Model Train Hobby Is A Long-Term Project

By JOHN LONG
A visitor seeing Lowell Marble's model train layout for the first time is tempted to call it cute. But those are near fighting words to Marble who insists his hobby is not cute, and it's not a toy either.

putting up a sign that says "Thou Shalt Not Call This Railroad Cute," said Marble. Marble's miniature railroad and its 13x16 layout have occupied three years of his life and Marble says it is only about 15 percent completed. He believes it borders on being a work of art. It incorporates electronics, painting, sculpting, and scaling everything down to one-eighty-seventh actual size. His is a model train as opposed to a toy train.

His trains weave themselves through 500 feet of track, over mountains, through tunnels, and glide through valleys. There are depots, water stations, and freight yards. Before he is through, Marble says there will be as many as 15 train engines capable of being operated by as many as 15 persons.

"You can duplicate in exact detail anything the real railroads can do," said Marble. "The only thing that limits you is your imagination."

To see Marble gleefully maneuver his trains over tracks and with obvious relish, show visitors the intricacies of his craft one is inclined to wonder if Marble, a city firefighter and owner of The Antique Clock Shop, perhaps didn't miss his calling. "A hobby," in the words of Marble, "is taking time to enjoy yourself."

The devotion that model railroaders show to their craft is astounding, Marble knows one man in Lubbock who has been working on his layout 19 years.

"I never met a model

The SDN Column

The World Series is over and basketball is just beginning to stir, which means that football has the center of the sports stage to itself for a few days.

Up there in Philadelphia they are dreaming of twins—World Champions in baseball and World Champions in football, both within the same corporate limits.

This brings us to the prime topic of the past week—why didn't the official throw the flag and call interference on that pass last Sunday in the Dallas-Philadelphia game? We suspect that Skip Bayless, the Dallas Morning News sportswriter, and Tom Landry, coach of the Dallas Cowboys, both probably came up with the correct answer. Bayless, in a column Monday, said flatly that he doubted that the official could have made it to the tunnel without getting his head knocked off if he had thrown the flag.

Landry indicated that he felt the official likely would have made himself vulnerable to bodily harm if he had called pass interference, noting also that it would have been interesting to see what the reaction would have been.

But that's water under the bridge. The call wasn't made, and there is no provision for post-game adjustment.

The point we wish to pursue is that it should be a lesson to Dallas fans. There have been comments by TV commentators and in the press that Dallas fans present a more sophisticated atmosphere than anywhere else in the league. That is, it requires a more spectacular play to get them on their feet and their lungs in gear.

So, perhaps the time has come for the Dallas fans to air it out, let it be known that they can intimidate the zebras as well as anyone in Philadelphia or Pittsburgh and that they are as anxious and as demanding as fans of the other teams. From what we have read and observed, there comes a time when it works, on the field as well as in the league office. There is always an "out" for the powers that be, of course. When confronted with tapes, films and still photos of boners, they can always say that they didn't see it that way at the time. The answer to that is, "Seeing is their business" and if they can't see it as it is, they should take Harry Truman's advice: "If you can't stand the heat, get out of the kitchen." But somehow, these "didn't see" happenings seem to occur in more crucial situations for "America's team" and get called the same way that they do for teams whose fans are more demanding.

Personally, we don't like to see penalty flags thrown, unless it is for some rather flagrant infraction. There used to be a football official working high school games in this area who had a sort of policy of throwing his flag once against each team early in the game. Invariably, it would be for a 15-yard penalty. Then he would put the flag back in his pocket and it would stay there for the remainder of the game, unless something happened that threatened to cause trouble. Usually, those games were plenty interesting.

But, the rules are there, and it is a farce for them to be used by either omission or commission to influence the outcome of a game.

So there, you have our annual observation on one of Pete Rozell's biggest credibility problems—Mickey Mouse officiating.

Both Sides Say Reagan Likely To Win Scurry

Scurry County went Republican two years ago and gave Bill Clements about 62 percent of its votes. Will Ronald Reagan do as well come Nov. 4?

Probably not, but he stands a good chance of "carrying the county," judging from reports from both sides of the political aisle. But the race isn't over.

Both Republicans and Democrats have campaign offices in operation in Snyder, and there has been activity on both sides. Gene Bowlin, who heads up President Jimmy Carter's campaign for Scurry County, concedes that the Republicans got a head start, but believes the race is "real close" in Scurry County and that there probably are enough undecided voters to swing it.

Gene Dulaney, Scurry County Republican Chairman, believes Ronald Reagan is the leader and he believes Reagan will carry the county, but not by as big a margin as Clements did in the governor's race.

"It may be close, but I believe Reagan will carry this part of West Texas, including Scurry County," said Dulaney.

The Republicans have been doing a lot of telephoning here, but workers around their headquarters on the southeast corner of the square are hesitant to analyze the results. They have been trying to pinpoint their support and then concentrate on getting the Reagan people to the polls. Response to the telephone drive has been somewhat as expected—some people say they are undecided, some say it is nobody's business but their own, and others are eager to declare their intentions.

Among those who openly declare their intentions, Bowlin concedes that the Republicans probably are ahead, but he believes there are enough people out there who are not committing themselves before they go into the voting booth to swing the tide to Carter.

Dulaney is more confident, but admits that the margin

Mercury Dips To Freezing

Snyder's temperature dipped to the freezing mark for the first time this season, however clear skies and mild temperatures dominated the Texas weather scene today.

The low reading at the city water plant was 32 degrees, but at 7 a.m., the reading had moved up to a crisp 38 degrees.

Forecasts called for highs mostly in the 70s, ranging from the 60s in North Texas to the 80s in South Texas and Southwest Texas.

A large high pressure system over South Texas kept skies clear and temperatures mild.

Temperatures dipped into the 30s and 40s over much of the state early today. Extremes ranged from 31 at Dalhart and Marfa to 60 at Brownsville.

Some early morning temperatures around the state included 35 at Dallas-Fort Worth and Midland, 33 at Amarillo and 36 at San Angelo and El Paso.

Guarded Optimism Expressed

No Plan Yet For Hostages Release

WASHINGTON (AP) — No plan for releasing the American hostages in Iran has been presented to the United States, although Iranian leaders are considering releasing some of the 52 hostages, U.S. officials say.

President Carter, meanwhile, again cautioned against over-optimism.

U.S. officials who declined to be identified told the Associated Press Friday that release of some, but not all, of the hostages "would give us a real problem," since American officials have maintained all along that all the hostages must be released at the same time.

A number of plans are being considered by Iranian leaders, one official said, "but we have nothing directly in front of us. We are not considering any particular plan."

Earlier Friday, NBC, quoting a Moslem source at the United Nations, said the release of the 52 Americans held since last Nov. 4 would begin Sunday.

But Carter, asked about the NBC report, said in Grand Rapids, Mich., "I wouldn't count on it."

Later, in Wyoming, Mich., Carter told a questioner, "We don't have any clear signal from the Iranians about when the hostages may or may not be released and we don't know their terms (for release) because the Majlis (Iran's parliament) still has not reported their terms. I can't predict to you that they will be released any time soon."

"You know," the president said, "one thing that concerns me a lot lately has been a buildup in the American press, the television, radio, and newspapers, of expectations that the hostages are going to come home early that I don't think are justified."

His caution against over-optimism was echoed by his wife, first lady Rosalynn Carter, and Vice President Walter Mondale.

Still, there were new reports and rumors Friday. State Department officials denied a report that Secretary of State Edmund S. Muskie will fly to Wiesbaden, West Germany, to receive the hostages. Jody Powell, Carter's press secretary, also denied that Muskie would go to West Germany.

And an official of a foreign company that does business in Iran told the Associated Press that the hostages were being reassembled in Tehran for their possible release, a report that could not be immediately confirmed.

Iran Disputes Iraq Victories

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Iraq said today its forces chased defenders of Iran's port of Khorramshahr, captured in a battle causing hundreds of Iranian casualties, down the highway to the refinery center of Abadan, which was virtually seized. Iran denied both claims and reported inflicting heavy losses in continuing hand-to-hand combat.

Amirabad, midway along the 300-mile-long war zone, sustained heavy damage from an Iraqi overnight raid, the communique added.

Q. What, exactly, do the motion picture ratings mean?

A. The letter G means the movie is for general audiences. All ages are admitted. PG indicates parental guidance is suggested as some of the material may not be suitable for children. R rated shows are restricted. No one under 17 is admitted without an accompanying parent or guardian. X rated movies allow no viewers under the age of 17.

Weekend update

Texas Not To Lose Funds

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Texas will not lose the millions of dollars in federal highway funds the Department of Transportation said would be frozen because the state does not meet requirements for granting contracts to minority companies.

Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, D-Texas, announced Friday that U.S. Secretary of Transportation Neil Goldschmidt told him the funds have been reinstated.

State officials claimed the federal requirements concerning minority-owned companies conflict with state law requiring contracts be awarded to the lowest bidder.

Bentsen said the cut-off of federal funds would have held up construction contracts worth $238 million in November and December. Contracts totaling $462 million for 1981 also would have been in jeopardy, he said.

Rubble Sorted For Bodies

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Rescuers today dug through mounds of rubble in a dozen central and southern Mexican towns and villages shattered by a severe earthquake that killed at least 40 people, left about 150 missing and hundreds injured.

The quake struck Friday morning triggering a minute-long jolt that measured 6.5 on the Richter scale, a rating capable of causing severe damage. Shockwaves were felt as far as the capital of Guatemala, 600 miles southeast of here, and in the Mexican Gulf port of Veracruz.

Tens of thousands fled in panic from swaying buildings in Mexico City, the capital, where one man was killed by a falling roof beam and two others died of heart attacks attributed to the quake, police said.

A spokesman for the Mexican Geophysical Institute said the small town of Huajuapalan de Leon, two miles from the epicenter, bore the brunt of the shocks. Mayor Fidel Lopez Sanchez told reporters 80 per cent of the town was destroyed.

Children Search Continues

ATLANTA (AP) — One week after turning up the body of a 10th murdered black child, volunteers were hoping that their second weekend search of vacant lots and abandoned buildings would provide clues about four children still missing.

City Councilman Arthur Langford said Friday he expected 1,500 volunteers, working in 50 different teams, to join the search today of the East Lake Meadows community in southeast Atlanta.

Talk-Back Television Plagued By Problems

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — QUBE, the nation's first talk-back television system, was to revolutionize America's love affair with the tube. But the relationship has been an on-and-off kind of thing.

QUBE, a name owned by Warner Amex Cable Communications Inc., says stands for nothing in particular, except for the fact that it was trumpeted as a sneak preview of television's future. Problems have plagued efforts to fine tune the electronically sophisticated experiment.

Nevertheless, Warner wants to wire four more markets. QUBE is to be installed in Pittsburgh and Warner said there are plans to offer the two-way, pay cable television system in franchises it has been awarded in a portion of Houston, 42 communities in suburban Cincinnati, and 15 in suburban St. Louis.

Columbus became the first site because Warner Amex executives said the city statistically mirrored the average middle class American community and is one of the nation's top test markets. The test hasn't been a four-star success. The results show:

- declining subscriberhip
- customer communications difficulties
- billing errors
- programming problems.

What makes QUBE special is the marriage of cable to computer which enables subscribers to, in effect, talk back to their televisions through a book-size console attached to their sets.

Like subscribers to other cable systems, QUBE viewers have access to numerous channels — in this case 30. But, 10 of them are pay-per-view premium channels. Some of these channels are used only for children's shows, sports or religious programs, cultural events, game shows, special community programming and a channel for first-run movies, including soft-core pornography.

The console has five response buttons which viewers use to select programs, retrieve information from data banks or to interact with the program they're watching.

Upon command, QUBE subscribers "touch in" to register opinions, vote on issues, participate in games and take educational courses. When a button is punched, it signals a bank of computers at QUBE's main studio where the responses are tabulated and flashed on the screen.

Wanberg said QUBE is refining its marketing techniques. The interactive system is sold through advertising, direct-mail campaigns and door-to-door sales.

He also said that programming ideas as well as entertainment and merchandising services are constantly being evaluated.

Former QUBE executive Michael Marcovsky, now associated with Golden West Broadcasters in Los Angeles, thinks cable television could make more revenue from such non-entertainment services as home security monitoring, energy management, data transmission and shop-from-home merchandising.

The QUBE gadgetry has been expensive to provide, to improve and to maintain.

Former and present QUBE executives said Warner has spent between $20 million and $50 million on the project and is studying ways to recoup its investment.

Wanberg said the most successful non-entertainment service QUBE offers is a new security system which has been wired to about 2,000 QUBE customers and is monitored by computer 24 hours a day.

"It involves smoke, fire, burglar, medical alert button and a police panic button," Wanberg said. Installation of the Warner security service can range of $200 to $300, depending on the number of sensors and smoke and fire detectors are placed around the home. Customers pay a monthly bill of $10.50 to $12.50. QUBE has endless possibilities for revenue, even advertising someday.

"Advertising is not now a legitimate source of revenue — but it is in the development stage," Wanberg said. "I think what has changed most dramatically is the availability of satellite-delivered signals that have many advertising opportunities in them for us to sell commercial spots."

Wanberg said that some specialized cable services such as entertainment and sports networks leave several 30-second time periods available in which their affiliates can sell commercials. QUBE is considered such an affiliate since it offers the services.

In the course of a year, Wanberg said it would be possible to fill about 70,000 of these 30-second spots with commercials.

"It will give a small company the opportunity to advertise on video — at a price they can afford and on a rifle-shot basis," he said.

Harold Horn, executive director of the Cable Information Center in Washington, D.C. believes advertising is inevitable for two-way cable operations, perhaps in another three to five years, but he thinks "it will be a mistake to see commercials on every channel. The major advantage of theater networks is that it's uncult — no interruptions with commercials."

"All information providers are looking at QUBE," Wanberg said. "Something is going to happen, but we don't know exactly what the consumer wants, what we can provide or what it will cost."

Carter Gaining On Reagan Lead

WASHINGTON (AP) — In a tightening contest for the White House, the numbers are running Ronald Reagan's way, but President Carter is gaining headway in battleground states that will settle the issue.

Ten pivotal days from a decision, the fortunes of both men remain hostage to a nationally televised campaign debate, and the will of an unpredictable government in Tehran.

An Associated Press survey of politicians, campaign chiefs and opinion polls shows Reagan leading in 23 states, with 202 electoral votes, 68 short of the majority to make him president-elect.

Carter was rated the likely winner in 10 states and the District of Columbia, for 123 electoral votes. Independent John B. Anderson is not expected to carry a state or win an electoral vote. His support is dwindling, and that helps Carter in the big key states.

The race is tight enough to be altered dramatically should one candidate or the other emerge a clear victor in Tuesday night's debate in Cleveland. And Reagan strategists acknowledge that should Iran decide to free the 52 American hostages before election day, Carter surely would benefit at the expense of the Republican nominee.

Chief Fears Counter Attack

Too Dangerous

DALLAS (AP) — Dallas Police Chief Glen King says self defense courses being taught to women as protection against rapists may be doing more harm than good.

King advocates the "ounce of prevention" approach to the problem, saying that individuals who attempt to defend themselves against attackers could make the assault worse.

King told a city committee Tuesday that he was not in favor of a widespread city program to teach women how to fend off rapists.

"Our approach is not to tell people what they can do in the way of karate if they are attacked," King said. "Self-defense for the untrained sometimes can worsen the situation."

King suggested better lighting in parking lots, dead-bolt locks and an educated public would be more along the lines of a better defense against attack.

may be somewhat moderate.

So, as the campaign heads into its final full week, the consensus indicates that Reagan has the edge here and probably has a good chance of pulling it off.

Mike Dennis Has Role In ACU Play

Two Snyder residents are playing leading roles in the homecoming musical, "Like Stars Shining Brightly," at Abilene Christian University.

Mike Dennis, a former ACU drama major, plays the role of a 90-year-old preacher who witnessed the establishment of ACU in 1906.

Dennis is the son of Mr. and Mrs. E. D. Dennis of Snyder, and starred in several major productions at ACU, prior to leaving school in 1977.

He is married to the former Marcie McCormick of Snyder, and Mike is employed at McCormick and Sons Oil Co.

Also with a leading role in the production is Jeanne McCormick, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C.E. McCormick of Snyder.

Miss McCormick is a 1978 graduate of Snyder High School and is a junior at the university.

Jersey, and even his own California. In the state that twice elected Reagan governor, and will deliver 45 electoral votes on Nov. 4, a new poll shows the president 7 points behind, and benefitting as likely voters turn away from Anderson.

That underscores the task confronting Carter in the final days of the campaign. Even if he captured the big five battleground states, along with those in which he now is favored, he'd still be six votes short of an electoral majority.

There's little chance of such a sweep, and if Carter did manage such a feat, it would signal a trend that surely would deliver enough additional states to re-elect him.

But that illustrates Reagan's advantage: there are more winning electoral vote combinations available to him.

The survey shifts two states from each candidate's list of likely victories into the tossup category. Three weeks ago, Ohio and Washington were likely Reagan states, while Carter was favored in Missouri and Tennessee. All four are now seen too close to forecast.

Massachusetts, with 14 electoral votes, was rated a tossup; now Carter seems likely to win there.

Carter has made some headway in Reagan's West Washington, with 9 electoral votes, and New Mexico, with 4, are too close to call now.

But so are seven Southern and Border states Carter carried last time, and an eighth, Mississippi, is leaning to Reagan.

SHS Actors Asked To Re-Stage Play Again

Snyder High School drama department has been invited to re-stage its version of "A Midsummer Night's Dream" for presentation at the convention of the Southwest Theatre Conference next weekend in Austin.

This is the second time SHS has been asked to re-mount one of its one-act plays for presentation at a major convention. The group took its version of "Romeo and Juliet" to a national Theatre Convention in New Orleans in the summer of 1978.

Officials of the convention have announced that the SHS presentation will be one of the main stage attractions at the conference and will precede a performance by Uta Hagen, Broadway's best known classical actress. The SHS students will be special guests at Miss Hagen's performance.

The conference, which is made up of professional, university and community theatre groups, invited the locals to appear on their program immediately after viewing the State One-Act-Play Contest last May. SHS is the only high school invited to appear on the program this year.

Jerry Wosham, SHS drama director, will also appear on a panel discussion while at the convention and SHS students will conduct a workshop demonstrating the training techniques used in the SHS drama department.

The entire cast, with one exception, will be returning from last year to do the show. Mark Shaw, who is a member of the varsity football team will be unable to play his original role because the Monahans game conflicts with the date of the show in Austin. John Wilson, a junior, has stepped into the role and according to Wosham, is doing a great job. Audiences probably won't even know he wasn't part of the original cast.

Those still in high school who will participate in the show include Mark Robertson, Jack O'Banion, Barry Tubb, Joey Fobes, Hunter Crawford, Becky Pierce, Jennifer Cole, Tracey Westmoreland and Nettie Moss.

Former students who will be going are Laquita Reaves, Scott Marlair, Rissa Head, Sara Youngkin, Kelly Devers, Laurie Allen and Tod Fritz, all of Western Texas College. Tommy Peek and Craig Dean will return from Southwest State University in San Marcos.

The conference will feature a number of presentations, shows, workshops and lectures. The SHS students will be guests of the convention and will be allowed to attend all events. Unfortunately, the size of the convention precludes public attendance at the shows, so local citizens, except those traveling with the group, will be unable to get into see the show.

AUSTIN BOUND—Jennifer Cole, Mark Robertson, Becky Pierce and Jack O'Banion rehearse a scene from "A Midsummer Night's Dream" which the SHS drama department will re-stage as part of the Southwest Theatre Conference next weekend in Austin. The convention covers an eight state region, and Snyder High will be the only high school to make a major presentation at the event.

Dictionary Documents Our Diverse Dialects

BY SUSAN J. SMITH
Associated Press Writer
CHICAGO (AP) — In Kentucky, a hillbilly is a hillbilly, but in Maine, he's a hayseed.

In Georgia, he's a cracker, but in New York State, he's a backwoodsman.

In the "American" language — or English as it is spoken in America — there are at least 479 differing things one can call a person of conspicuously rural origin, according to Raven McDavid, who has spent decades collecting such terms.

McDavid, a professor emeritus at the University of Chicago, has toiled since the 1940s gathering words and pronunciations for his "Linguistic Atlas of the United States," which, when it is finished, will be a virtual library of all the dropped r's, mispronounced vowels, ain'ts, cain'ts, and taints in the country.

It will document for Americans, who tend to think they all speak alike, just how differently they sound to a trained ear.

Not only do the words used by Americans vary vastly from community to community and state to state, but the pronunciations vary drastically, even from one city neighborhood to another, says McDavid, editor-in-chief of the atlas.

"There are at least 18 different dialects in Charleston (S.C.) alone," he says.

In Charleston, if they tell you to go sit on the piazza, they are inviting you to sit on what is called a porch in Kentucky and a stoop in the Hudson Valley, McDavid says.

In Baltimore, policemen don't hit people with sticks, they hit them with their espantons. In the Minneapolis area boys don't flip each other with rubber bands, they do it with rubber binders. In Savannah, Ga., and Philadelphia, when they speak about the pavement they mean the sidewalk, not the street, according to McDavid.

There's no end to the variation because each community develops its own local expressions and pronunciations based on its history, McDavid says.

Despite the common myth that there is "pure American" spoken somewhere, that's not true, McDavid says.

"It used to be thought that there was Eastern, Southern and General American," he says. But field workers conducting research for the Linguistic Atlas have discovered there is a great deal of differentiation in the "General American," or catch-all, category.

People from Northern Indiana do not talk like people from Southern Indiana, and neither group talks like folks from Oklahoma or Nevada. That's because dialects — like customs, culture, and modes of government — tend to follow lines of settlement, McDavid explains.

One of the widest belts of Southern-influenced speech follows Daniel Boone's historic Wilderness Road westward from Virginia and the Carolinas into Tennessee, Kentucky, Southern Indiana, Southern Illinois and Missouri, McDavid says.

However, you can't predict the way a person will speak based solely on his home town, McDavid says. Linguistic Atlas researchers have found people who say "warsh," generally a Southern pronunciation for "wash," as far north as Vermont, he says.

Some of the mixing dialects are due to mass communication, urbanization and the speed and frequency with which Americans travel, he says.

If America had not come into being at a time of improved means of communication and travel, differences in speech around the country would be much more marked, he says.

"If we had a serious energy shortage in this country that lasted 50 years, it would affect our language, because people couldn't travel," he says.

However, he adds, television is not the great leveler of language that some people think — largely because people do not talk back to the television set. A Bostonian who hears the Midwestern accent of Walter Cronkite on the nightly news is still going to talk like a Bostonian.

How long before this awesome dialect-gathering project is complete? McDavid can't predict, except to say it will be several years, probably more than a decade.

That's because of the size of the United States, the huge amount of time needed to

Penal Code

Section Held

Constitutional

WICHITA FALLS, Texas (AP) — A state district judge refused to declare a portion of the Texas Penal Code unconstitutional Thursday in a pre-trial hearing for a woman charged with killing her young daughter by cutting out the child's heart.

Patricia Ann Frazier is scheduled to go on trial Monday in Judge Keith Nelson's court here.

Defense attorneys had asked Nelson to strike down a portion of the Texas Penal Code because they said it violates constitutional rights to a fair trial. The defense motion said a plea of insanity shifts the burden of proof from the prosecution to the defendant.

Nelson overruled the motion.

Ms. Frazier was arrested last February after police here found the body of 7-year-old Khunji Wilson in the front seat of a car. The child had been stabbed seven times and her heart had been cut out of her chest. The organ was found beside the body, wrapped in a bloody washcloth.

A similar killing was featured in "The Exorcist," which aired on television several days before the Feb. 22 slaying.

In April, a jury ruled that Ms. Frazier was incompetent to stand trial. Officials at Rusk State Hospital certified her competent in September and on Oct. 4, Nelson ruled her ready to stand trial.

Jury selection begins Monday.

interview people and edit the findings, and, to some extent, funding difficulties, he says.

The atlas is being published by sections of the country. The New England states and the upper Midwest are the only sections already in print.

Years are spent on each region because it takes that long to analyze the region, choose interviewees, make up questionnaires, do the interviews and edit the results.

Responses are plotted out on maps. When there are enough similar responses, a dialect area is plotted out. In addition to the maps, each volume of the atlas has information about the region's history, culture, settlement, population and geography.

The atlas was started in 1929 by the American Council of Learned Societies under the leadership of Hans Kurath, a linguist who is now retired but who was the editor-in-chief of the New England portion of the atlas.

McDavid, who holds a doctorate in Milton from Duke University, started as a field worker in his native South Carolina, then ended up doing one-fourth of the interviews on the Atlantic seaboard. McDavid has been editor for 28 of the 49 years that research on the atlas has been conducted.

"Now I have to carry the bucket on my shoulder," he says of the atlas. Asked where he got that expression, he laughs.

"Ah don't know," he says.

$60 Taken From Purse

A theft and two minor traffic accidents were investigated Friday by city police.

Reporting the theft was Jean Long. She told police $60 had been taken from her purse while she was at the Pizza Hut. Working that case was Kerry Fritz.

The first traffic accident took place at the Food Basket at Huffman and Highway 84 at 12:48 p.m. There, a 1971 GMC driven by Irma Hurt of Alburquerque was in collision with a 1973 Chrysler driven by Elmer Armstrong. Fritz worked the accident.

Don Whittenburg worked a three-vehicle accident at 37th St. and College Ave. at 9:51 p.m. Involved in it were a 1966 Chevrolet driven by Johnny Hermsillo, a 1979 Datsun driven by John Mitchell Stone, and a 1978 Buick driven by Pamela Camp.

Seniors Plan Halloween On Thursday

Senior Citizens are invited to attend a Halloween party starting at 6:30 p.m. Thursday in the Senior Citizens Center.

There will be prizes for the best costumes, and everyone is encouraged to come in costume. Refreshments will be served and table games will be played following costume judging and awarding of prizes.

Senior Center thespians (the SCAMPS) will present a skit titled "P.S. He's Got the Job" at 11:30 a.m. Monday. At 11:30 on Tuesday morning, the Patework Singers from the First United Methodist Church will present a program. Lunch is served at 12 noon in the Center each weekday and morning programs are planned frequently for the enjoyment of persons gathering in the dining room for the meal.

DRINK HARD WATER

Water softening is fine for laundering, but potentially bad for health if the softened water is used for drinking and cooking. Softening the water removes calcium and magnesium, which are beneficial to health, and adds sodium, which is very bad for anyone on a salt-free or low-salt diet. A separate cold water pipe that bypasses the water softener should lead to the kitchen sink for drinking purposes.

ECONOMY STARTS AT HOME

National government covers its deficit spending by printing more money which causes inflation and is a hidden form of taxation.

Local governing units cannot print money, so every cent they spend has to come out of the taxpayer's pocket.

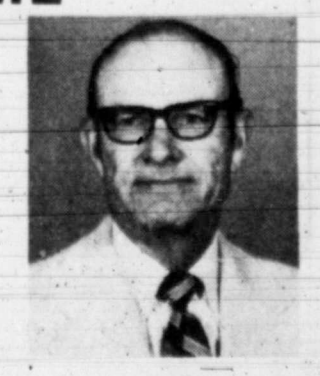

We have become so concerned about the inefficiency of big government that we have overlooked the local spending.

The questions "Why?" "How much?" "Do we really need it?" and "Can new work be done by someone we already have?" need to be asked much more often.

As your commissioner you can bet Bernhard Bartels is going to be asking these questions.

HEALTH

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Alcohol can be deadly

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — My 39-year-old brother died due to pancreatic hemorrhage caused by acute alcoholism. I wish I could have taken my bed to see all the lifesaving machines, heart, kidney, oxygen, etc., and the many needles inserted throughout his body in an attempt to combat the ravages of alcohol. Those readers who protest your stand on alcohol would not be so bold about their accusations if they have to witness this kind of unnecessary death of a friend or loved one.

DEAR READER — Thank you for your thoughtful letter. I'm sorry to hear about your brother's untimely death. It's always a heartache to lose a loved one and in many ways even worse to realize it's an unnecessary death, often accompanied with needless suffering.

Alcohol can cause pancreatic hemorrhage, it can damage the liver, the brain and even cause heart failure. Cirrhosis of the liver is the fourth most common cause of death in American men between the ages of 35 and 54 and it's the fifth most common cause in women of the same age group. About 60 percent of these deaths are caused by alcoholic cirrhosis of the liver.

The many different ways alcohol can damage your body are discussed in The Health Letter number 14-6, Alcohol Can Be Dangerous to Your Health which I'm sending you. Others who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Send your request to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019. It lists most of the organs of the body that are affected by alcohol and it will also give people a guide for how much each drink, during a period of time, affects their blood alcohol level. These levels are used in many states to determine whether a person is legally drunk or not. It's important for those who do drink to know how to minimize the danger from their habit.

Of course, people who are not alcoholics can have one or two drinks periodically without incurring any serious health damage. If they don't exercise care in relationship to driving, though, they can have a fatal accident. There are even studies that show individuals who drink two cocktails or less are less apt to have heart attacks. But there are much better and more effective ways of preventing heart disease than resorting to alcohol.

The danger with using a little bit of alcohol is that too many people who try this end up using too much alcohol. Even concerning the question of heart disease, while there is some evidence that a little alcohol is helpful, a little bit more is harmful. Then there are a large number of people who already have some heart disease. In these people even small amounts of alcohol decrease the efficiency of the heart muscle.

My objection to the excessive use of alcohol is not based on moral factors as some of my readers might think. It's based solely on the terrible effects that the excessive or unwise use of alcohol has on so many people's health. Your brother's case is merely one example of countless thousands. Alcohol remains one of the foremost medical problems in our society today.

In The Oil Patch...

Completion Re-Opens Scurry's Towle Field

A reopened field is the Towle (Canyon) field three miles northeast of Snyder. The pool was re-opened with completion of Par Producing Co. of Snyder No. 1 Beck. It completed for a daily pumping potential of 60 barrels of 41-gravity oil, with gas-oil ratio of 100-1.

Completion was from open hole at 7,158 feet, where 5 1/2-inch casing is set, and total depth of 7,168 feet. The pay was acidized with 250 gallons.

Location is 1,100 feet from south and west lines of section 102, block 3, H&GN survey. Three locations have been staked in the Sharon Ridge (Clear Fork) field of Scurry County.

A. D. Adkins Corp., Sweetwater, accounted for two of the locations, which will be drilled to 3,000 feet. They are one mile northwest of Ira.

No. 3 R. D. White is 990 feet from north and 2,320 feet from west lines of section 132, block 97, H&TC survey.

The No. 4 R. D. White spots 1,654 feet from north and 2,320 feet from west lines of section 132, block 97, H&TC survey.

Ellipen, Inc., Colorado City, staked the other Clear Fork project in the Sharon Ridge field. It is the No. 4-D Coleman and is three miles south of Ira.

Scheduled to 3,500 feet, it is 2,410 feet from north and 2,310 feet from east lines of section 97, block 97, H&TC survey.

PIP Petroleum Corp., operating out of Midland has staked two -tests in the Corazon (San Andres) field of Scurry County, five miles northeast of Fluvanna. Both are scheduled to 2,800 feet.

No. 21 E. G. Browning "B" is 1,980 feet from north and 1,675 feet from east lines of section 541, block 97, H&TC survey. Operator's No. 2 Smith-Patterson is located 2,301 feet from south and 1,090 feet from east lines of section 540; block 97, H&TC survey.

The No. 2R Perry Echols was staked by C. M. Russell Oil Co., Lubbock, as a replacement project in the Sharon Ridge field in Scurry County. Contracted to 1,875 feet, it is to replace the No. 2 Perry Echols. Drillsite is 990 feet from south and 708 feet from west lines of lot J. C. A. O'Keefe, subdivision 33, Kirkland & Fields survey, two miles east of Ira.

A pair of wildcats were spotted in Borden-County, one by McCormick Operating Co. of Houston and the other by The Wil-Mc Corp. of Irving. McCormick No. 1 J.R. Lemley will be drilled to 8,800 feet 11.7 miles east of Gail.

Drillsite is 467 feet from north and 1,200 feet from east lines of section 322, block 97, H&TC survey. Ground elevation is 2,479 feet.

The location is 3,500 feet southeast of a 7,948-foot dry hole and two miles northeast of the closest production in the Lucy, North (Pennsylvania) field which produces at 7,830 feet.

Wil-Mc No. 1-May Stephens was staked six miles northwest of Gail and 300 feet east of a 7,515-foot failure.

The location is 660 feet from south and 1,661 feet from east lines of section 43, H&OB survey. Ground elevation is 2,806 feet.

William N. Beach of Midland No. 2 Belew is to be dug 5/8 miles northeast of the four-well Myrtle, North (Strawn) field of Borden County, 15 miles east of Gail. Location for the 8,300-foot test is 660 feet from south and east lines of section 480, block 97, H&TC survey.

John L. Cox of Midland No. 1 Sterling Williams has been completed as a 1 3/4-mile southwest extension to Spraberry production in the Borden multipay field of Borden County, 14 miles northwest of Gail.

The operator reported a daily pumping potential of 17 barrels of 38-gravity oil and 44 barrels of water, with a gas-oil ratio of 6.751-1.

Completion was through perforations and open hole from 7,311 to 9,631 feet. Scheduled as a wildcat, the project is bottomed at 10,005 feet and 4 1/2-inch casing is set at 8,800 feet.

The well is 1,650 feet from south and 2,310 feet from east lines of section 45, block 32, T-6-N, EL&RR survey. Mole Operating Co., Inc., of Richardson No. 1 Maurene Bars and others will be dug as an 8,000-foot wildcat 20 miles northeast of Big Spring in Howard County.

The prospector is 680 feet from south and 920 feet from east lines of section 14, block 25, H&TC survey. It is 7/8 miles southwest of Canyon reef production in the Sara-Mag field. The pay is at 7,580 feet.

ConVest Energy Corp. of Houston No. 2 Wayne Williams is a new well in the Pollan (Ellenburger) field of Kent County, two miles southwest of Polar.

On 24-hour potential test it pumped 52 barrels of 42.1-gravity oil and 20 barrels of water, natural, from open hole at 7,790 feet, where 5 1/2-inch casing is set, and plugged back depth of 7,812 feet. The gas-oil ratio is 250-1.

Location is 660 feet from south and 3,000 feet from west lines of section 59, block 5, H&GN survey. Seago Oil Inc. of Abilene will drill No. 4 Hughes as a 5,600-foot wildcat in Fisher County, 10 miles southeast of Sylvester.

The drillsite, surrounded by production in the Eskota (Canyon) field, is 6,574 feet from north and 691 feet from east lines of H. Cosby survey No. 220. It is one location southeast of gas production in the Wickham (Palo Pinto) field which produces at 4,831 feet.

Stroube Exploration Inc. of Abilene No. 3 Fields "A" is to be drilled as a 5,000-foot wildcat in Fisher County, six miles northwest of Noodle. Location is 1,800 feet from north and 467 feet from west lines of section 1, block K, T&P survey, 1 3/4 miles east of the Newman (Swastika) field.

Mobil Producing Texas & New Mexico also completed No. 3 Bruce Cox as the sixth well in the Alkali-Creek, Southwest Flippen field of Fisher County, six miles east of Roby. On a 24-hour potential test it pumped 145 barrels of 41.4-gravity oil and four barrels of water, through perforations at 3,412-3,431 feet. The zone was treated with 500 gallons of acid. Total depth is 3,500 feet, and 4 1/2-inch casing is set on bottom.

Wellsite is 14,500 feet from north and 990 feet from west lines of G. W. Lawrence survey No. 330, abstract 279. The Raven Creek field of Fisher County has gained its 10th Strawn producer.

It is Seago Oil Inc. No. 3 Griffithy, eight miles southeast of Sylvester. It completed for a 24-hour flowing potential of 131 barrels of 42-gravity oil, no water, with a gas-oil ratio of 2,000-1.

Completion was through a 1264-inch choke and perforations from 5,046 to 5,060 feet after a 10,000-gallon fracture treatment. Total depth is 5,105 feet and 4 1/2-inch casing is cemented on bottom.

Location is 2,390 feet from north and 467 feet from east lines of section 3, block 19, T&P survey.

Strategy Undecided To Battle Gas Legislation

HOUSTON (AP) — Independent oil and gas operators remain unhappy with federal natural gas legislation but are undecided on strategy to be used when the new 97th Congress begins work in January.

The 6,600-member Independent Petroleum Association of America appointed a special subcommittee last May to develop such strategy within the framework of the group's longterm goal of complete decontrol and deregulation of natural gas.

The study group was to have submitted its recommendations Oct. 19, but instead asked for additional time, saying the Nov. 4 presidential and congressional elections hold the key to determining the exact strategy to follow.

A special session of the trade group's full natural gas committee now will be called within 90 days to receive and act on the subcommittee's suggestions. While seeking time to review elect results as well as strategy, the subcommittee did report several areas of concern, including a warning "there is growing talk of applying the windfall tax concept to natural gas."

"The subcommittee feels that unless an effort is made now to bring about substantial change in the Natural Gas Pricing Act of 1978, a massive windfall tax could be linked to 1985 decontrol, or decontrol probably will not be allowed to occur," the study group said.

"However, the outcome of the 1980 elections holds the key to the strategy which should be followed in pursuing our long term goal of freeing natural gas from nearly 30 years of rigid production and market controls. The 1978 act began a move toward decontrol of new natural gas but it established a pricing system for more than 25 categories of gas and the independents say its regulatory burden continues to grow and is hindering efforts to expand domestic gas production.

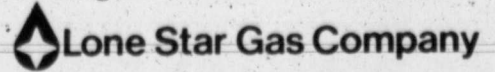

The subcommittee also reported that average domestic natural gas prices remain far below average prices for imported natural gas. The oldest river in North America is the New River in West Virginia. The headwater portion of the ancient Teays River, the New River began tumbling out of the Appalachians 100 million years ago.

Lone Star shops for the best values. Just as one brand of green beans might be a better value even though it costs a penny or two more, gas that costs the least could prove to be the most expensive.

As a result of this careful shopping, Lone Star's weighted average cost of gas in 1979 was $1.76 per MCF (1,000 cubic feet) of gas — lowest of any major intrastate gas company in Texas. This savings is passed on to you because your monthly bill is based on our average cost of gas.

Venezuela Ups Heavy Oil Price

NEW YORK (AP) — Venezuela is increasing the price it charges for heavy industrial fuel oil by more than 10 percent, oil industry sources said Friday.

The increase was believed to be the largest ever announced by the South American oil exporter, traders said.

Heavy oil, also known as "residual" fuel, is used to run electric generating plants and heat large apartment buildings, mostly on the East Coast of the United States. It is not used as a heating fuel for private homes.

The sources, who asked not to be quoted by name, said Venezuela notified American oil buyers by telex Friday that the price increase would take effect Monday. Venezuela did not raise crude oil prices, they said.

According to the sources, the Venezuelan price increase reflects heavy demand for residual oil in Europe and Japan since the outbreak of the Iran-Iraq war last month, rather than increased consumption in the United States.

Oil with a 1 percent sulfur content, used in areas where air pollution is more severe, climbed $3.74 a barrel to $31.58, the sources said. Oil with a 2.2 percent sulfur content rose $3.40 a barrel to $30.18, and oil containing 2.8 percent sulfur — used as fuel in ships — went up $3.53 a barrel to $29.48, they said.

The increases will have "a direct impact" on U.S. buyers of the fuel, a source at one major oil company said. Another source said many utilities would be able to pass the price hike on to consumers quickly through fuel-adjustment clauses.

The United States each day buys about 270,000 barrels of residual oil from Venezuela, about one-quarter of its total residual oil imports and 10 percent of its 2.6 million barrels-a-day residual oil consumption.

Residual oil imports, much of them from Caribbean refineries reliant on Venezuelan crude oil, account for 5 percent of U.S. oil needs, according to government statistics.

The Iran-Iraq war has removed about 3.8 million 42-gallon barrels of oil exports a day from world markets. Included in the total is about 300,000 barrels a day of residual oil that had been coming from Iran's severely damaged Abadan oil refinery.

2 Paintings Stolen Again

BERLIN (AP) — For the second time in just over a year, two paintings by 19th century romantic German master Caspar David Friedrich have been stolen — this time, despite a burglar alarm which went off at Berlin's Charlottenburg Castle, where they were part of a special exhibit.

Police said Thursday that a thief used a ladder chained to the building for renovation work to climb to its second floor, smashed a window to get in and then broke into a showcase holding the paintings.

Germany Cracks Down On Drinking Drivers

By SUSANNE M. SCHAFER Associated Press Writer

BONN, West Germany (AP) — It was a great party: many mugs of German beer, glasses of Rhine wine and icy shots of heady Schnapps.

And when it came time to weave out into the wee hours, not one of the two dozen partygoers drove a car home.

Because of a strict law that automatically strips a driver of his license if he's found to have more than 0.8 milliliters of alcohol in his bloodstream, auto-loving West Germans are learning to leave their cars at the curb after a bout with the bottle.

"It's a pain, but it's worth it," said one snookered 26-year-old reveler, who preferred to remain anonymous as he slid into a taxi. "I lost my license once and I'll never let it happen again."

In the past year and a half, the West German government and police have cracked down on drunken driving. The most visible action has been roadblocks at key highways, intersections and Autobahn exits where police halt drivers at random to check for alcohol consumption.

Due to the dense population in the Ruhr and Rhineland areas in northwestern Germany, spot checks there are usually more frequent, police officials said.

"The goal is to get drunkards off the road," said Inspector Hartmut Baumgart, chief of the Bonn Traffic Police. "If we scare a few other drivers along the way, and keep one drinker off the road, it doesn't hurt."

During a quick briefing in a basement room of the Bonn police headquarters, Baumgart barks out a few instructions, points out several points of rendezvous on a map and sends his green-uniformed squads out in search of tipplers.

A dozen police in two cruiser cars and a paddy wagon halt drivers at four intersections scattered throughout the city or its outskirts. After two hours, each group switches its barricade to a new spot.

The days and hours for the police swoops are computer-chosen, based upon the number of drunken drivers found the month before.

Baumgart said the com-

Host ASCS Meet Tuesday

A preview of the 1981 farm program will be given those attending the district meeting of the Agriculture Stabilization and Conservation Service Tuesday at the Scurry County Coliseum. Federal and state executives will be on hand.

Roy Hanson, the county executive director for ASCS, said, "The meeting will explain and go over what is to be expected in the 1981 farm program." He said also that 75 to 100 persons are expected to attend the meeting.

Executives attending the meeting will include Winston Wilson of Washington, D.C., an undersecretary of agriculture, Steve Pringle, a state executive ASCS director, J.D. Smith, chairman of the state ASCS, and Johnny Fowler, district director for the ASCS.

The meeting will begin about 9:30 a.m. and will continue until about 2:30 p.m. The format, said Hanson, will be informal.

Manager Named For K mart Here

K mart Corp. has named Charles D. King general manager of the new K mart discount department store in Snyder.

The new store, located on College Ave. just north of 37th St., is expected to open in late November.

King will come to his new assignment after serving as merchandise manager of a K mart store in Fort Worth for more than two years. Previously, he was assistant manager of K marts in Sherman, Dallas and Arlington.

A native of Houston, King joined K mart in 1972. He has a BBA degree from Texas A&I University.

The new K mart in Snyder will be under the supervision of Larry M. Parkin, vice president of K mart's Western Region headquartered in Covina, Calif.

When the new store opens in Snyder, K mart will have 141 facilities operating in Texas, including 137 K mart stores and four Kresge variety stores.

Or Will Cloud Remain?...

Clayton To Learn If Trial To Hurt Career

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Speaker Billy Clayton is about to learn whether acquitted by a jury also clears away clouds that Brillab swept over his political future.

Clayton was found innocent, but some Texas politicians have learned that just being associated with a scandal can ruin a political career.

Some examples: — John Connally was acquitted of taking a bribe from milk producers, but the scandal lingered on and was certainly a factor in his poor showing in the Republican presidential primaries. — Ben Barnes and Preston Smith never were charged with anything, but their names popped up in the Sharpstown scandal and that was all it took to wipe them out in the 1972 governor's race. — John Ben Shepperd's political career died in the veterans' land scandals of the 1950s because he served on the land board, even though nobody accused him of any wrongdoing.

Clayton had said for months that the only thing that would push him out of the speaker's race would be his failure to win acquittal "before the frost is on the pumpkin."

Meanwhile, he blessed conservative Rep. Gib Lewis' campaign for speakership pledges contingent upon a Clayton decision no longer to be a candidate.

A clearcut declaration by Clayton that he is campaigning for an unprecedented fourth term as speaker apparently awaits a canvass of his supporters and a face-to-face meeting with Lewis.

Some of Clayton's backers think the meeting should be held before the announcement, more out of personal respect than anything else.

"Gib deserves some consideration for all the work he has put in. The guy's been working his behind off for months," said Rep. Gerald Hill, D-Austin, a Clayton supporter who has promised to vote for Lewis if Clayton drops out.

Rusty Kelley, the speaker's executive assistant, said that within 24 hours of Clayton's acquittal in Houston, more than 90 House members called, telegraphed or visited to say Clayton still had their votes.

But Kelley said it would be "politically unwise" not to call each House member pledged to Clayton and verify that the pledge is still good.

"I'm sure we'll do an accurate head count after the election," Kelley said.

The speaker will be elected by a majority of the 150-member House when the Legislature convenes Jan. 13.

Only Rep. John Bryant, D-Dallas, has announced against Clayton and he has been running since before Brillab broke on Feb. 10.

If there is any obstacle to Clayton's re-election, it could be a perception by House members that even though he was acquitted, he is tainted as far as the voting public is concerned.

A legislator might fear that voting for Clayton might damage his own future chances for re-election. If the acquittal erases any suspicion that Clayton committed a crime, Brillab still raises questions about his judgment, one highly placed politician said.

Yet Austin lobbyists — who often have a better feel for political reality than anybody else in town — are starting to talk up Clayton.

"I used to think he could never be elected speaker again, but I've changed my mind now," said one.

"He is going to run again. I hope," said another prominent lobbyist.

FREEDOM TREE PLANTED—The Snyder Jaycee-Ettes, assisted by Girl Scout Troop 223, planted a tree in the Kiddie Park and dedicated it to the hostages in Iran. The ceremony was planned in conjunction with Freedom Week, USA, a campaign started by the U.S. Jaycee-Ettes to show support of the hostages and to encourage their release. Merchants in Snyder joined merchants across the nation in showing their support by displaying yellow ribbons in their windows. ## Quiet Island Pierced Annually By Bird Shot PELEE ISLAND, Ontario (AP) — Pelee Island has a private social club, but no bank. It has a policeman, but no jail. Two restaurants, but they're closed in the winter. No movie theater. No doctor. No high school. Naturally, it is a quiet place.

But every year since 1932 this flat, marshy Canadian possession between Ohio and Ontario crackles with buckshot for four days in the late fall, during its famous pheasant hunt.

Hundreds of hunters from mainland Canada and the United States come here, dragging guns and dogs through shorn soybean fields and sparse woodlands and along the overgrown drainage canals, stalking their prey — 16,000 just-released birds.

"It would be about as much fun as clubbing butterflies," says Daryl Smith of the Ontario Ministry of Natural Resources. "When the birds are released, it's almost like picking them up off the supermarket shelf."

These tame, pen-raised pheasants have no place to hide on Pelee, which is 90 percent cultivated.

"It's like a little civil war when it starts," says Bill

Krestel, a farmer who has lived here all his life and also participates in the hunt every year. "For the first two hours, it's bang, bang, bang, as fast as you can shoot. The dogs don't know which bird to chase."

Even the hunters are dangerously exposed. "You get 800 hunters on an island of 10,000 acres, where only a thousand acres are brush — just think of what the chances are of getting shot," says Charles Wallace, the township reeve (mayor) and customs officer. Yet, nobody has been killed at the hunt in recent memory, though dozens have been injured.

"It's like a holiday," Wallace says of the hunt. "You come downtown, and there's no friction" between people. Even the dogs seem to get along. It's just a merry old time."

Except during the two consecutive weekend hunts — the first of which was scheduled this year for Oct. 30 — Pelee is a rural, unassuming place with a mild tourist trade in the summer. "If we didn't have the tourists, it would be pretty dull," says Doris Dennis, who runs the motel.

The municipal government sponsors the local farm where day-old chicks are raised in brooders until they graduate to outdoor pens covered with nylon netting. They feed on sunflower seeds, cracked corn, and sometimes each other — cannibalism being a peculiar pheasant trait. Twenty-five weeks later, they are packed in crates, hauled away in pick-up trucks and set free all over the island.

The farm costs $109,000 a year to run, but the four-day hunt alone brings a profit of $30,000, liquor sales quintuple, and even the private residents rake in tidy sums by providing bed and board for hunters. In practical terms, the hunt is Pelee's largest source of revenue.

Cosmetology Class Set

A cosmetology review course for licensed cosmetologists has space for one more student, Judy Border, instructor, said.

The course offers basic and advanced techniques of haircutting and braiding. It offers 15 hours of instruction, with classes meeting from 6:30 to 9:30 p.m. on Oct. 27, Nov. 17 and 24, and Dec. 8 and 15. Persons wishing information about cosmetology courses may call Mrs. Border at 573-8511, extension 267.

Conducts Survey To Find Vampires

NEW-YORK (AP) — This survey has some unusual questions. It asks for a day address and a night address. It asks you to rate on a scale of zero to 10 the violence of your reactions to things like sunlight, the cross, garlic and Frank Langella.

That man is Dr. Stephen Kaplan, a 40-year-old sociologist who describes himself as "the foremost vampirologist in the world, a respected scholar as well as someone who knows something of show business."

He's also a man who has drunk blood, posed in graveyards and slept in a coffin. Research.

The sandy-haired Kaplan says he's deadly serious, even though he allows as how he'll be happy if 1 percent of the replies are serious.

A sampling of the 116 questions: — If you could bite anyone in the world, who would you bite? — Historic personality — Current personality — Do you find it necessary to sharpen your teeth? — Do you have many vampire friends? — Do you date? — other vampires — humans — both? — Do you use a mouth-wash?

Actually Kaplan knows a great deal about vampires already. But he's unwilling to give a lot of it away since it's contained in his book, "Vampires Are," as told to Carole Kane. Kaplan says it is the definitive work on vampires and vampirism. There's only one problem. You can't read it yet. It is what is known in the trade as a book in search of a publisher.

Real Estate Wife May Lose Her Home

By Abigail Van Buren
© 1980 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: How can I get the message to my mother (age 49) that if she doesn't start spending more time with her husband (he's 51), her marriage could be in trouble? Dad has always been an excellent provider, so Mother never had to work. Well, two years ago, Mother got bored and started selling real estate. I respect Mother for doing her own thing, and she's good at it, but daytime appointments should be enough. Now she's seeing clients in the evenings, too, so Dad has to shift for himself.

Last night Mom was working again, so my husband and I invited Dad, a very handsome man, to have dinner out with us. We ran into Peggy, a beautiful blonde I went to college with. Peggy joined us for a while and lost no time in announcing that she's newly divorced. She really came on to Dad, and he lapped it up. She mentioned where she was working, and I could see Dad making a mental note of it. Abby, he's not a dirty old man — he's lonely and neglected.

So how does a 28-year-old daughter tell her mother to start acting more like a wife and less like a real estate agent? WORRIED

DEAR WORRIED: Just tell her what you told me — in exactly the same way — and if she's smart, you won't have to draw her any blueprints.

DEAR ABBY: I'm madly in love with a guy named Freddy. It was love at first sight. I had car trouble on my way home from work, and he stopped to help me. I treated him to a hamburger, then we went to my place and he stayed all night. (It's not what you think. He slept on the floor.)

I know it sounds awfully fast, because two weeks ago I didn't even know him and now he wants to marry me. He's 24 and I'm 20.

There is only one problem, Abby. Freddy is crazy about disco and I hate it. I'm not a very good dancer to begin with, and that loud music gives me a headache. Freddy is a fantastic dancer and he's trying to get me to learn, but I really don't care for it. You see, I'm sort of against dancing (I'm from a strict Baptist family), and I'm also against going to places where there is drinking. Freddy likes to go to discos, and even though he's not a big drinker he'll have one or two because he has to order something.

Please don't think I'm a stick-in-the-mud, Abby. I'm not. I just don't care for disco and drinking. I really love Freddy, but I wonder if a marriage can work with a man who wants to disco every night when I'd rather stay home and watch TV.

LOVE AT FIRST SIGHT

DEAR LOVE: Take a second look, and a third, and a fourth. If it's really love, it will last. In the meantime, I vote for a long engagement.

DEAR ABBY: My wife has always been jealous of the women I worked with. She said she knew she wasn't as pretty or smart as they were. Abby, I never put her down or made comparisons. I was a good husband and came directly home every night. I never mentioned any woman I worked with, but that didn't matter. We got to fighting over little things continually.

Abby, I love my wife, so I went to someone for help. He told me that a man can make his wife feel pretty and loved, or ugly and unloved. He asked me how many little gifts I bought her other than the expected ones for birthdays and Christmases. I said, "None, but I don't have much extra money." He said, "You could get the extra money if you wanted some fishing equipment, couldn't you?" I had to agree I could.

He then asked me when I last paid her a compliment. I said I couldn't remember. He said, "Think of something to praise her for. Her cooking — or the way she looks." He said, "Unexpected gifts and compliments are to a woman what a raise in salary is to a man. It makes her feel appreciated."

The man I talked to was not a minister or a marriage counselor. He was my father, who had been happily married to my mother for 48 years. I took his advice, and my wife and I are a lot happier now.

LEARNED AT 45

DEAR LEARNED: Wise man, your father. But it takes another wise man to recognize good advice and put it to use. Hooray for both of you.

Saudi Arabia contains the world's largest sand desert, about as big as Texas. Only 1 percent of the entire country is cultivated, and nearly 85 percent of its food must be imported, according to National Geographic.

Play McMurry Monday Night...

Dusters Ready For Opener

Western Texas College's Dusters open the 1980-81 basketball season Monday and Coach Joe Cushing says his girls are ready to go. "We're excited about the season. We've had enough practicing for a while. We need to play," he beamed. The Dusters take on McMurry College in Abilene at Hunt P.E. Center. The game has a 6 p.m. starting time. Cushing's crew comes off of a strong showing in scrimmage action against highly-touted Abilene Christian University last Thursday. "The girls did real well against a team that probably has the potential to be the national champions," said Cushing. "ACU has a real fine ballclub. The teams played a game-length scrimmage, then bouted an extra 10 minutes with the younger players. "We were excited about the way we performed overall. As a young ball club, we made some critical errors, but that's to be expected. We were able to get the ball off of our press, but just failed to convert (the turnovers) into points. I have no doubts that we're coming on," the coach praised. That doesn't mean the team plans to be worldbeaters from their first outing. WTC led or was tied for the lead in the WJCAC much of last season, but went into a late-season slump and lost the advantage. Cushing hopes to avoid that year. "We're not pushing as hard as we were at this time last year," he explained. "I felt like last year we got too ready too early and we let down in our confidence play. We've been coming along at a little bit slower pace this year and I feel like we're going to be playing some basketball at the right time." Fourteen players, including ten freshmen, man the roster this year. Heading up the group are sophomores Stella Bickley, Shari Teal, Jenni Anderson and Linda Holubec. "Stella has been playing at point guard for us and is doing an outstanding job. She's really playing some good basketball right now. Shari is still our most consistent performer," he spoke. Teal and Holubec started most of the season last year and both set WTC basketball records for individual performance. Jenni continues to gain momentum, and Linda, though she did not have a particularly good scrimmage against ACU, is doing a fine job also. "I'm very pleased with our freshman group. We have potential great talent. I believe they will come on strong. We've got depth that we've never had before and I think that will be one of the keys to the season," added Cushing. "It's a tough battle for the starting positions. Ten girls are really fighting it out there, and the other four are not very far behind."

The Dusters play their first home game in a double header with WTC's Westerners, Nov. 3 against Cisco Junior College in the Snyder High School Gym, 6 and 8 o'clock. The girls then take on Blinn College Nov. 7 and Temple JC on Nov. 8, both at Temple.

Bahnsen Will Enter Free Agent Listing

MONTREAL (AP) — Relief pitcher Stan Bahnsen of the Montreal Expos, advised the National League baseball club Friday that he will add his name to the list of free-agents eligible for the Nov. 13 draft. The 35-year-old pitcher is the first of four Expos eligible for free agency to announce such an intention. Outfielder Ron LeFlore, the league's leading base-stealer in 1980, said he is awaiting the outcome of a discussion between his agent, Ken Fishlin, and Expos general manager John McHale. McHale is recovering from an operation last week for the removal of a kidney stone. "I don't know if McHale is interested in signing me, but I'm looking forward to it," LeFlore said. "I think I deserve to hear from the Expos first and I think the fans deserve that I stay here."

'Mustang Magic' Vanishes; Andrews Wins In Final Ticks

'Mustang Magic' failed to pull a rabbit out of the hat Friday night as the surprising Sweetwater Mustangs were "upset" by Monahans. The rabbit, incidentally, had left for Fort Stockton.

Behind the 153-yard rushing game of Michael Ramsey and the scoring plays of quarterback Rusty Roark, Monahans Loboos drilled Sweetwater, 28-0.

The mele began with the game's outset as Sweetwater fumbled the kickoff and Monahans pushed it in from the 18 yard line. Roark scored from a yard out.

The Loboos QB crossed the goal line twice in the game and passed to Mike Campbell for another TD. Campbell booted four conversion kicks, and Ramsey ran over the other touchdown.

Sweetwater was able to move the ball against the hosts, but was unable to get the ball into the end zone.

Meanwhile, in Fort Stockton, No. 5 ranked Andrews pulled off a minor miracle to come from behind and thwart a Fort Stockton upset, 21-20.

With just 26 seconds left in the game, QB Keith Brooks hit Marty Keese on a 22-yard scoring toss that made the score 20-19. Brooks then ran over the go-ahead, two-point conversion for the victory.

Fort Stockton had scored twice in the opening quarter, on runs by fullback Brad Jackson and Tony Pasqua. Pasqua rolled up 128 yards rushing for the night as the Panthers garnered 299 yards total offense to Andrews' 201.

In the only other District 2-AAAA game played Friday, Pecos edged San Angelo Lake View 17-14. Snyder played Saturday night in Odessa.

Sweetwater's loss by no means puts the fire out of 'Mustang Magic'. The red team would still grab district honors by winning its final two games, including the Nov. 7 matchup with Andrews. All other District 2-AAAA teams besides the pair have at least two loop losses. If Sweetwater and Andrews were to wind up with one loss each, the team that had beaten the other would represent the district.

Highland Pops Hosting 'Dogs

IRA-Highland's Hornets kept up their winning ways here Friday night, exiting the Bulldogs of Ira 22-8 in District 2-1A six-man play. In other 2-1A contests, Grady ripped McCaulley 54-24 and Borden County outlasted Hermleigh 50-38.

Edwin Wilson, Everett Wilson and John Paul Jones all scored touchdowns for the Hornets, but it was the all-around play of Jones - a district track standout - that made the difference. Monty Richburg lacked on a two-point conversion kick and the visitors also got a safety.

Ira, unable to unleash fleetback Wade Pierson against the strong Hornet defense, scored only once. Jimmy Elam crossed the line for the Bulldogs. James Crowder kicked the conversion.

The result leaves the highly-touted Hornets with a 6-0, 3-0 record, while Ira stands at 5-3 and 2-2.

Fishin' Report

Fishermen apparently are relocating the fish population in Lakes J.B. Thomas and E.V. Spence after recent major rises in the two reservoirs.

At Lake Spence, channel catfish were being caught in largest numbers, but there also were some striped bass, one 7 1/4-pound black bass and a 24 and 25-pound blue and yellow catfish boated during the week. One man at Lake Thomas, angling for crappie, caught a 6-pound walleye. An occasional Florida bass was being reported by crappie enthusiasts.

Among reports from Lake Spence, which is now at a record level of 1875.30, seven feet over its previous peak, are these:

Wildcat Fish A Rama-- Eddie Dumas, D.A. Thomas and party of Andrews, 106 channel cat to 5 1/4 pounds, also two white bass to 1 1/2 pounds and a 5 1/4-pound striped bass; R.C. Horton and James Hogeland, Andrews, 40 channel cat to 4-0, two striper to 6-0 and two black bass to 2-8; Jerry Roberts and Darrell Raines, Denver City, 40 white bass to 1-8.

Cardinals Give Good Effort, But...

Coyotes Outlast Hermleigh

HERMLEIGH Borden County's Coyotes may take time out to hawl today, but Friday night it was all they could do to hold off a scrappy Hermleigh Cardinal bunch here.

The highly-touted Coyotes persevered, 50-38, to keep alive hopes of a District 2-1A six-man title, but not without a lot of effort.

Borden County, 5-2 for the season and 2-1 in loop play, hosts undefeated Trent next week, while Hermleigh, 0-7, takes the weekend off.

Hermleigh's 38 points stands as the most given up to date by the normally defense-strong Coyotes, who have now allowed over 30 points in their past two ballgames. Kenny Riley, who could be a standout for any team in the state, keyed the Cardinal effort both offensively and defensively.

"Our offensive line did an excellent job," praised Hermleigh coach Clarence Spieker. "They blocked well. If it weren't for the kickoff return and a couple of problems with the pass, we might have gotten to them. They have a good ball club. They blocked well for their people too."

Borden County's all-around advantage in speed, plus spurts of solid defense, were enough to outlast the hosts.

The Coyotes got on the scoreboard first, as Sam Williams carried the ball over from one yard out with 3:12 left in the initial quarter. Junior Benavidez kicked the two-point conversion for an 8-0 lead.

Hermleigh, not playing at all like an 0-6 team, marched right back, however. The Cardinals swept across the goal with 27 seconds left in the stanza on a Kevin Roemisch to Riley pass reception that went for 18 yards. Riley showed the Coyotes he came to play as he broke three tackles in his scamper to the end zone. The PAT try failed, thought, and Hermleigh trailed, 8-6.

Action picked up in the second period as Williams - Borden County's workhorse for the first three periods - seared the hosts on a 20-yard run. Benavidez's kick was wide left this time.

The visitors enlarged their advantage to 20-6 moments later as Mike Peterson raced over from six yards out with 6:40 showing before halftime. Benavidez's kick was blocked by Dennis Jones.

Hermleigh refused to let the Coyotes off easily, however. Just one minute and one second later Jones broke loose on a 27-yard scoring jaunt and Mike Nachlinger kicked the conversion good to trim Borden County's lead to 20-14.

The squads then traded TDs prior to halftime, to giving intermission a 28-20 look. Williams scored his last TD of the night on a 52 yard run and Benavidez added the kick after for the Coyotes, while Hermleigh bought its touchdown on a Roemisch to Ted Olsen pass for 18 yards. Hermleigh's conversion try was no good.

It appeared Borden County would stroll home with the victory early in the third quarter. Coyote standout Jym Rinehart took the opening kickoff and raced 65 yards to score with only seconds gone off the clock. Benavidez's kick made it 36-20.

Rinehart continued to pace the Coyote third-period effort as he recovered a Cardinal fumble at the Borden County 23-yard line, then passed to Troy King for 35 yards to set up shop on the Hermleigh 2-yard line. Peterson banged over on the next play, and with 4:15 remaining in the quarter, the Gail-based squad had built a 42-20 lead.

The Cardinals could have called it quits, but that's not the style of Coach Spieker's bunch. With 2:50 left Riley battered into the Coyote end zone for another Hermleigh touchdown, and the hosts were right back in the contest. King blocked the PAT, but the Cardinals were to overcome that effort moments later.

Hermleigh got its break when the Coyotes fumbled the ball away, giving up possession at their own 37-yard line. Hard running by Riley and Jones got the ball to the 17, from where Roemisch connected with Olsen for another Cardinal touchdown.

An upset appeared in the making just moments afterward when Borden County again coughed up the ball at the 25-yard line. But Coach Williams' Roemisch's 40 yards were able to hold this time, as a Hermleigh fourth short-yardage situation came up shy.

The Coyotes clinched the victory with 6:10 left to play in the game as Rinehart connected with Bart McMeans on a 15-yard scoring toss. Benavidez booted the PAT to put Hermleigh 18 points in the red, 50-32.

Time ran out on the hosts, but not before Riley chalked his third touchdown of the night, running the sweep over from five yards, out with 1:12 left to play. King again blocked the point-after try.

Oilers Back On Track; Host Bengals Sunday

HOUSTON (AP)—The Houston Oilers, despite losing twice in the past three weeks, still are masters of their own destinies—and they want to keep it that way.

A favorable chain of events sends the Oilers into Sunday's game against the Cincinnati Bengals tied for the lead in the American Football Conference's Central Division with Cleveland and Pittsburgh, all with 4-3 records.

The resurgent Bengals have beaten Pittsburgh twice this season and the Steelers lost to Oakland on Monday night to throw the division into a three-way deadlock.

But Oiler players say the Steelers' plight is the last thing on their minds.

"We have to overlook what Pittsburgh does," wide receiver Billy Johnson said. "Even though Oakland beat them, we know it'll be a different Pittsburgh when they play us the next time. We have to make our own destiny."

Johnson referred to Pittsburgh's lengthy injury list that includes quarterback Terry Bradshaw, running back Franco Harris and wide receivers Lynn Swann and John Stallworth.

The Oilers recovered from two straight losses with a 20-14 victory over Tampa Bay last week. Houston had been upset the two previous weeks by Seattle and Kansas City.

"We seem to be back on the right track," Oiler tight end Mike Barber said. "We lost a couple of games we should have won. Games like that can come back to haunt you, but now we're back in the middle of it."

Oiler guard David Carter feels improved performance is more important than the current standings.

"It's kind of like it's a new season because we're tied with Pittsburgh and Cleveland," Carter said. "I think we've gotten more of an uplift, though, because of the way we've been playing, especially on offense. We're starting to knock people off the ball. We're doing the little things, like getting people down field to block."

Cincinnati will be going for its third straight victory after beating Pittsburgh and Minnesota on successive weeks. It was the first time the Bengals had won two in a row since the 1978 season.

Ron Gindry, a star south paw for the New York Yankees, is also an accomplished chess player.

Competency Hearing For Defendant... Defense Lawyer Freed In Ax Murder Trial

SALLY CARPENTER
Associated Press Writer

MCKINNEY, Texas (AP) — The Texas Court of Criminal Appeals stepped into Candace Montgomery's ax murder trial late Friday by freeing the lead defense attorney who had been jailed for contempt of court.

Don Crowder left the Collin County Jail at 5:15 p.m., after serving an hour and a half of a 72-hour sentence imposed by State District Judge Tom Ryan.

Ryan, who denied Crowder's motion for a personal recognizance bond, jailed the attorney on his second contempt citation at 3:45 p.m. when he recessed the trial and ordered a Monday morning hearing to determine whether Mrs. Montgomery is competent to stand trial.

Two psychiatrists were asked to examine the 30-year-old defendant over the weekend and testify at the hearing which Ryan said he called because of medical evidence and testimony that Mrs. Montgomery still may suffer a "disassociative reaction" to the June 13 slaying.

"Mrs. Montgomery was aware she was hacking Betty Gore to death," testified her Dallas psychiatrist Dr. Maurice S. Green. But, "everything seemed to be in slow motion... almost like she was a spectator."

At the present time, she still has some of the symptoms," he testified. If found incompetent, Mrs. Montgomery could be committed to an institution. If she is found competent, her trial will continue at 1 p.m. Monday.

Ryan ordered the Collin County Courthouse library to open during weekend days so attorneys could prepare for the hearing.

He also gave Crowder permission to leave jail for the library, although it was unclear whether he intended for the attorney to remain in jail until 3:45 p.m. Monday when his 72 hours expired.

Crowder's release came after the Austin appeals court accepted his quick writ of habeas corpus.

Ryan first found him in contempt and fined him $100 Tuesday for violating a gag order by telling reporters his client killed the 30-year-old house wife and mother in self-defense.

Friday's rhubarb, which resulted in another $100 fine, began when Ryan told Crowder to ask more questions rather than allow narrative testimony. Crowder accused the judge of "interfering" and complained that Ryan allowed prosecutors to use such questioning.

"I won't lay down for you," Crowder said.

"For that remark, I'm going to hold you in contempt," Ryan barked.

The argument erupted during testimony by Dr. Robert A. Bright, a pathologist who said photographs of Mrs. Gore's body indicated most of the 41 blows were inflicted after her death in the utility room of her fashionable Wylie home.

Green also said a "disassociative reaction" was "not that unusual. We all have the potential for acts of violence... she was reacting in an instinctual context."

Asked by District Attorney Tom O'Connell whether Mrs. Montgomery was aware she swung the three-foot ax that her actions could result in a death, Green replied, "No. She just acted, she didn't think."

"In the instance of overkill this is not a conscious process... you become almost dissociated from the reality of what is happening and have little or no recall of it," Bright said.

The petite, auburn-haired

Mrs. Montgomery testified in her own defense Thursday and said she visited Mrs. Gore at her Wylie home, only to be confronted about an affair she had with Mrs. Gore's husband.

The five-foot-two defendant testified Mrs. Gore told her, "You can't have him... I've got to kill you," before attacking her with the ax, striking her on the head and toe.

Mrs. Montgomery said she finally disarmed Mrs. Gore after the two housewives and mothers struggled fiercely for the ax.

After a few blows to the head, Mrs. Gore fell to the floor but Mrs. Montgomery could not stop from hacking her fellow church choir member to death, she testified.

"I remember being so angry at her because she was messing up my life. And I remember being so afraid she would get back up again," she said.

Dallas County medical examiner Vincent DiMaio testified Friday that Mrs. Gore's left arm was broken, her right eye had collapsed into her sinus cavity, and the 28 head wounds included three extremely deep cuts where "you could look right into the brain tissue."

Mrs. Montgomery said about an hour after she killed Mrs. Gore; she was a picture of calm at a luncheon for Bible school teachers, because, "I had to be normal."

Green, who said he had seen the defendant 15 to 20 times since Sept. 2, contended the disassociative reaction allowed her to appear composed shortly after the slaying.

Pat Montgomery, the defendant's 35-year-old husband, testified his wife is so anti-violent that the couple doesn't "allow our children to have toy guns or anything of that nature."

Instead, he said, his wife is "very protective of any kind of life, and likes to bring home stray kittens."

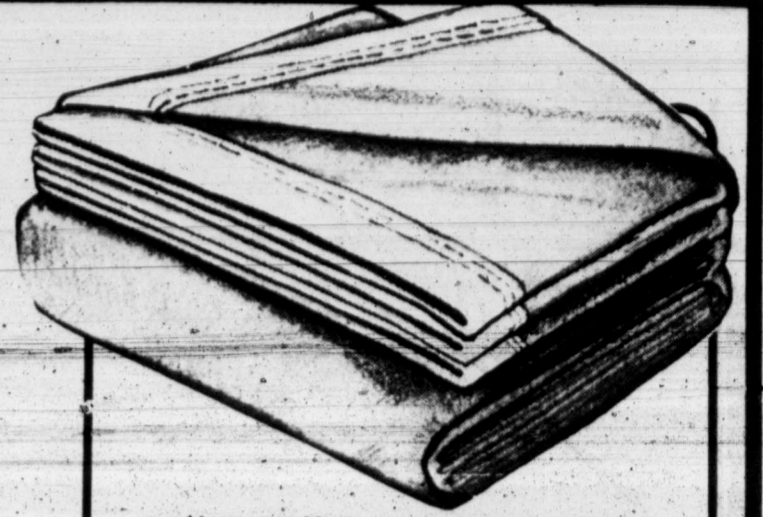

Montgomery described Betty and Allan Gore as "friendly acquaintances" they usually saw at church.

He said he felt "very uncomfortable" around Gore after he learned of the affair last April.

Both the defendant and Gore have testified they met periodically in a Richardson hotel for 10 months. Both said the relationship ended mutually in Oct. 1979.

The defendant also admitted to having a brief affair with another man after breaking up with Gore. Her admission prompted a motion for a mistrial from the defense.

Benham, Early Exchange Vows

MR. AND MRS. KEITH DUANE EARLY

WICHITA FALLS—Miss Jamie Leann Benham became the bride of Keith Duane Early during a double ring ceremony Sept. 27 at Lamar Baptist Church. The Rev. Robert F. Nix, worthy pastor of the church, officiated.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Don Jones of Wichita Falls, while the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Billy W. Early of Snyder.

Three candelabras with 29 candles and four pew markers with candles completed the altar decorations.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was attired in a long white formal wedding gown with a high lace neck. A chapel length veil completed the look.

She carried a bouquet of white roses and peach carnations.

Kathy Allen was maid of honor, while Cecelia Smith and Tina Jones of Seymour were bridesmaids.

The attendants wore floor-length peach colored gowns and carried a white rose.

Tommy Patterson of Snyder was best man, while groomsmen included Larry Early of Snyder, the bridegroom's brother, and Jacky Simpson of Snyder, the bridegroom's brother-in-law.

Ushers were the bride's brothers, Eddie Benham and Jerry Jones of Wichita Falls, and Billy Rollins of Snyder.

Candlelighters were Jimmy Jones II and Shane Jones of Seymour.

Soloist Gail Apple sang "Longer" and "The Lord's Prayer."

A reception was given in the fellowship hall following the ceremony.

The four-tiered bride's cake was served by Jenny Jones and Joni Kosanki.

The bridegroom's cake was decorated with a Skoal Can and was served by Tammy Polk and Donna Simpson.

Lynn Taylor presided at the registration table.

The couple wore matching Izod shirts and painter's pants for their two-day wedding trip to Lawton, Okla.

The bride is a nursing student at Western Texas College.

Her husband is a pumper for Lem Operating Company.

The couple are residing in Snyder.

Extension Homemakers Prepare For Bazaar, Lunch

The Extension Homemakers in Scurry County are busy preparing for the second annual "Christmas in November" bazaar and luncheon set for 10 a.m.-4 p.m. Nov. 1 at the Scurry County Coliseum.

The eight clubs in the county will have booths selling homemade crafts and baked goods throughout the day. Christmas gifts, unusual decorations, wreaths, clothing accessories, favors for school parties and sea shell items are just a sampling of the variety of things that will be available.

Programs will be presented free to the public throughout the day. Penny Bane from This 'n' That will have a presentation on Christmas crafts at 10:30 a.m. and 2:30 p.m. Marilyn Barnes, home economist for Litton, will present "Candies in the Microwave" at 11 a.m. and 2 p.m.

Marilyn Tate, Floyd County agent, will show interesting ways to do gift wrappings at 11:30 a.m. and 1:30 p.m. At 1 p.m., Sue Travis from Travis Flowers will present a program on home decorations.

The homemakers will serve a luncheon in Room A of the coliseum from 11:30 a.m.-1 p.m. Tickets for the luncheon will be available when guests register and will sell for $3.50. Door prizes will be given throughout the day.

Currently, 85 women are members of the eight extension clubs in the county. They include Plainview, Hermleigh, Knapp, Union clubs, and Stargazers, Patchwork Squares, Honey Do's and Mayflowers of Snyder.

The clubs have extended an invitation to the public to attend "Christmas in November" and get a head start on Christmas shopping with unique handmade gifts and homebaked goodies.

Almost one-third of the people in the world—814 million—do not know how to read or write, according to UNESCO estimates. That includes two-thirds of the people in Africa and a third of those in Asia, excluding the Soviet Union.

FINAL CHRISTMAS PLANS—Finalizing plans for the Extension Homemaker's "Christmas in November" bazaar and luncheon set for 10 a.m.-4 p.m. Nov. 1 at the Scurry County Coliseum are committee members (standing left) Janie Garcia, Mayflowers Club; Nell Walker, Plainview; Janet Spence, Union; Pauline Withers, Stargazers; Pearl Wheeler, general chairman; Dorothy Tate (seated, left), Hermleigh; Kris Hendon, Patchwork Squares, and Virginia Fogle from Honey Do's. The public is invited to attend the bazaar and free programs during the day. A luncheon is also on the day's agenda and tickets are $3.50 each.

Goblin Burgers Make Halloween Fun

By Aileen Claire
NEA Food Editor

Put the young goblins from the neighborhood into a spooky mood this Halloween with a traditional party—one that includes dunking for apples and whatever latest safe, fun horror games you can dream up.

Top-off the evening with a giant goblin burger decorated to look like a jack-o-lantern.

Goblin Burger
1 loaf Italian bread
1 package firm and moist meatloaf mix
1 1/2 pounds ground beef
1 egg

Hair, Skin Need Special Winter Care

If your hair could use some bounce, a home body wave will make it fuller-looking and more manageable for about two months. Don't expect curl, though, and if you have very fine, hard-to-hold hair, this type of perm may not be enough. However, if you're disappointed with your body wave, don't quickly follow it with a regular perm. This would overprocess the hair and it could actually end up limper than ever.

Oil press
If you have very dry skin, try this special before-bedtime treatment. Cut a roll of surgical cotton into thin layers. Each piece should be twice the length of the dry area on your face where it will be placed. Saturate half of each piece in a light oil, then fold over the dry half. Press pieces on chin, neck, cheeks, etc. Leave on for 15 minutes, then blot up the excess oil with cotton balls.

1 1/2 lbs. Worcestershire sauce
1/2 cup ketchup
1 1/2 lbs. sweet pickle relish
1 tsp prepared mustard
2 pitted black olives, cut in half
3 slices American cheese

Slice bread in half lengthwise and lightly toast under broiler. Set aside. In large bowl, combine sauce packet and breadcrumb packet (from meatloaf mix), ground beef, egg and Worcestershire sauce. Mix well; shape into one 9-inch patty.

Grill burger 5 inches from heat, 5-7 minutes per side for medium. Combine ketchup, relish and mustard; spread evenly over bread. Top with burger. Garnish with black olives for eyes and nose, cheese slice for the eyebrows and mouth. This kitchen-tested recipe makes 8 servings.

BLANCHE'S BLABS

By BLANCHE CHISUM
Scurry County
Extension Agent

Entertain the "ghosts and goblins" at home with safe fun and nutritious treats.

Consider a Halloween "stay-at-home" party for your children and their friends, rather than "trick-or-treating" this year.

Your own home affords all the joys of costumes, games, fun and party foods—and expenses can be low.

Also, your children can help with the preparations.

For the menu, try some ideas below—they're more nutritious than the usual "treat" and lots of fun to make.

Jack-O-Lantern Pizzas
4 English muffins, split
1 1/2 lbs. vegetable oil
1 8 oz. can pizza sauce
3 slices Mozzarella cheese

Heat the oven to broil. Place the split muffins on a baking sheet, brush with oil; broil until light brown.

Reduce oven temperature to 400 degrees.

Spread one generous tablespoon pizza sauce onto each muffin.

Trim corners from cheese slices to make circles.

Cut out a Jack-O-Lantern face on each circle of cheese with a paring knife.

Place one cheese face on each muffin; bake until cheese melts.

Serves 8.

Party Sandwiches
Whole grain bread
Cream cheese
Toppings: apple slices, raisins

Allow the cream cheese to soften outside the refrigerator for a half hour before using.

Spread cream cheese on a slice of bread; cut the sandwich into quarters and decorate with an apple slice or raisins.

Ghost Boats
Celery stalks
Cream cheese and/or pimento cheese

Wash celery and fill with cream cheese or pimento cheese.

Cut out a ghost from white construction paper.

Stick ghosts into boats with toothpicks. Arrange on a platter and serve.

Fruity Face Fruit Cups
Slice off top of orange and remove inside portion. Cut a zigzag edge and draw a face on the orange.

Fill with the orange sections that were removed plus nuts and fruit cocktail.

Fruit Punch
1 package soft drink mix (any flavor)
1 3/4-cup can pineapple juice
Mix soft drink mix according to directions; put into punch bowl and add pineapple juice.

Add ice cubes or a molded ice ring.

Serves 15-20.

Chocolate Gelatin Candy
2 cups water
4 packages plain gelatin
1/2 cup instant milk
4 tbs. honey
1 1/2 squares unsweetened chocolate

Soak gelatin in cold water. Stir over low heat until gelatin dissolves. Add other ingredients and cook until the chocolate is all melted. Pour into 8- or 9-inch square cake pan. Set in refrigerator. Cut into small pieces to serve.

Honey Crunch Peanut Balls
1/2 cup plus 3 tbs. peanut butter
1/2 cup toasted oats
2 tbs. plus 2 tsp. honey
1/2 cup shredded or flaked coconut
1/2 cup finely chopped nuts

To toast oats: Spread on baking sheet and bake at 350 degrees until light golden brown. Combine peanut butter, toasted oats, honey and coconut. Shape into 1-inch balls. Roll in nuts; chill. Makes about 1 dozen no-bake cookies.

Wash celery and fill with cream cheese or pimento cheese.

Cut out a ghost from white construction paper.

BRIDGE

The way-out two diamonds

By Oswald Jacoby and Alan Sontag

In normal expert bidding, two clubs is an artificial forcing bid. It shows a strong notrump hand or the equivalent of a forcing two bid in an unidentified suit.

Other opening two bids show from 6-11 high-card points and a good six-card suit. S-K Q J x x H-K x x D.

x x C x x is a sample two-spade opening. It also has been found that a weak two-diamond call isn't worth much and really strange uses for it have been discovered.

The most popular is the Flannery convention. The Flannery two diamonds shows 11-15 HCP with five hearts and four spades. Something like: S-K Q x x H-A K x x D-x x C-x x. Hands like this one are hard to bid in standard methods. Flannery takes good care of them.

An even more complicated use is to show three four-card suits, a singleton and some point range, usually 11-16. Both Flannery and the three-suit bid work out well a good part of the time, but unless the users have a very thorough knowledge of what they are doing, the bid can blow up in their own faces.

We are going to dispose of way-out bids now with this comment: Any expert pair should use whatever complicated bids they want. Other players had best stick close to standard methods. They work most of the time and they make the game much more fun. (NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSN.)

Pope Gives Building

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope John Paul II has presented Mother Teresa, the 70-year-old winner of the 1979 Nobel Prize for Peace, with a building in Rome for use as a home for unwanted children.

Mother Teresa, who received keys to the building from the pontiff on Thursday, said she wanted a children's home in remarks two weeks ago to the World Synod of Bishops meeting here.

Two billion rose bushes grow in Bulgaria's Valley of the Roses in the center of the country. The picked blooms produce 40 percent of the world's rose attar, used to enhance the bouquet of perfumes.

Pumpkin Pulp Is Versatile In Use

The jack-o-lantern is smiling in the window; the kids laugh with delight. You laugh too until you remember the pumpkin pulp and seeds still on your table. What can you do with the pumpkin's "inards?"

There are many ideas and ways to use pumpkin pulp from your jack-o-lantern this Halloween and the United Fresh Fruit and Vegetable Association has a few ideas.

Pumpkin is quiet nutritious, loaded with vitamin A, and there are many recipes for the pulp. You'll also save money by preparing the pumpkin yourself.

After hollowing out the pumpkin for carving, remove the seeds and stringy portion of the pulp. Cook remaining pulp, covered, in a small amount of lightly salted boiling water for 25-30 minutes.

Drain, mash well and strain to remove excess liquid. Reheat and serve with a dab of butter or margarine or use for pie, bread or any recipe calling for hard-shell squash.

If you buy pumpkin to use for cooking only, just halve or quarter it, remove seeds and stringy portions and cut into small pieces. Cut off rind and cook as specified above. One five-pound pumpkin will yield about 4 cups of drained, mashed, cooked pumpkin.

If you don't plan to use the pumpkin pulp immediately, refrigerate it in a tightly covered container and use as soon as possible.

Fresh Pumpkin Muffins

2 cups sifted all purpose flour
1/2 cup sugar
3 tsp. baking powder
1/2 tsp. salt
1/2 tsp. cinnamon
1 egg
1/2 cup milk
1 cup mashed cooked fresh pumpkin
1/4 cup salad oil

Sift flour, sugar, baking powder, salt and cinnamon into a bowl. Beat egg, mix in milk, pumpkin and salad oil. Make a well in center of flour mixture; pour in pumpkin mixture all at once.

Stir quickly until flour is just moistened. Fill greased muffin cups two-thirds full. Bake in 425 degree oven 25 minutes or until done. Run spatula around each muffin to loosen; serve immediately.

Rum Pumpkin Custards

1 cup light cream
1/4 cup packed light brown sugar
2 lbs. light rum
2-3rds cup mashed cooked fresh pumpkin
2 eggs, slightly beaten

Scald cream in saucepan; stir in brown sugar, rum and pumpkin. Remove from heat. Mix some pumpkin mixture into eggs. Stir into hot mixture; mix well. Pour mixture into 4 buttered 6-ounce custard cups. Set in shallow baking pan. Fill pan with hot water to 1/2 inch below rims of cups. Bake in 325 degree oven about 45 minutes or until tip of knife inserted in center comes out clean. Cool; refrigerate. Unmold and serve. Makes four servings.

Here They Are, Briefly...

Texas Voters To Decide Fate Of 9 Amendments

Texas voters will make decisions on nine proposed amendments to the state constitution Nov. 4 as they cast ballots in the general election.

Here are capsule descriptions of the amendments:
Amendment No. 1, generally known as the branch banking amendment, would authorize the legislature to permit state and national banks to install and operate electronic teller machines located away from their bank buildings.

At present, the state constitution prohibits banks from doing business in more than one location, and federal courts have held that an electronic device that performs banking functions and is operated away from the primary location of a bank is a branch bank.

Banks have come out strong for this amendment. It would enable them to provide services to their customers at times other than normal banking hours. Customers with individual cards issued by the bank could use an electronic device to deposit, withdraw, or transfer funds between accounts.

Amendment No. 2 would grant the state the right of appeal in criminal cases, although it would be limited to pre-trial rulings which could be appealed during the course of a trial. At present, prosecutors have no right of appeal in the state's criminal courts.

Amendment No. 3 would require a single appraisal and a single board of equalization within each county for ad valorem tax purposes. This is the amendment that would make it mandatory for counties to be included in all phases of the county-wide appraisal district. At present, counties who are in such districts have come in on their own initiative in anticipation of approval of the amendment. Counties are required under the constitution now to have their own boards of equalization, and the amendment would remove this requirement.

Amendment No. 4 has become well-known as "The Bingo Amendment." It would authorize the legislature to pass a law permitting and regulating bingo games conducted by a church, synagogue, religious society, volunteer fire department, non-profit veterans organization, fraternal organization, or non-profit organizations supporting medical research or treatment programs. The law would permit voters of a county, justice precinct or incorporated city or town to determine whether bingo games would be legal within their jurisdictions.

There would be restrictions, such as requiring all proceeds from bingo games to be spent for a charitable purpose, limiting the bingo games to property owned or leased by the sponsoring organization, requiring that the games be conducted, promoted, and administered by members of the organization, and requiring quarterly reports to the comptroller of public accounts about proceeds and purposes for which they were spent.

Amendment No. 5 would enable the legislature to give the governor power to exercise fiscal control over the expenditure of appropriated state funds. At present the governor has various powers over the state budget and officers of state departments are required to make semi-annual reports to him on the receipt and expenditure of state funds. He has the power to veto an appropriations bill, or any item on an appropriation bill, but he cannot reduce an appropriation for an item. For example, if an appropriation bill provided for a million-dollar item, the governor under the present constitutional provision could veto the item but he could not leave the item in and reduce the amount of money appropriated for it. Amendment No. 5 would remove that restriction.

Amendment No. 6 would give the governor power to remove from office any officer he appointed, provided two thirds of the senators present concurred. The governor could not fire those elected or appointed by someone else—only those he appointed. The governor could call a special session of the senate to act on a proposed removal, but such a session could last only two days.

Amendment No. 7 would authorize any county with a population of 5,000 or less to build and maintain private roads if the county imposes a reasonable charge for the work. Revenue collected by the county from this source could be used only for construction and maintenance of public roads.

Amendment No. 8 would change the name of the courts of civil appeals by removing the word "civil" and the name of associate justices of the supreme court by deleting the word "associate." It would permit a system of intermediate appellate courts for criminal cases, except those involving the death penalty, which would go directly to the court of criminal appeals. The state's intermediate courts for civil cases has functioned for many years, and use of the same system for criminal cases is being proposed as a method of reducing a backlog.

Amendment No. 9 would change some of the legal effects of the Texas marital community property system and create new procedures for deviation from that system. It would allow spouses to agree in writing that the income or property arising from one spouse's separate property would be the separate property of that spouse. An agreement could encompass both property existing at the time the agreement was made and property to be acquired in the future.

Drifter, 18, Charged In Slaying Case

CHILDRESS, Texas (AP) — An 18-year-old drifter was arrested and charged Thursday in the shooting and stabbing death of an Amarillo man who was shot and stabbed to death near here.

The victim, Felton J. Galiano Jr., 25, was found by Quanah police near U.S. 287 in Hardeman County, just south of here. Investigators were alerted by a traveller, who said the bloodied victim was standing on the highway waving a gun. The traveller drove to Quanah and called police, who found Galiano's body.

A native of Galiano, La., the victim had recently moved to Amarillo where he was employed by Mesa Petroleum Co. police said.

Paul Burna "Coast" Chavez was arrested early Thursday by police in nearby Quanah. Authorities said he was driving the victim's blood-stained car when arrested.

Chavez was arraigned on a murder charge before Peace Justice Dottie Bettis, who set bond at $50,000. Chavez remained in the Childress County jail Thursday night.

Childress County Sheriff's investigators said Galiano apparently picked up a hitchhiker in Wyoming on his way back from an elk hunt. Some time Wednesday night, Galiano was shot in the head with a .44-caliber pistol, although the bullet only creased him, investigators said.

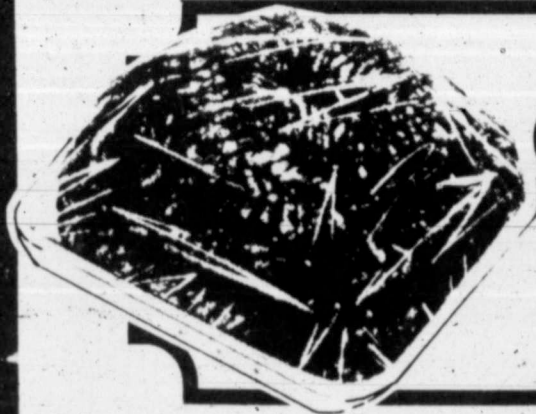

The victim then was stabbed seven to eight times. Charles de Gaulle resigned as president of France on April 28, 1969, after narrowly losing a referendum.

CATTLE X COMPUTERIZED MARKETING FOR CATTLEMEN

Cattle marketing is now going the way of the computer.

A new computerized cattle marketing project called "Cattlex" (for Cattle Exchange) has been launched by the Texas Agriculture Extension Service and Texas Agricultural Experiment Station of the Texas A&M University System and the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

Cattlex is currently in the demonstration and experimental stage for the purpose of developing trading techniques and operating procedures for computerized cattle marketing.

The test project will run daily for nine months.

Computer terminals have been set up at 18 different locations over the state to link together feedlots, order buyers and auction markets. Locations were selected based on cattle volumes and density as well as economy of operation.

To use the system, a producer requests a grazer from a computer terminal location to list and describe the cattle he wants to sell. The description and listing fee is about $1 per head-payable before the lot if offered over the computer system. Included in the description are such things as sex of the cattle, age, grade, breed, weight and flesh condition. A seller may also put a "no-sale price" on the lot which means that he does not want to sell for less than a certain price.

This information is then consolidated and transmitted by way of a cathode ray tube (CRT), a television-like screen which is a part of the computer terminal. The terminal can also produce a printout of the information.

Each day before the sale begins, buyers gather at the terminal, site to review the day's listings on lots of cattle offered for auction. When a sale is made, a printout at both the buying and selling terminals will present a confirmation of sale.

Both buyer and seller will also receive a copy of the individual description of the lot. Title transfer is at the time of official weighing for ranch cattle and after the sale for delivered cattle.

With Cattlex, buyers still bid competitively and sellers still seek the highest possible price. However, the system expands the scope of trading and reduces transportation and stress through more direct movement. Sellers have the advantage of more purchasers while buyers have more lots of cattle from which to choose without scurrying over the countryside.

Recent trends toward more local auction sales as well as direct selling on farms and ranches has resulted in more dispersed, low-volume markets to small to attract large numbers of buyers. However, Cattlex centralizes the price negotiation process in marketing livestock without the costs involved in physically centralizing buyers, sellers and livestock.

An added benefit of Cattlex is that it provides fast, up-to-date market information. Interested parties can watch the market as it occurs over the state or nation by simply viewing the CRT at the terminal site.

To see Cattlex in action, producers may visit one of the cooperators that is participating in this experimental system of computerized cattle marketing.

The South's "hush puppies," served with fried fish dinners, are said to have originated at a fish fry when someone dropped some cornbread batter into the kettle of heated fat and tossed the fried cakes to the hungry dogs to quiet their whining.

Dramatic Shift Seen In Political Fundraising

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The $2 million that business and conservative groups are spending against four key liberal senators represents more than just an effort to shift the next Senate to the right. It represents a dramatic shift in political fundraising.

The challenges — against liberal Sens. Frank Church of Idaho, George McGovern of South Dakota, John Culver of Iowa and Birch Bayh of Indiana — show labor's former dominance in political donations is being supplanted by the efforts of businessmen.

And those efforts could also be a test of the importance of independent political fundraising.

The four liberal senators have been the target of unprecedented negative advertising from conservative political groups whose spending is counted as an independent expenditure and not included as contributions to the Republican opponents.

Organized labor is weighing in on behalf of the four liberals — and generally giving nothing to their Republican opponents — but union contributions lag far behind that of the conservative and business groups.

"Politics is being radically altered in terms of money," said Church spokesman Cleve Corlett, referring to both the dramatic growth in business political fund-raising committees and the independent conservative expenditures.

According to figures compiled by the Federal Election Commission, business groups have given Rep. Steve Symms, R-Idaho, $222,281 to help finance his challenge against Church, who has drawn only $35,276 from such groups.

Symms has also received another $15,110 from conservative groups.

On top of the normal fundraising, Church has been faced with more than $250,000 in independent expenditures from conservative groups, led by the National Conservative Political Action Committee.

The money has been used over the past two years to run ads attacking Church on such issues as his support for the Panama Canal treaties.

Church has been helped by organized labor, which has given him $69,600, compared to $300 for Symms.

Church has also drawn strong support from individual contributors — many from outside Idaho — and has pulled roughly even with Symms in overall fundraising with both sides reporting about $1.4 million in contributions.

The pattern of donations is similar in the other three races, with business and conservative political fundraising committees favoring the Republican challengers and labor throwing its financial support to the Democrats.
