A—It probably refers to an employer who does not carry worker's compensation insurance—a practice known as "going bare." Texas employers who do not carry such insurance must file notice with the Texas Workers' Compensation Commission by May 15.

Parker elected ISD trustee; Thornton, Smith on council

Geraldine Parker unseated two-term incumbent Mike Jordan in Saturday's race for Snyder Public Schools board of trustees in Place 2 while J.D. Smith joined incumbent Mike Thornton as at-large members of Snyder City Council.

Parker, Adult Basic Education teacher/supervisor at Western Texas College, received 312 votes of the 463 votes cast in the only contested Snyder ISD trustee race. Mrs. Parker is a former public schools teacher and administrator. Jordan, a co-owner of J&J Machine who had served six years on the board, including two as president, received 117 votes. A third candidate, Jan McCathern, received 34 votes. Mrs. McCathern is assistant professor of communications at WTC.

Place 3 incumbent Terry Martin was unopposed. Also running unopposed and re-elected in Saturday's elections were Snyder Mayor Troy Williamson and Place 2 City Councilman Jack Denman.

Smith and Thornton received the most votes in a three-way race for two at-large seats on the Snyder City Council. Thornton, dean of continuing education at WTC, received 366 votes while Smith, minister of Christian Fellowship Church, received 189 votes.

The third candidate, Jane Neeley, received 150 votes. Mrs. Neeley is office manager for Reef Chemical Co.

The canvassing of votes in both city and school board elections will take place in meetings today. The school board is scheduled to meet at 6 p.m. and the city council will meet at 6:30 p.m.

Hermleigh voters choose 4 trustees

Julius Roemisch and Jimmy Huggins joined incumbent Tony Lambaren as winning seats on the Hermleigh Independent School District board of trustees, according to results from Saturday's election.

Lambaren, a heavy equipment operator for E.D. Walton Construction, received 58 votes to return for a second term on the board. Roemisch, an area farmer who had spent nine years on the board ending in 1981, topped the vote count with 62.

Huggins, also a farmer, took the final at-large seat with 50 votes.

Making unsuccessful bids for a seat on the board were incumbent Andres Rodriguez, a warehouse supervisor, and Jesse Rios, an employee with Mobil Oil Co. Both received 37 votes.

Also elected to the Hermleigh ISD board was Jimmy Frank Roemisch Jr., who was running uncontested for an unexpired term.

Cumbie, Wall on Ira board

Gwen Cumbie and incumbent Sidney D. Wall were elected to three-year terms on the Ira Public Schools board of trustees Saturday.

Cumbie, a housewife, defeated incumbent Bob Barbee, 37 votes to 69 for Place 4 on the board. Barbee, maintenance supervisor with Chevron, was seeking his second term.

Wall, a farmer who was also seeking a second term, will be returned to Place 5 after defeating Doug White by a narrow 89-to-78 vote margin. White is a maintenance planner with Mobil Oil Co.

Commissioners...

No action is taken on Noah Project; 3 employees hired

Scurry County commissioners took no immediate action on a request from Noah Project but did approve the signing of a grant application for the agency during their weekly meeting this morning.

The court also approved the hiring of three individuals to help with the parks and baseball fields and made one budget transfer. In other business, commissioners agreed to enter into agreement with the state concerning the designation of a half-dozen bridges, decided to advertise for bids for three used mower tractors and discussed rental fees for county community centers.

Noah Project representatives have indicated the need for a counseling facility, due to a lack of office space at the project, which is housed in the old county jail building. Cost of the counseling space had been estimated at $10,000.

After touring the facility last week, commissioners decided this morning to take no action, but to study the possibility of purchasing a mobile home or portable building, expected to cost under $5,000.

The court did agree to sign a Criminal Justice Grant application presented by Noah Project officials.

Carl Shouse of the Texas Highway Department recommended six bridges in the county be load-zoned at 5,000 pounds. The state will furnish appropriate signs. Commissioners voted to enter into such an agreement with the state.

The court also gave permission to H.V. Walker, county maintenance supervisor, to hire two temporary employees at $6 an hour to help in Towle Park, and another employee at $5 an hour for 16 hours a week to water baseball parks. Funds for the hiring had been budgeted.

Commissioners noted that hiring temporary help to replace full-time employees that have left county employment is saving see COUNTY, page 8.

President back in White House

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Bush returned to the White House today after doctors agreed they could stabilize his heartbeat with medication rather than an electric shock procedure. "It's great to be back," Bush told cheering aides in the Rose Garden.

The president's heartbeat had not returned to normal at his release from Bethesda Naval Hospital, but his physician, Dr. Burton Lee, said it did return to normal at mid-morning as monitored in the Oval Office.

"He is in good spirits and anxious to get back to work," said spokesman Marlin Fitzwater. To punctuate Bush's resolve, Fitzwater said the president would meet as scheduled later in the day with a former Soviet official.

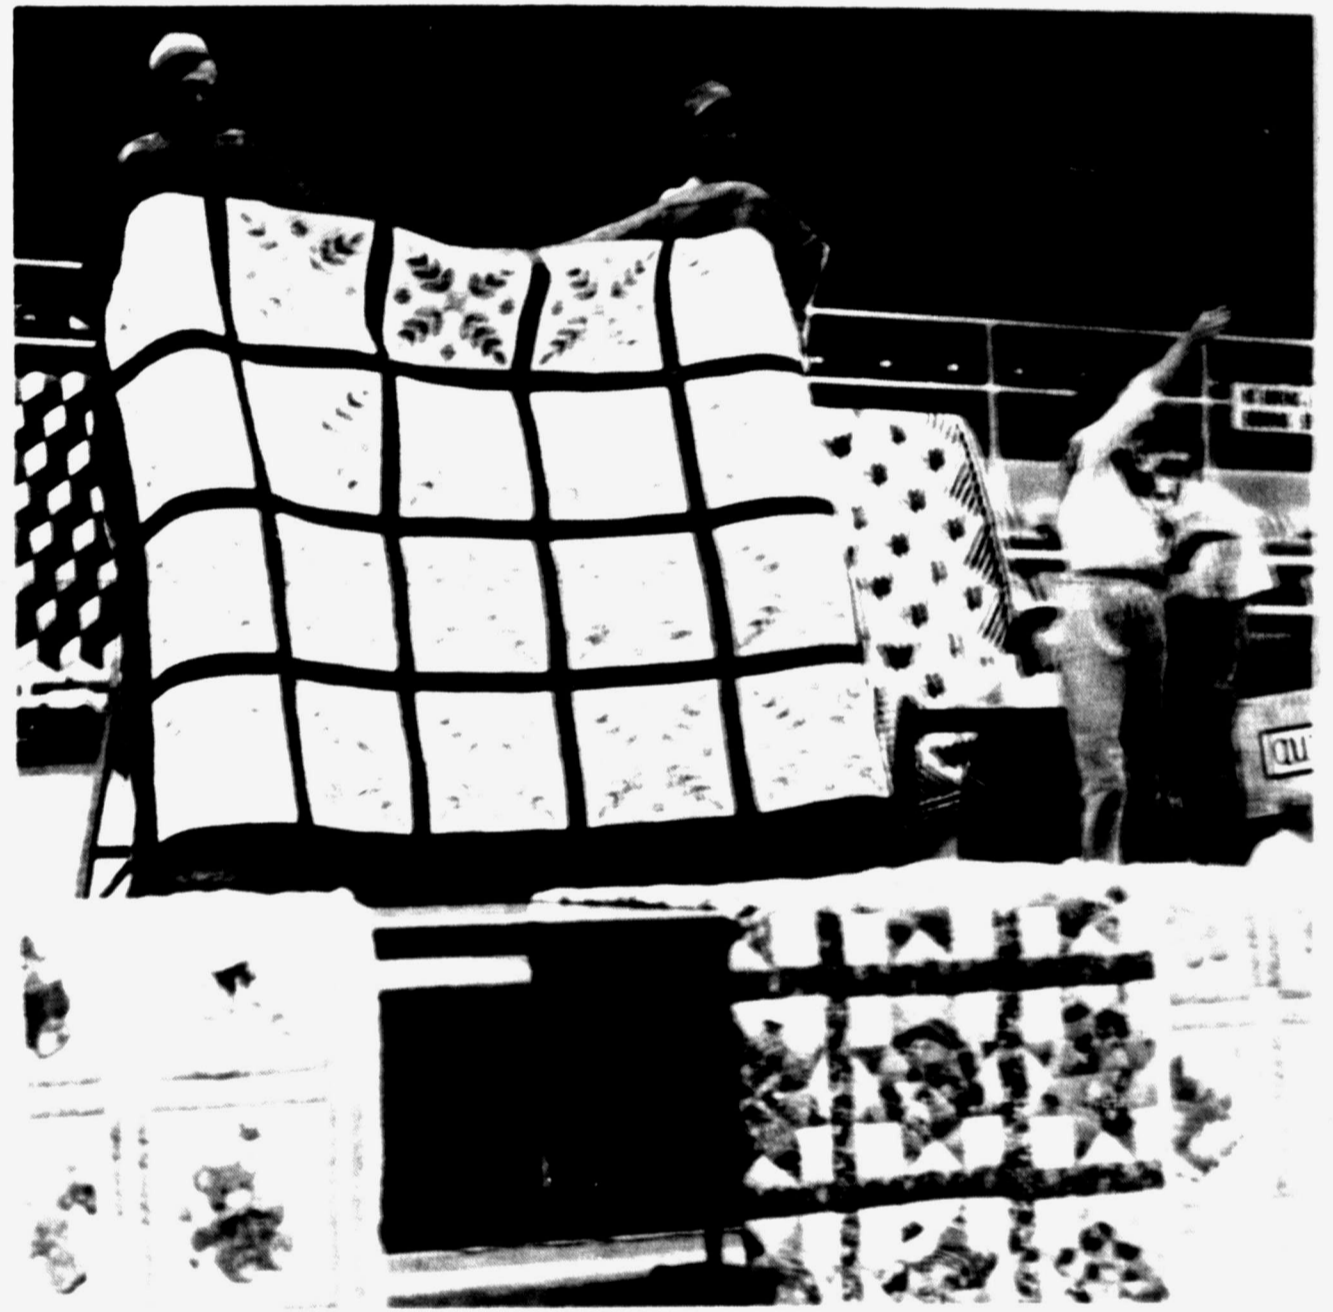

Bush said he was not concerned about his condition and did not anticipate changes in his hectic lifestyle or working pace—and his doctors agreed. "It's not a major league rhythm disturbance," said Dr. Bruce Lloyd, chief of cardiology at Bethesda Naval. He expressed no anxiety about the president resuming his normal work schedule.

Bush, 66, suffered the irregular heartbeat over the weekend while jogging at Camp David and was evacuated to Bethesda Naval where the condition persisted despite the prescription of the drugs digoxin and procainamide. Lloyd said there had been no side effects to the medication.

Bush was diagnosed as suffering from atrial fibrillation, an irregular heart rhythm suffered by an estimated 1.5 million to 2 million Americans.

Fitzwater said Bush's heartbeat had returned to normal at 10:45 p.m. Sunday night but that irregularities returned at 5:30 a.m. today. Nonetheless, doctors determined early in the morning that Bush would not need to undergo an electric shock treatment today. Bush had been prepared to briefly relinquish the powers of his office to Vice President Dan Quayle if a shock had been administered.

"It was deemed unnecessary to carry out the electrical procedure, since the president's response to medication had been encouraging," Fitzwater said.

MAY DAY AUCTION — The Scurry County Citizens Center's May Day celebration was concluded with a barbecue and auction Saturday at Scurry County Coliseum. The event is the major fundraiser for the center. SDN Staff Photo.

Bids, drug policy key topics as Snyder City Council meets

Bid considerations on items ranging from the city's annual audit to a street sweeper discussion of a parking ordinance along 37th Street and a drug-free work place policy are among the items facing members of Snyder City Council as they meet at 6:30 p.m. today at City Hall.

Also on the agenda are presentations from Ricky Fritz on Scurry Community Services and Marshall Lyons in the efforts to develop a countywide economic development plan. In addition, the election returns from Saturday's council elections will be canvassed.

Topping this evening's agenda are bids on six items. The council will consider bids on the city's annual audit from Davis, Kinard & Co., P.C., Mason, Warner & Co., P.C. and Robison, Green & Co. Other bid items to be considered include a copier for city hall, a six-month supply of hydrated lime, liquid alum, a year's supply of chlorine and a street sweeper.

Under new business, the council will canvass election returns from Saturday's election in which a new member was elected to the council and the council will consider a drug-free work place policy for city employees.

An ordinance prohibiting parking along a portion of 37th Street will be viewed. The ordinance, pending council approval and a second reading, would prohibit parking along 37th Street from College Ave. to El Paso Ave. On Friday, the Texas Highway Department announced that the widening construction along the street would begin today and is see CITY, page 8.

Workshop slated today for local school board

Snyder Public Schools board of trustees will canvass votes and certify election results from Saturday's election today, before going into a workshop session.

The board is scheduled to meet at 6 p.m. During the workshop session, Business Manager Lee McNair is expected to give the board more insight on how the new state school finance law will affect the local district. Superintendent Dalton Moseley will also present figures concerning mineral valuations.

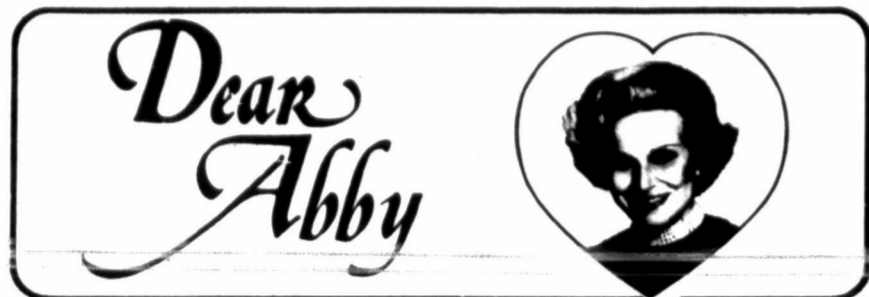

Other workshop discussion will include a second report from Athletic Director David Baugh concerning morning athletic periods of seventh and ninth graders.

The board will also review campus performance objectives, hear a report on the Hobbs Alternative School budget, and listen to a proposal from the District Educational Improvement Council which requests discontinuing the fall open house at the schools.

Moseley will also review vacant vacancies in the district.

During its regular meeting scheduled this Thursday, the board will swear in new Place 2 Trustee Geraldine Parker and incumbent Place 3 Trustee Terry Martin, and board officers will be elected.

Limp Handshake Shouldn't Be a Rigid Test of Character

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1991 Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: My father taught my brother at a very early age that on being introduced to someone, he should always look that person straight in the eye and deliver a firm handshake. "It's a sign of good character and sincerity," Dad used to say.

Is that right, Abby? I hope not, because our son-in-law has one of those "dead fish" handshakes, and he rarely looks a person straight in the eye.

RICHMOND, VA.

DEAR RICHMOND: A firm handshake and the practice of looking a person straight in the eye make a good first impression, but they're not a reliable index of one's character or sincerity. There are people who can deliver a firm handshake and look you straight in the eye while they lie through their teeth.

Character and sincerity are revealed only by performance.

Service. It is listed in your telephone directory. You can expect to be penalized for your failure to file, but if you were to come forward voluntarily, you would receive more generous treatment than if the IRS "caught" you. The longer you wait, the more severe the penalty, so call the IRS and PDQ.

DEAR READERS: A timely reminder: Next Sunday is Mother's Day, and here I am again with a suggestion that could be the most appreciated Mother's Day gift your mother has ever received. And the price is right.

It makes no difference if you are 8 years old or 65; if you are lucky enough to have a mother, sit down and write her a letter. It doesn't have to be a literary masterpiece — just a few sentences telling her how much she means to you, and why. If you are in a sentimental mood, go ahead and verbalize some thoughts you've felt, but never expressed before. And be sure to date it, because long after the nightgowns, purses and hankies are worn and discarded, I'll bet your letter will be tucked away for safekeeping with other cards and letters your mother just couldn't bring herself to throw away.

How do I know? My letters were.

DEAR ABBY: I have never written to you before, but I really need your advice now. I can't give you my address because I feel like a fugitive. Here goes:

My husband and I have never paid taxes. We are in our early 30s and have been working since we were 20. When we were very young, we were ignorant about how to pay taxes and file and such. Then we just got careless and never filed. Now we are afraid to admit that we never filed because we fear the consequences. We are born-again Christians and don't feel right hiding from the law. We want to make things right, Abby. Please help us. Where do we begin? ANONYMOUS IN THE USA

Not enough known about vegetables

WASHINGTON (AP) — Americans don't eat enough vegetables and erroneously think fresh vegetables are more nutritious than the frozen variety, according to a survey commissioned by the Frozen Vegetable Council.

The Gallup Organization poll of 1,000 people age 18 and over found that 65 percent eat two or fewer servings of vegetables a day. The Agriculture Department and the National Institutes of Health recommend three to five servings a day.

The survey also revealed that 76 percent believe that fresh store-bought green beans have more vitamin C than frozen green beans.

The council said a recent

University of Illinois at Champaign-Urbana study showed that fresh green beans retained 36 percent of their vitamin C after three days in the display case and three days in the refrigerator — versus 77 percent for frozen green beans in the same time span.

The council, announcing the results as the spring crop of fresh produce began filling supermarket shelves, attributed the higher vitamin content to freezing methods that preserve nutrients.

Peace is urged

JERUSALEM (AP) — Violinist Sir Yehudi Menuhin urged members of Israel's parliament to make peace with Palestinians seeking a homeland of their own. Menuhin, a 75-year-old British Jew, appeared before the Knesset to accept the 1991 Wolf Foundation Prize for Arts.

Menuhin received a $100,000 grant with the award, which said he had brought nations together "through musical education, enlightening peoples and elevating cultural levels throughout the world."

Famous gambling den for sale or wager

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — It's snake eyes for the Four Deuces.

The Jacksboro Highway gambling den, a symbol of the late and legendary Fort Worth gambler W.C. "Pappy" Kirkwood, is up for sale. Or if a buyer prefers, owner Pat Kirkwood will flip for it, double or nothing.

No kidding. "If anyone's interested, I'll cut the cards, shoot dice or flip a coin," says Kirkwood, 62, son of the late and legendary Fort Worth gambler W.C. "Pappy" Kirkwood.

As a writer once said, Pat himself is a "younger, taller, wilder version of Pappy: deep-voiced, bearded, partial to automatic pistols, and when he laughs he breaks in to a teeth-gritting, devilish howl."

A bulls-eye, that. "Win or lose," grins the younger Kirkwood, "it's an opportunity for someone to become a legend in his own mind." Kirkwood, obviously a chip off the old gambling block, offered the property for sale Saturday in a classified ad in the Fort Worth Star-Telegram.

Headlined "Double or Nothing," it said:

"Okay, high rollers, let's agree on a price and flip double or nothing for the Four Deuces at 2222 Jacksboro Highway. 3 historical acres. Flexible for fast deal! Call Pat Kirkwood..."

The property includes a Spanish Colonial-style home and an apartment complex built on a hillside overlooking U.S. 199, a wondrously wicked strip of neon known as Thunder Road.

Both buildings housed gambling operations at different times, but haven't seen a game for years. The property was tied up in estate proceedings since his father's death, but those are cleared now, Kirkwood said, and he wants to sell.

Although the white stone, castle-like main house is a bit long in the tooth, Kirkwood says the three-acre site is worth between $200,000 and $300,000.

During its champagne days in the '40s and '50s, the Four Deuces might see that much money change hands in a single night. And Kirkwood says it often did.

"Everybody in this part of the world knew the Four Deuces was a gambling joint. Including the cops."

Thanks to Pappy Kirkwood's largesse with hams, turkeys, whiskey and steaks, law enforcement officers rarely harassed the Four Deuces, Kirkwood laughs.

"The raids were mostly symbolic," he says.

Then again, the action at 2222 Jacksboro Highway was easily a cut above that of most illegal gambling dens, and not just because of the high stakes.

"The key was Pop's integrity," explains Kirkwood, a Granbury real estate analyst. "Everyone trusted him and everyone liked him. You couldn't come in the place if you were on a salary. It was Pappy's Law: 'Only people who could afford to lose.'"

Kirkwood recalls his father saying: "I don't want any wives bellyaching at me."

Pappy's clientele included Gene Autry, then a widely known western actor; Dick Kleberg, owner of the King Ranch; and Mrs. Amon Carter Sr., wife of the late newspaper publisher.

"Amon himself wasn't a gambler," Kirkwood recalls, "but Mrs. Carter and her lady friends came to the Four Deuces after church on Sunday to play roulette. Those are the worst odds on the board, and it was hard for them to win. So the dealers would overpay them when they did win."

Why? "Do you think Pop wanted Mrs. Amon Carter to leave a loser?"

Once a year, Kirkwood says, the late U.S. House Speaker Sam Rayburn came to the Four Deuces, not to gamble but to drink.

"Pop never charged for food or drinks and he served the finest New York strip sirloins in the world. He had them flown in from New York in wooden barrels. They were super aged prime beef and we'd cut 'em in the kitchen, two inches thick and about a foot long."

Kirkwood suggested once that such cuts seemed a mite generous.

Residents rally against proposed psychiatric facility for prison

RICHMOND, Texas (AP) — State prison officials say it's their land and they'll build what they please on it. But nearby residents are opposing plans for a psychiatric prison hospital — a psychiatric prison hospital — opposition that could cost the state $1 million.

Richmond already is home to the Texas Department of Corrections' three Jester units, but residents say they're more concerned by having psychiatric patients nearby.

"They're disoriented," said Howard L. Katz, president of the Pecan Grove Plantation Property Owners Association. "No one knows what they'll do. They're going to be looking to do what crazy people do."

Residents of the 3,000-home Pecan Grove subdivision have signed a petition opposing the hospital because of safety concerns, its potential effect on property values and "the adverse aesthetic and psychological effect."

The petition calls for moving the hospital at least 10 miles away from its proposed location near one of the main entrances into Pecan Grove.

Angry residents have pledged $100,000 for attorneys' fees to fight the proposal in court if necessary.

"It's so close to two elementary schools and a middle school," said Denise Adams, 35, who has three children. "I just feel there are other places on that property they can put it."

Prison officials, however, say the location adjacent to one of the Jester units is ideal for sharing utilities and a costly guard tower. The estimated cost of changing the site is $1 million.

"This last-minute opposition is really causing problems," said prison board Chairman Selden Hale III.

The project, set for a bid award at a May 17 board meeting, is being financed with bonds on which the state pays interest. The facility is scheduled to be complete in early 1993.

"I just think if you live next to a tract of ground that has three state prisons, and you know there are state prisons and you see men in white uniforms working there, it's a little bit disingenuous to say 'We never knew there'd be another unit built there,'" Hale said.

"Everybody talks about law and order and all that kind of stuff," he said. "When law and order arrives, they don't like it. That's state property. The state kind of ought to have the right to do what they want."

Prison warden Morris Jones, who would be in charge of the hospital, said area residents will be safe regardless what type of prisoners are sent to the Jester units.

Mike Moore, southern regional director for the prison system based in Brazoria County, said inmates housed at the facility will not be outside except during admittance and transfers.

He acknowledged that 50 beds will be for acute psychiatric prisoners who must be escorted by two security people and wear physical restraints. But those beds will be for temporary use, and the most serious patients will be transferred to a unit in Amarillo.

Richmond is about 30 miles southwest of Houston in Fort Bend County.

USX stockholders to separate stock

HOUSTON (AP) — Stockholders of USX Corp., the nation's largest steel maker, were expected to approve today a plan to create two classes of stock.

The plan by the Pittsburgh energy and steel giant ends a five-year effort by USX's largest single shareholder, financier Carl C. Icahn, to boost USX's stock price by separating the cyclical steel business from the conglomerate's energy unit.

Stockholders meeting in Findlay, Ohio, last year defeated Icahn's proposal to spin off 80 percent of USX's steel unit.

Stockholders planned to meet today in Houston.

Wall Street reacted favorably to the idea of creating one class of stock for USX's energy operations and another that reflects the value of its steel, mining, real estate and other businesses.

Local Girl Scout will attend 'California Dreamin' in July

Kellie Schlegel, daughter of Zola Schlegel of Snyder, has been selected to attend California Dreamin' July 21-Aug. 4, a Wider Opportunity sponsored by Spanish Girl Scout Council in Pomona, Calif.

A wider opportunity brings together Girl Scouts from all over the United States to experience unique adventures ranging from wilderness expeditions to state history to science and arts. Wider opportunities are offered to cadette and senior scouts, ages 12 to 18.

Miss Schlegel, a senior Girl

Scout, will be one of 104 girls from throughout the United States selected by Spanish Trails Girl Scout Council. There will also be girls selected from international countries to participate. These girls were selected on the basis of their interpersonal skills, maturity and desire to interact with girls and adults from around the world.

She will be visiting a state that is rich in cultural diversity, varied geography and history. California Dreamin' participants will have the opportunity to visit the San Diego zoo, experience the entertainment industry, explore a naval facility and ride a cable car to the top of a mountain. Participants will even be "college bound" for a day as they explore different aspects of a local university.

Kellie, a Girl Scout for 12 years, sold 459 boxes of Girl Scout cookies to help pay for her trip to California. She will also work seven weeks as a counselor at Camp Booth Oaks near Sweetwater.

A senior at Snyder High School, she has traveled to 15 states and one foreign country since 1986 all Girl Scout sponsored events. She took a trip to Wyoming to the Girl Scout's National Center West in 1986, with side trips to Yellowstone National Park and Mt. Rushmore. The next summer she was selected to visit Mexico along with 11 other West Texas Girl Scouts and two leaders who stayed nine days at Our Cabana, an International Girl Scout House.

Their activities ranged from sightseeing, shopping in the local village market for their supper, to service projects for the orphanage. Along with scouts and guides from the United States, Canada and several foreign countries, the trip ended with a three-day stay in Mexico City.

The summer of 1988, she went to Savannah, Ga., to visit the home of Juliet Gordon Low, the founder of Girl Scouts in the United States. They traveled through seven states in 10 days visiting the National Space Center in Huntsville, Ala., spent the night on the aircraft carrier, the Yorktown, and toured Graceland in Memphis, Tenn. In July of 1989, Kellie represented the West Texas Girl Scout Council at the National Program Conference in Scottsdale, Ariz.

Last summer she was selected for a National Wider Opportunity to visit the Monterey Bay area of California. With 45 other Girl Scouts from over the U.S., she learned about John Steinbeck, his life and his books. Their sightseeing included Salinas, Big Sur, the Boardwalk, commercial vegetable farms and the Monterey Bay Aquarium.

The major difference between an expert and a less good player is the time each spends in counting. An expert always adds up everyone's high-card points and suit lengths. An average player doesn't.

True, it sounds like a tall order, but anyone can do it. You just have to be willing to make the effort. Start by counting the trump suit. Then look at declarer's high-card points. Finally, once you are doing those two almost subconsciously, include any other critical suit.

Cover the South and West hands in today's diagram and plan your defense. Against three no-trump, your partner, West, leads the two of clubs. After winning the first trick with the ace of clubs, which card do you lead at trick two?

The counting starts during the bidding. From the auction, you know South has four hearts and at least five diamonds. From partner's opening lead, which shows a four-card suit, you know declarer has three clubs. This means South probably has 1-4-5-3 distribution.

Does this point you to the right answer? Correct — you switch to the king of spades, just in case declarer has a singleton queen. Having diamonds under control, your side should be able to win five tricks before South collects nine. Even if partner has the K-J of clubs, the suit can wait.

With the given layout, that's exactly how the hand pans out. Declarer ducks a couple of spades in dummy, wins dummy's ace on the third round, and tries to run the diamonds. When they don't break, he has to dislodge the king of clubs to get out for one down.

Self-confessed ex-gangster finishes race in last place

AUSTIN (AP) — Voters in Austin have spoken, but former mobster-turned-politician John Johnson says he may still have the last word in his bid to become mayor.

With all 141 precincts reporting early Sunday, Johnson was last in a seven-candidate field with 496 votes, or less than one percent of the 57,098 ballots cast.

But Johnson said Sunday that he plans to contest the results. "This whole election could wind up in the federal courts," Johnson said. "This whole election was tainted."

Johnson contends that he may have lost votes because Saturday's ballot listed him as candidate No. 14 instead of the No. 7 he had been assigned earlier.

Johnson, who had told voters to punch their ballot for No. 7, said would-be constituents might have been confused by the change.

County commissioner Bruce Todd and city councilman Robert Barnstone will face each other in a May 18 runoff for the mayor's seat. Todd won 46.1 percent of the votes cast to 42.6 percent for Barnstone, or 26,340 votes to 24,322, said city clerk Elden Aldridge.

Johnson, 53, brought national attention to the race when he revealed that he was former gangster John Patrick Tully, who was imprisoned on murder charges.

He said he has lived in Austin for several years under the witness protection program after helping convict members of the New Jersey Campisi crime family.

Now a hot dog and fajita vendor, Johnson said he entered the mayor's race because he feared local police.

"If they're gonna hit, they're gonna hit me in the limelight," he said.

Although he seemed to have little chance of winning, Johnson said he believes he could have done better.

"The amount of votes that these guys got shows that I could never have gotten enough votes,"

Pistons, Celts advance in NBA playoffs

by The Associated Press
 Winning the NBA title sometimes is more a matter of overcoming injuries rather than the opposition.
 A pair of injured superstars, Isiah Thomas and Larry Bird, played vital roles as the Detroit Pistons and Boston Celtics advanced into the second round of the NBA playoffs with fifth-game victories Sunday.
 But Golden State's leading scorer, Chris Mullin, was unable to play because of a sprained right knee and the Warriors lost their 11th consecutive playoff game at the Forum as the Los Angeles Lakers won Game 1 of their second-round series 126-116.
 Thomas, who missed most of the season's second half with a right wrist injury that required surgery, wore a protective covering on the wrist and a wrap on his pulled left hamstring in the decisive final game of Detroit's best-of-5 series against Atlanta.
 Thomas had 26 points and 11 assists as the Pistons breezed to a 113-81 victory over the Hawks, who made only 29.7 percent of their shots.

 "He's a student of drama," Pistons coach Chuck Daly said of Thomas. "He knows just when to appear on center stage. He's done it all. He's been MVP. He's earned it all."
 Bird was brilliant in a more dramatic setting. Already playing despite a back injury that will require post-season surgery, Bird missed nearly 10 minutes of playing time after smashing his face into the Boston Garden floor.
 He returned to a tremendous ovation and scored 12 points in less than seven minutes of the third period, then finished with 32 as the Celtics held on for a 124-121 victory over the Indiana Pacers.
 "I was coming back no matter what," Bird said. "The fans were pumped up and I wasn't going to let them down."

 The Pistons, seeking to become just the third team to win three straight NBA titles, moved into the second round Tuesday at Boston, which advanced past the first round for the first time in three years.
 Tonight's only game pairs Philadelphia at Chicago, which leads 1-0 in the Eastern Conference semifinals. Portland plays host to Utah in a second-round opener on Tuesday, while Golden State is at the Lakers again on Wednesday, with Mullin expected to return.
 Boston coach Chris Ford said it was Bird's inspirational effort that enabled the Celtics to improve their record to 21-7 in deciding playoff games.
 "Larry was absolutely spectacular, amazing, stupendous," Ford said.

 Magic Johnson had 21 points, 17 assists and 10 rebounds for the Lakers against Golden State, which couldn't overcome the loss of Mullin, who averaged 25.7 points this season.
 "I didn't know I wasn't going to play in this game until the shootaround before the game," Mullin said. "But I feel confident about Wednesday night."

Tarpley charged in Houston assault

DALLAS (AP) — Dallas Mavericks forward Roy Tarpley faces another round of legal troubles as he heads into a probation revocation hearing today — one day after being jailed in Houston on an assault charge.
 Tarpley, who was charged with misdemeanor assault in the beating of a woman who claims to be his girlfriend, was released Sunday afternoon from the Houston City Jail on $500 bond. If convicted he could face up to one year in jail and a $2,000 fine.
 For several minutes after being released, Tarpley tried to elude newspaper photographers at the jail but then emerged to chat with reporters.
 "It's no big deal, really," Tarpley said. "It'll all be cleared up... It's just a misunderstanding."
 The arrest is the latest in a string of brushes with the law for the troubled player, who was the Mavericks' first-round draft choice in 1986 and the seventh choice overall.

Lopez takes Sara Lee LPGA win

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — As Kris Monaghan bent over a possible 8-foot birdie putt at the 18th green, the roar on the course told her Nancy Lopez had just shut the door to all challengers at the Sara Lee Classic.
 Lopez, who is expecting her third child in November, dropped in a 10-foot birdie putt at the par-5 16th Sunday to go two strokes up on Monaghan, then matched par on her final two holes to post her 44th career LPGA victory.
 Lopez tied the course record with a 65 during Friday's first round and finished with a 54-hole total of 10-under 206.

Quartet's 58 earns victory

Eddie Johnson, Eicke Perry, John Lacik and Penny Perry combined for a 58 to win first place in Saturday's American Cancer Society Willie Bigham Memorial Golf Tournament played at Western Texas College Golf Course.
 "We had a great tournament," said event organizer Wayne Monroney.
 "It was fantastic, the support and help we had putting this thing on, and we really appreciate it."
 Finishing second in the 4-man scramble with a 59 Saturday were Bill Looney, Jim Erwin, Howard Crenshaw and "Pop" Kidd.

Four bound for Bozeman... WTC rodeo team grabs first STEPHENVILLE — Though the Western Texas College rodeo team did not garner enough points to advance to the College National Finals Rodeo in Bozeman, Mont., four individuals did earn berths in the June rodeo with season-ending performances at Tarleton State University last weekend.

 WTC steer wrestler Scott Berger of Kearney, Neb., parlayed his 10.1 2-head clocking into a second place at the TSU rodeo and a first-place tie with Vernon Regional Junior College standout Ivan Nelson in the National Intercollegiate Rodeo Association's Southwest Region and a trip to Montana.

 Berger and Nelson each wound up the season with 260 points.
 Jennifer Lee, a member of the Western Texas women's team, copped a season-total 525 points in goat tying, along with a 19.7 first-place effort here, to advance to Bozeman with the regional crown in her event.
 Nephi, Utah's Troy Cattor and Townsville, Australia native Darin Cook each nabbed runner-up spots for WTC in the CNFR.
 Cattor's 420 tied him for second in bareback riding while bull rider Cook took second with his accumulated 305 points.
 "We had a good showing," said Westerner coach Bob Doty.

"It was just too little, too late. We won two rodeos this year, we just had a few things go against us. There are also five or six really good teams in our region."
 Western Texas' 245 points earned the Snyder school first in the Tarleton event.
 Host TSU scored 220 for second in the men's division followed by Texas Tech's 105 and 100 from Vernon.
 Tarleton paced the women's division with 200 points. Western Texas took second with 115 trailed by ENMU and VRJC, both with 100.
 Tarleton cowboy Eddie Ramsey wound up with all-around honors as did Vernon cowgirl Lari D. Guy.
 Benji Fontenot of Reeves, La., led the WTC men over the weekend with his first-place finish in bull riding.
 Fontenot's 75 in Thursday's opening performance held up through the long go. He added a 71-point ride in Saturday's finals for an event-best 146 total.
 In addition, Dwayne Evans, a WTC wrangler from Canadian was awarded a 59 in the short go to go with his 73 from Friday night for a third-place 132 tally.
 Toogoolawah, Australia's Shane Guldransen hammered out a 71 to go along with his preliminary 67 for a 138 total and third position in saddle bronc riding and Russel Merchant of Madisonville and Moran's Jody Hart combined for third in team roping with an 18.6 2-head time.
 Merchant also claimed fourth-place points for WTC in calf roping with his 27.5 clocking.
 Rene Dollar, a cowgirl from Burleson, took sixth in goat tying. She took a fourth-place 10.5 in the long go and followed with a 12.2 sixth-place in the finals to earn a 22.7 sixth in the average for Western Texas.

In addition, Jim Bloom won Closest to the Pin honors on No. 1 while J. Slaughter won on No. 6.
 The prize for the day's Long Drive went to Gene Hall on No. 9.
 "We want to thank American State Bank, West Texas State Bank, Snyder National Bank, Amwest Savings, Snyder Savings and Loan, Thriftway, IGA, Grimmer Bros. and Barbara Bigham for sponsoring the tournament," Monroney said.
 "And also to our door prize contributors, Snyder Lanes, Whataburger, Taco John's, McDonald's, Snyder Lumber, Lot-a-Burger, Cox Jewelry, Wal-Mart, Travis Flowers, Stephens Office Supply, Exxon Distributors, Western Auto, Snyder Nursery, the WTC Pro Shop, AAA Coffee and the American Cancer Society."
 "Without these people we couldn't have done this."
 "We want to thank them and tell them we'll see them next year."

Replay helps Price past Kite at Nelson

IRVING, Texas (AP) — After eight years, Nick Price finally captured another PGA tournament. That's not what will be remembered about the 1991 Byron Nelson Classic.
 The historic first intrusion of television's instant-replay into professional golf overshadowed Price's win.
 A PGA decision based on an instant replay cost Tom Kite a stroke and his momentum as he fell out of contention Sunday.
 Price, of Zimbabwe, who hadn't won a tournament in America since the 1983 World Series of Golf, shot a 2-under par 68 to win the $198,000 first prize with a 10-under 270 over the TPC course at Las Colinas. Kite's 75 put him five shots back.
 "I was so nervous because I hadn't won in such a long time that I thought a (TV) crane or something might fall on me the last two holes," Price said.
 A crane didn't fall on Kite, but television helped kill his chances. Kite, who won the 1979 USGA Bobby Jones Sportsmanship award, was furious that his judgment was questioned and overruled.
 "I don't think television has any business making a ruling on the golf course," Kite said. "Putting an official in the (TV) trailer is a copout."
 Mike Shea, tournament director of the PGA Tour, said "I don't necessarily disagree. A player on television is under the eye of the TV. Other players who aren't in contention aren't on television."

 Kite hooked his tee shot into the water on the 331-yard, par-4 No. 11. He believed his ball had carried over a small point of land on its way into the water. Playing partner Phil Blackmar agreed.
 Kite took a penalty and knocked his third shot into a bunker.
 Then Kite went back to the tee at the request of Shea. Playing a provisional ball, Kite made double-bogey.
 Playing the other ball in the bunker, too, he knocked it on the green and one-putted for bogey.
 PGA official George Boutell, whose assignment was to watch television, ruled Kite's tee shot didn't cross land where Kite thought it did.
 Shea also saw the tape and agreed with Boutell.

Derby winner set for Preakness run

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — The last smashed beer cup hadn't been cleared from the Churchill Downs infield when the challenge was made.
 Strike the Gold had won the Kentucky Derby, and it was time to start thinking about the Preakness and the glory of the Triple Crown.
 "If we get a good trip, we win this race," said Ian Jory, whose Best Pal finished second to Strike the Gold by 1¼ lengths. "There'll be a smaller field in the Preakness, and that'll give us more of a horse race."
 Strike the Gold, owned by B. Giles Brophy, was 10th going into the final turn of the 1¼ miles when jockey Chris Antley made the move that made the Derby.
 Strike the Gold was saving ground on the rail when Antley saw a hole on the outside. A moment later it would have closed, but Antley ducked out for it. He moved Strike the Gold around horses and came out of the turn on the outside of a cavalry charge six horses wide.

Bible's inerrancy debate continues

DALLAS (AP) — Few Christians dispute that The Holy Bible is the inspired word of God, teaching lessons of creation and salvation and setting out the guiding principles of their lives.

But fundamentalists within the Southern Baptist Convention say inspiration means infallibility, and have used "biblical inerrancy" as a battle cry to gain control of the nation's largest Protestant denomination.

fundamentalist presidents have been elected to head the 15 million-member denomination for 12 straight years, the last time coming last June by the largest margin since the battle began.

"Southern Baptists are people of the Book," says Lee Roberts, a fundamentalist layman from Marietta, Ga. "When they find out that their pastor says the virgin birth is not important, the resurrection of Jesus Christ was not bodily but was spiritual, they say, 'No we don't believe that.'"

"I know a lot of preachers and seminary professors," said the Rev. Bill Sherman, a moderate pastor in Nashville, Tenn., "and they do believe in the virgin birth and miracles."

"My commitment is to pursue the perpetuation of allegiance to the perfect word from the perfect God," said the Rev. Morris Chapman, the Wichita Falls, Texas, minister and current SBC president.

Chapman, who says he will follow his fundamentalist predecessors and appoint only other fundamentalists to denominational agencies, sets out four points of required agreement:

A dozen years of defeat at the hands of fundamentalists have led Sherman and other moderates to take the first steps toward establishing a new denomination.

"Adam and Eve were real people. The historical narratives of the Bible are accurate. Miracles of the Bible were supernatural events. The authors stated by all the books were the authors of the books."

Some say the issue is one of control and not doctrine.

"I think (inerrancy) is a political thing moreso than a doctrinal difference," said the Rev. James Pleitz, moderate pastor of Park Cities Baptist Church in University Park, Texas, a suburb of Dallas.

The debate over biblical inerrancy is not new, having been argued to some degree by Saint Augustine, John Calvin and other theologians.

Despite Pleitz' claim, fun-

But modern science and discoveries of the Dead Sea Scrolls and other manuscripts have increased the difficulties, said Leo Garrett, professor of theology at Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary in Fort Worth, Texas.

Garrett says inerrancy can be discussed at three levels, although there is little debate among scholars on two of those levels.

"We really do not question whether what we have is substantially the original. On that level there really isn't much argument," he said.

Rig's quarters to be resemble hotel

HOUSTON (AP) — Oil workers aren't known for standing in line to request a lengthy stint on bleak offshore oil rigs, where accommodations are rather spartan.

more space for the 100 people who will work aboard the rig, he said.

But a new rig being designed for Santa Fe Drilling Co. by Houston architect Peter Jay Zweig already has a waiting list of crew wanting to take advantage of the sauna, weight room, carpeting and interior decorator colors.

"The trick is to use every device you know in architecture to expand the space you have," Zweig said.

Santa Fe hired Zweig to design and dress up Galaxy I jack-up rig as an offshore luxury hotel. The improvements will cost nearly $1 million.

Joe Pekarek, Santa Fe's vice president, said the furniture that's on order is a big improvement over standard rig furnishings.

The Galaxy oil drilling rig is a barge-like floating platform with legs at each corner that can be lowered to the sea floor to raise or "jack up" the platform above the water.

"It looks like something you'd be willing to put in your house," Pekarek said.

"They used to be like boats, and they really were hell holes," Zweig said. "They were cramped and painted military green."

The Galaxy rig is part of a new class called Universe, designed for the North Sea's blustery conditions. It can drill in waters of 360 to 400 feet, depending on the season.

Zweig said he's working to make the 25,000-square-foot rig seem more spacious and cheerful. Colors other than military green will be used, and carpet will replace vinyl in some of the rooms.

The rig, which is being built in Singapore, is scheduled to be completed in August.

Mirror accents on walls and ceilings will create the illusion of

It isn't the first drilling rig crew quarters Zweig has designed. In the early 1980s, he designed living quarters for five rigs built by Keydril — a company Santa Fe later purchased.

Beachfront owners can repair homes

HOUSTON (AP) — A federal judge's ruling that beachfront homeowners may maintain their property, even on a public beach, could open the floodgates for lawsuits by other property owners, a state official says.

The accommodations on those five rigs are so nice, Zweig said, that Santa Fe workers consistently request stints on them.

Texas' beachfront homeowners claimed victory this weekend after the federal judge's ruling on the Texas Open Beaches Act.

"We've got a waiting list of people wanting to work on the new one," Pekarek said.

"It's serious. It's the first time the federal courts told us the state can't enforce statutes to protect the public beaches," said Texas Assistant Attorney General Ken Cross.

"The law provides that if you have a private structure on the public beach, it's subject to removal if erosion gets bad enough such that they stick out on the public beach," said Cross, who had been unaware of the judgment.

"It's detrimental to the public beaches of the state," he said Saturday.

"I guess there is an implication that any time the state tries to enforce the Open Beaches Act, it apparently opens the door for a property owner to run to federal court to whack out the Open Beaches Act," he said.

In a ruling filed last week, U.S. District Judge Lynn Hughes said the state could not prevent four plaintiffs from maintaining their beachfront homes and property, even though part or all may be, technically, on a public beach.

Hughes did not award any monetary damages.

Under state law, the public is allowed access to land between the mean low-tide line and the

According to the lawsuit, two of the plaintiffs own homes on the Bolivar Peninsula. In May 1988, after storm tides and erosion moved back the line of vegetation, the state was granted an injunction prohibiting repair or new construction there.

Military plans to move Kurds

ZAKHO, Iraq (AP) — The U.S. military plans to use trucks and helicopters to move up to 200,000 Kurds out of squalid refugee camps this week, allied military officers said today.

U.S. Army Maj. Jay Garner said the military would use dozens of rented Iraqi trucks as well as helicopters to transport from camps along the Turkish border.

"We're urging them to come down the mountain. We're telling them the zone is secure," he told reporters in the northern town of Zakho.

Some refugees will walk, he said. U.S. Special Forces automotive teams also will be sent to the border to fix stranded refugee vehicles and to provide gasoline, he said. The transport plan is known as Operation Gallant Provider.

About 125,000 refugees will be moved to the Zakho area, 65,000 will be taken to Sirsenk and 6,500 will be sent to Suriya, Garner said. The refugees may head back to their own homes or stay in camps built by the allies.

One source said the refugees would be moved from camps at Uzumlu and Isikveren in Turkey and the Iraqi border town of Kanimasi, where thousands of Kurds have stopped en route home.

Between 450,000 and 800,000 Kurds fled to the mountains separating Iraq and Turkey in March to escape Saddam Hussein's crackdown on the Kurdish rebellion that followed the Gulf War. Some 1.5 million went to the Iranian border.

the county money.

In other business, the court gave approval to advertise for bids for three used mower tractors in Pct. 1, 3 and 4. The bids are to be opened May 20.

During the morning meeting, commissioners discussed rental fees charged for the use of community centers. Commissioner C.D. Gray Jr. explained that the policy of rental fees was instituted last year. Commissioners Gray, Roy Idom and Jerry Gannaway expressed that voters in their precincts were unhappy with the policy and a change needed to be made.

The discussion was tabled as commissioners noted that further discussion would be held during the court's budget work session Tuesday.

Other action included a budget transfer from Precinct 3 to Precinct 2. Some $15,000 in the Precinct 3 budget for a motor grader was transferred to Precinct 2 for the purchase of a tandem axle truck. In return, Precinct 3 will obtain the use of a motor grader from the other precinct.

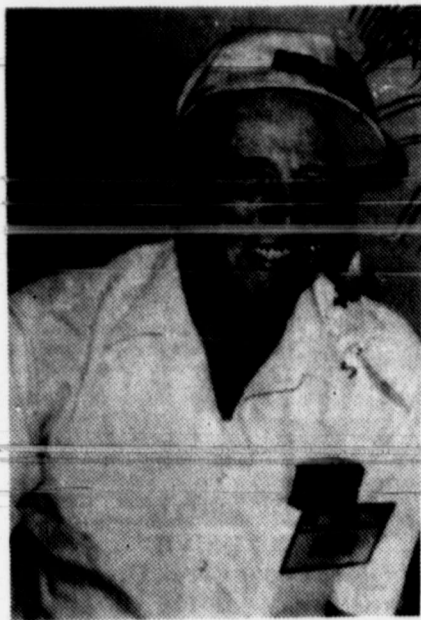

Informational items include the council's budget planning retreat May 18 at city hall which will begin with the swearing in of new council members at 8 a.m.

Status reports from the planning and zoning staff and a building report will also be heard.

After the open meeting, the council will go into executive session for the city manager's annual evaluation.

Powers watch as missiles are destroyed

KARNACK, Texas (AP) — Both stages of the last American nuclear missile identified in an arms reduction treaty with the Soviet Union were fired today like thundering roman candles as U.S. and Soviet military officials watched.

Ambassador Ronald F. Lehman II, director of the U.S. Arms Control and Disarmament Agency, threw the switch to ignite the Pershing II missile's first stage and end America's Pershing Program that began in 1958.

"Today, you are witnesses to the destruction of America's last Pershing II ballistic missile," he told the crowd of about 1,000 spectators who gathered for the event.

"Within one week, the Soviet Union will destroy its last SS 20. Through our treaty on intermediate-range nuclear forces, two nations — the United States and the Soviet Union — have achieved in the control of arms what many thought would never be possible."

Lehman was the senior American representative and guest speaker for the missile elimination at the sprawling East Texas munitions plant.

Before the stages were fired, Soviet Gen. Lt. Vladimir Medvedev said the process has paved the way for destroying longer-range intercontinental ballistic missiles.

Nunn clashes with alleged Texas Indian tribe

WASHINGTON (AP) — A powerful senator investigating insurance fraud has found himself tangling with the Sovereign Cherokee Nation Texas, a "warrior society" in Dallas headed by Chief Bear Who Walks Softly and guarded by Chief Marshal Lone Wolf.

The tribe — which the government doesn't recognize — and the senator — Sam Nunn of Georgia — are fighting over whether the Senate can subpoena tribal records, as well as Chief Bear Who Walks Softly, a.k.a. William Frye, and Chief Justice Screaming Eagle, a.k.a. Gary Deer.

Nunn, chairman of the Senate

Government Affairs permanent subcommittee on investigations, says he may pursue criminal contempt of Congress charges if the officials don't cooperate.

But Chief Screaming Eagle and Chief Bear Who Walks Softly, who prefer their Cherokee names, contend the Sovereign Cherokee Nation Texas is a country and is not subject to Nunn's subpoena powers.

With a "heart of sorrow," Chief Bear also complained to President Bush that actions by the U.S. Marshals Service in serving a Senate subpoena at the tribe's headquarters in a north Dallas office complex "are tantamount to an invasion by your government of our Nation."

The Marshals Service, however, has referred the matter to the U.S. attorney's office in Dallas. Agents serving the subpoena found Lone Wolfe, a.k.a. Ricky G. Frye (William's son), illegally carrying a gun and identification indicating he is "federal marshal," said Marshals spokesman Bill Dempsey.

A spokesman at the Bureau of Indian Affairs said the Cherokee Nation Texas is not a federally recognized tribe. And Nunn told his committee that it appears to be "masquerading as an Indian tribe in an effort to insulate itself from lawful process and confuse individuals with whom it deals."

Officials of the two federally recognized Cherokee tribes, the Eastern Band of Cherokee Indians in Cherokee, N.C., and the Cherokee Nation of Oklahoma in Tahlequah, say they have no ties to the Texas organization.

"We have no evidence any of these people are members of the Cherokee Nation of Oklahoma," said tribal spokesman Dan Agent. "We have no business dealings (with them) and do not authorize or support any of their efforts."

Jonathan L. Taylor, principal chief of the North Carolina

Cherokees, said in a letter to Nunn's committee that his tribe also has no affiliation with the Texas officials or knowledge of them.

"We are always grateful to learn of the identification of individuals or organizations who are wrongfully trading on the name of our Tribe and falsely claiming affiliation in order to deceive the public," Taylor wrote.

Nunn is seeking numerous records from the tribe because of questions about its dealings in the reinsurance industry. According to documents, certain offshore reinsurance companies have listed assets of $22 million in treasury bills issued by the Sovereign Cherokee Nation Texas.

Dallas attorney Frank P. Hernandez, special counsel to the Sovereign Cherokee Nation Texas, said the bonds were issued in connection with the offshore reinsurance business.

"Everything that has been done is absolutely legal, as far as I know, to date," Hernandez said in an interview from Dallas. He refused, however, to elaborate.

This is not the first time tribal officials have tangled with the law, according to the Texas attorney general's office.

'Ultimate Hunt' II

DALLAS (AP) — First it was prison inmates, now it's reportedly cattle, and at least one lawmaker is still upset.

A Texas prison board official who once took friends on a training exercise in which inmates were used as quarry is being criticized for his participation in a revised version of the "Ultimate Hunt," a published report said.

But this time cattle were the prey and not state prison inmates, the Dallas Times Herald reported Sunday.

Board member Jerry Hodge said he still has painful memories of the first hunt, in April 1989, when he and others used prison tracking dogs to chase inmates during a training exercise.

Hodge drew national attention when, to commemorate the hunt, he passed out jackets emblazoned with "The Ultimate Hunt."

Last week when a friend attending a spring roundup on Hodge's ranch showed up with T-shirts proclaiming the event "The Other Ultimate Hunt," earlier memories resurfaced.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I take Motrin 600 milligrams four times a day for my arthritis. Everyone I speak with says it will ruin my stomach. What do you suggest?

DEAR READER: Motrin, Feldene, Voltaren, Naprosyn and similar drugs are very useful in treating the pain and stiffness of arthritis. However, they all have a common side effect: stomach irritation that may progress to ulcers. Although this complication is, in the main, dose-related, sooner or later anyone taking these medicines will probably experience symptoms of indigestion and heartburn. Of more practical concern, some patients develop ulcers and intestinal bleeding, without having had any prior warning.

Therefore, anti-arthritis drugs — a real boon to people in pain — also have their own built-in set of hazards and should be used only after the risks and benefits have been thoroughly understood. Taking these drugs with antacids or food — or even using standard anti-ulcer therapy — is not helpful; stomach problems often occur anyway.

All the news is not bad news, however. Spurred on by the high incidence of stomach ulcers in arthritis patients requiring treatment, one pharmaceutical company has marketed an antidote. Cytotec (misoprostol) is the first drug developed and sold for this purpose. When taken four times a day, the pill effectively blocks the stomach-irritating qualities of anti-arthritis drugs. Cytotec is available by prescription only, so ask your doctor if it would be appropriate for you.

To give you more information, I am sending you a free copy of my Health Report "Understanding Osteoarthritis." Other readers who would like a copy should send $1.25 plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to P.O. Box 91369, Cleveland, OH 44101-3369. Be sure to mention the title.

DEAR DR. GOTT: In a recent column, you misinterpreted a reader's question about the "seven year itch." You assumed she meant her husband was cheating on her, but it's more likely her husband had scabies. The poor woman must be thoroughly confused by your response; she wrote because of her husband's skin condition and you recommended marriage counseling!

DEAR READER: Hmmm. After rereading the column in question, I agree that the question was ambiguous. Unfortunately, the sense of the question revolved around her use of the term "seven year itch," which I interpreted as marital infidelity. You, and other readers who wrote to chide me, are correct that the original question may have referred to the "seven year itch" of scabies, a parasite that enters the skin and causes severe itching. I guess I need to be reminded on occasion that some common expressions have more than one interpretation.

So ... to the poor woman whose husband got more than he bargained for in this column, my apologies. The treatment for scabies is far cheaper and more convenient than marriage counseling. Kwell lotion, a topical prescription product, cures scabies. And thanks to the readers who gleefully pointed out that a common skin condition need not be complicated by unnecessary therapy.

Schwarzkopf back home

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — Back home in Tampa, Gen. Norman Schwarzkopf says he looks forward to retirement, doesn't consider himself a celebrity and has no great political aspirations.

Schwarzkopf, commander of U.S. forces in the war against Iraq, returned to the United States two weeks ago after 239 days overseas. He retires from the Army in August.

"I'm still the same person. Yes, (the war) changed my life, but I hope it has not changed me," he said in People magazine's May 13 issue.

Political strategists are knocking at his door, but Schwarzkopf said he does not have any big ideas.

"The type of politics I have in mind is being mayor of a small town," he said, although he mentioned some broader issues. "The things I feel very strongly about are education, the war on drugs, the environment and conservation and wildlife."
