Dies Sunday of Heart Attack

W. T. (Tom) Holland, well-known Haskell resident and active in Haskell business circles for the past 20 years, died at his home in this city at 1:00 p. m. Sunday after a heart at-

Although he had suffered with a heart ailment for several years, Mr. Holland apparently was in normal health, and only Saturday had retired after more than four years service as office deputy in the sheriff's depart.

Funeral for Mr. Holland was held at the First Baptist Church Tuesday at 3:00 p. m.

Officiating for the rites were the Rev. Hubert Sego, Baptist minister of this city, and the Rev. M. D. Rexrode, pastor of the First Baptist Church. Bur al was in Willow Cemetery under the direction of Holden Funeral Home.

As a tribute of respect to the former deputy sheriff, all of fices in the courthouse were closed the entire afternoon Tues-

Mr. Holland was born March 20, 1897 at Dublin, Texas. He was married Jan. 4, 1920, to Miss Arvelle Brown of Lingle-

He came to Haskell County in 1915 from Eastland County. After returning from service in World War I he was employed by Gholson Grocery in this city for 27 years. Dividends and Jelly Beans

Some time ago eighth grade students in a school in New York State were faced with a bewildering problem. The solution they hit upon was an almost brand new approach in the study of the American economic system, according to The Exchange mag-azine, official publication of the New York Stock Exchange.

These youngsters had pooled some small change and bought a share of stock, after reviewing the prospects of various companies and selecting the one they thought the soundest. Then came their first dividend-one dime. That sum is not divisible by 40, so they bought a dime's worth of jelly beans and thus distributed their profit.

More and more school children are learning the risks and rewards of shareownership these days, the Exchange magazine adds. This means that Johnny can read the stock tables and that substantial numbers of youthful capitalists are turning to the financlal sections of newspapers as well as to the sports and comics. The long-range significance of this growing movement is a big cree The adults of tomorrow will be better versed in the whys and wherefores of the American system than their forebears-and they will have a better understanding of what capitalism means and does. A stronger America will be the result.

Bad Penny

The proverbial "bad penny" has turned up in a very modern guise—the allegedly "temporary" cent-a-gallon increase in the gasoline tax imposed by the federal government last year.

The point has been made by the general sales manager of a major oil company. At a recent association meeting, he held aloft a two-foot-wide replica of the bad penny, and said: "As long as the bad penny stays on, the American motorist is being asked to pay the entire cost of the vast new federal highway program-and

This spokesman also used a dramatic means of illustrating the high level that federal and state gas taxes have reached. He opened a suitcase full of bills representing $21,600—the total gas taxes that a 20,000-gallon-a-month station in a typical state has to collect in a year. And the gas sation and the oil company, remember, are only collectors, which provide a free service for government-all the gas tax money comes from the customers.

There's an irony in the fact that excessively heavy gas taxes which now work out to about 50 per cent of the retail value of the fuel before the tax, may become self-defeating. Motorists, in vast numbers, are driving less. The sales of compact cars, whose prime appeal is economy, have been soaring at the expense of sales of standard models. The result: Less revenue from higher

Now it remains to be seen if Congress will, as promised, let the last "emergency" cent-a-gallon gas tax increase expire next June. That isn't likely to happen unless the protesting voice of the American motorist is heard-at peak volume.

boy in two pickup trucks carrying 10 greyhounds or well dogs, when the four coyotes we .. spot-

By all rules this should have ended in a thrilling chase and a lowering of the county's coyote population,

But the opposite happened and the ensuing excitement left two smashed pickups, five occupants badly "shook up", two crippled dogs and-if coyotes can laugh four laughing coy otes. Furthermore, if coyotes are like humans they've spread the story among all their coyote friends by this time.

It happened one day last Turnbow and several friends decided to go wolf hunting.

Loading their dogs in their pickups they were off, Dude and his boy in one truck, Alf, Vernon Lusk and a friend of Alf's from Killeen in the other pick-

Driving on a road alongside a pasture and field in the east part of the county. Dude in the lead car, saw four coyotes cross the road a short distance ahead. Speeding up, he had in mind turning in at a gate a short distance away. In the pickup behind, Alf and Vern had also seen the coyotes and Alf stepped on the throttle. Intent on watching the coyctes, he failed to notice in ime that Dude had skidded to a stop at the gate intending to get out and pen it so the two could drive n and turn their dogs loose after the coyotes. Despite his efforts to stop, Alf's oncoming pickup smashed into Dude's, and bedlam broke loose as 10 dogs started velping and barking all at once. A quick check-up showed that no one was injured, two of the logs were slightly crippled, while the two pickups, although smashed and badly dented in spots, would still run as good as ever.

Then, in spite of their hard luck, the hunters couldn't help laughing at themselves when they recalled the cause of their mishap and saw the four coyotes trotting leisurely along not more than half a mile away.

A. J. Sego, whose farm is northwest of town, intended to use his shotgun against ravens if they started damaging his To be prepared, he bought a box of shotgun shells on his first trip to town, selecting No. 4 shot as the most ef fective against the marauding

That was back in 1930, and Mr. Sego still has his box of ammunition. For some reason or other ravens didn't menace crops that year, or perhaps some better control method was ievised, he doesn't recall.

At any rate, he never used the shells, but kept them; just in case. Then, when he retired and moved to town a number of years ago, he ran across them

The shells, still in their original box, are as bright and clean looking as the day they were made and still retain a light wax coating.

Most fantastic angle of all, however, is the difference in price of shotgun shells in 1930 and the present.

Mr. Sego recalls that he paid 45 cents for the box of 24 shells. Today's price? A cool $3.45.

Then, as the depression worsened, the project was seen as one that would benefit the Haskell area by providing em-of its day in this section. There was opposition, naturally, just as there had been opread program and other progressive moves. But in the long run, modernging the courthouse turned out to be one of the smartest things that could have been done. Al though floor space of the building was doubled, it was all soon the county agent said. utilized by county and district

Although the county profited by the project, the contractors on the job almost "lost their shirts' in completing the build ing according to architect's week, when Dude Gay and Alf plans. The contacting firm was composed of two brothers and to their from Laubont, credit it can be said that they carried out their contract de spite the fact it almost bank. rupt them.

> The job was a Godsend to lo cal laborers, and provided work for scores of men during the spring and summer of 1931. since all the roof and tower had to be removed from the old building while foundations had to be dug and basements excavated for the new sections added to the building.

Despite the size of the job and the number of men employed, none of the workmen were seriously injured in accidents that usually occur on construc tion work. However, one Haskell man who worked as a carpenter on the job, still wears two gold upper teeth as a reminder of an accident on the project. A small gasoline engine powered an elevator used in hoisting material and sometimes men to the upper part of the three story building.

In the absence of the man who ordinarily operated the engine, the carpenter attempted to start it with a hand crank The motor backfired, the crank flew off and broke two teeth for the carpenter.

The small elevator was constant source of entertain ment for spectators who were always on hand at the construction site. Cables which raised and lowered the elevator were attached to a drum driven by the gasoline engine.

Sometimes with a heavy load the engine would stall. Then the operator, while trying to star the engine with one hand, would pull back on a brake lever try ing to brake the elevator and keep it from smashing to the

When the engine died an nen were on the elevator, half way up or further, the action was worth seeing. Sometimes the operator was able to ease the descent of the elevator and it would hit the ground with only a slight bump. At other times it would hit with such force as to almost jar out the eye teeth of the unfortunate occupants aboard.

Every construction job of any size has its "water boy"

no exception.

And for the work involved, this turned out to be the best paying job on the entire project for a brief period.

A local bootlegger saw an opportunity to develop customers among the crews of men working on the project, and took the job of water boy.

Wearing a loose-fitting mackinaw with numerous inside pockets, "the water boy" could apply both water or comething supply both water or something stronger on his rounds. All went well with him for a week or two, and then he started spending most of his time making the courthouse had been considered, but county officials and the Commissioners' Court hesitated to go into debt.

Then as the depression were the courthouse had been considered, but county officials and the making sure that the half a dozen or more rock masons laying the walls had all they wanted to drink—and it wasn't water altogether.

Number of Older People Increases In Texas

Texas' population now includes more than half a million persons over 65 years of age. This, according to Reagan Brown, extension rural sociologist, represents about 7 per cent of the total population or about 1 out of 11. The ratio is even higher in rural areas, he adds. The sociologist says the increase has caused leaders in many towns and rural communities to take a longer look at the situation. Interest is growing in programs aimed at helping these senior citizens. Brown points out that research studies have and are furnishing valuable information for planning work.

The older persons prefer to live as independently as poss-ible and in familiar surround ings among their friends and associates. They like to be near married children or grand-children but live to themselves. Elderly persons like to be where they can watch adults work and children play instead of with aged people only.

Most older farm folks like rural surroundings with open spaces, room for animals, or where they can garden and watch things grow, says Brown. But they don't want to be iso-lated. They'd like to be in walking distance of relatives, friends church and shopping facilities; have help if needed and be cut of doors when weather permits

Whether in cities, towns or rural areas, older folks have much in common when living facilities are discussed, Brown says. They want a safe homeone floor level with few steps to the outside. They don't like hazards which could mean a fire or fall but express a desire for automatically controlled heat for the winter months, ade quate lighting, windows that open and close easily and a comfortable place for a day-

But most important, Brown emphasizes, older folks want to feel needed and have an oppor- Odessa visiting friends.

TOASTED COCOANUT ROLL

COOKIES roll 39c

My son and I spent Thanksgiving day affoat in a boat. Two men on a leisurely fishing trip, trolling for bass, can get in a lot of conversation. We talked about our work, our familles, sports, politics, education, and of course the many, many different ways there are to catch fish, Suddenly Sandy said-"Dad, it's Thanksgiving. And here we are enjoying a day of relaxa-tion fishing. You know, we're doing the very same thing that the Pilgrims did for a liveli-

True enough! And I'll wager they enjoyed their 'work' as much as we did the fun, on Thanksgiving day.

Times sure have changed, though. Few people today seem to enjoy their work. I mean act ually get enthusiastic about it, pace. Those who do so are the happiest, of course.

Actually a man should not engage in an occupation he does not enjoy. If it isn't a pleasant job, he should get out of it, if at all possible. He should get out of it before it ruins his disposition, warps his attitude. weakens his mental capacity to think, and makes of him a less what they are now doing. We don't fully agree with that statement. We believe that any man can convert to another occupaion, if he but possesses two things: courage to make the change and determination to make good. In either event, both the man who is "tied to his job" and the man who doesn't give a hoot about it, owes it to himself, to his family, and to his compadres to get away from it all. once in awhile.

The advice is just as good for the man who is too much in love with his work, as it is for the man who has no love for his job at all,

Ever fly a plane solo? High up in the sky, above everything and everybody, you get a much broader view of things not just physically, but mentally as well Your attitude changes in-stantly. You begin to think how small you are in this great big world, what an insignificant part you play, how really minor are those problems that were bothering you. When you begin to compare yourself with the broad expanse of the entire world, you soon realize just how tiny is your part in the big picture.

Boat Rides Are Stimulating Not all of us can fly a plane, but there's not a one of us who can't rent a boat.

Boating has the same effect on me. The cool water, the invigorating breeze the purr of a smooth running motor - far from land and roads and problems. That's the type of relaxation I enjoy.

You can have the downtown crowds, the long parades, the stadium mobs, the hustle and jostle of the big city. In fact on my day off you can have the turkey and all the trimmings. I'll settle for a spin on the lake any day, and thank the Lord that I'm here to enjoy

If so, the first year of the new decade, 1960, was strewn with weathervanes to point the course of Texas in the next nine

Among major Texas events in the opening year of the sixties were these:

1. Party Primaries were held in May and June, two months earlier. New dates ended old traditions, like announcing with the dogwood, campaigning in the heat. For the first time in years, challengers toppled two incumbents from statewide office, a fact that's bound to encourage future activity from

ing, Many conservative Demcrats bucked at supporting tandard-bearer John Kennedy and the liberal national platform. Enough became "Texans or Nixon" to make Texas a doubtful state." Scars and diis ons of 1960 will inevitably be reop r d when Texas Democrats get together again in '62

3. 1960 Census reports confirmed predictions that Texas young men "waiting in the will be a metropolitan state in the sixties, Overall, population

State Finance Problems never were out of the news, as gested a constitutional amend both public officials and private citizens circled the issue that elect to meet and elect a prewill come to a boil in this year's legislative session. State Finance Advisory Commission, appointed by Gov. Daniel in May, worked through the summer and fall. In December it recommended a one per cent payroll tax to raise the more than $100,000,000 a year the state is expected to need in new money. Meanwhile, meetings were held by practically everybody-labor and business groups, teachers. all with a vital interest in future taxing and spending deci-

5. Auto Insurance Rates, under a new merit rating plan, have for good or ill stirred more commotion than a back-firing Model-T at a horse auction, Last Legislature turned down flexible rating and instructed Board of Insurance to consider safety incentives and driving records in setting statewide rates. Result was a plan, begun last January 1, basing auto insurance rates on the driver's arrest record for past three years, including traffic tickets as well as acci-dents. Drivers whose rates jumped because of minor violations were irate. Those with spotless records got lower rates and were generally happier. A number of lawmakers have promised to look into the matter thoroughly this year. 6. Gas Tax Suit, begun in early 1960, probably will be in the courts another year. In the past year, gas pipeline compa-nies won rulings that the severance beneficiary tax is unconstitutional in district court and the Court of Civil Appeals. In months ahead, the case will go to the Texas Supreme Court and U. S. Supreme Court, If the tax is upheld, future efforts to raise the rate are certain. If, as in the case of the gas gathering tax in 1953, it is held unconstitutional by the U. S. Supreme Court. it is unlikely that even the most ardent gas tax advocates will try again to raise revenue by

The more you drive this solid beauty, the more you'll appreciate its solid build

'Most any brand new car hums a sweet tune. But after awhile the new-car aroma fades and you're on your second or third set of tires. And that's when you'll be glad you bought a Plymouth.

Its solid, one-piece Unibody is welded 5400 times to withstand the miles. And its unique anti-corrosion treatment holds off the ravages of slush, salt and sun.
