Roy named new director of chamber of commerce

Tom Roy was named executive director of Snyder Chamber of Commerce Wednesday during a meeting of the chamber's board of directors.

After two hours in executive session, the board voted unanimously to accept the recommendation of the search committee and name Roy, who had been serving as interim director since mid February. Roy will officially assume his duties April 8.

"The chamber board and Tom Roy are going to be working very diligently with businesses and members of the community to develop a chamber they can be proud of and want to be a member of," said chamber president Eddie Williams.

Williams said the selection committee had reviewed some 20 applicants for the position and on Monday conducted interviews with three of them, including Roy.

"We feel that Tom stood out among the three and that he is going to do an excellent job here," commented Williams.

Courts may have to write plan, Lewis says

AUSTIN (AP) — House Speaker Gib Lewis said although he hasn't given up trying for a compromise on school finance reform, politics may prevent the Legislature from doing the job.

"This issue is so complex, there's a possibility that a democratically elected body can't make that decision because of the politics involved. This is a political system, and a political process, and that's what we're dealing with," Lewis, D-Fort Worth, said Wednesday.

Senate Education Committee Chairman Carl Parker said prospects for passing a school finance reform plan before the next court hearing are "getting a little dimmer every day."

Lawmakers missed Monday's Texas Supreme Court deadline for devising a reform plan, triggering an order to shut off state funds to schools. The impact of the order is not immediate because the next state checks are not due to be sent to school districts until April 25.

State District Judge F. Scott McCown, who is overseeing the case, set a new April 15 hearing date in the case. He appointed an expert to draw up a backup reform plan for his consideration in case lawmakers fail again.

The House last week rejected a school finance reform bill developed by a House-Senate conference committee.

The bill, which passed the Senate, would have shifted hundreds of millions of dollars in local property tax revenue from wealthier to poorer school districts.

Lewis met Wednesday with lawmakers who voted against the bill to see if it can be modified to meet their concerns. Richards also has called lawmakers in an effort to change votes.

The Supreme Court has twice unanimously ruled unconstitutional the current $14 billion-a-year school finance system, which relies on state aid, local property taxes and some federal money.

Differences in local property values now result in large disparities in education funding available to school districts.

Parker, D-Port Arthur, said lawmakers who may be looking for a painless way to equalize school funding won't find one.

"They're like me. I want to become skinny ... but I want to keep drinking and eating all I'm eating and drinking. They want the thing to get fixed without any sacrifice to themselves, to their district, and it's not going to happen," he said.

Williams declined to name a dollar amount, but said Roy's salary would be comparable to what has been paid in the past to chamber managers, with the addition of incentives related to chamber growth. The last manager reportedly was paid $27,000.

The chamber position had been open since the Jan. 28 resignation of Bill Moss. Moss, who had been manager since May of 1987, resigned to accept a position with Texas Department of Criminal Justice as a Project RIO assessment counselor.

Roy was named as interim director on Feb. 18 to serve the chamber while a selection committee reviewed applicants.

"Building the chamber membership back up will be the number one priority," said Roy of his plans for the chamber.

He added that a program to strengthen the local retail base and economic development would also be studied.

"We need to pay as much attention to what we already have here as bringing in new industry. We need to encourage local industry (see CHAMBER, page 8)

Council awaits Iraqi response to permanent cease-fire terms

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — U.N. diplomats say they're confident the burden of trade sanctions will compel Iraq to accept their tough cease-fire terms, and have turned to considering how to protect Iraq's rebellious minorities.

The resolution for a permanent cease-fire in the Persian Gulf War, overwhelmingly approved by the Security Council on Wednesday, is unique in U.N. history because the world body has never before set peace terms after a war.

Iraq's ambassador, Abdul Amir al-Anbari, called the resolution "outrageous" and a violation of international law that would destabilize the region. But he did not reject it.

He said a formal response would come in several days from Saddam Hussein's government. The decimation of Saddam's army in the war over Iraq's invasion of Kuwait makes further Iraqi military adventures unlikely for years to come.

The cease-fire resolution would provide additional insurance against Iraqi aggression by forcing the country to destroy its chemical and germ weapons, nuclear capability and most of its ballistic weapons.

It also would exact compensation from Iraq.

As Iraq implements the resolution's provisions, the embargo on trade with Baghdad would gradually be lifted. A U.N. ban on conventional arms sales to Iraq would, however, remain in force.

U.S. Ambassador Thomas R. Pickering called the resolution "tough, but fair," and said it was in Iraq's self-interest to comply.

If Iraq does not comply, there will be no formal cease-fire, no withdrawal of allied troops from southern Iraq and the region and no lifting of economic sanctions.

Earlier U.N. resolutions still in place leave open the possibility of continued allied military action, although that is considered unlikely.

The United States has made it clear that it is anxious to remove its troops from the region and have them replaced by a regional security force and U.N. peacekeepers.

Council members were to meet privately today to discuss calls from France and Turkey to help Iraq's Kurdish and Shiite Muslim minorities, who have faced repression after having postwar uprisings launched from their ranks crushed.

The Kurds, concentrated in Iraq's north, are largely in flight and have massed by the hundreds of thousands on the Turkish and Iranian borders in hopes of crossing. They face severe hardship and lack adequate food and shelter.

The United States has openly encouraged the Iraqi people to Medals will be given to first place contestants in each event in each grade level. Ribbons will be awarded for second through sixth places. All participants will receive a certificate.

An awards ceremony will be held in the Fine Arts Theatre at the conclusion of all contests, which is expected to be about 4:15 p.m.

The feller on Deep Creek says, "Enjoy yourself. In 20 years, these are the good ole days you're going to talk about."

Dentist Bob Hargrove is an early-morning regular for coffee at Stinson Drug. It's not unusual for Hargrove to take off all day on Friday and play golf.

Friends at the drug store were giving the dentist a hard time about his work habits.

"I've got a full schedule today," Hargrove countered. "I have 18 different cavities to fill."

Sign seen in a store window in a big city: If you're interested in finding out if there is life after death, try robbing this store.

It reminded us of a sign in a convenience store near a lake that attracted weekend fishermen. The store doubled as a bait shop, and it sold minnows on a serve-yourself basis. The owner, obviously, had experienced difficulty with people taking more minnows than they actually paid for.

There was a sign above the minnow pool which read:

"If you want to go to hell for stealing minnows, we'll supply the minnows."

We've been tempted to place a similar message on our news racks.

We read recently that as much as 70 percent of the dust in a home consists of shed human skin. That study likely was not done in the spring in West Texas.

But if human skin is the real culprit for dust on the coffee table, the following sign could become popular:

"Thank you for not molting."

Bush ignores parts of bills he doesn't like

WASHINGTON (AP) — Item by item, President Bush has been opening a second front in his veto strategy, unchecked by a Democratic Congress that hasn't yet been able to override him on bills he has blocked. Along with those outright vetoes, the president has rejected some specific items in bills he signed, saying he will not heed congressional directions that he believes intrude on his constitutional authority. That isn't quite the line-item veto power he and his predecessors have sought, but it comes close. The president is claiming selective authority to reject sections of bills without the direct vetoes that would send them back to Congress. Those spurned provisions involve the kind of defense and diplomatic mandates Bush denounced as "micro-management" of foreign and security assistance programs, micro-management that humiliates our friends and allies and hamstringing our diplomacy."

Bill repealing state taxes tentatively ok'd

AUSTIN (AP) — Just talking about taxes won't hurt, says the sponsor of a bill tentatively approved by the Senate, which would repeal all state taxes on Sept. 1, 1994.

Sen. Carl Parker said his measure "would force us to have the courage to talk about taxes, would force us to put it out there in the cold light of day."

Wednesday's tentative approval, 22-9, was viewed as a move by the Senate to gain attention from the House and taxpayers for a broad review of taxes, which could include promotion of a personal or corporate income tax.

Parker said he would not seek final Senate passage immediately because of questions raised by some senators, including the impact of the bill on Texas' billion-dollar bond market.

Parker, D-Port Arthur, noted that the Legislature would meet again in regular session in 1993 before the bill would become effective.

He said the proposal should send a "strong message to the House and a strong message to the people of Texas that the time has passed for not having an effective tax policy in this state — it's time ... that we looked at the whole picture all at once."

Parker told reporters the repeal would extend to some city taxes, but would not cover local property taxes.

He said a tax equity study committee had been created that is "well-suited to tell us what taxes can stand alone on merit and which can't, and whether or not we can have a better system of taxation in this state that would more fairly spread the burden."

Sen. Chet Brooks, who voted against the bill, described it as a "very good attention-getter as far as getting people to really look seriously at what our tax policies and what our tax structure is in this state."

But Brooks, D-Pasadena, asked, "Members, are you ready for a $31 billion tax bill in 1993? Are you ready for the collapse of the bond market, and it will occur?"

Brooks also said tax repeal, without substitute taxes in place, would cut off federal matching funds for such programs as Medicaid.

Sen. John Leedom, R-Dallas, said Parker's proposal "is one of the most demagogic ideas of all time," and would cause the bond market "to drop out of sight."

Parker, however, gained support from Sen. John Montford, chairman of the Finance Committee, who described Texas' current tax system as being from the "horse and buggy" era.

"This is a rare opportunity to catapult this state into the next century with a tax system that adjusts and grows with the economy," said Montford, D-Lubbock. "I think it's a gutsy idea," he told Parker.

More universities audited for billings on federal funds

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Bush administration is targeting 12 major universities for audits of federal research programs following questions about Stanford University's billing of luxury costs to the government.

Investigators from the Department of Health and Human Services have begun financial reviews of the overhead costs of programs at four of the schools under a new long-range auditing plan, officials said.

Development of the plan began about a year ago, but officials said its implementation was speeded by the General Accounting Office's inquiry at Stanford, which was found to have billed the government for items such as an antique commode, a cedar-lined closet and depreciation on a yacht.

The HHS inspector general's office has begun audits at Yale University, the University of Pennsylvania, Johns Hopkins University and Dartmouth College, said Judy Holtz, a spokeswoman for the office.

The office is contacting eight other schools about upcoming audits, she said, but she could not identify them until they had been notified. The office plans audits at eight to 10 additional schools, but they have not been identified, Ms. Holtz said.

The schools were selected based on their share of federal grants, their overhead rates and on their location because the inspector general wanted to include institutions in various regions of the country, said one official who spoke on condition of anonymity.

Johns Hopkins, Yale and Pennsylvania were among top recipients of federal money in 1989, according to the inspector general's office.

Johns Hopkins topped the list with $411 million. Yale was 11th with $146 million and Pennsylvania was 14th with $133 million.

Schools are allowed to bill the government for certain costs — overhead — that are not earmarked specifically for a particular sponsored project but result from combined or joint use, such as costs for utilities, library services and building depreciation.

DA's office not ready to close file on Dallas minister's case

DALLAS (AP) — A prosecutor says the investigation into the near-fatal attack almost four years ago on the wife of a former Dallas minister will never be closed until the case is solved.

"As far I'm concerned, the case will never be closed until it's solved," Norman Kinne, first assistant district attorney, said Wednesday.

FBI agents and Dallas police had asked prosecutors to re-examine all evidence in the 1987 choking attack on Margaret "Peggy" Railey and conclude whether a criminal case could be made against anyone, including the woman's husband, Walker L. Railey.

Railey, 43, is the former senior pastor of First United Methodist Church of Dallas. He has not been charged in the April 21, 1987, attack that left his 42-year-old wife in a vegetative state, though police have called him a key suspect in the case.

Railey says he is innocent. The former minister has been ordered to pay $18 million in damages to his wife after being found liable for the incident by a civil jury. But Railey has claimed he is too poor to pay.

Police and FBI agents last week presented a 2 1/2-hour presentation on their investigations, which included charts, graphs, timelines and photo layouts of the crime. Kinne said he would review the results and issue a response.

On Wednesday, the district attorney's office released a three-paragraph statement.

"No case will be filed by the Dallas Police Department or submitted to the grand jury by the district attorney until all parties are satisfied that the investigation into the matter is complete," the statement said.

"There is not a statute of limitations for murder or attempted murder. Charges in this matter may therefore be filed at any time in the future," it said.

Doug Mulder, a Dallas lawyer who represents Railey, who had just returned from Hawaii, said Wednesday afternoon that he had not yet seen a copy of the statement.

Responding to earlier reports that the district attorney's office had dropped its investigation, Mrs. Railey's father, Bill Nicolai, said he hoped the probe would continue.

"We were hoping they would be able to continue on and really clear this thing up," he said.

Railey preached on Easter at First United Methodist Church in Santa Ana, Calif., his first sermon since 1987.

The former minister moved to California after attempting suicide in Dallas while his wife was in a hospital.

Sunday's sermon, titled "Stumbling Into Easter," addressed the pessimistic outlook of some Americans. Railey also mentioned his own 1987 suicide attempt.

"I had always believed that only crazy people committed suicide, but four years ago, I did not feel crazy, just depressed," he said.

Athenium Study Club at MAWC

Members of the Athenium Study Club met recently at the Martha Ann Woman's Club for their regular monthly meeting.

A letter of appreciation was read from Bettie McQueen, WTC Dean of Instruction, for the donation the club made to the Image Program at Western Texas College. She explained that 250 women had benefited over three years time, and in addition to college courses, a number of individuals had completed GED testing.

"Please Get Off the Seesaw Slowly," by Norma Williamson, was reviewed by Martha Schiebel, a member of Athenium. She introduced the book by saying the author tells how one woman handles the ups and downs of being a Christian wife and mother. Schiebel explained, in humorous fashion, the author's relationships with others, with God, her husband, her family and to some extent with the wide world outside her doorstep.

The club's next meeting will be at 4:15 p.m. on April 17 at Martha Ann Woman's Club.

Mexican-style cooking study

Stargazers Extension Homemakers Club met March 18 in the home of Kathryn Roberts, extension agent, who presented the program "Cultural Arts—Mexico."

Roberts gave a brief history on fajitas. She then explained how to purchase the meat, and techniques for tenderizing and marinating the meat.

She prepared flour tortillas as the group watched, and then she served a complete meal with condiments.

A business session followed the meal with Joy Early presiding.

Roll call was answered with: "A new recipe I've tried recently..." She also gave the thought for the day, "Courtesy is the lubricant that makes society run smoothly."

The hint for the day was read, "To clean artificial flowers, shake them in a brown paper bag to which a half of a box of salt has been added. This should make them clean and bright."

The club members were reminded of the quilting classes set for 7 p.m. on April 4 and April 11 at the Senior Citizen Center.

Plans were discussed for all of the Scurry County extension clubs to visit the Ben Richie Boy's Ranch in Abilene on April 6.

Seminole will be the site for the district meeting on April 20. Hosting the spring district meeting in 1992 will be Lynn, Garza, Borden and Scurry Counties.

Marie Pratte was welcomed as a new member.

The club's next meeting will be held April 15 at 3117 Ave. T.

Bridge By Phillip Alder

By Phillip Alder

One of the arts of defense in bridge is taking control when you know how to administer the killing blow. Don't leave things to your partner, who can not see through the backs of the cards and might make a logical play that proves fatal to your side rather than to declarer's.

Today's deal is taken from the 1971 Australian Open Trials. At seven tables, the final contract was four spades by South, usually following a pre-emptive three-club opening by East. True, a three-level pre-empt is generally made with a seven-card suit, but East couldn't make a weak two-bid in clubs. (In his system, a two-club opening would be strong.) Therefore, the three-club bid showed six or seven clubs.

At every table, West led a top heart and continued with two more winners in the suit. At six of these tables, West was worried that his partner had seven clubs for his pre-empt. As a consequence each West continued with a fourth heart, hoping East could over-ruff the dummy. No such luck. Declarer gratefully ruffed with dummy's jack of spades, drew trumps and discarded his club loser on one of dummy's diamond winners.

At the seventh table, East could see the predicament that his partner would face. Taking control, he ruffed his partner's third heart trick and cashed the ace of clubs.

It's such a simple play once you think of it. Perhaps the answer is not only to diagnose things from your partner's point of view but also to consider your options. At trick three, East can discard or ruff. He should analyze both possibilities.

ChiSox sign Jackson

SARASOTA, Fla. (AP) — No, this isn't another "Bo knows" commercial. He'll shoot a commercial soon with his new Chicago pal, Michael Jordan, but Bo Jackson doesn't know if he'll ever play baseball or football again, and he may not know for months.

That didn't dissuade Chicago White Sox general manager Ron Schueler from gambling plenty of owner Jerry Reinsdorf's dough that Bo will still know how to run and hit and field when — and if — his damaged left hip heals.

The White Sox signed Jackson on Wednesday to a one-year contract worth at least $700,000, a deal they realistically don't expect him to honor this season. The contract contains playing time incentives for 1992 and 1993 that could inflate the total value to $8.1 million, even before performance bonuses are added.

The contract doesn't block Jackson from continuing his hobby — pro football — but protects the White Sox against any football-related injuries.

Now, if they just knew when Bo could go.

"We've been told he might be available by July, but 1992 is more realistic," Schueler said. "Anything before that is a plus."

Schueler said the Jackson deal is a plus with no minuses, except for his uncertain physical condition. He didn't cost the White Sox any players, and, if healthy, joins Cory Snyder and Tim Raines as key additions to a team that won 94 games last season, second in the American League to Oakland's 103.

"We've added power and more speed to the middle of the lineup without giving anything up in return," Schueler said. "You can never have enough speed or enough good athletes."

Jackson will spend the next several months rehabilitating in Kansas City and in Birmingham, Ala., the home of sports physician Dr. James Andrews. An-draws said the severity of Jackson's hip injury has been overstated by doctors not acquainted with all of the facts.

"We think Bo has an excellent potential to heal," he said.

Jackson was waived by the Royals last month, less than two years after winning the All-Star Game MVP award. The Royals were convinced his hip injury is career-threatening, so they opted to release Jackson before they were obligated to pay his entire 1991 salary of $2,375,000.

Cotton Patch meet hosts Tiger teams

WALL — Both Snyder's high school track teams will compete here Friday in the Cotton Patch Relays.

The Lady Tigers are coming off their most dominating performance of the season in which they accumulated 208 points and nabbed first place at the Indian Relays in Seminole last Saturday.

Snyder's girls won first place in every field event in Seminole and placed at least one competitor in all events.

Among the top finishers were Joellen King, who took first in the high jump with her 4-10 leap and third in the long jump with an effort of 14-4 $\frac{1}{4}$ , and Nicky Riggins, who captured first place in the triple jump (32-11), first in the long jump (15-7 $\frac{1}{4}$ ), and ran on the Lady Tiger sprint relay team that posted a 53.05 first-place time.

As usual, Snyder standouts Vinnie Clay and Katina Brandon hammered out first and second place distances in the discus and the shot put.

Clay heaved the discus 111-4 and tossed the shot 36-9 to claim two firsts while Brandon was runner-up in each event with her 103-10 and 36-5 $\frac{1}{4}$ .

Ed Rios came in first with a 6-6 effort in the high jump and added a fourth in the high hurdles with a 15.15 time to lead the Tigers to a 16-point 10th-place finish at the San Angelo Relays a Saturday ago.

Billy De Lao was the only other SHS boy to place in the San Angelo meet last week.

De Lao came in fifth in the 2-mile run with a time of 10:24.48. Both squads will be in Levelland next weekend for the District 2-4A meet.

In addition, Ricky Post won the high jump with his 5-4 effort for Snyder and Jason Miller's 37-11 $\frac{1}{2}$  triple jump gave Snyder second-place points.

Foyt was to test his nerve and strength today with a few spins around the Indianapolis Motor Speedway, where he plans to compete in his record 34th consecutive and final Indianapolis 500 in May.

"It seems like it's been forever," Foyt said Wednesday. "I'm here not to try to break any speed records. I'm here just to ride around."

SJHS girls run in recent meet

ABILENE — Snyder's seventh grade girls track team took third place with 80 points at the recent Abilene Junior High Track Meet behind the performance of Kelly and Veana Clay who, between them, notched four firsts, and one third, individually.

In addition, both girls were on the third place sprint relay for Snyder.

Snyder's eighth graders came away with 35 points in fifth place at the meet.

"We were missing several key eighth graders which resulted in us not having a sprint relay team," said coach Mike Meek of Snyder.

"This was our last track meet of the year and the coaching staff would like to congratulate all the girls on the wonderful year we had.

"It was an excellent year."

Seventh grader Kelly Clay took top honors in the triple jump with a 30-6 hop. She also came in first in the 100 meter dash with a time of 13.08 and in the long jump with a leap of 13-7.

Teammate Veana Clay wound up in first place with a 28.15 clocking in the 200 meter dash and in third after a 13-4 $\frac{1}{2}$  effort in the long jump.

SHS tennis squad at Angelo tourney

Snyder High School's tennis team, after a week off, will compete Friday and Saturday in the San Angelo Tennis Tournament.

The Tigers' last outing was a 3-way match win against San Angelo Lake View and Sweetwater.

SHS was paced by a pair of boys singles players, a girls singles competitor and a girls doubles team that went undefeated in four matches en route to a 9-7 team victory over Sweetwater, and a 10-4 decision over Lake View two weeks ago.

Marcus Best and Kevin McMillan, Snyder's No. 1 and No. 2 boys singles entrants, respectively, wound up play with perfect 4-0 marks and the girls doubles team of Rachel Wilson and Gayle Henderson did as well.

The surprise of the tournament was the performance of Christina Gonzales, who forged a 4-0 record at the tourney with first-ever wins over Adele Hippe of Lake View (6-4, 1-6, 6-2) and Sweetwater's La Stelle Morris (6-4, 6-4).

The San Angelo Tournament will be the team's last tune up before the District 2-4A gathering in Lubbock April 12-13.

Only 23 percent receive benefits

WASHINGTON (AP) — Less than one-fourth of all jobless Texans received unemployment benefits last year as the U.S. economy entered the recession, according to a study released today.

Nationally, the Center on Budget and Policy Priorities said the economy entered the recession with a weaker unemployment system than at any time since the end of World War II.

In Texas, only 23 percent of the unemployed received benefits last year, compared with 37 percent of jobless workers nationally who received benefits in an average month in 1990, the study said.

Approximately 400,000 unemployed Texans lacked benefits in an average month, the study said, basing its figures on an unemployment rate of 6.2 percent in 1990.

Texas also had 140,000 jobless workers who exhausted their benefits but had still not found work in 1990, the third-highest level of any state, the study said.

The report cited studies indicating unemployed people who are not receiving unemployment benefits are much more likely to be poor than those who do receive benefits, and that the erosion in unemployment insurance protection over the past decade has led to higher poverty rates.

"For some previously middle class workers, this deterioration in unemployment protection may mean not only a further decline in their standard of living but also that they sink into poverty," said Marion Nichols, a co-author of the report.

In Texas, the state is already fighting a "rising tide of poverty" and its social service programs are already overburdened, according to recent comments by Human Services Commissioner Ron Lindsey.

Texas Employment Commission Chairman Jim Kaster said the new study looked at all jobless Texans, rather than at only those who qualify for aid, such as those who work a minimum amount of time and lose their jobs through layoffs or other acceptable reasons.

If only the jobless who qualify for assistance are considered, Kaster said the percentage of those covered in Texas would be far higher.

But the study includes such unemployed Texans as youths who drop out of school and have never worked, which would not qualify them for jobless assistance, or women who drop out of the workforce to stay home with their children, Kaster said.

The state is currently paying out $20 million a week in unemployment insurance, up from recent weekly totals of $17 million or $18 million, Kaster said.

But Kaster predicted the total would be falling because the unemployment rate has also recently dropped.

The Employment Commission has approximately 400,000 to 500,000 jobless Texas receiving assistance at any one time, and serves 1 million to 1.25 million Texans in a year, Kaster said Wednesday.

The average unemployed worker in Texas gets jobless benefits for 12 to 13 weeks.

Almost 8 million Texans are in the job force out of the state's population of almost 17 million, Kaster said.

According to the Texas Department of Human Services, more than 3 million Texas are living in poverty.

Reba McIntire, band perform

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Country singer Reba McEntire performs tonight in Cleveland with her new group in their first concert since seven band members and her tour manager were killed in a plane crash.

McEntire and two band members were not aboard the private plane that went down March 16 in California after a concert in San Diego.

McEntire, voted female vocalist of the year four times by the Country Music Association, sang last week on the Academy Awards show, but without her new band.

Her current album, "Rumor Has It," has sold 1 million copies.

Weather NASA's only concern

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — High wind and low clouds in Friday's forecast appeared to be NASA's only concern as the countdown clock ticked toward the launch of Atlantis with an observatory that will hunt for hot cosmic rays.

Atlantis is scheduled to blast off at 9:10 a.m. EST Friday. It will be the 39th shuttle flight and the first of 1991.

The weather appeared to be the space agency's only concern. No problems were reported with the shuttle or its 17-ton cargo, the Gamma Ray Observatory.

"The shuttle system has been good to us this time," NASA test director Mike Leinbach said today. "We've had a real clean countdown to date."

Leinbach said meteorologists were predicting a 60 percent chance of favorable weather at launch time. The weather was expected to improve later in the morning.

Atlantis' five astronauts will release the $600 million observatory midway through the five-day flight. The observatory will spend two years or more scanning the universe for sources of gamma rays, the most energetic radiation known.

A day after the observatory is released, two astronauts will undertake NASA's first spacewalk in more than five years. During the six-hour outing, they will test wrenches and other tools needed to build a space station.

Gamma rays are absorbed by the atmosphere and thus are invisible from the ground. Smaller spacecraft have detected gamma rays coming from supernova remnants and areas suspected of being black holes, but the resolution has been poor.

"GRO will tell much more closely where they are coming from and give insight into the nature of the sources," said Ball Aerospace's Steven Varlese, program manager for one of the observatory's four scientific instruments.

The gamma ray probe follows the Hubble Space Telescope in NASA's Great Observatories series. Two orbiting observatories scheduled to go up later in the decade will study the universe at other electromagnetic wavelengths. Atlantis' countdown is the first

Unemployment system 'weak'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Fewer Americans on the unemployment line received benefits in 1990 than during any other recession year since World War II, according to a report released today.

Only 37 percent of the nation's jobless received unemployment benefits in an average month of 1990, said a study by the Center on Budget and Policy Priorities, a labor-backed research organization that studies government social programs.

That was a record low for the percentage of people receiving unemployment help for a year in which the U.S. economy was in a recession, the report said. "This low level of protection ... is unparalleled," it said. During 1975, for instance, when the country also was in a recession, 75 percent of the nation's unemployed received benefits, the report said.

JERRY KUNKEL

Jerry Kunkel

1949-1991

BEDFORD — Funeral services are set for 2 p.m. Friday at the William C. Martin United Methodist Church for the Rev. Jerry Wayne Kunkel who died Monday from a massive heart attack while conducting a revival in McCamey. Burial will follow in the Bluebonnet Hills Memorial Park in Colleyville.

An evangelist for the Northwest Texas Conference of the Methodist Church, Kunkel in 1988 was featured speaker at the Snyder chamber of commerce banquet.

Kunkel, 41, was a native of Lamesa. He was a frequent speaker at both revival and civic meetings, and he was scheduled to speak at the chamber banquet in Rule tonight.

After graduation from Lamesa High School, Kunkel received a presidential appointment to the U.S. Naval Academy where he played football and was all-American in track and field.

After two years at the Naval Academy, Kunkel transferred to McMurry where he earned his bachelor's degree in religion and philosophy. He later earned his master of theology degree from Southern Methodist University.

An all-state football player, Kunkel was drafted to play professional football for the New Orleans Saints, but he opted to enter the ministry. He has been a minister since 1971 and a conference-appointed evangelist since 1987.

After graduation from college, he served churches in Petersburg and Amarillo.

Survivors include his wife, Kathy, who was a pianist and vocalist who assisted in his evangelist efforts. The couple founded King's Ministries, based in Euless.

Also surviving are three daughters, Chresta, Wendy and Lindsay of the home; his mother, Mrs. Edward Kunkel of Bedford; and three brothers, Andy, Dennis and Fred Kunkel, all of Bedford.

since early December, when Columbia lifted off on a stargazing mission half a year late. Hydrogen fuel leaks kept Columbia and Atlantis grounded much of 1990.

This year, cracked door hinges forced a 1½-month postponement of Discovery's military mission, originally scheduled for March. The other shuttles have the same problem, but Atlantis' cracks were deemed too small to cause any trouble.

Used car has snake option

EDINBURG, Texas (AP) — A South Texas woman traded in more than she thought when she got rid of her 1989 Lincoln.

The Town Car was equipped with a non-factory option — a five-foot snake.

"When I looked under the dash I saw a snake's body hanging down. It scared me ... You don't expect to see a snake in a car," said dealer Donald Yoder.

Dealership owner Bill Yoder, who has a degree in biology, knew when he saw the ball python that it wasn't poisonous. He started yanking on the car's slithering occupant, coaxing it out.

"It took about 20 minutes to get that snake out. It was hanging on for dear life," Bill Yoder said, adding, "I called Catherine Smith and said, 'Did you lose something in your car?' And she said, 'Tiny! Oh, you found Tiny!'"

When Tiny disappeared 10 days earlier, Ms. Smith feared cats had eaten the constrictor — who was timid by nature and had to be taught to catch and eat a live mouse, she said.

"I'm just glad nobody killed her and that they found her. I can just imagine some little old lady buying the Town Car and having this thing crawl out from under a seat while she was driving it," she added.

And at this dealership at least, the post trade-in examination has been expanded, Donald Yoder said in jest.

"We had already done a 20-point check, and nobody saw Tiny in that car. Now it's going to be a 21-point check — we're going to check for snakes," he said.

'Dallas' won't return next season

NEW YORK (AP) — It's not a dream — Bobby, J.R. and the rest of the Ewings won't be back next season.

CBS said Wednesday that "Dallas," the nighttime soap opera depicting intrigue among the Texas big-oil set, will end its 13-year run this season.

The finale will be a two-hour special May 3.

Executive producer Leonard Katzman said the episode will pose the question, "What would the 'Dallas' world be like had J.R. Ewing never been born?"

It will be similar in format to the Christmas movie classic "It's a Wonderful Life," Katzman said.

Larry Hagman plays J.R. Guest stars will include former "Dallas" actors Mary Crosby, Linda Gray, Steve Kanaly and Jack Scalia, and "Knots Landing" stars Ted Shackelford and Joan Van Ark, Ewings who were spun off to their own show.

Joel Grey will play an angel.

"Dallas" made its debut on April 2, 1978. It was the No. 1 show in 1980-81, 1981-82 and 1983-84.

The "Who Shot J.R." episode on Nov. 21, 1980, was the most-watched single show in TV history until the final episode of "MASH" on Feb. 28, 1983.

Recently, the soap's popularity has declined. This season it ranks 59th out of 130 prime-time shows.

Patrick Duffy, who played Bobby Ewing, left in 1985 after his character was killed by an automobile. Duffy returned in 1986 in the famous "dream episode," in which Bobby's death was explained away as a dream by Pamela Ewing.

Woman explorer rescued after four days in cave

CARLSBAD, N.M. (AP) — Rescuers pulled an injured explorer from the nation's deepest cave early today, ending a four-day ordeal during which she hobbled on a broken leg and was pulled across treacherous chasms.

Emily Davis Mobley emerged on a stretcher, her leg in a splint, a few minutes after 1 a.m. and immediately telephoned her husband, saying: "This is your loving wife, coming up from the depths of the earth to see you."

"She's out! She made it," Carlsbad Caverns National Park spokeswoman Lyn Carranza said as Mobley emerged from 1,565-foot-deep, 54-mile-long Lechuguilla Cave.

The 40-year-old woman from Schoharie, N.Y., was to be taken to a hospital in Carlsbad.

Her condition was not immediately known, but her husband, William, reached at the couple's home, said, "She isn't exhausted. She's in great shape. She's an absolutely incredible person. She can't be very comfortable being in there for five days."

"I feel like calling everybody. I called her parents. I called one of our closest friends in Tokyo," he said. "I feel great."

The rescue effort drew some of the nation's top cave rescue experts to New Mexico.

Mobley, a 22-year cave explorer and expert in cave rescues, was about 1,000 feet down and about two miles into the cave Sunday when an 80-pound rock she had been holding onto gave way and fell on her, breaking her left leg below the knee.

During the rescue, the woman hobbled when there was space to stand upright and was carried or slid on stretchers elsewhere. Rescuers used a network of ropes and pulleys to get her through a treacherous labyrinth of chambers, narrow passages, sheer rock faces and wide chasms.

A doctor with her in the cave gave her painkillers.

The rescue went more quickly than expected Wednesday night after moving in fits and starts since Sunday.

The undeveloped cave in a remote area of the park is closed to the general public. The National Park Service lets a limited number of experienced cave explorers in to explore and map it. Mobley was part of a mapping expedition.

CANCER FACTS

About 1.1 million Americans will be diagnosed for the first time in 1991 as having cancer, according to the American Cancer Society. Of this number, slightly less than half — 514,000 — will eventually die from the disease.

Overall, says the ACS, about 76 million Americans living today — about one in three — will eventually contract some form of cancer. About 7 million Americans have a history of cancer, with 3 million having been diagnosed more than five years ago. Most of these 3 million are considered "cured" and have the same life expectancy as a person who has never had cancer.

Among men, the most new cancers diagnosed this year will be prostate cancer (122,000), followed by lung cancer (101,000), colon/rectal cancer (79,000) and bladder cancer (37,000). Among women, the most new diagnoses will be for breast cancer (175,000), followed by colon/rectal cancer (78,500), lung cancer (60,000) and cancers of the reproductive system (46,000).

The leading cause of cancer deaths this year in both men and women will again be lung cancer. Three times as many men will die from lung cancer than the next highest cancer killer for men, prostate. In women, more will die from lung cancer than from breast cancer.

By and large, the numbers of new cancers parallel state population totals, with the most new cancers expected in California, New York, Texas, Illinois and Florida. The fewest will be in small states like Wyoming, Vermont and Alaska.

But interestingly, the numbers of cancer deaths per 100,000 populations vary significantly from state to state.

The highest cancer death rates in 1991 are expected in the District of Columbia (222 per 100,000), Maryland (194), Delaware (190), Alaska (189) and Louisiana (187). The lowest death rates are expected in Utah (122), Hawaii (138), Colorado (144), New Mexico (144) and Idaho (146).

Seven plead guilty

DEL RIO, Texas (AP) — Seven members of an Eagle Pass family have pleaded guilty to operating an elaborate scheme to file and collect unemployment claims in 22 states for migrant workers who had since returned to Mexico and were waiting for the money.

Prosecutors said Wednesday that they were able to prove only $15,000 in fraudulent claims in this case, but they said that others have operated variations of the scam from El Paso to Brownsville and have netted "hundreds of millions of dollars" over the past 20 years.

Federal officials said they discovered the scheme when a computer check showed unemployment checks from 22 states and for 1,800 people were being sent to one address in Eagle Pass.

U.S. District Judge Emilio Garza accepted guilty pleas from Daniel Ibarra Jr. and five of his sons and daughters to felony conspiracy charges. Another daughter pleaded guilty to a misdemeanor embezzlement charge.

In addition to the senior Ibarra, defendants in the conspiracy case are Abraham, Cynthia, Grace, Jaime, and Carlos Ibarra. His other daughter, Patricia, is the defendant in the embezzling case.

The family members will be sentenced June 10.

The U.S. Department of Labor used an undercover agent to collect evidence against the family during a months-long investigation, officials said.

Daniel Ibarra operated a notary public business in Eagle Pass.

"This type of fraud is not going to be tolerated," said Julian De La Rosa, inspector general for the Labor Department in Washington, D.C.

Dr. Gott

Peter Gott, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I get a lot of sore throats. Recently it was discovered I have a badly deviated nasal septum. I'm considering surgery. Is the success rate good, or should I use the alternative, which is a nasal spray?

DEAR READER: The nasal septum is a thin plate of cartilage that separates the nostrils. Ordinarily, the septum is situated more or less in the midline; however, in some people, it may be pushed to one side or the other. This can be present from birth or may result from injury to the nose. A deviated septum can interfere with breathing.

More commonly, it may (during periods of nasal congestion) partially obstruct the opening of the maxillary (cheek) sinuses, leading to chronic sinus infection. Drainage from such an infection will often leak down the back of the throat (postnasal drip) to cause discomfort.

Medicines such as nose sprays to reduce nasal congestion will offer temporary relief of symptoms by sinus drainage. However, the sprays should not be used for more than a week because of "rebound". With chronic use, they actually exacerbate nasal stuffiness.

In my experience, surgery for a deviated septum is almost always successful. Of course, in your case, I can't guarantee it will cure your sort throats. However, if an otolaryngologist has advised you to have the operation, I advise you to go for it; at the very least, you'll have fewer nasal symptoms and should be able to breathe better.

DEAR DR. GOTT: Would you please advise what symptoms of a prostate problem would warrant a checkup by a doctor?

DEAR READER: Any urinary symptoms in a male are a reason for a prostate examination. These include urinary frequency, dribbling, burning, hesitancy, discomfort and inability to void. In addition, blood in the urine or semen should be investigated. Painful ejaculation can be caused by prostate problems.

The basic prostate examination is simple, safe and inexpensive. Through the rectum, the doctor palpates the gland and checks for enlargement, consistency and tenderness. Of particular importance is whether the prostate feels symmetrical and smooth; an asymmetry or nodular quality may reflect the presence of infection or tumors. A routine urinalysis should also be performed.

If, on examination, the doctor discovers something out of the ordinary, further tests will define the problem. These tests are usually performed under the jurisdiction of a urologist and may include a blood test (for prostatic antigen or enzymes, both of which may indicate a tumor), a urine culture (for infection), a prostatic ultrasound (to analyze the composition of nodules) and a needle biopsy (to obtain tissue samples for analysis).

To give you more information, I am sending you a free copy of my Health Report "The Prostate Gland." Other readers who would like a copy should send $1.25 with their names and addresses to P.O. Box 91369, Cleveland, OH 44101-3369. Be sure to mention the title.

'Leisure' professor in trouble for relaxing a little too much

PEORIA, Ill. (AP) — George R. Harker is one of those guys who practice what they teach.

Harker, a professor whose field of expertise is the philosophy of leisure — and more specifically, nude sunbathing — is in trouble with his bosses for taking too leisurely an approach to his job.

Officials at Western Illinois University say Harker has failed to administer final exams, missed classes and faculty meetings, failed to post reasonable office hours and exhibited "unprofessional" behavior in class.

Harker, a 47-year-old member of the school's Department of Recreation, Parks and Tourism, said they're just jealous. "This jealousy has been translated into 11 rather transparent allegations against me," he said.

The allegations could cost him his job.

Harker admitted he "abhors" staff meetings and has, on occasion, stretched a vacation by a day or two — but always for academic reasons.

"I admit I'm a little different than many university professors," he said. "I suppose some might call me eccentric. ... Some people have characterized me as a Renaissance man."

Harker cruises around Macomb — a city of about 20,000 some 50 miles from Peoria — in a '48 Ford Coupe. He's a certified airplane pilot, a sailor, a stock car racer and a deep-sea diver. In quiet times, he paints watercolors.

Harker has circled the globe twice — writing off both trips as business expenses on his taxes.

"I certainly enjoy my work," he said. "It's given me the impetus to travel the world and visit 20 foreign countries."

His students benefit from his travels, he said.

"I try to work my own personal experiences into the classroom," Harker said.

Harker said he often relates his experiences conducting research at nude beaches to his students.

He also has testified as an expert witness in court challenges of restrictions on nude beaches in Rochester, N.Y., West Palm Beach, Fla., and Hawaii. He said his colleagues really hate him for that expertise.

"The real jealousy is in regards to my writing about nude beaches," Harker said.

Nick DiGrino, department chairman, denied the drive to fire Harker is motivated by jealousy, but refused further comment because the case is pending.

A committee of five faculty members has held more than a dozen hearings since October on Harker. It is expected to make a recommendation next month.

Public Notice

Southwestern Bell Telephone (SWBT) has filed an application with the Public Utility Commission of Texas to offer a new optional service called Family Space Listing.

Family Space Listing is a new optional service designed for residential customers. It will give customers the option to list the names or nicknames of household members within a customized space in the white page telephone directory.

The proposed monthly charge for this service is $7.00. No charge to set up the service is proposed. Customers electing not to subscribe to this optional service will continue to receive their non-distinctive directory listings at no charge. SWBT anticipates this new service will generate sales of approximately $63,000 in the first year that the service is available. If approved by the Commission, this service will be available beginning May 6, 1991.

This new service will not affect the directory listings that existing residential customers have in SWBT's white page telephone directories.

Persons who wish to comment on this application should notify the Commission by April 26, 1991. Requests for further information should be mailed to the Public Utility Commission of Texas, 7800 Shoal Creek Boulevard, Suite 400N, Austin, Texas 78757, or you may call the Public Utility Commission Public Information Office at 512-458-0256 or 512-458-0221 teletypewriter for the deaf.

Southwestern Bell Telephone

Public Notice

Southwestern Bell Telephone Company has filed two separate applications with the Public Utility Commission of Texas to introduce two new optional directory services. One service is Directory Assistance Call Completion (DACC) and the other service is Multiple List Directory Assistance (MLDA).

DACC is an optional service that provides customers the option of having their Directory Assistance call completed to the requested number (when they call Directory Assistance for a number) by either the Directory Assistance operator or a mechanized audio response system.

The proposed rates* for fully-automated DACC calls are: $ .30 if the call is sent paid or billed to a calling card, $1.00 if the call is collect or billed to a third number and $ .25 from a coin telephone.

The proposed rates* for semi-automated (operator assisted) DACC calls are: $ .85 for calls that are sent paid or billed to a calling card, $1.20 if the call is collect or billed to a third number and $2.60 for a person-to-person call.

Multiple List Directory Assistance (MLDA) allows the customer to request more than two listing requests per call to Directory Assistance. Customers can either call on "demand" and receive up to 10 listings, or schedule an "appointment" and receive the assistance of a Directory Assistance operator for as long as required. The rates for "demand" MLDA are $ .30 per listing request (after applicable allowances), with a maximum of 10 listing requests per call. The rates for "appointment" MLDA are $1.00 per minute, with a 15-minute minimum.

The optional services DACC and MLDA are intended for use by both residence and business customers. Those persons who qualify for exemption of Directory Assistance charges because of visual or physical handicaps will be able to use DACC and "demand" MLDA free of charge. If approved by the commission, DACC and MLDA will be available beginning May 13, 1991. First-year projected revenues for DACC are approximately $9.6 million. First-year projected revenues for MLDA are approximately $1.7 million.

Persons who wish to comment on these applications should notify the commission by May 3, 1991. Requests for further information should be mailed to the Public Utility Commission of Texas, 7800 Shoal Creek Boulevard, Suite 400N, Austin, Texas 78757, or you may call the Public Utility Commission Public Information Office at (512) 458-0256 or (512) 458-0221 teletypewriter for the deaf.

Southwestern Bell Telephone

*The charges for DACC are in addition to the charge for the Directory Assistance Listing (if applicable) and/or any local or intraLATA toll charges that would apply to the completed call.

GAO recommends closing new homeports

WASHINGTON (AP) — The General Accounting Office is recommending the Defense Department scrap six new homeports, including the nearly completed Naval Station Ingleside on the Texas coast.

The Navy has already spent $120 million building Naval Station Ingleside, near Corpus Christi. Another $22 million needed to complete the homeport has been frozen since last year by Defense Secretary Dick Cheney.

The state and local governments in South Texas have also poured millions of dollars into the project, in anticipation of the 4,700 sailors and the battle group that had been expected to arrive at Ingleside.

But in the draft summary, GAO said it believes "the primary determination of the need for the new homeports should be whether or not they meet mission-related requirements, regardless of their construction status."

GAO, the congressional watchdog agency, said the homeporting program will not fulfill most of the original strategic objectives and that the ships scheduled for the new homeports could be berthed at existing facilities.

In a draft report to Congress, GAO said the Defense Department could save $593 million by halting future development at five of the homeports and closing the sixth, in the Staten Island, N.Y.

The homeporting concept was planned in the mid-1980s to support a 600-ship Navy, but projections now show the fleet decreasing from 545 ships last year to 451 ships by fiscal 1995, GAO said.

In addition to one-time savings of $593 million from terminating the program and selling land and existing improvements, the Pentagon could also save another $57 million annually in operations and maintenance costs, said the GAO's draft summary, obtained Wednesday by The Associated Press.

But Gary Bushell, president of the Corpus Christi Area Economic Development Corp., said the GAO was wrong in assuming that there would be no political considerations when it comes to selling off those assets.

Larry Neal, a spokesman for Sen. Phil Gramm, R-Texas, criticized the GAO's recommendations, saying the agency's findings were based on accounting practices that have nothing to do with military strategy.

One group wants cosmetic standards eased for produce

WASHINGTON (AP) — A consumer advocacy organization says cosmetic quality standards for fruit and vegetables should be lowered to stop excessive chemical spraying by farmers trying to create picture-perfect produce.

Over the years, quality has been identified increasingly with the external appearance, especially size, color, shape, texture and the degree to which the produce is damaged by pests.

But if consumers were aware of the extent to which pesticides are used solely to make produce look better, they would willingly accept the blemishes, said Ellen Haas, executive director of Public Voice for Food and Health Policy.

A study conducted by her organization found that retail and wholesale outlets have stringent cosmetic standards. One-quarter of the retailers surveyed refused to buy apples with any blemishes and 41 percent said they would allow only 1 percent imperfection.

One-quarter of all growers surveyed said about 50 percent of the pesticides they apply are specifically for cosmetic purposes. Fifteen percent of the citrus growers estimated that 76 percent to 100 percent of their pesticides are used for protecting appearance.

Good-looking fruit makes it into the higher-paying fresh fruit market, while less-attractive produce goes to processing plants to be made into juice and other processed foods at less profit to the grower.

'Happy' Wife's Affair Puts Her in a Cycle of Despair

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I am in love with a married man. He has four children. I am also married with two children. I have a great job and appear to be very happy. In truth, I am under great stress, break into tears for no reason at all, can't sleep or eat, and feel that my life is on a roller coaster.

From the first, we agreed that neither of us would ever leave our spouses and we would not let our affair interfere with our marriages. Of course, that's impossible.

Please, if you are a stranger, do not touch my baby. If you see us walking on the street and you want to see him, do so. Do not grab his hands and play "pat-a-cake"; do not touch his head or try to pick him up. You are a stranger; I do not know you. I do not know if you have any diseases — not just the obvious ones; you may have poison ivy, a cold, you may not have washed your hands, and heaven knows where they have been.

You may admire him, ask me how old he is, smile at him and talk to him, but please do not touch him! I would hate to have to be rude to otherwise friendly well-wishers, but this has been bothering me for quite a while, as I am sure it bothers other mothers.

A FRIENDLY BUT CAUTIOUS MOMMY

DEAR FRIENDLY BUT CAUTIOUS: Your problem is one that has bothered mothers for years. Save the speech. When someone admires your baby and moves toward touching him, quickly and firmly say, "Please don't touch the child. Thank you." And if the would-be toucher is hurt and annoyed, that's his or her problem.

Is it worth it? Of course not. But I'm terrified at the thought of not having him in my life — and I don't know why. We both have loving, caring spouses, so it's not as though we are lonely, abused or sex-starved. Some days I feel as though I'm coming apart at the seams.

How can I break this cycle? "Just break it off" sounds so easy, but I just can't do it. I see him often because we have mutual friends and community activities in common. Please help me.

MESSED UP IN MICHIGAN

DEAR MESSED UP: This may sound like a broken record, but you are sick! Lovesick. And the only cure for that is psychotherapy. Yes, counseling. I have long maintained that love is a "mental disease" — and people can actually become lovesick. You need a therapist to help you become better acquainted with your emotions, and learn how they are tied to your physical desires (love, lust or whatever you want to call it).

You can regain your sanity if you really want to and try hard enough. I wish you well.

DEAR ABBY: You have printed several letters pertaining to this subject, but please print this as a reminder:
