triumph of terrorism

For a particularly graphic example of what makes terrorism tick, look at Manila. The bombing of the convention of American travel agents did more than bloody some of the participants and bring the gathering to an abrupt close. It gained headlines far beyond the Philippines for a hitherto little-known cause.

The bomb was not directed at the visiting travel professionals. The target was Philippine President Ferdinand Marcos - more specifically, his regime.

It was the work of a militant opposition group calling itself the April 6 Liberation Movement, which since late August has been responsible for a score of bomb incidents.

It did not come without warning. The terrorists had let it be known that the convention might be made the occasion for an anti-Marcos incident. The government responded with tightened security measures and a guarantee to the travel agents that they could meet in safety.

Marcos' tough-it-out stance is reminiscent of that of the late Mayor Richard Daley, who held the Democratic Party to its decision to hold its 1968 national convention in his city despite the well-publicized intent of assorted radicals to turn the event into a rally in opposition to the Vietnam War. Chicago has yet to recover fully from the consequences, and that may go for the Democrats, too.

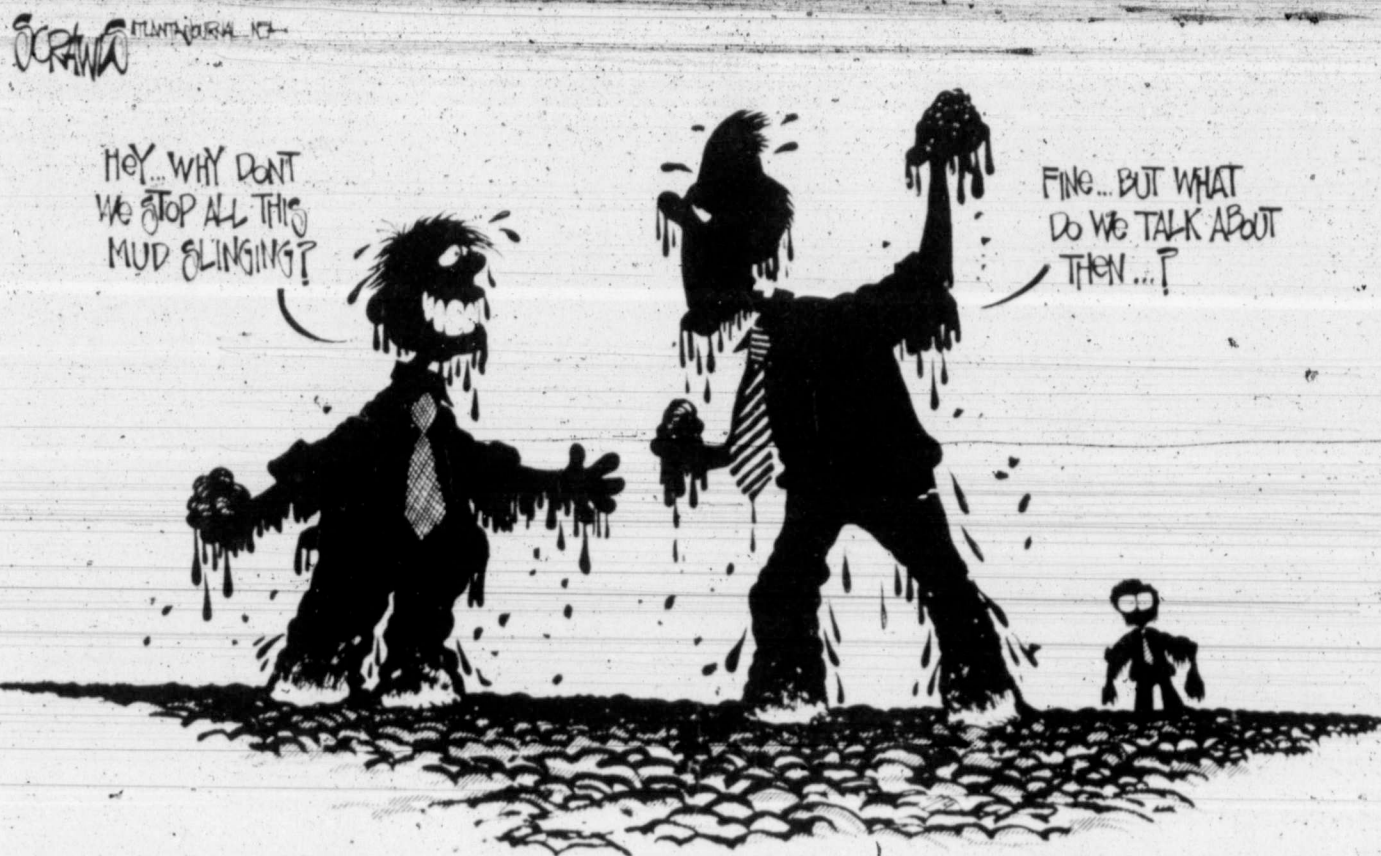

Something similar may be in the script for Marcos. He has responded with a crackdown on his opposition and orders for the arrest of its leading figures, many beyond his reach in the United States and most with exceedingly doubtful connections with the bombings.

But he may already be in the process of losing far more than this would be roundup can possibly gain him. The travel convention outrage is the greatest publicity accomplishment of the militant opposition to date. The involvement of 5,000 mostly American foreigners guaranteed that. The inability of the regime to protect them as promised and their abrupt departure from the Philippines in an acute embarrassment for Marcos.

This is precisely what the terrorists are seeking, and it would be surprising if they are not now encouraged to step up the assault, with possibly more of the same involving foreigners.

There may be some justification for sympathy with the terrorists' cause. The Marcos regime is one of the least appealing in the non-communist world today. It is a family dictatorship - his wife, Imelda, is the de facto and very active assistant president - that has put the Filipino democracy that was developing in the early postwar decades into deep freeze, ruling by martial law for the past eight years.

But not for sympathy with the terrorists into "good" and "bad" varieties when the lives of innocent bystanders are involved. It would help, though, if bystanders took responsibility themselves for the most effective first step in guaranteeing their own safety. And that is to stay away from known danger zones, such as Marcos' Manila.

Portrait of Paul Harvey with text: paul harvey buy american

There is no accurate measure of foreign investment in the United States. The Commerce Department guesstimates 52.3 billion... but there are so many fancy ways to cloud the ownership of multi-national corporations that our government is helpless to trace the foreign governments and foreign individuals who own or control United States corporations, real estate, resources.

For two years our Government Operations Subcommittee has been trying to measure the extent and effect of foreign investment in the United States - and cannot.

Americans, individually, are left so confused that they paste bumper stickers reading 'BUY AMERICAN' on their Toyotas.

When an American purchases Ferragamo shoes he knows he is buying Italian. But there are shoes with historic American names which are no longer American.

The one-time All-American ice cream, Baskin Robbins, is now owned by Allied Brewers of Britain.

Your Hardee hamburger is Canadian. Korvette department stores are owned by a French consortium. Foreigners own A&P, Shell Oil, Clorox, Timex. These we know about. Probably there are thousands we don't know about.

The admittedly inadequate report which Congress has just received guesstimates that foreigners own $350 billion worth of businesses and property in the United States.

Though, again, government efforts to monitor foreign investment are so "inadequate, disjointed and poorly implemented that we're just guessing."

It's become a wry joke in Hawaii to say that "Japanese who could not conquer Pearl Harbor - have now bought it instead."

Of course it works both ways. Generations of Americans have done a lot of investing overseas - some personal, most corporate.

Multinational corporations get so spread around that they know no national allegiance.

But what well might worry us is that buying abroad more than we are selling abroad means that we are "exporting jobs" also.

Recent widespread layoffs in our automobile and steel industries are directly traceable to imports. Unions in these trades demand that government "do something."

The "logical" "something" is tariffs on imports, but that could result in upward pressure on prices - compounding the hurt.

A bitter bumper sticker seen frequently around Detroit reads: 'BUY - FOREIGN PEANUTS.'

A more appropriate response to competition from abroad would be to reestablish a business climate which encourages competition and rewards productivity - in the United States.

It's time to update your knowledge of collective nouns. You know what a collective noun is dummy. Its like a school of fish or a herd of cattle or a pack of wolves or a covey of quails. Get the idea?

Now that you remember what a collective noun is, add these to your list: an ostentation of peacocks a pride of lions a troop of kangaroos (no kidding)

For Clayton

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) - A fund-raising barbecue for House Speaker Bill Clayton will be held Nov. 22 before the Texas A&M and Texas Christian University football game.

Irene Little, chairman of the steering committee, said the barbecue is expected to attract all Texas A&M students, former students and other friends and supporters of Clayton. Clayton is a 1950 graduate of Texas A&M.

Sales In Texas

Still Climbing

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) - Sales in Texas continued to climb in the second quarter of 1980, according to Comptroller Bob Bullock.

A sales tax analysis released Monday for April through June showed gross sales totaled $61.7 billion up $3.8 billion from the first quarter of the year.

The second quarter 1980 sales topped the same period in 1979 by $11.4 billion. The largest gross sales for the quarter were in Houston, with $17 billion. Dallas reported $9.4 billion; Bexar, $3.2 billion; and Tarrant, $4.6 billion.

next collection of collectives because you won't find them in your Funk and Wagnall's: a sears of roebucks a league of women voters a lesser of two weevils a rack of lambs a dodging of pigeons a wart of toads a parliament of owls a clip of barbers a dose of doctors a swipe of dogflaps a squeal of informants a jiggle of Charlie's angels A snatch of IRS collectors a clique of revolvers a heartbreak of psoriasis

Some collective nouns are very precise. For instance, at Texas A&M it takes 144 Aggies to equal a grose.

On the brink of a presidential election it would be going too far to say, a liar of politicians, so lets just let, a bribe of congressmen, suffice.

Collective nouns are also found around here. For example, this summer if you had haunted the coffee shops in the first hours of daylight you would have found a drought of farmers. In September we all saw the soup of rains. In the spring we have bowls of sandstorms. In the oilpatch, we have a boom of oil wells. Right here in this office you can find a broke of reporters.

Mr. Reed Stewart, long-time Tarrant County tax assessor-collector says: "Amendment number 3 is the most dangerous of all nine amendments to be submitted to the voters."

Passage of amendment No. 3 will take the decision-making away from local elected officials and allow bureaucratic personnel to control and tax the public.

Since becoming your county tax assessor-collector in 1977, I have worked for efficiency, economy, uniformity of values and one collecting office (voluntary) for all taxing jurisdictions. However, with passage of Amendment No. 3, neither of our appraisers or equalization boards would be elected by, or be responsible to the voters.

Some feel that this would be taxation without representation. In my opinion, since the new Property Tax Code (SB621) has become law and will fully be implemented as of Jan. 1, 1982, very likely in the near future we will face legislation to abolish the constitutional office of tax assessor-collector.

As of this date, our office has received from the State Property Tax Board instructions for the types of information which will be required to be reported. Keep in mind we receive no reimbursement whatsoever from the state as do school districts for partial exemptions and Ag use values (55 percent in 1980), therefore the bureaucratic malady has already begun. Under the heading of Tax Office Budget Report, the state is requesting the following information:

A. Number of tax office employees. B. Tax office salaries (individual). C. Tax office budget (including salaries, travel expenses, equipment and furniture, supplies, rent, utilities, postage, statements and notices, education (schools, conventions and seminars), bonding and insurance, outside assistance (appraisal companies, computer services), attorneys' fees (including delinquent collections).

D. Registration and certification. This is another step being taken to gain increased control over officials elected by the public. Let me urge you to carefully study the ramifications of the passage of Amendment No. 3. C. L. Minton, Scurry County Tax Assessor-Collector.

To the Daily News: In 1979, the 66th Texas Legislature passed House Joint Resolution 98 which, if approved by Texas voters in the Nov. 4 general election, would make it mandatory for county governments to participate in the single appraisal districts established by the Property Tax Code. This amendment to the Texas Constitution will be listed as No. 3 on the ballot.

What is principally apparent in all of the maneuvering is that the great debate of the 1980 campaign is going to take place not because it is in the public interest, but because it is now in the purely partisan interest of both the Democratic and Republican candidates.

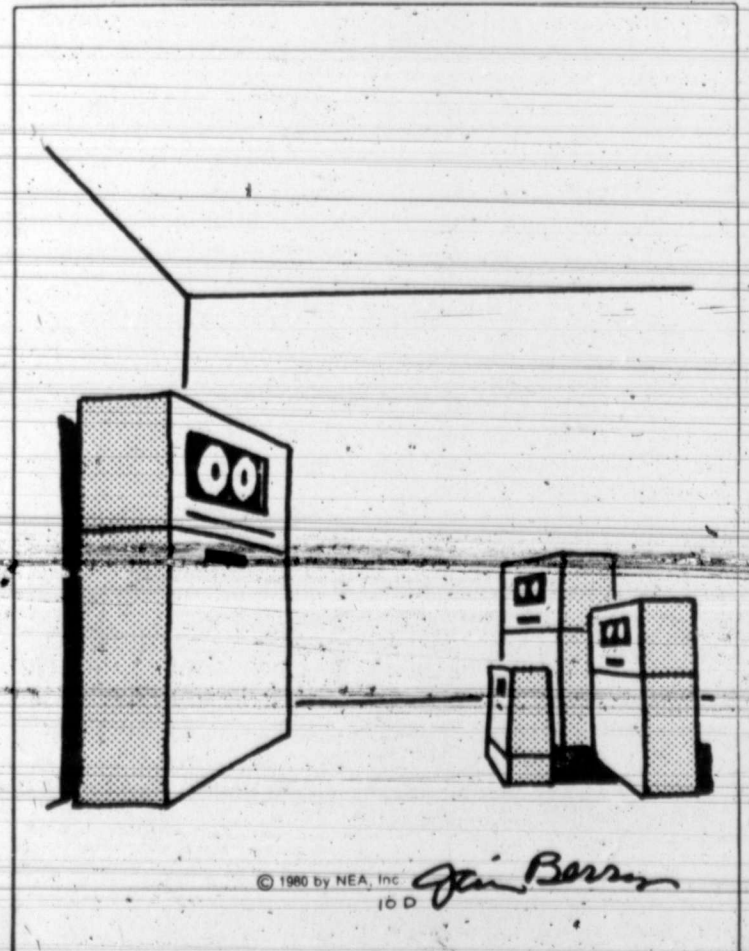

The former because he is gaining all he has demanded from the start, a one-on-one encounter, and a golden opportunity for a final push into an Election Day lead.

The latter because there are abundant signs that his campaign has been marking time, having largely failed to convert a widespread negative view of Carter into a strongly favorable attitude toward Reagan. The public, as far as the pollsters can determine, still sees the race in the terms of the lesser of two evils - or as some have put it, the evil of two lessers. The debate offered Reagan a opportunity to blunt any momentum that may be developing for Carter in the closing days.

It is a sorry conclusion to a worthy experiment. The idea of having the presidential candidates pit their presences and policies against each other in full view of the voting public, as made possible by the magic of television is an appealing one. And mystique about it has developed since the certainty dramatic and possibly decisive debates of 1960.

But there has been only one full-fledged, and so far less satisfying, series since in 1976. One or both candidates in all the elections between and good partisan, naturally - reasons for not debating. And similar reasons have shaped the on-again, off-again - mostly the latter - 1980

Baird Sisters Visit Dumbarton Oaks

Attending the meeting and luncheon of the National Board of Colonial Daughters of the 17th Century at the Mayflower Hotel in Washington, D.C., were Josie and Delila Baird of Rotan.

Delila Baird, organizing president of the Texas Chapter of the National Society of Colonial Daughters of the 17th Century, gave a report from the chapter on activities since the April meeting. She also reported on sales of the lineage book for which she is national chairman.

The Bairds were in Washington two weeks attending two meetings and doing genealogical research in the libraries there. They also visited Dumbarton Oaks museum and gardens which are on land granted to an ancestor, Col. Ninian Beall of Maryland.

Dumbarton Oaks is a part of a series of open spaces at the northern side of Georgetown in an area within ten minutes of the White House. It is a part of what has been referred to as "America's most civilized square mile." The handsome mansion sits on a high hill with a Byzantine Museum and formal gardens. Below the gardens is Dumbarton Oaks Park which is one of the most beautiful and least known National Parks.

The grant, named the Rock of Dumbarton by Ninian Beall, was granted to Beall in 1702 by Queen Anne. The property was purchased in 1920 by Robert W. Bliss who gave it to Harvard University in 1940.

The university operates it as a center for Byzantine Studies. The foresight of Mr. and Mrs. Bliss prevented the "square mile" from being subdivided into house lots or becoming the site of monotonous high-rise apartment buildings.

Ninian Beall is the ancestor chosen by the Misses Bairds for eligibility for membership in the National Society of Colonial Daughters of the 17th Century. This was their first visit to Dumbarton Oaks and was the highlight of the two weeks spent at the Capitol.

ROCK OF DUMBARTON—Josie Baird of Rotan stands beneath a plaque noting the grant of "The Rock of Dumbarton" to an ancestor, Col. Ninian Beall, in 1702. The plaque is located at the entrance to the gardens at Dumbarton Oaks, which has been called the most "civilized square mile" in the country. The Bairds visited the gardens while in Washington, D.C., for two weeks.

WASHINGTON MEETING—The National Society of Colonial Dames of the 17th Century had a fall board meeting recently in Washington, D.C. Attending were (left) Josie Baird of Rotan, National Chairman of Heraldry and Coats of Arms; Elise Young of Palos Verdes Estates, Ca., president general of the society, and Mrs. H. W. Sharrlieb of Amarillo, recording secretary general and Texas state treasurer. The picture was made in the Texas Room at national headquarters in Washington.

Colonial Dames Club Meets In Washington

Josie Baird and Delila Baird of Rotan were among members of the National Society of Colonial Dames of the 17th Century attending the fall meeting of the Board of National Society in Washington, D.C. The Bairds are co-chairmen of the committee on Heraldry and Coats of Arms.

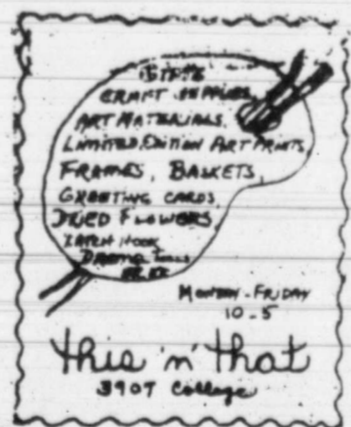

The society owns and maintains a headquarters building in Washington. The building is furnished with valuable and interesting antiques which make it serve as a museum as well as headquarters for the Society. A comprehensive and growing genealogical library is housed on the lower level.

The board meeting was in the assembly room where the walls serve as space for exhibiting Coats of Arms furnished by descendants of families bearing the Crests. The meeting included a luncheon prepared and served in the building.

The work of the committee on Heraldry and Coats of Arms involves checking and approving lineages of members with documentation back to the ancestor bearing the Arms. A report of the work of the committee since the April meeting was presented.

After the meeting of the national board of management, the Bairds worked as volunteer genealogists checking supplemental applications in the office of the registrar general in the headquarters building. Josie Baird is also serving as regent of Benjamin Blackburn Chapter of Abilene, while Delila Baird is registrar of the chapter.

As we pointed out yesterday, the modern tendency is to open a four-card major suit when you can't find a biddable minor; that any three-card club suit is biddable as is a three-card diamond suit if headed by one of the three top honors.

Thus, when we do open a major suit our partner will assume we do have five cards or more in it.

A further modern tendency is to make the response of two in a lower-valued suit show at least 11 points, to promise a rebid unless opener just rebids

Find reason for leg pain

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I had a vein-stripping operation on both legs about four years ago. I still have pain and now you can see the veins sticking out again. The doctor said he didn't think they should be causing me that much trouble. I have good arterial circulation in my legs but bad veins.

I'm a 32-year-old man, 6 feet tall and weigh 173 pounds. I have never smoked in my life. I used to be heavy but lost to 150 pounds, and I did a lot of lifting on my job. Could the lifting have caused my leg problems?

Is there anything that can be done for my problem? I don't want to live like this the rest of my life.

DEAR READER — You were not very specific about what kind of leg pain you are having. It may be totally unrelated to your varicose veins. After all, varicose veins usually cause no symptoms at all or may result in a sensation of swelling, actual swelling or leg muscle fatigue.

Ask your doctor to send you to a physician who specializes in physical medicine. He may find a reason for muscle complaints if it is not because of your varicose veins or poor circulation.

I am sending you The Health Letter number 5-8, Varicose Veins. It will give you a better understanding of what they are and what can be done about them. Other readers who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

As The Health Letter I am sending you explains, standing still is worse for varicose veins than exercising. Walking actually pumps blood out of your veins. I doubt your lifting contributed to your problem. But find out what is really causing your difficulty rather than assuming it is from your veins.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I read in a column of yours about a man who was having severe headaches. The doctor called them cluster headaches. One of the drugs you mentioned that was used in his treatment is propranolol (Inderal). You said it was helpful in some patients who had migraine headaches.

I use Inderal prescribed by my doctor for heart problems. I've spoken to several people who take Inderal for the heart. My druggist also says it's for the heart. Which is correct?

DEAR READER — Both. My column that you read was about headaches. Therefore, I discussed the medicines that are used in the treatment of cluster headaches, a form of migraine headaches. It's quite true that this medicine, which has been successful in treating some patients with these headaches, is also widely used in the treatment of heart disorders.

You shouldn't be so surprised at that. After all, simple aspirin is used in some cases to relieve pain and in other cases to reduce fever. Many of our important medicines have more than one use.

Inderal acts on the body by neutralizing the body's sensitivity to adrenaline-type chemicals. These adrenaline chemicals are used for the transmission of impulses through the sympathetic nervous system. Your sympathetic nervous system affects your heart, blood vessels and many of the autonomic (automatic) functions of your body. Any medicine that affects such a fundamental function of many different parts of the body can be expected to have many different uses.

WTC Play Headed For November Competition

Students from Western Texas College will be among the more than 13,000 across the nation participating in the American College Theatre festival (ACTF) this year.

The WTC theatre department is now in rehearsal for "Becket," which will be presented for local audiences in mid-November. "Becket" will represent the college in the Northeast Texas Area ACTF competition to be held at Midwestern State University at Wichita Falls from Nov. 19-22.

WTC's play is to be performed at 1:15 p. m. Nov. 21. Other colleges scheduled at MSU are Lamar University with "The Lion in Winter," Vernon Regional Junior College with "Godspell," Texas Southern University with "Vainities," and Tarrant County Junior College Northwest with "Taming of the Shrew."

Last year more than 420 colleges and universities entered the festival with productions adjudicated on home campuses by critic-evaluators. Raymond Craver of Angelo State University will evaluate the WTC production.

Each of the 12 areas holds a regional festival with up to eight productions invited to appear. Finally, up to 10 productions are selected to appear at the Kennedy Center in Washington, D. C., in a showcase representing college theatre in the United States.

Image Of Candidates Priority Of Debaters

WASHINGTON (AP) — For Ronald Reagan the goal in tonight's debate is to come across as a reasonable man of peace and at least as presidential as the president. If President Carter has his way, he will demonstrate an impressive command of the complexities of his office, while showing how little Reagan understands the presidency.

Those are the immediate goals of the two participants in their only face-to-face debate of the 1980 presidential campaign.

How close they come to achieving those goals may determine whether the debate is the deciding factor in this close election.

The circumstances that led to the debate forecast the strategies of both candidates.

Reagan and his staff showed no particular readiness to debate Carter until their polls began turning up signs that Carter was reaching many potential voters with his contention that the Republican nominee was too ready to recommend using military force.

Suddenly, countering Reagan's hawk image became a top priority for his campaign and a head-to-head debate with Carter appeared the best way to do it.

For Carter, the incentive to debate was his standing in the opinion polls.

Since the nominating conventions last summer, most polls have placed Carter behind Reagan in the popular vote and, more importantly, in the state-by-state projection of electoral votes.

As Carter strategists saw it from the beginning of the campaign, the best route for Carter to follow was to make Reagan, the issue by convincing people he was a hard-line conservative with a fondness for oversimplifying complex issues.

And what more dramatic forum for making that point than a one-on-one debate?

To achieve his goal, Reagan must keep the debate focused on Carter's record in office, particularly on his handling of the economy, the area on which Reagan strategists have always felt the president was most vulnerable.

At every opportunity, expect Reagan to point to economic statistics, rates of inflation and unemployment, as well as interest rates to buttress his contention that Carter's record is one of failure.

Carter is likely to tick off every instance in which Reagan has said the United States should consider using military force to resolve an international crisis. The president also will try to portray Reagan's economic proposals and his plans for transferring domestic programs back to the states as unrealistic and as examples of how little the GOP nominee understands the complexities of government.

Get Winter Garments Ready Now At Joe Graham Cleaners

One of the most familiar sights around Snyder is the Joe Graham Cleaners van and Art Roberts.
It's a sure sign that this is time of year cleaners are helping families to get their winter wardrobe processed for the cold months ahead.
Art noted that this is one of their busiest times of the year because people can have their winter garments processed while the weather is still fairly warm and have them ready for the colder days ahead.

It is also a good time of year to have those raincoats and winter jackets re-processed as water repellent. For those heavy coats that have hung in the closet for six months, this is a good time to call Joe Graham Cleaners and have them picked-up and cleaned. They will be delivered to you wrinkle free and have that feel of a new coat. Of course there is never a charge for pick-up or delivery.

ART ROBERTS AND ELOY MATTHEWS are two of the experienced staff at Joe Graham Cleaners. They can get your winter clothes ready for you. (SDN Staff Photo)

Something many people forget about Joe Graham Cleaners is that they have a complete alteration department. Their alteration work is well respected as many department stores in Snyder will tell you. The next time you need something altered, take it to Joe Graham Cleaners and it will be ready to wear in no time.

With the modern equipment at Joe Graham's, it is understandable why they have become so popular at cleaning and pressing drapes. Did you know that they can also clean and press those household items that you have stored all summer and plan to use this winter? Bedspreads, quilts, blankets and other winter goods need to be cleaned professionally to keep their new look. Just call Joe Graham Cleaners and they will pick-up your winter goods and have them ready for you and those wintery nights.

In Snyder, we probably don't have to tell you how important service is to Art Roberts, but we can guarantee that you will get the fastest and best service possible when you call them for your cleaning needs. Joe Graham Cleaners is located at 2417 College or you may call them at 573-3401.

Support Urged As Westerners Open '80 Season

Western Texas College coach Larry Dunaway and his Westerners are ready to continue tradition at WTC, but they'd rather not take on the task alone.

I think the support or lack of it that we get from the townspeople will make a difference, said Dunaway.

Though the team is still hampered by a few nagging injuries, Dunaway relates that all 11 are eager to play Saturday when the Westerners entertain McMurry at 8 in the high school gym.

There's no question about it. We're ready for the season to start. We need to play against other people. These kids have been working every day against each other and they are starting to get on each other's nerves.

The Westerners play only three non-conference games at home, another reason Dunaway is urging early fan support. The teams return to action again Monday in a double-header with the Dusters.

Dunaway characterizes McMurry as "real quick". He added "They gave us fits with their quickness when we played them (scrimmage) earlier."

Since that time, the Westerners have added new dimensions to their offense and defense, but Dunaway allows the tests his team receives Saturday against McMurry and Monday against Cisco will give him better knowledge of their capabilities.

Offensively we're starting to look a little better. We're executing our offensive patterns better, but I'm still not pleased with our full court press at this time.

Apart from the upcoming couple of games, Dunaway offered some of the basic philosophy he plans to use on the young, but eager team.

We still haven't put in a lot of our defensive techniques, but we will be getting into them more as the season progresses. We're wanting to get everything in and polished by conference.

Later this week: More on the Westerners in general, a look at the players, and a starting lineup.

WTC Cagers Mince McMurry...

Duster Defense Nets Win

ABILENE--Coach Joe Cushing's Western Texas College Dusters opened the 1980-81 basketball season with a victory here last night, trouncing McMurry College 74-53.

The Dusters return to action Nov. 3 with their first home game of the year, a 6 p.m. meeting with Cisco Junior College in the Snyder High School Gym.

Western Texas used their familiar net-like press to rip the Maidens, taking 10-point leads twice in the first half before breaking the game wide open in the final period.

We wore them down with our pressure, man-to-man defense, explained Coach Cushing. It began to tell five minutes into the second half. We were getting better movement both offensively and defensively than they were.

Cushing opened the game with his regular starters, including four sophomores, and would pull them when the team got 10 points ahead, replacing them with the younger girls.

We were replacing whole units in the first half but in the second half I always kept a sophomore or two in there for leadership and that seemed to help a lot, he added.

Shari Teal led the scoring attack with 15 points, while Stella Bickley added 14 points and Linda Holubec had 10.

We had lots of people grade out well. Five graded fair, two good, five excellent and one outstanding, noted the coach. That's having a pretty good balance of people doing a good job for you.

Teal, who also had four blocked shots, was the player that graded excellent. In all, Western Texas came away with 10 blocked shots, 46 rebounds, 16 assists and 21 steals.

I think 10 blocked shots is more than we had all last year, Cushing laughed. We're really pleased with that. It's something we've been working on very hard.

Belinda Sladek led the Maidens in scoring with 14 points while Tammy Gober had 12 and Sandra Whiteside came up with 10. McMurry shot 21 percent for the night, principally due to the tight net the Dusters were working all evening.

Defensively, I was very pleased. Our man defense was putting a lot of pressure, forcing them to do things they didn't want to do, said Cushing. We did not shoot the ball, real well. 31 of 84 for 37 percent. I wasn't all that pleased with the first half, but you have to consider this was the first time many of these girls had ever played collegiate ball.

Now we've got a week to go in and work on some of the things we did wrong, and iron out some of our problems. I think we have to be real pleased with the job we did overall in our first game, but we'll get better. We still have a lot of work to do, the coach added.

'Horns Plunge To 12th; Baylor Becomes 10th

By The Associated Press Texas dropped out of the national championship picture after suffering its first defeat of the season while UCLA, Notre Dame and Georgia moved up to contest Alabama's bid for an unprecedented third consecutive college football crown in today's Associated Press poll.

The Crimson Tide of Alabama led the rest of the pack for the seventh week in a row with 57 of 65 first-place votes and 1,289 of a possible 1,300 points by defeating Southern Mississippi 42-7 and knocking the Golden Eagles out of The AP Top Twenty after their first appearance ever in the ratings.

However, Texas was upset 20-6 by Southern Methodist and skidded from second place all the way to 12th.

Astros' Smith Fired; Replaced By Rosen

HOUSTON (AP) — Tal Smith, who orchestrated the Houston Astros' rise from the cellar to the 1980 National League Western Division championship, had every reason to expect job security. Smith was named president and general manager of the Astros in 1975 when the Astros finished 43 1/2 games out of first place.

Yankee President and General Manager Al Rosen. "A person's performance is what normally prevails," Smith said. "Even though we came a run short of winning the National League pennant this year I still think it was a very successful year for the Astros and this franchise."

And obviously he thought a change was what he wanted. He has known Al Rosen. Whether that was the primary consideration or not I really don't know.

But Astros General Partner John J. McMullen dropped a bombshell Monday by firing Smith, who said he was shocked to learn he had been replaced by former New York

I didn't really see any grounds or any reason to suggest there would be anything of this nature although I recognize and have recognized Mr. McMullen is the general partner of this partnership that inherited my contract and my services and it is his prerogative to employ those people he feels com-

Richard Already Planning Future

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Only two weeks after a grueling 18-hour operation on his pitching arm, Houston Astro ace J.R. Richard is already running and plans a weight program soon to get back in shape, his doctors said Monday.

The doctors said Richard will start throwing a ball again soon, although it's too early to say how fast. But one thing is certain, they said Richard wants to pitch as hard and as fast as he ever did.

Houk Comes Back To Manage Sox

BOSTON (AP) — Ralph Houk ended two years of retirement by returning to baseball, agreeing to a two-year contract as manager of the Boston Red Sox.

In 1964, George Blanda of the Houston Oilers attempted 68 passes in one game against the Buffalo Bills and completed 37.

Felines Can Claim Title Tonight Against Tors

The magic numbers include 53, 43, 27 and more, but the most important number for Coach Joyce Elrod's varsity volleyball team tonight is No. 6.

That's how many round-two victories the Felines need to wrap up a District 2-AAAA volleyball championship, and they've got five already heading into the 7:30 contest with Lamesa at Snyder High School Gym.

I'm sure Lamesa would like to beat us, especially in our own gym, noted Coach Elrod. They've probably improved since we played them last, and that one went three sets.

Those are all nice to have, but right now we're more concerned with getting out of district, explained Elrod. Of course, we'd like to go through these next two games undefeated, if possible. We're going to take them one at a time. We can't afford to celebrate early, she stressed.

Springs Added To List Of Dallas 'Flackbacks'

DALLAS (AP) — A second member of the Dallas Cowboys backfield was fitted with a flak jacket Monday.

Fullback-tailback Ron Springs received the new piece of equipment to protect his braised ribs.

Dorsett wore a flak jacket Sunday night because of bruised ribs but did not play in the 42-31 victory over San Diego.

Fans can witness the girls go for the district crown at $1 for adults and 50 cents for students.

Polygraph Test Says Candace Tells Truth

MCKINNEY, Texas (AP) — Candace Montgomery told the jury last summer when she said she did not intend to kill her onetime lover's wife, a polygraph operator has testified at her murder trial.

The testimony at Mrs. Montgomery's trial came Monday after presiding State District Judge Tom Ryan ruled she was mentally fit for trial. The ruling followed a new series of psychiatric examinations over the weekend to determine her competency.

Dr. Thomas L. Thornton, who examined Mrs. Montgomery, told the judge she was "fully competent" for trial.

Mrs. Montgomery testified last week that she was fighting for her life when she struck Betty Gore 41 times with a three-foot ax June 13. The defendant said Mrs. Gore attacked her after learning she had had an affair with Mrs. Gore's husband, Allafi Gore.

testimony on the "lie detector" test.

Khomeini

certain to endorse these conditions — but may add others. Some that have been suggested include the removal of the four U.S. Air Force electronic observation planes sent to Saudi Arabia after the outbreak of the Iran-Iraq war, the removal of U.S. naval forces from the Persian Gulf region and the resumption of sales of U.S. military spare parts to Iran.

Ali Shams Ardakani, Iran's special representative at the United Nations, said the defeat Sunday of a proposal by hardliners that the hostage issue be postponed until the end of the Iran-Iraq war was a "positive development." But observers in Tehran said the vote of 101-87 that killed the proposal demonstrated the large number of deputies opposed to any concessions to the United States.

DISMISSALS: Enrique Sanchez, Jack Beane.

Dr. Fred L. Fason, a Houston psychiatrist, said Mrs. Montgomery flew into a blind rage during her struggle with Mrs. Gore and did not stop swinging the ax until her rage was spent.

Fason said he examined Mrs. Montgomery seven times at the request of her attorney and found her present mental state to be "detached and mildly depressed."

He said she had dissociated herself with the killing and felt as though she had watched the slaying from outside her own body. "She didn't understand why she had done what she did," Fason said. "She said it was so ugly."

Defense attorney Don Crowder called several witnesses who testified Mrs. Gore often was moody and difficult.

Elizabeth Cline said Mrs. Gore "got mad over the least little things...she never had anything good to say."

Catherine Cooper, who supervised Mrs. Gore as a teacher in 1973, said the dead woman "had a hard time communicating with people" and was "extremely tactless."

Preacher Held In Preacher Shooting

LEOTI, Kansas (AP) — Sheriff's department officials said charges likely would be filed today in the weekend shooting death of a Texas preacher, who died after a quarrel over a debt.

Officials had a man they identified only as another preacher in jail for questioning in the shooting of the Rev. Gus Ornelas, 45, pastor of the Church of God of the First Born in Dimmitt, Texas.

Ornelas was shot about 8 p.m. Saturday in a trailer house behind a church in the western Kansas community of 1,900 people. Friends in Dimmitt said Ornelas, who had been preaching for 26 years, was in Leoti for a revival.

Ornelas was taken by ambulance to Scott County Hospital in Scott City, Kan., where he died about two hours later, hospital officials said.

"The shooting came as the result of an argument over a bill owed to the suspect and some furniture owned by people not involved in the shooting," a sheriff's office spokesman said.

Ornelas was hit by one bullet, which entered one side of his chest and exited the other, investigators said.

Funeral services were set for 11 a.m. Wednesday in the Dimmitt church Ornelas pastored. He had been a minister for 26 years and had lived in Dimmitt since 1969.

He is survived by his wife, three sons, seven daughters, his mother, seven brothers and two sisters.

Doctors' Pockets Not As Full as Their Books

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: As a physician, I know this problem is a genuine source of concern to almost every physician. It may come as a surprise to many, but all doctors are not rich! Far from it. We have house and car payments to make, children to raise, and business expenses just like anyone else trying to make a living. Add to that the exorbitant premiums for malpractice insurance.

People wouldn't think of going to the grocery store, filling station or beauty parlor without cash, a check or credit card. But they come to their doctor's office and say, "Bill me," or, "My insurance company will take care of it."

Abby, some insurance companies wait 60 to 90 days (and longer) to pay a bill — assuming it's covered — and sometimes it's not covered!

Unfortunately, the doctor has to pay his rent, office help and family expenses within 30 days.

If after three or four months the doctor hasn't received a dime from the patient or his insurance company, it's customary for his office to phone the patient and request payment, whereupon the patient usually becomes highly indignant! This person would probably froth at the mouth should his paycheck be held up for one day! Yet, that's what the doctor's bill is — his paycheck.

It's unfair that the doctor is usually the last one to be paid, and sometimes he's not paid at all! Sign me AN M.D. WITH $35,000 ON THE BOOKS

DEAR M.D.: I'm using your letter as a reminder to those who owe their physicians — and their dentists, too!

DEAR ABBY: I have recently become engaged to a man whom I have dated for two years. We set the wedding date and plan to buy a home. He owns two cars.

Now he tells me that everything will be in HIS name only for the first five years of our marriage — in case it doesn't work out.

I feel that he doesn't trust me, and that our marriage will be on a trial basis. He is 35 and has lived with his parents all this time.

I love him very much, but I'm confused. CONFUSED

DEAR CONFUSED: If you can "love... very much" a man who insists on a pre-marriage contract on HIS possessions, lots of luck.

The marriage ceremony is silent on "trials." The vows imply "trust," but your intended wants to hedge. Beck off.

DEAR ABBY: Although we were outnumbered, I was on your side of the controversy over whether the gracious hostess asks her guests if they want refreshments, or if she "gets up off her bottom" and serves something.

I am a Finn, and a hospitable Finnish hostess automatically serves refreshments without taking a survey. If a guest does not care for refreshments but takes a token sip of tea and nibbles at a cookie, the gracious hostess says nothing. She certainly does not attempt to "sell" her refreshments. Nor does she say, as most Americans say, "It's not very fattening, if that's what's worrying you."

Neither does she say, "Just taste it. I went to all the trouble of making it." And worst of all she never says, "If you don't eat it, I'll have to throw it out!" FROM FINLAND

Arrests Made In Robbery Of K-Bob's

Two arrests were made Monday night by city police in connection with the recent break-in of K-Bob's Steakhouse.

Arrested, reports show, were men aged 19 and 22. Reports filed by police at the time of the burglary show that the cash register, worth about $2,000, and about $200 in cash had been stolen. The arrests were made by Lt. Steve Warren.

Also investigated were two minor traffic accidents. The first accident occurred about 11:30 a.m. at the intersection of 25th St. and Ave. R. Involved in it were a 1977 Oldsmobile driven by Dorothy Peterson of Hermleigh and a 1976 Chevrolet driven by Frances Gann. Working it was Buddy Kinney.

The second accident was worked by Keith Ward in the 2900 block of Ave. Y at 4:55 p.m. In it, an unknown vehicle left the scene after striking a tile fence owned by L.E. Griffin. Damage to the fence was estimated at $50.

Crowds Gather Early In Hope Of Good Seat

KRISTIN GAZLAY Associated Press Writer MCKINNEY, Texas (AP) — The 100-year-old tan brick Collin County Courthouse sat vacant in the middle of this picturesque North Central Texas town for more than a year.

Now turnaway crowds are queuing up at its glass doors, hoping to be one of the lucky 200 people who get a seat to the hottest show in town — the ax murder trial of Fairview native Candace Montgomery.

Inside on the hard wooden benches, they haven't been disappointed. The trial has been full of more twists than a pretzel — and saller too.

Lead defense attorney Don Crowder stunned an inattentive courtroom during jury selection by announcing that, yes, his client had hacked Betty Gore 41 times with an ax June 13, but it was in self defense.

The flamboyant Ivy League-ish attorney, who prods witnesses in a wide Texas drawl, contrasts sharply with methodical, subdued Collin County District Attorney Tom O'Connell, who often wears a rumpled suit to court.

O'Connell pleads the state's case quietly.

Crowder has twice been cited for contempt of court by State District Judge Tom Ryan, who was O'Connell's predecessor in the district attorney's office.

One contempt charge ensued after Crowder heatedly shouted at Ryan, "I won't lay down for you!" and told the judge not to interfere with his witness' testimony. The other came after the Allen attorney dropped his self-defense case quietly.
