First Primary Near at Hand

A great number of persons are not aware of the fact that the Legislature, at its 1935 session, moved the primary and run-off elections forward several months.

Candidates are not in sufficient abundance this year to impress this fact upon the voters. Now with only a short period remaining, many of them are surprised to learn that very few voters know when the elections are to be held.

Those who are campaigning have not failed to stress the earlier voting dates. First primary will be held on Saturday, May 7. The run-off, if any should be necessary, is scheduled for June 4.

If you are going to be out of town during the first primary election, May 7, you have from now until May 3 to vote absentee for that election.

After May 3 you must go to the polls if you want to vote. For those living in a county seat town, the simplest procedure is to go by the county clerk's office. If you do not live in the county seat, you can write the county clerk for the necessary forms.

Voting in the Democratic primaries is essential to participation in other Democratic party activities this year. No one will be allowed to take part in a Democratic precinct convention unless he has a poll tax that has been stamped "Democratic." Poll tax holders must vote in the primary, absentee or at the polls, to get their poll taxes stamped.

This new section of the election law was designed to keep out the so-called "one-day Democrats" who participate in Democratic primaries and conventions and Republican conventions, too. People who go to the GOP precinct conventions will have their poll taxes stamped "Republican." This shuts the door on their having any part in Democratic Party affairs until they get a new poll tax.

How To Save on Taxes

You've just paid your income taxes. Maybe you had the cash on hand, maybe you had to borrow as legions of people must each April. In either case, it's been a bitter experience.

And April will come again next year. So some advice on two ways you can save on income taxes, provided by a southern electric company, should be remembered.

The first way is the obvious one—get a reliable income tax guide, study it, and list every deduction you can find. Ignorance of allowable deductions can needlessly cost you large amounts of money.

The second way is very different. It lies in keeping the Government out of business. Socialized business commonly pays no taxes. Additionally, they commonly account for deficits which all the taxpayers must make up. And then, to make a bad matter worse, they deprive the Government of the tax revenues that would be paid by private business if socialized business hadn't taken its place.

So let's save on our future taxes—in both these divergent ways.

PEOPLE, PLACES AND THINGS

By A. PATE

As the tornado season moves in, the police and fire departments have plans ready to warn local residents in event of a tornado threat. As an alert, the fire sirens will be sounded for a period of several minutes, instead of the customary five "relays" for a fire. Also, mobile units mounted on police cars will travel all sections of the city, sounding the alarm.

Through cooperation of the State Highway Patrol and the sheriff's department here and in adjoining counties, it is believed that ample warning can be given the public when tornado conditions develop in this area.

Because of changes in the Texas election code, voters this year must decide by May 7 what political party they are behind.

In the Democratic Primary on that date, the poll tax receipt of each voter will be stamped "Democrat." This evidence of party affiliation

Dudley Roundtree and Mrs. Rowan left Monday night for Alabama, in answer to a telegram advising them their mother is gravely ill.

Mention of rank weeds recalls an incident years ago when we were scared out of a year's growth.

It was back in 1915 or '16, during wheat harvest season. A large group of men were employed loading grain at the railroad tracks. Two of the men got into a fight and one was fatally knifed. His assailant ran from the scene before officers could be called.

The news quickly spread and a manhunt was organized. Since the knife-wielder was known to be afoot, it was evident that he was hiding somewhere in town, waiting until night to make his getaway.

Boy-like, we were trailing along behind the officers, the late Alex Edwards, City Marshal, and a tall lan'y deputy we remember as Johnson. They were searching likely hiding places in clumps of mesquites and plum thickets along a small branch east of the railroad.

At one point there was a small culvert and on each side of the street sunflowers and other weeds were as high as a man's head, making an ideal hiding place.

The officers took opposite sides of the culvert, and slipped cautiously up to peer in. Johnson was taking no chances, he had his 45 in his hand.

Just as Johnson reached a point from where he could ease up for a view the City Marshal, at the opposite end of the culvert lost his footing and slipped down. At that, an old sow and litter of pigs, bedded down in the cool, moist culvert, stampeded out the end where Johnson was waiting.

The deputy, nervous as a cat when he heard the city marshal slip down, panicked as the sow and pigs crashed through the weeds. Without taking aim, he pulled the trigger on his 45 and yelled, "Good God, Alex, come here, he's gettin' away!"

As for us, the only reason we didn't break the sound barrier getting away from there was because we'd never heard of it. A few moments later, however, we did get up enough courage to go back and help the two men find Johnson's 45 which he had dropped in the excitement.

An eight-year-old Haskell lad was asked by his mother what he had learned at Sunday School.

"Well," he said, "our teacher told us about when God sent Moses behind the enemy lines to rescue the Israelites from the Egyptians. When he came to the Red Sea, Moses called for the engineers to build a pontoon bridge. After they had all crossed, they Egyptian tanks coming, Moses looked back and saw the railroad headquarters on his walkie-talkie to send bombers to blow up the bridge and saved the Israelites."

"Walter!" exclaimed his mother. "Is that really the way your teacher told the story?"

"Not exactly," the little fellow admitted. "But if I told it her way, you'd never believe it."

Recently, we mentioned Frank South's comment that his first view of Haskell, more than 50 years ago, left the impression that the little village was the cleanest, most attractive small community he had ever seen. As a result, he returned later and has made his home here since.

It was just opposite with John Decker—his first impression of the town, that is. Like Frank, he also became a full-fledged Haskellite and has lived here almost 60 years.

However, John says on his first trip here as a young lad, he saw a typical Western village—frame buildings and living-in-half-dugouts.

A few years later the rail-road built through Haskell, and the village blossomed into a little city almost overnight, John says.

After his folks moved to Haskell, John spent part of his time as a youngster "growing up" on land his father had in New Mexico. There were few settlements between here and New Mexico, and Lubbock was only a "wide place in the road," John recalls.

Every year, John and a brother would go to New Mexico and stay there several months, making improvements. The trip then, made by wagon, required about two weeks. Now it's only a few hours' drive. John declared, "When we'd get ready to leave, folks would take on as if we were going half way 'round the world," he recalled.

The border draw, according to cowboy is a cross draw made with the gun carried at or near the hip, but hanging butt forward. A quick stab of the hand across the body reaches the gun, and the combination of the movement lifts it clear of the holster. It is called this because of its popularity with men in the vicinity of the Mexican border.

Yearbooks Arrive

A. E. Arnett, Rule school custodian for 29 years, received a copy of the 1960 Bobcat, which was dedicated to him, Wednesday morning. Judy Guinn, annual editor, made the presentation.

Junior-Senior Banquet

The members of the Rule senior class and high school faculty members were guests of the junior class at the annual Junior-Senior Banquet, on Friday night, April 22, in the school cafeteria.

The banquet room was decorated in the "Song of My Heart" theme and colors of pink and silver were used throughout. Tables were decorated with white and silver table cloths with pink streamers. Nut cups were miniature china pianos.

Connor Horton gave the invocation. Keith Whitaker, junior president, welcomed the guests and Jackie Colbert, senior president, gave the response.

The Junior girls sang a song. Tom Horton read the prophecy and Judy Guinn read the senior will. Gerald Saffel read "I Keep In Harmony." Kay Ball sang "It's the Loveliest Night of the Year," accompanied by Jane Hannsz. Barbara Stryker conducted a candle lighting ceremony, in which all the seniors participated.

The banquet closed with the singing of the school song.

Members of the sophomore class served tables. The junior mothers prepared the meal. Mrs. E. D. Roberts and Connor Horton are class sponsors.

Lyles Jewelry Wins Award for Pottery Display

In a recent contest held by Frankoma Pottery resulting from reports of the company's representatives of the beautiful displays of Frankoma pottery seen in stores across the country, Lyles Jewelry Store of Haskell received special Honorable Mention with $25.00 worth of pottery.

Prizes were offered for a picture of Frankoma pottery, which is created from Oklahoma clay found on "Sugar Loaf Hill" at Sulphur—and which is recognized in the field of ceramic art as combining the traditional art of the Indians and the spirit of the American pioneer—in the dealer's shop or store. These pictures will be published in magazines and brochures.

John Frank, president of the company, in his letter to Mrs. W. A. Lyles this week states: "We want to recognize you especially and allow you one of the Honorable Mentions with $25.00 worth of pottery to be selected at your convenience. The brochure is at the printer's now and will be mailed shortly and you can get an idea of the many who participated in the contest."

The first official U. S. flag was adopted by resolution of the Continental Congress June 14, 1777.

NOTICE

It has come to our attention so frequently in the past several months that a great many people are buying Hospitalization Insurance from door-to-door salesmen, which is often entirely worthless, that we feel obligated to call the matter to the attention of the general public.

There are plenty of honest insurance agents in our local communities who live here and are available in case a policy turns out to be not as represented. We, therefore, urge you to buy your insurance from people you know and can trust.

E. B. Evans 7th and 8th Graders Honored With Program, Banquet

A musical program and banquet for the 7th and 8th Grade classes in E. B. Evans School was held in the school auditorium April 10-12, and the affairs were a decided success.

Patrons and faculty of the school expressed appreciation this week to all citizens of Haskell who helped make this program possible. Sponsors were Principal B. T. W. Brimby and Norris Gibson.

Mr. Gibson furnished the beans and ham hock, two jars of sweet pickles, napkins, plates, favors, flowers and table cloths, and his daughter correctly set the table for the banquet.

Mrs. Ora Mae Ellis and her committee did a good job in preparing and serving a tasty, well-cooked barbecued chicken dinner, vegetable plate, hot rolls, punch, ice cream and cake. It was enjoyed by everyone.

Solicitor Richard Ellis reported the following donors: B. T. W. Brimby $5.00, Richard Ellis $3.00, L. C. Johnson $2.00, Albert Sharp $2.00, George Johnson $1.00, Chester Wallace $1.00, John Williams $2.00, Lewis Williams $1.25, Scott Reed 50c, Mrs. L. V. Clayton 50 cents.

Also helping were Mr. and Mrs. Corley, district director of Boy Scouts and Rev. M. D. Rexrode of the Haskell First Baptist Church.

A few timely remarks were made by Mr. Gibson, who in turn presented the guest speaker, the Rev. M. D. Rexrode, who gave an inspiring message. He dealt with the home, church and school in relation to the message of the Easter season. He stated that the three major institutions should be God centered and cooperatively working together for the development of the whole child.

Trash and Grass Burning Safe If Caution Used

With Clean-Up Week in progress in Haskell, homeowners are reminded that burning of trash and grass can be safely done if proper precautions are observed. To keep fires from getting out of hand the following measures are suggested: Always, if possible, have water available. Never leave trash fire unattended. When burning around building with wooden base, use rake in clearing all grass and rubbish two or three feet away from building, then wet the cleared area with water hose before setting fire. Never burn trash or grass when wind is high. Never burn in late afternoon or night unless you can be absolutely certain that the fire has change in night could blaze. The term of "china" irregular
