In Brief

Term begins

DALLAS (AP) — Former thrift owner Don R. Dixon, convicted of fraud and conspiracy, must begin a five-year prison term today after an appeals court denied his bid for bond.

The 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals on Monday rejected the 52-year-old Dixon's request to remain free on bond pending an appeal of his conviction.

Dixon was scheduled to report to the Federal Correctional Institution in Fort Worth by 2 p.m., as ordered by U.S. District Judge A. Joe Fish of Dallas.

The former Vernon Savings Association owner was convicted in December on 23 federal counts which also included misapplication of funds. He was accused of misusing about $601,000 of thrift depositors' funds.

Prosecutors said the money helped pay for a beach house in Southern California. They said about $10,000 of depositors' money went to prostitutes who entertained the thrift's board of directors at parties.

Life without parole adopted

AUSTIN (AP) — Responding to the controversy over the release of former death row inmates, a Senate committee today approved a bill that would allow juries to sentence persons convicted of capital murder to life in prison without parole.

Since 1971, 68 former death row inmates have been paroled from prison.

Laubach workshop at library

Scurry County Library will host a Laubach Way to Reading workshop to train volunteers to teach illiterate adults from 2:30-6:30 p.m. Saturday and from 9 a.m.-4 p.m. Sunday.

Volunteers willing to commit two to three hours a week to teach adults are needed. People who have previously taken the workshop may wish to take it again for review. No prior teaching experience is needed. There is no cost for the workshop and all materials are provided.

The Laubach Way to Reading Workshop is a 10-hour course which trains adults in methods used to teach illiterates. Causes of illiteracy, problems and rewards of teaching adults and teaching skills are covered.

Taking the workshop certifies a person to teach adult literacy programs, which could be volunteer or paid positions.

The program is approved by the American Council of Education. Involvement in literacy programs as tutors, administrators,

Those individuals either had their death sentences commuted to life in prison or received less severe sentences after winning reversals of their death penalties.

Under current law, persons convicted of capital murder can be sentenced to death or life in prison. But there is no prohibition against parole for capital offenders who are serving life terms.

Sen. Ted Lyon, D-Rockwall, said the proposed legislation "basically would stop the horrendous problem that we've seen evidenced ... of murderers being released on the streets."

"This will enhance confidence we have in the system," Sen. Carl

SHS bands to compete

Snyder High School's two concert bands will compete in concert and sightreading competition Wednesday at Texas Tech University.

The concert band is scheduled to compete at 9:30 a.m. while the symphonic band will play at 2:30 p.m.

"I expect both bands to do very well at the competition," said SHS band director Walter Reneau.

Some 16 area 4A and 5A schools will compete in the annual contest.

Judges for the concert portion of the competition will be Jimmy Edwards of Amarillo, Tom Sorrells of Texas City and Charles Traylor of Dalhart. Scheduled to judge sightreading competition are Gary Teeter of Beaumont, Roger Edwards of Borger and Ed Martinez of Crowley.

Parker, D-Port Arthur, the bill's sponsor said.

The Senate Criminal Justice Committee sent the bill to the full Senate on a 6-0 vote.

Lyon, chairman of the committee, said he would introduce an amendment that if a person's sentence is commuted from death to life while in prison, there would be an option to make it life in prison without parole.

Committee members also said they would add an amendment providing that a sentence of life without parole could be enhanced to death if the person commits a capital crime while behind bars.

Parker said prison officials need this amendment to be able to handle prisoners sentenced to life in prison without parole. "Otherwise," he said, "you are going to have some bulletproof inmates."

The feller on Deep Creek says, "If statesmen are really congressmen who have gone on to their great reward, that just goes to underscore the need for more statesmen."

Americans are just beginning to realize what Congress did in passing the new deficit-reduction budget. Congress still finds ways to spend money on needless things.

Rep. Silvio Conte is one of the most vocal opponents of congressional action for a half million grant to restore Stranburg, N.D., the birthplace of bandleader Lawrence Welk.

Conte said the grant, included in a $52.2 billion agriculture appropriation bill passed by the house, is another example of the kind of projects the country cannot afford during a budget crunch.

We're not real familiar with the Washington scene, but Congress would do well to institute a small fee for touring all the monuments and

Family loses home to fire

An area family escaped injury but lost their home to a fire just before 1 a.m. today.

Units responded to a mobile home fire at 12:56 a.m. to the home of Weldon and Juanita Buchanan, seven miles southeast of the city on County Road 453 near Hermleigh.

The home was totally engulfed in flames when firefighters arrived.

According to fire officials, Mrs. Buchanan and her daughter were awakened by a loud noise to find one end of the structure on fire. Mr. Buchanan was not at home at the time of the fire.

"It appears they got out just in time," said Fire Chief Terry Don McDowell.

The chief said the cause of the blaze is still under investigation. "We are not even sure what room the fire started in at this point," he said, noting the total destruction of the home.

Firefighters returned to the station at 3:30 a.m.

Social Science contests set Thursday at college

Students from 15 area high schools, including Snyder High School, will be at Western Texas College on Thursday to compete in the annual Social Science Contests.

The event is sponsored by the WTC Social Science Division.

About 240 students are expected to participate in the contests, which are Current Events, U.S. Government, Texas History and Government, U.S. History, World History and Geography, and Economics.

Schools compete in Division I or II according to enrollment. The top school in each division receives a trophy and medals go to the first, second and third place winners in each event. The top-ranking senior in which contest will receive a scholarship to WTC. Awards are presented at an assembly in the Fine Arts Theatre following the completion of competition.

Schools entering Division I will be Abilene High School and Coahoma, Colorado City, Crosbyton, Sweetwater, Snyder and Wylie High School.

Competing in Division II will be Aspermont, Grady, Hermleigh, Highland, Roscoe, Smyer, Spur and Westbrook High School.

Also on the program will be Brent Graves of Diamond G. Agri-Sales in Chillicothe, who will give a demonstration of a new type of branding procedure and the "Immobilizer," a new concept in restraining livestock.

The cooking crew for the breakfast will be headed up by Jerry Baird. The menu will include sausage, bacon, eggs, gravy, hash browns, cowboy coffee and juice.

The WTC Farm is located south of Snyder on "Block Line Road" (County Rd. 333).

Signs will be posted to help those attending find their way. One simple way to the farm from Snyder is to go west on 37th St. past Winston Field to the four-way stop sign and turn left. The farm is a few miles south.

museums in the capital city. User fees make sense, not only for the Washington tourist crowds, but also for visitors to all federally-operated parks and campgrounds.

A few weeks ago, the Council for Citizens Against Government waste participated in a news conference on capitol hill to announce support for a bill introduced by a couple of congressmen which would repeal the 40 percent pay raise Congress voted for itself last year.

Advocated, instead, was a performance pay scale that would guarantee Congress a salary increase only if certain deficit-reduction goals were met, including reform of faulty programs and billions in government waste.

The organization said, "If Congress plans to impose sacrifices on American taxpayers through higher taxes and cuts in domestic programs, it should lead the way by making sacrifices itself."

Giving up their pay raise would be a good-faith start.

Inmates happy to be back home again

WASHINGTON (AP) — Freddie Bailey misses the cozy atmosphere and the remote controlled cable TV at the Devils Lake, N.D., jail. The catered food wasn't bad either — he gained 31 pounds.

But Bailey is glad to be back in the familiar surroundings of the District of Columbia prison, he says.

So are the 58 other D.C. inmates, mostly drug offenders, who spent six months in North Dakota county jails because of court-ordered population caps on the district's huge prison complex in nearby Lorton, Va., officials say.

When cells at Lorton got more and more crowded, the district began sending some inmates to half-empty jails in other states. But the urban prisoners never quite adjusted to their rural prisons. And the jailers never quite adjusted to the inmates either.

Fourteen of the 15 inmates sent to Devils Lake are black.

"We don't have a lot of blacks in North Dakota," said the acting jail administrator, Dick Johnson, who helped negotiate the D.C. contract. "The night they walked in I think everybody was in a bit of awe, them and us."

The Devils Lake jail added cable TV, complete with movie channels, and scrapped the frozen dinners in favor of catered meals. A new commissary was stocked with skin and hair care products for the black inmates.

Jail employees received no cultural training other than manuals sent from the district's corrections department, and there were none of the vocational classes that the inmates were used to at the D.C. prison.

Bailey, who is from the Washington suburb of Fairfax County, Va., said he prefers Lorton because "I can keep in touch with my people." North Dakota was all right, but "a little far away from them."

Since 1988, the district has paid jails and prisons in 29 jurisdictions $40 to $60 a day to feed, clothe and house each of about 1,600 inmates. The contracts were a financial godsend to half-empty jails in a few states, including Texas, Tennessee, Washington and North Dakota.

Some of the jails and prisons made easy adjustments to the inmates, administrators said. Others couldn't please or handle the new prisoners — urban, mostly black men with whom many jail workers had little previous experience.

Lawyers representing 850 Washington prisoners being held around the country have filed suit claiming they were deprived of law books, adequate medical care and educational programs.

A number of the contracts have since been canceled, in some cases because Lorton is expanding and there's more room now.

But D.C. officials terminated their contract with the five North Dakota jails after employees in the Richland County lockup threatened to quit unless the nine Washington inmates there were removed.

Delay provision will be deleted from Brady Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — Supporters of a proposed seven-day waiting period for handgun purchases plan to eliminate a provision that opponents say would give police the power to indefinitely stall weapons sales.

The amendment would eliminate a provision that a handgun purchase cannot be completed until the gun dealer receives written certification that police had been notified of the intended sale, said congressional aides who requested anonymity.

The change was expected to be proposed today when the House Judiciary Committee votes on the so-called Brady Bill, named for former White House press secretary James S. Brady, left disabled by a gunman who also wounded President Reagan in 1981.

Both supporters and opponents of the bill expect the Judiciary Committee to approve the measure and send it to the full House, where Speaker Thomas Foley, D-Wash., has promised a vote by Memorial Day.

The expected change by sponsors of the legislation won't dampen opposition by the National Rifle Association, but it might help the bill's supporters win more votes on Capitol Hill. The NRA has argued that the bill, as currently written, would give police the power to indefinitely hold up a handgun sale by not returning the paperwork.

The bill would allow, but not require, local police to check records during the seven-day waiting period to determine if the would-be purchaser has a criminal record.

Rep. Harley O. Staggers Jr., D-W.Va., also planned to propose alternative legislation that would set up a computerized system to allow "point-of-sale" record checks by gun dealers. Staggers' approach is favored by the Bush administration, but it is not expected to be approved by the committee.

"The real fight will be on the floor," said one aide.

The Brady Bill, which failed to win House passage by 42 votes in 1988, gained momentum last month when it received Reagan's endorsement.

The former president's blessing also prompted the White House to signal a willingness to accept the Brady Bill if Congress passes the major provisions of President Bush's crime bill.

Anti-abortion advocate given term in jail

CORPUS CHRISTI, Texas (AP) — An anti-abortion advocate has been sentenced to 30 days in jail after pleading no contest to criminal trespassing at an abortion clinic in August.

A county court-at-law judge on Monday also sentenced Rex Moses to three days in jail in connection with a no-contest plea to a second trespassing charge stemming from a Sept. 29 protest.

The two jail terms will run concurrently and will begin Saturday. After Judge Hilda Tagle sentenced Moses, he said he was disappointed he had to go to jail, but would make use of his time there.

"Jail will be a good place to pray," said Moses, 36, leader of the anti-abortion group called Body of Christ Rescue.

He said he would not appeal the sentences.

Moses pleaded no contest to two counts of trespassing at Reproductive Services, an abortion clinic. He then took a prepared statement to the witness chair.

Dr. Gott

Peter Gott, M.D.

By Peter H. Gott, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT: My question is about antibiotic therapy for persons with artificial joints prior to and after teeth cleaning procedures. I've had a knee replacement, and my doctor has me follow antibiotic therapy prior to and following dental procedures. Why?

DEAR READER: Artificial joints and other prostheses can become infected because, unlike living tissue, they have no active mechanisms to combat microbes.

During dental cleaning (and procedures such as sigmoidoscopy and cystoscopy), bacteria can spill into the bloodstream and be carried to a prosthesis or other synthetic material, where they may attach and grow, causing infection that is often resistant to treatment.

Therefore, doctors routinely pre-treat such patients with antibiotics to kill bacteria that are released during dental work. Your doctor's prescription is merely a way of making sure your artificial knee continues to function without becoming infected.

Children, dad are buried in Houston

HOUSTON (AP) — Funeral services were held Monday for Chung Dinh Vu and his four children, whom he shot to death last week immediately before killing himself.

"We learn and grow," said Monsignor Dominique Luong. "You have to adopt the new ways. You cannot be too rigid in the old ways."

The Vus had immigrated to Houston from Vietnam about five years ago. Luong said that when the family became troubled, they had no one to turn to.

Scores of friends, families and teachers attended the services at Notre Dame Catholic Church, where several Vietnamese family members wore traditional white mourning clothes.

On Thursday, Vu fed his four children dinner, took a Polaroid picture of them, then lined them up behind the dining room table and shot each one in the head with a .45-caliber semiautomatic pistol he had purchased that day. He then fatally shot himself.

Killed were his daughters, Hong Lam Vu, 18; Yen Ngoc Vu, 16; and Huyen Ngoc Vu, 8; and his son, Long Mong Vu, 12.

Vu's wife, Hue Lam Vu, had left their Southwest Houston apartment last Monday with another man, police said.

On the back of the snapshot, Vu had written, "Last picture."

Teachers and friends said the children had been excellent students.

Lee says support films

OPA LOCKA, Fla. (AP) — People who want to keep seeing Spike Lee's movies had better line up at the box office with cash in hand, the filmmaker told those attending South Florida's Black Film Festival.

"Hollywood is only interested in one thing, and that's money," he said Sunday. "We cannot assume Hollywood will continue to make these films if we don't show up and support them."

Lee also said he's not interested in making films that enlighten white people about the black experience.

"I don't make films so white people can better understand black people," he said. "I make films for us to put our humanity on the screen."

DEAR DR. GOTT: I'm a very active 70-year-old with corneal dystrophy. My ophthalmologist says he doesn't want to attempt a corneal transplant on me. I'm concerned that my lifestyle will change dramatically if I don't have the surgery. I'd value your opinion.

DEAR READER: Your ophthalmologist probably won't operate now because your eye is not ready. Corneal dystrophy, a progressive deterioration of the front of the eye, gradually affects vision. Once your acuity has diminished to the point where you are handicapped, you'll be a candidate for a corneal transplant. As long as your vision is reasonably good — adequate for reading, for example — the doctor will hesitate to operate.

The reason is that any operation, no matter how straightforward and safe, can go wrong. If you were to have the surgery when your vision was adequate and something went amiss, you would be blinded in one eye — at least temporarily, until you could have an anterior cornea transplanted. On the other hand, once your vision is severely affected by the dystrophy, a bad surgical result would be less disastrous because you couldn't see well anyway.

Therefore, most ophthalmologists wait to perform surgery until the benefits clearly outweigh the risks.

To give you more information, I am sending you a free copy of my Health Report "An Informed Approach To Surgery." Other readers who would like a copy should send $1.25 with their names and addresses to P.O. Box 91369, Cleveland, OH 44101-3369. Be sure to mention the title.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Don't judge others by what they have rather than what they are. If you do this today, you may deprive yourself of a valued relationship that money can't measure.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) If you get involved in a competitive development today, don't make winning more important than it should be. Be a graceful winner or a gracious loser.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) It's best not to talk prematurely about your intentions today; it could have an effect upon the tactics and energies you'll spend to achieve them. The more talk, the less oomph.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Don't base your hopes and expectations on some form of magical intervention today; it may not be forthcoming. You can rely on honest effort, though.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) You'll have a knack for drawing attention to yourself today, but bear in mind that everyone who is watching may not be your staunch supporter.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) When managing subordinates today, be neither demanding nor wishy-washy. Above all, don't ask them to do things you wouldn't do yourself.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Even though your commercial dealings may be conducted in a convivial atmosphere today, don't treat the issues lightly. Indifference on your behalf could turn profit into loss.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Your tolerance might be tested in one-to-one relationships today; you may have to contend with a couple of individuals whom you normally try to avoid.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) If something is expected of you today, such as a promise or commitment, don't make excuses — make good. If you fail to do so, your word won't carry much weight in the future.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) It's best not to try to direct financial arrangements for another today, unless you know exactly what you're doing. An error could result in mutual losses.

Development of local business explained at dinner meeting

The Deep Creek Chapter of American Business Women's Association met April 4 at 6:30 p.m. at The Shack with Penny Cochran presiding. The invocation was given by Pam Dortch.

Nathalie Kelley with Nathalie's Button Factory presented the program. She told the group the inception of her and her husband's business was "going from a great paycheck in the oilfield to no paycheck at all, and on a wing and a prayer and trust in the Lord, an answer came." While living in Rotan, she said her prayer was to make collars out of old quilts. Before she had the first one finished, a friend dropped by and purchased it. The friend in turn, showed it to friends and two more were sold that day which helped pay the water bill and buy some groceries.

She told the group they later filed bankruptcy to get out of a contract that was taking all their profit. Later, they moved to Snyder and started making buttons in their home for about 2 1/2 years. Their business grew by leaps and bounds, she said, so they moved to their present site at 1503 26th St., where they employ 30 people, 13 work in the shop and the rest work out of their homes. They have representatives on the east coast, and their products are sold in 45 states and three foreign countries with Japan being a large buyer.

Most of the designs are made with cookie cutters which Nathalie makes herself. All buttons are washable but cannot be put in a dryer. The shop employees do the painting on buttons, button clips and jewelry. Special orders are taken and they invite everyone to come by and visit.

Ms. Krop, a pharmacy technician at Eddie's Pharmacy, gave the vocational talk. She has been working there for two months and prior to that she worked for Snyder Healthmart since high school. She is attending WTC.

Penny Cochran received a button clip from Nathalie's.

The benediction was given by Donna Dupree. Serving as hostesses were Johnnie McNew and Stella Bailey.

Assume they can play

Unless you have played against a particular opponent many times before and know his limitations, don't automatically assume he has made an error. Usually it is better to play for a reasonable chance to make your contract than to rely on a defensive mistake.

After reaching a contract of six diamonds, you receive the lead of the heart queen and must bring home 12 tricks, but how?

The hand plays itself. Win the opening lead with dummy's ace, discarding a spade, and ruff a heart high. Return to dummy with a trump and ruff the last heart high. Draw the final opposing trump and play off your three club winners.

You are down to three spades and two trumps in both hands. Now comes the critical moment. You lead the ace and another spade. West playing the jack on the second round. Do you call for dummy's queen or six?

If you have peeked at the West hand, you probably decide to play dummy's low spade, but that is wrong. In real life, West actually had K-J-5 of spades. (What a dirty trick!) If you play low from the dummy, West will win and cash a second spade trick.

How do you know which holding West has? An expert West, holding J-5 of spades, will unblock the jack under the ace to avoid any risk of an endplay.

Finally, if East wins the queen of spades with the king, you must hope he started with king doubleton. If so, he will be forced to concede a ruff and discard, and your remaining spade loser will disappear.

Traffic accidents

MARSHFIELD, Wis. (AP) — Diabetics and people with epilepsy are at a slightly higher risk of accident while driving than is the general population, according to a study published in the New England Journal of Medicine.

But their risk is decreasing considerably, it was reported, due to advances in the technology for managing the diseases.

"Proper medication, regular self blood-sugar monitoring and a greater understanding of its complications, all play a large part in managing diabetes and reduce the chance of body-control loss," notes Ann Setzer of Boehringer Mannheim Corp., which specializes in diabetes-management technology.

The study, conducted by the Marshfield Clinic and the Marshfield Medical Research Foundation, concluded that diabetics and epileptics should not have any significant restrictions on their driving.

The United States went off the gold standard in 1933.

Oilers draft Snyder grad in 7th round

NEW YORK — Former Angelo State University defensive end Kyle Freeman, a 1985 graduate of Snyder High School was selected by the Houston Oilers in the seventh round of the annual NFL draft Monday.

"It's a real big load off my shoulders," Freeman said in a telephone interview Monday afternoon.

"I had heard from people at Detroit and Houston saying they were interested in drafting me, and I really expected Detroit to take me.

"But I hoped all along it would be the Oilers."

Freeman is expected to be in Houston by June 1 for classes and a mini-camp.

Freeman's brother Rick, also from Snyder related, "When Kyle was seven years old he told me he was going to play pro ball.

"When I look at all he's done since then, and now being drafted into the NFL, it amazes me."

Houston's training camp begins in late July in San Antonio.

The Oilers project the 6-2, 235-pound Freeman at an outside linebacker position.

"(Oilers linebacker and special teams) coach (Richard) Smith told me he wanted a maniac," Freeman told the San Angelo Standard Times.

"I told him I'd give him all the maniac he wanted."

"If I'm going to make the team, it's as a special teams player," he continued.

"The second team linebacker doesn't always make the team.

"I've got to be able to play on the special teams and that's where my speed can help me the most, being the first one downfield and making the tackle."

Freeman, who runs a 4.4 40-yard dash, played just two years of collegiate football following a star-studded track and field career with the ASU Rams.

He was the 1989 NCAA Division II national shot put champion and qualified for the national meet four straight years competing in the shot, the discus and the hammer before beginning football in 1989.

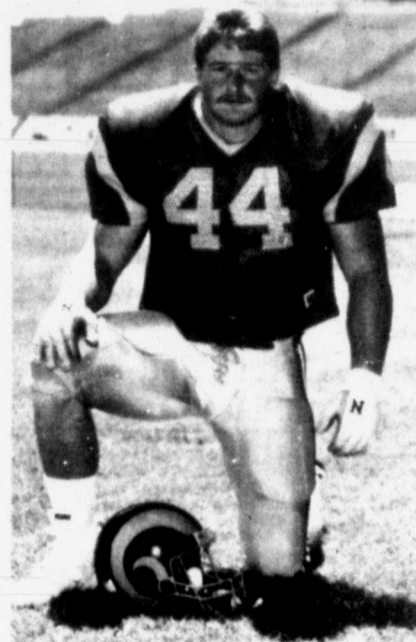

According to a press release from Angelo State, the Oilers' pick had his best game in the Division II playoffs against Cal-Davis in 1989 when he recorded two QB sacks, four harassments, nine tackles and a forced fumble.

Freeman, son of Mr. and Mrs. C.B. Freeman of Snyder, was a 1990 first-team All-Lone Star Conference selection and was picked on the third team AP Little All-America squad the same year.

While attending Snyder High School, Freeman played football and earned all-district honors in track.

He received a degree in kinesiology in August of 1990 from Angelo State and was enrolled at ASU as a graduate student during his final grid season.

Freeman is married to the former Sonya McDonald of Snyder.

Andrews cards 341 to lead at regionals

SAN ANGELO — Andrews' Lady Mustangs, led by a 76 from Lisa McQuatters, shot to the top of the standings in the Region 1-4A golf tournament at Bentwood Country Club here after Monday's opening round.

Andrews' 341 was 53 strokes better than second-place Burkburnett after one day of the 36-hole tournament.

Hereford's 400 is in third place while District 2-4A champion Snyder and Andrews B are sharing sixth position with identical 412 totals.

Levelland's Loboettes, who finished second in 2-4A golf, hold eighth place with a 426 tally.

Four of the top six individual scores Monday came from Andrews golfers.

McQuatters paced the group followed by teammates Andi Lehman with an 84, Valarie Brown with a 90 and Nikki Martin's 91.

Snyder all-district selection Kim Duncan carded a 90 on Monday to tie Brown for fourth medalist spot.

Borger leads the boys regional tournament with a team-total 331 followed by Big Spring's 333 and a 340 from Monahans.

Levelland holds 11th place at the tourney with its 355 and Lamesa carries a 12th-place 362 into today's final round.

Individual leaders include Steve Ward of Monahans, who registered a first-round 76, Big Spring's Eric Lusk's 78 and an eighth-place 90 from District 2-4A medalist Lance Patton of Levelland.

Gibson earns spot in semis

SAN ANGELO — District 2-4A champion James Gibson of Estacado and the title-holder from District 3, Rocky Tubb of Big Spring, both advanced to today's semifinal round in boys' singles at the Region I tennis tournament on the campus of Angelo State University.

Snyder's Marcus Best, a 6-1, 6-4 winner over Brownwood's Andy Swanson in Monday's first round, lost to Tubb in the quarterfinals Monday afternoon.

Scores were not available at press time this morning.

Tubb, who received a first-round bye, will take on No. 3 seed, Barry Thrutchley of Borger.

Gibson took a 3-set victory over Hereford standout Jamie Kapka Monday, 6-4, 3-6, 6-2 and will tangle with No. 2 seed Chris New of Burkburnett.

New dropped Ft. Stockton's Sam Silvas, 7-5, 6-2 in the second round after also receiving a bye to open the tournament.

The semifinal winners will move on to the UIL state tennis tournament in Austin May 9-11.

In other divisions at the event, Snyder's Rachel Wilson and Gayle Henderson were eliminated by the Hereford duo of Trisha Munoz and Robyn Sublett Monday.

Munoz-Sublett was then dispatched by Andrews' Carol Rogers and Jennifer Hines to advance into Tuesday's semifinal round.

Other winners include top-seeded Jessica Salazar of Ft. Worth Center-Riverside in girls' singles and Lamesa's Alan Davis and Chris Estrada in boys' doubles.

Snyder puts streak on line vs. Dunbar

The Snyder Tigers, riding the crest of a 3-game winning streak, will travel to Lubbock today to battle the Dunbar Panthers in a 4 p.m. District 2-4A baseball matchup.

Snyder hurler Daniel Espinosa is expected to start for the Tigers while Dunbar will probably counter with Lee Roy Danford.

Snyder's most recent victory was a 4-2 come-from-behind win against Levelland Friday night.

Terry Stephens pitched almost four innings in relief, giving up just two hits to the Lobos.

Snyder shortstop Mark King was 2-for-3 at the plate for the Tigers, including a 2-RBI double in the second frame that tied the game 2-2.

He also scored the go-ahead run and started a third-inning double play that ended a Levelland scoring threat and got starter David Patrick out of trouble.

The Panthers' last outing was a 7-6 loss to Lamesa last Friday. Espinosa's last start was last Tuesday's 8-7 upset of then-No. 6 Frenship. The Snyder junior went the distance and gave up seven hits and struck out 11.

On the season, Espinosa has fanned 31 batters en route to his 2-4 record.

The hard-throwing Danford is carrying an earned run average of 1.70 with 70 strikeouts in 49 1-3 innings this season and a record of 3-7.

The Panthers are 3-18 thus far this year and 2-5 in loop games.

Snyder has moved into a second-place tie with Frenship at 5-2 in district tilts. The Tigers are 9-14 in all games.

In other 2-4A games tonight, Lamesa is at first-place Lubbock Estacado and Levelland hosts Frenship.

Dibble apologizes for brushback

HOUSTON (AP) — Cincinnati Reds reliever Rob Dibble apologized Monday to Astros shortstop Eric Yelding for throwing a pitch behind Yelding's back, sparking a bench-clearing fight at Riverfront Stadium two weeks ago.

Billy Doran, the Reds' second baseman and a former Astro, arranged the 15-minute meeting with Dibble, Yelding and Astros manager Art Howe before Monday night's Astros-Reds game at the Astrodome.

"I apologized to Eric for what happened," Dibble told KRIV-TV. "Bill Doran was a peace-maker. Bill told me that I'd like Eric if he was on my team and he assured me they'd like me if I played over there."

He added, "It's something that had been bothering me for two weeks. I needed to get it off my chest."

"I thank Billy D. a lot," Yelding said. "He should get a Nobel Peace Prize. We'd been having trouble the last couple of years with the Reds. Rob came over and apologized. I thought he was a big man for doing that."

Baker, Syrian leader meet to begin preliminary talks

DAMASCUS, Syria (AP) — Secretary of State James A. Baker III began talks with Syrian President Hafez Assad today without any clear indication whether his Mideast peace mission will succeed or fail — but with a side trip to the Soviet Union added to his agenda.

Israel in its 1967 war with Syria and other Arab states. Israel annexed the area in 1978.

Baker met briefly Monday night with Syrian Foreign Minister Farouk Sharaa after arriving from Kuwait and met Assad this afternoon.

Leaving his hotel to meet the Syrian leader, Baker told reporters he had talked with Israeli Prime Minister Yitzhak Shamir by telephone and his spokeswoman subsequently confirmed that Baker had told Shamir he would be going to the Soviet Union from Syria.

Assad, the toughest leader in the Arab camp, wants to be sure the outcome will include the return of territory held by Israel on the Golan Heights.

Turkey said biggest backer of U.S. protected camps in Iraq

ANKARA, Turkey (AP) — The government of Turkey is a driving force behind the U.S. plan to set up Kurdish refugee camps just across the border in northern Iraq.

he persuaded President Bush to change his mind and send U.S. troops into northern Iraq to protect the Kurds, who fled a failed rebellion that followed Saddam Hussein's defeat in the Persian Gulf War.

It is wary of its own Kurdish problem and of getting stuck shouldering the cost of caring for the hundreds of thousands who have besieged its borders.

Bush had encouraged Saddam Kurds to rise up against Saddam, then ignored their pleas to shoot down Iraqi helicopter gunships. In the first few weeks of their desperate exodus, he refused to get involved.

Yet some Turks are questioning the wisdom of establishing a 1,000-square-mile haven for Kurdish refugees so close to Turkey's own restive Kurdish region.

Then the gravity of the refugees' plight gained wide publicity. Scores were dying daily of hunger, disease and exposure. An estimated 850,000 Kurdish refugees are now on the Turkish border, about 1.5 million at Iran's frontier.

Anything resembling a semi-autonomous Kurdish state, they argue, might provide a dangerous precedent for Turkish Kurds.

U.S. deploys battle group off Turkey, Iraqis remain

SULOPI, Turkey (AP) — The United States has sent a naval battle group to the Mediterranean Sea off Turkey as a warning to Saddam Hussein not to interfere with U.S. troops building camps for Kurdish refugees in northern Iraq, the Navy said today.

Turner, which were part of Operation Desert Storm, had moved from the Red Sea to bolster ships of the 6th Fleet off the coast of Turkey, close to northern Iraq.

Iraqi forces remained in the northern Iraqi city of Zakho, defying U.S. orders that they pull back to the south during construction of the protected camp for Kurdish refugees in the area.

The presence of Saddam's troops in northern Iraq could discourage Kurdish refugees from coming down from remote camps on the mountainous border with Turkey, where the State Department says about 510 refugees are dying daily.

Navy officers in Saudi Arabia said the aircraft carrier Theodore Roosevelt and the guided missile cruiser Richmond K.

As part of a stepped-up U.S. relief effort, American troops were arriving with more aid at the worst-off border refugee camps, at Cukurca and Uzulmu.

THE KURDS

Saddam Hussein's defeat by the U.S.-led coalition in the Persian Gulf war had given Iraq's long-rebellious Kurdish population some hope for independence.

The dream of an independent Kurdistan has existed since the end of World War I and the breakup of the Ottoman Empire. The 1920 Treaty of Sevres promised the Kurds an independent state. But that soon unraveled when the British annexed the oil-rich Kurdish region of Mosul to Iraq, then a British protectorate that supplied much of Britain's oil.

The Front for Iraqi Kurdistan, a coalition of Kurdish political parties and rebel groups, recently claimed to have held most of northern Iraq, a mountainous region that is home to about 4 million Kurds. But after heavy fighting, Saddam's forces appeared to have defeated the Kurdish rebels.

Kurds face harsh discrimination in the countries in which they now find themselves. In Iran and Syria, it is forbidden to teach the Kurdish language in schools. In Iraq and Turkey, speaking Kurdish can land a person in jail. Yet while restricting the Kurds within their own borders, Turkey, Iran and Syria have sent arms and supplies to Kurds in Iraq to harass Baghdad.

There are roughly 17 million ethnic Kurds concentrated in southeastern Turkey, the northeastern tip of Syria, the northeastern half of Iraq, along the Iranian border with Iraq and Turkey, and reaching into the Soviet Union. The Kurds make up about 26 percent of the population of Iraq, 25 percent of Turks, 12 percent of Iranians and 11 percent of Syrians — making them the fourth largest nationality in the Middle East.

The war against Iraq has also been a political boon to the Kurds. In February, Turkey recognized the legitimacy of its Kurdish minority for the first time, and began to remove sanctions against their language and culture.

By Michael Squires, Range Conservationist

Jimmy Apel has been selected as coordinator for the newly authorized Big Country Resource Conservation and Development (RC&D) Area.

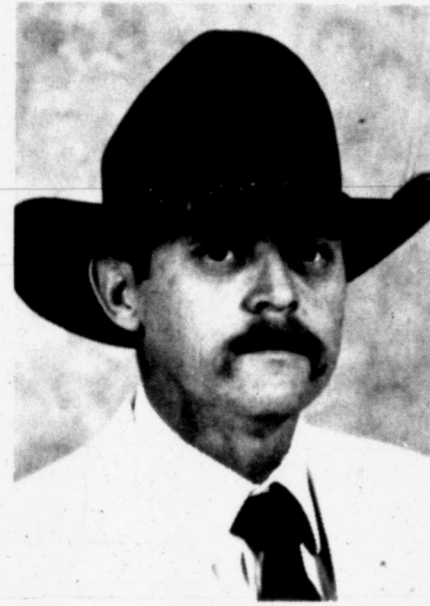

Apel, who has been District Conservationist serving Nolan County for the past 15 years, will begin his new duties today, April 22. As the USDA representative, he will assist the sponsors within the area in their efforts to increase economic development and improve the standard of living. Counties within the Big Country RC&D Area are Borden, Fisher, Garza, Glasscock, Jones, Howard, Kent, Mitchell, Nolan, Scurry, Sterling and Taylor.

The Big Country RC&D Area, which was authorized in February by the U.S. Secretary of Agriculture, is accepting Project Measure Proposals. A proposal may be submitted by individuals, groups or units of government.

Project Measure Proposals received recently include a water quality project for Lake Trammell and Oak Creek Reservoir; establishment of a Texas grant research center; improvement of the water works at Hermleigh; creation of a cotton and wool mill and Fisher County; expansion of the Fisher County hunting cooperative; improvement of the Theater on the Brazos, an outdoor recreation facility where plays are performed; development of a water distribution system for the city of Jayton; installation of a sewage disposal system for the city of Jayton; development of a multi-county underground water conservation district; and reduction of flooding in Big Spring.

Proposals for projects should be sent to the Big Country

JIMMY APEL

Resource Conservation & Development Area at P.O. Box 1114, Sweetwater, or the proposals may be delivered in person at Suite 304 in Tara on the Square, across from the courthouse.

Entomology Report

Uniform Delayed Planting Date

The Texas Agricultural Extension Service recommendation for a uniform planting date in cotton for 1991 is May 20.

Planting cotton at this time will result in the appearance of 1/3 grown squares after the peak number of overwintered weevils have emerged and died. Boll weevils spend the winter in leaf litter and emerge in the spring to mate and lay eggs. A one-third grown square is the smallest square-size which provides enough food for the immature weevil to feed and develop into an adult weevil. Waiting to plant cotton prevents early emerging weevils from locating acceptable feeding and egg-laying sites.

Weevils will colonize or move into fields which have 1/3 grown squares available first. As these fields begin to cut-out or become less attractive to weevils in August, weevils will move from these fields and search for fields which are still lushly growing and producing squares.

Diversified

By Mike Morrow, County Extension Agent

Field work around the county is in full swing and most cotton producers are busy with herbicide and fertilizer applications. Many fields have been listed and producers are looking for a good rain prior to planting season.

Getting the cotton crop off to a good start is an important step toward profitable production. As planting season approaches, producers should consider some basic guidelines to establishing a timely, uniform stand of healthy cotton seedlings.

Cotton germination, emergence, survival and, ultimately, production potential, often depend on the vigor and soundness of the seed. Good planting seed should have a standard germination percentage of 80 or more and a cool germination percentage of 50 or more. With favorable conditions, seed emergence should approach the standard germination percentage. Under marginal conditions, the cool germination percentage provides a better approximation of field emergence.

Planting date is also an important consideration. The optimum temperature for germination of cottonseed is between 80 and 90 degrees and the minimal temperature to initiate the germination process is 54 degrees. Studies have shown that cottonseed has to spend at least 100 hours in an environment where temperatures are 64 degrees or greater to germinate and emerge. Therefore, planting date guidelines are usually based on soil temperature measurements. One guideline that works well for this area is that planting should be delayed until the 10-day average of the minimum soil temperature at the 8-inch depth is 60 degrees or greater and the 5-day weather forecast is favorable for planting. Once the seeds are planted and begin soaking up water, they are highly sensitive to chilling injury for the first 5 to 7 days. Soil temperatures below 50 degrees during this time can slow germination and cause injury to the seedling. Soil temperature below 40 degrees for more than four hours has been known to kill seedlings during this time period. The 5-day weather forecasts sometimes aren't all that accurate but they can warn you of approaching cold fronts. Planting just ahead of the arrival of a strong cold front could mean a weak stand of seedlings.

Under dryland production conditions, soil moisture is probably the most important factor in determining when to plant. These basic guidelines on soil temperature and seed quality may help to make sound planting decisions if used in conjunction with good, timely rainfall.

Three Ways to Make Your Recipes Low-Calorie
 Most of us could benefit by modifying what we eat. One way to modify your diet is to make adjustments in the types and amounts of ingredients in recipes so that the end result is just as satisfying but fits better with recommended dietary guidelines.

Very few recipes need to be followed exactly to assure a good quality product. Your chances for success are best if you understand when and how to modify recipes. Instead of giving up your favorite recipes, modify them by following these three principles:

1. Eliminate non-essentials:

Leave out all non-essential ingredients. For example, butter on broiled fish can be eliminated or salt can be omitted from the water when boiling foods.

2. Reduce contents: Use less fat, sugar or salt as much as possible by reducing the amount in preparation.

3. Substitute ingredients: Use more healthful ingredients or a lower-calorie cooking method. Replace whole milk with low-fat or skim milk. Try steaming rather than frying.

Don't be too quick to change your recipes, however. Take a look at your recipes and see how they measure up to your plans to make positive changes in your eating habits.

Computer-age landscaping

COLLEGE STATION — Moving an eight-foot oak tree from one side of a yard to the other can take only a few, easy seconds. No shovel. No dirt. No sweat.

Within a year, lots of Texas lawn lovers could have effortless landscaping at their fingertips as computers begin to share shelf space with seed packets at local nurseries.

Landscapes come to life through two types of computer information systems: a pictorial plant encyclopedia on laser disk and a computer program that creates designs based on a photo of one's home and yard.

"Customers often come to a nursery asking for a plant that will do 'this and so,'" said Dr. Dan Lineberger, head of Texas A&M's horticultural sciences department. "This will allow the nursery staff to put the customer on a computer to pick the right plants."

With thousands of species available, choosing the best vegetation can be confusing for the consumer whose plant knowledge may be limited to grass and roses. The scope of choice in the state translated into total lawn and garden sales near $2.8 billion in 1989, the most current figures, according to the Texas Association of Nurserymen.

When a customer comes in for a tree, for example, nurseries which have the computer information systems will be able to show pictures of the foliage and bark, the tree at different ages and what the tree will look like in a person's particular landscape.

The plant encyclopedia, on a laser disk that resembles a platinum phonograph record, will provide the customer with a list of plants that meets the criteria as well as price and availability, Lineberger said. The customer then can key in closeup and landscape pictures of those plants. If desired, a picture of the customer's home can be used with the landscaping program to display plant selections in the yard.

More Texas customers are requesting assistance with yard decisions. Landscaping counseling and planning services in the state grew to $250 million in 1989.

Although the Texas plant encyclopedia is not yet available, Lineberger said, a team of horticulturists soon will begin determining what plants need to be included.

Good Deed Left Bad Taste In Honest Shopper's Mouth

DEAR ABBY: One recent Sunday morning, I went to the grocery store to do my weekly shopping. I was selecting some bananas when I noticed a small billfold lying among them.

I picked it up and looked around for the owner, but not seeing anyone, I took the billfold directly to the front desk of the store, then returned to my shopping.

Soon afterward, a lady came up to the desk and asked if anyone had turned in a billfold. The clerk returned it to her, then pointed me out as the person who had found it. This woman marched over to me and said, "I need the money you took out of my billfold!"

For a moment I was too shocked to speak, then I told her I took her billfold directly to the clerk when I found it.

She said, opening the wallet for effect, "Well, I had $48 in here, and now it's gone!"

I said, "I'm sorry, but I didn't take your money!"

She gave me a dirty look and then marched off.

Abby, I was in a blind rage clear through to the meat section, then I calmed down and told myself that she was upset about losing her money and simply took it out on me.

But upon reflection, I then concluded that that was no excuse for her accusation. What do you think?
HONEST SHOPPER
IN CHARLESTON, W.VA.

DEAR HONEST SHOPPER: You're right, her accusations were based on circumstantial evidence, which is all she had to go on. In all probability, someone had found her billfold containing the $48, removed the money and tossed the empty billfold among the bananas where you found it. Her anger was misdirected.

DEAR ABBY: I am the mother of a large family. I have several children and grandchildren, too. I have never interfered in any of their marriages or gone to anyone's home uninvited. I am always ready to help them out if they need me.

My oldest granddaughter is getting married in June. I'm not even sure I will be invited. But frankly, since she hasn't spoken to me in a year and a half, I really don't care to go. I have never said an unkind word to or about her, nor have I ever forgotten a birthday or Christmas. (I have never received a word of thanks.)

I can't go to her wedding and pretend to have a good time. I will go to the church, however, to witness the ceremony.

Some of my children are in agreement; others are not. Please advise me. My daughter and I have a very good relationship.

NAMELESS GRANDMOTHER

DEAR NAMELESS GRANDMOTHER: You will probably receive an invitation to the wedding, so if you want to avoid the reception and go only to the church, that's your privilege. Suit yourself. The bride will probably be too caught up in the excitement of the occasion to take notice of your presence or your absence.

LHS students win National Science Bowl

LUBBOCK, Texas (AP) — Lubbock High School may not be an athletic powerhouse, but when it comes to academic competitions, the school "can match up with any school district in the nation."

A group of Lubbock High School students proved that Monday by winning the first National Science Bowl in Washington, defeating teams from across the country.

Lubbock High School principal Knox Williams said the school has plenty of room in its trophy case for the latest award.

Free condoms sought for college kids

AUSTIN (AP) — A bill that would require state colleges and universities to provide condoms to students that want them drew criticism from people who say distributing free condoms promotes sexual activity.

But health and family planning officials supported the measure during a public hearing Monday.

The bill was sent to a subcommittee of the House Public Health Committee.

State Rep. Ron Wilson, D-Houston, said his bill would help prevent the spread of AIDS and other sexually transmitted diseases, and reduce the number of unwanted pregnancies.

But Susan Carter of Austin said that "condom purveyors" were trying to "stir up sexual activity" among young people through the bill.

"Teaching them the use of condoms is simply enticing them to promiscuity," said David Muralt of Austin.

He quoted the Bible as he criticized "fornicators," adding, "Let's teach the kids you have to save sex for marriage. Please don't make us as Christians subsidize sin."

"We hold our own in athletics," Williams said. "We are no powerhouse. But I think people are going to realize that when it comes to academics, we can match up with any school district in the nation."

The Lubbock High team, comprised of seniors Tom Zavisca and Jay Moore; and juniors Juny Sridhara and Michael Hsia, was sponsored by the superconducting super collider lab near Dallas.

Lubbock High senior Lee Cochran was an alternate, and chemistry teacher Hugh Smith served as the team's coach.

The Lubbock students outdueled high schools from 17 other states in the two-day event by successfully answering questions in biology, chemistry, physics, computer science, astronomy and mathematics.

Lubbock High defeated a group of students from Long Island, N.Y., in the finals as Energy Secretary James Watkins looked on.

After clinching the victory, the Lubbock students headed to the White House to meet with Barbara Bush.

"I am just elated for them," Williams said. "President Bush just released his education package in which a strong push towards science was highlighted, so I hope he will make a lot out of the students' victory."

The Science Bowl was sponsored by the Department of Energy and the Intel Corp. Foundation.

The Lubbock students won the right to represent the United States at an international science camp in Australia this summer. The students also won computers and laser printers.

Lubbock High was chosen to represent Texas in the National Science Bowl because of its excellent showing in University Interscholastic League science and math competitions last year.

Gephardt backs oil price floor

AUSTIN (AP) — U.S. House Majority Leader Richard Gephardt says he will introduce legislation to set a $20 per barrel floor price on oil.

Gephardt, D-Mo., said such a floor price — maintained through fees on oil imports — would boost U.S. production and cut reliance on dependable foreign supplies.

"If we are serious about doing everything we can so we don't have to send our troops and our ships back to the Middle East, then we've got to tackle the difficult issues," Gephardt said Monday.

"The bottom line is simply this: if we don't exercise leadership on energy and energy policy, others in the world will."

Gephardt said he is worried about shrinking U.S. oil production, rising oil imports and wild price fluctuations that followed Iraq's invasion of Kuwait last summer, when oil briefly topped $40 per barrel.

"Eight months ago, (Iraqi dictator) Saddam Hussein reminded us again of how much our country needs an energy policy," the House Democratic leader said.

"And for the second time in four years, our nation committed troops to the Persian Gulf ... The Gulf War, I think, again revealed our dependence on insecure supplies of energy."

"My heat pump's so efficient it saves money. And it's a clean system. I like what it means for the environment."

—Elta Chandler
Park Board Member

Elta Chandler cools and heats her home with a heat pump because it saves money and energy. And since it's electric, it's "wonderfully clean."

A heat pump uses the energy in the air to keep her home comfortable all year. Even on cold winter days there's heat in the air. A heat pump captures that heat and uses it.

And it costs less to operate than a gas furnace. It's so efficient that for each unit of energy it uses, it creates two to three units of heat.

In the summer a heat pump becomes a high-efficiency air conditioner, capturing the heat inside the home and removing it.

For more information, call a heat pump dealer or TU Electric. It's your chance to save more than money.
