Asking Moscow For Money

WARSZAWA, Poland (AP)—Poland's hard-pressed communist regime turned to the Soviet Union for financial help to improve the lot of its restive workers as scattered strikes continued despite government pleas for an end to the labor unrest.

Polish Deputy Premier Mieczyslaw Jagielski and a delegation of Polish officials went to Moscow and met with Nikolai Baibakov, the Kremlin's chief economic planner, and other Soviet officials to discuss "a number of important questions related to Soviet-Polish economic relations," the Soviet news agency Tass reported.

Expects Population Increase

CORPUS (AP)—Texas' initial 1980 population total of 13.2 million could go even higher when final figures are in, according to the head of the House redistricting committee.

Rep. Tim Von Dohlen, D-Gofidad, said Wednesday during the first of 13 redistricting hearings held across the state that he expected state population figures to climb when final census figures are received. The hearings are being conducted by the Texas House Committee on Regions, Compacts and Districts, which is in charge of drawing up state and federal legislative districts based on the 1980 census.

Promises Quick Action

WASHINGTON (AP)—A Supreme Court justice has indicated he will act quickly on a request to clear the way for a key defense witness to testify when the Brilab trial of Texas House Speaker Billy Clayton begins.

Clayton and his co-defendants, Austin lawyers Donald Ray and Randall Wood, told Justice Lewis F. Powell Jr. they would suffer "irreparable harm" without his help to insure a fair trial.

They turned to Powell on Wednesday to make sure a "protective order" is in place for union official L.G. Moore, a fourth defendant indicted as a result of the FBI undercover investigation called Brilab for "Bribery-Labor."

The SDN Column

The weather, the presidential campaign, the beginning of football season and other activities have crowded the 1980 census complaints from the newswires recently.

It's almost like the flying saucer stories (are UFOs, if you prefer). They always popped up and got good play on the news pages when things got dull. Then they disappeared when lively news developed.

The complaints about population were not altogether unexpected. In the first place, the art of estimating population always picks up about two or three years following an official census. Thereafter, various factors may be brought into play as forecasters try to substantiate their estimates. And almost invariably they are on the high side. Then, what many of the more zealous forecasters fail to do is to slack off a couple of years before the next census. In other words, it is a good idea to hedge when the actual count-down approaches.

But enough of this beating around the bush. We have it from what we consider to be a reliable source that Snyder's official population in the 1980 census will top the 13,000 mark.

This is a substantial increase over the 12,301 announced several weeks ago as a preliminary figure, which itself was an increase of some 10 percent over 1970. How much above 13,000 remains to be seen, but all of the indicators point to a good gain.

How did this occur? Well, for the most part, it probably results from the attitude of community leaders and local officials. They were dissatisfied with the preliminary figures, but they didn't sit there and scream "foul!" They set about to see if there were any discrepancies that they might help remedy. Moreover, they made an effort to document situations that they felt might have caused problems for census-takers and, in turn resulted in a low count.

In other words, they worked with the census officials rather than sit on the sidelines and complain.

We understand some other cities and towns have followed a similar course. We also understand that there are some that have not.

Anyway, it now appears that Snyder's 1980 census count, while not as high as some had predicted, will look a lot better than many other towns.

No official announcement is expected before November, but we can count on 13,000-plus, reports City Manager John Gayle.

Ma Bell Proposing New Pricing Plan

AUSTIN (AP)—Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. wants to implement a new pricing plan that charges some Texas customers for the duration, distance and time of day they place local calls.

Bell describes the fee schedule, being considered by the Texas Public Utility Commission, as an optional service that could save customers money. But The Dallas Times Herald reported Thursday that a confidential product plan drafted by Bell's parent company, American Telephone and Telegraph Co., urges widespread adoption of the pricing plan to boost revenues from what it considers underpriced local services.

Power Struggle Delaying Action

By The Associated Press
The power struggle between Iran's president and Parliament got hotter, promising further delays in action on a host of problems including the 52 U.S. hostages spending their 313th day in captivity today.

The Parliament, or Majlis, gave Prime Minister Mohammad Ali Rajai an overwhelming vote of confidence Wednesday after he attacked President Abolhassan Bani-Sadr for the second time this week for refusing seven of the prime minister's 21 nominees for his Cabinet.

The vote was 169-14 with 10 abstentions. It emphasized once again the headline Islamic Republican Party's solid control of the legislature. Rajai told the deputies who forced Bani-Sadr to accept him as prime minister that he discussed the rejection of the nominees with the president "but I see no possibility of reaching agreement with him in the near future because he has come to certain conclusions in an environment where certain sources were available to him."

"I have reached some conclusions after living among certain people in Iran for 20 years," Rajai added. "When I talk, a villager understands what it means to be a follower of the immam," meaning Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini, the leader of the Iranian revolution.

The Majlis agreed to a discussion Sunday of its reply to a letter from nearly 200 members of the U.S. Congress urging the speedy release of the hostages. It is expected to repeat the revolutionary regime's earlier demands that the United States admit complicity in the crimes charged to the late Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi, apologize, pledge never to interfere in Iran again and promise to turn over the royal family's holdings in the United States.

The militants who occupied the U.S. Embassy last Oct. 4 and are still holding 49 members of its staff also attacked Bani-Sadr for his contention that the hostage crisis is hurting Iran in the world community and should be resolved so the government can turn to the country's economic crisis and other problems.

Bani-Sadr was elected president last January by an overwhelming popular vote, but the Islamic Republican Party's clerical leaders and allies dominated the parliamentary elections in late spring and Bani-Sadr's supporters were virtually shut out.

The president was forced last month to accept Rajai as prime minister because the IRP would not confirm anyone he wanted to name. But on Sunday Bani-Sadr rejected a third of Rajai's Cabinet choices and said they were representatives of a "despotic" minority, an illusion to the fundamentalist IRP.

Nothing Like It At Home...

Rodeo Helps Attract Austrian To WTC

Rodeoes appeal to David Appleton, a freshman welding student at Western Texas College this fall.

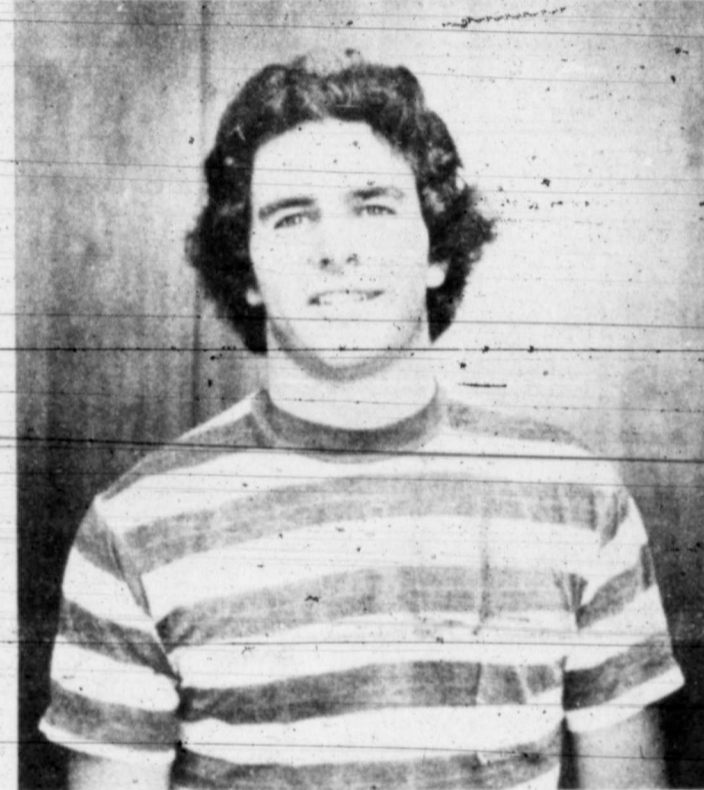

He enjoys riding in rodeos so much, in fact, that he left his home in Clermont, Queensland, Australia, and came to the United States early in the summer to follow the rodeo circuit.

He came to Texas after studying the Professional Rodeo Cowboys' Association news sheet because he found he could compete in four or five rodeos per week in Texas, and settled in Bedford (between Dallas and Fort Worth) because of its central location.

Appleton is a bareback and saddle bronc rider and will be trying for a spot on the WTC rodeo team. There is no high school or college rodeo competition in Australia, Appleton said, but he started riding in junior rodeos in 1978. Although he lived in town, he has worked on ranches and started riding stock there.

His mother, Mrs. Clare Appleton, is a widow. Several of the family's relatives are landowners and David spent many week-

Roscoe Mopping Up Flood Damage

ROS COE--This Nolan County town was trying to mop up following devastating floods Tuesday and Wednesday that caused heavy damage to property and put the town's water and sewer service out of operation.

The floodwaters contaminated the town water system and also overran the sewer system.

Meanwhile, the Roscoe, Snyder and Pacific Railway faced more delays in restoring service between Roscoe and Snyder due to a washout about six miles northwest of Roscoe.

Mickey Nunley, RS&P president, said this morning that it appeared a minimum of five days would be needed to repair the railroad tracks.

"We must move tons and tons of dirt," he said. "We are going to try to get service restored as soon as possible with temporary repairs, but even that will take at least five days."

Mideast Union Taken Lightly

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP)—The announcement of the Syrian-Libyan merger, the latest in a string of hitherto unsuccessful Arab unions, caused no great stir in the Arab world or Israel. "Very encouraging," said Egyptian President Anwar Sadat, one of the new state's chief targets, with an ironic laugh.

Sadat, labeled a traitor by president Hafez Assad of Syria and Col. Moammar Khadafy of Libya for making peace with the Jewish state, called the latest merger scheme a "children's game."

Engineering studies will be made before the railroad begins another permanent installation at the site where the bridge washed out.

The last RS&P train ran early Tuesday, and five more days would mean a full week for service to be disrupted.

Diez y Seis Celebration Planned Here

A weekend of folkloric dancing, the crowning of a queen and princess, and a parade are in store for Snyderites as the annual Diez y Seis celebration starts up.

Diez y Seis is a celebration observed each Sept. 16 in commemoration of Mexican independence.

The activities begin about 6 p.m. Friday at the Latin American Center with the opening of concessions. A dance, also at the center, begins about 8:30 p.m.

The crowning of the queen and princess highlights activities Saturday. The queen candidate is Melissa Garcia, daughter of Willie and Janie Garcia, and sponsored by her grandparents, Raul and Ninfa Rosas. Princess candidate is Frances Galindo, who is sponsored by her parents, Benancio and Jacinta Galindo. The crownings will be at 8 p.m.

A parade is set for Sunday afternoon. It will begin at 3 p.m. at the county library, travel south on Ave. T, circle the courthouse square, exit on Ave. R, then return to the Latin American Center.

Flash Flood Danger Passes In This Area

By The Associated Press
Heavy rainfall triggered by the remains of Tropical Storm Danielle ended over West Texas early today, prompting the National Weather Service to cancel flash flood watches issued for the area.

The end of the flash flood producing rainfall came only hours after forecasters issued new flash flood watches for several counties west of the Pecos.

Forecasters called for considerable cloudiness with some widely scattered afternoon thunderstorms over West Texas today. The remainder of the state was to have partly cloudy skies.

Before the rainfall ended, up to five inches of rain sent floodwaters swirling into about 40 homes at Odessa. Low-lying areas were flooded and livestock swept away.

"The south part of town flooded, just from the heavy rains," Gary Mitchell, a Texas state game warden, said Wednesday night after West Texas caught extensive rainfall for the third day in a row. Mitchell said the downpour, which dropped as much as 5 inches of rain early Wednesday on Ector County, forced some families from their homes, "but most crested in the Midland-Odessa area about noon Wednesday and began receding about three hours later."

A trailer park and a housing addition in the south part of Odessa were heavily flooded and several cars were "buried" by the high water, Mitchell said.

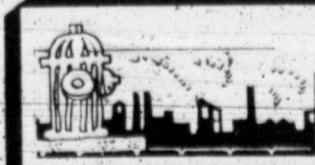

Farmers and ranchers reported some missing livestock, he added.

Many of Odessa's streets were under water for part of Wednesday, but most were opened by late evening as the high water receded.

Mitchell said part of U.S. 385 in Ector County was closed most of the day.

Three residents near the flooded highway had to be rescued Wednesday as the remnants of Tropical Storm Danielle continued to unleash record downpours.

Extensive street flooding was also reported in Midland, but a police department spokesman said most streets were reopened by noon Wednesday.

commentary

donald f. graff

How do you like your economics - heavily laced with politics? Actually, it doesn't much matter because you don't really have any choice with the proliferating economic "revitalization" plans that mark the campaign to date. In each and every one, the nation's economic health may be the subject, but the prescription has been written with politics primarily in mind.

investment tax credits that for some hardpressed enterprises and industries would have the effect of subsidies.

The Reagan plan has the virtue of being simple and offering something - an across-the-board tax cut of immediate benefit for every taxpayer. Some, however, might say the better word for it is simplistic. It is the most narrowly focussed of the three, the most directly inflationary and the least concerned with the economy in the long term. There is, in fact, some question as to whether a Reagan administration come January would be able to maintain enthusiasm for a program that, whatever else it might or might not do, guarantee ballooning budget deficits.

Taking them from the top, we have had since June Ronald Reagan plan for an immediate 10 percent cut in individual taxes, the first of three such annual reductions, plus a boost for business. This last would be primarily through fast tax write-offs for depreciation of plant and equipment. Total cost estimated at $36 billion, heavily weighted toward individual taxpayers.

Then we have a congressional effort, the Senate Finance Committee's $39 billion plan that would apportion benefits somewhat differently - some $22 billion to individuals, $11 billion to business in depreciation and other advantages and a few other odd billions in capital gains tax adjustments and the like.

And now we come to the last entry out of the gate, the Carter administration plan, a somewhat lower-keyed and priced - $27.6 billion - but more comprehensive program. Instead of a direct tax cut, it calls for a credit against rising Social Security taxes to be claimed by both tax-paying employees and employers. Again, business would benefit from more liberal depreciation write-offs. But more important, it would be helped by

As for the Senate committee plan, there's much to be said for many of the provisions - more meaningful write-offs for business than proposed by Reagan, credits designed to stimulate technological research, relief in the "marriage tax" on two-income families and some modest savings incentives. But they add up to less a comprehensive plan than a grab bag of goodies. The Senate effort has the look of the work of officeholders anxious for their political skins - which it largely is.

The administration plan, on the other hand, has the appearance of being the most carefully thought-out and professionally drafted of the three. Goodness knows it ought to be, considering the experience of the nominal author, this being Jimmy Carter's third economic master plan so far this year.

One would never guess that the word "ear" meant "plow" at one time unless he saw it in a quotation where the meaning was unmistakable. Samuel used that word, telling the people what a king would do, since they insisted on having one.

And he will appoint him captains over thousands, and captains over fifties; and will set them to ear his ground, and to reap his harvest, and to make his instruments of war, and instruments of his chariots. - I Sam. 8:12

feds create inflation

That government is the main ingredient in the poison that causes inflation is still questioned by some naive Texans.

Nevertheless, that is the truth, and he learns sadly that no matter who the "in party" is, there are those in it and out of it in government who are exponents of big wasteful, deficit government spending.

Closer to home, let's take the high road in Texas. We learn from the Legislative News of the Texas Association of Taxpayers Inc. that while inflation is impacting all areas of state government, the highway program is being especially hard hit. Read the TAT report: "As a general rule, highway costs increase at about one and one-half times the general inflation rate."

It is Texas Republican Governor Bill Clements who would increase the gasoline tax to create more highway funds.

We suppose that it also would be the thought of a Democratic governor, if he were in office, to propose an increased gasoline tax to help the highways along, or even a state income tax.

One traveling the good roads of Texas today observes that some are in a state of disrepair, some need improvement, and there may be a need, too, in large urban areas for enlargement of the expressway systems.

It is not our intent here to suggest how or what. Our point to make here is how government creates inflation and to give a good example.

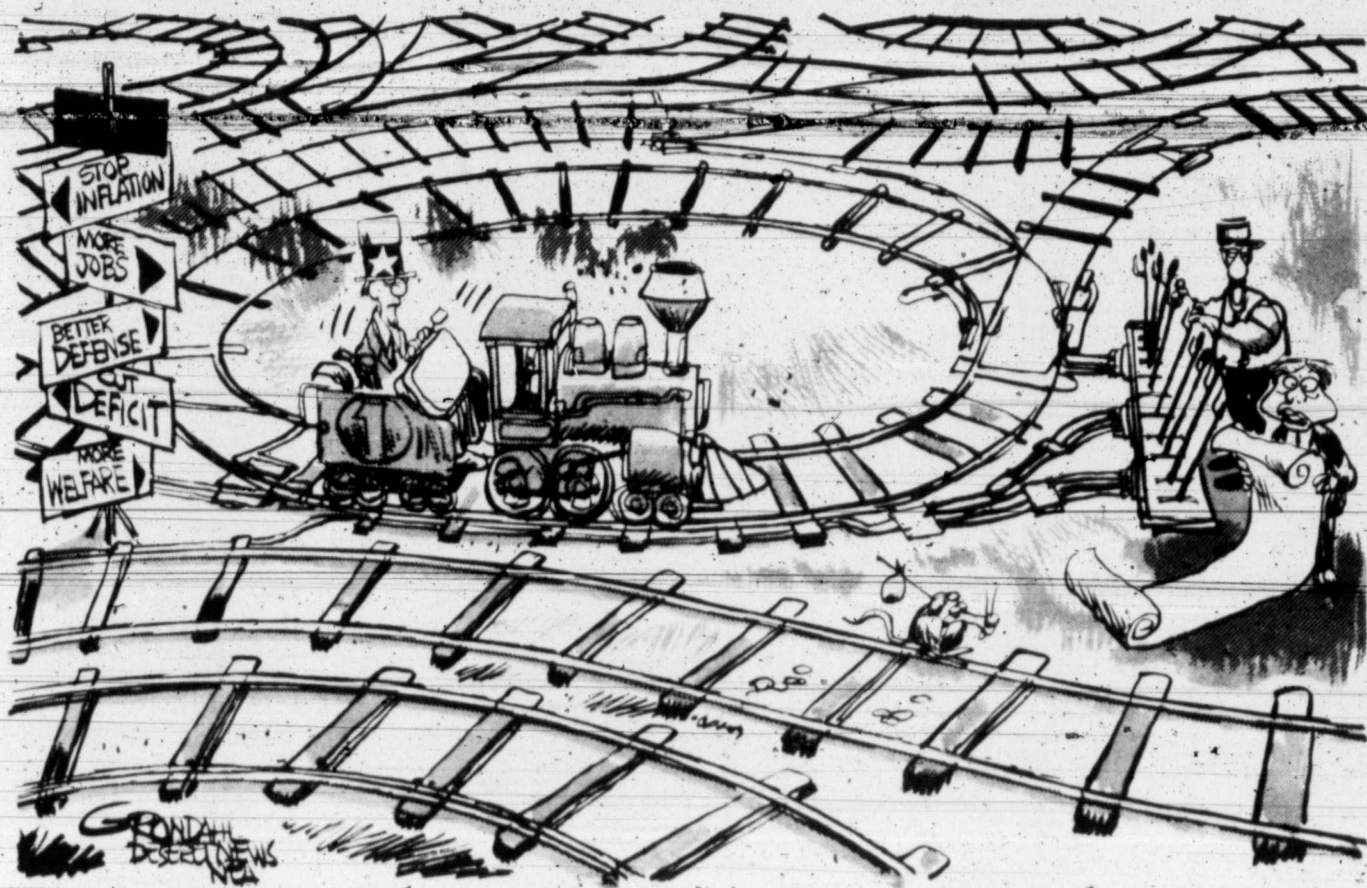

Because the state collects gasoline taxes, vehicle registration fees and automobile sales taxes, which provide funds for building roads, in advance, the system incurs no debt. Traditionally, the State Department of Highways and Public Transportation designs the roads and invites bids from private contractors, awarding the contract to the low bidder.

In the federal highway aid program for states, the bureaucracy takes the money in taxes by force from citizens of the states and returns about 60 cents on the dollar with strings attached.

The strings usually cause delays in construction and other problems, and Texas highway authorities point out this adds about 25 percent to the cost of each project. There are numerous other matters of hocuspocus regulation imposed on the state system, such as truck weight laws, billboard control laws, screening junkyards, the 55-mile-an-hour speed limit, arbitrary EPA clean air standards - and others.

Now the Texas Good Roads-Transportation Association reported recently, "The latest creation of the federal bureaucrats is a system of quotas for minority businesses. Under the new Minority Business Enterprise regulations of the U.S. Department of Transportation, a certain percentage of each highway construction contract is reserved for minority business. Under the DOT scheme, highway construction contracts will not be awarded to the lowest competitive bidder, but to the one who promises to subcontract the most work to minority subcontractors."

Said the Good Roads-Association, "This outrage of bureaucratic stupidity overlooks the fact that the Texas Highway construction industry has done an exemplary job of training and employing minorities. Over half the industry's work force is minorities. Any system which requires the award of contracts to any other than the lowest responsible bidders is definitely not in the public interest."

seduction or rape?

From inflation, you can run but there's no place to run to any more.

For a gallon of gasoline in most European countries you'd have to pay more than $3. In London $3.84.

In London's West End a Big Mac, without fries, is $1.90.

And coffee is $2 and cocktails are $8.

And a decent hotel room is $180 a night.

A head of lettuce in Brussels, Belgium, is $2.

British wages have trebled in seven years, but an annual inflation rate of 21 percent has gobbled up the increase.

However...

Maggie Thatcher's belt-tightening is working.

By curtailing wage increases and curtailing government spending, consumer prices are moderating.

The inflation rate which has been running 21 percent declined to 16.9 percent last month.

However, you must consider increased taxes.

Because their taxes increase on a graduated scale, as ours do, the more you earn the larger percentage you pay.

If you include taxes, Britain's cost of living increased another 1.1 percent.

The only valid pay raise for anybody - there or here - is a tax cut. Again, the only raise in pay that you can spend - requires a tax cut.

If the distinction between "rape" and "seduction" is a matter of "consent" - then you name it.

American taxpayers have recently suffered a 155 percent tax increase - protesting.

What's happened is that the higher wages we sought and got pushed us into higher tax brackets.

We've been had! They promised us cost-of-living pay increases. When the cost of living increased 10 percent our pay was increased 10 percent.

What they remembered and we forgot was that the pay increase pushed us into a higher tax bracket.

A 10 percent increase in a family's annual income raises the family's income tax by 16 percent!

Thus most Americans have more income and less buying power this year than last.

And if you work hard and earn enough more to end up in "the top half" of America's wage earners, look out! The top 50 percent of taxpayers pay 93.6 percent of all taxes.

Further...

When we seek and get more money without producing more, everything we produce has to cost more.

This inflation further cheapens the additional dollars received. And we receive our pay increases in funny-money and end up poorer than before.

There was a young lady from Kent. Who said that she knew what it meant.

When men took her to dine, gave her cocktails and wine.

She knew what it meant - but she went.

going by the numbers

NEW YORK (AP) - To have any understanding of today's economy it is said that you must know your numbers, like the 7.6 percent unemployment rate and the 12 percent prime rate and the 12.6 percent inflation.

You must know your alphabet, too, at least if you are going to have any comprehension of recent economic literature, which is filled with discussions of which letter best describes the recession.

Will it be a "U" or a "V" or an "L" or a "W"? That is, will the economy continue to fall swiftly, stay depressed for a while, and then rise swiftly, as in "U"? Will the rise be sudden, as in "V"? While "U" and "V" are the most common descriptions, the others are drawing a following of late. An "L" recession would mean a decline that would persist. A "W" suggests a "double dip" recession.

Some economists who had risked their reputations on an "L" are now leaning toward the "W," reasoning that while the economy has shown some signs of recovery it will soon dip for the second time this year.

The recovery they foresee is a brief one. They question the accuracy of the job figures, but they are willing to concede that for whatever reason the unemployment rate hasn't shot up as they had forecast.

But they don't see the decline in the jobless rate continuing. They think it will begin climbing soon. They think that any cheering by the Carter administration and others, should cease forthwith.

"The decline in the unemployment rate, which is likely to capture the headlines, was more the result of a drop in the labor force rather than an increase in the number of employed," says Morgan Stanley.

The investment house isn't very impressed either by other economic measures. "Put simply, the underlying buying power to support renewed economic expansion is lacking at present," it is telling clients.

The adherents of "W" aren't impressed by a slight pickup in retail sales or consumer confidence. They aren't impressed by some strength in housing; they say that market will fall on its face again by October.

In fact, they argue that the rise in interest rates for homebuyers as well as businesses is already making its mark on the economy. And that mark, they say, is the mark of "W." It will fall again.

Bad as it is, the "W" offers much more hope than the "L," which describes a depressingly straight line at the bottom of the decline. An "L" economy is one that no longer responds to the usual incentives.

Those who believe in "L" say the economy it describes is inevitable in view of bureaucratic interference and debt-induced inflation, which they say has worn out the nation's will and its productive machinery.

The latest news from the health field is insurance for household pets.

The idea has been tested since 1945 without much success. However, the current issue of Newsweek Magazine reports, two companies in California have recently emerged that are faring better. They are doing so well, in fact, they are thinking of going national.

Their insurance policies are, for the time being, limited to dogs and cats and the policies cover health insurance only. Personally, I hope the two pet insurance companies prosper, I hope they go national and I hope their coverage expands to include life insurance for pets.

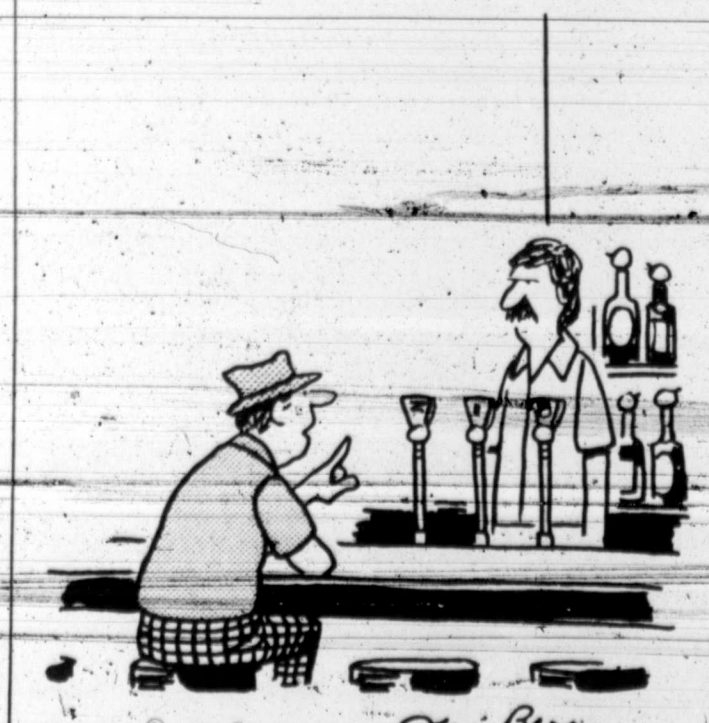

Why do I wish these things? I wish these things would come to pass so I could buy a semi-valuable dog or cat, insure it, and then murder the beast.

Let's face it, no household pet is worth even half the money normally spent on him or a fourth of the attention lavished upon him. Household pets are real pains to be around. Household pets are pampered, they become vain, and, in old age, they develop senility just like people do. An Irish Wolfhound or a French Poodle is, not better than just a common mutt. When you think about it. If people can be murdered so their heirs can benefit from insurance policies, why can't pets be murdered, too. Nothing is beneath me. Not only could I kill a dog or a cat and make it look like an accident, but I could also rent my services out to other people. From there, I could branch out and do dog-nappings and cat-nappings. I can't help but feel the future looks bright for someone with my ingenuity.

By Oswald Jacoby and Alan Sontag

We haven't reported a game at Elsinore Castle for some time. Here we find Hamlet in three notrump after the fair Ophelia raised him from one to two.

Polonius opened the four of hearts. Laertes played the jack and Hamlet might have stopped to "soliloquize something like, 'To duck or not to duck, that is the question. And if I do not duck whether 'tis better with the ace to false-card or with the king to make the simple play. Aye, there's the rub and if all goes well the rubber will be ours and then to bed.'"

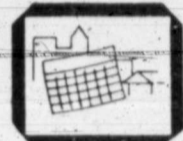

Hamlet knew better than to waste time at this point. He simply won the trick with the king and went after clubs.

Laertes got in with the ace and after considerable thought led the nine of hearts.

Hamlet, no longer the melancholy Dane, rattled off four notrump. He might well have made five, but Laertes hung on to all his diamonds.

A poorer player than Hamlet would have won the first heart trick with the ace. In that case when Laertes got in with the club he would have known where the king of hearts was located and would probably have shifted to a spade to defeat the contract.

Museum Dedication Was A Happy Occasion Here

The dedication ceremonies held for the Scurry County Museum building in 1976, the county's Centennial, were a happy occasion for members of the Museum Association who had worked and planned for the facility.

The Museum Association was formed in 1970, largely through the efforts of the Scurry County Historical Commission. The Commission is made up of local residents appointed by the county judge as part of a statewide effort to preserve Texas heritage. Historical Commissions are prohibited from owning or operating museums; however, so it is necessary that interested persons within a community form separate organizations to assume the responsibilities of such projects.

The local Museum Association is currently conducting a membership drive, and invites all community residents interested in preserving county heritage to become members. A buffet dinner on Sept. 27 will mark the end of the drive, but membership is open the year around and dues may be paid at any time. Gary Terrell is chairman of the membership campaign.

The association is expanding its activities program this year and is opening many of the events to everyone as a public service. Activities will include a series of brown bag luncheon programs, a John Wayne film series, and a trip to the Kimball Museum of Art in Fort Worth in January to see the Chinese Bronze Exhibit.

Serving as officers of the association this year are Guy Sullivan, president; R.C. Patton, vice president; Ramona Reed, treasurer, and Nelda Bills, secretary.

The next major attraction in the museum will be the Ben Konis art exhibit opening Sept. 28 and continuing through Oct. 26. Association members will preview the show at the Sept. 27 buffet. Donna Holt is coordinating the dinner, the opening of the show and the workshop Konis is planning Sept. 29-Oct. 1. Persons interested in enrolling for the workshop may send registration fees of $60 to the museum office at Post Office Box 696.

Persons who would like to become Museum Association members may mail dues checks to the museum office, or pay dues while visiting the museum. Information may be obtained by calling the office at 573-6107.

Emperor Rudolph II of the Holy Roman Empire died in 1612, after a reign of 36 years. Before his death, the emperor suffered intermittently from attacks of insanity and was forced to flee the kingdoms of Hungary and Bohemia, delegating his imperial power to his brother, Matthias. Rudolph was one of the great patrons of his age and collected many great European works of art. He also supported the research of Tycho Brahe and Johannes Kepler, two distinguished astronomers.

Dear Abby

A Tisket, a Tasket A Pink and Yellow Casket...

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1980 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: REPULSED IN COLORADO SPRINGS was appalled at the surprise party her sister-in-law had planned for her father-in-law's 50th birthday. It was to be a fake "wake," to symbolize the death of his youth. She had rented a coffin, and the house was to be transformed into a "funeral parlor." REPULSED failed to see the humor of it, and you agreed with her.

Well, here's one 54-year-old crazy lady who is having the time of her life renting out real caskets to fun-loving folks who want to give unusual parties. Our caskets come in buttercup yellow, passionate pink and luscious lavender — and we deliver them in a powder blue Cadillac hearse, which we also rent out. (On Halloween, our phone rings off the hook!)

I am also an ordained minister, and as such I married a couple in a double-casket ceremony. How's that for burying their single-blessedness?

It's a shame so many folks have morbid hangups about death and dying. Once they've been to a casket party and have had a few beers while actually sitting in a casket, their fears are greatly diminished.

In case you think I'm putting you on, you can easily check this out. I've been written up in the local press, appeared on local talk shows, and I've also been on "Real People." I'm a minor celebrity around Alamitos, Calif. They call me... CASSANDRA, THE CASKET QUEEN

DEAR CASSANDRA: Well, now I've heard everything! And if you think this is the kookiest career I've ever encountered, you're dead right.

DEAR ABBY: In response to the person complaining about mowing the lawn so early in the morning: Here in Washington County, Ore., we have to mow early while the dew is still on the grass to keep down the ash dust from Mt. St. Helens.

TODD IN CORNELIUS

DEAR TODD: Considering what you folks have had to contend with, a little lawn mower noise at any hour would sound like the "Moonlight Sonata."

DEAR ABBY: My husband's sister, a twice-married, twice-divorced 47-year-old grandmother, is the problem. She's been living with her 36-year-old "boyfriend," whom she plans to marry as soon as his divorce is final.

Abby, this prospective "bride" wants her brother (my husband) to give her away when she gets married for the third time. And that's not all — she wants my husband to foot the bill for a big church wedding and reception! She says it is his "duty" to do this for her because their father is dead.

I thought at first she was kidding, but it turns out that she is dead serious, so my husband asked me to write to you and find out if he is obligated to do this.

For years this wacky sister has used my husband to get her out of the crazy messes she's gotten herself into, and now this ridiculous request.

Does he have to give her away and pay for her wedding? I hope you say he doesn't.

BURNED UP IN BOSTON

DEAR BURNED: He doesn't.

Do you have questions about sex, love, drugs and the pain of growing up? Get Abby's new booklet: "What Every Teen-ager Ought to Know." Send $2 and a long, stamped (28 cents), self-addressed envelope to: Abby, Teen Booklet, 132 Lasky Drive, Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212.

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Epilepsy is a symptom

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — When I was 12 I started having convulsions and had grand mal seizures. At that time I took all the tests needed to show epilepsy. Nothing was found to confirm it. Because money wasn't available I discontinued my medicines.

I had no trouble until I was 20 and two children later. Now I'm pronounced to be an epileptic again. At 22 I had a gallbladder operation, six months later my uterus was removed. Now I've been doctoring for epilepsy since I was 20. I have taken all the tests over again and the only conclusive thing is the right side of my brain is darker through an EEG test.

"Could all of these things I've been through have made my epilepsy return? Is it possible for my epilepsy to disappear as it did when I was a child? The doctor says I now have grand mal, petit mal, focal mal and motor mal.

DEAR READER — We still refer to epilepsy as a disease, but in truth it's really a symptom. The convulsion is the symptom or sign of an electrical disturbance in the brain.

Such an electrical disturbance can be caused by any brain injury. That's why a number of people develop epileptic convulsions after having head injuries from automobile accidents. Some people are born with some variation in the electrical mechanism in the brain which makes them susceptible to having convulsions. And in many such instances there is never any underlying defect found. We don't know why these people have minor differences in electrical discharge.

People may also have convulsions because they have inadequate circulation to the brain. We see this sometimes in older people who have heart block causing poor circulation to the brain. These convulsions can be corrected by providing a cardiac pacemaker.

I'm sending you The Health Letter number 10-8, Epilepsy: You Can Have It Too, which explains the nature of this disease and some of the different things which can cause it. Other readers who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Send your request to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

Petit mal just means "little sickness" and these are the short attacks where it looks like the person has simply lost his span of attention. People tend to outgrow these as they get older.

Grand mal refers to "great sickness" and is associated with the convulsions that you were describing.

It's important for you and, for that matter, everyone to realize that in between an epileptic attack the typical epileptic is just like any other person. He can be super intelligent. Some have been military geniuses such as Julius Caesar and Alexander the Great. Even Socrates was said to have been an epileptic.

It's true that a person who has epileptic convulsions may have them disappear for a period of time and then return.

Today almost all epileptic convulsions can be controlled by various medicines. Now this isn't always accomplished immediately. Not infrequently the doctor has to use different medicines and a period of trial and error to find the best combination that works for each specific patient.

Florida's manatee, or sea cow, is one of the four species of the order Sirenia that survive in small numbers in the shallow marine waters and rivers of the tropics. A fifth species, Steller's sea cow, roamed the frigid Bering Sea until hunters exterminated it around 1769, less than 30 years after it had first been reported.

By KRISTIN GAZLAY, Associated Press Writer. Students are flocking to Texas college and university campuses in higher numbers this fall and registrars credit lower attrition, stepped-up recruiting, transfers and the increased value of a diploma in a sagging economy for the influx.

"We had significant increase in the number of transfers and freshmen, an improved rate of retention and a large number of students returning to school," said a Texas Christian University spokesman in Fort Worth. "It's going to astound people who said the decreased birth rate was going to affect colleges and universities."

The enrollment figures, gathered in a random survey Wednesday, are preliminary.

Texas A&M, at College Station, increased enrollment by about seven percent, bringing its total number of students to approximately 35,500. Women now number about 12,000 or one third of the student population.

"We've been growing quite a bit since the late 1960s," a spokesman in the registrar's office said, "and we just keep growing. In 1970, we had 14,000 students - it's up 139 percent since then."

TCU reported a healthy gain of about 5.9 percent in overall enrollment. There is an eight percent increase in undergraduate students, the highest for a fall semester since 1973, despite a seven percent tuition increase.

University of Houston credited students returning to school and transfers for their five percent increase.

"Being an urban campus, we have very few of the folks who come here on a four-year stint. We have a lot of people who drop in and out over a period of time," a Houston official said. "And we may have 2,000 freshmen every fall, but we get at least 5,000 transfer students."

The University of Texas at Austin and Stephen F. Austin in Nacogdoches each experienced a 4.5 enrollment hike. Officials at UT attributed the rise to its position as "the biggest and best school in the Southwest" and SFA officials breathed a collective sign of relief that their declining enrollment had begun to correct itself.

Austin College in Sherman and Southern Methodist University in Dallas each gained 1.4 percent, which brought SMU over the 9,000 enrollment mark for the first time since 1976.

Two Killed In Auto Accident

AMARILLO (AP) — Two oilfield workers died late Wednesday in a one-vehicle accident just south of this Texas Panhandle city. Officers identified them as William C. Osburn, 26, of Lovington, N.M., and Johnny Wayne Walker, 23, of Lubbock.

Officers said a vehicle occupied by the two men left Farm Road 1541 just south of Amarillo, struck a guard rail and overturned.

Bishop College, a small predominantly black college in Dallas, suffered the biggest decrease in enrollment, about 9 percent. University spokesman blamed the drop on a small increase in fees and the adverse publicity it received last year when some college officials were indicted.

Stewart In Hospital Again

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP) — Actor James Stewart is back in the hospital for the second time in a month, this time with mild sciatica, a painful nerve disorder.

Stewart, 72, admitted to St. John's Hospital on Tuesday, spent five days in the facility's coronary care unit last month after Texas Tech in Lubbock was the only other university polled that had smaller enrollment, but only about one percent.

"We are in a rather stable enrollment pattern now," a spokesman said. "There are just more junior colleges close to home all over the state. With the economy, it's a lot cheaper to stay home for the first two years of college."

complaining of an irregular pulse.

Hospital spokeswoman Sandy Gimpelson said Stewart's sciatica was apparently unrelated to his earlier heart problem.

Charles de Gaulle, president of France, announced his resignation in 1946.

Aerobic Exercise Discussion Slated

Aerobic Exercise - what is it and how can you initiate a personal program safely and beneficially?

Lee Burke will discuss Aerobics in a luncheon program scheduled at noon Monday in the Scurry County Museum. Anyone who would like to attend is invited to bring a brown bag lunch and join the group at 12:10. The museum will furnish iced tea and coffee for the diners. The museum will also pick up a lunch for people who cannot bring their own. Orders need to be called to the museum office at 573-6107 by 11 a.m. and paid for upon receipt.

Burke is assistant profesor of physical education at WTC.

"All of us have the ability to lead a healthier, and as a result, happier life simply by listening to and understanding our bodies," Burke says.

"Aerobics can help us do that. Statistically, there are certain things that contribute to an early death in our society - primarily coronary heart disease. A program in Aerobics can show how to minimize those risks and improve our chances for a much happier and fuller life."

A series of brown bag luncheons is planned in the museum through the fall. The second in the series will be on Oct. 6 when Dr. Ben Brock, vice-president of WTC, will discuss Handwriting Analysis. On Nov. 10, Star Shelton will speak on the History of Weaving. Sue Travis will speak on Christmas Floral Arrangements on Dec. 1.

There is no charge for admission to the brown bag programs, Sharon Sutton, museum director, stresses, and everyone is welcome to attend.

ASTRO-GRAPH

Bernice Bede Osol

Your Birthday

Sept. 12, 1980

Many views, opinions and attitudes to which you previously adhered strongly will be altered in the coming year. Your new outlook will be far more productive and positive.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Protect your self-interests today, but be wary of deceiving yourself into believing you're entitled to more than you really are. Face the facts realistically. Find out more of what lies ahead for you in the year following your birthday by sending for your copy of Astro-Graph, Mail $1 for each to Astro-Graph, Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify birth date.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Because you're a bit too trusting of others today, you are vulnerable when dealing with deceptive individuals. Do business only with those you know to be trustworthy.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Outside interests or activities could cost you more today than you had budgeted for them. If you go overboard you'll have only yourself to blame.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) It's very easy for you to get off-track today - where important goals are concerned. Unless you want something badly enough, your chances are a trifle slim.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Underplay your recent accomplishments, or you may give one who is jealous of you grist for the mill. This is not a good day to pat yourself on the back.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) There's a possibility you may not accomplish everything you hope to do today because of indecisiveness. Any decision is better than none at all.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Be very explicit and detailed in giving instructions to anyone performing work or services for you today. They may not comprehend your desires.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Your work will suffer today if you attempt to do tasks for which you have little or no enthusiasm. Shelve such projects until you're more inspired.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Be sincere when dealing with friends in social situations today. Flattery will put their guard up and make them back off, where honest comments won't.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Serious matters should not be treated frivolously today, or they may create problems for you at a later date. Responsible behavior is a must.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Avoid the company of one today whose presence tends to make you feel a bit uncomfortable. Select only chums with whom you are totally at ease.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Careless management of your resources today could result in an unnecessary loss. Don't take gambles. Keep an eye on your possessions.

In Presidential Campaign...

Lots Of Energy Expended On Issue Of Energy

By The Associated Press
 Much energy was expended on energy, along with a not inconsiderable amount on presidential debates and on the aircraft that - with Russian radar as the expected enemy - wasn't even there.

So went the presidential campaign Wednesday; Republican nominee Ronald Reagan charged the Carter administration was "discouraging" energy development; President Carter countercharged that Reagan development; President Carter countercharged that Reagan was talking "without checking the facts"; and Reagan countercharged that if Carter had any complaints he really ought to show up and debate in Baltimore on Sept. 21.

The specifics went like this:
 ENERGY: Reagan accused Carter of misleading the public by claiming he has reversed the country's dependence on foreign oil.

"We have more than enough energy resources to meet our needs until the fuels of the future, such as solar power, fusion, hydrogen, tar sands and ocean thermal energy conversion, are developed," he said.

But the Republican presidential nominee drew some questionable conclusions from the same data

Mountain Lion Hit By Truck

SAN ANTONIO (AP)—A truck struck and killed a 250-pound mountain lion on Interstate 10 and deputies say sheep maulings around nearby Boerne may end now.

"Well, I think that solves the mystery of what killed all that livestock near Boerne," Bexar County Deputy Sheriff Clarence Dixon said.

A truck struck and killed the cat about 10 p.m. Wednesday while a search was under way for the animal seen earlier near a truck stop at Fredericksburg Road and Interstate 10.

Dixon and a traveler from Mason, farmer Clifford Sherwood, 67, who spotted the lion earlier, were at the truck stop when another motorist reported the animal was lying dead farther up the highway.

"I was driving east on Interstate 10 toward San Antonio when this mountain lion just ran right in front of me," Sherwood said. "Yes sir, it was a big cat all right."

Court Hears Guilty Plea

A guilt plea was entered Wednesday in 132nd District Court by Arthur Edward Puente of Abilene to a charge of credit card abuse.

The incident that sparked the charge, the illegal purchase of gasoline with a credit card not authorized to Puente, occurred July 24. Puente was levied a two-year probation and fined $500.

Vandalism At Ira Under Probe

The sheriff's department is investigating a criminal mischief incident in Ira. The incident resulted in a truck at Hank's Oilfield Service being shot five times with a .22-caliber weapon.

The incident occurred Tuesday evening.

he said Carter was using. For example, he said that "crude oil production in the continental United States has declined 11 percent" since 1976. By using "continental" instead of "domestic" production, Reagan left out the vast production in Alaska. According to the figures Reagan cited, but including Alaska, the average daily domestic production in 1980 was 8,689,000 barrels. In 1976, it was 8,132,000 barrels.

DEBATE: The League of Women Voters offered compromises to get Carter into a three-way debate and the Carter forces also offered a new plan. The parties couldn't agree, however, meaning the Sept. 21 debate in Baltimore will be just between Reagan and Anderson.

The league offered a round-robin series of two-man debates with pairings drawn by lot or a multi-candidate debate, followed by a Carter-Reagan contest, followed by some kind of debate between vice presidential candidates.

Carter continued to refuse to appear in a first debate including Anderson, and his representative, Tim Smith, rejected the second plan, saying it could result in Carter debating Anderson before getting to Reagan.

STEALTH: Retired Air Force Lt. Gen Brent Scowcroft, a national security adviser under President Gerald R. Ford, and Retired Adm. Elmo Zumwalt, a former chief of naval operations charged the Carter administration had disclosed the existence of the Stealth program simply for political advantage.

Scowcroft contended the disclosure gave the Soviet Union a major intelligence break. Zumwalt said that based on unnamed White House and Pentagon con-facts "there appears to be no doubt" that Carter personally authorized the disclosures to defuse political criticism of his defense policies.
