Ask Us

Q—Does the UIL's plans to expand its playoff system to include the top three teams in each sport apply to Class 5A only, or are other classes included?

A—In February, the UIL Legislative Council gave its approval to expand the system in 5A to basketball, soccer and baseball. The plan must still be approved by a statewide vote of district school superintendents and the state board of education. At this point, playoff expansion for the other classes, 4A through 1A, has only been discussed.

In Brief

Truck explodes

KUWAIT CITY (AP) — A Kuwaiti military truck loaded with ammunition exploded today outside the hotel housing United Nations peacekeepers, gutting a dozen vehicles and sending the soldiers scurrying for cover.

The truck burst into a fireball and touched off explosions that lasted for almost 30 minutes at the front gate of the SAS Hotel, which is the headquarters for the U.N. mission monitoring the Iraq-Kuwait border.

"The flames shot 10 meters into the air. Then there were lots of small explosions like someone firing a machine gun," said Ole Walberg of the Norwegian News Agency. "Later on, there were some bigger explosions."

Housing furor

COLLEGE STATION, Texas (AP) — Some Texas A&M University students who live in a low-income housing area known as "Tortilla Flats" are upset with school plans to demolish the buildings.

"Where are we supposed to go?" says Vickie Smith, who attends school with her husband. The couple also has a 2-year-old daughter. "We can't afford to pay an additional $200 a month."

Commissioners ok budget swaps, set Noah Project tour

Scurry County commissioners heard budget transfer requests and a request from Noah Project, accepted a bid for a grid roller and a used diesel tandem truck this morning at the county courthouse.

Dr. Tim Griffin and other Noah Project advisory committee members, along with project director Linda Scaff, went before the court to request $10,000 to refurbish a carport area at the project into a counseling office.

In the request, Dr. Griffin acknowledged the county's present budget crunch but stressed the need for a private counseling area. He said currently the 9-foot by 19-foot office area is doubling as a counseling area.

"It's not an area that a person in a crisis situation feels comfortable receiving counseling in," said Scaff, noting the cramped office area. The Noah Project serves vices victims of family and domestic violence.

Scaff explained that several grants have been applied for to fund the new office, however no funds have been made available.

Commissioners took no action on the request but scheduled an afternoon tour of the facility. The court is expected to address the request next week.

Budget transfers were approved for the county and justice courts and for the district clerk's office.

County Judge Bob Doolittle requested an additional $3,000 for the court budgets to take care of court costs associated with commitments to Big Spring State Hospital and county jury trials. Some $2,000 was added to the commitments and $500 each to petit jury and court reporter.

Also approved was the transfer (see COUNTY, page 8)

Over 300 pitch in for SNS workday

Over 300 volunteers brought out their hammers, saws and paint brushes Saturday — some working from sunrise to after sundown — as Snyder Neighbors Sharing held its fourth April workday.

"From what we can tell, everything was a real success," said Sam Robertson, president of Snyder Neighbors Sharing.

Workers began arriving at the 14 selected sites at 6:45 a.m. and some crews stayed on until 10:30 p.m.

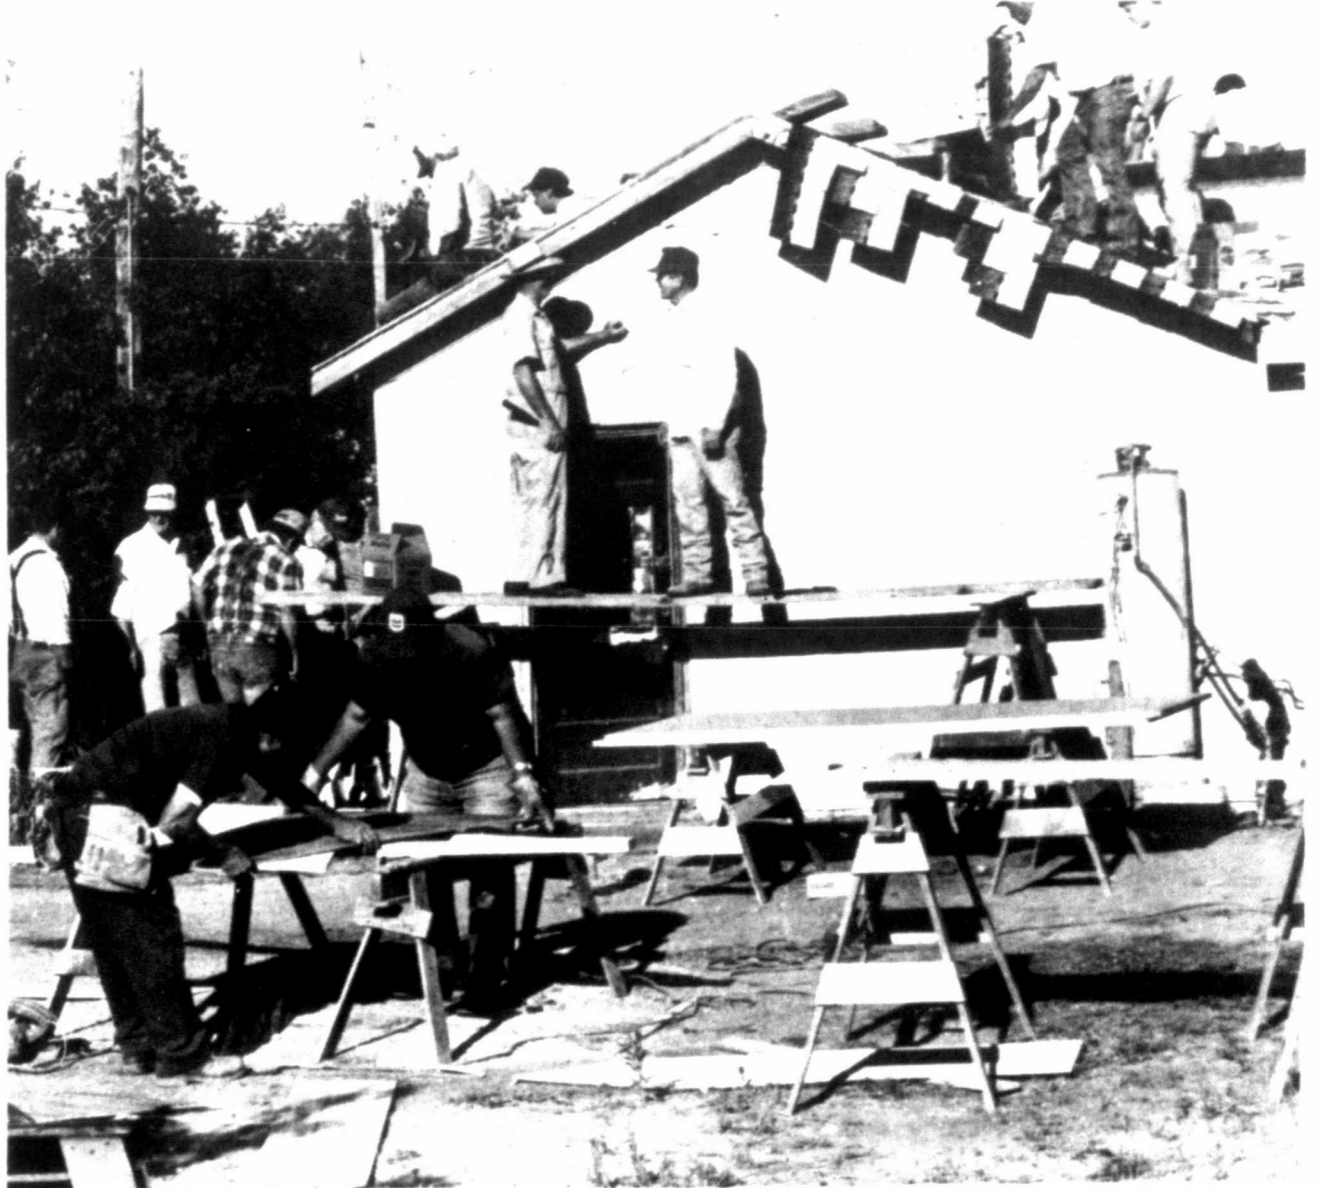

"There was a lot of time put into this," said Robertson. "We had tremendous support from our local lumber yards. We got trucks from the city and county helping; we had licensed plumbers and electricians.

LaVerne Hood headed up meals and did a great job. All the restaurants and grocery stores in town backed us, the senior citizens provided us a headquarters to work out of and Paul Gilbert and others headed up communications."

Fourteen homes were repaired this year, many of them considered major projects. To date, SNS has repaired 57 homes in Snyder and Scurry County. The 1992 SNS workday has already been scheduled for April 25.

Snyder Neighbors Sharing will meet Monday, May 6 at 5 p.m. at Robertson's Insurance at 1926 26th St.

"Anyone wishing to be a part of this organization is welcome to attend," Robertson said.

For May 4 elections...

Tuesday final day to cast in-person absentee ballots

Tuesday is the final day to vote by the in-person absentee method in the county school board elections and Snyder City Council election.

Absentee voting takes place at the business office of the respective entity — Snyder, Hermleigh and Ira public school offices, and Snyder City Hall.

The elections will take place on Saturday, May 4. Voting for in the Snyder ISD and city council elections will take place at City Hall. Voting in the Ira school election will take place at Ira Community Center and voting in Hermleigh will be at the school. Voting hours Saturday are from 7 a.m. until 7 p.m. at each location. By noon today, some 95 persons had used the in-person absentee voting method to cast their ballots in the SISD race for Place 2, in which incumbent Mike Jordan is running against challengers Geraldine Parker and Jan McCathern.

Only four ballots have been cast during the absentee voting period in the Hermleigh ISD election, where Jimmy R. Hudgins, Julius Roemisch, Jesse H. Rios and incumbents Antonio Lambaren and Andres Perez Rodriguez are running for three at-large positions.

Jimmy F. "Chip" Roemisch Jr. is running unopposed for an unexpired term on the board. Eighteen ballots have been cast in the Ira ISD board election, where Place 4 incumbent Bob Barbee is challenged by Gwen Cumbie and incumbent Sidney D. Wall is challenged by R. Douglass White for Place 5.

Some 40 persons have voted in the two at-large races for Snyder City Council, and for mayor. J.D. Smith, Jane Neeley and incumbent Mike Thornton are running for the two council positions. Incumbent Troy Williamson is the only candidate for mayor.

Twenty-nine voters have cast ballots in the race for Place 2 on the council, in which Jack Denman is the only contestant.

Place 3 on the Snyder public schools board, in which incumbent Terry Martin is running unopposed, has received six ballots.

Three SHS athletes qualify for state track competition

SAN ANGELO — A trio of Snyder High School track team members earned trips to the state Class 4A meet in Austin with top finishes at regionals here Friday and Saturday.

Katina Brandon and Vinnie Clay will represent the Lady Tigers at the capital while high jumper Ed Rios will make the journey for the SHS boys.

All three qualifiers either established or equalled personal bests at regionals.

Brandon, who had finished second to Clay in the discus throw much of the season, set a new personal standard Friday with a first-place effort of 133-feet, 8-inches. The Snyder senior is now a two-time state qualifier in the event. The throw is the top regional effort for Class 4A girls.

She also wound up third in the shot put with her 39-4½ toss.

Clay, also a senior at SHS, bettered her previous best in the shot put by almost three feet with a 40-11 heave to tie a school record and take first Saturday.

The record was initially set by Brenda Anderson in 1981.

"Vinnie was in second place until the very last throw of the finals," coach Patty Grimmer reported. "She just stepped up and popped that throw and won first with it."

Clay also captured third place in the discus with a 115-10.

Rios qualified for the state gathering Saturday by tying his best-ever 6-foot, 8-inch leap in the high jump for second place in the event.

Amarillo Caprock's Brad Bohensky took first with an identical height, but recorded fewer misses before clearing the 6-8 mark.

The top two finishers in each event at the regional meet advance to the state meet in Austin, May 10-11.

Also competing at regionals for Snyder were Trina Thompson and Annie Ragland. Thompson, after recording a personal best 12.2 seconds in preliminaries, finished fourth in the 100 meter dash with a 12.6 time. Ragland's 4-10 in the high jump was good for seventh place.

"All four girls competed real well," said Grimmer. "I think Trina and Annie did a good job for their first time at regionals. (see STATE, page 8)

16 said killed in Soviet quake

MOSCOW (AP) — A strong earthquake today sent rocks cascading down mountains onto homes in the Soviet republic of Georgia, and at least 16 people were killed, authorities said.

The quake was felt in neighboring Armenia, which was devastated by a 1988 earthquake that killed 25,000 people, but no damage was reported there.

The earthquake struck at 12:13 p.m. (5:13 a.m. EDT) in north-central Georgia, among sparsely populated villages and towns in the Caucasus Mountains, and measured 7.1 on the Richter scale, according to the Soviet Union's Central Seismic Station.

The epicenter was at 42 degrees 36 minutes north latitude and 43 degrees 56 minutes east longitude. The biggest town in the area is Ambrolauri, which has a food and textile factory and a population of 17,000 people.

"The mountain fell onto the houses," said Marina Starostina, a Georgian government spokeswoman in Moscow.

First reports said the town of Dzhava, 60 miles northwest of the Georgian capital of Tbilisi, was hardest hit.

Ten people were killed in Dzhava, said Zurab Kadzhaya, a police spokesman in the city of Kutaisi, 63 miles west of Dzhava.

Fort Hood soldiers are enjoying buying spree

KILLEEN, Texas (AP) — Returning Persian Gulf War soldiers are hitting Fort Hood-area stores at a dazzling pace carrying wallets bulging with stockpiled paychecks.

Furniture stores, car and motorcycle dealerships and even photo processing stores are reporting record sales in Killeen, home to the nation's largest military outpost.

Ironically, these businesses, hard-hit by the departure of about 25,000 soldiers from this area for Operation Desert Storm, are now finding they don't have enough inventory to meet the mad dash for goods.

"Our last 48 hours matched all of last month," said Perk Bearden, general manager of Yamaha of Killeen. "We sold eight machines in the last 48 hours and now I'm out of our two hottest-selling models."

New buying trends are also the result of the war, Bearden said. He said several husbands called away to duty are returning to wives with new lives of their own.

Bearden said many husbands are now shopping for motorcycles because they say: "My wife became independent. She's got a job and needs the car so I have to get transportation."

Many are paying cash for either the total amount of an item or making large down payments, merchants say.

Charles Grant, sales manager at Connell Chevrolet-Geo, said sales and service orders are up at a tremendous rate.

"I've seen guys come in with bank envelopes stuffed this thick," Grant said while holding his fingers about two inches apart.

The big sellers are family economy cars, he said. Single buyers are opting for pickup trucks.

Bell's president says firm has bright future

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — Bell Helicopter Textron's future is looking brighter than some skeptics in the defense industry would like to admit.

At least that's the way the top official at the Fort Worth-based military helicopter manufacturer see things.

Some skeptics are predicting Bell's future in the military helicopter business may have crashed with the loss of the Army's next-generation light helicopter contract.

But Bell president Jack Horner said tilt-rotor aircraft — while currently having problems — could one day double the company's size.

But Bell's rivals, Boeing Co. and Sikorsky Aircraft, a unit of United Technologies Corp. won the Army contract, ending a six-year battle to secure what may have been the last major chopper contract in the Pentagon's ever-shrinking budget.

The loss has some industry experts speculating about the future of Bell and its light helicopter partner, McDonnell Douglas Corp.

Horner places little stock in such speculation.

"The world is not perfect. There is always somebody out there stirring up the pot. If we're

Sgt. Bruce Daise of the 4th Battalion, 5th Air Defense Artillery, 1st Cavalry Division, kept a promise he had made to 16-year-old daughter Kendra Daise, a sophomore at Ellison High School.

"I told her that if I made it going to be a policeman, we'd better be ready to be a good policeman," Horner said.

Horner said he doesn't expect Bell's Fort Worth operation, which employs 7,000, to experience a major cutback in 1991.

back, I would buy her a car," said Daise, who kept his word. He bought Kendra a 1990 Geo Storm.

He's now shopping for a car for himself.

Bill Moss, manager of the Radio Shack, said he's seeing a lot more cash sales since the troops returned.

He's also gotten some feedback on electronic items purchased by soldiers or dependents and taken to Saudi Arabia.

"The Walkmans didn't make it," Moss said. "Some of the guys said the Walkmans lasted about two weeks in the desert before the sand would clog them up."

Shortwave radios fared much better, however, Moss was told.

At CPI-One Hour Photo in Killeen, business is up by 50 percent since the soldiers' return.

"We're seeing a lot of sand scratches, heat exposure and overexposure from too much light and ... a lot of photos of camels," said Marilyn Waight, manager of CPI-One Hour Photo.

Lynn Montgomery of Furniture Studio in downtown Killeen says business is definitely on the upswing as families come in to "big ticket" items.

Lynne Ladd, with Great Escapes Travel Service, said many soldiers are looking at exotic locales that have "nothing to do with sand."

But some are reconsidering. Bookings for Las Vegas and Hawaii are still a draw, even for the desert-bound soldier returning from the Persian Gulf.

Dr. Gott By Peter Gott, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I've recently been diagnosed with a lymphangioma. What do you know about this disease and its treatment?

DEAR READER: Lymphangiomas are benign, raised skin lesions composed of dilated and abnormal lymph vessels, the thin-walled tubes that circulate lymph (the clear fluid in blisters) throughout the body. On occasion, for no known reason, lymph channels enlarge in the skin, causing painless, fluid-filled cysts. These cysts usually contain clear fluid, which may be reddish if blood vessels are intermingled with the lymph tissue. The condition is not serious and can be successfully treated with deep excision, performed by a skilled surgeon.

DEAR DR. GOTT: My know-it-all daughters claim they cannot become pregnant if they have unprotected intercourse during menstruation. Is this true?

DEAR READER: For the most part, yes. When a woman ovulates (about two weeks before her menstrual period), the egg enters the Fallopians and slowly travels to the uterus; this is a woman's most fertile time. When the unfertilized ovum reaches the uterus, it fails to implant and grow (because it is unfertilized).

This sets in motion a cascade of hormonal changes, resulting in shedding of the uterine lining, which was prepared to receive a fertilized egg — but didn't. Thus, menstruation is the reaction of a "disappointed uterus," as one of my professors used to say. Intercourse at this time will not lead to pregnancy because neither the ovum nor the uterine lining is prepared.

Like any dictum, however, this has its exceptions. There have been isolated reports of women becoming pregnant after having had intercourse during menstruation. This is exceedingly rare, and no one knows how it happens; in some instances, the woman may actually have ovulated TWICE and, as unlikely as it may seem, the SECOND ovum may have been fertilized. Be that as it may, the chance of pregnancy during menstruation is, for practical purposes, impossible. (Please don't write back and scold me if one of your daughters is the rare exception!)

DEAR DR. GOTT: Please explain the relation between zinc tablets and AIDS. Am I at risk for AIDS because I take a vitamin with zinc?

DEAR READER: No, you're not. AIDS is a viral illness spread by intimate sexual contact or contaminated blood products. It has no relation to zinc or any other vitamin, mineral or nutrient.

Cattle drivers must 'clean up their act'

DUMAS, Texas (AP) — Don't have a cow, man!
It's not that Dumas officials don't like cattle; they're just tired of cow chips trailing through the Panhandle town.
Officials have beefed up enforcement of an ordinance aimed at livestock haulers who leave piles of cow manure in their wake.

"We've literally had two auto accidents caused by streets covered with this stuff," said City Manager Larry Smith. He said the fire department often is called to hose down the streets to make them passable after a cattle truck pulls through town.
The ordinance allows police officers to ticket violators and issue fines of up to $2,000. Only six citations have been issued so far, officials said. Each fine was $217.
Jimmy Rodriguez, a driver for M.T. Carroll Cattle Co. of Plainview, was ticketed March 20 for an incident in which a Dumas police patrol car was doused with waste. The company plans to fight its fine in municipal court.

Dumas Police Chief Gene Davis estimates 150 cattle trucks travel U.S. 287, a main thoroughfare in Dumas, each day. Trucks often carry 80 cattle, and up to 1,600 pounds of waste can be generated by each vehicle, Davis said.

Female POW discusses captivity in Iraq

EL PASO, Texas (AP) — The postwar pace has been hectic since Melissa Rathbun-Nealy came home.
Sandwiched between a crush of requests for interviews, book and movie offers and requests to make appearances, she also got married.

But the first female prisoner of war since World War II says she's mainly trying to live her life as normally as she can.

"I'm trying to get my life back to normal, so I'm trying to tame it," she said. "I'm glad to be home and living my life as happily as I am."

One of the things she's done since her ordeal ended is marry Michael Coleman, a specialist in her Fort Bliss unit, on March 28 and change her name.

Since her return, Mrs. Coleman has received dozens of book, television and movie offers. She said she might consider one book and one movie offer, but she's rejecting most other requests.

In an interview that appeared in the El Paso Times Sunday, Mrs. Coleman, 20, said her Iraqi captors treated her humanely.

Mrs. Coleman, Army Spc. David Lockett and other members of the 233rd Transportation Co. were returning repaired M911 heavy-equipment transporters to a camp in northern Saudi Arabia on Jan. 30 when they lost vehicles ahead of them on a desert road.

That's when they and another vehicle missed a turn that would have led to their unit.

When Lockett drove their truck into what appeared to be a deserted city, they saw a group of about 20 Iraqi soldiers. They tried to escape, but the soldiers began shooting, spraying shrapnel into Lockett's midsection and Mrs. Coleman's right forearm.

The two were captured after getting out of their truck, she said.

"I was in a hysterical state, heaving like I was crying, but there were no tears," she said.

They had stumbled upon the occupied coastal Saudi city of Khafji, near the border with Kuwait.

The two were taken through Kuwait to Basra, Iraq, and then to Baghdad, where they were held until their release when Iraq was defeated.

In Baghdad, Mrs. Coleman and Lockett were held in adjacent cells at a one-story prison, but they would not see each other again until they were released.

Mrs. Coleman's cell was a 12-foot square room that had a foam mattress and blankets on its tiled floor.

Several days later she was given a toothbrush and toothpaste and her wounds were treated and bandaged every other day.

Guards brought her five meals a day — two servings of breakfast with eggs, a lunch of rice and stew, and two dinners with beef, chicken, potatoes and eggs. She even received some candy after telling her captors she loved chocolate.

"The Iraqis in Kuwait ignored their religion," she said. "But the ones who held me stuck to their Moslem beliefs and their high respect for women. They did what they could to make me feel better."

One of Mrs. Coleman's worst enemies during her stay in Iraq was boredom, she said.

"There were 644 tiles in the hallway and 230 in my room. I even tried to count the holes in my wall," she said.

Actor comments

NEW YORK (AP) — Hanging up his 10-gallon hat after 13 years of "Dailies," Larry Hagman insists the weekly tales of the rich and famous did more than make viewers ask, "Who shot J.R.?"

Hagman, who starred as the ruthless Texas oilman J.R. Ewing, believes the show might actually have helped topple the Eastern bloc.

The CBS prime-time soap opera, once the top-rated show in the country, goes off the air after a two-hour finale Friday.

The sun was shining

By Phillip Alder

There are days when you wish you had stayed in bed. You bid to excellent contracts, but the cards lie so badly that you go down. On other days, you seem to be flying in the face of adversity, but there are silver linings to every black cloud.

Opposite the one-no-trump opening bid, South's three-spade response shows five spades and game values (at least). Now North has three options. With only two spades, he rebids three no-trump. With three or four spades but an unappealing hand, he raises to four spades. However, with an excellent hand for spades, North cue-bids his lowest ace. So four hearts announces a good hand for spades, promises the heart ace, and denies both minor-suit aces. South needs no more encouragement.

In a team game, both pairs reached six spades. At the first table, the declarer won the club lead and cashed his top spades. When the queen didn't drop, he tried the diamond finesse. It lost and he retired to his bunk, complaining about bad luck.

The second declarer saw he didn't need a successful diamond finesse. He started similarly, winning the club lead and taking the ace and king of spades. But then he cashed the club king, ruffed the club eight in the dummy, and played off the three top hearts, discarding two diamonds. He ruffed the heart two in hand, while West discarded a diamond. Now a trump was led, endplaying West, who had to lead a diamond away from the king. Plus 980 and a gain of 14 IMPs.

Lima's benefit for Nelson more appreciation than help

LIMA, Ohio (AP) — The city's "Chili for Willie" benefit for Willie Nelson may not have helped him pay his debt to the Internal Revenue Service but it gave the city a chance to show its appreciation of the country singer.

When this city of 46,000 was going through tough financial times in 1982, the country singer came to cheer people up. Now that Nelson is trying to get the federal government, residents wanted to return the favor.

The "Chili for Willie" festival Saturday, which included live country music, a chili cook-off and armadillo races, raised more in good feelings than money.

"We'll probably break even," said Martie MacDonnell, one of the prime movers for the festival, which was sponsored by the local Jaycees.

"But really, this is more of an appreciation thing than it is to raise money."

Nelson could not attend the festival because he was playing a concert in Port Arthur, Texas.

The relationship between Nelson and this northwestern Ohio town began in 1982 after a story in The Wall Street Journal contrasted Lima to San Angelo, Texas.

"Lima was in the middle of the recession and San Angelo was booming," said Marilyn Collmer, director of the Lima Convention Bureau.

"We called the Arts Council and Chamber of Commerce in San Angelo," she said. "We said, 'We both got some publicity, but ours made us feel bad. Do you think Willie Nelson would come and do a concert to make us feel better?'"

Arlington's Six Flags said safe from bankruptcy

ARLINGTON, Texas (AP) — Six Flags Over Texas is protected should its parent company enter into bankruptcy, said Six Flags Corp. president and chief executive officer Larry Cochran.

Because a separate partnership owns Six Flags Over Texas, "it's impossible" for the park to be drawn into the picture if Six Flags Corp. files for bankruptcy, Cochran said.

The agreement is a complicated one in which the corporation manages Six Flags Over Texas for a fee and a percentage of the profits, while the local partnership that owns the park is insulated from the corporation's finances.

Six Flags Corp., the nation's second-largest amusement park company, mentioned bankruptcy as a possibility in a Securities and Exchange Commission filing on April 17.

In a worst-case scenario for Six Flags Corp., the Arlington park stands only to lose the expertise of its corporate operators, the corporation and legal experts told the Fort Worth Star-Telegram. The park will remain vibrant in any case, they said.

The 30-year-old theme park last year had a record 2.8 million visitors and $68 million in revenues. A recent study commissioned by Six Flags said the park pumps $362.5 million into the North Texas economy each year.

Sam Lewis, a member of the San Angelo Chamber of Commerce and a friend of Nelson's, asked the singer.

"He said: 'You bet we'll do it, if

Two officers arrested for alleged pilfering

HOUSTON (AP) — Two Houston police officers face a grand jury investigation after they allegedly took $400 from the wallet of an undercover cop posing as a errant motorist.

Officers Gregg Lawrence Transeau, 36, and David Richard Donahue, 37, were arrested early Saturday on charges of felony theft by a public servant. Both are free on $2,000 bonds.

Assistant District Attorney Terry Wilson said the case will be presented to a grand jury for formal charges before his office will prosecute.

"I have the greatest respect for police officers," said Wilson, a well-known police supporter. "And it puts me in an ill temper to see some police officers degrading the reputation of others by being thieves."

Transeau and Donahue stopped a Hispanic undercover officer early Saturday after he committed a traffic violation. The officers, who had been under surveillance by the department's internal affairs division for some time, asked the driver for his license, said police spokesman Dan Turner.

When the motorist turned over his wallet, one of the officers allegedly took it back to the patrol car, Turner said. When the wallet was returned, it was missing an estimated $400, Turner said.

Uniformed patrol officers later arrested Transeau and Donahue, Turner said.

people are in trouble," Lewis said. "He paid all his own expenses. His manager wanted to charge them for the lighting and sound equipment."

Both men are five-year veterans of the force who work the night shift out of the Beechnut substation. Both have been suspended with pay from their jobs pending the outcome of a trial, Turner said.

Police spokesman Kevin Robertson said internal affairs had received complaints that the two officers were taking money and property from Hispanic and Asian men.

Police theorize the alleged attacks occurred on Hispanics and Asians because they would be less likely to report a crime by an officer.

The charge is a third-degree felony, punishable by up to 10 years in prison and a $5,000 fine.

The arrests came a day after Sgt. Oliver Eugene Brown, 62, was charged with arson in connection with a Thursday night fire at the Mount Zion Baptist Church in southeast Houston.

Brown, who was a member of the church, previously had been recognized for bravery in rescuing people from fires. Witnesses identified Brown as a suspect when he arrived at the scene of the fire to talk with fellow investigators.

"Anytime an officer is in trouble, it is a devastating situation, not only for police officers, but it violates a public trust," Turner said. "When one or two or three officers makes a mistake and they must be punished... (but) let's not prosecute the entire police department."

Minority enrollment in program too little

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — An assistant district attorney in charge of a program that pardons young first-time lawbreakers says the program doesn't deliberately exclude minorities.

The little-known Young Offenders Program is under attack because it benefits mostly middle-class white youths.

"It isn't our intent to keep black folks out," said Marshall Hines, who runs the program.

Hines, who has been in charge of the program for 13 of the 17 years it has been in existence under District Attorney Tim Curry, said he has never noticed or considered race or social status of the applicants. He agreed the program's percentage of minorities is low, but said he had no idea why.

Under the program, the Tarrant County district attorney's office drops some criminal cases without the youths ever going to court.

The program is the only one of its kind in Texas. It is limited to individuals between 17 and 21 and to specific nonviolent, non-drug-related crimes ranging from petty theft to home burglary, a first-degree felony punishable by five to 99 years in prison. But records show that the program doesn't include minorities at a rate proportionate to the population, the Fort Worth Star-Telegram reported Sunday.

Case files obtained by the newspaper through the Texas Open Records Act and court records show that of the 522 young offenders accepted into the program from 1986 through 1989, just under 8 percent were black and just over 7 percent were Hispanic.

Blacks and Hispanics each make up 12 percent of the population in Tarrant County. Minority representation in the program also is far below their percentage in the criminal justice system.

Blacks and Hispanics together made up 38 percent of Tarrant County offenders aged 17 to 21 on the next rung of punishment, deferred adjudication, the mildest form of probation, according to 1989 records.

In the four years reviewed, about 83 percent of those accepted by the Young Offenders Program were white and slightly more than 1 percent were Asian. Whites make up 73 percent of the county's population and Asians 2 percent.

Aid pours in for tornado victims

ANDOVER, Kan. (AP) — Townspeople collected clothes and opened their hearts to victims of a tornado that killed 14 people. Survivors sang, "We'll understand it by and by" at a memorial service.

"Friends, we're not defeated," the Rev. Steve Weldon told worshippers. "We are not without hope. We have not lost the battle."

The Andover Methodist Church was crammed with clothing donated to the 1,500 residents who were left homeless by the twister that flattened a trailer park and destroyed 88 houses and 11 businesses on Friday night.

In a big meeting room, workers sorted 3,000 pounds of clothing donated by people, churches and businesses. Andover Primary School's gymnasium was filled with rows of donated food.

"I bet some stores aren't stocked this well," Red Cross volunteer Marvin Keeler said.

Fourteen residents of the town's 40-acre Golden Spur

Mobile Home Park were killed when a tornado destroyed 226 trailers and heavily damaged 15.

Three Wichita residents were killed during Friday night storms and three other fatalities were reported in outlying Kansas counties. Three people were killed just over the state line in Oklahoma, for a total of 23 dead.

Andover's lone siren did not sound to warn residents of the tornado.

But Mayor Jack Finalason said that it didn't matter because patrol cars and fire engines were sent into the streets with lights flashing and sirens wailing.

"The competition was really tough," she continued. "For them to have done as well as they did, especially with Annie being a freshman and Trina a sophomore, is great. I think coach Tommy Doyle also deserves some congratulations for the job he did coaching Vinnie and Katina."

District 2-4A boys' champion Estacado was well-represented here with Dale Love winning the long jump and taking second in the triple jump and Chike Lewis nabbing third and fourth in the events, respectively.

Brendon Linster of Lamesa claimed a state berth in the 100 meter and 200 meter dashes with times of 10.84 and 21.75.

In the girls' division, district champion Levelland's Twylana Harrison won the triple jump, the long jump and the 100 and 400 yard dashes. Teammate Tami Fine took top honors in the high jump and third in the 300 meter hurdles.

Accepted was a bid of $12,500 from Bee Equipment of Lubbock for a used grid roller. The roller will be used in all precincts.

A bid for a used diesel tandem truck for $13,000 from R.L. Anderson of Abilene was accepted. A bid for a second truck will be accepted by the court during a meeting Friday.

In other action, the minutes were approved and bills were paid.

Present were Judge Doolittle and commissioners C.D. Gray Jr., Roy Idom, Duaine Davis and Jerry Gannaway.

Banned pesticides trouble apartment residents

HOUSTON (AP) — Residents of four Houston apartment complexes have sued a management company for allegedly continuing to spray a pesticide banned worldwide three years ago for its health risks.

In a copyright story, The Houston Post reported Sunday that state and local health officials failed to warn residents of the pesticide's potential dangers.

Chlordane, which is believed to cause cancer and has proved harmful to the nervous system, digestive system and the liver, was detected at the four apartment complexes as late as 1990.

Some 311 residents and former residents — including 109 children — of the Edgebrook, Camino South, Kings Park and Fondren Glen apartments claim they have been affected by the insecticide. They have filed a civil suit against Judwin Properties, which manages the complexes.

The residents complain they are suffering a variety of ill effects, including memory loss, flu-like symptoms, irritability, rashes, fevers, headaches, dizziness, lack of coordination and sexual dysfunction.

The newspaper said the four complexes were illegally sprayed with the pesticide and reportedly cleaned up under supervision by the Texas Department of Agriculture in 1987.

"I'm very concerned about the people who continue to live there," said Robert Simon, a toxicology consultant from Washington, D.C., who took samples from the apartment complexes in late 1989 and early 1990.

Simon said his test results showed chlordane is still present in a variety of locations at the apartments.

"That chlordane will be there another 20 years," he said, unless it is properly cleaned up. The toxin also remains in the body for years, experts say.

Chlordane is a mixture of more than 50 chemicals previously used to control termites in homes. Most uses of the substance were prohibited by the Environmental Protection Agency in November 1987, and a full ban was enacted in April 1988.

Judwin leasing agents tell prospective residents either they know nothing about the chlordane contamination at the complexes or that the problem has been corrected, the newspaper said.

Attorneys for Judwin Properties insist a proper cleanup of the four complexes was completed and that the apartments are safe. "The apartments were cleaned up in accordance with guidelines set out by the state authorities," said Charles Kelly, an attorney for Judwin.

Simon disagrees. "If the defendants are going to tell people it is not a problem, that it's safe to live there, the only way they can justify that is with test results that (show) there is no chlordane inside the apartments. There is no way they can guess at it," Simon said. "If you have some data that says it's safe, then you should provide the data. I don't think that's an unreasonable request."

Based on documents and testimony gathered in the civil lawsuit, The Houston Post reported:

Judwin Properties conducted cleanup operations at only two of the four complexes and never attempted to remove the substance from the interiors of affected apartments.

Parents Worry About Dancing Into Debt for Son's Senior Prom

DEAR ABBY: My 17-year-old son wants to go to the prom. I am on disability and my husband drives a tow truck. We are barely surviving, but how can we tell our son he can't go to the prom?

The prom tickets are $60 and the tuxedo rental is $100. Then there are the shirt and shoes, a corsage for the girl and breakfast the next morning!

My husband and I have talked it over and we've been cutting corners trying to save the money a little at a time so our son can go. He's a good kid and deserves to go.

Every week it's something else. A yearbook, a class ring, a field trip — we just can't keep up with all of this. Some of the girls are flying to New York to get gowns! And the boys' parents are renting limousines for the big night. Where is it all going to end?

NO MONEY MACHINE

DEAR NO MONEY MACHINE: Nowhere is it written that parents must foot the bill for prom night. The seniors know a year in advance that there will be a senior prom. Some kids line up after-school and weekend jobs to earn their own prom money. Your son may be a good kid who deserves to go to the prom, but when money is tight, some kids earn the money themselves.

DEAR ABBY: "Gladys" claims that her longtime relationship with an older man was OK because although there had been intimate touching, passionate kissing and telephone conversations two or three times a day, they never had sex.

My husband was involved in a similar relationship for three years. She was 23 years younger than he, and they, too, swore there was never any sex — they were just "good friends." Bull!

Even if you believe these two liars are not having sex, the betrayal of the marriage vows is clear. ("Cleave unto each other and forsake all others," the Bible says.)

I didn't believe my husband either, but I chose not to divorce him. After he found out that I was wise to him, he said he no longer sees "that slut," but his credibility has been so badly damaged, I no longer believe a word he says. There are days when I want to throw him out, but then I recall how much I loved him before all this happened.

My husband's girlfriend is also married, but her husband is mercifully in the dark. Sometimes I itch to tell her husband in order to shatter her world as she shattered mine; then I think of all the innocent people who would be hurt, and I back off.

What do you think? Should I expose the affair and get my revenge? My therapist says I should think only of myself and tell.

I can't sign my name, but I feel much better getting this off my chest. Thanks for the friendly ear, Abby.

REVENGE IS SWEET

DEAR REVENGE: Revenge is not sweet when innocent people are hurt in the process. You say you are in therapy. Good! Have you given any thought to marriage counseling for you and your straying spouse? In spite of his occasional lapses of fidelity, since your marriage is still intact, methinks it could use a routine tuneup.

Most teen-agers do not know the facts about drugs, AIDS, and how to prevent unwanted pregnancy. It's all in Abby's updated, expanded booklet, "What Every Teen Should Know." To order, send a business-size, self-addressed envelope, plus check or money order for $3.95 ($4.50 in Canada) to: Dear Abby Teen Booklet, P.O. Box 447, Mount Morris, Ill. 61054.
