 residents had boarded up their windows and headed for higher ground.

But the city's police and constables said they would ride out the hurricane's fury in a yellow concrete shed, built on a high sand dune, which they fondly

call "The Summer Place."
In far South Texas, at Harlingen, several townsfolk elected not to run from Allen's 170-mph winds despite strong memories of Hurricane Beau-lah which flooded a large part of the city 12 years ago.

"We have so much at stake," said Emma Jane Burke. "This has been our home for 20 years. Everything we own is right here."

A neighbor, J.L. Brett, said he planned to "sit around and play gin rummy" this weekend.

Another, Tom Brady, said as he nailed plywood over his windows, "We've got plenty of fresh water, canned food, and all the things they tell you to get."

Charlie Johnson, 17, went to the resort area from his hometown of Galveston and trudged outward from the beach in search of one more wave before acknowledging the evacuation deadline.

But at the Miramar Hotel, owner Joe Williamson stayed around to guard against looters.

"We have no security here," he said. "We are covered for everything but theft."

Williamson said he was still turning away requests for room reservations as the deadline passed.

"This is real strange," he said. "You'd have to be a fool to even think about staying here."

At Brownsville, the extreme southern tip of Texas, animal handlers at the Gladys Porter Zoo scrambled to move reluctant animals to safety.

Hurricane Season: 1980

THE ANNUAL HURRICANE season runs from June through November, with most of the storms occurring in August, September and October. In a two-week span during that period in 1979, two of the most devastating storms of the decade hit the United States. Hurricane David struck areas of 12 states, the District of Columbia, the Virgin Islands and Puerto Rico. Hurricane Frederich was felt by 10 states. Until those storms, the country had been largely spared serious hurricane damage since Agnes in 1972.

Volcano Causes Bouts With Mental Anguish

SEATTLE (AP)—Wife battering is up. So are suicide attempts. Calls to community crisis lines have doubled. A thunderstorm or a sonic boom sends hundreds scurrying to call police.

"Everyone here is a little uptight," said Norman Behrens, assistant town clerk in Sprague, a town of 550 about 200 miles west of the rumbling giant held responsible for a flurry of problems in a wide area of Washington.

The giant is Mount St.
Helens—first volcano to erupt in the continental United States in over a century, first volcano to spread a cloud of ash over America in the modern age.

The mountain blew its top on May 18, killing at least 31, and scientists say it may continue spewing ash and super-heated gases for up to a decade—as it did most recently on Thursday followed by four smaller "pulses" of steam on Friday.

The immediate effects of the initial eruption were dust, destruction and death. The long term effects are less certain, but evidence is growing that the volcano's impact on the mental health of hundreds of thousands of residents in the area will be serious and long lasting.

Stress, anxiety, anger and depression are normal responses to natural disaster, experts say. What's missing here is the sigh of relief after the storm passes.

"The situation has been exacerbated because we don't know what will happen next or how long it will last," said Dan Sheehan, president-elect of the state Council of Mental Health programs.

Aside from the threat of another eruption, there's the constant problem of ash—it takes only a gust of wind in some places to produce blinding clouds of volcanic dust.

Sprague and nearby Ritz-ville, for instance, got several inches of ash after the May 18 blast. Both towns have been cleaned up, but a gusty wind blowing across the fields

can still reduce visibility to near zero.

"Everyone dreads the wind," said Ritzville Chief of Police Donal Koehler.
"We wake up in the morning hoping the wind won't blow."

Paul Adams, a counselor in Adams County, said people are frustrated by the ash, "which is constantly blowing. You can't get anything clean."

Calls to the county crisis line fell off just after May 18, he said, but "Now it's two or three times normal.
There has been a marked increase in the number of suicide threats and attempted suicides."

Adams admits the increase might have other causes, but said: "You can tie it in with the phases of the moon or with the price of wheat in Bulgaria, but I'm assuming it has to do with the mountain."

Pam Smith, a mental health assistant for Grant County, said people joked the eruption might cause a baby boom, but "the second week people were saying there was going to be a divorce boom."

"The first week especially, people said they would be leaving and it is still in the back of their minds," Ms. Smith said. "There's a lot of tension in families.
People are losing their ability to...keep clean, to keep things in order."

She added: "There is a real frustration when after dusting your house for the fourth and fifth time, someone comes in and says, 'It sure is dusty in here.'"

At the Sojourner Truth house in Chehalis, about 60 miles from the volcano, staffers noticed an increase in wife battering cases from towns nearest the mountain in mid-June.

"It takes that long for stress to catch up with people," said director Priscilla Gould. She said the volcanic activity coupled with the recession to exert a lot of pressure on families.

"Families become pressure cookers. A person needs to have a vent somewhere. Sometimes they take it out on those available...those that will probably love you anyway," she said.

At Democratic Convention...

Defections Still Possible

NEW YORK (AP)—Despite President Carter's 2-to-1 edge over Sen. Edward Kennedy among Texas delegates to the Democratic National Convention this week, calls for a so-called "open" convention persist even within the delegation heavy with Carter loyalists.

Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, D-Texas, says someone from the delegation sounded him out about becoming a favorite son candidate for president if the convention changes the rule binding delegates.

Bentsen, who made an unsuccessful run for the presidency four years ago, said he was not interested in the least even if it were appropriate.
The senator added that it would not be appropriate because he was an early Carter supporter.

Wright's was one of the stronger voices raised against the earliest rustling among congressmen for an open convention. He has remained adamantly against any effort to release delegates from their commitments.

The key vote—to require delegates to follow the wishes of the rank-and-file Democrats who selected them—is scheduled for the convention's opening session Monday.

Texas delegates have their first caucus scheduled Sunday night.

Killian-Boulware Vows Exchanged In Chapel

Double ring wedding vows were exchanged by Andrea Jane Killian and Danny Lynn Boulware in a candlelight ceremony at 7 p.m. Saturday, June 21 in the chapel of First Baptist Church. Rev. Miller Robinson, pastor of Colonial Hill Baptist Church, officiated.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Killian, of 2509 48th and Mr. and Mrs. M.H. Boulware of Fluvanna.

Vows were pledged before an altar featuring three brass candelabra forming an arch flanked by spiraling candelabra, all entwined with greenery and silk lily-of-the-valley. Brass hurricane lamps, blue bows and lily-of-the-valley marked the pews.

Organist, Betty Watts accompanied her-daughter, Kathy, as she sang "Annie's Song" and "The Wedding Song."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was attired in a formal length gown of white organza, featuring a stand-up collar and V-neckline, trimmed in silky Venise lace. Matching lace adorned the bodice and upper sleeves. The sheer bishop sleeves were accented with a small cuff edged with matching lace. The empire waistline was accented with Venise lace, descending into a chapel length train. The entire hemline and train was encircled with matching lace and appliques. She wore a chapel length veil attached to a small caplet adorned in Venise lace with appliques throughout.

To complete her bridal ensemble, the bride carried an all-white, crescent shaped bouquet, consisting of glamelias, feathered carnations and sweet-heart roses. It was accented with greenery, silk lily-of-the valley and white silk streamers.

In keeping with tradition, for something old the bride carried a handkerchief tied in her bouquet, belonging to her maternal great-grandmother. Something new was her wedding gown. Something borrowed was a diamond necklace belonging to Cheryl Blair, and something blue was her garter which held two pennies minted in the years of the couple's births.

Maid of honor was Cheryl Blair, of Odessa, cousin of the bride. Bridesmaid was Tammy Slaton. They each wore yellow pleated floor length gowns, featuring an empire waistline and double spaghetti straps. Their sheer matching capelets came to a point at the waistline. They wore picture hats accented with fresh daisies and baby's breath. The maid of honor carried a nosegay of white daisies and blue carnations and bridesmaid carried a nosegay of white daisies trimmed with yellow streamers.

Shana Killian, sister of the bride, served as flower girl. She wore a blue floor-length dress, a white picture hat matching the other attendants, and carried a white wicker basket accented with blue and yellow carnation petals.

Serving as best man was Bodie Shafer and groomsmen was Donny Dunnam of Fluvanna. They wore baby blue tuxedos trimmed in medium blue, with baby blue ruffled shirts. Each wore a yellow carnation boutonniere trimmed with baby's breath.

Ushers were Steve Jenkins and Stanley Warren. Michelle Featherston registered guests.

The bride's parents hosted a reception following the ceremony in the garden room of the church. The bride's table, held a three tiered, white wedding cake decorated with blue and yellow roses topped with a miniature bride and groom. It was complimented with a silver candelabra consisting of blue and yellow fresh flowers accented with four tall burning tapers of blue. Punch was served from a crystal bowl. Presiding were Sheila Rawlings, Abby Rinehart and Jo Beth Stephens.

From the groom's table, chocolate cake and coffee were served by Sami York and Tracey Williamson. It was centered with a hurricane lamp surrounded with a candle ring of brown and beige silk flowers.

A rehearsal dinner was given by the groom's parents Friday in the garden room of the church.

The bride was honored with a miscellaneous shower July 3 at Fluvanna.

BLANCHE'S BLABS

CANTALOUPE

Juicy and succulent, cantaloupe is a great summertime cooler.

In addition, half of one cantaloupe contains only 60 calories yet furnishes the entire day's supply of vitamins A and C for healthy gums, tissues and skin, and normal growth and vision.

SELECTION

Try the five-point test for good cantaloupe eating - which means, examining the netting, slip, color, firmness and aroma.

NETTING

For peak flavor, the cantaloupe should be well netted. The netting is the raised, grey-brown pattern over the surface that stands out above the green or yellow skin color.

The best-eating melons have high, raised netting over some part of the surface.

And, it will not have large areas that are "slick" without any netting - except for the side that lay on the ground.

You may also see "stripes" of green or yellow - or in riper melons, even stripes of a brownish color.

SLIP

Look for a "full slip." This is a circular scar where the stem was detached when the ripe melon was picked.

A stem scar that retains part of the stem or has been gouged out of the melon indicates that the melon was not ripe when picked from the vine.

COLOR

A cantaloupe is usually at its tastiest when the skin color is yellow or turning yellow. Green color on a well-netted melon with full slip indicates that the melon is not ready to eat.

FIRMNESS

To check for firmness, squeeze the melon gently. You may need to use both hands to keep from bruising it.

If it yields a little, it is ripe. But, avoid a really soft melon or one with large, soft bruises.

AROMA

Aroma may or may not be present. If it is present, and in combination with the other points for good cantaloupe eating, you can expect a tasty melon.

STORAGE

Store cantaloupes in the refrigerator in a closed plastic bag or container. The melon's odor is taken up by other foods if not stored in a closed container during refrigeration storage.

FREEZING

You may wish to freeze a few melon balls for later use while they are in peak season and at their lowest price. Use only top-quality fruit.

Cut into cubes or melon balls. Cover with a cold sugar syrup using two cups sugar to four cups water, or pack in bags with no sugar. Expel as much air as possible from the bag, seal and freeze immediately.

Optional two-way Stayman

By Oswald Jacoby and Alan Sontag

Dave Carter of St. Louis suggested two-way Stayman back in the Forties.

At the same time, he invented a bid that he named the Texas transfer. This was the use of a four-diamond response to one notrump to show something like S-K-x-H-Q-J-10-x-x-x-D-K-x-x-C-x so the notrump bidder could play the heart game. He also used the four-heart response as a transfer to four spades. It is unfortunate that Dave's name never got attached to either of his conventions.

Two-way Stayman makes bidding very easy for both partners. The two-club response can vary from very weak to minimum game strength. Thus, with S-K-x-x-H-K-x-x-D-K-x-x-C-x-x you respond two clubs and rebid two notrump, three spades or three hearts, depending on opener's rebid. With S-A-Q-x-x-H-x-x-D-Q-J-x-C-x-x you respond two clubs and bid three spades next. Add a point or two to either hand and you still respond two clubs, but bid game at your next turn.

Suppose you hold S-A-Q-x-x-H-K-x-D-K-x-x-C-J-x-x. You respond two diamonds. If partner proceeds to bid two spades, you jump to four. If he rebids two hearts or two notrump, you bid three notrump. In either case partner knows that you have slam possibilities, but no real slam interest. Change your jack of clubs to the king, your rebid over two spades would be a simple raise to three. This bid expresses real slam interest and partner is asked to bid one of the other suits unless his hand is most unsatisfactory.

You can make all sorts of arrangements with your partner. Thus, if opener holds something like S-A-x-H-K-x-x-D-A-Q-10-x-x-C-A-x-x his reply to the two diamond response is three diamonds, showing a maximum notrump with diamonds.

Song Donated By Bee Gees

NEW YORK (AP)—"Too Much Heaven," a song donated by the Bee Gees to the United Nations Children's Fund, has been honored by Broadcast Music Inc. as its most performed pop music song of 1979.

The Bee Gees - Barry, Robin and Maurice Gibb - have given UNICEF all royalties from the award-winning song. These are expected to amount to some $500,000. The money will be used to support programs for needy mothers and children in more than 100 developing countries.

In January 1979, to launch the International Year of the Child, the Bee Gees and other musical stars donated their services for an internationally televised concert from the U.N.'s General Assembly Hall. The resulting album, "A Gift of Song - The Music for UNICEF Concert," has thus far raised about $3 million for UNICEF.

Doubling Rites Unite McPherson, Culbertson

Kim LaRue McPherson and Kerry Lynn Culbertson were united in a double ring ceremony July 11, at 7:30 p.m., in the chapel of the First Baptist Church. The Rev. Jerry Neill officiated. Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. J.M. McPherson of Snyder, and Mr. and Mrs. Lee Roy Culbertson of Colorado City.

The bride was escorted to the altar by her father and presented in marriage by both parents. She was attired in a bridal original of all over Chantilly lace. The fitted bodice featured a natural waistline, and was accented by seed pearls. The pearled Chantilly lace scalloped the Sabrina neckline, and the fitted lace sleeves came to a point over her wrists. The full skirt of cascading ruffles of Chantilly lace, swept into a full cathedral length train. She wore a double length fingertip veil of white illusion fitted to a bandeau of lace and seed pearls.

The bridal bouquet was a full cascade of white roses and yellow daisies accented with baby's breath, white ribbon, and satin streamers tied in love knots. The bouquet was carried atop a white Bible carried by her mother 26 years ago.

In keeping with tradition the bride wore her grandmother's ruby engagement ring for something old, something new was her dress, something borrowed was her mother's Bible, and something blue was her garter, made by Mrs. Wayne Shawn of Colorado City.

Matron of honor was Mrs. Jimmy Browning of Arlington, sister of the bride. Maid of honor was Terri Dennis, and attending as bridesmaid was Jonetta Dunn of Coahoma, cousin of the bride. Flower girl was Christy Hix of LaVerne, Okla. All of the girls were attired in identical dresses of mint green polyester overlaid with white silk organza accented with bouquets of yellow and white daisies. The girls carried bouquets of yellow and white daisies accented with baby's breath and tied with yellow and white ribbons.

The groom wore a white formal tuxedo with satin trim. He was attended by Terry Culbertson, his brother, and groomsmen were Dale Adams and Tracy Shawn. Ushers were Steven Kimmel and Blake Reynolds, all from Colorado City. The attendants were attired in formal yellow tuxedos trimmed in yellow satin. Ring-bearer was Matthew Harnley of Pampa, Tx. He was dressed in a tuxedo identical to the groomsmen.

The wedding began with the candlelighters lighting the candles while "Theme from Ice Castles" was played as a piano and organ duet by Beverly Duff and Mrs. Judy Neill. Candlelighters were Rita Black, of Snyder, and Gayla Dunn of Canadian. They were dressed in dresses identical to those of the bridesmaids. After the candles were lit, another duet of "Annie's Song" was played as the mother's were seated. The groom, groomsmen, and the bridesmaids entered while Kerry Wood of Snyder sang "We've Only Just Begun." The bride then entered to the traditional "Wedding March." Upon reaching the altar, the bride and groom heard "Follow Me," which was sung by Kerry Wood, Susan Minor and Karen Sue Jones all of Snyder.

The couple was united before an arch way decorated with greenery and accented with two-25-candle trees, one on each side of the arch. The aisle was decorated with 8 pew markers of hurricane lamps tied with green bows. After the couple recited their vows, the bride sang "Devoted to You" to the groom. The bride and groom then knelt on a white kneeling bench as "The Lord's Prayer" was sung by Gary Miller of Snyder. The couple then lit the memory candle while Miss Minor and Miss Jones sang "The Wedding Song." As the guests arrived at the wedding, they were registered by Mrs. Mark Wright of Seminole.

A reception given by the bride's parents was held in the garden area of the church. The bride's table was covered in yellow gingham check, and held a four tiered wedding cake, decorated with yellow hearts and topped with two white doves. The bride's table was attended by Natosha Bills, of Snyder and Marilyn McCulley of Wichita Falls.

The groom's table served German chocolate cake and was covered with a round white cloth covered by a square green overlay. Serving at the groom's table were Mrs. Ray Ritchey, Vikki Uselton, and Karen Brown, all from Colorado City. After the guests were served, they were seated at six individual tables covered with yellow gingham check table clothes, which were placed around the garden area. Serving in the house party were Mrs. Norman Canon, Mrs. Dale Cantrell, Mrs. Barney Tate and Mrs. James Black. The groom's parents hosted a rehearsal dinner in the Fellowship Hall of the church on the eve of the wedding. The bride was given various parties and showers including a lingerie shower hosted by Karen Sue Jones and Mrs. Nina Jones in their home. She was also given a miscellaneous shower at the hospital where she is employed. A rice bag party was given by Terri Dennis in her home one week prior to the wedding.

The bride is a 1978 graduate of Snyder High School and the groom is a 1979 graduate of Colorado City High School. Both have attended Western Texas College. The groom is currently employed by Pool Well Servicing Co., and the bride is employed by Cogdell Memorial Hospital. After the wedding trip to Abilene the couple currently resides at Rt. 2 in Snyder.

Out of state guests were from Denver, Colo., and LaVerne, Okla. Out of town guests were from El Paso, Brownwood, Canadian, Odessa, Coahoma, Lefors, Pampa, Seminole and Colorado City.

Dedicated Diabetic...

Jogger, 53, Doesn't Try To Avoid Hills

YUMA, Ariz. (AP)—Mornings you're likely to see diminutive Ruth Kasper, 53, all 5 feet and 90 pounds of her, jogging her way up a hill as she runs her daily 7½-mile routine. Up a hill? Don't joggers try to avoid them? Not Ruth - she runs them on her toes.

"Normally you touch the ground on the back of your foot first," she explains. "But I need that extra push. Getting up that hill gives you a sense of accomplishment."

"They say you reach your peak in 10 years," she adds. "Ten years since I started running I'll be 61. I expect to be a little faster by then."

Mostly she runs for fun, but sometimes she also competes. She says she has run about 25 races, from three miles to 13, and one day she wants to tackle a marathon - 26 miles and a bit.

The only mornings she misses - and then only because of her doctor's orders - are those when she is in San Diego undergoing laser treatments for her eye trouble, the result of diabetes. She has been diabetic since 1952 and has taken insulin shots for the past 25 years.

Her doctor has ordered that she lay off running for about five days after each treatment, and the inaction bothers her.

"I become irritable," she says. "It's like something is missing. Running to me is the same thing as brushing my teeth or taking my daily shot of insulin."

Unlike other runners, who normally don't eat before a race, she must do so because of her diabetic condition. She says that if she does run a marathon - and she hopes to celebrate her 54th birthday by running such a race next December in Tempe - she would have to stop and eat.

Though typically she jogs alone, she likes such competitive racing. The cheers and applause at the finish make it exciting, she says. "You already have that running high, and this makes it all the more rewarding."

She also offers a whisper of advice. "When you're finishing the race," she says, "you should always speed up at the end - to make people think you ran that pace the whole way."

To keep green salads fresh longer, sprinkle them with lemon or lime juice.

In The Oil Patch...

Scurry Gains Producers

Calley, & Fowler have completed two wells in the Diamond "M" (Clear Fork) field of Scurry County.

The No. 2 J.N. Bynum "B" was completed to pump 20 barrels of 30-gravity oil per day, plus 50 barrels of water, through Clear Fork perforations at 3,133-3,223, after acid treatment of 3,000 gallons and fractured with 50,000 gallons.

Total depth is 3,305 feet and plugged back depth is 3,291, with 4.5-inch casing set on bottom.

Wellsite is 990 feet from north and 2,310 feet from west lines of section 178, block 97, H&TC survey, 11 miles west of Snyder.

Operator potentialed the No. 6 J.N. Bynum "B" to pump 20 barrels of oil and 60 barrels of water per day. Gravity of the oil was 30 degrees and gas-oil ratio was too small to measure.

Production was through perforations at 3,151-3,238 feet after being treated with 3,000 gallons of acid and 50,000 gallons of fracture material.

Gasoline Demand Dips, Supplies Rise In 1980

By MAX SKELTON
AP Oil Writer

HOUSTON (AP)—Domestic gasoline consumption the first six months of 1980 dropped 95.6 million barrels below year earlier levels.

Domestic crude oil production meanwhile rose by 45 million barrels and oil imports declined by 201.3 million barrels during the same period.

The sharp contrasts between 1979 and 1980 supply and demand trends are outlined in the latest edition of U.S. Energy Facts. The monthly statistical report is published by Energy Information Service, a non-profit organization associated with the University of Houston Downtown Campus.

Based on statistical reports from the Department of Energy and the American Petroleum Institute, the new edition says the domestic petroleum picture underwent a complete change during the past year. The severe shortage in oil supplies and the gasoline lines of a year ago, it said, have been replaced by a large reduction in consuming rates and simultaneous major increases in petroleum inventories.

The publication said a major reduction in domestic consumption highlighted the change.

Total domestic consumption the first six months was reduced by 254.9 million barrels or 1.5 million barrels a day below year earlier demand.

"Consumption in 1980 totaled 3.16 billion barrels of oil, or 17.4 million barrels per day, compared with 3.41 billion barrels or 18.94 million a day the first six months of 1979," the publication said.

January-June demand in 1978 was 3.44 billion barrels or 19.13 million barrels a day.

This year's requirements for all oils were said to have dropped in June to only 16.82 million barrels a day compared with 17.69 million a year earlier.

Gasoline requirements had the largest January-June reduction, dropping to 1.20 billion barrels or 6.62 million a day, for an overall decline of 95.6 million barrels or 568,000 barrels a day. June consumption of 6.77 million barrels a day was down from a 7.19 million average last year.

Distillate fuel oils also had a major decline, dropping by 85.5 million barrels or 492,000 barrels a day from 1979 volumes.

U.S. Energy Facts said domestic crude oil production meanwhile rose 45 million barrels to a total of 1.58 billion barrels the first half of the year. The daily average of 8.7 million barrels was up from 8.5 million. The increase was attributed to higher production from Alaska's North Slope more than offsetting decreased out-

DISD Won't Admit Aliens

DALLAS (AP)—The Dallas Independent School District plans to ignore a federal court ruling and enforce its policy against admitting illegal alien children this fall.

School Superintendent Linus Wright said proof of citizenship will be required of students enrolling in DISI unless the district receives a federal court order to the contrary before classes begin Aug. 25.

"Based on the advice of our attorneys, the district will continue to enforce its attendance policy requiring documentation of legal residence from all students," Wright said.

Wright said attorneys warned against admitting illegal aliens because the district has not yet received a court order to do so.

Admitting the children could mean "severe financial loss" if the Houston decision is overturned on appeal, he said.

U.S. District Judge Woodrow Seals of Houston last month threw out a Texas law prohibiting use of state funds to educate illegal aliens.

Elvis Bottle Sales Lagging

RICHMOND, Va. (AP)—Considering the clamor for Presley memorabilia, the lagging sales of Elvis Presley busts in state liquor stores has come as somewhat of a surprise to Alcoholic Beverage Control-Commission officials here.

"The economy has impacted all specialty bottle sales," said S.B. Lickey, deputy commissioner in charge of merchandising. Since most of the containers are made in foreign countries, the devaluation of the dollar has pushed prices out of sight, he said.

The Elvis bottle was reduced from $50.90 to $41, but interest continued to lag.

However, Lickey says advance orders for a new Elvis bottle indicate the singer's old magic still lives, provided he's accompanied by music.

The new bottle, depicting a full-length Elvis garbed in a black suit, will have a music box playing, "Can't Help Falling in Love with You." It sells for $73.15.

Adolescent knee

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — My grandson suffers from swelling and soreness just below the kneecap. He is 12, active in baseball and football and he's also overweight. His doctor said the problem was due to a tiny joint that fills with blood just below the knee and all that can be done is to apply warm compresses and stay off his feet. In one knee he has had the pain and swelling for several months. Now the other started the same way. There's no way you can keep a 12-year-old boy away from his activities. What do you suggest? Will he outgrow this problem?

DEAR READER — I can't be certain from your letter what your grandson's problem is but it sounds like you're talking about Osgood-Schlatter disease. I sometimes think this should be called adolescent knee because it occurs in both boys and girls during the adolescent period.

It tends to occur a little earlier in girls and they're less frequently involved than boys.

Basically, the problem is the large tendon that inserts on the shinbone just below the kneecap. This is the tendon to the large muscles over the front of the thigh. When these muscles contract to straighten the knee as in kicking a football, this tendon pulls on the spot of attachment to the shinbone. The force is exceptionally great on the tendon's attachment because the quadriceps is the largest muscle in the body and the strongest. The lever arm effect of the leg bone plus all that force is brought to bear on the small point of attachment.

The bone isn't mature yet during adolescence and sometimes the constant pull can cause a minor fracture of this area or some other disorders. When this is the problem it usually disappears in the course of time although knobby knees may persist for life.

There are different opinions about how these should be treated. In many instances, it depends on the severity of the problem. Some doctors even believe in keeping the leg in a straight leg cast so that the pull can't be exercised. Others allow normal activity, but it is true that if you can limit the activity there's less likelihood of pulling on that big tendon.

That means that exercises such as going up and down stairs, knee bends and anything that requires a heavy pull on that tendon should be avoided. As the skeleton matures this little area of the bone calcifies solidly like the rest of the bony tissue and that should be the end of the problem.

In all such cases there should be an X-ray of the bones to be certain that there's no other more serious disease present.

NEW YORK (NEA)—
The position of parliamentarian seldom is considered a springboard for advancement in most organizations — but the man holding that post at the Democratic National Convention could be an exception to that rule.

He is Rep. Thomas S. Foley, D-Wash., whose quiet, self-effacing manner belies his standing as one of the most respected and influential members of the House of Representatives.

Foley has no designs on the presidency, but at least one astute Washington lawyer-lobbyist has prepared a confidential memo suggesting that the convention offers an ideal opportunity for the 51-year-old congressman to begin positioning himself for the 1984 presidential campaign.

That veteran Washington insider has requested anonymity, but he presents a compelling argument to support a theory that the Democrats must turn to Foley or an equally attractive political moderate from the West as their next presidential candidate.

In five of the six presidential elections held during the past two decades, the Republican nominee has been a westerner — an Arizonan in 1964 and a Californian in 1960, 1968, 1972 and 1980.

During the same period, the Democrats never have gone farther west for their nominee than Minnesota, South Dakota or Texas — and the price for ignoring one of the country's fastest growing regions may be a loss of support in the West.

In the 1976 presidential election, Democratic nominee Jimmy Carter failed to carry a single state in the Rockies and the West — even though the Republican candidate, Gerald R. Ford, was the only non-westerner endorsed by the GOP in the past 20 years.

"Only a moderate, articulate western Democrat can reclaim this territory, which is key to the survival of the Democratic party," says the uncited memo prepared for Foley.

His congressional district encompasses the eastern third of the state of Washington, with approximately 60 percent of its voters residing in Spokane and its suburbs. In recent years, Foley has twice faced — and overcome — strong Republican chalenges in order to win re-election.

Foley's attributes are hardly limited to his home region. A veteran of eight terms in the House, he has rapidly ascended the leadership ladder and currently is chairman of both its Agriculture Committee and its Democratic Caucus.

The tall (6-foot-3), soft-spoken Foley was hand-picked as the convention's parliamentarian by Rep. Thomas P. (Tip) O'Neill, D-Mass., Speaker of the House and permanent chairman of the convention.

"Tip wanted him because of Tom's unique ability to mediate and resolve difficult issues in a manner that's both firm and fair," says one Foley booster. "When the House gets entangled in complex, emotional issues, Tip often will look for Tom and put him in the chair as presiding officer."

Occasional newspaper profiles of Foley during the past decade overflow with favorable adjectives offered by both Democratic and Republican colleagues: "Intelligent ... effective ... deliberate ... urbane ... practical ... articulate."

Although he can be classified as a liberal on most domestic issues, Foley has voted with conservatives on fiscal matters because of his increasing doubts about the effectiveness of government spending to resolve social problems.

"Tom's adherents are in all camps. He's frequently the major bridge between liberals and conservatives in the House," says one admirer. "His only liability — if it is one — is that he doesn't have the 'killer instinct' that's assumed to be necessary to run for national office."

Foley does have an imposing list of mentors. In addition to being close to O'Neill, he is a protégé of Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., one of the major powers in the Senate and the man who gave Foley his first job on Capitol Hill in 1961.

Because the Democratic convention is likely to be an unusually contentious affair, the parliamentarian's job could provide an exceptional vehicle for Foley to display his considerable skills — and perhaps gain a nationwide reputation.

lesson from japan

The figures coming out of Detroit these days would seem to have more in common with the national debt than with the bottom line of business operations.

Chrysler registering a loss of more than half a billion dollars for the second quarter of the year; Ford in the hole by almost as much; even mighty General Motors dropping in excess of $400 million. The aggregate loss of U.S. auto makers for 1980 so far is almost $2 billion and according to some expert estimates, they could very well be down close to $8 billion by the end of the year.

The figures are, in fact, much more than bottom lines.

They measure the decline of an entire industry. Worse, they are only part of the story. The sickness that is closing plants and has idled a third of the work force is not confined to the auto industry. It also affects steel, rubber, glass and more, the producers of the many components of a finished automobile.

Like the national debt, it is a national problem. Only much more pressing.

And it has led to pressures for assistance from the only quarter with resources commensurate with the need — government. Aid has already materialized in the form of the $1.5 billion federal loan guarantee for Chrysler. But inevitably there are pressures for more. And inevitably in an election year they will intensify.

They focus on aiding U.S. auto makers in meeting their most visible problem, competition from foreign imports. Which, for all practical purposes, means the Japanese whose products now account for almost a quarter of all autos sold in the United States.

What the various proposals, from import quotas to special dispensation for U.S. producers in meeting pollution and mileage standards, really come down to is a retreat into protectionism.

Which, as almost any economist will tell you, and most politicians know perfectly well but are reluctant to discuss publicly, is no way to solve the basic problem.

Protectionist measures have the effect of preserving rather than eliminating the weaknesses that created a problem. For an ominously apt example, the U.S. auto industry need look no further than the experience of its British counterpart, once number two in the world.

Protectionist policies in the cause of preserving British jobs did so for a time, but at the price of preventing the modernization of the British industry. To the end that it has been virtually eliminated as a factor in the world market. In the end, the jobs have been lost after all.

Rather than repeating the disastrous, British experience, American auto makers would be much better advised to take a tip from their Japanese competition.

Criticism that Japan makes it excessively difficult for foreign products to penetrate its home market notwithstanding, the real secret of Japanese success is not a protected by a methodically pruned economy. Industries are constantly being surveyed and those adjudged to have a competitive future are encouraged to make use of the most modern and efficient production techniques available. Those that can't hack it are phased out as painlessly as possible.

This policy, not abundant cheap labor, has made the Japanese auto industry the most productive in the world. It is, in fact, by far the most highly automated, with the lowest workers-per-vehicle ratio and far higher standards of quality control than any other.

The surveying, encouragement and phasing out are the responsibility of the Ministry of International Trade and Industry (MITI), a government agency that has no exact counterpart in any other industrial power.

That does not mean, however, that there is no lesson in the Japanese experience for others. Government-industry cooperation can work to other ends than preservation of obsolete operations. Application to Detroit's crisis would not mean phasing out — although some present producers might not survive — but a thorough overhauling. The result would be a much leaner industry, making maximum use of automated techniques often developed in this country but put to practical use by the Japanese. And, inevitably, fewer jobs.

That may appear hard to take at this point, but the alternative could be infinitely worse.

life with rusty

Elizabeth Herrick had overheard you and me talking about contemporary disregard — for policemen.

But she'd heard nobody relate adequately what it's really like these days for a policeman and his family.

So, as the wife of one, the Flint, Mich., woman decided to let the rest of us share her life with Rusty.

In the modest house on Remington Street, when the day's chores were done and daughter was napping, Elizabeth Herrick spent any leftover hours writing a story about her policeman husband.

It became a compilation of all the fears and frustrations of a patrolman's wife: a composite of all she'd heard from her own husband and overheard from others — and their wives.

She would write and re-write until husband, Rusty, would read a final draft and nod and smile and say, "Now, Liz, you've got it!"

Then there were the parts she understood better than he — the inevitable social stigma; the waking up at night, crying; the making-do on a policeman's salary while having to explain to a 2-year-old daughter the snide slurs about "cops are crooks."

And over her shoulder Rusty would read those parts. Then he would lift her from her chair by the typewriter and hold her close.

There are unimaginable stresses in the home life of a lawman. When the rest of us are celebrating holidays, he is busiest. Birthdays, Thanksgiving, Christmas are days away from home.

The brotherhood of a lawman and his professional partner is so life-and-death close that sometimes families feel less loved.

And when the day includes some wasted life or mangled child, some experience that hurts too deep to talk about, his long silences have to be understood.

This project began two years ago. Then last October the Herricks agreed the story was complete.

Prayerfully, carefully, she folded the manuscript and addressed it to Cosmopolitan magazine.

A long month later the magazine's editor responded; the answer was "yes."

Yes, the magazine did like what she had written, and suggested only a few embellishments.

Liz and Rusty were jubilant. Because she was accepted as a writer, and because what she had written would mean so much to so many — policemen's wives, and those who shun them, and those who love them.

Each month the new issue of Cosmopolitan was out — without her story.

By now Rusty had told all the fellows at the Burton City station that the article had been accepted — but where was it?

Three months went by. Nothing. Four months, then five.

It was May when a Cosmopolitan editor telephoned.

The article was in galley form. It would appear in the September issue. The issue that you and I can read now.

But Rusty will not. The other night, responding to a department store burglary, he was shot in the back and killed.

my turn

by roy mcqueen, publisher

The feller on Deep Creek says, "The difference between a successful day and a mediocre one sometimes consists of leaving about four or five things unsaid."

We're in grave danger. We really don't understand why the federal government or Ralph Nader hasn't warned us about it, but it should keep one awake at night.

For years, Nader and his group has cautioned us not to mess with the balance of nature. It's unhealthy, they say. Just about everything enjoyable has become hazardous.

After careful consideration, we're convinced that one unrevealed danger is the sole cause of the current drought condition. But that's just the beginning.

It all started with the fuel crises that resulted in higher utility bills. Folks started beating the heat with ceiling fans, and that item may surpass hoola hoops and C.B. radios in terms of record sales.

Few homes are without ceiling fans, and even commercial establishments have installed the fans in an effort to beat the heat and the 78-degree Presidential edict.

It's logical now, that all those rain clouds are simply being blown past us when those fans are turned on at the same time. You just don't fool with Mother Nature.

That crisis, however, is nothing compared to what we might expect in a few years if the ceiling fan fad continues.

Just those fans already installed has put the planet earth off its normal course in orbit. If all the fans were turned on at one time, we have it from a reliable source that we would be on a collision course with at least one giant asteroid.

There may be one consolation. It seems that fans turn in a reverse manner are coming on the market. This way we can have half the fans turning one way and the other half turning the opposite direction. That should keep earth on course.

It's so serious that we understand that the Democratic convention will take up the fan issue as part of its platform this week.

Bees are not very large, but it is dangerous to be chased by them when they are disturbed. Moses in his speech to the Israelites at the end of the fortieth year in the wilderness mentions how the Amorites chased them as bees do.

growing older

lou cottin

We'd like to change the word from "condominium" to "condomoneyum." But for now we'll use the term "condo."

The U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development declares: "The large potential profits which can be made in a relatively short time when compared to new construction make conversion to condos very inviting to converters."

Condo conversions are in large part responsible for the growing shortage of rental housing nationwide. Reports the General Accounting Office: "The current rental vacancy rate has dropped to 4.8 percent. That's the lowest rate on record. The scarcity of rental housing has reached a crisis stage."

Soaring rents are one inevitable result of this scarcity of rental housing. Another is that renters — including the elderly — are being turned out onto the streets if they cannot afford to buy their apartments.

Like many seniors, you may sooner or later discover that you can no longer manage a large house and yard.

The lawn must be cut in the summer. The leaves must be raked in the fall. The snow must be shoveled in the winter. Plumbing and heating and appliances must be repaired almost continually.

So, you figure the home you bought several decades ago for $16,000 will now sell for $45,000 or more. You figure that this money plus your savings and Social Security will support you comfortably for your remaining years despite high rentals.

You find an apartment after much searching. You sign the lease and move in.

It's sad to say good-bye to the neighbors. But, you say philosophically, "That's the way the ball bounces."

But after a year or so, the landlord announces that your rented apartment is to be converted into a condo. "Buy the place," you are told, "or move out."

How can you buy it? Aside from Social Security and some interest from savings or investments, you have no new money coming in. You're living on a fixed income.

Naturally, you will be given a reasonable amount of time to relocate — reasonable, that is, to the landlord. But even when you do find a new — and, no doubt, costlier — apartment, who pays the moving expenses? And will the same dilemma soon confront you there as well?

This tragedy is being replayed repeatedly all across the United States. So, don't think that it cannot happen in your community.

You owe it to yourself, therefore, to study a newspaper called "Shelterforce," which supplies information on national and local movements for rent control and other protective housing actions.

"Shelterforce" has published a two-part feature on "condomania," centering on what can be done to protect the interests of renters before, during and after conversion. The stories by John Atlas and Peter Drier are include data from last year's Senate hearings on the subject and from the National Council of Senior Citizens.

If you have any intention of moving from your house into an apartment, subscribe to "Shelterforce." For individuals, the price is $5 for six issues. Be sure to start your subscription with Volume 5, No. 2.

The address of "Shelterforce" is Main Street, East Orange, N.J. 07018. Phone: (201) 678-6778.

Don't be selfish. If some of your friends are thinking of selling their houses and moving to apartments, pass this column on to them.

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Can a mother sue a neighbor for alienating her son's affection? I'm serious. A neighbor woman has all but adopted our 14-year-old son, Rick. She is the mother of Rick's best friend, Bob. According to Rick, she is the "nearest lady" he's ever known. She "understands" him, lends a sympathetic ear to all his troubles, and she's let him know that her home is his home. Rick has spent many nights there. He'd live there if we'd let him.

At home Rick has chores to do, which he does grudgingly, but I understand he's constantly asking what he can do to help at Bob's house. At home, Rick is criticized and restricted when necessary, but at Bob's he's treated like a guest. Naturally, Rick thinks Bob's mother is the "perfect" mother, and he keeps asking me why I can't be more like her.

I'm not jealous, Abby, but I wonder if Bob's mother realizes how hard she's making it for me. Or could she be deliberately competing with me to feed her own ego?

In the meantime, how do I cope with this?
DISTURBED IN VIRGINIA

DEAR DISTURBED: Before making any accusations, examine your own attitudes honestly. Do you make time to listen to Rick's troubles? Are you overly critical and restrictive? Are Rick's friends as welcome in your home as Bob's friends are in his?

If Bob's mother scores higher than you, perhaps you should take a page out of her book. Meanwhile, your son isn't the only adolescent who thinks another mom is "neater" than his own. He's reacting normally to the guest treatment. Don't lose any sleep over it.

DEAR ABBY: My fiance and I recently attended a wedding at a very nice hall. In fact, my fiance was the best man.

All eyes were on a young woman who came wearing a pair of silver stretch pants that were so tight, she looked like all she was wearing was a coat of silver paint! She also wore a tight-fitting sweater and a tight wide belt. She attended the ceremony as well as the reception and wedding dinner. Believe me, she was the talk of everyone there. She would have been appropriately dressed for a disco, but certainly not a wedding!

My fiance and I are being married soon, and we want to make sure nobody attends our wedding in that kind of a getup. My question: Would it be proper to have printed on our wedding invitations, "Ladies, no pants, please," or "Ladies, semi-formal dress required?"
TAKING NO CHANCES

DEAR TAKING: No. The only acceptable mention on a wedding invitation concerning dress is "Formal attire," "Informal attire" or "Dress, optional."

DEAR ABBY: I am 73. My wife is 65. She is a lovely little woman and we've been happily married for five years. (We're both second-time-arounders.)

She has a 40-year-old married son whose wife left him last year, so he came to live with us. I thought it was only temporary, but he has moved everything he owns over to our house, and it looks like he is dug in here for good.

He is a freeloader who expects his mother to cook him three meals a day, keep up his clothes and clean his room. He eats like a horse, doesn't furnish any of the food, has a nice car and expects his mother to keep him in gas part of the time. He works steady but we never see a penny.

I don't want to hurt his mother by asking her to leave, but I have had it with this bum mooching free room and board! We have a nice little house, which I own. It's comfortable for two, but three's a crowd. Any advice?
CROWDED

DEAR CROWDED: Talk it over with your wife and decide together how much longer her son should be allowed to stay. Then she — not you — should give him the news.

Do you hate to write letters because you don't know what to say? Thank-you notes, sympathy letters, congratulations, how to decline and accept invitations and how to write an interesting letter are included in Abby's booklet, "How To Write Letters for All Occasions." Send $1 and a long, stamped (28 cents), self-addressed envelope to: Abby, Letter Booklet, 132 Lasky Drive, Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212.
