Volcano Pops Its Top 2nd Time In 12 Hours

VANCOUVER, Wash. (AP) — Mount St. Helens blasted a giant, mushroom-shaped black cloud of steam and ash nearly 50,000 feet into the air today in the volcano's second major eruption in 12 hours, authorities said.

Volcanic gas and rock debris — known as a pyroclastic flow — was reported traveling three miles down the mountain's north flank toward the unpopulated area of Spirit Lake following the latest eruption at 11:28 a.m., said Don Peterson, a U.S. Geological Survey geologist.

Light winds blew ash from the top of the eruptive column to the east while the lower portions of the cloud were blowing to the south and southwest, Peterson said.

Pyroclastic flows devastated large areas of the mountain in the catastrophic May 18 eruption. The flows also were reported in an eruption June 12. The volcano staged its sixth major eruption Thursday night and blasted its seventh giant ash cloud in bright sunshine today.

Thursday night's eruption dusted southwest Washington and northern Oregon with a light coat of ash.

Peterson said today's eruption was roughly on the scale of Thursday night's eruption, but was lasting longer.

A seismograph needle at the University of Washington "was running back and forth madly" at the time of today's eruption, said Christina Boyko, spokeswoman for the UW geophysics program.

Flashes of lightning flickered inside the black cloud as ash began falling on the south slopes of the mountain today.

The restless mountain gave just three hours warning Thursday night before its first night eruption sent "a very black cloud" of steam and ash more than 40,000 feet into the air, according to Jim Unterwiesner, a U.S. Forest Service spokesman.

There were no reports of injury or damage. The volcano killed 34 people on May 18 and left another 28 missing and presumed dead.

The mountain was quiet overnight but a steam plume rose about 600 feet above the volcano's crater at about 10 a.m., authorities said.

Q—When is the city going to begin developing the new park along Deep Creek?

A—Paper work for transferring title of the land to the city by the Line family is being done now, and the city staff is working on preliminary proposals for development of the park. City Manager John Gayle says they hope to be ready to begin some actual work soon after the first of the year.

Homecoming Activity Begins At Snyder High

The drama department's float took first place in the Thursday parade to launch homecoming activities at Snyder High School. The big splurge of activity today was to begin at 2:05 p.m. with a pep rally in the SHS gym and continue with the homecoming football game tonight and various post-game activities.

The parade, acclaimed by many observers as the best ever held here for such a function, assembled on the Varsity Square parking area and proceeded north of College Ave. to the courthouse square.

After the procession made its way around the square, a big pep rally was held on the west side of the courthouse.

As winner of the parade float contest, the SHS drama department received a prize of $50.

Placing second in the float judging was the Fellowship of Christian Athletes, and third was the Senior Citizens Float.

The second prize was $25 and the third prize was $15.

Prizes also were awarded top bicycle entries and a number of youngsters rode their bicycles in the parade.

Taking first place in that division was Jason Limmer.

Paula Beuerlein was second and Michelle Dervoem was third.

The SHS Tigers and the Pecos Eagles are scheduled to square off at 8 p.m. in Tiger Stadium for their football game.

Following the game, there will be receptions in the SHS library for all ex-students. Various organizations will welcome ex-students at this time.

The homecoming dance will be held in the SHS student center. The admission price for the dance will be $1.50 per person and tickets will be available at the door.

The Band Parents Club is sponsoring a pre-game turkey dinner in the SHS cafeteria, with serving to begin at 5 p.m.

Search For Bodies Begins

ATLANTA (AP) — As volunteers prepared to search for the bodies of five missing children, the mother of one of nine children found dead here asked the city to call off Halloween.

"I think that anybody that lets their child out to trick or treat this year ought to be prosecuted under the law for criminal neglect," said Camille Bell. Her son Yusuf, 9, was found strangled in an abandoned school building a year ago.

"We've got the crazies who are going to be excited by what's going on and try something," Mrs. Bell said Thursday.

She planned to join the searches that the United Youth Adult Conference has organized for the next few Saturdays in areas where bodies have been found over the past 15 months.

The children, all from poor, black families, were found in Atlanta or adjacent East Point. They were beaten, strangled or shot, and police say they have yet to find a pattern in the slayings.

High School Band Poisoned

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — Twenty-two high school band members playing at a football game became ill after drinking soda pop that may have been deliberately poisoned, authorities said.

All were reported in stable condition in hospitals today, and doctors said none appeared to be in serious danger.

Jefferson County's health officer said his agency would begin an immediate investigation. Dr. William Roper, who said he first heard of the incident at 6 a.m. when a reporter called him, said the department had several people who investigate such things.

Fourteen students were admitted Thursday night at East End Hospital with severe abdominal pains, cramps, coughing, nausea and vomiting, said Dr. Robert Carlson, the director of emergency services there.

Is Recession Over?...

Economy Up 1 Percent

WASHINGTON (AP) — In a report that could signal an end to the 1980 recession, the Commerce Department said today that the U.S. economy grew by 1 percent in the third quarter due chiefly to a sharp rebound in personal spending. A preliminary report showed the inflation-adjusted value of all goods and services — the real gross national product — rose by $3.5 billion during the July-September period to an annual rate of $1.41 trillion.

Before adjusting for inflation, GNP rose 10.2 percent during the quarter, to $2.58 trillion.

The third-quarter performance contrasted with the record 9.6 percent decline in real GNP in the second quarter. The Commerce Department said the turnaround was caused by a 3.7 percent, or $91 billion, increase in final sales after a 10.2 percent decline during the previous three months.

Personal spending, which had fallen $2.9 billion in the second quarter, rose $55.2 billion in the third. A key factor in that increase was higher automobile sales, which raised the purchase of durable goods by $24.5 billion in the third quarter after a decline in the second.

After-tax personal income rose $51.6 billion during the quarter and spending was up $54.7 billion. Savings as a portion of personal income dropped from 4.9 percent in the second quarter to 4.6 percent in the third.

Business investment rose $3.2 billion in the third quarter after a $4.4 billion plunge in the second three months of the

Iraq Claims 256 Die, 35 Captured

BASRA, Iraq (AP) — Iranian warplanes attacked northern Iraq today and Iranian commandos were reported battling Iraqi troops hand-to-hand in the besieged Iranian city of Khorramshahr. Iraq claimed 256 Iranian soldiers killed on its 300-mile invasion front in the last 12 hours.

Iraq also offered to cease fire on its terms, but Iran's prime minister rejected the idea and prepared to address the U.N. Security Council this afternoon on "Iraq's aggression."

The Iraqi command said Iranian jets attacked the Kurdish towns of Suleimanieh and Penjaw in northern Iraq, killing four civilians and wounding four. It said one Iranian jet was shot down in the southern sector of the war front near the Abadan-Khorramshahr area. The command said in addition to the 256 Iranian soldiers killed, 35 were taken prisoner in 12 hours of fighting Thursday night and early today along Iraq's invasion front in western and southwestern Iran. It said Iraqi forces suffered 18 killed.

The Iranian command said its forces killed 100 Iraqi soldiers in the central and northern sectors of the invasion line, and that hand-to-hand fighting raged in Khorramshahr at the southern end of the front on the Shatt al-Arab estuary.

Iran's official Pars news agency said "the invading infidels have not succeeded in taking over the city of Khorramshahr" and that they suffered heavy casualties in street fighting against naval commandos and townspeople. A number of Iranians have been killed, Pars added, without giving figures.

Keeping tab on our neighbors:

Noting that one of the reasons cited by the head of the Texas State Teachers Association for endorsing Jimmy Carter for reelection was that Carter had worked for higher federal aid to education, James Roberts of the Andrews County News suggests that if money channeled into the education system was a consideration in the decision, TSTA should have investigated further.

"If TSTA will vote for whoever provides them the most money, then they should be endorsing the chairman of the board of Exxon company for president," says Roberts.

Texas raises about six billion each year in taxes of one kind or another. The largest amount comes from the state sales tax which yields a little over two billion—passed, you remember, in order to grant teachers a pay raise.

"The next largest amount comes from a severance or production tax on crude oil and natural gas, and oil and gas well servicing, all of which kicked well over a billion dollars into the state's treasury.

Cigarette taxes, gasoline taxes, and motor vehicle taxes together yield another billion plus.

"Education in the state takes the lion's share of the budget with $3.6 billion going to education in general and $2.6 billion targeted for the public schools in Texas. Another $330 million is spent for teacher retirement. In addition the oil and gas industry in the state kicks in another $267 million to the permanent school fund and another $96 million into the permanent university fund.

"So, teachers in the state do all right from the oil and gas industry and from the state sales tax—about $3 billion worth of 'all right.'"

"...And for the record, how much money did Washington take from Texas citizens last year, even before the windfall profits tax? $25 billion!"

Andrea Cohen of the Big Spring Herald says there is something to be said for political film.

"You read that right," she declares.

"I just love them."

"Where else can you see Jimmy Carter, making tough decisions late at night, all alone in the Oval Office? Where else can you find out that Ronald Reagan was California's greatest tax reformist while he was governor? Where else can you find out there is a Libertarian candidate running for president that you have never seen the network news cover?"

"Where else can you find out how 'great' people like John Kennedy, Old Richard Nixon, New Richard Nixon, Barry Goldwater, Hubert Humphrey, George McGovern, Jerry Ford, Jimmy Carter and Ronald Reagan are?"

TACOMA, Wash. (NEA)—A stark photograph of Sen. Warren G. Magnuson, D-Wash., flashes across the television screen while an unseen announcer intones, "When Maggie went to Congress 44 years ago, Franklin D. Roosevelt was president."

stress Magnuson's longevity. And, in candid moments, his advisers refer enthusiastically to the Javits precedent.

For Magnuson, "it's time to hang it up," says one Gorton campaign aide. That's a decision for the voters to make, but few would disagree with the analysis offered by a neutral political observer: "Nothing can beat Maggie except his age."

And another: "After 44 years in Washington, D.C., Warren Magnuson has become part of the problem rather than part of the solution."

The television spots are far more subtle than the blunt commercials used to defeat Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., in a primary election earlier this year, but the message is the same: The senator is too old for the job.

In a contest obscured by high-visibility races in other states where incumbent liberals are pitted against conservative challengers, the man who has served in the Senate longer than any other current member is fighting for his political life.

The election has national significance because Magnuson is no ordinary senator. His seniority makes him president pro tempore of the Senate, a generally honorary title but one that ranks him third in the line of the succession to the presidency, behind only the vice president and speaker of the House.

Magnuson also is chairman of the Senate Appropriations Committee, a position that carries considerable political clout because that panel and its House counterpart must approve the annual budget of every federal department and agency.

An awesome display of that power was offered to this state's voters this year after the eruption of Mount St. Helens in southwestern Washington. Magnuson personally took charge of assembling a $951-million federal-aid package for the volcano's victims, then pushed it through both houses of Congress and onto the president's desk in the breathing time of only two weeks.

That's just the most recent accomplishment in a distinguished legislative career that dates back to 1936, when Magnuson was elected to the first of four terms in the House. He moved up to the Senate in 1944 and now is serving his sixth consecutive term in that chamber.

As chairman of the Senate Commerce Committee for 26 years, Magnuson was the principal architect of much of the consumer legislation approved by Congress in the 1960s and 1970s.

But Magnuson is 75 years old, and a series of injuries that make walking a slow, painful process for him gives observers the impression of infirmity. His first test at the polls this year came in mid-September, when Washington conducted its unusual "open primary" in which all candidates, regardless of party, are listed on a single ballot.

When those ballots were counted, Magnuson had received only slightly more than 37 percent of all votes cast.

Political observers here generally agree that the amazingly poor showing was at least partially attributable to Magnuson supporters, who assumed he was safe and decided to participate in a heated contest for the Republican nomination.

In that race, Slade Gorton, a 52-year-old progressive who has been the state's attorney general since 1968, defeated Lloyd E. Cooney, a conservative television commentator.

Gorton is an effective, articulate, energetic and attractive candidate—but those attributes are almost irrelevant because the election undoubtedly will be a plebiscite on Magnuson in general and his age in particular.

Gorton is hardly oblivious to the political situation. It is his television commercials that

One Notice Of Violation

DALLAS (AP) — The Nuclear Regulatory Commission issued one notice of violation to the Comanche Peak Nuclear Plant and approved five other areas inspected, the Texas Utilities Generating Company announced Wednesday.

The NRC issued the violation for failure to report a number of undersized welds discovered last spring through the plant's quality control officials said.

The plant is correcting the welds, the NRC inspector reported.

Newsweek has noted that some of the most powerful legislators in Washington are facing especially tough reelection campaigns this year. Noting that the old pattern of congressmen becoming more and more "safe" as they accumulate seniority and power in Washington seems to have been shattered, the magazine detailed the problems of Al Ullman, chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, Tom Foley, chairman of the House Agriculture Committee, Majority Leader Jim Wright, Majority Whip John Brademas and veteran liberal Morris Udall, keynote speaker at the Democratic convention.

Some may think these top Democrats are in trouble because the Republicans this year are especially well organized and ready to capitalize on voter dissatisfaction. We'd like to think the dissatisfaction goes deeper than that, reflecting more fundamental questioning of the political system. Newsweek quotes a worried and unidentified Capitol Hill staffer as saying, "It almost seems as-if being respected here is a negative back home." If so, that may be a healthy sign about the skepticism of most Americans.

Some observers detect a "conservative" tendency among the public at large. We're not so sure. We think there's a growing understanding that government is more adept at institutionalizing and creating problems than solving them. The short-term beneficiaries of this attitude may be the Republicans, since they are the most readily available alternative. But if the skepticism goes as deep as we suspect it does, people generally don't expect salvation from changing the names of the political players.

The fact that politicians who are highly respected in Washington are in trouble with the folks back home may mean that a basic change in people's perception of what government ought to be doing is in the wind. A consensus may be developing that government should be doing less, meddling less, taxing less and interfering less. The system of elections, patronage influence, which invests inordinate power in the relatively small special interests that benefit from government activity makes it hard to turn the tide around. Some people, frustrated and discouraged, simply may vote to "throw the rascals out." Others choose not to participate in voting, and their decisions carry weight as well.

It is important to recognize that the problems these powerful incumbents face may well go beyond partisanship or discontent with their personal characteristics. If the people really are discontent, they will find other ways besides voting against incumbents to let their feelings be known and to reach out to others of similar opinions. When this process of education, communication and action is recognized and encouraged, we may have some of the more fundamental changes in the character of government for which we think most people are ready.

I've been what you might call "dressed for success." I'm the type that when wigs were in, I couldn't stand the deception. I'd walk into a restroom of strangers and say to the women who held the door for me, "Thanks. I'm wearing a wig, you know."

I used to fantasize about entering a room in a smart black skirt with a slit to my knee and dark-rimmed glasses to disguise my violet eyes and play down my sensuous mouth. As a pathetically enamored man would stare at my long legs entwined around one another, I would snap, "What are you staring at? We have a bridge to build." And he would stammer, "You have a puckered heel on the top of your foot. I think you have your fuse on backwards."

I'd wake up in a sweat. I used to sit in airports and study the people who were dressed for the top of the corporate ladder, and you know what I discovered? The men and women who, when they talked, E.F. Hutton listened, all carried attaché cases.

No wonder no one took me seriously. My business cards smelled like hair spray. My speeches had splashes all over them from felt-tip pens. My boarding pass always had a piece of discarded gum folded over the corner.

I took my first attaché case to Washington last week and I looked like a winner. The man sitting next to me and I both had our attaché cases returned when we were airborne and opened them at the same time. Out of the corner of my eyes, I surveyed his. It was as neat as the cupboards of a model home. Two manila folders, one marked "CONFIDENTIAL," pens, airline ticket, legal scratch tablet, paper clips, rubber bands, stamps, calculator, price cost notebook, clean shirt neatly folded, socks, change of underwear, toiletries bag, and a copy of Forbes. I opened my attaché case. Three candy bars, five curlers, a pen without a cap, a bread dough brooch, two unmailed letters, stack of notebook paper, a trashy novel that could only be read with the cover folded back, a sandwich bag containing Christmas cutouts that you stuff with cotton and sew the opening shut for ornaments.

When I left the plane I inadvertently left my attaché case. The man said to me, "Better be careful. Someone will steal it."

I figured it would be like stealing Betty Midler's luggage. It would serve them right. COPYRIGHT 1980 FIELD ENTERPRISES, INC.

The actors are back at work.

Yippee. I haven't been so excited since I found out toothpaste stops cavities in chalk.

Actually, I was beginning to like the reruns. After seeing the same show four times I knew not to get my hopes up.

My feelings about the strike were ambivalent. I agreed with the actors about getting residuals for their shows but I also wanted to see what would happen if the producers refused to give in. Would they have eventually fired the whole bunch, like Dallas did the striking bus drivers?

I can see the want ads now:

WANTED—Goofy, sex-crazed Vietnam vet to share leading role with a monkey named Bear. No experience needed but must have commercial license.

WANTED: A man secure enough in his masculinity to drive around Las Vegas in a cute, little red T-Bird convertible that's just marvy. Must be willing to have ongoing relationship with an oversized, protective Indian, a half wit, and a washed up chorus girl that thinks she's your mother. Also, a chance to meet Tony Curtis in person.

ATTENTION CYCLE ENTHUSIASTS—Ride the Freeways of LA on your machines while our cameramen film you from every possible angle. Meet lots of girls. Will occasionally be run down by belligerent truck drivers and out of control cars. May occasionally be asked to slide cycle under parked cars while doing sixty. Slow healers need not apply.

NEVER FINISHED HIGH SCHOOL? Then you may be just what we are looking for. Must be able to jump things with car and go "Whoopee" every five minutes. Must firmly believe that all country cops are corrupt dolts even dumber than you are. No acting ability necessary.

Low pay but work is steady.

COACH NEEDED: If you are blond and well over 6 feet tall and don't mind defending a group of young hoodlums with the morals of an alley cat, then star in this family show that illustrates what a misunderstood lot deprived, incincerity thugs really are. (Not responsible in case of theft or accident.)

TOP SPOT FOR DWARF: Live on tropical isle in luxury. Only work entails goggling luscious girls that also inhabit island and playing the idiot for a man whose passions are white suits and manipulating other people's lives.

POSITION FOR PHYSICIAN: Need doctor of the near-genius category to travel about doing odd jobs. We'll train you to swell up and turn green. Must enjoy hurting people you perceive to have wronged you.

LAST CHANCE: This show made its debut several years ago but a less enlightened world ignored its obvious merits and provocative concepts. Starring role open only if Ronald Reagan is elected president. Most would have given up hope on this one long ago but its backers think now is the time for "My Mother The Car."

Dear Abby

Help Available for The Miserably Fat

By Abigail Van Buren
© 1980 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: Do you know what it's like to:
—Walk down the street and have a total stranger say, "You have such a pretty face, it's a shame you're so fat."
—Shop in a grocery store and have people watch to see what you put in your cart?
—Walk into a restaurant and wonder if you'll fit into the booths or chairs? (Or worse yet, go to someone's home and pray there will be a chair that's sturdy enough to hold you?)
—Squeeze into a theater seat, and sit in agony during the entire performance while the sides of the seat dig into your thighs?
—Lose out on a job for which you are highly qualified because of the way you look? (They never tell you that's the reason, but somehow you know it.)
—Be told that someone would like to date you if you would lose some weight?
—Wonder if maybe you wouldn't be better off dead?
Well, I do. I know there is nothing you or anybody else can do about my problem, Abby, but it felt good to get it off my chest. Thanks for listening.

FAT, FEMALE AND MISERABLE

DEAR MISERABLE: I know of two solutions to your problem. One is Overeaters Anonymous, P.O. Box 6190, Torrance, Calif. 90504. They have chapters in nearly every city in the nation, and a more loving, caring, understanding and supportive group of people you could never hope to meet.
The other is The National Association to Aid Fat Americans, Inc., P.O. Box 43, Bellerose, N.Y. 11426. This is a group of frankly fat people who have banded together for the purpose of helping the obese to accept themselves as they are. There is much to be said for both organizations.
When writing, please enclose a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope.

DEAR ABBY: If you have room for just one more letter about "the other woman," I hope this is it, because I am an authority.

When I'd read a Dear Abby letter from "the other woman" who warned girls not to waste their time on a married man, I'd say, "Not me! Mine is different. We are going to wind up together one day!"

He always talked about the "someday" when he'd divorce his wife and marry me, but he never got around to divorcing her. (He said it was too expensive, but he bought himself a $4,000 watch.) Then suddenly a terrible thing happened. His wife died.

Did he marry me? Not on your life. He met somebody else, and now he wants nothing more to do with me. Why not? He could never trust a woman who would sneak around with a married man!

So Abby, please tell women not to be foolish and waste precious years on a married man. Don't hope and wait and sit like I did. I wasted three years for nothing.

DUMPED

CONFIDENTIAL TO C. IN TAMPA: Strange world we're living in. Apropos your situation, how's this for a bit of ironic graffiti: "When I was in the Army, they gave me a medal for killing a man, and a dishonorable discharge for loving one."

Getting married? Whether you want a formal church wedding or a simple, "do-your-own-thing" ceremony, get Abby's new booklet. Send $1 plus a long, self-addressed, stamped (28 cents) envelope to: Abby's Wedding Booklet, 132 Lasky Drive, Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212.

CLASSY LOOKS—Pleated pants with a petit point crewneck sweater make for a perfect classy town and country look. A pinstripe shirt completes the look.

Union E. H. Learns To Make Wreaths

The Union Extension Homemakers club learned about making Christmas wreaths during their monthly meeting Oct. 13 at the Union Community Center.

The program was presented by Blanche Chisom, Scurry County Home Extension Agent.

During the business session, new officers were elected and include Virginia Bloom, president; Janet Spence, vice president and program chairman; Sue Smith, secretary-treasurer; Carol Veazy, council delegate, and Beverly Greene, reporter. Members attending the meeting included Brenda Lee, Mrs. Bloom, Mrs. Spence, Wanda Stipe, Ms. Veazy, Ann South opens one heart with only 10 high-card points because his hand has such nice distribution. West has a mighty sound overall but prefers it to a double because his strength is concentrated in the spade suit. North's four-heart bid shows distribution rather than high cards while East's four-spade call is just a normal sound bid.

Now is where the thinking comes in. South is going to bid again and chooses five clubs to tell his partner what to lead against any final spade contract. West doubles. North goes to five hearts. East carries on to five spades and South goes to six hearts.

West decides to double. Who can blame him? He leads the king of spades and South has no trouble bringing in the slam.

Now look at what might have been. Suppose South had not stuck in that five-club bid. If West became declarer at any number of spades, he would make all the tricks against a heart lead by North.

After that club bid, North would open a club against that spade contract. An easygoing South would ruff, cash two diamonds and hold West to 10 tricks. A hungry South would cash one high diamond, put North in with the queen and get a second club ruff. (NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSN.)

Guests attending were Emma Huffman, Renee Floyd, Becky Robinson, Nellie Davis and Irene Hudgins.

Ms. Hudgins won the hostess gift.

The next meeting has been set for Nov. 10 with Mrs. Spence as hostess.

American painter James A. McNeill Whistler flunked out of West Point. He would have graduated in the class of 1855 had he not failed chemistry.

Art Guild Honors 50th Anniversary

The Art Guild Study Club celebrated its Golden Anniversary with a brunch Saturday at the Martha Ann Woman's Club.

Special guests were former members and members of other federated clubs in Snyder.

The festivities began with reminiscing and enjoying a display of pictures and clippings that had been collected and preserved through the years. Background music was provided by Beverly Duff and Margaret Dell Pilcher.

The club flower of marigold was used in all decorations. The serving table was covered with a white lace tablecloth over gold satin.

presented Jane Womack and a vocal ensemble from Western Texas College.

The 10-member vocal ensemble from WTC was directed and accompanied by Jane Womack, music instructor at the college.

Mrs. Williamson also presented Jerry Worsham, high school drama instructor, who introduced Becky Pierce, Jenifer Cole, Nettie Moss, Melinda Merritt and Kim Lunsford dressed as models to represent different periods of clothing styles from 1920 to 1960. Worsham also gave the names of the donors of the clothing.

A vocal trio was rendered by three sisters, Rebecca Thornton, Cherri Stewart and Mary Lynn Crawford.

Vocal solos were presented by Noel Nease of Abilene and Daryl Collins of Snyder.

Mrs. Myron Roe, club president, recognized guests and committees. Three charter members attending the meeting were Mrs. Ixon Joyce and Mrs. Gaither Bell of Snyder, and Mrs. Willard Jones of Rotan.

Several former out-of-town members attended.

A large oval crystal bowl topped with marigolds and the number "50" suspended inside served as the centerpiece. The decoration was made by Carol Miller.

Individual tables were centered with gold-based crystal candle holders with yellow candles.

Following the serving of guests and club members, Mrs. R. V. Williamson introduced the program. She Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Skim milk is fine for children

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — We live on a farm and have a few cows. We are wondering if pasteurized skim milk is good for children. Is the whole milk better than the skim milk? Does the milk lose anything when it's pasteurized? Our children are from infants to 6 years old.

DEAR READER — Use it and be thankful for pasteurization. Prior to the days of pasteurization, we had a lot of milk-borne diseases in the country. These were largely caused by bacteria in unclean milk originating from innumerable sources. Milk is good food and bacteria thrive in it.

All pasteurization does is to elevate the temperature of the milk sufficiently to kill harmful bacteria. It really has no significant effect on milk's nutrition.

Skim milk is fine for children. I really prefer for them to have fortified skim milk because that provides even more calcium and more good quality protein than you get from normal whole milk. You lose nothing but the fat when you use skim milk. Milk of all varieties — whole milk, fortified skim milk, powdered skim milk and even milk substitutes — today must have a certain amount of vitamin A and D in them. These are added if for any reason they have been removed in the processing.

I'd like to add that for most children there shouldn't be any problem with their consuming pasteurized whole milk. The exception might be a small number of children who early in life show a tendency toward elevated cholesterol levels. Our adult diet is often determined by our previous habits. If you train your children to like whole milk they may not be willing to switch to fortified skim milk when they get older and it's important to eliminate excess fat from their diet. Why not train children to eat the foods that are most conducive to good health for a lifetime while they are in their formative years.

To give you more information about milk I am sending you The Health Letter number 7-2, Milk Products: Good And Bad. Others who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Send your request to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

DEAR DR. LAMB — There must be a way to make a person's body grow, either through medications or vitamins or maybe even through surgery. I eat all the right foods and plenty of them but I stay the same height and size. I'm 20 years old, 5 feet 5 inches tall, and weigh 135 pounds. Any information would be appreciated. Please don't think my request ridiculous.

DEAR READER — No, it's not ridiculous, just not practical. You can stunt your growth through improper nutrition but it is not possible to increase your growth beyond the inherited characteristics you have. Your growth in height stops when the long bones in your legs calcify completely. That should have already occurred at your age, or nearly so. Specialists in growth problems often evaluate such cases by studying the person's bone age from X-rays.

You are simply at the short end of the normal range for height. If you were younger and quite a bit shorter, you might be a candidate for growth hormone from the pituitary gland.

Now, if you really want to make the effort, see an endocrinologist, a specialist in hormone functions, but I wouldn't hold out much hope that he will find anything that he can do about your height.

Violence Flares Near State Fair

DALLAS (AP) — Fred Woolsey grew up in a neighborhood at war with a rising crime rate — but unlike most neighborhoods besieged by violence, this one surrounds the historic, art deco fairgrounds, site of the world's largest state fair.

Woolsey has lived in the area surrounding Fair-Park all of his life. He claims it is one of the most violent, crime-plagued areas of the city. And the situation is getting worse.

The 32-year-old former Marine is, himself, the victim of the alarming increase in violent crimes. He's been in St. Paul's Hospital for nearly seven weeks, after he was shot in the leg by a burglar he was pursuing.

His mother, Wanda Woolsey, operates a small liquor and grocery store about a block from the main gate of the fair. She has been burglarized more than 25 times this year.

"We've been having an average of 10 to 15 burglaries a year, but this year it has skyrocketed," he said.

Woolsey keeps a close watch on his mother's store. His father died of injuries re-enter dialogue with the community of nations.

Secretary of State Edmund Muskie sticks a Carter-Mondale button in his lapel and goes off to address the National Woman's Democratic Club in Washington.

From the floor comes a question about the rumor heard all over Washington on this warm Thursday afternoon — that the United States was about to trade arms and ammunition to Iran in exchange for 52 Americans.

"I've heard the rumors," says Muskie enigmatically. Then he steps back and says no more, for the moment.

At a crowded Pentagon briefing, spokesman Thomas Ross issues a categorical denial of everything: "The facts of the matter are that we have not loaded planes, we have not issued orders for planes to be loaded, we have not alerted people to that possibility. There is nothing going on in that area whatsoever."

At the State Department, spokesman John Trattner is uncommunicative. He pleads with reporters not to jump to conclusions.

"Your role could be important and even crucial," he says.

What was going on here? There are no facts. No one in a position to know will say if there is a deal, or if there are negotiations, or if there has been a signal, or if the hostages have been moved or if the president is planning some dramatic move. There are no facts.

But for months Ronald Reagan, Carter's Republican opponent for the presidency, has been saying he expects Carter to pull "an October surprise," a use of the extraordinary powers of the presidency to rally the nation around Carter in the days before the election.

Wednesday, campaigning in Yatesville, Pa., Carter tells a questioner that efforts to free the hostages are under way daily, "directed by me."

And, discussing Iran's war with Iraq, Carter says the United States opposes "any effort to dismember Iran." Since the fighting began, Carter's official position has been strict neutrality.

Military warehouses on the East Coast hold $370 million worth of military equipment and ammunition, paid for by the shah of Iran before his downfall but never delivered.

Comic Quirks In Cop 'Sting'

VALHALLA, N.Y. (AP) — Undercover cops ran a successful "sting" here despite some comic quirks in their year-long operation. They had to dispose of a truck of hijacked bananas, evade fellow policemen as they drove stolen cars and turn down an invitation to join the Chamber of Commerce.

"Operation Yellowjacket" netted $1.25 million in stolen goods that the agents bought for a mere $83,000 while posing as fences at a Pelham storefront. Dozens of people were arrested in pre-dawn raids Wednesday.

As suspects were being processed at Westchester County police headquarters, Inspector Salvatore D'Iorio described the hazards and hilarity his men encountered in the streets.

Once, an officer bought a stolen car, slid into the driver's seat and casually shook a folded towel lying next to him, D'Iorio said. A grenade rolled out on the floor.

The startled agent dove out of the car, which rolled down the street without a driver. The grenade did not explode.

Most of the fenced items were stolen cars, checks, jewelry and furs, but police also were offered 11 women from a pimp's stable and the services of a group of women whose specialty was pilfering meat from supermarkets.

"We could have bought anything," said Police Commissioner Thomas Delaney.

The sting, funded by $300,000 in federal money, also required the acting talents of the officers.

Streaker Makes Appearance

Snyder's streaker struck again this morning, police reports show.

The incident occurred about 6 a.m. today at Skinny's on the East Highway when an unclothed subject flashed past the store. Working that case are Sgt. Wade Norris and Bill Armstrong.

Otherwise, police reports were marked only by routine traffic accidents and theft complaints.

The agents had no trouble finding suspects willing to sell them stolen property, and news of the fencing spread "by word of mouth," D'Iorio said. But the agents ran into trouble from other cops who didn't know about the operation, he said.

When they purchased a hijacked truck with a load of bananas, the agents wanted to return the fruit but couldn't tell local police without blowing their cover. So they settled for an anonymous call reporting that the bananas had been found.

The agents also were chased by other policemen and by people who had their cars stolen and later spotted the agents driving them, D'Iorio said.

Students Make Some Progress

MARSHALL, Texas (AP) — Holding a picture of a dog, Cherry Chandler asks her class to identify the animal.

"This is a dog," says one little boy.

"This is a cat. This is a cat," cries a little girl.

"Shut up," says the boy sitting next to her.

"They all know 'shut up,'" Mrs. Chandler said.

And that's just the problem. For these undocumented children, "shut up" is their total knowledge of the English language.

When the children started classes at the first of October, volunteer Gayle Weeks said, "some of them didn't speak a word of English."

The children, ages five to 10, were enrolled in Marshall schools this fall when a federal judge ordered Texas to provide a free education to illegal alien children. They were placed in classrooms where they sat silent and uncomprehending while school officials tried to decide what to do with them.

Now, the elementary schoolchildren come to a portable building three times a week where two teachers from the Sabine Valley Mental Health-Mental Retardation Center try to ease their transition to all English classrooms.

The American Association of Retired Persons (AARP) plans a meeting Monday at the Senior Citizens' Center.

The meeting will be held at 2 p.m. in the conference room.

Felony Charge Of DWI Filed

A felony charge of driving while intoxicated has been filed against Marvin Lee Sipes, Box 124.

Sipes was arrested Oct. 9 by troopers of the Department of Public Safety.

Two Persons Are Sentenced

Two persons were sentenced Thursday in 132nd District Court.

Mark Dean Wilson of Iowa received two seven-year probations and ordered to pay restitution on charges of burglary and unauthorized use of a motor vehicle.

Both incidents date back to Aug. 16 when he is charged with breaking into a building owned by Don Fisk and with taking a vehicle owned by G.W. Ferguson. In addition to the probations and restitution, Wilson was ordered to pay $500 in fines, court records show.

County Court Sentences 2

In county court Thursday, two persons were sentenced.

Joe Morgan Simmons, Canary Courts, was fined $100 and ordered to pay restitution on a criminal trespass charge.

William Craig Stephens of Midland was sentenced on charges of unlawfully carrying a weapon and driving while intoxicated.

On the charge of unlawfully carrying a weapon, Stephens received a $100 fine, and on the DWI charge he received a $300 fine and a three-day jail term.

TEACHING KIDS ABOUT ART—Region XIV Education Service Center in Abilene is hosting an Arts Awareness Program for the 52 school systems it serves. Children view film strips, see art print replicas and actually handle some sculpture pieces as a part of the program. Margaret Rutledge, presenter of the program, says that the show teaches "kids to

Witches Convene For Seminar In Amarillo

AMARILLO, Texas (AP) — Organizers of a weekend witches' seminar welcome a massive "pray in" that evangelists say they organized to thwart "demonic forces" that will be at work in this Panhandle city during the pre-Halloween gathering.

"We welcome their prayers because we don't want any demonic spirits either," said Skip Tarrant, director of the International School of Wicca in New Bern, N.C.

But Judy Mamiou and her husband Jimmy say they are convinced that the seminar will conjure evil forces and they are organizing "several hundred people" for a prayer meeting at noon Saturday to cancel demonic spirits.

"We're not there to interfere with the seminar at all," she said. "We felt they would be chanting and using witchcraft and wizardry and that is forbidden in the Bible. We feel like the spirits they will be calling on will be demonic and we feel this is very dangerous and we're not even sure they realize it."

Most of us do that at one time or another, but we do it at home.

"Frankly, as long as they will stay outside (the Holiday Inn), and do their protest, our avowed intention is to ignore them as much as possible," he said.

The seminar has attracted unusual attention here this year because of the pray-in and the involvement of Loy and Louise Stone, directors of the Church of Arinahu, a branch of the Church of Wicca.

Stone was acquitted of the Halloween 1977 shooting death of a 15-year-old girl in a widely publicized trial last February.

During the trial, Stone said he and his wife were conducting a witchcraft seminar the night of the shooting and had complained to police about harassment and vandalism by teen-agers. He said he fired a single shot in the air to scare off five teen-agers who pulled into his driveway near Dimmitt.

Roxanne Casas was killed by a shotgun blast and two other youths were wounded in the incident that touched off violent reactions in Dimmitt's Hispanic community.

Pecos To Attempt Homecoming Crash...

Tigers Expecting Tough Battle Tonight

by Bill McClellan
A near-capacity crowd is hoped for tonight as Snyder High School celebrates its bi-annual homecoming festivities at Tiger Stadium with a grid game between the Fighting Tigers and the Eagles of Pecos.

The Tigers, 28-14 winners over Lamesa last week, are looking for their second victory in a row after getting off to a bumpy 0-4 start. Pecos, meanwhile, opened with a 4-0 show, only to lose its last two ballgames.

"We expect it to be a real good football game," said Snyder Coach Mike Jenkins. "Pecos always has a fine team, and we don't expect this group to be any different." The Eagles lost their starting offensive backfield.

"We expect Pecos to run the ball right at us."

but have found good replacements for their straight T alignment in running backs Bobby Johnson, Jeff Bryant and Alvin New, and in quarterback Bill Weinacht.

Weinacht, a 150-junior, is fourth in passing in District 2-AAAA, hitting on 24 of his 55 attempts for 394 yards and three touchdowns. He has been intercepted only twice. Favorite target appears to be split end Benny Tarango, a 205-senior, who leads the team in catches with five for 112 yards and one TD.

Bryant and Johnson are the key backs, with Johnson, a 155-senior, having picked up 278 yards in 60 carries and three touchdowns. Bryant, a 165-senior, has garnered 242 yards and a touchdown on 43 carries.

"We expect Pecos to run the ball right at us," noted Jenkins. "They are a very sound, very fundamental team. They'll try to control the football if they can."

The Eagles are averaging 225.7 yards a game - 156.3 on the ground - offensively. Defensively, the 5-2 alignment has allowed 189 on the average, with only 42.3 of that through the airways. Standout defensive personnel include pre-season all-state pick Alvin New, a 190-senior linebacker, Tarrango, who doubles as another linebacker, and ends may get the nod again this week. Also, Jenkins noted that flanker Glenn Parham and back-up tailback Kirk Herley may try a hand at a kickoff returns.

The Tigers are averaging 186 yards offense per game, and allowing 260, a habit they hope last week's win will help them break out of. Leading rushers on the team are tailback Perry Echols, converted to that position only last week, with 185 yards on 48 totes, and fullback Mark Shaw, with 176 yards on 43 carries.

Roemisch is 23 of 67 in the passing department, for 351 yards and four touchdowns. He has six interceptions.

Parham continues to lead the Tigers in the receiving department with nine catches for 176 yards and two TDs. Dale Jenkins, last year's leading receiver, has already moved up to 12th in the loop, standings after only two weeks of action. He is listed with five catches for 90 yards and one touchdown.

Tickets for tonight's game are $3 and $2.50 at the gate.

Eddie Mata (175-sr) and Don Meeks (215-sr).

To beat the Eagles, Jenkins explained, "We'll have to move the ball on the ground. Actually, it would be the same if we moved it passing. We've got to set up one with the other. It doesn't matter which you set up first."

He added, "Defensively, we want to play field position. I think the kicking game will be a major factor, particularly if it is a close ballgame. Andrews probably beat Pecos with its kicking game. They ran back a kick and some other things on them, and that was a key to that game."

"We'll need to make some first downs each drive, even if we don't score, to establish field position. I think it will be very important."

The Tigers will continue to mix up their return game. Last week, quarterback Mike Roemisch returned punts. He

Bears Tackle Erratic A&M; Tech Tries Rice

by The Associated Press
And now the Baylor Bears are taking dead aim on 1949.

It's been that long since they started a Southwest Conference football season 6-0.

The current SWC leaders risk their unblemished record before the largest crowd in Kyle Field history Saturday against the up-and-down Texas Aggies, 2-3.

The overflow crowd is expected to reach 70,000 plus before the 2 p.m. kickoff.

"It's traditionally been a tough, hard-fought game," said Baylor Coach Grant

Teaff. "We always have tough battles with them and I expect this year will be no different."

"It will be a challenge for us to go down there and perform in front of some adverse conditions. I understand they will have their largest crowd ever and I'll be anxious to see if we can hold up under those conditions."

A&M Coach Tom Wilson's said he's excited, too.

"This is the best Baylor team I've seen in my 18 years in the conference," said Wilson, who has injury troubles at quarterback.

David Beal is out for a week with a wrist injury which has been diagnosed as anywhere from sore to broken. He is definitely out of the game.

If Mosley can't go, it's up to sophomore Gary Kubiak.

Odds makers refused to quote a line on the game, although Baylor has to be at least a field goal favorite because of the consistent way the Bears have been performing.

In other SWC games, Southern Methodist was a 5-point pick over Houston in a regionally televised (2:50 p.m.) meeting in Texas Stadium; Texas Christian was a 2 point favorite over Tulsa at Amos Carter Stadium; and Texas Tech was a 4-point choice over Rice in Houston. Arkansas and Texas are idle.

Local Cats Lose; Play Next Week

Snyder eighth grade and freshman teams fell to Big Spring last night. The Cats will attempt to get back on track next week against Sweetwater.

In eighth grade results, Snyder Black lost 22-0, while the Gold team fell 16-0 in games played at Big Spring.

"The Gold team played a good ballgame but couldn't score," noted Coach Dale Byrd. "Big Spring scored both of its touchdowns after recovering fumbles close in."

The Cats resume play Oct. 23, host Sweetwater in two games - the first to begin at 5:30 - at Travis Field.

Snyder freshman also lost last evening, 18-6 in Big Spring. Tim Derryberry scored Snyder's lone TD on a 6-yard run in the second half.

Big Spring scored once in the first quarter and twice in the second.

"We pretty well shut them down in the second half, but we had no intensity in the first half. When we learn to play all four quarters, we'll be in good shape," said Coach Larry Scott.

Snyder blocked the Steers' first PAT kick.

The local group travels to Sweetwater next Thursday for a 5:30 meeting with the Mustangs.

Netters Wrap Up Big Spring

Snyder tennis team rolled its record to 3-1 this week, slapping Big Spring by a combined score of 20-4. The Tigers trek to Brownfield for their next outing, Oct. 25. Play will begin at 9 a.m.

The team has a couple of tournaments lined up for the near future; one in Lubbock on Oct. 31 through Nov. 1, and another in Brownfield Nov. 7-8.

Against Big Spring this week, Snyder girls won nine matches to two, while the local boys won 11 matches to two.

Felines Floor D-City Three

DENVER CITY--Snyder volleyball teams swept Denver City here last night as the Felines won in varsity, junior varsity and freshman matches.

Snyder varsity, now 23-0 on the season, resumes District 2-AAAA play Tuesday, traveling to Andrews for a 7:30 p.m. match. The JV group, in tournament play tomorrow, will take on the Mustangs at 6:15 Tuesday.

Snyder JV is slated to compete in the eight-team Plains Tournament tomorrow, taking on Levelland at noon. Winner of the match will play a Fort Stockton-Plains victor at 4. Losers vie at 2.

Susie Lee served up 10 points, Sabrina Robinson and Lisa Waller 8 each and Lisa Loyola and Becky Pylant 2 apiece as Snyder junior varsity won, 15-9 and 15-10.

The freshman unit spiked the Denver City ninth graders 15-7 and 15-11. Mona Green served up 8 points; Tracy Fortune, Wendy Hodge and Susan Brim 5 each; Anna Arrizmendi 4 and Carl Walker 3.

KC Needs Victory

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — The Kansas City Royals rested a little easier today when they learned they probably would have the services of George Brett in tonight's third game of the World Series against the Philadelphia Phillies.

Trailing 2-0 in the Series, the Royals face a virtual do-or-die situation. A loss would all but hand the Phillies their first World Series title on a gilded platter. No team in the 78 years of World Series play has rebounded from a 3-0 deficit to win the best-of-seven-game set.

Brett, who hit .390 during the season and drove in 118 runs, underwent minor surgery Thursday to have a painfully swollen hemorrhoid lanced. The operation, performed by Kansas City proctologist John Heryer took about 20 minutes. Heryer said Brett would remain in the hospital until this morning.

"It was a simple operation," Heryer said. "We simply lanced a blood clot and removed it, thereby removing the pressure and hopefully the pain."

Heryer said Brett would soak in hot tubs and keep off his feet until this morning.

Heryer said Brett probably would not be 100 percent for the game but that he should have no problems playing. At the same time, the Phillies, who won the first and second games of the Series at home, had problems with their own casualties.

Slugging outfielder Greg Luzinski, who was used as a designated hitter in the Series opener, missed Wednesday night's game with the flu and did not make the trip to Kansas City.

Frey planned to start right-hander Rich Gale, 13-9 in the regular season, against Phillies right-hander Dick Ruthven, 17-10, tonight.

Coyotes Test Grady; Cards Host Bulldogs

Area six-man football squads return to action tonight as Hermleigh hosts Ira and Borden County takes on Grady in Grady.

The Cardinals will be looking for their first win of the season against Coach Tom Pierson's Ira Bulldogs, 4-2.

Ira is 1-1 in District 2-1A, having beaten McCaulley, and fallen to Borden County last week.
