Retail Sales Increase

Retail sales increased seven per cent during August, the Bureau of Business Research at UT reported. The impending sales tax which went into effect September 1 was called a major factor in the increase. Namely, buying before the tax went into effect. It was referred to as a "brisk rise" compared to the two per cent decline sales took during July. Furniture and appliance stores led the field with a 23 per cent increase for August, where the usual increase from July to August is one per cent. Apparel stores also increased, primarily with the back-to-school rush for clothes. Steady increases were forecast because of a Texas birth rate considerably higher than the national average. Births in the first six months of this year totaled 121,796 compared with 118,730 during the first half of 1960.

Posing A Problem

Retailers employ great numbers of young people who attend school on a full-time student basis, and work for limited periods in the afternoons, or evenings, on Saturdays, and during vacation periods. This employment provides untrained youngsters with a source of income and, additionally, enables them to learn skills and responsibilities that will prove valuable in later life. But the newly-expanded Federal Wage-Hour law, which includes retail workers for the first time, poses a serious problem. A statement by the American Retail Federation puts it this way: "We are convinced that, if retailers are required to pay the going minimum rate, most of the job opportunities now available for full-time students will disappear. Retailers cannot be expected to pay the full legal minimum to part-time inexperienced workers. But the type of work now done by these students, in most cases, will not be performed by adult workers. It will either be done by mechanization, changes to self-service, or through other economies. In some cases it will not be done at all, with the resulting loss of student jobs as well as service to the public." The law is supposed to provide exceptions in situations such as this. Unless it does, in actual practice, the increased unemployment that many feared would result from an expanded minimum wage law, will become a reality.

Taxes Always Increase

You can say one thing with virtual certainty about taxes—they always increase. Take the social security tax as an example. The combined employer-employee rate, with each paying half, was 2 per cent on a maximum of $3,000 a year in earnings when the plan went into effect in 1937. Now the rate is 6 per cent on $4,800. This isn't all. The tax is scheduled to reach 9.25 per cent in 1969 without increased benefits. If benefits are increased, the tax will have to be boosted still farther, and applied to higher income levels. H. S. (Hank) Brown, president of the Texas AFL-CIO, predicts the Texas sales tax "will retire more legislators than ever before in history." He predicted "Texas will not take this tax."

we'd never seen before of Jones Springs, which is now in Rice Springs Municipal Park.

Back in 1935-36, a young newspaperman from Wichita Falls, Jeff Davis, worked for The Free Press when the newspaper was being published as a semi-weekly. After a year or two here, he went to a larger newspaper.

cotton producing counties in the area. Gathering of the cotton crop has always been one of the busiest seasons of the year. In the era when all cotton was picked by hand, the influx of farm labor in bumper crop years was tremendous, almost doubling the population for two or three months during the fall.

This had its effect on the business economy, and merchants always looked forward to "fall business" as the big factor in a good or bad business year.

Nowadays, cotton harvesting season still brings a big upsurge in business activity, but is more evenly distributed into trade channels that no "boom" results, as it did when hundreds of transient families swarmed into town each Saturday during "cotton picking" season a few decades ago.

Most of today's cotton crop is gathered by crews of Braceros. Because no family units are involved, the Braceros spend very little money with local businesses. Their needs are limited and they seldom buy anything except necessities. There is one exception, however; they are suckers for guns, which they prefer to call "pistolas," and the fancier the better. Every Bracero wants to carry back home a "pistola" when he finishes his work contract.

After the United States entered World War II, one of the first Haskell women to enlist in the WAC's was Mae Kinnison, now Mae Williams of Los Angeles, Calif., and a sister of District Clerk Carrie McAnulty. At the time of her enlistment, Mae was employed as a telephone switchboard operator.

Finishing her basic training in the WAC's, Mae went overseas to England and after a few months was made supervisor over one of the Army's truck telephone exchanges just outside London.

That was during the days of the "blitz" rocket attack on London, and the Army telephone exchange would be "swamped" by high priority official calls.

During one of these periods, Mae donned a head-set and started working at the board, trying to expedite some of the calls.

Taking a call, she had to explain to the officer that it would be delayed a few minutes, since all circuits to the particular HDQ he was calling were busy.

Accustomed to receiving complaints and sometimes a "bawling out" from some officer, she was startled to hear the caller say, "I'm not surprised, it's about like the telephone service in my old hometown of Haskell."

"You mean Haskell, Texas, sir?" the startled operator fired back. "Why that's my hometown, too? Who are you?"

The caller was none other than newspaperman Jeff Davis, with the rank of captain. Needless to say, the telephone call to headquarters was forgotten while the two fired questions at each other until they had just about checked up on everyone left in Haskell.

After the war, Captain Davis returned to the newspaper field, publishing a newspaper at San Augustine for a time, and now owns a weekly newspaper near Houston, friends here understand.

Since agriculture was first introduced into this part of West Texas, Haskell County has been one of the bumper

The county's first "bumper" cotton crop was produced in 1914 and in the fall of that year came the largest number of Negroes ever seen in the county, from East and Central Texas, all recruited to harvest the immense crop. Some resentment developed against the newcomers and near-serious incidents occurred.

Several wooden buildings used by Negroes as dance halls and for restaurants were "dynamited," but luckily without seriously injuring anyone. Officers quickly put a stop to the harassment of the newcomers, and several white youths guilty of the acts were punished.

We recall hearing of one incident which reportedly occurred in 1914 when a half-stick of dynamite with lighted fuse, was thrown into a building where Negroes were having a dance.

The orchestra included a huge bass fiddle, being played by a lanky musician called Poor Boy. When the dynamite sailed through the open window, smoke spewing from the use it landed smack-dab inside the bass fiddle and exploded. A general exodus resulted, and seconds later Poor Boy came to a stop a block down the street, the neck of the bass viol still clutched in his left hand.

The Negro didn't have a scratch on him, but was scared almost to death. Officers who told about the incident placed credence in Poor Boy's story because he positively identified the man he saw toss the dynamite. The man subsequently confessed and went to prison for two years.

the end of the '20s did professionals gain "respectability", and if it hadn't been for four men—Joe E. Carr, George Halas, Tim Mara and Harold (Red) Grange, they might have had a longer wait.

Halas—end, captain, coach, and owner of the Chicago Bears relentlessly led his Monsters of the Midway to championship after championship, electrifying the Midwest. Carr built a powerful National Football League. Mara, who'd never seen a football game before 1925, bought the New York City franchise that year for $250,000, bringing pro-ball to the big city. And Grange . . . housewives who didn't know a gridiron from a golf course, knew the life history of Red Grange! The "Galloping Ghost" (another of Rice's imaginative handles), started his football career on the seventh freshman team at Illinois — was a regular within a week!

All-American halfback in 1923, '24 and '25, Grange joined the Chicago Bears in 1925. And when the Bears met the Giants that year, 60,000 tickets had been sold in advance; up until that time, advance sales rarely reached the 1,000 mark!

Football, as it was played in the early 1800's was a rough and crippling contest, with 15 men on each team. The game was brought to America by early settlers in the 17th century and was described by one historian as "unfriendly to clothes and safety."

Forward Pass In Football Scored at Rugby In 1823

Football" for his contribution to the game. Camp also introduced the 10 yards in 4 downs rule.

father of American football. Under his leadership, football became a safer, more exciting game. He introduced the forward pass in 1906 and the 10-yards-in-four-downs rule.

The sport began to regain prestige, and when the Yale Bowl was opened in 1914, the imagination of the public was completely recaptured. The 25-acre concrete amphitheatre with its 80,000 capacity is still one of the centers of the football world.

At the beginning of each season, ground crews prime its Merion luegrass turf for the beating it will take when football's giants go through their paces on the historic field. Like Yankee Stadium, other football fields, baseball diamonds and golf courses, Yale's gridiron wears a velvety carpet of Merion, also popular for home lawns.

Among the football heroes cheered in the days when the mammoth stadia first rose in America was James Francis (Jim) Thorpe, called the greatest athlete of the 20th century.

In 1912, the Sac and Fox Indian from Carlisle (Pa.) University scored 25 touchdowns and 198 points—in 1911 and '12 he was halfback on Walter Camp's All-America teams.

Jim Thorpe played for Carlisle under another gridiron great, "Pop" Warner. Warner, a master tactician, pulled a stunt in 1912 that still has Carlisle alumni chuckling. Noting that the leather elbow patches on his boys' jerseys were football shaped, Warner had them sewn on the jersey fronts. Confusion reigned during every game as the opposition tried to find the actual ball carrier! By the following season, Pop's little trick had been declared illegal!

The great sports writer, Grantland Rice, inspired by a Rudolph Valentino movie he'd seen, pinned an unusual nickname on Notre Dame's 1924 backfield. Today, the names Miller, Crowley, Layden and Stuhldreher are remembered by few—but every public school youngster has heard of The Four Horsemen of Notre Dame.

Small in frame as football players go today (Miller, the heaviest, weighed 170), The Horsemen and the Seven Mules, their line, made up the greatest team. Knute Rockne ever coached, according to many of the game's experts.

Yet Rockne himself was the dominant football figure of his day. Notre Dame's celebrated Norwegian took Camp's forward pass, much-discussed and little-used by coaches of the day, and practically built his offense around it, quickly converting the rest of football's strategists.

While the colleges were packing 'em in at 50,000 a game, pro football was having its growing pains. Not until

J. M. Eastland, a Tyler, Texas proprietor and operator of a chain of five and ten-cent stores in Texas and Oklahoma, pleaded guilty to one count of willful attempted evasion of his and his wife's income tax for the year 1956.

The federal grand jury indicted Eastland in May, following his arrest for income tax return for attempted evasion of income taxes for the years 1955, 1956, and 1957. For 1955 Eastland paid taxes amounting to $7,746.93. The indictment charged (to which he pleaded guilty) that he owed $22,894.65 as income taxes for that year. Here's modern basic transportation in a totally new line of cars with all the solid, time-tested Chevrolet virtues—plus some surprises you've never seen on any car before. A full line of saucy new-size models. Thrifty? Choice of a frugal 4- or spunky 6-cylinder engine (in most models). Roomy? Sedans seat six solid citizens. Price? A real pleasant surprise!

This plucky new Chevy II comes about as close as a car can to perpetual motion. ■ All nine models (station wagons, a hardtop, even a convertible will soon be available in the lineup) are designed to save you money and service. Major front-end sections, including fenders, bolt on for easy replacement in case of damage. The heater and defroster are yours as standard equipment. Tough—but ever-so-gentle—Mono-Plate rear springs eliminate the friction of old-fashioned multi-leaf springs. ■ And, maneuverable and sensibly sized as this Chevy II is, it gives you the kind of room that'll make many a "big" car wonder how it's done.

$13,000 FM Road Project Slated In County

The Texas Highway Commission at Austin has approved the expenditure of $13,000 for construction of new Farm-to-Market road mileage in Haskell County as part of the 1961 FM Road Program. District Highway Engineer J. C. Roberts of Abilene, announced. The District Engineer said 0.6 miles in this county will be involved. The work will be under the supervision of W. F. Nixon, resident engineer at Anson. The project will be a Farm-to-Market road extending from the end of proposed FM Road at the Knox County line, south to FM Road 2229 two miles East of O'Brien, a distance of approximately 0.6 mile, at an estimated cost of $13,000. The work authorized for this county is part of the $15 million FM Road Construction Program which will involve 133 counties throughout the state. Some 600 miles of new farm roads will be built under the program. Unlike previous farm road construction programs, this one is for one year instead of two years. The Highway Commission said the reduced one-year program is the result of Gov. Price Daniel's recent veto of a $15 million farm road appropriation which would have come to the Highway Department next year.

Area's Phantom Lion Re-Seen by Mexican Farmer

The far-ranging panther of Mexican Lion seen in the Haskell area last summer and fall has re-appeared in the area east of town. Lupe Gonzales, Latin farm worker employed by Paul Fischer of the Paint Creek community, saw the big lion last Thursday. Fischer had sent Gonzales to the Alton Peiser place in the Irby community near the Haskell-Throckmorton County line to cut some hay. While making his rounds in the field, Gonzales saw the big cat jump out of a dense growth of feed a short distance away. On his next round as he passed the same spot, he saw the lion standing some 30 or 40 feet away, watching him intently. Gonzales described the animal as standing about 30 inches high, with a long tail. He told Fischer the beast stood there watching until Gonzales and his machine passed, but was gone when he made another round. The frightened Latin said the lion "just stood there with his teeth bared, like he was grinning at me," Fischer related. Fischer also said that J. R.

Almost 26 per cent of all fatal home accidents occur in the bedroom, according to F. C. Hipp, Lone Star Gas Company manager. Happy Days Are Here Again!
And YOU are the Cause of it!
The Haskell Lions are sponsoring the "Good Fellow Funds" for Christmas.

We offered to sell dough-nuts last week and you bought 6,000 while waiting for the traffic lights to turn green. There is plenty of evidence you were wanting to donate. Furthering this good work the Lions are sponsoring a Pan Cake supper for the School Homecoming. In this you may know that your cash will have a double buying value. You will find good bargains in meeting and eating pan-cakes with your old time friends... and you have the satisfaction of knowing that all profits remain in the "GOOD FELLOWS" treasury to help you spread joy again at Christmas time. In deciding your donations to this fund, you will be given one pan-cake ticket for each 50c contributed. You can have a dozen children eat with you if you like, and there just ain't no place where you buy more joy for $6.00 than by helping build up the Good Fellow Fund. For your convenience, if some Lion has not been knocking on your door, you should call Lion Secretary, Bill Lawson, Phone 864-2353 and tell him what you want to do about it. He will deliver any number of tickets you like.

Early Stalk Destruction Valuable In Controlling Boll Weevil

By F. W. MARTIN, County Agent
(Third in A Series)

Early stalk destruction and farm cleanup are valuable aids for farmers to use in controlling the pink bollworm and the boll weevil. It has been proven many times that proper early fall stalk destruction will reduce both the pink bollworm and the boll weevil survival the following winter. Early stalk destruction and farm cleanup should be practiced in most areas where these insects occur.

Pink bollworms have not been a serious problem in cotton this year. However, it has been noted that in certain sections of the state, the population of pink bollworms has increased. In many areas of the state, boll weevils have been a serious problem and we can expect a large number of these insects to be present in cotton during the late fall. Destruction of stalks not only lowers the pink bollworm population, but destroys the food supply of the boll weevil and reduces the number which may survive the winter.

Insects are attracted in large numbers to late irrigated fields of cotton; therefore, it is important to encourage farmers to stop late irrigation to prevent a late season buildup of insects. In most cases, it is expensive to produce a late crop because of the large buildup of pink bollworms, boll weevils and other insects. Also, there is a good chance that a large population of pink bollworms, boll weevils will go into hibernation and survive the winter as a result of this late cotton.

In areas of the state where stalk destruction is recommended, it is one of the most economical and effective methods of controlling the pink bollworm and reducing boll weevil populations. The use of stalk shredders is highly recommended since these machines kill many of the pink bollworms left in the field after harvest. It is advisable to plow under the shredded residue to a depth of 8 inches within five days after cutting. Stripped harvesting aids greatly in reducing the number of pink bollworms. A large amount of the infested material is stripped from the stalk and carried to the gin where weevils are destroyed during the ginning operation.

In many areas of the state, the deadline dates for stalk destruction are fast approaching. It is essential to start publicity now on the importance of early stalk destruction to suppress population of the pink bollworm and boll weevils.

O'Brien Baptist Church Cited For Achievement

An evangelistic program which resulted in 31 baptisms helped the First Baptist Church of O'Brien earn the district award in the 1961 Texas Baptist Church Achievement Program.

The 488-member church, located between Rochester and Snook City in District 17 of the Baptist General Convention of Texas, sponsored 73 projects during the year.

Members undergirded their soul-winning program with a community-wide religious census, a mission center, Gospel tracts to barbers and market New Testaments for motels and hospitals in nearby towns. They sponsored vacation Bible Schools for Anglo, Negro and Latin American children of the area.

As the representative of District 17, the O'Brien Church will be honored with its pastor during the annual Baptist General Convention of Texas meeting in Austin Nov. 7-9. A total of 669 churches across the state entered the program this year.

Among other projects, the O'Brien church increased all special offerings by 13 per cent and raised to 25 per cent its gifts to the Southern-Baptist Cooperative Program of support for world missions.

It also promoted a community-wide clean-up, paint-up campaign and better farming and management. In addition, it helped institute a movement for new industry in the community.

Tennessee Businessman Announces Plans to Attend 1961 Homecoming

FRED E. (FROGGY) WANKAN

ATHENS, TENN. — Fred E. ("Froggy") Wankan, prominent Athens businessman, announced today that he expects to attend the Haskell Homecoming set for the 6th and 7th of October, 1961.

Fred stated that he hoped to meet a lot of his old school friends and classmates of 52 years ago.

Fred, after leaving Haskell in 1909, moved to Dexter, Cooke County, Texas.

He received his law degree from Cumberland University of Lebanon, Tenn., and practiced law at Gainesville, Texas for a number of years during which time he served as county attorney for Cooke County.

At 21 he published two Texas newspapers, The Princeton News of Princeton, Texas, and the Plano Star-Council of Plano, Texas, both papers being in Collin County, Texas.

Mr. Wankan, after resigning as county attorney in the fall of 1924 was engaged on the lecture platform for a number of years, after which he returned to the newspaper field, publishing daily papers in Mississippi and founded the Daily Post Athenian of Athens, Tenn., in 1931.

In 1935, Mr. Wankan took up photography as a hobby and in 1942 was appointed by Governor Prentice Cooper as State Photographer of Tennessee, also Educational Supervisor of the Tennessee Department of Conservation. In 1946, Mr. Wankan resigned his post with the Department of Conservation to establish the Cher-O-Kee Photo-finishers in his home town of Athens, Tenn.

From a small beginning this company has grown to be a multi-million-dollar business and the largest photofinisher of amateur film, black and white, Kodachrome and Kodachrome in the Southeastern United States and recently affiliated with Crown of Washington, D. C., as a nationwide photofinishing concern doing upward to 20-million dollars in annual sales.

Mr. Wankan is the nephew Mrs. Haynes Hamblen, Sr., of Haskell and the cousin of Leon Pearsy. He is the father of a son, Fred Wankan, Jr., who is associated with him in business and a daughter, Marise Davitt, of Memphis, Tenn.

Fred was known as "Froggy" in his high school days in Haskell. He says he is looking forward to a good time at the Homecoming, which will be the first time he has seen any of them in 52 years. If Fred had remained in Haskell he would have graduated with the Class of 1911.

This Falcon four-door sedan highlights the compact car's new styling for 1962. While still "distinctively Falcon" the top-selling Ford compact features a new grille, new front fenders and hood and larger taillights, but still retains the inside-outside dimensions of its predecessors. On the interior, the instrument cluster has been revamped and there are new fabrics, styles and colors for all models. The new Falcon line, to be introduced by Ford dealers on September 29, will feature a total of 13 models.

Expressions From Ex-Students Reveal Strong Homecoming Ties

As final plans for the 1961 Ex-Students Homecoming are being completed, the following expressions from Exes attending the last celebration, in 1959, give an indication of what the Homecoming means to those who have been away from Haskell for a few years.

From C. B. Long, Gordon, Texas: Ever since the Homecoming on Sept. 26, I have intended to write how much I enjoyed visiting with everyone that day. I think it was the best Homecoming, and I believe that the credit for a BIG JOB well done, must go principally to officers of the Ex-Students Association.

From Joyce Nell Hambleton Wood, Lubbock: I for one want to thank the officers of the Ex-Students Association for the wonderful time I had at the Homecoming. It was so nice to renew old friendships. I know it must have taken lots of time and preparation and I appreciate it so much. If I can ever help in any way on the next one, let me know.

From Mrs. H. R. (Miss Connie) Jones, Wichita Falls: Billy joins me in congratulations and expressions of appreciation for the delightful time in the great gathering of friends, old classmates and pupils of happy days of yore. It was marvelous being in our hometown again with our friends.

From Margaret Hill, Tyler: I trust you have all recovered from your strenuous labors in behalf of the Homecoming event. You and your committees are to be commended. I know it was not an easy task, but hope you feel repaid by the very great success you achieved. It was great fun and we all enjoyed every minute of it. The cordial welcome and hospitality of you Haskell people is unequalled anywhere.

From Judge: "You've broken every traffic law in the book! When you got out of jail yesterday, I told you to sell your car. What's the charge this time?" Defendant: "Jaywalking."

The 1962 Ford Galaxie line features a crisp, fresh approach to styling. Shown here is the Galaxie 500 Sunliner convertible, one of twelve in the Galaxie line. While the new Galaxie is slightly shorter and broader than the 1961 model, the large passenger compartment is the same. Large door openings, coupled with Ford's convenient two-position door opening and leaving the Galaxie an easy and natural movement. The Sunliner is anchored at each roof bow to prevent "ballooning" when underway. Lined top is stowed under a color-keyed boot.

'Refreshers' Can Add to Looks of Tired Felt Hats

If you can't afford a new fall hat, give the old one a new look with careful brushing and cleaning, suggests Barbara McAnelly, County Home Demonstration Agent.

Start by careful brushing. This may show up spots and stains that need special treatment.

Try using the sandpaper method first. With a piece of No. 0 sandpaper, begin at center top of crown and gently sand in the same direction around the crown, side crown and the brim.

If this fails, use naphtha or other cleaning fluid. Dip a small brush, such as nail brush, in the cleaning fluid, shake out excess liquid and brush hat until the soiled spots disappear. Remember to work outdoors when using cleaning fluids.

White or light colored felt hats may need special treatment. Saturate corn meal with naphtha or other cleaning fluid. Rub the mixture into the felt with a clean stiff brush. When fluid has evaporated, brush out the corn meal and air the hat before storing.

Survivors of clergymen who die between Sept. 12, 1960, and April 15, 1962, may elect social security coverage for the clergyman if he had neglected to do so.

Will Attend Meet Of Foursquare Churches

Rev. Roy Herricks, pastor of Haskell Foursquare Church, 200 S. Ave. F, plans to attend the 20th annual four-day convention of the South central district Foursquare churches, slated to open Monday, Oct. 9, in First Foursquare Church, Dallas.

According to the local minister, Rev. J. Craig Bigg, district supervisor of Foursquare churches in Arkansas, New Mexico, Oklahoma and Texas, has programmed the convention to highlight the theme of "Forward Foursquare" in the Sunday School, youth, missionary, United Foursquare Women and Council of Foursquare Men services.

Dr. Howard P. Courtney, Los Angeles, general supervisor of the denomination's more than 750 churches in the United States and Canada, is to be keynote speaker, sharing the pulpit during the convocation with Dr. Charles R. Gaines, who preceeded Mr. Bigg as district supervisor, and Rev. and Mrs. Lloyd Dickerson, and Rev. Velma Dickerson, missionaries on furlough from Brazil. Dr. Courtney will also officiate the Sunday prior to the parley in the dedication of recently completed new edifices for the two Dallas churches, says Mr. Herricks.

Advertising, A Force for Democracy

The following essay on advertising was first prize winner in a contest sponsored by the Advertising Federation of America recently. It was written by Ann Lander, 17-year-old Thomas Jefferson High School student from Dallas, Texas. The full text of the essay follows:

Advertising is the bulwark on which many of our freedoms are built. Some of these freedoms are as small as the choice of a tube of tooth paste, and some are as large as the exploration of outer space—but, large or small, they are the open gates through which we can constantly expand the scope of our lives.

Advertising makes possible the marketing of goods and services, encourages competition among businesses, and assures the people of free countries a choice between competing products.

Advertising gives us freedom of enjoyment, because the makers of competing products must price their goods as low as possible—and when the cost of necessities is held to a minimum, people have money left for recreation and entertainment.

Advertising gives workers freedom from much exhausting physical labor—and a greater choice of ways to earn a living. Advertising, by increasing the demand for products, makes mass-production methods possible, necessitates the use of efficient machines to carry tremendous weights, and creates a labor market in which intelligent "man hours" are more vital than "horse power."

Advertising gives job-holders security by sustaining a demand for products and giving financial stability to the company which makes them.

Most important of all, advertising gives us freedom of knowledge. Every public means of communication in the United States is supported by the advertising it sells.

Without the several thousand trade publications which cover individual segments of our industrial fields, manufacturers would not know of new machinery and techniques available, retailers might never learn of new products available for their stores, and doctors would have to leave their patients and return to medical school to keep abreast of modern medical research.

Without radio and television we would be unable to hear the voices of our national leaders. During the political campaign, the men for whom we vote can become almost as familiar to us as our families, and we choose our candidates confidently, because we know them—thanks to advertising media.

Without newspapers and magazines we would have no knowledge of important events which take place half-a-block or half-a-continent from our homes. Newspapers, often sold for less than the cost of the paper and ink, can give us facts from all over the world in a matter of hours. Magazines, published at a more leisurely rate, but still supported by their advertising pages, can utilize their staffs and freelance writers to find the long-range trends, or to explore subjects which will interest and teach their readers.

Advertising has been strongly criticized, and sometimes weakly defended. Perhaps the greatest commentary on advertising as a force for democracy is that there is no advertising industry behind the Iron Curtain.

Dictators have much to hide—and nothing to advertise.

Enjoying Stay At Boys Ranch, Lad Writes

A Haskell boy at Cal Farley's Boys Ranch, Bobby Tatum, is enjoying his stay, going to school, and doing fine, he tells County Judge Jim Alvis in a recent letter.

The boy and the county official have been close friends over a period of several years. His letter to Judge Alvis is reprinted below:

"Dear Jim: I've been having a fine time out here. I wish you would come to see me next time you get a chance. My big brother came to see me Sunday. We had a fine time, too. I met some people Sunday that are going to send me some parakeets. They also gave me two dollars. I also thank you for the money you sent me. I'm still riding horses, too.

"I started to school last week. I've been doing pretty good, too. I hope you aren't having too much trouble back home. I've been getting a lot of letters from people, too. Well, bye for now. Love, Bobby."

"P. S. Write soon." Mail to Bobby should be addressed to Boy's Ranch, Texas.

Cotton Planting Seed Supplies May Be Short

Due to recent weather conditions, many Texas farmers have had stored supplies of cotton seed damaged while others have been unable to harvest good quality seed from this year's crop. As a result, seed for next year's planting will very likely be in short supply, points out Fred Elliott, extension cotton specialist.

Some growers do have a supply of good quality seed which they carried over and which were harvested under favorable weather conditions. Also, some of the stored supplies that have been damaged may still contain some salvageable seed. These supplies will help take up some of the shortage.

Since there will be a shortage, however, people who do have stored seed should take every precaution to make sure these supplies are not damaged. O. F. Garner, extension entomologist, says the stored supplies should be checked for insect infestation and the storage bins and surrounding area should be kept clean. If a stored supply has been partially damaged, the seed should be removed from the bin and separated. Before the undamaged seed is returned to storage, the bin should be thoroughly cleaned and dried.

After the bin and area have been thoroughly cleaned, they should be sprayed with either methoxychlor, TDE or premiar grade malathion. A 2 1/2 percent formulation of one of these insecticides should be used at the rate of about two gallons per 100 square feet of surface area, says Garner. Methoxychlor and TDE are also available as wettable powders and emulsion concentrates.

The cottonseed may be treated with a 20 percent toxaphene, 5 percent DDT or 5 percent malathion dust. The dust material should be mixed thoroughly with the seed at the rate of 2 ounces per bushel. This treatment should give satisfactory control against stored-grain pests for at least one storage season. Garner cautions that seed so treated should not be crushed or used for feed under any circumstances.
