

Hispanic heritage week begins Sunday

Under the theme of "A Salute to Youth," the Reese community will celebrate Hispanic Heritage Week next week.

The theme is based on the United National's proclamation which established 1985 as International Youth Year.

Everyone is encouraged to participate in the events which will "emphasize the contributions and cultural heritage of Hispanics," according to Capt. John Gonzalez, Reese project officer.

Many events have been tentatively scheduled.

Sunday, Father Ramirez will hold a Spanish Mass in the Base Chapel at 9:45 a.m. Following will be a reception hosted by the Women of the Chapel.

The Enlisted Open Mess will feature a Hispanic Menu as the luncheon special Monday, beginning at 11:30 a.m.

A special movie will be shown at the Youth Center Tuesday beginning at 6:30 p.m.

On Wednesday, the Officer's Open Mess will feature a Banquet luncheon from noon to 1:30 p.m. with local news broadcaster Abner Euresti as the guest speaker. Also, retired Lt. Col. Dan Gomez and son will feature complimentary music. The luncheon will cost $4.

Thursday's festivities will begin with a parent luncheon at the Child Care Center from 11:30 a.m. to 1 p.m. The cost is $1.

Following the luncheon, the center will host a Pinata Party at 2 p.m.

At 4:30 p.m. the Mathis Recreation Center will host a Hispanic Tasting Special then a Folklórico Floor Show at 5:30 p.m.

A youth festival will be held at the Youth Center Sept. 20 from 7 p.m. to 1 a.m.;

and live band entertainment will be featured at the enlisted club from 8:30 to 2 a.m.

Rounding out the weeks events will be a Mariachi Original at the base exchange gazebo from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m.

Throughout the week, displays will be hosted by the Base Exchange, Base Library, Commissary, Mathis Recreation Center and Chapel.

Hurricane Elena batters gulf bases

KEESLER AFB, Miss. (AFNS)—Hurricane Elena's Labor Day rampage through Mississippi and her earlier brush with the Florida coast caused more than $25 million in damage to Air Force bases and forced thousands of people and hundreds of aircraft to flee the storm's fury.

Hardest hit was Keesler AFB, on the Mississippi coast. Elena's eye, surrounded by 100 mph winds, passed over the Air Training Command base at 7 a.m. Sept. 2. No deaths or serious injuries were reported, but damage estimates have topped $25 million, according to base officials.

More than 200 houses on Keesler and dozens of other buildings suffered major damage from wind and fallen trees. Base civil engineers said 41 houses were "uninhabitable."

Many military families have been forced to find temporary housing both on and off base, officials said.

The base lost all electrical power and only a few buildings had power restored by mid-week. Telephone service was also knocked out.

Keesler units were keeping an eye on the storm long before it became a threat. Reservists with the 815th Weather Reconnaissance Squadron and their seven WC-130H aircraft flew 19 missions into the storm. They made their first flight Aug. 26 and their last on Sept. 2, as the hurricane stormed inland.

The squadron's storm trackers penetrated the rag-

As I see it

Reporting from Randolph...

My T-38 Instructor Pilot Check-Out here has been running very smoothly, and by next week I should be back with you, checked out and ready to go. Last Thursday I flew out to the change of command at Williams AFB. I noted that it was a fitting ceremony, and very well done. As you might expect, however, my personal view is that the Willie change of command didn't quite measure up to Reese standards set Aug. 7.

T-46:

A lot of talk is surfacing about the half-life of the T-46A program, destined to replace the aging T-37 fleet. Headquarters is now preparing a major briefing which will go to the Air Staff next week, intended to defend the rationale for ATC's new trainer. Lord knows we need it! I had a chance to review the briefing last week here at Randolph. All we can do is wait and see about the outcome, but if I were a betting man, I'd say we'll have a T-46—though delivery schedules may be stretched out.

Local notes:

I passed through Reese enroute to Willie, and had a chance to catch up on some paperwork and chat with several folks on Monday night and Tuesday. As you know, Capt. Bob Rush and his billeting team is representing Reese and all of ATC in the Air Force-wide Inn-keeper competition. I met with the team and welcomed them aboard. The whole base looked great—particularly our billeting areas, inside and out. Bob and company, best of luck!

Chief Jim Morris tells me he is working hard to make the Enlisted Open Mess the best in the command. He's making great progress, and membership is on the rise, already over 60 percent. We need to support our clubs, and I'll guarantee that if we all do, we'll get back more than we put in. I'd ask that all Reese supervisors schedule as many of their unit functions as possible into our clubs. That will really help the cause.

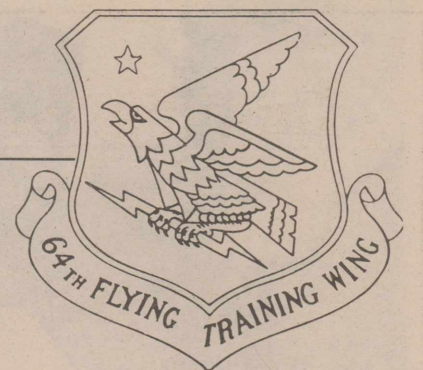

Tent city:

My hat's off to you 96 mobility troops who spent Monday night in the tent city west of our outside runway. Capt. Woody Hopley and Mr. Sam Lanham, our wing mobility officers, and Lt. Col. Dane Morvant, our new BEET chief, report that some outstanding training was conducted. Participants staged on actual deployment to a base camp, set up perimeter defense, and took chemical protective measures. Let's take advantage of the lessons learned. You folks nearly got rained on that night, and with our long dry spell lately, I frankly wish you had.

As we all know, the weather has not been cooperating in our efforts to keep Reese green. However, I was glad to see all the sprinklers going the day I drove around. Thanks to all for fighting back! There's too much invested to lose it now.

Careline

Ext 3273

The CARE Line is prepared by Col. James McIntyre, 64th Flying Training Wing commander, on a weekly basis. All information provided to the CARE Line will be held in strict confidence. Callers are urged to give their name and duty telephone number so that a personal reply may be made; however, neither are mandatory. Callers should use the CARE Line only after all possible means to air their views or complaints through the chain of command have been exhausted. The CARE Line number is 885-(Ext.) 3273.

Mowing hazard!

What can be done to keep the gravel on the roads in hase housing off the lawns? I'm concerned about the hazards of mowing over gravel and flinging it where it might hurt someone.

Our civil engineers have investigated the situation to determine what could be done. The gravel is along the edge of the driveway where it meets grass. The nature of the pavement surface is such that a small amount of gravel is always loose and total removal is practically impossible.

I agree this can be a hazard if proper precautions when mowing are not observed. Children should never be allowed to play near an operating lawn mower, and proper safety equipment, such as sturdy, closed-toe shoes, long pants and safety goggles should be worn. Obvious obstructions should be moved from the mower's path. These precautions should be observed any time, and in particular in the case you cite.

What gives?

I think the base laundry charges too much to have stripes and name-tages sewn on. I've had young airmen in my shop charged almost $14 per shirt to have stripes sewn on. What gives?

The price lists for sewing on patches and stripes at the base laundry are as follows: Closed pocket—stripe set, $2.55; name tag, $1.30; U.S., $1.30; ATC patch, $1.30; squadron patch $1.30; Open pocket—stripe set, $2.55; name tag, $1.30; U.S., $1.30; ATC patch, $1.80; squadron patch, $1.80.

You can see from these lists that much more had to be done to a shirt than sew on stripes to approach the $14 figure. In fact, AAFES has asked us to increase our prices in this very area. However Mrs. Vick, our facility manager, held the line in our interest by talking them into accepting our continued low prices as a "continuous special." It's clear tome that she has customer satisfaction at the top in her list of priorities.

Dog problem!

What am I supposed to do about people walking their dogs through my yard? One of my pets was hurt by one of these dogs. Isn't there a regulation governing control of pets in base housing?

You are absolutely right. Wing

Regulation 125-6 is explicit in the matter of owner responsibility to control all pets. Pet owners are reminded to refrain from allowing their pets on yards other than their own. Should you encounter problems with pet owners in violation of this guidance, contact the security police at Ext. 3612.

Bike laws!

I've noticed bicyclists on base on in the housing area running stop signs and disobeying traffic rules, and I was wondering if something couldn't be done about it. Shouldn't bicyclists obey the same regulations motorists do?

You are right on target. Bicyclists are required to obey all rules of the road just like any other vehicle operator. The security police have assured me they will cite people who violate the law no matter what type of vehicle they are operating.

Remember that in a collision with a car, the bike usually losses. Be careful out there!

Air Conditioning?

The air conditioning hasnt' been working in my dorm room, and the heat is affecting my ability to sleep at night and be alert during the day. I can't seem to get anyone to fix the problem; can you help me?

Help is here, and as you pointed out, none too soon. Your dormitory, Bldg. 220, came into the summer with an outmoded air conditioning system plagued by chronic clogs and breakdowns. We have a permanent replacement on order which is better suited to the demands of your dormitory, and in the meantime have rented a system locally which has been hooked up to your building and is working properly. Should your problem recur, contact your dorm chief or, if that fails, call the Civil Engineering Service Desk at Ext. 3467. I'm sorry for your past inconvenience, and I'm sympathetic to any future problems you may have in this area.

Have pride in Combined Federal Campaign

By Gen. Andrew P. Iosue
Commander, Air Training Command

You gave generously to the Combined Federal Campaign last year, and I know most of you don't need much encouragement to do so again. But in addition to money, there's another way to give this year—give your attention to those who haven't supported the campaign in the past.

Help focus their thoughts on how they can erase others' suffering. Or remind them how easy that support can be if they use payroll deduction. Help them feel the warmth and excitement of helping others.

We have a big job ahead of us! More and more people have turned to the CFC for help and this year's needs are surpassing even last year's requirements. We can take up that slack, but we can't do it alone. We need to reach those folks who haven't been on the CFC team before.

When the 1986 campaign kicks off this fall, let's give it good start. Let's all be CFC spokespeople this year and spread the word about the good things CFC offers.

Because of your generosity, millions of people around the world live with less pain, more dignity, renewed hope and a better quality of life. Let's encourage everyone to join in our efforts.

Commander's column

Pride shows in work

By Col. Chuck Edwards
Deputy Commander for Operations

We move so often in the military and in many cases it seems like we are just getting into the swing of things and becoming "one of the team", when along comes the next set of orders. But, from the first day you set foot on Reese, you feel a part of the team. It has made for unity throughout the base. Also, with the friendliness displayed by the City of Lubbock, you take a more active part in the community as well. All this culminates in the genuine superb work that takes place at Reese daily.

From the operator's standpoint, the Reese maintenance complex displays the most aggressive, professional and, to my delight, the friendliness attitude found anywhere in the Air Force. This takes nothing away from the other base services who also "shine" at Reese but our close ties with maintenance, our life line, make for an even greater appreciation of them. From the most senior NCO, Chief Wittich, to the impressive SSgt. Schmitt, to the youngest junior officer, Lt. Kaut, they take pride in their work and it shows in the exceptional services "we" the operators receive. The power of positive thinking is indeed a reality with maintenance. Ask any operator and he will tell you with pride that the Reese maintenance personnel give their best to ensure we fly a sound aircraft. Although we may too often stress the "time line"—the student position in relation to days ahead or behind—it is one very visible and tangible element to which all can relate. The time line is a goal we strive for and is a motivator to both maintenance and operations alike to be "ahead" of the time line. The flying activity rate at all Undergraduate Pilot Training wings requires a continuously aggressive flow of aircraft sorties to meet the requirement. This results in a perception that the function of Air Training Command is a "gas and go" operation and sometimes can limit "esprit de corps". Reese takes such pride that the mission never suffers regardless of the tough continuous requirements with which we are tasked.

It takes a superior effort by all the people of Reese to make the flying operation go. My hat off to the very special people of the 64th Flying Training Wing support force. And a special thanks to the entire maintenance complex—keep 'em flying!

What does 'hispanic' mean?

By Sgt. Maj. Rudi Williams, USA
American Forces Information Service

Part of the audience always became annoyed when the old Interagency Committee on Mexican-American Affairs met in the late 1960's to discuss issues concerning Americans of Spanish ancestry.

"Someone would get up to make a speech and say, 'I'm Mexican,' or 'I'm Cuban,' and this would sometimes annoy Puerto Ricans, Chileans or others in the audience," said Manuel Oliverez, a former member of the committee and now manager of the Department of Defense Hispanic Employment Program.

Symbolism and semantics often stood in the way of working on the issues. To solve the problem, the committee and other groups started searching for an all-encompassing work that had "no negative baggage, was neutral, but still connoted some of our culture and heritage," said Oliverez.

They tried several: "Iberian-American" for Spanish. "But not all Americans of Spanish descent are from Spain," said Oliverez, who is of Mexican descent.

"Not everyone felt comfortable with Iberian-American because they felt it didn't cover all of the groups—everyone wasn't from Europe," said Oliverez.

They tried "Latino-American." That didn't quite make it because we're not all from Latin America," Oliverez said.

"Latino-American" was the most common designation at the time. It included people from Central and Latin America or any person of Spanish origin from Latin America.

Finally, the word "Hispanic" was adopted because it had a basis in the word "Hispaniola" (an island in the Caribbean) and because it allowed each subgroup "to retain its identity—Cubans are Cubans, Puerto Ricans are Puerto Ricans, and Mexicans are Mexicans," said Oliverez. "It's a word that no one objected to."

The dilemma was that "we are a varied people; from very white and blonde to black and in-between," said Oliverez. "There are Afro-American, Italian and Oriental Hispanics; to be Hispanic, you don't have to be a mixture of populations indigenous to the southern United States, Central and South America, or Spain. It's a combination that has culture and language, i.e., born and raised and acculturated in the Western Hemisphere or the southern part of the Western Hemisphere.

"However, for the process of programs for jobs, political issues, social and economic isues in the United States, 'Hispanic' serves as a word which in one concept depicts all of the various subgroups into one Hispanic family," said Oliverez.

Oliverez believes choosing one word to represent all people of Spanish ancestry has had positive benefits for all concerned.

"You don't have goals in DoD for the employment of Puerto Ricans, Cubans, Mexicans or any other group," he said. "You have goals for Hispanic-Americans. And you try to find the most qualified Hispanic-Americans to make contributions to the mission of the Department of Defense."

Oliverez thinks that the various subgroups add strength to the American society through their diversity. Asked how the word Hispanic is accepted by visitors from Spanish-speaking countries, Oliverez said, "The average Mexican, for instance, coming to America would consider Mexican Americans to be 'Norte-Americanos.'"

A Hispanic-American like myself, for instance, sees himself as Mexican within the Hispanic umbrella. But the way I perceive myself is not necessarily the way a Chilean, a Paraguayan or an Argentinean may perceive me. He probably perceives me—although looking very much like him and speaking Spanish quite a bit like him—as an American.

"In his mind, I'm a 'Norte-Americanos'—I'm an American," said Oliverez.

Since Congress passed legislation in 1968 proclaiming the week of September 15 as Hispanic Heritage Week, federal agencies have observed it.

"The federal sector has led in this area for many years," said Oliverez. "The private sector is beginning to come on board and start to observe it, too."

How do Hispanics feel about having a week set aside for them?

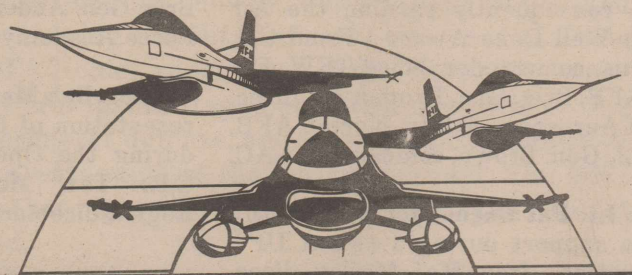

"Hispanics see the fabric of American society as something like a tapestry, all of us are different threads and hues—all coming together making America," he said. "We see ourselves as very much the fabric of America—to our boots...to our souls... we've fought in the wars, and in every war we've fought with bravery—we've led... we've followed...

"...We're very proud of our heritage, our language, culture, traditions and values," Oliverez said. "Hispanic Heritage Week is an acknowledgment that America is a pluralistic society made up of many pieces and parts; all working together."

"We have Black History Month, Asian-Pacific-American Week, Polish Week and many observances including St. Patrick's Day. That doesn't take away from the Irish being good Americans and believing in their country."

"We're proud of being Americans, and also very proud of being Hispanic-Americans," said Oliverez. "For us, it's that one week of the year we're proud that the rest of the American people are proud."

A free press vs. national security

Why should freedom of speech and freedom of the press be allowed? Why should a government which is doing what it believes to be right allow itself to be criticized?

"Ideas are much more fatal things than guns. Why should any man be allowed to buy a printing press and disseminate pernicious opinions calculated to embarrass the government?"

Those are questions Lenin raised in 1920 as he was emerging as a Soviet political leader.

Secretary of Defense Caspar W. Weinberger says it's lucky our founding fathers answered these questions differently than Lenin, Marx, Engels, and Stalin.

However, he said when the media disclose information that threatens U.S. national security, they infringe on other equally legitimate public interest, including national defense.

Weinberger recently spoke to business communicators about the competition between two fundamentals of democracy: a free press, as guaranteed by the Constitution; and national security, the primary obligation of a government to its people.

"The relationship of the news media to the national defense establishment presents government with one of its greatest challenges," he said. "It requires each defense official to appreciate the value and role of the news media in our democracy, and weight that value against the competing national defense requirement for secrecy in some areas.

"This is a very real problem for us. When the news media publish stories containing classified information—such as defense plans or the classified capabilities of weapons—they may place our defense posture at risk.

"The conflict between the press and the Defense Department is not new," Weinberger said. "Both have enjoyed a long tradition of support in the United States. Further, the conflict between press freedoms and defense needs is a conflict between two legitimate interests of a democracy.

Journalists, said Weinberger, "are an indispensable element of effective democratic government. In recent years, some news reporters have even withheld information at our request. In the recent hostage crisis in Lebanon, for example, reporters did not reveal which of the hostages were military personnel."

He added, "Journalists of today are patriotic, responsible citizens. They are struggling to deal with the duties of a citizen and the responsibilities of a journalist..."

"Just as we in government are actively trying to resolve the conflict between a free press and national security, so too are journalists." Referring to the pool of reporters ready to deploy with a military operation on short notice—part of the Department's effort to work more effectively with the media—Weinberger said, "These reporters and their news organizations have agreed to certain guidelines in their best interests and ours.

"I expect this renewed spirit of cooperation will benefit us all, and most especially the American people."

Hurricane Elena

ing storm 89 times, pinpointing its location and passing data to the National Hurricane Center in Miami.

The crews and their aircraft flew from Keesler, Homestead AFB, Fla., and from Antigua in the West Indies. They spent up to 12 hours on each mission, battling winds that peaked at 135 mph.

While Keesler was the hardest hit, other Air Force bases in the area did not escape without damage. Many of the bases were forced to send people to shelters and to evacuate aircraft.

Residents at Eglin AFB, approximately 140 miles east of Keesler, had to flee to shelters twice as the hurricane churned through the Gulf of Mexico. Base officials said 8,500 people used the shelters. In addition, 89 aircraft were evacuated to bases as far away as Texas and Ohio.

Damage at Eglin was estimated at $100,000. Two hanger roofs were destroyed by winds that reached 70 mph.

Hurlburt Field, located on the Eglin reservation, sent more than 700 people to the shelters, also on two different occasions. Base officials said they were lucky, however, because damage was limited to downed trees and power lines and broken windows. The base's aircraft were evacuated. Peak winds reached 52 knots, even though the storm came within 45 miles of the base Sunday evening.

Tyndall AFB, southeast of Eglin, suffered damage to one building. More than 3,000 people were forced to evacuate winds that peaked at 85 mph. Base aircraft were flown to Texas and Kentucky.

MacDill AFB, near Tampa, evacuated 2,000 people and six aircraft. Many of these people spent more than 48 hours in the shelters. Damage was limited to flooding near the perimeter and loss of some fences, officials reported.

Homestead AFB officials said they were forced to shelter some people, but did not receive any damage from the storm. The base, on the southeast tip of Florida, sheltered aircraft from Keesler and MacDill.

England AFB, La., 210 miles northwest of Keesler, evacuated its aircraft twice, but did not suffer any damage.

Columbus AFB, Miss., about 250 miles north of Keesler, provided a safe haven for a dozen Coast Guard helicopters, but did not have to send any of its people to shelters. Winds and rain caused some power outages, according to officials.

Maxwell AFB, Ala., 220 miles northeast of Keesler, sheltered more than 1,500 people from Florida bases, as well as Navy training planes from Pensacola. The base received "lots of rain," according to officials, but did not suffer any damage.

Several bases have sent help to Keesler, whose flirtation with Elena began Aug. 29. Forecasters had predicted on that day that the storm would make landfall close to the Mississippi gulf coast.

On Friday morning, Elena began slowing down. Forecasters said the storm would not hit until late in the evening. People in the shelters were released for a few hours to gather more supplies.

Elena then turned to the east and Florida's central gulf coast. The Hurricane warning for the Mississippi coast was lifted and people in the shelters were sent home.

On Sunday, Elena, which had stalled 50 miles off Florida's coast, turned around and headed once again toward Mississippi.

Late that afternoon the Keesler commander ordered all base residents to either evacuate the area or enter the base shelters.

By 10 p.m. Sunday more than 13,000 people had entered the shelters. They remained there until the storm ended about 5 p.m. on Labor Day.

Hurricane Elena's high winds uprooted this tree sending it crashing into this building near Pascagoula, Miss., about 70 miles east of Keesler AFB.

NAVSTAR may end woes

By SSgt. Steve Hicks
Eastern Space and Missile Center

PATRICK AFB, Fla. (AFNS)—New-car buyers in 1988 may find a space-age gadget on their list of options; a NAVSTAR Global positioning system receiver.

"It will essentially be a small TV screen that shows your position on a map," said 1st Lt. John H. Scheonewolf, NAVSTAR cargo manager for the Eastern Space and Missile Center.

A small cursor, or mobile electronic dot, will pinpoint a car's location to within 300 meters, he added. Map cassettes will be purchased separately.

Before the satellite electronic car map becomes a reality, along with other applications both civilian and military, 28 satellites will have to be launched between 1986 and 1988. The rate of launches will be the most ambitious ever attempted in space-launch history, according to Lieutenant Scheonewolf.

"We plan to launch the satellites at a rate of one every seven weeks aboard the shuttle," he said. "We will need a total of 18 to start operating the system, and the target year is 1988 to begin operating."

To help make the accelerated launch rate possible, the east coast NAVSTAR launch facility opened last month at Cape Canaveral AFS, Fla.

Together, the facility and the positioning system itself "will revolutionize the way we perform precision navigation," said Maj. Gen. Donald W. Henderson at the ribbon cutting.

Mitchell to receive new curbs, gutters

Civil engineers have begun replacing the curb and gutters on Mitchell Boulevard in Reese Village.

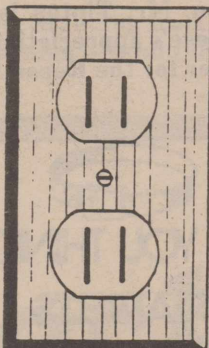

The Pavements and Equipment shop started excavating and preparing the areas to be worked earlier this week.

Plans are for the road to remain open during the operation, according to officials, however, residents are asked not to park their cars in the area where work is being done. Also, they ask residents not to park in the alley where they may stop the Garbage truck from picking up the trash.

The work is scheduled to be finished sometime after Christmas, according to civil engineers.

TAKE A BITE OUT OF

Security police keep busy

BLOTTER

Several incidents were reported to security police during the last couple of weeks and could have possibly been avoided.

Some cases reported were deliberate criminal actions, however, many others could have been avoided had the victims secured their property, and paid attention to what was going on around them.

Calls received by the Security Police include:

Uncontrolled animal

A U.S. Government employee was chased by a small Canine in Reese Village. The owner was contacted by SPs and briefed on Wing Reg 125-6, Control of Domestic Pets. Case Closed.

Unsecured vehicle

An airman left his shop and related that person/s unknown had taken a cassette carrying case containing 35 assorted cassettes, and a credit card from his vehicle. The vehicle was not secured.

GOV accident

SPs dispatched to a reported GOV accident. Upon arrival, investigation revealed that there were no injuries and only minor damage. The operator of the 10-ton tractor struck the Base Motor Pool fence, causing minor damage to the fence and no damage to the GOV. The fence sustained minor damage consisting of the pole being pulled from the ground and the fence to be crushed up. Two individuals were 'playing' with a mouse in family housing when the animal bit both of them. One individual was bitten on the right thumb and one was bitten on the right index finger. Both were treated at the hospital and released. Case Closed.

Unsecured property

An individual reported the theft of two ten-speed bicycles from her quarters in Reese Village. The individual had made a visual check of the area before she reported the theft, however, could not locate the bikes. The bikes were valued at approximately $80 each.

False alarm

Fire Department notified this office that they were responding to an fire alarm in Bldg. 420. No fire was discovered, however investigation revealed that a pull-box on the North-east side of the building on the third floor had been triggered. No witnesses were contacted.

Unlawful entry

A patrol radioed this office and related that there was an individual inside the enlisted pool area, and observed the individual swimming in the pool. Being 3:15 a.m., the pool was closed. Backup arrived and apprehended the individual for unlawful entry.

Improper backing

SPs were dispatched to a POV/POV accident. Investigation revealed that there were no injuries and that there was only minor damage to the vehicles. The accident was caused by improper backing.

No fatalities reported over Labor Day...again

RANDOLPH AFB, Texas (ATCNS)—ATC members survived their fourth straight Labor Day weekend without a fatality. This helped the command tie its record, set in 1976, for the safest summer.

There were four ATC fatalities this year during the "101 Critical Days" period between Memorial and Labor Day weekends. Included were a drowning and three traffic deaths.

The command hopes to set an even more impressive record according to safety officials. With only four months remaining, seven ATC members have died in ground accidents thus far this year. The command record for the fewest fatalities in a year is 17—set in 1976 and repeated in 1983.

Two Air Force members were killed in ground accidents over the recent three-day holiday according to safety officials at Norton AFB, Calif.

Chemical weapons Seeing is believing

What kind of card game would you have if you suspected that your opponent had a couple of aces up his sleeve? Ideally, you'd ask that all the cards be laid on the table at the game's onset. If you still weren't convinced that your opponent was playing fairly, you might request that he roll up his shirt sleeves.

That's the key to an effective ban against the production, stockpiling and use of chemical weapons, defense officials say.

Douglas J. Feith, deputy assistant secretary of defense for negotiations policy, recently pointed out that export controls alone might discourage a given state's plans to produce chemical weapons quickly. "But no export control policy can erect an insurmountable barrier against acquisition or at-home production of chemical weapons," he said.

The key to reducing the risk of chemical warfare proliferation worldwide, Feith pointed out, is an international comprehensive treaty that forces all parties involved to comply in fact as well as on paper.

Vice President George Bush introduced a draft treaty last year at the Conference of Disarmament in Geneva that offers the most comprehensive effort to ban chemical weapons since the 1925 Geneva Protocol.

This draft treaty proposes to ban the first use of chemical weapons in war and the development, production, stockpiling, acquisition, retention, transfer and use of chemical weapons.

Bush pointed out that monitoring compliance with this ban would be nearly impossible, particularly because of the technical similarities between chemical weapons production facilities and commercial production facilities, and the similarities between chemical weapon agents and chemicals used for peaceful purposes.

So, to maintain accountability of treaty compliance, the proposal specifies that countries signing the treaty allow their military government-owned, and relevant privately owned facilities to be open for international inspection on short notice.

"The goal of our proposal is a treaty to require states to declare the sizes and location of their chemical weapons stocks and their production facilities, to destroy the stocks and facilities and to fore swear creating any new chemical weapons," Bush said during his Geneva speech.

"If they are to sign such a contract, states must have confidence, in particular, that they can know:

- that all stocks have been destroyed;
- that all declared production facilities have been destroyed;
- that the declared stocks really do constitute all the stocks, and
- that the declared facilities are all the facilities.

"Without such firm assurance we cannot...claim to have banned chemical weapons," he said.

However, if this proposal meets with international acceptance, "We will not only have realized the noble longing for a treaty that actually bans chemical weapons, but we will have changed in an altogether salutary manner the way governments do business.

"We will have set a bold example for overcoming barriers that impede effective arms control in other areas. And we will have engendered the kind of openness among nations that dissipates ungrounded suspicions and allows peace to breathe and allows peace to thrive."

fishing tourney

The Reese Rod and Gun club will hold a fishing tournament at White River Lake Sept. 14.

Registration for the tournament will be held at 7 a.m. on the west dock at the lake. A $15 registration fee will be charged to members and $20 to all others who wish to fish in the tournament.

Fair game for the tournament will be bass, walleye, crappie and catfish, according to club officials.

Officials also noted that last Saturday's rabbit hunt at Terry County Auxiliary Field was a big success. Flying safety hazards were significantly reduced at the airfield, according to officials.

It's time to think about those ballots...again

Forty-three point two percent of the Army people did it in 1984. So did 64.5 percent of the Navy people, 59.9 percent of the Marine Corps, 60.4 percent of the Air Force, and 58.5 percent of the Coast Guard. Did what? Voted or attempted to vote in the 1984 general elections.

Overall, 55.3 percent of the military members participated in those general elections, an increase of 5.6 percent over the last general election.

With off-year elections fast approaching, now is the time to begin thinking about registering to vote in November, says Phyllis Taylor, deputy director of the Federal Voting Assistance Program.

"Most states require registration a minimum of 30 days in advance of an election," she says. "And now is the time to begin contacting voting officials to determine what the unique requirements are for your state."

Taylor says voting assistance officers have been designated and voting information has been distributed to the field. Even though many election officials have a "window time" for accepting registration cards, most will hold the cards until the appropriate registration period.

"We found in the last election that the biggest problem associated with voting by absentee ballot was the transit time," stressed Taylor. "Thus it is very important to register and request your ballot according to your state's guidelines."

Voting assistance officers have copies of the 1984-85 Voting Assistance Guide that gives detailed information concerning voting requirements for each state. Taylor suggests that people attempting to vote study the guide carefully and fill out their Federal Post Card Application correctly.

"If military personnel have not received their ballots two weeks before the election and have exhausted all local avenues to resolve the problem, they should contact the Federal Voting Assistance Program Office," says Taylor. Program personnel will try to resolve the problem by contacting the state in question. They can be reached at AUTO-VON 225-0663/0664, Pentagon, Washington, D.C 20301.

Fly the Flag!

By Col. Clark Griffith
Commander, 64th Air Base Group

Patriotism is defined as the "love for or devotion to one's country". I believe every member of the United States Armed Forces feels this. You've proved this by promising to defend our country.

Displaying one flag is a form of patriotism. It shows that we love one country and are loyal to her. It doesn't have to be Memorial Day, 4th of July, or any other holiday to be able to display the flag. Our flag can and should be displayed every day of the year. I can't think of a better way to show your friends and neighbors that you're proud to be an American. I challenge each of you to show your patriotism, the American spirit, by displaying an American flag in front of your home.

Our Base Exchange is helping us fly the flag by providing flag kits at minimum cost. Mr. Hernandez received 200 flag kits last week, which were on special display and for sale this past weekend. This is an excellent opportunity to get your own flag at the right price. In Reese Village, our NCOA have already put up the holders on our quarters. Would you join me in showing our colors?
