Iranian Says Apology Made...

Decision On Hostages Hinted

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — Iranian Prime Minister Mohammad Ali Rajai said Saturday that Iran believed the United States already had apologized for its support of the deposed shah and that a decision on the 52 American hostages is "not far away."

"The moment the Majlis (the Iranian Parliament) makes its decision... a moment that is not far away, the question will be final and solved," the prime minister said when asked if the issue could be solved before the American presidential election on Nov. 4, the first anniversary of the seizure of the hostages in Tehran.

Asked if Iran still was insisting on an American apology as a precondition for release of the hostages, Rajai replied: "The passage of time and what we have heard from responsible people in the government, and from other officials close to the American government, which has been replied to us — for us it seems that this decision in practice already has been conveyed. All it needs is for something to be set on paper."

It was not clear if the prime minister referred to a report the United States is compiling about its long relationship with the Shah of Iran's regime.

Rajai spoke to reporters at a news conference at United Nations headquarters.

Rajai said he had come to New York only to present his country's complaint of aggression against Iraq to the U.N. Security Council and that he would not meet with American officials on the hostage issue before his departure for Algiers Saturday night.

"Neither the hostages or any other questions have been negotiated with American officials," he told reporters. He responded, "No. Not at all," when asked whether a meeting with American government officials was in the offing.

Questioned about the readiness of the militants — who are holding the hostages — to release them once the Parliament acted, Rajai replied:

"The Parliament and the government are fully representative of the people and I would give you 100 percent assurance that the decision of the Majlis... will be fully carried out."

Iranian special envoy Ali Shams Ardakani, who was translating Rajai's answers from Farsi into English, added, "No force will go against this decision."

Tax Statements Going Out Soon

Scurry County taxpayers are due to get their 1980 tax statements soon, probably within a week.

In years past, the statements usually were out much earlier in the season, but this is the first time the new county-wide appraisal district has been in operation, and it got a relatively late start in compiling the valuations.

Now that the district is functioning, all taxing entities will levy their taxes based on the same value for the same piece of property. And all will base their tax levies on 100 percent of the assessed value.

In other words, the entities make all of their decisions in financing their operations based solely on the rates they set for themselves. Heretofore, all based their assessments on a percentage of the assessed value and each had its own system of establishing "true" value.

Valuations for the six taxing entities in the county are: Scurry County, $2,360,532,311; Scurry County Junior College District, $2,318,277,131; Snyder Independent School District, $2,148,699,466; Ira Independent School District, $206,672,110; City of Snyder, $155,595,572; Hermleigh Independent School District, $29,339,240.

The tax rates (per $100 valuation) are:

Scurry County, 13.7 cents; Scurry County Junior College District, 10.3 cents; Snyder Independent School District, 28 cents; City of Snyder, 40 cents; Ira Independent School District, 22 cents; Hermleigh Independent School District, 62 cents.

Not only has the appraisal service been combined, but the collections also will be handled from one office for the first time in history. The county-wide appraisal district is established by state law for the avowed purpose of providing a unified system state-wide.

In Scurry County, the various taxing entities on their own have contracted with the county tax office to handle all tax collections.

Ray Peveler, chief appraiser, said the tax statements should begin coming from the computer early this week. They are alphabetized and will be mailed as soon as they are produced by the computer.

Volcano Continues Restless

VANCOUVER, Wash. (AP) — Restless Mount St. Helens shot an enormous plume of ash and steam 8½ miles high in its third eruption in 24 hours, sending a light cloud of ash over Washington and Oregon. Scientists said the volcano could erupt again soon.

Heralded by 20 minutes of harmonic tremors — subterranean shivers that mean molten rock is moving beneath the mountain — the eruption began at 9:12 p.m. PDT Friday. Two hours later the volcano was still puffing steam.

The ash cloud initially drifted east-southeast. By 2:30 a.m. today, the ash cloud had cleared Washington state and was heading through Oregon to Idaho.

The National Weather Service canceled a fallout warning for the Hood River, Ore., area, issued immediately after the third eruption.

The blast may have been the strongest since May 48.

27 Absentee Votes Cast

Absentee voting in the Nov. 4 general election was off to an active start in Scurry County.

The absentee voting period began Wednesday and by Friday 27 persons had cast ballots.

All absentee voting in Scurry County is being conducted in the county clerk's office in the courthouse.

In addition to the federal, state and local offices to be filled, Texas voters are casting ballots on nine proposed amendments to the State Constitution.

Museum's Film Series To End

The Scurry County Museum will conclude its John Wayne film series with "Rio Lobo" on Monday night.

The show begins at 7 p. m. Persons wishing ticket information are invited to call the museum office at 573-6107.

The museum is currently featuring an exhibit of paintings by Ben Konis, an artist of the Southwest, and Monday night visitors may also view that exhibit.

Texas Tech To Honor Clinton

Dr. Robert L. Clinton, president of Western Texas College, will be named "Outstanding Educator" by the Texas Tech University College of Education at its fifth annual recognitions and awards banquet Nov. 3.

Centering on the theme, "A Renaissance in Education," the dinner will begin at 6:30 p. m. in the University Center Ballroom and is open to the public.

Clinton, who will receive the annual alumni award, earned his doctorate of education at Texas Tech. The only president of Western Texas College since it was established in 1970, Clinton recently announced his resignation, effective next Feb. 1. He plans to become director of the Texas Public College

GAS LEAK SNIFFER—Wedge Turner, local manager for Lone Star Gas Co., stands beside a flame ionization machine that sniffs out the smallest of gas leaks while moving down an Reduces Losses...

Gas Leaks Sniffed Out By Miraculous Machine

A contraption called a "flame ionization machine" is making rounds in Snyder this month, and when it completes its task, Lone Star Gas Co. officials expect gas leaks here to be reduced sharply.

The machine is capable of detecting leaks in gas lines while moving down an alley at five miles per hour. This, of course, beats the old system of finding leaks from here to yonder.

Wedge Turner, Lone Star manager here, said it is downright uncanny how the machine is able to find leaks.

"We have fixed some leaks we couldn't even find," said Turner.

The gas company is in the last stages of a program designed to reduce its "unaccounted for" gas Snyder. This is gas that escapes from the system and results in higher cost as well as waste of the resource.

The search for leaks here began last spring when nearly half the town was covered. The remainder is being covered this month.

Turner said that Lone Star's unaccounted for gas here had reached about 7.5 percent recently. That figure is expected to be cut to around three percent or better when all of the leaks discovered by the new machine are repaired.

Lone Star has some 67 miles of lines in its Snyder distribution system. Some areas of town are more likely to develop leaks than others, Turner said. This is due to differences in soil. There are small areas where gas lines deteriorate rapidly. In these, the gas company is replacing metal lines with plastic.

During the current campaign, above-ground leaks are repaired on the spot. Those below ground are marked and graded, with those likely to cause the most problems getting highest priority for repairs.

It would be nice if the repair crews could keep up with the flame ionization machine, but that would be impossible. Still, Turner said that in the first half of the project last spring, the crews repaired 869 leaks.

"That saves money for us (Lone Star) and the customer both," said Turner. The machine has the capability of detecting as little as five parts per million hydrocarbons. If a leak is smaller than that, neither the customer nor the gas company has "anything to worry about."

Q—Is the city animal officer supposed to dispose of unclaimed dogs by shooting them?

A—No. City Manager John Gayle says that shooting unclaimed animals is against city policy. Incidentally, the city hopes to be able to put its contract with a veterinarian for disposal of stray animals into effect soon.

Weekend update

No Surprises Expected

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — A spokesman for President Jimmy Carter says there will be no "October surprise" in the hot presidential campaign.

"If there are developments that are favorable to us, we will accept them," Jack Watson, White House chief of staff, told a news conference Friday when asked about reported plans for surprise moves by Carter in October to help the Carter-Mondale campaign. "But we are not manipulative."

Frazer Claiming Victory

SYDNEY, Australia (AP) — Prime Minister Malcolm Frazer claimed victory in Australia's national election Saturday, saying his government had been returned to power, but acknowledging that the opposition Labor Party had cut into his coalition's majority.

Doped Tombstone Found

FELIXSTOWE, England (AP) — Customs officers seized $1.5 million in heroin hidden in a hollowed-out tombstone on board a truck in this eastern English port.

"Smuggler hide drugs in anything and everything, but I've never heard of it in a tombstone before," said a customs spokesman.

The drug haul Friday also netted nine suspects. Their truck started out from Cyprus and reached England via Belgium, customs officers said.

Iraq Says Seige Endures

BASRA, Iraq (AP) — Iraq said Saturday it had crushed Iran's "desperate attempts" to break a seige of the oil refining city of Abadan and the neighboring port of Khorramshahr, killing 52 Iranian troops and taking 17 prisoners. It said 16 Iraqis died in the fighting.

Rental housing, or the absence thereof, has been in the news here, and it continues to be a nagging annoyance to those who would lure more industry to our area. The chamber board discussed it at length at its meeting Tuesday and expressed approval when Bill Warner, chamber manager urged that rental housing get some prime attention in the coming year.

When you talk about industry and rental housing, you get into one of those "chicken-and-egg" situations. You need industry to fill houses, but you need houses to put industry's employees in. It can become a monotonous merry-go-round.

Now, if Snyder happened to be a community with a high unemployment ratio, there likely would be some vacant housing on the rental lists. But the unemployment picture around here is among the brightest in the nation.

Warner said the scarcity of rental housing not only is dampening prospects for attracting more industry, but it is causing Snyder to lose residents who actually are employed in and around Snyder but have been forced to seek shelter for their families in neighboring towns.

This, of course, is due cause for concern. The simple solution would be for developers to get busy and build some apartments as quickly as possible. But that's when economics enters the picture, and its instability in recent months has definitely worked against new construction here. Mortgage interest rates, after showing some signs of decline a few weeks ago, have climbed again. As one potential builder noted the other day, it is doubtful that an owner could charge enough rent to pay off his mortgage in a reasonable time at today's interest rates.

So, the heat goes on. There are people trying to move here and some of the oil-related industries have indicated that they would like to move more of their people here—if they could find places to live. Hopefully, somebody will find a solution soon.

Agoraphobia Victims Aided By Fear Clinic

By JIM MCKAY
Associated Press Writer
PITTSBURGH (AP)

Fear trapped Rose Marie in her house for years. It caused pain to race through her arms and chest. She grew hot and perspired. Her heart beat rapidly and her legs felt like rubber.

"It is the most horrible experience. It's stark terror. I feel like my body is moving and I have to hang on for dear life," she says. "I was scared 24 hours a day."

The 39-year-old mother of two is one of millions of Americans believed to have agoraphobia, a persistent fear capable of rendering people literally housebound.

Thanks to new treatment methods, agoraphobics like Rose Marie are learning to cope at the Western Psychiatric Institute and Clinic here. Wary of publicity and recognition, she and others being treated agreed to interviews only if their last names were kept secret.

According to Dr. Larry Michelson, assistant director of the institute's new phobia clinic, preliminary epidemiological studies indicate 2 million to 3 million Americans are agoraphobic to some degree.

Western Psychiatric spokeswoman Jane Duffield says 140 people have been treated so far at the clinic. Of that number, she says, 26 were agoraphobics.

The clinic, which opened last November, is devoted exclusively to the assessment and treatment of phobias and related anxiety and obsessive-compulsive disorders. It is supported by several grants, including $200,000 from the National Institute of Mental Health for the study of agoraphobics.

Some people can have more than one simple phobia. Others are obsessive-compulsive. Unwanted intrusive, repetitive, and repugnant thoughts come into their field of consciousness, and they compulsively try to reduce them. Such thoughts could be of contamination, or illness, sexual impulses, religion and aggression.

"For example," Michelson says, "they fear they might strangle the person in front of them in the movie theater. They are aghast they might think that. So they avoid the situation."

Agoraphobia is the most common phobic disorder now clinically treated, says Dr. Matig Mavissakalian, clinic director.

Says Energy Secretary...

U.S. Okay For Many Weeks

By MAX B. SKELTON
AP Oil Writer

HOUSTON (AP) — Energy Secretary Charles Duncan left the joint news conference with Senator Lloyd Bentsen early. He had to catch a plane.

Duncan was back within three minutes, saying he wanted to clarify one remark he had made.

When asked if emergency standby procedures were being considered because of oil supply disruptions caused by the war between Iran and Iraq, Duncan had said he believes the United States has a manageable situation "for a period of weeks."

Upon his return, Duncan said his press aide had expressed concern about his use of the word "weeks," thinking it might be misleading.

"Actually, I think we would be in good shape for a much longer period of time and I'm talking about a period of many weeks, not just a few weeks,"

WASHINGTON (AP) — Anyone looking for action among Texas' 24 congressional districts on election night might do best by starting in Houston, Dallas and Fort Worth.

Most observers are predicting one of the closest races in the state will be the bitter 5th District rematch between incumbent Democrat Jim Mattox and Republican Tom Pauken in the Dallas area.

The other contest that crops up near the top of those lists of expected-to-be-close races is in the 8th District of the Houston area, where veteran incumbent Bob Eckhardt, a Democrat, is up against a strong challenge from Republican Jack Fields.

And, while it is generally not considered to be anywhere near as close a contest as those two potentially down-to-the-wire battles, the 12th District race in Tarrant County is hard to beat for interest.

It definitely will be attracting the most national attention.

That Fort Worth district is where House Majority Leader Jim Wright has been caught up in his hottest campaign in years by Republican conservative Jim Bradshaw, a former mayor pro-tem.

Bradshaw, attracting such colorful supporters as oil millionaire H.E. "Eddie" Chiles, contends that Wright has lost touch with the district by spending more than 25 years in Washington.

The Republican says the demands of the leadership position have forced Wright to adopt a more liberal posture.

Wright, in line to be the next House speaker, can point to his clout in Washington and claim it brings benefits to the district.

He also suggests that if he had not won the House leadership post, it would be in the hands of a liberal.

His supporters prefer describing the opposition as extremist rather than conservative, not representative of the majority of the district.

Wright is regarded as one of the most effective campaigners in the state and the congressional access allows him to spend a solid month in Fort Worth before the election.

The conclusion for most observers is that it will be a tough race ending in a solid victory for Wright.

Republicans doubled their membership in the Texas congressional delegation two years ago, raising it from two to four.

Democratic hopes for regaining one of those seats are centered on the 22nd District in the Houston area, where incumbent Ron Paul of Lake Jackson is matched against Democrat Mike Andrews, a Houston attorney.

The district see-sawed between conservative Paul and liberal Democrat Bob Gammage in the past three elections.

Andrews, a moderate-conservative who has the support of the downtown Houston business establishment, defeated Gammage last May in the Democratic primary and has gone on to attack Paul as ineffective.

Paul is an ardent supporter of reducing government.

The district is expected to vote strongly for Republican Ronald Reagan for president, and that turnout could be the deciding factor.

Only two congressional seats — both held by Democrats — were opened by retirements this year in Texas, and both generally are expected to remain in Democratic hands.

In the 4th District, where longtime Rep. Ray Roberts of McKinney is stepping down, former state Sen. Ralph Hall of Rockwall is favored against Republican John Wright, a Tyler businessman.

State Sen. William Patman of Ganado, the son of former longtime Rep. Wright Patman, is considered to be running ahead in the heavily Democratic 14th District against Republican C.L. Conklin, a Corpus Christi physician.

Patman, however, has a liberal reputation in the basically conservative district, which should make the race more interesting. The seat was opened when freshman Rep. Joe Wyatt of Victoria resigned, citing personal reasons.

Two years ago, Mattox drew 51 percent of the vote against Pauken's 49 percent.

The margin of victory could be just as thin for whoever wins this time around, when the feud is running strong enough to earn it a nomination as the most bitter fight in the state.

worldwide recession still exists and it is not universally agreed that the U.S. economy is out of its slump yet. But the consensus of economists seems to be that the country is in for a prolonged period of slow growth, which represents a very sluggish recovery but is technically not in the recession phase of the business cycle.

Figures released by the Commerce Department this past week support that theory. After dropping by a huge 9.6 percent in the second quarter of the year, inflation-adjusted gross national product rose at a 1 percent annual rate in the July-August period.

Generally economists speak of recessions as times when GNP, or output of goods and services, is actually dropping from previous production levels. And the latest report shows growth, although it is very slight growth.

A separate report showed wages and other sources of personal income rose by $19.8 billion, or 0.9 percent, in September after a boost of 0.7 percent the month before.

Trading Partners Slide May Cool Perk In U.S. Economy

NEW YORK (AP)—Just as the U.S. economy seems to be rising from a steep drop of earlier this year, its major industrial trading partners are going into their own economic slides.

While a widespread European recession is not yet at hand, a number of reports recently indicate weakening economic conditions in major Common Market countries and in Japan.

The effect of such an economic see-saw may be to moderate the U.S. recovery and economic growth next year.

On the other hand, economists say, the fact that the major foreign industrial countries did not experience a recession earlier this year when the U.S. economy took a tumble, may have helped save the United States from experiencing a more severe recession than it did.

A worldwide slump did occur in the 1974 recession, when the Arab oil embargo sent shock waves through all of the major industrialized countries. That recession was the most severe in the post World War II era. The sudden and rapid increase in oil prices was a major reason, of course. But international trade also dropped because all industrialized economies contracted simultaneously.

So far this year, the U.S. balance of trade has been improving as it imported less and exported more because of the slower sales in its domestic market.

The possibility of another recession is still a possibility, but international trade also dropped because all industrialized economies contracted simultaneously.

Deliberations Due This Week...

Brilab Trial Nearing The End

HOUSTON (AP) — Defense attorneys will call a few more character witnesses next week, the prosecution one rebuttal witness, and then jurors in the Brilab trial will determine the guilt or innocence of Texas House Speaker Billy Clayton and two Austin attorneys.

The government has accused Clayton and lawyers Donald Ray and Randall Wood of extortion, fraud, conspiracy and racketeering charges that arose after the 10-month long FBI Brilab undercover operation.

Once the last witness testifies in this lengthy trial, attorneys will give their final arguments and U.S. District Judge Robert O'Connor Jr. will instruct the jurors on the legal points of the case.

The jury is expected to begin deliberations either late Wednesday or early Thursday.

Their decision could determine the political future of Clayton, for 20 years a state legislator, seeking a fourth term as speaker, and with hopes of running for governor in 1982.

Clayton ended his testimony Friday by insisting, "I can't be bribed. I will never be bribed."

The U.S. Attorney's office, using secret Brilab tapes as the key of their case, has claimed Clayton accepted a $5,000 bribe from an FBI informant to reopen bids on the rich state employees health insurance contract.

Wood and Ray are accused of agreeing to accept money to use their knowledge and influence at the state capital to see that Prudential Insurance Co. get the state business with premiums estimated at $84 to $105 million a year.

Joseph Hauser, the FBI informant, posed throughout the 10-month Brilab operation as a representative of Prudential and offered several political and labor leaders kickbacks for insurance contracts.

The speaker acknowledged he took $5,000 during a Nov. 8, 1979, meeting with Hauser and labor official L.G. Moore.

But Clayton said, he thought the money was a campaign contribution from Moore, the regional director of the International Operating Engineers Union, and planned to return it at a later date.

Moore also was indicted in the Brilab investigation and is to stand trial later.

Clayton testified, "I never cut a deal with anyone during my years in the Legislature. I never made a commitment to any legislator during my three terms as speaker. I have never done anything illegal and I never will."

Soviet troops liberated Leningrad from the Nazis in 1944.

HAPPY REUNION—After not seeing each other for 26 years, sister-in-laws Lena Howard of Ira and Maudie Austin of Prattville, Ala., both 84, got together this week. "I just thought it was time we saw each other again," said Mrs. Austin who made the trip to Texas with other relatives. (SDN Staff Photo)

Duty should be your first concern in the year ahead, always coming before the pursuit of pleasure. You won't have to worry about having a dull year. Socially you'll be more popular than ever in your circle of friends.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) You'll enjoy the company of friends and sharing activities with them today as long as a clean-up detail is not included. Find out more of what lies ahead for you in the year following your birthday by sending for your copy of Astro-Graph, Mail $1 for each to Astro-Graph, Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify birth date.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) After spending most of the day being generous, panic could set in, causing you to become too tightfisted. Strike a balance.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) It's wrong and you know it, yet chances are you'll be far more friendly and tolerant with outsiders today than you will be with your own family.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) The one you hurt would be yourself if you hold hostility toward another. If you let the other person know, he or she may even have an explanation.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Your philosophical attitude today relates to all things except material objects you deem to be yours alone. About these you're apt to become overly protective.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) There is no cause for disappointment if you agree to help someone and then find you took on more than you can handle. Be realistic about your limitations.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) If you are impatient today with anyone careless with his or her remarks, you'll set off sparks that could start a bonfire. Turn the other cheek.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) You enjoy company today while working or relaxing, until they venture too close to what you consider personal. Avoid getting into deep discussions.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) It's very possible today you may yield to the wishes of another and do something against your better judgment because you won't stand up to the pressure.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Try to end today's events early and have a relaxing evening. Everything could catch up with you by late afternoon, causing you to become careless.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Your hail-fellow-well-met attitude could do a turnabout if you feel someone is taking advantage of your good nature today. You won't put up with that for a minute.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Chances are you'll accomplish quite a bit around the house today. However, if others don't want to work as long as you do, you could get a trifle miffed.

This coming year you will have many opportunities to use your mind to bring about situations which could fatten your bank account. The one thing that can stop you: Lack of faith in yourself.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Emotional issues could sidetrack you today and cause you to take your mind off constructive situations if you permit them to. Don't be so susceptible. Find out more of what lies ahead for you in the year following your birthday by sending for your copy of Astro-Graph, Mail $1 for each to Astro-Graph, Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify birth date.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Keep your wits about you and don't let someone who views life too materially influence you today. If you remain logical, this person's shallowness can't affect you.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) It's not like you to behave jealously, yet today if you feel envious of another you could be tempted to divulge confidential information.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) You have some excellent ideas today, but it is not likely any of them will get off the ground unless you stop daydreaming and start doing.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) It's going to be up to you to speak out for your own interests today. Another on whom you were depending can't or won't tell your story as well.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Just because someone who was supposed to do something with you today has to back out is no reason to forego a good game plan. Do it alone.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) It's best to stay out of the affairs of co-workers today. Although you mean well, you could mess things up for them, rather than helping.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Something could happen with a friend today which might upset you. Don't harbor feelings of resentment; open a discussion to clear the air.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Your status in the eyes of associates is rather fragile at this time. They're waiting to see if you meet your commitments. It's best that you do so.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Giving clear, precise advice or instructions may not be enough today. You'll have to prove you're right by first doing it yourself or by example.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) There is no doubt in your mind as to what your needs are today, and yet you could quite easily buy the illusion and forget the necessities.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) You might ignore constructive advice today from a pal, because what he or she has to say may cause you discomfort or hurt your feelings.

RSVP Members Work Again In Schools Here

Members of the Retired Senior Volunteer Program (RSVP) are back at work in local schools.

The RSVP members give their time to the schools in various ways. One of the most common volunteer activities is listening to the children read, and reading to them in small groups to help them improve their reading skills.

At Central Elementary, the volunteers have undertaken a new project which involves making small books out of discarded readers. Pages from the readers are stapled into colorful construction paper covers, each making a complete story, and the school plans to use the mini books as prizes and awards to encourage the students to read.

Margaret Presswood, reading consultant for the Snyder School System, points out that even though the readers are not used in classrooms now, they do contain stories still of interest to children and are excellent reading material because of the word content.

Men and women 60 years old and older are eligible for membership in RSVP. Members participate in a variety of community projects as volunteer workers and they choose the projects which suit their talents and interest best. Persons interested in joining RSVP are invited to contact Mrs. Krenek's office in the Senior Center, or to call the office at 573-0144.

Dear Abby

Poor Little Pitiful Me

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: What do you think is the hardest? Being the oldest child, the youngest child or the middle child?
CURIOUS

DEAR CURIOUS: If you ask the eldest, he'll say, "The eldest, because you're expected to set a good example for the younger ones. And if a fight breaks out, I get blamed because I'm the oldest and should know better."

Ask the middle child, and he'll say, "Being the middle child is the hardest because you get none of the advantages of being the youngest or the oldest." Ask the youngest child, and he'll tell you that being the youngest is hardest because "your parents try to keep you 'a baby' as long as possible, and you're the one who has to wear all the hand-me-downs."

In other words, it all depends where you're coming from.

DEAR ABBY: Your recent column on statistics is a gold mine for those of us who campaign for causes.

The volunteers with Cincinnati's League for Animal Welfare want people to realize, as you pointed out, that 56,000 pets are turned over daily to the nation's animal shelters, where 36,986 are destroyed!

This year we are again supporting a former stray dog named Lady for president. She ran in 1976 and racked up 140 votes. Lady is campaigning to make the public aware that millions of unwanted animals have been imprisoned and dealt the death sentence without "due process." She is the pet of newspaperman C.E. "Stoney" Jackson of Tulsa, Okla.

Lady's party is PAWS (Political Action for the World's Strays). Her platform is LOVE (Loyalty, Obedience, Valor, Empathy). These are not merely empty campaign promises, but the true benefits of responsible pet ownership.

Lady's campaign slogan is, "It's better for a dog to go to the White House than for the White House to go to the dogs." Go with Lady in 1980!

ELIZABETH LEMMICH, CAMPAIGN CHAIRWOMAN

DEAR ABBY: We hear and read so much about widows whose former friends have deserted them. Perhaps some of them should take a good look at themselves.

We have a friend, in her mid-60s, who has dyed her hair red, wears false eyelashes, tight, shiny pants and the highest heels she can find.

We don't like to include her because she looks like a freak. We love her and would like to see her look like the lovely person she is. How can we tell her without hurting her feelings?

HER FRIENDS

DEAR FRIENDS: False eyelashes, red hair and high heels do not a freak make. Do include her, but let her know in advance that the "women" will be wearing dresses.

DEAR ABBY: My wife and I were invited to spend a day with a very dear couple at their summer place. They decided, in lieu of a barbecue at home, to go out for dinner.

Was it obligatory on my part to volunteer to pay for my share? Or should our friends who invited us for the day have picked up the entire bill?

PERPLEXED

DEAR PERPLEXED: Since you were invited for the day, dinner (regardless of where it was) should have been provided by your host.

Do you wish you had more friends? Get Abby's booklet, "How to Be Popular; You're Never Too Young or Too Old." Send $1 with a long, self-addressed, stamped (28 cents) envelope to: Abby, Popularity, 132 Lasky Drive, Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212.

poisoning in livestock is to be aware of plant materials that may cause poisoning and then to keep cattle from grazing such plants until a safe period has passed.

The overall key to preventing prussic acid

DIVERSIFIED

BY BILLY E. ROACH
COUNTY EXTENSION AGENT

PRUSSIC ACID
Frost will be hitting Scurry County before long, and this could lead to prussic acid poisoning in livestock grazing certain pasture grasses and forages.

Although many plants contain toxic materials that cause poisoning, those causing the highest mortality in livestock when grazed after they have been frozen and wilted are Johnson and sudan grasses and sorghum or hybrids of these.

The most dangerous time as far as the grazing of these plants is concerned is following frost when the plant material begins to wilt. Livestock should not be allowed access to the wilted material until it has dried completely. This usually takes three or four days of good sunlight. New plant growth usually becomes non-toxic and can be grazed within 10 days to two weeks following a rain.

As far as prussic acid poisoning is concerned, the poison acts rapidly and can kill animals within minutes. In most cases, animals become affected within 10-15 minutes after eating toxic material and can die within two to three minutes. Symptoms may include a brief period of stimulation followed by depression and paralysis. Signs of colic may be present. Stupor (loss of sensibility), difficult breathing and frequent convulsions may result. Death is caused by suffocation since oxygen remains in the blood and is not exchanged to the tissues. This also causes the blood to appear bright red.

Ten Convicted In Pot Case

BOSTON (AP) — Ten men, most from Texas, face sentencing Nov. 24 after they were convicted in U.S. District Court of smuggling 27 tons of marijuana from South America to Gloucester, Mass.

The trial ended Thursday after the 10 were found guilty by Judge Walter Jay Skinner.

Two defendants pleaded guilty before the trial began, while three others entered guilty pleas before a jury could be empaneled. The trial took an unusual turn after 10 days of testimony.

"We were more than three-quarters of the way through the evidence, and the defendants made a decision to waive further trial by jury and have the judge make a finding on the basis of the evidence."

said the prosecutor, Martin B. Boudreau.

Most of the defendants were from Texas. Others were from Pennsylvania, New Mexico, Florida, New York, Colorado and Michigan.

Two other defendants — Peter L. Krutichewski, 35, of Lansing, Mich., and Jamie Chagra, 35, a former professional gambler from Las Vegas — were found guilty earlier. Chagra's conviction was set aside after the judge decided that he was a victim of double jeopardy.

Pecos Strums 35-9 Victory Tune As...

Tigers Singing The Blues Again

by Bill McClellan

"I'm trying to tell you people, that the blues have hit me in my life. You know I was born for trouble, and it's a hard road that I'm on."

—John Mayall

Snyder's Tigers may well be experienced in the blues after Friday's 35-9 loss to Pecos here. It had to be one of the team's most disappointing defeats of a 1-5 season, not only because it was Homecoming weekend in the city, but because of the nature of the loss itself.

It was a game of give and take. But though both teams did some taunting, it was Snyder doing almost all the giving.

Snyder got a surprising 2 points on the first play of the ballgame as would-be kickoff returner Danny Tarango bobbled the boot, then took a safety in his own endzone.

Pecos retaliated by scoring on its first two possessions of the night, however, for a 14-2 first-quarter lead.

Despite being down so quickly, it was obvious the Tigers were not going to quit. The defense stiffened, and except for a Pecos 40-yard run near the end of the half, allowed the visitors only 19 yards on the ground in the second quarter. Apparently, last week's first-season win had strengthened the home team. When they came back on the field after intermission, one had the feeling that this was to be their night. But no, it was not to be.

The return game continued to hamper the hosts again Friday night, and they opened the second half with the ball at their own 18. Plans of a comeback against the Eagles went awry on the first play from scrimmage. A pitchback from quarterback Mike Roemisch to back Perry Echols never made connections, and Pecos fell on the ball at the Tiger 14. It was to be the third time in the second half that the Eagles would find gifts inside the Snyder 20.

The Eagles wasted no time in building their lead. Eddie Matta, the Pecos workhorse all night, picked up 4 and 2 yards, on the first two plays from scrimmage, and on third down, quarterback Bobby Jenkins bootlegged it in from 8 yards away. Tony Carr split the uprights, and Pecos led, 21-2.

Still Snyder didn't fold—in fact, the Tigers never did, though they easily could have. Taking over possession again at its own 33, Snyder worked down the field in eight plays to score its only touchdown of the night.

The drive got underway on third down when Roemisch found tight end Curtis Gafford for an 18-yard gain. On the next play, he hit wide receiver Glenn Parham on a 35-yard bomb to the Pecos 12-yard line. Three plays later, Echols took it over from the 1. Parham added the PAT kick.

Once again it appeared Snyder might be able to comeback against the Eagles. Following the kickoff, Snyder held the visitors to a punting situation and seemingly would get the ball back with over six minutes still left in the third period, and down 21-9.

But the blues hit again. Pecos's punt sailed through the hands of return-man Roemisch, and right into the arms of Eagle coverage-man Johnny Valencia at the Tiger 13. Though an offside penalty moved the ball back five steps, Pecos took only one play—an 18-yard pass from Barreno to Benny Tarango—to put more points on the board. Carr's kick-after was good again, and the Eagles now had a 28-9 advantage.

Pecos scored its final TD on a 48-yard march, aided by a 28-yard interference call, which put the ball on the Tiger 4-yard line. Barreno keyed the drive with a 13-yard strike to Valencia, and later took in the score on a four-yard jaunt with three seconds left in the period. Again, Carr's kick-after was good.

Though the scoreboard is the only fact to go down in the history books, the game on the field was actually a closer contest. Pecos concluded the battle with 257 total yards while Snyder had 250. The Tigers out-numbered the visitors in first downs, 16 to 13, and had the ball for 23 more plays.

Snyder reached the opponent 34, 32, 30, and 20, without scoring, suffering an interception on one occasion, and failing to convert on fourth down the other three.

Snyder's biggest break of the game appeared and vanished with a yellow flag. Tiger Matt Davis fell on an Eagle fumble at the 40 early in the contest, but officials ruled offside against the visitors and Pecos gained new life.

The Eagles promptly ripped off 60 yards, including runs of 20 by Alvin New and 27 by Matta, to score. Jenkins took the ball over from two yards out with 6:32 left in the opening period. Carr kicked the point-after.

After holding the hosts to a punting situation, Pecos struck again. This time Matta did the honors, returning the punt 65 yards—breaking several tackles along the way—for a 13-2 Eagle lead. Carr made it 14-2.

Matta led the Eagle ground game with 12 carries for 80 yards—all but five of that in the first half—while Barreno was four-for-four through the airways for 76 yards.

Snyder—gaining more yardage in the 26-point loss than in any of its previous games this season—got well-balanced running help. Of the three primary backs, Echols garnered 63 yards on 20 carries, Kirk Herrley had 65 yards on 13 carries, and Mark Shaw had 60 yards on 10 totes.

The victory leaves the Eagles with a 5-2 season record, 3-2 in District 2-AAAA play. Snyder, 1-5, is 1-3 in loop action. The Tigers take on Ector in Odessa next Saturday.

'Stang Pair Rip Opponents Again

Sweetwater and Andrews continue to rocket towards their Nov. 7 showdown, a meeting which apparently will decide the District 2-AAAA football title.

Andrews, undefeated and ranked No. 7 in the state, popped Monahans Friday, 21-14, while surprising Sweetwater knocked off its fifth straight opponent by defeating Odessa Ector, 34-20.

The victories leave both teams with identical 5-0 loop records. Sweetwater is 6-1 on the season.

In other 2-AAAA contests played Friday, San Angelo Lake View crushed Lamesa, 21-0; and Pecos rapped Snyder, 35-9.

Other records throughout the conference are: Monahans and Lake View, 3-3 season and 2-2 district; Pecos, 5-2 and 3-2; Fort Stockton, 2-4 and 1-3; Lamesa, 2-5 and 1-4; Snyder, 1-5 and 1-3; and Ector, 0-1-5 and 0-4.

Von Erichs To Wrestle Here

Wrestling returns to Snyder with perhaps its top show ever Thursday, featuring Kevin Von Erich and Gino Hernandez in the main event.

Showtime will be 8 p.m. in Scurry County Coliseum. Ticket information is available at the coliseum box office, 573-9811.

Thursday's lineup marks the first time Von Erich brothers—considered the superstars of wrestling—have been in Snyder.

Kevin takes on American Champion Gino Hernandez, managed by Gary Hart, in the main event, while David Von Erich is pitted against another Hart prize, Gary Young.

Other matches have Sweet Brown Sugar against El Diablos No. 1, managed by James Dillon, and El Diablos No. 2 against Bryon Blair.

The Von Erichs are expected to draw the largest wrestling crowd in the coliseum's history.

WGA Pairings

Anyone wishing to play Tuesday should meet at the pro shop at 9 a.m. Pairings will be announced at that time.

The event will be "Tim Whistle". This competition is on match-play basis and points awarded. Players are flighted for the event.

'Cats Upset Flat Borden Coyotes

GRADY—Grady's Wildcats bounced back from three straight losses to upset Borden County here Friday night, 35-16, putting the Coyotes into what would appear to be a must-win situation for the remainder of the season.

"I don't have any excuses for the way we played," remarked a solemn Coach Randy Roemisch. "We got what we deserved. We had our bad game. They (Grady) were 0-3 going into it. They had lost their last three games and they were due. They had a good game and we had a sorry one."

Grady took advantage of a flat Coyote team to hand the visitors their second loss in a 4-2 season, leaving them with a 1-1 district record.

"We have to win all of the rest of them now," noted Roemisch, who has yet to face

Royals Claim Key Victory

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP)—The Kansas City Royals, with George Brett and Willie Aikens playing key roles, won the first World Series game ever in that city Friday night, defeating the Philadelphia Phillies 4-3 in 10 innings.

The victory left the Phillies still with a 2-1 lead in the best-of-seven Series. Games 4 and 5 were to be played here Saturday and Sunday.

Aikens delivered a two-out single in the 10th to drive in Willie Wilson from second base with the winning run.

Brett, who had painful hemorrhoids lanced only the day before and stayed overnight at St. Luke's Hospital, electrified the crowd of 42,380 with a home run in the first inning. He also played an important role in the Royals' winning rally in the 10th.

A single by U.L. Washington and a four-pitch walk to Wilson, who was squaring to bunt on each delivery, put the Royals in gear. But Washington was cut down trying to steal third and Frank White struck out, seemingly stifling the rally.

With Brett at bat, Wilson stole second, which left first base open for the Phillies to walk Brett, whose .390 average in 1980 was the highest in nearly 40 years.

That brought up Aikens, who had slugged his first major league triple in the fourth inning. He smashed a drive to the left-center field wall beyond the reach of center fielder Garry Maddox.

Amos Otis also homered for Kansas City and Mike Schmidt, who had 48 round-trippers in the regular season, responded with one for Philadelphia.

Roemisch, when a 50-yard pass was dropped by the Coyotes. That, an apparent sure TD, and the possible conversion kick would have put Borden County back on top.

As it was, Grady scored twice more in the game, on a pair of Jackie Vining-to-Ron Deatherage passes of 20 and 12

Cowboy 'Kids' Growing Up

CLIP A CARDINAL—Ira's Scott Sharp and a teammate haul down Hermleigh player Kenny Riley during action between the two District 2-1A six-man teams Friday night. Ira won the contest 72-21. (SDN Staff Photo by John Dunnam)

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Dallas cornerback Aaron Mitchell is nicknamed "A.M.P.M."

"They're wide awake when he hits 'em and their lights are out when he walks away," says Charlie Waters, the Cowboys' 32-year-old strong safety.

Mitchell is one of two "kids" in the Cowboys' defensive secondary, a unit that drew chuckles at the start of the season but now gets a heap of respect, having allowed only three touchdown passes, while chalking up 12 interceptions.

The other new face belongs to Steve Wilson, a converted wide receiver. Both are 23 years old and both are expected to start at the corners Sunday when Dallas meets the Philadelphia Eagles here in a shootout for first spot in the NFC-East. Both clubs are 5-1.

"I guess it's a good sign that our defensive system is working," Waters said this week. "I'm most amazed by the poise the kids have shown."

It was defense, especially the secondary, that came apart on the Cowboys last year as they gave up over 30 points in four of their last six regular season games.

Waters, who was sidelined with a knee injury in 1979, deserves much of the credit for putting things back together in 1980, even though he insists the key to Dallas's defensive success is the line.

"Hell, any NFL team could play with four rookie defensive backs if the horses up front do their job," he says.

on the big plays - and it would be nice if we could semi-control (halfback Wilbert Montgomery).

Jaworski has noticed Dallas's improved defensive play.

"They seem to have better motivation, 'cause they're really flying around the ball," he says. "The secondary has been noticeably tougher."

"They're playing a lot more man (man-for-man) coverages, too, which means either that their pass rush has been better or that (coach) Tom Landry has more confidence in their individual abilities."

Little Critically Injured

ST. LOUIS—Placekicker Steve Little, fired Thursday by the St. Louis Cardinals, was listed Friday in critical condition with a fractured neck which left him paralyzed.

A neurosurgeon at St. John's Mercy Medical Center in Creve Coeur said Little, 24, suffered total paralysis in an automobile accident early Friday morning.

Dr. Frank Palazzo said the athlete's neck was broken in the anterior area. The fracture, he said, was affecting Little's breathing.

"We hope that he's stabilizing," said Palazzo. "He appears to be doing just that."

"If he stabilizes, there's always a chance for some rehabilitation," the doctor said. "He seems to be in good spirits. He took a philosophical attitude when I talked to him and told him of the very serious nature of his injury."

But the doctor said it was unlikely Little would be able to regain movement.

A spokesman for the St. Louis Cardinals said the club, shocked by the accident, held a prayer session Friday morning for Little.

Authorities said Little was the driver of a sports car which "hydroplaned" off Interstate 270 in west St. Louis County, skidding 125 feet into an exit sign. The athlete was slammed into the dashboard on the passenger-side.

A Missouri Highway Patrol trooper, Michael Cooper, said Little was apparently on his way home in Maryland Heights, heading north on the highway in a heavy rainstorm.

Bulldogs Take Victory, 72-24...

Ira Cracks Cardinals

HERMLEIGH—Ira's Bulldogs kept hopes of a District 2-1A six-man title alive here Friday night, swamping Hermleigh 72-24.

The Bulldogs, 5-2 on the season and 2-1 in loop play, take on undefeated conference favorite Highland next week. The 'Dog junior high squad also gets a test as they return to Hermleigh Thursday for a bout with the 3-1 Cardinal junior high club.

Hermleigh scored twice each in the first and second quarters, but was unable to keep Ira from taking a 53-24 halftime lead and ending the game via the 45-point rule with about three minutes remaining in the third period. It was Hermleigh's sixth defeat of the season. The Cards host Borden County, a 35-14 upset victim of Grady, next Friday. Borden County, 7-2 on the year, is 1-1 in loop play.

Ira's Wade Pierson scored five touchdowns while teammate Scott Kesner added two more and Robert Mitchell snared three TD passes. Mitchell also caught two 1-point conversion tosses, and James Crowder booted five 2-point conversion kicks.

Hermleigh scored in the first quarter as Kenny Riley crossed over from 25 yards out and Dennis Jones went in on a two-yard plunge.

Riley scored again in the second stanza on a 20-yard run, and Kevin Roemisch hit Ted Olsen minutes later for the final Cardinal touchdown. None of the conversions were successful.

Oilers Hoping Casper Will Make Difference

by The Associated Press
All-Pro tight end Dave Casper and quarterback Ken Stabler, for years one of the most feared passing tandems in the National Football League, are together again. The Tampa Bay Buccaneers will find out Sunday if they're still cause for alarm.

The Houston Oilers, who got Stabler from Oakland during the offseason by sending quarterback Dan Pastorini to the Raiders, acquired Casper, Stabler's favorite target, earlier this week in exchange for undisclosed future draft choices.

"We are thrilled to be able to get a player of Dave's ability," said Oilers Coach Bum Phillips, who added he'd have his latest find in the lineup Sunday. "Casper is a quality, clutch receiver that should fit in with what we want to do here."

What Phillips would like to do more than anything else, of course, is catch the Pittsburgh Steelers, who always seem to be just ahead of them in the American Conference's Central Division.

That's the way it is now, Pittsburgh, which doesn't play until Monday night against the visiting Denver Broncos, is 4-2 while the Oilers and the Cleveland Browns are each 3-3.

Sunday's other games are Dallas at Philadelphia, New England at Baltimore, Buffalo at Miami, Green Bay at Cleveland, Minnesota at Cincinnati, St. Louis at Washington, Seattle at the New York Jets, Atlanta at New Orleans, Detroit at Chicago, Kansas City at Denver, Los Angeles at San Francisco and the New York Giants at San Diego. "Casper, 29, almost certainly will be used in a double tight end alignment with Mike Barber on the other end of the

Rockets Pop Hosts, 102-99

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP)—The Houston Rockets won their first road game of the National Basketball Association season Friday with a 102-99 victory over the Portland Trail Blazers.

Allen Leavell of Houston scored nine of his 11 points in the fourth quarter Friday night and teammate Moses Malone tallied 11 of his 33 in the same period. Malone, the Rockets' leading scorer, had 14 rebounds.

Houston Coach Del Harris said, "This should give us some confidence as a team because it's very difficult to win here."

yards, to ice the contest. Despite the loss, Roemisch was concerned only with the future. "I think it will help us. We had won four in a row, and after last week's win (over highly-heralded Ira) we might have been overconfident. I think my kids will come back next week. They won't let up because of this."

In taking on winless Hermleigh next week, Roemisch will be pitted against his alma mater, where he earned All-State honors as a schoolboy athlete.

Citizen Sues INS After Being Shipped Mistakenly To Mexico

ENNIS, Texas (AP) — Angel Antonio Jimenez says he got a free but unwanted trip to Mexico when immigration officials mistook him for an illegal alien and shipped him across the border. He claims that federal agents violated his civil rights during the episode last year.

And Jimenez says he is suing the U.S. Immigration and Naturalization Service in federal court in Dallas for $25,000 in damages, the Dallas Times Herald reported Friday.

There was no immediate comment from the Immigration Service. Jimenez, 26, said he had meant to take the bus from Ennis, south of Dallas, only as far as New Orleans.

The South Bend, Ind., native said when the bus rolled into the New Orleans bus station, immigration officials mistook him for an illegal alien and whisked him away to jail.

He said he was jailed for eight days. He contends he signed a waiver allowing them to send him to Mexico when authorities said unless he signed they would send him to prison.

Several days later Jimenez said he arrived in Delores Hidalgo, broke, lost and very angry. He found a telephone and called his family in the United States.

His parents sent him enough money for a bus fare to the border, where they met him — with his birth certificate, Jimenez said.

HEALTH

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Dehydration won't help him

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I am 15 years old and 5 feet 7. I'm a wrestler in high school and as you know wrestlers have to make weight. My normal weight is 140 pounds and I wrestle in a weight class of 134. This means I must weigh in before matches on Friday night and Saturday at 134 pounds.

After my matches I eat everything in sight over the weekend and drink a lot of fluids, too. On Monday morning when I go to practice I weigh about 145 pounds. After practice I'm down to 140. I go home and eat dinner (I don't eat breakfast or lunch on Mondays, Tuesdays, Wednesdays and Thursdays). The next morning I weigh about 139 and weigh out at 135.

Is it hazardous for me to lose 10 pounds in two days? I don't drink anything much except a little water on Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday because everything I drink my body absorbs instead of turning into urine. I weigh more the next day if I drink anything at night.

What kinds of foods should I eat and should I worry about calories or ounces?

DEAR READER — You have a very unhealthy life style and I don't approve of your program at all. You are not losing 10 pounds of body fat in two days. You're washing water in and out of your body from dehydration. Most of that five pounds you lose on Monday after returning to practice is loss of water. That normally occurs with vigorous physical activity but an athlete regains that weight as soon as his body is normally and healthfully hydrated.

There is a lot of evidence that dehydration to make weight for wrestling matches is unhealthy. That may not impress you so I will tell you that there are very good studies which show that wrestlers who are dehydrated by following the kind of program you follow are not the ones who win the wrestling matches.

When your body is dehydrated the urine that you pass will be very concentrated. Its concentration can be measured by a test we call a specific gravity test. Studies show that wrestlers who have urine with low specific gravity — meaning that they're properly hydrated — are usually as a group the ones who win. Those who have concentrated urine — meaning that they are dehydrated — do not do as well.

You might have to wrestle in a higher weight class but you might find that you would do better in the higher weight class if you were properly hydrated before the wrestling match.

Obviously, you should eat a well-balanced diet and drink whatever amount of water or other liquids your natural thirst inclination motivates you to drink.

Dehydration in warm weather in particular may cause a person to be more susceptible to heat strokes.

I'm sending you The Health Letter number 16-2, Dangerous Dieting. It will give you a lot of useful information about the dangers a person can get into with various dietary fads. Others who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

One way that athletes can detect dehydration is to weigh regularly every day in a standard manner. Excess weight loss may mean dehydration. If that persists, exercise on a warm day can produce some dangerous complications.

Functional Separation

1693 SQ FT LIVING AREA 72'-10"

HOME DESIGN

By Larry Farnsworth

The floor plan of this interesting three-bedroom house is noticeably and delightfully different. Its masterful way of functionally separating the home areas results in efficiency and extreme livability.

The house is just plain nice to look at, too. See that distinctive stone trim, the attractive roof line and the beautiful window and door treatment. And note how neatly the garage is set to make it appear even more than usually a part of the main living area. It is an added convenience for corner lots, as well.

The massive double front doors lead into a big entry opening, on the right, to the charming living room with its large, raised-hearth fireplace. A picturesque wrought iron railing separates the living room and dining room, adding spaciousness to each.

Note, well, that lovely, long parallel kitchen with its many cupboards and counters, and its charming breakfast nook, attractively corner-windowed to provide an especially delightful meal-time setting. And see how cleverly the big utility and laundry room is placed to serve as a convenient entry from the large double garage. Note, too, the utility room's efficient counter — an extra, great for folding laundry, flower-arranging or a multitude of tasks.

Across the kitchen a good sized, pleasant family room with sliding exterior glass doors provides a wonderful gathering place for relaxation and family or party-time fun.

The three bedrooms open from a hallway which offers extra storage space, too. And see the two large baths and that nice walk-in closet in the lovely master bedroom.

An optional basement plan enters the staircase at the utility room and runs along the rear of the dining room.

This skillfully planned home presents an interestingly different approach to good living. And it uses practicality and imagination to achieve a setting in which anyone could find it easy to live pleasantly day-in and day-out.

You can purchase complete working plans or a 500 plan catalog from Larry Farnsworth, P.O. Box 1841, Las Vegas, Nevada 89101.

Between Carter, Reagan...

Debate Appears Certain

By MIKE FEINSILBER
Associated Press Writer

The details are still to be worked out, but it appears certain now that President Carter and Ronald Reagan will debate, head-on, shortly before the election.

Both agreed Friday to a proposal by the League of Women Voters for one-on-one debate after the league decided that independent candidate John B. Anderson had fallen so severely in the polls that he was no longer a serious candidate.

Robert Teeter, a Republican pollster, said the debate could decide the election.

"Both of them (Carter and Reagan) recognize that the high-risk, high-payoff strategy is the debate," Teeter said in a speech to the Ohio Manufacturers Association.

"They're going to have 70 million to 80 million people watching and if you come out of the debate successfully that would win the election, because the potential for making a mistake in the debate would set you into a slide that you might not recover from."

Anderson, campaigning in California, complained bitterly that it was unfair to exclude him. "It is a simple matter of equity, a simple matter of fairness," he said.

Representatives of Carter and Reagan will meet Monday to agree on a date and a format.

The league suggested Oct. 28 — a week before the nation votes — as the date and Cleveland as the site.

The debate between Carter and Reagan will be only the second between the Democratic and Republican candidates for president since John F. Kennedy and Richard M. Nixon squared off four times in 1960. Carter and President Gerald Ford debated in the 1976 campaign.

Tacticians for both Reagan and Carter apparently decided that their campaigns would be enhanced by a debate.

On Sept. 25, Reagan adviser James H. Baker II said Reagan would debate if his camp decided a debate would help. "We'll keep an eye on the polls," he said then, "and keep that tactical option open."

Reagan's aides have been concerned in recent days about evidence that Reagan's campaign had leveled off, leaving Carter plenty of time

The annual Lions Club Light Bulb Sale begins Tuesday, according to Lions Club President Jack Cypert.

Lions Club members will be in residential areas beginning at 6 p. m. Tuesday. Proceeds from sale of the light bulbs are used to finance various club projects including those for the blind.

Horace Bostick is chairman of this year's light bulb sale and team captains are Dennis Chisum and David Kattés. If you are missed in the residential canvas, contact any Lions Club member, Cypert said.

to catch Reagan — who still leads in the polls — and win the election.

They wanted Reagan to go into the final weeks of the campaign with a strong lead in the polls on the grounds that the incumbent generally picks up strength in the closing days of a campaign.

Reagan debated Anderson last month in Baltimore and said he would not meet Carter one-on-one until Carter, Anderson and Reagan all debated together.

The Californian said he would still prefer a three-way forum, but said he would leave to Carter's conscience "and the judgment of the American people whether Mr. Carter should meet Mr. Anderson."

Reagan, campaigning in New York and Illinois, suggested a format like the one used in the 1976 debate between Carter and Ford. It included a moderator and a panel of four questioners, with the candidates permitted to make opening and closing statements as well as required to respond to questions.

Point System Rewards FHA

For the second year in a row, the Ira Chapter of Future Homemakers of America (FHA) is using a points system as a method of reward for taking part in activities of the organization.

This points system was created to encourage active participation and interest on the part of all the group's members.

In an effort to encourage all of the students to do well in the many activities planned for the school year, the officers decided to give a monthly award to the student who accumulates the highest number of points for that month.

At the end of the school year, the two members who have accumulated the most points will attend the FHA state meeting in San Antonio in late April.

Some of the areas in which FHA members earn points include babysitting for PTA meetings, attending special FHA meetings, working on the fund-raising projects and helping with the yearly social.

September's award goes to Lisa Dunn, Irma Sanchez and Patty Blagg.

Henry, Cearley Marry In Hermleigh Ceremony

MR. AND MRS. ROBBIE WILSON CEARLEY

HERMLEIGH—Central Baptist Church was the setting for the marriage of Miss Jo Ann Henry to Robbie Wilson Cearley during a double ring ceremony Sept. 19. The Rev. Buddy Helm, pastor of the Baptist Church in Tarzan, officiated.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lonnie Henry of Hermleigh. The bridegroom is the son of Lillian Cearley and the late W. W. Cearley of Hermleigh.

The altar was decorated with brass candles accented with greenery. A memory candle was centered in front of the altar, while yellow wicker butterflies with white streamers marked pews.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was attired in a polyester satin dress with a scoop neck decorated with lace. The dress had an empire waist and lace covered long sleeves. Her fingertip veil matched her dress.

She carried a cascade bouquet of yellow roses, white spider mums accented with a butterfly in the center and satin floor-length streamers.

Miss Von Dale Henry served her sister as maid of honor, while bridesmaids included Pam Edmondson of Wylie and Brenda Allen. Miss Terri Sue Henry, the bride's sister, was junior bridesmaid.

The attendants wore yellow lace dresses with scooped necks and lace ruffle. A picture hat with lace and ribbon trim accented with a butterfly on the bow completed the outfit. They carried a brown butterfly shaped bouquet with yellow flowers and brown lace streamers.

Miss Kelli Chitsey of Wall, cousin of the bride, was flower girl. She wore a long white dress embroidered with yellow daisies, and wore a daisy in her hair and a wristlet of daisies on her wrist.

Danny Withers of Snyder was best man, while David Reed of Snyder, and Barry Runnels of Ira were groomsmen, Tom Henry, the bride's brother, served as junior groomsman and usher.

Terry Leatherwood, nephew of the bridegroom from Snyder, was ring bearer, while Davie Peterson served as usher.

Candlelighters were Corby Chitsey of Wall and Kim Beane of North Little Rock, cousins of the bride.

Ms. Buddy Helm of Tarzan played the piano. In addition to traditional wedding songs, Ms. Helm sang "Shining Star."

Following the ceremony, a reception was given in the educational building at the church.

The bride's table was decorated with a yellow tablecloth and a centerpiece of a five-candle holder with yellow candles and daisies around a miniature bride and bridegroom. The wedding cake was a three-tier butterfly shape designed by Nell Henry, the bride's aunt.

Ms. Lisa Layfield of Colorado City, cousin of the bride, and Ms. Phyllis Leatherwood, sister of the bridegroom, presided at the table.

A brown table cloth with a centerpiece of an oilwell candle decorated the bridegroom's table. Chocolate cake and coffee completed the table.

Nancy and Barbara Leatherwood, nieces of the bridegroom, served.

Jill Roemisch registered guests while Mande Henry, the bride's cousin, passed out rice bags. Les Beane of North Little Rock, and Tommy Layfield of Colorado City, cousins of the bride, handed out scrolls.

Out-of-town wedding guests were from Snyder, Wall, Colorado City and Little Rock, Ark.

The bride is a graduate of Hermleigh High School and attended Cisco Junior College where she was a member of the Wrangler Belles Drill Team.

Her husband is a graduate of Hermleigh High School and is employed with Dresser-Titan in Snyder.

Following a wedding trip to Abilene, the couple are residing in Snyder.

MEADOWS-MARTIN ENGAGEMENT—Mr. and Mrs. Melvin J. Meadows of Paradise have announced the engagement and forthcoming marriage of their daughter, Deloris Jayne, to Davis E. Martin, son of Mr. and Mrs. George J. Martin of Snyder. The couple will be married Dec. 20 at the Cottondale Church of Christ.

Consumers can affect industry's energy usage by their choices at the marketplace—the "small appliance world" is a wide-open field for this.

While small appliances use only about five percent of a home's energy, it takes significantly more energy to make them and transport them.

Although some small appliances are useful household tools, others spend years sitting idly in homes after industry wasted large amounts of energy to create them.

Consumers can do something about this problem. They can decide which appliances are idle energy wasters, they can stop buying them, and then industry will not make any more of them.

It's the old supply and demand system at work—industry only makes what consumers keep buying. Once the demand for a certain product "dries up," so does that product.

After all the advertising, fad trends and sales highs and lows are over, the consumer is still the "ultimate boss" at the marketplace.

How can consumers decide which appliances waste big energy in production for every small "return" once they're purchased at the marketplace?

Usage at home is the key—especially versatility in use.

First, in order to be used, an appliance must meet a real need—or it'll likely end up on a shelf in the house.

Here's a before buying checklist—each question needs a "yes" answer:

Will the appliance meet a real need?
Will the appliance be used often?

Is wiring in the home adequate for this appliance?

Remember never to connect more than 1650 watts on one electrical circuit at one time—several plugs may be involved in one circuit, so you must check the wattage of everything running on that circuit.

Is adequate storage available?

Will the appliance clean, easily? Is it immersible in water—or, if not, can you clean it satisfactorily?

Once an appliance gets a "yes" on the above questions, and the consumer feels it will "earn its keep at home," there are other points to remember in deciding which model to buy for at-home energy savings.

Certain features save more energy at home than others.

For example, thermostatically controlled portable appliances are able to maintain a set temperature by cycling electricity on and off, so they use energy more efficiently than other appliances, and they provide satisfactory results.

Also, multi-functional appliances offer flexibility to the user—with energy savings.

In addition, consumers get greater flexibility in use from cooking appliances when lids have adjustable vents—these appliances include frypans, dutch ovens and sauce pans.

reagan is our choice

The important presidential election is just more than two weeks away. With perhaps the American way of life hanging in the balance, one would assume it unnecessary to encourage voters to cast ballots.

One would also assume that the vast philosophical differences of the candidates would make last-minute campaigning futile. However, until the final moment, the candidates and their staffs will be wooing voters.

It would be easy to merely attack the incompetent record of Mr. Carter and his administration. The last four years are almost history, and we cannot change what's done. What does concern us is the next four years. Can we reverse the tide toward more and more government?

We believe the party platforms of the two major candidates give us sharp insight into what we as taxpayers and citizens can expect in the next four years.

The Republican platform would put foreign policy emphasis on military readiness and standing by our proven friends. The Democratic platform emphasizes human rights and improving Third World relations.

The GOP identifies inflation as the country's top economic problem, while the Democrats say it is unemployment.

Republicans say the solutions to both inflation and unemployment are to be found in the private sector, while the Democrats would centralize power, money and solutions in Washington.

Republicans want aggressive policies to achieve greater energy production and to improve the quality of life in America. On the other hand, Democrats merely call for conservation and sacrifice.

The first objective of the proposed Reagan administration would be to promote a strong national defense. Democrats, however, first call for stronger relations with like-minded industrial nations, and national defense in the Democratic plank is only fourth in priority.

Republicans believe that the so-called windfall profits tax should be repealed. The GOP also opposes punitive gasoline and other energy taxes. Democrats believe that conservation is the answer to the energy question and that revenue generated by the windfall profits excise tax should be used to expand mass transit.

Ronald Reagan and his party call for a balanced budget as being essential to cooling the economy. To achieve this, we must reduce government spending and reduce taxes. Democrats, however, oppose drastic cuts in social programs, and the platform also opposes a required balanced budget.

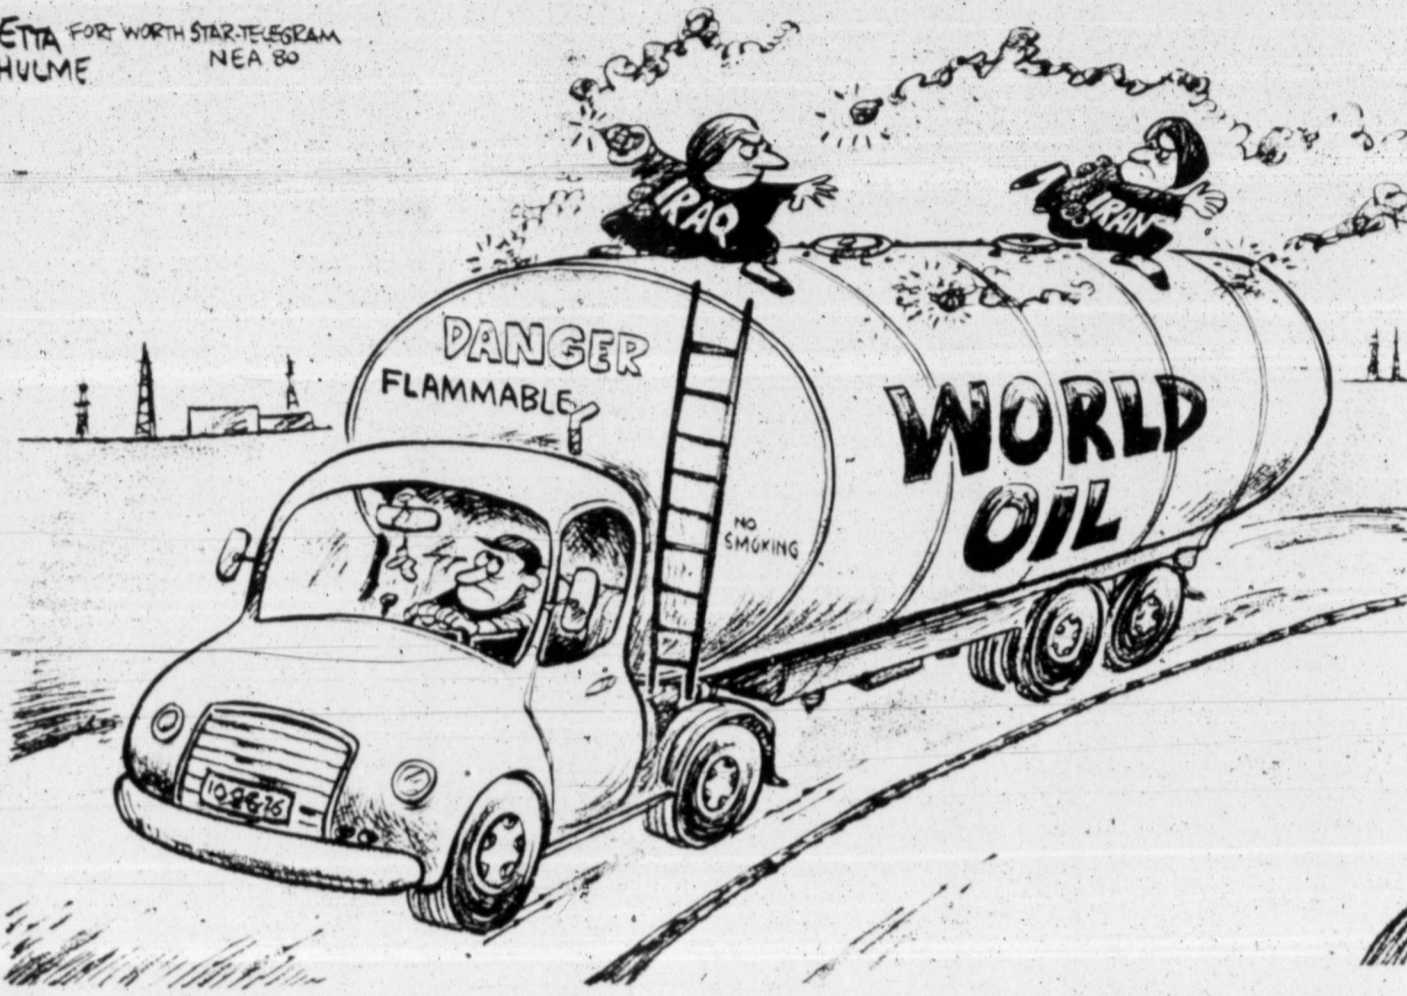

Republicans propose that the answer to employment is to be found in the private sector, that government jobs are only temporary solutions. Another big item is a plank for a youth differential for the minimum wage. The liberal side pledges $12 billion in tax dollars for a jobs program and for training.

National health care also is a big contrast. The Democratic party pledges to seek national health insurance while the GOP is unequivocally opposed to socialized medicine.

There are social questions in which the two candidates are on opposite ends. Carter favors ERA, government-funded abortions and repeal of right-to-work laws. Reagan defends a person's right to work without having to pay union dues. He opposes government funded abortions and also contends that ERA is unnecessary.

There may never be a time in the future of our country when there is a perfect candidate for the enormous task of president. Nevertheless, based on the issues and upon the inept performance of the incumbent, we can and do endorse Ronald Reagan for president.

fashion frustration

How wide will the fashion dictators want us men to wear our lapels next year?

What will they decree to be "in" in men's apparel next season?

A Lawrence Pucci suit, depending on fabric and selection, will cost either side of a thousand dollars. Pucci refuses to alter what he calls his "Classic suit."

He believes that what is "stylishly conservative" will remain acceptable anywhere anytime.

Yet I notice that his cut does vary, if only fractionally, over the years.

This fall the fashion industry is trying again to wheedle us men into "a change," two-button suit jackets instead of three.

Designer Bill Blass insists that "anything truly classic is in style." Halston seconds that notion. Yet both of them narrow their lapels along with everybody else.

Bill Gale, author of "The Mature Man's Guide to Style," says that "every man of affairs should own at least three suits: a grey-flannel, a navy blue and a chalk stripe."

And, he suggests, "buy the best you can afford; fine fabrics last longer." There is a trend, which Gucci has been unable to stop, away from loafers with business suits, back to wingtips and plain toes.

What difference does it make? Why can't a man just make himself comfortable with whatever suits him personally?

But John Callen, the headhunter who recruits top and middle management executives, says, "there is no question but that appearance can make or break a man's chances for a certain job."

The "in" shirt is solid white, or white on white, and with a smaller collar. Anybody who wears colorful stripes is asking to be categorized with "the arty types."

Women who are successful in business similarly gravitate toward suits. This does not mean that jeans are out—yet.

In the informal occupations there are still a lot of girls in shirts and jeans, but Elaine Kirchen, who recruits executives for Boyden Associates, says the female executive will likely wear a suit, maybe a Halston or an Ann Klein with a touch of fashion to make it feminine.

I am glad to see men tidy themselves up—get back to shirts and ties. But one of the reasons for the fashion revolt of the sixties and seventies was the expense of maintaining a decent wardrobe.

Clothing is costly and cleaning is costly and fashion keeps changing. Paul Chang, Chicago tailor, is offering that city's fashion-conscious males a way out.

He'll change the shape of your lapels for $75. He'll narrow your ties for $10 each. © 1980, Los Angeles Times Syndicate.

control on the line. Things like that. The company must get some measurable return on investment; that's how the free enterprise system functions.

A reader passed along the following article that appeared in the Building Supply News. The thought is rather appropriate in view of the upcoming November elections.

The article is entitled, "Is This The American Way?" It goes like this:

I have a cousin who worked on the assembly line for one of the Big Three, and he always loved to lay it on. With the union looking out for him, his income, for many years overshadowed mine. He has no college education and no vocational training. He does have a 5-bedroom house, an 18-foot speedboat, a camper and a new car every other year (which he got at discount.)

I remember one intolerable encounter when he and I got into a discussion. It was triggered by his comment, made during a strike period, that they would hold out for shorter work weeks, more paid holidays, and increased company-paid medical benefits.

"What are you offering management in return?" I asked.

"What do you mean, in return?"

"There's no such thing as a free lunch," I sermonized. "You want something, you pay for it. Or you offer something in return, like guaranteed increased productivity. Better quality

As things got progressively worse, it became painfully obvious that I wasn't going to make any touchdowns for management. Not when the labor team's quarterback, the UAW, was gaining all the yardage.

Suddenly things have changed. The plant is shutting down, and moving operations to Mexico. My cousin's house isn't for sale but his boat is. So is his camper. Meanwhile, everyone's writing sympathetic articles about people like him and how tough they're having it.

Cousin and friends spend a lot of time commiserating at their usual watering hole. Drinks are compliments of you and me and every other individual and company which pays those hefty taxes which feed those unemployed benefits. And, after all, those unemployment checks are only a little shy of their usual take-home pay.

Is this the American Way? To have our labor force programmed to self-destruct through lack of productivity? My cousin always had that union looking out for him. He really never had to worry about producing, the union's clout made it too much of a hassle for management to demand productivity.

Now, because of the insane setup we have for unemployment compensation, it makes more sense for him to sit home, at least for a few months, while we keep hearing how negative productivity ratios are fueling inflation.

If this is the American way, isn't it time for us to finally do something about changing our ways? The concept of free enterprise is at stake.

When the Israelites complained in the wilderness because they had no flesh to eat, the Lord sent quail in the evenings from the direction of the sea. Peloubet says they were on their spring migration northward and probably came all night. They would be easy to catch as they were exhausted by their flight. They were spread about the camp in order to dry them.

"And there went forth a wind from the Lord, and brought quails from the sea, and let them fall by the camp, and the people stood up all that day, and all that night, and all the next day, and they gathered the quail: and they spread them round about the camp." - Num. 11:31-32

TEMPLE, Texas (AP) — State Republican Chairman Chet Upham predicted, Wednesday Texas would elect at least six — and possibly 10 — GOP congressmen in November.

thwest's Gamscam political scandal pales in comparison to more elaborate schemes, bigger bribes and better-known politicians now on display in the East Coast's Abscam cases.

But the recent Gamscam trial here and a series of similar legal cases elsewhere in the country are important elements of the federal government's new emphasis on aggressively investigating and prosecuting political corruption.

Although members of Congress indicted in the Abscam cases have been the objects of intensive publicity, not enough attention is being paid to the companion cases involving state and local officials. Here in the state of Washington, for example, an elaborate undercover operation conducted by the Federal Bureau of Investigation led to the early October conviction of a pair of influential state legislators and a lobbyist.

Lobbyist Patrick Gallagher was found guilty on 14 counts of extortion, racketeering and conspiracy. John Bagnariol, former speaker of the state's House of Representatives, was convicted on nine counts. And Gordon Walgren, majority leader of the State Senate, was convicted on three counts.

Gamscam (an acronym for gambling scam) was similar in many respects to the Abscam cases. An undercover FBI agent posed as an underworld figure promoting an organized-crime campaign to establish legalized casino gambling in the state. Bagnariol accepted $5,000 (a pittance compared with some of the Abscam bribes) in the mens' room of a Portland, Ore., restaurant, and two of the defendants agreed on recorded conversations to share future casino profits.

Similar trials are underway, or soon will open in other states.

In Houston, for instance, Texas House Speaker Bill Clayton is being tried on charges he accepted a $5,000 bribe as part of an illegal insurance-sale scheme.

Clayton allegedly was promised $600,000 if he could aid a fictitious company established by the FBI in selling insurance to an agency representing retired state employees.

Senior activists, take note. Your input is needed for the 1981 White House Conference on Aging.

The week-long conference will not begin until Nov. 30, 1981. But already a 56-member advisory committee has been appointed to shape its agenda.

Plans are also being made for the state conferences that will precede the national one.

We need to act now to make sure that the conference represents us and not just the professionals in the aging field.

So far, the committee has identified these six broad issue areas and related sub-categories as discussion topics:

- Economic security, retirement income, employment.
- Physical and mental health, health services, health maintenance.
- Social and medical aspects of long-term care.
- Social well-being, family, social services and other support systems, the quality of life.
- Older Americans as a growing national resource.
- Creation of an age-integrated society.

Technical committees have been appointed to develop issue papers on these topics. The papers will serve as an information source for delegates to the national conference.

The final report of the conference is required to contain "a statement of a comprehensive, coherent policy on aging, together with recommendations for the implementation of the policy." That policy is expected to

Among those awaiting trial in New Orleans are Charles E. Roemer II, the most powerful state official during the administration of former Gov. Edwin Edwards, and Carlos Marcello, reputed to be an influential organized crime figure. Roemer allegedly received $25,000 and agreed to use his official position to influence the state's awarding of insurance contracts.

When Rep. Michael O. "Ozzie" Myers, D-Pa., was found guilty of bribery, racketeering and conspiracy by a Brooklyn, N. Y., federal court jury in late August, two local politicians—Camden, N. J. Mayor Angelo J. Errichetti and Philadelphia City Councilman Louis C. Johanson—also were convicted.

Less than three weeks later, a federal court jury in Philadelphia convicted George X. Schwartz, president of Philadelphia's City Council, and Harry P. Jannotti, chairman of the council's finance committee, of accepting $40,000 from FBI agents posing as envoys of a bogus Arab sheik seeking political support for a fictitious $346 million hotel project.

In every instance in which a trial has been concluded—including those cited above and the Washington, D. C., case of Rep. John W. Jenrette Jr., D-S. C.—Justice Department prosecutors have secured convictions.

That's important because the investigation of political officials at all levels of government represents a long-overdue departure from the FBI's time-honored practice of confining its activities to probing auto thefts, bank robberies and other street crimes.

A pattern of failure in the recent cases could have inspired the FBI to return to its tradition of venturing into the politicians' domain only to investigate the most compelling and obvious cases of wrongdoing.

But the FBI's success in those cases serves notice upon not only members of Congress but also state and local politicians that their profession's white-collar crime now is high-risk enterprise.

Lobo Oil Corp. of Snyder has recompleted two former Strawn B-3 producers in the Spires field of Kent County from the Strawn C-3 zone.

They are the second and third wells from that pay in the Spires multipay field 10 miles southwest of Clairemont.

No. 1-11 Spires, five-eighths of a mile southeast of Strawn C-3 production, finished from that zone for a 24-hour pumping potential of 40 barrels of 40-gravity oil and 100 barrels of water, with gas-oil ratio of 500-1.

Completion was through perforations at 6,858-6,868 feet after 2,550 gallons of acid.

Total depth is 7,448 feet and plugged back depth is 6,850 feet.

Location is 1,980 feet from the south and 660 feet from east lines of section 11, block 4, H&GN survey.

Lobo Oil Co. No. 2-11 Spires, half-mile southeast of other Strawn C-3 production, completed on the pump for 45 barrels of 40-gravity oil and 250 barrels of water per day, with a gas-oil ratio of 500-1.

Completion was through perforations from 6,856 to 6,866 feet after a 2,000-gallon acid treatment.

Total depth is 6,920 feet. Location is 1,980 feet from north and 660 feet from east lines of section-11, block 4, H&GN survey.

Espuela Oil & Gas Corp. of Midland will re-enter and test as a wildcat the former Oil Development Co. No. 1 Anderson, a 5,840-foot failure in Fisher County, one mile west of Eskota.

The hole will be cleaned out to 3,000 feet.

The project, to be operated by Espuela as No. 1 J. J. Anderson, is 1,130 feet from north and 467 feet from east lines of section 22, block 20, T&P survey.

The project was abandoned in May of 1971. It is five-eighths of a mile southwest of the depleted Eskota, West (Canyon Sand) field. It also produced from the Noodle Creek at 2,545 feet.

Mobile Producing Texas and New Mexico, Inc., operating from Midland, has completed No. 2 Bruce Cox in the Alkali Creek, Southwest (Flippen) field of Fisher County, six miles east of Roby.

The well finished for a daily pumping potential of 145 barrels of 41.4-gravity oil and four barrels of water through perforations from 3,427 to 3,433 feet.

It is the fifth well in the field. Location is 15,680 feet from north and 1,600 feet from west lines of G. W. Lawrence survey No. 330, abstract 279.

WHY GAS IS PLENTIFUL, EFFICIENT AND RIGHT FOR THE TIMES.

It's time to kiss rumors goodbye and settle down with reassuring facts, one of which is that gas is plentiful for the residential and commercial customers of Lone Star Gas Company.

Rumors are usually more exciting than fact, but the fact is that approximately 2,500 drilling rigs were at work in the United States in December 1979. This was the highest active rig count since 1956.

Despite persistent rumors that America is running out of natural gas, industry statistics reveal an increase in the ratio of successes to failures in gas-well completions in 1979.

As a result, the United States has about 14,700* new gas wells it didn't have a year ago. And exploration is expected to increase — not decrease — as higher gas prices offset the increasing cost of drilling.

Another reassuring fact is this: 59% of this nation's estimated remaining onshore gas reserves are in nine major basins in Texas and Oklahoma. Lone Star's pipelines connect with eight of these basins, so we'll have plenty of opportunities to buy new gas.

The new gas appliances can help you hold down your utility bills.

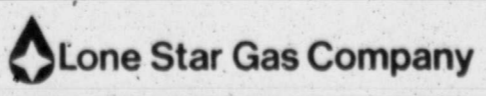

TEXAS AND OKLAHOMA HAVE 50% OF THE NATION'S ESTIMATED ONSHORE GAS RESERVES
ABOUT 14,700 NEW GAS WELLS
MOST ACTIVE RIG COUNT SINCE 1956
NEW APPLIANCES USE UP TO 30% LESS GAS
PLENTY OF NEW GAS BUYING OPPORTUNITIES

Gas is the naturally efficient energy that works in its original form, free of energy conversion costs. Direct use of it in your appliances actually conserves energy and saves you money.

Now, with the new energy-efficient appliances that use up to 30% less gas to do the same jobs your old appliances do so reliably, economical natural gas becomes even more economical.

The new gas appliances can help you hold down your utility bills without cutting back on the comforts and conveniences energy can provide. It's why natural gas and the new gas appliances are so right for the times!

Assignment: "Life" a 52 minute docu-drama, follows reporter Ann Summers on the effects of the 1973 U.S. Supreme Court decision of Roe v. Wade, which legalized abortion in America.

The film "contains facts and footage never before shown to the public, including the first saline abortion ever to be filmed in America. Although the abortion sequences are discreetly edited, parental discretion is advised."

The film was recently featured on a 700 Club special dealing with abortion.

The public (over age 12) is invited to view the film.

David Kattes, a former Scurry-Mitchell County entomologist, last week became a full partner and co-owner of Von Roeder Seed Farms.

"I'm pleased to have David as a partner," said Max von Roeder, the other co-owner. "We're going to strive to do a good job for the public."

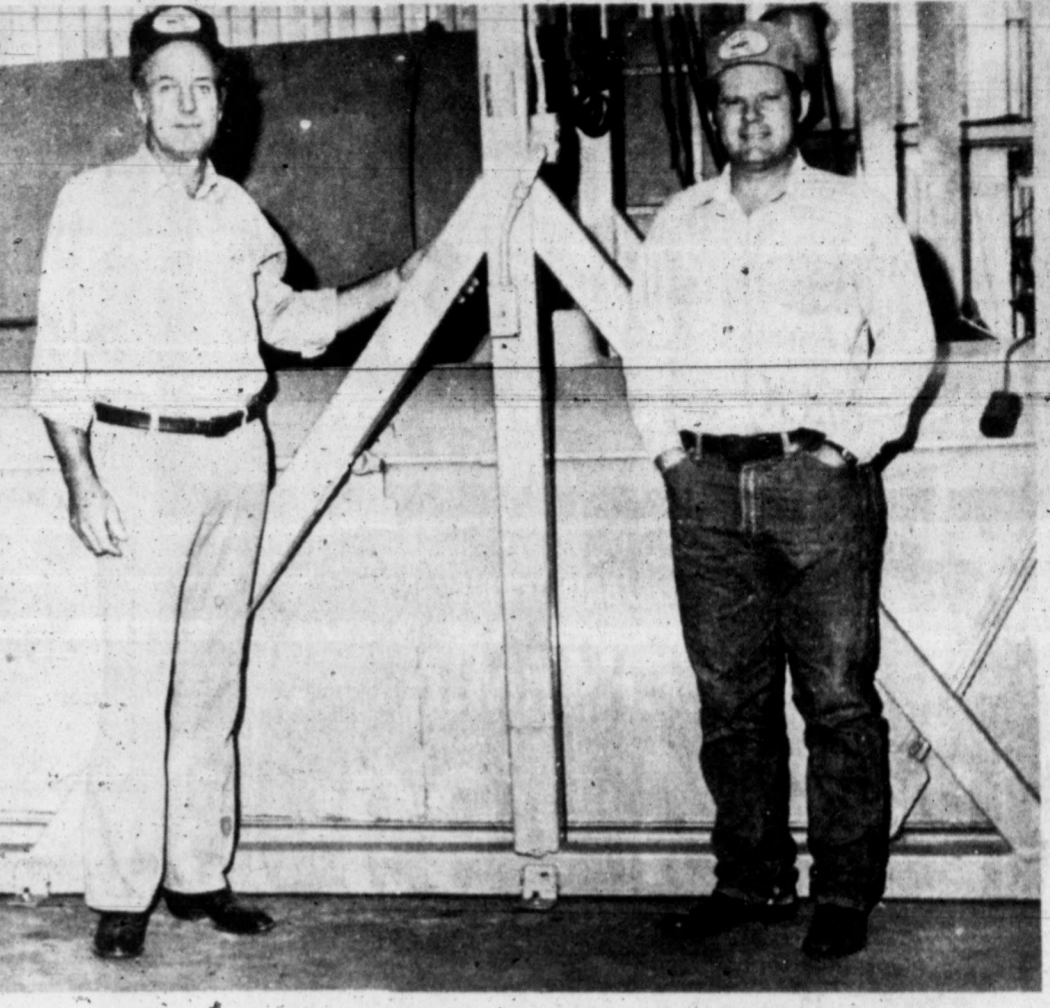

In becoming a co-owner of Von Roeder Seed Farms, Kattes, 29, bought out the interest of the late Bentley Baize. Kattes has been associated with the firm two years.

In announcing the partnership of Kattes, Von Roeder also took the opportunity to announce the purchase of an acid delinting drum. The drum has a one ton capacity.

Von Roeder Seed Farms is the originator of the Western 44 and Western Storm Proof varieties, grows for sale Tamcot 21, Tamcot 21-S, and CAMD-E lines, and performs delinting services for the public.

Von Roeder Seed Farms was started by Clemens and Nolan von Roeder in 1934 and is one of the first commercial seed farm operations in the state.

BRIDGE

Oswald Jacoby and Alan Sontag

Systems, gadgets, devotion

By Oswald Jacoby and Alan Sontag

Alan Sontag and Peter Weichsel play a special system of their own that they call "Power Precision." It has one similarity to precision. The one-club opening is a forcing bid and guarantees at least 16 high-card points. Mike Becker and Ron Rubin, the second pair on the winning Spingold team, also use one club as their forcing opening but get right into relay bids from then on. As a result of these relays, it is possible (not probable) for them to reach a slam after several rounds of bidding without showing their real suit until the final bid. Ron von Derporten and Kyle Larson, the third pair, play a standard American system plus gadgets, as do most expert pairs today.

Kyle says, "After playing against our partners, our opponents are so confused that they don't know what to do when I bid a spade to show spades and rebid in clubs to show clubs while Ron is bidding his own heart suit." We don't intend to show these expert systems here. They are all so complicated that only people who are willing to devote almost their whole lives to studying bridge with just one or two special partners can get anywhere with them. Though we really can't go into these great complications, we can tell you that any bridge partnership can use or add a few fairly simple extras to its bidding to find out about singletons and voids in one another's hands. We will show some of them in the next few weeks. (NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSN.)
