Tax filing deadline is midnight

WASHINGTON (AP) — Attention dawdlers, laggards, procrastinators and everyone else who has a very good reason for not yet filing a tax return: your time's about up.

If you don't intend to burn the evening oil tonight, better ask for an extension. But take comfort. Those smug early filers will have to work just as many days this year as you will to pay all your taxes — a record

Tax Freedom Day will come May 8, the private Tax Foundation announced today. That is the latest date on record for the mythical point in the year at which the average worker is estimated to have earned enough to settle accounts with federal, state and local tax collec-

That date last year was May 5. The three-day lengthening was the largest since 1976 and could get worse, the foundation predicted.

"The combined pressures of a persistent federal budget deficit, demands to expand funding for new and existing programs, budget crises in numerous states and the slowdown in income growth could easily make Tax Freedom Day even later on our calendars in future years," the foundation said.

Meantime, the Postal Service and Internal Revenue Service prepared to receive as many as 27 million returns this week - many of them being dropped into collection boxes close to tonight's midnight deadline.

In many areas, the IRS' toll-free telephone lines were open extra hours to handle last-minute questions. Many post offices stationed clerks at curbside to receive returns from motorists. In other places, the enterprising attempted to turn the unpleasant chore into a social event

A brass quintet was ready to serenade late filers at the main post office in Cincinnati. A radio station promised free stamps in front of the main post office in Houston. In New York City, the Postal Service offered longer hours and announced that painkillers and antacids would be available in front of the big James A. Farley post office.

Free postage and pizza were on the bill at the West End post office in Richmond, Va. IRS volunteers moved into the lobby of the main Milwaukee post office, of fering to fill out the simple returns and give advice on

The IRS expects a record 113 million returns to be filed this year, and 80 percent of them will qualify for refunds. Almost 67 million had been received by April

Five million or more couples and individuals are expected to escape the filing-deadline rush by getting an automatic four-month extension simply by mailing a Form 4868 before midnight. This form must be accompanied by a check for any outstanding balance.

A two-month extension is available without asking for those whose home and main place of business are outside the United States and Puerto Rico.

Military personnel, accredited journalists and support personnel who served in the Persian Gulf area at any time since last Aug. 2 have at least an extra 180 days to file. Most have automatic extensions of up to

Failure to file on time can make a taxpayer liable for stiff penalties and interest — if any tax is owed. There are no penalties for those who are due refunds but do not file on time, although an extended delay could result in criminal charges

2-T2 Lions convention concludes

Michelle Smith of Slaton was named District 2-T2 Lions Club Queen and Roland Bell of Littlefield was elected District Governor during Saturday's Governor's Banquet at Scurry County Coliseum.

The banquet, attended by 330 people, was the conclusion of the three-day convention of District 2-T2 Lions Club hosted by the local club.

Slaton club sweetheart Michelle Smith was crowned queen by reigning Queen Heather West of Brownfield near the conclusion of banquet. The pageant was held Friday evening at the coliseum. Second runner-up was Jennifer Fortenberry of Lockney and first runner-up was Kandace Adams of Ralls.

Snyder Lions Cliff Smith and John Jarrell chaired the pageant.

Littlefield Lion Roland Bell was elected to succeed District Governor Billy Fisher. Among those recognized during the passing of the gavel ceremony were past district governors Howard Harrington and Max von Roeder of Snyder.

Local Lion Mac McCown was recognized by Fisher with the prestigious International President award for McCown's service to the district and local club. McCown and Jack Denman organized the district convention.

Gary Taylor of Lubbock was the winner of the pickup given away in the Lions Club fundraiser to benefit the Texas Lions Camp for crippled children. Some $22,500 was raised through the selling of tickets.

The notification of the court before the position is filled would allow commissioners to evaluate the priority of the position and whether it could be filled with temporary or part-time help.

The new policy would directly affect the county library, airport, museum, health unit, coliseum and parks. The court also requested that elected officials also notify commissioners when a position is vacated although the court has no authority in the hiring policy of such officials

However, the court has budgeting authority and could exercise hiring discretion through budgeting salaries, noted Precinct 2 Commissioner Roy Idom.

County Judge Bob Doolittle said the county hiring policy needed to be reviewed and revised by the court at a later date.

The discussion of the new policy came after a brief executive session with county maintenance supervisor H.V. Walker. During the session, Walker told the court that Jester Pippin, foreman of the parks department, had resigned on Friday. Another county employee is expected to be moved into the

The plan is estimated to cause a $400 million increase in local property taxes, and cost the state an additional $1.3 billion over the next two years.

It's a new step, and a frightening one for some Texans, and it's not guaranteed that the approach will pass court muster because it still allows wealthier districts to supplement the minimum levels.

Four judging teams at Ira qualify for state meet

Four Ira judging teams will ad vance to state competition including livestock, dairy cattle, poultry and horse. Each team won the right to advance Saturday by placing in the top 10 percent at the area judging meet held at Texas Tech University.

Ira FFA members also garnered individual honors including Michael Lathem, high individual overall, Rodney White, 8th high, Brad Robinson, 15th high, Misty Mathies, 10th high, and Angie Robinson, 8th high.

The horse judging team will compete this Saturday in the state horse contest to be held at Tech also. The other three teams, livestock, dairy cattle and poultry, will compete at Texas A&M on April 27.

Ira's wool team also placed second but will not advance since this school year their is no state contest for that category. Richard Long, adviser, said beginning next school year, wool teams will have a state contest

What Can We Sing Together, From Sea to Shining Sea?

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: A few years ago, as part of a group of about 100 tourists, I found myself in Kiev, Russia, in a large dining hall. One member of our group, Gene, who was a wonderful organizer, initiated group singing in the spirit of international friendship. He circulated between the long tables and asked for suggestions as to which songs could be sung by the largest number of our group.

We began with "I've Been Workin' on the Railroad," and I've been amused ever since wondering how any translator could explain that song to a foreign audience.

A group of Jordanians responded lustily with a stirring Jordanian song. Then some other groups, no doubt some of them Russian, contributed to the entertainment. We couldn't understand the words, but the spirit of nationalistic pride was evident in every measure.

When our turn came, we sang "America the Beautiful," and a few others, which has me wondering of all the folk and camp songs we have collectively heard, which are the most widely known among our entire population?

PEG NICHOLS, OLATHE, KAN.

DEAR PEG: A few that come to mind are: "Nothing Could Be Finer Than to Be in Carolina in the Morning," "My Blue Heaven," "Row, Row, Row Your Boat," "White Christmas," "Jingle Bells" and "Silent Night." (And for those who can't remember fectly acceptable.)

DEAR ABBY: I recently attended a lovely wedding. That is, except for the ending when the priest pronounced the couple "man and wife." Almost every television and movie script is written the same way. It is very annoying; it sounds as if the woman has just been married, but the man is still single. Abby, please publish this so that clergy and everyone else who perform marriage ceremonies will say, "I now pronounce you husband and wife" — instead of "man and wife." Or else, say, "I now pronounce you man and woman," which would make them more equal. I work in a church and really think the words spoken at a wedding should be equitable for both partners.

JUDY WEAVER, DIACONAL MINISTER, UNITED METHODIST CHURCH

DEAR JUDY: I agree. Following a marriage ceremony, the appropriate pronouncement would be, "I now pronounce you husband and wife.'

"I now pronounce you man and woman" would be appropriate only when spoken by a surgeon following a sex-change operation.

DEAR ABBY: Talk about a contradiction

I pulled up behind a station wagon in traffic the other day, and on the bumper were three stickers that said: IAM PRO-LIFE, PREVENT CHILD ABUSE and HAVE YOU HUGGED YOUR CHILD TODAY?

And yet, standing up in the middle of the backseat was a preschool-age

Abby, when will people get the message that one of the best ways to be pro-life, prevent child abuse and love your kids is to secure them into seat belts or child restraints?

28 years as Snyder teacher...

Roy Burk will retire at end of school year

By Shirley A. Gorman SDN News Editor

It's somewhat ironic that Roy Burk who chose teaching as his vocation because he wanted the freedom to move around will year after 28 years with the from learning. Snyder School System.

Neither the teaching pro- graduated from Plainview High fessor nor Snyder has disappointed Burk who recently reflected on his 36-year career in education. Snyder has been a good place for Burk to work, live and raise a family and teaching has given him the opportunity to do other things as well such as church ministry work.

The bulk of Burk's 36 years as a teacher has been spent here in Snyder, first at Travis Junior High School for one year and then 27 years at the high school, teaching chemistry, physics and some math and physical

At Travis Junior High, Burk taught 7th and 8th math classes before transferring to the high

"I've enjoyed my involvement with the students but I'm ready for a change now," Burk

Throughout his many years as a teacher, he said he always tried to give his students a "realistic picture of what studying the sciences is like. I don't try to entertain them.'

Burk's goal as a teacher is to "give the student who wants to learn a chance to do so while also helping the student who is not really interested in learning

As the years passed, he had to adjust to changes in society, the Newly graduated with the ink on his "sheepskin" hardly dry, Burk went to work for the Kress School Sysytem where he taught math and the sciences. Eight years later he moved to Snyder.

Burk may not have realized local school system and the field his one-time dream of moving around, he did find that teaching allowed him to have time for other interests too including the ministry.

Currently associated with the Christian Fellowship, Burk plans to become even more active in the church than he has been. He has been doing some counseling and is active in the jail ministry at his church. "I'm looking forward to devoting more time to ministry work," he

In past years, Burk practiced a "preaching ministry" during which he often helped conduct revivals and other church work.

Burk's wife, Janelle, is a writer and has published some of her own works through a publishing house she organized herself.

Burk may try his skill at writing too, he said.

The Burks plan to do some traveling once his retirement is official. They have five children: David of Arlington, Donnie of Snyder who teaches at the Price Daniel Unit, Ginger of Midland and Kathi and Sheryl, both of Lubbock, and 13 grandchildren.

A native of Hollis, Okla. Burk grew up on a cotton farm, soon learning at an early age that the life of a farmer was not for him. As a boy he often worked on cotton farms. In those days, school usually turned out for the cotton harvest and extended school days in the summer to make up for it.

Most of the boys he knew hated school, but Burk never did. In fact, when school started up again after the cotton harvest he was always glad to

Until recently, no one listened. Bell has chronicled the life and death of the wells through photos that show crude oil leaking to the Colorado River, which surrounds his property on three sides.

The photos show a wide swath of dead, salty soil — killed, he says, by faulty wells.

The Texas Railroad Commission has recently taken renewed interest in abandoned or neglected oil wells that environmentalists say are to blame for poisoned water supplies and ruined crops in rural West Texas.

The commission, which oversees the state's wellplugging program, says more than 1,100 wells need immediate attention. They say fixing these highest-priority, polluting wells would cost about $4.9 million, seven times the amount of money in the plugging fund.

The state has $700,000 to fix problem wells abandoned by their operators. That's enough money to cover about 140 wells, but officials say the drill sites are continuing to age and deteriorate.

The state agency has pinpointed an additional 6.000 wells that need to be repaired soon — a project that would cost $33.7

An estimated 1.5 million wells have been drilled in Texas since oil field activity began near Corsicana in the 1890s.

Hundreds of old wells have oozed toxins and drilling wastes that destroyed more than 2,500 acres surrounding San Angelo, bubbled

SAN ANGELO, Texas (AP) — onto some downtown streets and going on beneath the surface, but we know it's bad," said Ralph E. Hoelscher, a Miles wheat farmer who has led West Texas' fight against unplugged wells.

Farmers say wide stretches of wheat, cotton and alfalfa fields are now a salty white wasteland because of the well leaks.

Bell said he ultimately was driven off the land after the abandoned oil wells polluted his drinking water well.

unplugged wells may prelude to an abandoned well crisis that soon will touch almost every county in Texas.

An estimated 50,000 oil and gas wells have been abandoned in Texas, with tens of thousands more either uncounted or improperly capped, according to state regulatory officials.

They say Houston is home to about 14,000 oil and gas wells. Water quality experts fear abandoned wells could pollute Lake Houston.

Prison guard says she has no regrets

CHINO, Calif. (AP) — A no regrets about helping a convicted murderer escape.

"I knew what I was doing. My head was on straight," said Cindy Coglietti, who helped Jeannette Lynn Hughes escape the maximum-security California Institute for Women in Frontera last year.

Coglietti, 27, will testify in former prison guard says she has Hughes' May 28 trial on escape charges. After serving more than a year in jail, the former prison guard is now home with her family, seeking a job and thinking of going back to school.

Coglietti admitted to hiding Hughes, 37, in a prison van and smuggling her out the front gate on March 25, 1990.

"They definitely stole it," said Poole, president of Oilfield Safety Systems Inc. of Houston.

David Thompson, a Boots and Coots firefighter, said the idea has been around for 30 years.

The flap is one sign of how the high-dollar, high-rivalry world of oil firefighting has become even more intense with the opportunity and challenge of putting out 600 oil wells set ablaze by Iraqi troops retreating from Kuwait.

"Anybody that calls here with an idea, that idea goes in the trash can and that idea doesn't get relayed to Kuwait," Thompson said. "These guys over there have 70 years experience."

The defenders can sometimes defeat a contract by sitting back and raking in their tricks. It's much like being a croupier at the roulette table. But more often they must play carefully to win the battle.

Today's hand is taken from a pairs event. Some Souths opened four hearts in the third seat. This persuaded most Wests to lead a spade, letting the contract make.

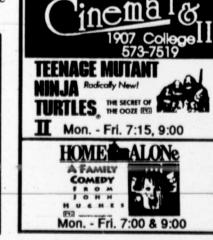

Some Souths raised North's one-notrump response to three no-trump, thinking that nine tricks might be the limit. This time they were unlucky. East had an automatic spade lead; the finesse lost and the contract died.

Most Souths, though, opted to play in their long suit. This auction usually swayed West into leading a cautious heart. All the declarers drew trumps, but then the paths diverged. Some led a club toward the dummy. West, knowing South wouldn't play like this with ace doubleton in clubs, ducked and allowed partner to win with the ace. Back came the spade jack, covered by the queen and king. This was the critical moment. If West returned a spade, declarer was safe. He would win with the ace and lead a second club, establishing a discard for his diamond loser. But if West switched to a diamond, the contract was defeated.

How could West know the correct play? Well, if South had the diamond queen, surely he would have played on that suit, not on clubs. The spade play could wait.

Finally the declarers who drew trumps and led a diamond were successful unless West was alert. He should play second hand high, inserting the diamond king. This leaves declarer with no riposte.

Gibson edges Best in district net final

James Gibson held off a third set rally by Snyder's Marcus Best, including three match points, to claim the District 2-4A boys Lubbock Tennis Center Satur-

"The last set was one of those of Levelland, 6-2, 6-2. that a kid will remember always," said Snyder coach Charlie Chrane of the Best-Gibson match.

"Marcus had match point three different times in the last set before Gibson finally beat him."

Best fell to Gibson, 7-5, in the deciding third set.

In other finals action Saturday, Snyder's girls doubles team of Rachel Wilson and Gayle Henderson finished second in the district after losing to Levelland's Genny Moss and Shelly Gable, 6-1, 4-6, 6-1.

By virtue of their second place finishes at the loop tournament, Best, Wilson and Henderson will advance to the Region I tourney

WTC notches win at Hobbs

HOBBS, N.M. - Bareback riders Eric Mouton and Troy Cattoor and steer wrestlers Russell Merchant and Jim Phillips led Western Texas College to its first win of the spring rodeo season at the New Mexico Junior College NIRA event here last weekend.

The Westerners scored a teamtotal 300 points here to outdistance second-place Tarleton State University's 210 and a 180 from Odessa College.

Odessa's Jarrett McGraw wound up the all-around winner for the men with 130 points, including a first-place finish in saddle bronc riding with a 141, 2horse total.

The WTC women's team, winners last week in Big Spring, did not receive any team points here.

Vernon Regional Junior College, led by all-around cowgirl Lari D. Guy's 155 points, scored 230 total to claim the women's ti-

Mouton, a Fayette, La. product, captured first place in his event with a 2-head score of 137.

He held a 70, good for a tie for first place among bareback riders, going into Sunday's finals, where he added a 67-point ride for his total.

Cattoor, from Nephi, Utah, recorded a 66 in the finals to go with his 66 in the long go for a 132, second-place tally. Madisonville's Merchant claimed first prize in steer wrestling with a quick 5.3 in the short go on Sunday.

He carried a 6.4 third-place time into the finals but passed Odessa's Linn Churchill and WTC teammate Phillips in the final Phillips, from Iraan, notched twin 6.0s for a 12.0 total and runner-up honors in the event.

In other events, Cattoor and Jodie Hart captured third in team roping with a 17.1 clocking on two steers and WTC bull rider Benji Fontenot of Reeves, La., turned in a 137 combined score to tie for fourth place.

The Westerners will host this week's stop on the NIRA circuit at Scurry County Coliseum.

Five SHS thinclads nab regional spots

LEVELLAND - The District edyet." 2-4A track meet Friday and High School

ed in a 6-6 high jump effort here and Snyder's 34. Saturday to move into the Region I gathering for the second straight year.

Four members of the Snyder girls squad will also advance.

Second-time regional qualifiers Katina Brandon and Vinnie Clay will make the trip by finishing first and second, respectively, in the discus and the shot put, while Annie Ragland's 4-10, secondplace in the high jump and a runner-up time of 12.34 in the 100 meter dash by Trina Thompson placed them among the elite, as Nicky Riggins of the Lady Tigers also took third in three events, the long jump, the triple 2:41.38; 6. Fuqua, Snyder, 2:52.58; 100 hurdles: 1 jump and the 200 meter dash to become an alternate to regionals.

Riggins' 16-10 in the long jump, 35-4 in the triple jump and 27.44 clocking in the 200 meters were all third place efforts. grabbed third, as well.

A 51.50 time in the 300 meter hurdles gave Thompson the third-best time in the district while Smith recorded a 1:05.90 in the 400 meter dash.

Senior Shelby Bufkin also earned alternate status in the boys 400 meters with his 51.03. Bufkin's 20-2 distance in the long jump gave the SHS senior fourth place in that event. Levelland, led by Twylana Harrison's first-place finishes in the long jump, the triple jump, the 100 meter dash and the 400 meter dash, carried away the district championship trophy with 177 points.

Frenship's 116 was second followed by Snyder with 109.

"I was really proud of all the girls," said Snyder girls coach

Patty Grimmett. "I'm also proud of coach Tommy Doyle, who worked with the discus throwers and shot putters, and coach Laurie Welch who

Finance

"Socialism is where the state owns the means of production, and tries to make everybody equal in what they have," said Parker, D-Port Arthur.

"What this does, it takes the wealth of the state as a whole, and tries to give every citizen an equal shot or opportunity to have the same level of education.'

The Texas Supreme Court has twice, unanimously, ruled the school finance system unconstitutional and told lawmakers to even out education funding available to rich and poor school districts.

The current $14 billion-a-year school finance system relies on state aid, local property taxes and some federal money. School districts' reliance on their own local property tax revenue results in huge discrepancies in available funding.

The bill approved last week by lawmakers would set a minimum tax rate and shift local property tax revenue from wealthier to poorer school districts within new education regions drawn largely along county lines. The redistribution of local tax money is difficult for wealthier school districts, although they do not have to share money they raise over the minimum tax level.

The state makes up the difference if poor school districts taxing higher than the minimum cannot raise a certain amount of money to enrich programs.

act details were unavailable.

Snyder firefighters battled a rural house fire and an engine fire Sunday.

An unoccupied house owned by Lacy Turner was completely destroyed in a morning fire, 14 miles west of town. The fire originated near a wood burning stove, according to fire officials.

The structure was being used as storage by the Turner family. Firefighters were called to the fire at 9:09 a.m. and returned to the station around 1 p.m.

Units responded to a vehicle fire at 1:25 p.m. at Sandra and North Ave. P.

A 1976 Cadillac owned by Petra Delao was on fire. The car was a complete loss and the Delao residence received minor damage as a result of the blaze.

DEAR READER: Irritable bowel is a harmless, annoying intestinal disturbance caused by anxiety and stress. Most patients experience diarrhea, bloating, gas, erratic evacua-tion, nausea, headache and fatigue. On occasion, patients may suffer from constipation and a sensation of incomplete evacuation.

Although the precise mechanism that triggers bowel symptoms is unemotional upset stimulate intestinal contractions. This increased paristalsis moves food too rapidly through the gut, less water is absorbed and diarrhea results. In some instances, "spastic constipation" appears, when portions of the over-stimulated bowel seem to become partially paralyzed and fecal matter is trapped in the

Before reassuring patients with irritable bowel that their symptoms are merely stress-related and will disappear, doctors have to make sure the altered bowel pattern is not caused by a disease, such as colitis or infection. Thus, physicians will often order a stool analysis and culture, a blood count and blood-chemistry analysis and a barium enema (special intestinal X-rays). Also, flexible sigmoidoscopy, during which the doctor examines the lower colon with a fiberoptic tube, is used to discover growths or areas of infection that could cause

Once the patient has been judged free of any physical disease, the doctor can suggest treatment. This includes educating the patient about the benign nature of irritable bowel syndrome, altering the diet (to avoid food such as spices that may aggravate the situation), suggesting a stool-bulking agent (such as Metamucil), considering stress counseling, and prescribing medicine (such as chlordiazepoxide) to reduce bowel contractions and

That's because the speeches are considered an honor; not a forum for what Congress needs to hear so much as an opportunity for Congress to cheer.

And the speaker of the House, who issues the invitation, turns down many times more requests than he accepts.

Senators and House members may seem to enjoy the pomp of the place, but most don't like listening to speeches. Few lawmakers attend Congress' own debates, and they don't turn out for the addresses by outsiders.

Attendance can be so bad that aides have to scramble to find staffers and pages to fill the House chamber. "No tourist is going to be safe within 20 yards of the Capitol if he's got a coat and tie on," one senior Senate official joked.

Joint meetings also disrupt the normal work day in Congress. Senators especially dislike them, since they must trudge across the Capitol to the larger House chamber. The Senate chamber is so small, one House aide quipped, that "once you get all 100 senators in there along with their egos, there's no room for anybody else."

So the only automatic invita-tion goes to the president, who in modern times appears at least once a year, for the State of the Union address. His presence calls for a joint session, one step up from a joint meeting for others. Sometimes that's the only

Texas City mishap by monument

TEXAS CITY, Texas (AP) - A new park and historical monument will be dedicated on the 44th anniversary of the chain of blasts that killed hundreds and still ranks as one of the worst industrial accidents in U.S. history.

The monument, which will include a huge, jagged propeller salvaged from the wreckage of the SS High Flyer, the second of two ships that exploded in the Texas City Port in April 1947.

Officials will dedicate the park and monument on Tuesday.

"The city approached us with the idea of putting up a park in the area," said Ken DeMaet, president of the Texas City Terminal Railway, which owns the port. "We hope it will be completed within the next 30 days. We've been working like beavers for the past couple of weeks."

The Galveston Historical Commission several years ago decided to seek a state historical monument to place near the site where more than 500 people were killed and thousands were injured. Property damage was estimated at more than $200 million.

The High Flyer's 18-foot-tall, 29,500-pound brass propeller is being moved to a new perch on the park site. The propeller was found in a Louisiana scrap yard several years ago and brought back to Texas City, where it was dedicated as a memorial to the victims in 1987.

Stanley Poynor, 25, died Saturday afternoon at Parkland Memorial Hospital, several hours after he ran his car into Cpl. Gordon Hager. The officer had been directing traffic at the ninth annual Azalea Run.

"(Hager) signalled for the car to stop and the car just struck for his reform ideas within days him," said police Sgt. James L. Chandler.

Hager fired his pistol six times through the windshield as he was transported 300 feet on the hood of the car, Chandler said. Hager was in uniform and wearing an orange reflective vest, he said.

In September 1988, an officer saw Poynor amid the burned ruins of the Grand Prairie Wax Museum. He was jailed on a charge of stealing a ledger that police theorized held key evidence in the arson and earlier deaths of a museum co-owner and employee.

Poynor was later convicted on a reduced charge, and authorities said they couldn't link him to the other crimes.

But Grand Prairie Deputy Chief Rick White said his interest was piquéd after he heard the circumstances surrounding Poynor's death.

Disabled volunteers catch parking violators

WESTPORT, Conn. (AP) -People who park illegally in the spaces this city sets aside for the disabled had better take heed: The disabled are watching and they've got cameras.

The parking watch program began last month after Anthony Prestino decided he'd had it with non-disabled people filling all the spaces for the disabled in front of his clock repair shop.

"It happened too often," says Prestino, an amputee who wears a prosthesis on his left leg. "You'd always see a handicapped person trying to wait for someone to come out so they could
