Ask Us

Q—Is it true that the kiddie pool in Towle Park is being turned into a sand box?
A—Yes. County pool supervisor Mike Harrison said the kiddie pool, located at the county pool, has been renovated into a sand box so that small children playing there could be easily supervised and the area could be easily maintained.

In Brief

Bee bill

AUSTIN (AP) — Gov. Ann Richards signed a bill that would authorize $197,000 in emergency funds to help control "killer" bees that have been found in the Lower Rio Grande Valley. Under the bill signed today, funds would go to the Texas Agriculture Extension Service to implement a regulatory plan for the aggressive bees, also known as Africanized honey bees. In October 1990, the first swarm of "killer" bees was detected in the United States near Hidalgo. Scientists say an infestation is inevitable eventually.

Special session to begin July 8

AUSTIN (AP) — Lawmakers were barely out of town before Gov. Ann Richards announced she wants them back at work starting July 8. The governor said Tuesday she plans to convene a special session that date to consider government reorganization, write a budget and find ways to pay for it. Richards said she will order lawmakers to consider spending cuts and agency consolidations before deciding how much to spend on state government for 1992-93 and what new taxes, if any, will be needed. "It is necessary to make those cuts. It is necessary to pull together this loose ship and make sure that we are wringing every dollar we can out of it," Richards said. "Then we will open the (agenda) to appropriations, the budget in general," she said. "We may hold back on revenue and taxation until after that (spending) decision is made." Richards hasn't yet issued the special session proclamation but said it would convene July 8 "unless something happens that I can't foresee now." She made the announcement only 16 hours after the 140-day regular legislative session ended. The current state budget expires on Aug. 31. Legislative budget experts have forecast a deficit of nearly $5 billion over the next two years if all services were continued at their current levels. Lawmakers and Richards postponed writing the 1992-93 spending plan to wait on performance audits of all state agency spending and recommendations from a tax study committee headed by former Gov. John Connally. In addition, the Legislature approved legislation that would "sunset" — or eliminate — all agencies on Dec. 31, 1991. The government won't actually be shut down by that bill, but the governor said it does give lawmakers an unprecedented opportunity to re-evaluate the need for each of the more than 200 agencies and their programs. "Something I feel very strongly about ... is a tighter, better organized government," Richards said. "We have passed legislation that says we're going to (see SPECIAL, page 8)

Calendar okayed; education district, incentives mullied

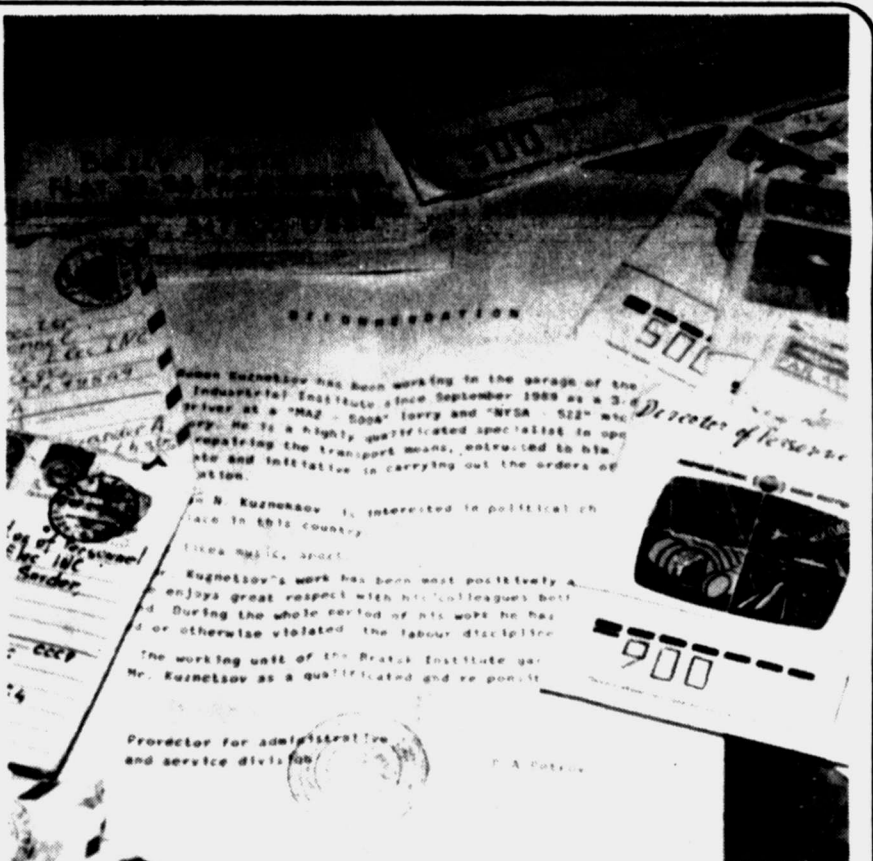

Snyder public schools board of trustees approved a 1991-92 school calendar and was briefed on an enterprise zone program proposal and a five-county education district during a special session Tuesday afternoon. The calendar, a revised version of one favored by 209 teachers earlier in the spring, would begin the fall semester on Aug. 21. Graduation is scheduled for May 29, 1992. Trustees were ready to approve a calendar last month, but changes in the number of school days and teacher in-service hours implemented by the new school funding bill led them to table the topic until Tuesday. Several trustees found fault with the calendar, saying parents had told them they opposed a three-week Christmas holiday period. The calendar calls for holiday a break from Dec. 23 through Jan. 3. In response, Superintendent Dalton Moseley pointed out that teachers had voted for the calendar by a wide majority. After discussion, trustees voted 5-1 to accept the calendar. Terry Martin voted against the motion. Casting votes for were Geraldine Parker, Billy Bob McMullan, Sam Robertson, Ann Walton and Luann Burleson. Glen Clarady was absent for the vote although he attended most of Tuesday's meeting. In other business, the board discussed the Texas Enterprise

Zone Program as presented by Marshall Lyons, coordinator of the county economic development planning committee. Lyons noted that the program is designed to encourage business retention, expansion or start-up by offering incentives such as the refund of certain state sales and use taxes, priority status for state administered programs and funds, and treasury deposits to financial institutions doing business in enterprise zones. Before an area of the city can qualify as an enterprise zone, the city council must identify the geographical area, appoint a five-member board and complete other criteria. Lyons said that incentives from local taxing entities such as the school district, city, county and college should be included in a package to go along with the enterprise zone program. Chief District Appraiser L.R. Peveler met with the board to discuss the five-county educational district. Under the new school funding bill, Scurry and four other counties will be grouped in one educational district which includes 11 school districts. The purpose of the educational district is to collect taxes and distribute them to the schools. Supt. Moseley stressed that representatives from the school districts and appraisal districts

Looking for a few good workers... from Russia

By MISSY TRULL
SDN Staff Writer
Glasnost has reached Snyder in a most unusual way. Over the last month, the local Southern Electric has received almost 30 Russian resumes. "When I got the first one, I thought, 'I'll write this guy back' and then came a couple more and another and another..." said David Reed, on whose desk the resumes ended up. Now Reed says he's not sure what he's going to do. "Right now, I'm just going to sit on them." He added that he had no idea how the applicants got the local address. The resumes all follow the same format and their cover letters all sound similar. From the resumes, most applicants seem eager to work at any job. "If you do not have a position for my qualifications, I shall be happy with any occupation," wrote Korzh Ruben Vladimirovich. A.V. Grushko stated, "The

For Middle East...

Bush unveils arms initiative

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (AP) — President Bush today proposed steps to rid the Middle East of weapons of mass destruction, including a freeze on buying or building surface-to-surface missiles. His arms initiative calls upon Israel and the Arab states to refrain from making or importing weapons-grade material for nuclear bombs. Israel is believed to be the region's only nuclear power. And it asks the five biggest arms merchants to the Middle East — the United States, Britain, France, China and the Soviet Union — to sit down and establish guidelines for restraint on sales of tanks, planes, rockets and other conventional weapons. Bush was flying here from his Maine home to unveil the Middle East arms control initiative and discuss America's defense needs in a commencement address at the U.S. Air Force Academy. The White House did not release Bush's text in advance, but issued a three-page fact sheet outlining the arms control initiative. Administration officials have said privately for weeks that Bush would propose a moratorium on ballistic missiles with ranges over 900 miles. The initial White House information did not specify any mileage range. It said Bush was seeking "a freeze on the acquisition, production and testing of surface-to-surface missiles by states in the region with a view to the ultimate elimination of such missiles from their arsenals." That would include the Soviet-made Scuds that Iraq fired at Israel and Saudi Arabia during the Gulf War and Israel's own longer-range and more accurate Jericho missiles. The suppliers, including China, will be asked to intensify export controls on the equipment, technology and services that can be used to make surface-to-surface missiles, with export licenses granted "only for peaceful end uses." Bush's proposal would apply to the entire Middle East, including Iraq, Iran, Libya, Syria, Egypt, Lebanon, Israel, Jordan, Saudi Arabia and other states in the Magreb and Gulf Cooperation Council. But Bush is not trying to shut the door to all Middle East arms purchases. Bush wants the arms suppliers to notify one another in advance of certain sales, avoid "destabilizing" deals and put in place effective export controls on where the arms are going.

Johnson Space Center will increase size of visitors area

HOUSTON (AP) — State officials and NASA directors are hoping tourists will embark on a new mission — to explore the $70 million visitors center being built at the Johnson Space Center.

The officials charted a course of their own Tuesday — to defend the space station program, which was cut by a congressional subcommittee two weeks ago.

The hour-long groundbreaking ceremonies, complete with a mock countdown, fireworks and a half-dozen flag-carrying parachutists who literally dropped in, were marked by repeated calls to save the proposed space station.

"As Space Center Houston takes shape, even more exciting are the space missions that are building up in the 1990s," said Richard Truly, NASA's administrator and a former astronaut. "None is more important than Space Station Freedom."

"This important program of the future is under a fiscal attack, but I can assure you in the end it will be built. Space Station Freedom is where research and technology will be performed daily around the earth for the benefit of those of us on the surface."

U.S. Rep. Mike Andrews, D-Texas, whose district includes the Johnson Space Center area, said loss of the space station would mean a loss of 10,000 jobs and millions of dollars to the Houston economy.

"For our nation, killing the space station means stopping the space program dead in its tracks," he said.

Sen. Phil Gramm, R-Texas, contended the House panel's 6-3 vote to scrap the space station was shortsighted and politically motivated.

"I don't have to tell you there's a lot of opposition to the space station and the space program," he said. "Our challenge is to inspire Congress to invest in the next generation."

Other officials applauding the new project. Lobbying for the space station were Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, D-Texas, U.S. Rep. Jack Brooks, D-Texas, and Houston Mayor Kathy Whitmire, whose shovel broke during the ceremonial turning of dirt.

The new visitors center, financed through tax-exempt bonds plus $10 million in public money, is expected to be finished late next year and attract some 2 million visitors annually.

The center has been planned for about five years but was thwarted by financial difficulties.

It will sit at the main entrance of the Johnson Space Center and will include a 183,000-square-foot building housing seven exhibits, some of them already committed to corporate sponsors.

Kevin Costner films 'spot'

NEW YORK (AP) — Kevin Costner, who starred in the baseball movies "Field of Dreams" and "Bull Durham," speaks up for the national pastime in a 60-second spot promoting ESPN's coverage of the College World Series.

Costner completed the spot Tuesday, during a break in the filming of director Oliver Stone's movie about the assassination of President John F. Kennedy.

"At some time in our life, we all wish we could return to a time when life was simpler; when all we wore was the wonderful mantle of childlike innocence; when springtime and life itself seemed eternal," Costner says in the spot recorded in New Orleans.

The promotion will first air Friday, when ESPN begins its College World Series coverage.

Costner recently won the best director Oscar for "Dances With Wolves," in which he also starred. The film won seven Academy Awards, including best picture.

Dr. Gott By Peter Gott, M.D.

By Peter H. Gott, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT: Please discuss cervical spondylosis. How long do the symptoms last, and can it be cured?

DEAR READER: Cervical spondylosis is a potentially serious abnormality in the neck, when the bones and discs (the tissues separating the cervical vertebrae) degenerate. In its most common form, the discs become thin and calcium deposits appear on the bones, causing compression of the upper spinal canal. This is a vital area that contains the nerves traveling to and from the arms and legs.

Therefore, in the presence of spinal cord compression, patients usually develop pain, weakness, numbness and loss of reflexes in the extremities. These symptoms may worsen and actual muscle atrophy (withering) may appear.

The diagnosis is established by X-rays (or CT scanning) of the neck; a myelogram (special X-ray test) may be necessary to demonstrate the precise location of the spinal abnormality.

For unknown reasons, some cases of cervical spondylosis stabilize or improve without therapy. However, symptoms may be lessened by the use of physical therapy and a soft cervical collar. Patients who do not improve — or in whom symptoms progress — must consider surgery to relieve the obstruction and decompress the spinal cord. Such an operation, called a decompression laminectomy, can be performed by a neurosurgeon.

There is no set rule about how long symptoms last. The most important considerations are: extent of spinal cord injury, progression of symptoms and response (if any) to non-surgical treatment. Surgery is usually curative.

To give you more information, I am sending you a free copy of my Health Report "An Informed Approach To Surgery." Other readers who would like a copy should send $1.25 plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to P.O. Box 91369, Cleveland, OH 44101-3369. Be sure to mention the title.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I take 400 IU of vitamin E daily for Peyronie's disease. Would you please express your views on this?

DEAR READER: Peyronie's disease, a progressive affliction marked by shrinkage and contraction of part of the penis, causes deviation of the erect penis to one side, pain and difficult intercourse. The cause is unknown.

Traditional treatment includes cortisone injections into the shrunken areas or surgical removal of the constricting tissue. Also, some urologists have reported benefits from ultrasound treatment to the contracted portions of the penis.

Vitamin E supplements enjoyed some popularity years ago because the therapy is simple, cheap, safe and appeared to improve symptoms on occasion. However, the effects were subsequently shown to be unpredictable, probably because some patients with the condition improved spontaneously, without any treatment whatsoever.

Therefore, while vitamin E therapy will do no harm, it is not considered to be particularly helpful. My view is that you should be under the care of a urologist, who can assess the extent of your affliction and make suggestions about appropriate treatment.

New study analyzes ways to recycle medicate waste

MONTPELIER, Vt. (AP) — The life-saving business of a hospital operating room generates lots of paper and plastic waste. Now a recycling experiment said to be a first is seeking ways to restore life to that surgical trash.

"Most people think it's bloody, messy stuff. It's not," says Hollie Shaner, a recovery room nurse at the Medical Center Hospital of Vermont. "Much of it is similar to hotel waste."

The hospital's surgical wing is the site this month of a study in separating surgical trash as a prelude to finding ways to use it again rather than dump it in crowded landfills.

Connie Leach, an independent recycling consultant, said the effort — called MedCycle and funded by an $11,000 grant from the Vermont Agency of Natural Resources — represents the first surgical recycling program in the country.

Already, she said, the hospital emergency room has been able to cut by 75 to 80 percent the amount of stuff it used to throw out.

During the first 15 days of the study, more than a ton of garbage was diverted from the dump for potential re-use.

"I hope to make this a model for hospitals across the country," Leach said. "They can learn there is a way to control this type of waste."

Shaner said separating hazardous, infectious waste from reusable trash was no problem because it was already being separated for safe disposal. "Recyclers think AIDS and hepatitis and the New Jersey beach when they think of medical waste," she said. "Most of it's just plain old garbage."

More than half of what gets thrown out in the operating room is packaging material.

All instruments, gauze and liquid used in surgery must be sterile. The materials come hermetically sealed — double and even triple-packaged in some instances. Under the MedCycle program, the various kinds of packaging are identified and sorted.

The bulk of this is "blue wrap," a fabric made of paper and plastic weave used to cover sterilized surgical instruments, stainless steel bowls and all other items used in surgery.

Leach covers her garden with it to protect her plants.

Other waste includes rigid plastic trays, film, white virgin boxboard, solution bottles and aluminum products.

Leach is sending samples of that kind of trash to recyclers to find a potential market. She says many of the plastic products could be recycled into planters, garbage cans and lawn furniture.

Before the recycling effort began, Shaner and Leach anticipated that hospital workers could fill about 50 bags a day with recyclable materials. More than twice that number are being filled.

Now, the two hope to publish the results of their work in medical and solid waste journals.

"We want to show here's how to catch the stuff and here's what to do with it," Shaner said. "And we want to demonstrate to recyclers that medical waste is not all dangerous or a public hazard."

The good signaling days

By Phillip Alder

There are days when you seem to be dealt all the right cards as defender. Your partner makes a good lead, and you have an eight or a nine to encourage him to continue. On other days nothing goes right. Your partner makes a great lead, but you have only the two and three with which to signal. He sees the three, thinks it is discouraging and makes a fatal switch.

In a Vanderbilt match at Atlantic City last March, North became the declarer in four spades at one table. East led his singleton club. Declarer won with his ace, drew trumps in three rounds and ran the clubs, discarding two heart losers from dummy. Now declarer led a diamond; he lost only three red-suit tricks.

At the other table, the bidding (given in the diagram) was very aggressive. Perhaps South should have doubled four hearts, but it takes careful defense to defeat that contract. Instead he went for his own game.

West led the diamond ace. East was in an ideal position; he dropped the diamond nine. Whether his partner thought this was encouraging or thought it was a suit-preference signal for hearts, East held what was needed. West, holding a singleton diamond, actually read the signal as suit preference and switched to a low heart at trick two. East won with the heart queen, cashed the diamond king, gave his partner a diamond ruff, and regained the lead with the heart king. Now a fourth diamond effected a trump promotion. If South ruffed low, West would overruff, but when declarer ruffed high, East had to score a trick with the spade jack. That was three down, plus 500, and a gain of 920 points.

Bush revs up golf game and he may start jogging again

KENNEBUNKPORT, Maine (AP) — President Bush must be getting better. He's back to his high-speed golf game. And doctors have given him the go-ahead to start jogging again.

Looking more rested than he has since the onset of his thyroid illness, the president on Tuesday pronounced himself revived and rested from his five-day vacation at his oceanside home. "I wish I had about four more days here," he complained.

The president was heading back to the White House today via a typical Bush detour — Colorado Springs, Colo., where he was to address the U.S. Air Force Academy.

Meanwhile, technicians are checking the tap water at Walker's Point in Maine and at the White House on the odd chance that it might contain two chemicals — iodine and lithium — that are sometimes associated with Graves' disease, the thyroid disorder suffered by both the president and his wife Barbara.

Not only do the Bushes have the condition, but their dog Millie suffers from a related disorder of the autoimmune system.

Bush expressed astonishment that the water was being checked, but said "let them look into it."

Bush has always claimed to be refreshed by his frequent trips back to the six-acre compound that has been a Bush family vacation home throughout the century.

But this time, the R&R was more important than usual as Bush fights the thyroid disorder that sapped his strength and took more than a dozen pounds off his already-lanky frame.

As the president was winding up a vacation of boating and golfing, he was looking more and more like his old self — even gaining back some of the lost weight.

He said he's sleeping better and doesn't have so many bouts of fatigue as before, and has been regaining some of his lost weight.

After dropping from his usual 200 pounds to 185 pounds in the space of three weeks, Bush said that when he weighed himself on Tuesday morning he was back up to 190.

For the first time in his life, Bush said, he's been taking naps after lunch.

"In terms of feeling good, I really do. I'm not just putting that on, I feel very good."

High school drama teacher fired

DALLAS (AP) — A Catholic high school drama teacher was fired after he directed a play about homosexuals at a local theater.

Bruce Coleman, a teacher since January at Bishop Lynch High School, said Tuesday he was fired May 6 after principal Edward Leyden saw a newspaper review of the play "Jerker."

The play, presented at the Dallas Alliance Theater, follows the growing love between two men whose relationship consists almost entirely of phone calls. News Classified Ads Call 573-5486 For Results Use Snyder Daily

Ranger run halted by Twins' Erickson

ARLINGTON, Texas (AP) — Scott Erickson wasn't about to be victimized a second time by the streaking Texas Rangers as he ended the major league's longest winning streak in three years. "They got me the first time and I got them this time," Erickson said. "I learned something the last time against them."

Correction...

Tuesday's SDN story listing Snyder Country Club Memorial Day ABCD Scramble winners incorrectly listed one member as R.J. Hernandez. The golfer's name is R.T. Henderson. Others on his second place team were Bill Hartsfield, Theresa Jones and Norma Crowder.

record 14-game winning streak, fell to the Minnesota Twins 3-0 Tuesday as Erickson pitched eight shutout innings and gave up only seven singles.

"You've got to pitch good to beat this team," said Minnesota manager Tom Kelly. "You can't slide by with a half-baked effort."

Texas entered the game with the major league's top hitting percentage of .294 and the best slugging percentage at .447.

"Somebody would have got 'em sooner or later," Erickson said. "This is the fourth time I've faced them. They hit me pretty good the last time (10 hits in seven innings including two homers) and we had all week to talk about this start. They hit two balls deep last time and I'm a groundball pitcher. I have to learn from it."

"Tonight I mixed my pitches up. Most of my called third strikes were on sliders when they were expecting to see a fastball. A couple of times I threw two sliders in a row and they didn't expect that," he said.

The Rangers' 14 consecutive wins was the longest winning streak in the major leagues since Oakland won 14 in 1988.

In each of the games during their winning streak, the Rangers had produced at least five runs and nine hits.

Erickson won his seventh consecutive game, tying the Los Angeles Dodgers' Ramon Martinez for the longest winning streak in the majors.

Erickson joins Chuck Finley, Roger Clemens and Mike Moore as seven-game winners in the American League. Erickson has allowed seven earned runs in his last 59.1 innings and his season ERA is 1.63.

It was only Minnesota's second victory in its last nine games.

Graf, Agassi advance to 3rd round

PARIS (AP) — Steffi Graf and Andre Agassi, playing aggressive, near perfect tennis, became the first seeds to reach the third round of the French Open today.

The second-seeded Graf demolished Petra Langrova, a 20-year-old Czechoslovak ranked 80th in the world, 6-0, 6-1, in just 45 minutes.

Agassi, the men's No. 4 seed, won almost as easily, eliminating Petr Korda of Czechoslovakia 6-1, 6-2, 6-2, and setting up a possible third-round match with John McEnroe's younger brother, Patrick.

The men's field lost its fifth seed through injury. Spanish clay-court specialist Sergi Bruguera, who beat Boris Becker in the Monte Carlo Open final last month, withdrew because of back

Portland stops Lakers, 95-84

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — Buck Williams is rebounding, James Worthy is limping and the Portland Trail Blazers are still alive in the Western Conference finals.

Williams set the tone for a dominating Portland performance on the boards Tuesday night as the Blazers beat Los Angeles 95-84 to force a Game 6 on Thursday.

"Buck was really intense before the game. He was very quiet, and that's very unusual for Buck," Clyde Drexler said. "So I knew he was going to come out like a maniac."

Williams grabbed 16 rebounds as the Blazers commanded the boards 52-33, including a Portland playoff record 26 offensive rebounds. The Lakers had just nine offensive boards.

Seven of Williams' rebounds came in the third quarter, when the Blazers outscored the Lakers 28-18 to take control of the game.

"Buck was awesome. He was unbelievable," Portland coach Rick Adelman said. "He was everywhere."

The Blazers still trail the best-of-7 series 3-2 and the Lakers can earn their eighth trip to the NBA Finals in the last decade with a victory Thursday in the Forum, where they blew out Portland twice last weekend.

The Trail Blazers had the best road record in the league in the regular season, but they're 1-5 away from home in the playoffs. So will they be able to continue the intensity they displayed Tuesday night in the hostile environment of the Forum?

"A lot of things have been said about this team's mental toughness," Williams said. "The true test is going to be in Game 6."

The Lakers will have to win Thursday without a healthy Worthy, who sprained his left ankle in the first quarter. He tried to play but finally sat down for good with 9:34 to play and finished with 12 points.

"We tried to see if he could go," Lakers coach Mike Dunleavy said. "But it was clear he couldn't, so we just tried to get him out of there and hopefully ready for Game 6."

Worthy said he plans to play Thursday, but team physician Stephen Lombardo said the severity of the injury wouldn't be known for 24 hours.

In the first half, the Lakers seemed in good shape to win the game and advance to a Finals showdown against the Chicago Bulls. They led by as many as eight points and still were on top 50-47 at halftime.

"Everything was good," Johnson said. "It just fell apart."

NASA has begun 2nd countdown for space shuttle

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — NASA resumed the countdown for the shuttle Columbia's medical research mission after a 10-day delay to replace damaged fuel sensors that officials said could have caused the shuttle to explode.

The countdown clock began ticking Tuesday at 9 p.m. EDT. NASA hopes to send the spaceship into orbit Saturday morning with seven astronauts, 30 white rats and 2,478 jellyfish.

Workers also had to replace bad computer parts in Columbia, NASA's oldest shuttle.

"All the work is done, and we're ready to go," said Lisa Malone, a spokeswoman for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

Columbia's nine-day flight was to begin May 22, but the countdown was halted the day before launch.

Mission managers feared Columbia's fuel temperature sensors might have cracks similar to those found on a leaky sensor removed last fall. They did not learn of the cracks until they received a report on the sensor two days before the scheduled liftoff.

One of nine sensors removed from Columbia late last week was found to have a cracked weld. Tests also revealed cracks in the steel welds of two sensors taken from the shuttle Discovery and two from the shuttle Atlantis.

None of the five was as badly damaged as the one taken last fall from Columbia, said NASA spokesman James Hartsfield.

The fear was that if one of the pencil-sized sensors broke, pieces of it could be carried into a high-pressure turbopump, causing engine failure and an explosion.

Columbia had computer trouble early last week, too. One of the ship's main computers failed, as did a unit that processes computer signals.

Workers installed new computer components and replaced six fuel temperature sensors with spares, five for liquid oxygen fuel and one for liquid hydrogen. Workers plugged holes where three other hydrogen sensors had been located.

Shuttle managers decided to keep a hydrogen sensor located upstream from a filter, which would prevent the device from flowing toward the turbopump. The other three were downstream, and engineers said they posed an unnecessary risk.

Columbia's nine-day voyage will be the 41st flight of a shuttle and the first mission since 1985 to use Spacelab. The bus-sized laboratory fits in the cargo bay and is connected to the crew cabin by a tunnel.

The crew includes three physicians and one cell biologist. Three of the astronauts are women, a space flight record.

Family's Comedy of Manners Leaves Grandma With Frown

By Abigail Van Buren
© 1991 Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: My grandson (I'll call him Stuart) is a 19-year-old college student. A few weeks ago, I noticed that a stage play was coming to town. Because Stuart had played the lead in that play in high school, I wrote to him, offering to treat him and a friend to two tickets. I asked him to let me know which performance he wanted to see so that I could purchase the tickets and mail them to him.

DEAR HEAVY: Your grandson should have personally acknowledged your offer of the tickets with thanks and regrets for his inability to accept. But since he failed to do so, you should not have attempted to punish him by reporting his bad manners to his father. A 19-year-old college student is old enough to take his own lumps. Should Stuart have another lapse of bad manners, sock it to him — not his father.

DEAR ABBY: A friend of mine invited me out for an evening's entertainment. One of the places we went to had quarter slot machines. My friend handed me four quarters and said, "Here, have a good time." I put the first quarter in. Nothing. The second quarter, nothing. Same with the third quarter, and ditto the last quarter. I looked in my purse and found one lone quarter, so I put it in the slot machine and turned away when the bells started ringing, and money began pouring out! I couldn't believe it. This was the first time I had ever won a jackpot. I was so excited, I was in a total fog for the rest of the evening.

The next day I told the kids at work about it and they all thought I should have offered to split my winnings with my date. Why? It wasn't his quarter I won with.

LUCKY LADY
DEAR LUCKY: Even if you had won the jackpot with your date's quarter, the jackpot would have been all yours. When someone gives another gambling money, the winnings belong to the person who did the betting. Had you offered your date part of your winnings, fine and dandy — but you didn't owe him anything.

Hazardous waste bill sent to Gov. Richards

AUSTIN (AP) — Two environmental groups questioned the effectiveness of a bill to place new restrictions on building hazardous waste dumps in Texas.

"From what we know, and what we see, we're very disappointed ... We ended up with much less than we needed," said Rick Abraham, executive director of Texans United.

Texans United has 70,000 members and works in communities that have toxic pollution problems, Abraham said Tuesday.

Jim Marston, director of the Texas office of the Environmental Defense Fund, said of the bill, "It may work. It may not."

Representatives from other groups that backed environmental legislation did not immediately return calls from The Associated Press.

The Texas Chemical Council, which represents about 90 chemical manufacturers, did not have an immediate comment on the bill, said Monte Janssen, a vice president of the group.

Gov. Ann Richards called the bill "progressive" after it was approved in the final hour of the legislative session, which ended Monday at midnight.

Chuck McDonald, a spokesman for the governor, said of the criticism, "It's unfortunate that some people feel that way about the bill ... It is very strong legislation. It completely changes the way Texas makes decisions about hazardous waste disposal."

Under the bill, permits for new hazardous waste disposal facilities pending at the Texas Water Commission could not be finally acted on until the agency develops required new rules. That process is set to take 120 days.

Marston and Abraham noted that Richards initially had called for a two-year moratorium on permits. Her press secretary, Bill Cryer, said at that time that Richards was not tied to that time period, but wanted some "breathing space" for new rules to be implemented.

A commercial hazardous waste disposal facility could not be built within one-half mile of an established residence, church, school, dedicated public park, or surface public water drinking supply. In a previous version of the bill, the distance was two-thirds of a mile.

To be built at a greater distance from such areas, the applicant for a dump permit would have to show the facility would be operated in a way to safeguard public health and protect the environment.

Public meetings would be required on proposed new hazardous waste disposal facilities.

Resumes

Southern Electric enjoys a worldwide reputation of respect.

In fact the company is so renowned — according to the applications — that it inspired a dentist, with such prestigious credentials as being named "best teeth technician" at a 1984 competition, to apply. He adds he could also work as a technical electrician.

A few of the resumes included recommendations which sport an official looking stamp. In some of the recommendations, echoes of big brother can be heard. For example, Vladimir L. Bobchinski's boasts that he has never violated the labor and/or production discipline.

The Soviet applicants are for the most part in their 20's with a few in their 30's and 40's. A couple of the resumes are from women.

One young bachelor says he "behaves himself" while several others note such practical skills as first aid and English.

The latest long-distance application arrived Tuesday and was the first one written completely in Russian.

Does Reed think he will hire any of the applicants?

"We're just not hiring at all right now," he said.

Special session slated

reorganize the whole thing and have the authority (to do so) before December. And that is very exciting. I believe that's going to come about," she said.

Once the government reorganization is finished, Richards said, the regular budget work can proceed.

The governor and legislative leaders hailed the accomplishments of their 1991 lawmaking session.

Richards, a former school teacher, gave lawmakers "an A-plus" — and high marks for herself, too.

"All in all for me, it has been a fantastic session," she said. "And I think it's been a good one for the people of Texas."

Both Lt. Gov. Bob Bullock and House Speaker Gib Lewis praised the insurance, anti-crime, education and environmental bills that won passage before time ran out on the session Monday.

The three leaders also touted the ethics reform bill, although details remained a bit fuzzy Tuesday about the measure that won passage only five minutes before the session ended at midnight.

"I take a lot of heart in having passed what is really progressive ethics legislation, that we have passed a real beginning on quality education," Richards said.

Republican Party officials weren't as enthusiastic, saying the governor and Democratic-controlled Legislature deserved a report card full of incompletes and failures.

"Gov. Ann Richards supported a statewide property tax, refused to rule out a Texas income tax, lost her push for a lottery, was totally absent on the issue of school finance and had to resort to last-minute threats to win approval of a watered-down ethics bill," said GOP Chairman Fred Meyer.

Meyer said the governor did deserve an "A" grade in two areas — "for enthusiasm and crafty public relations."

Say he tried to run officer down...

Police again confront Rodney King

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The motorist whose videotaped beating created a furor about police brutality tried to run down a vice officer who approached him after he picked up a male prostitute, police said today.

Rodney King, 25, was taken into custody about 11:30 p.m. Tuesday for investigation of assault with a deadly weapon, police spokesman Bill Frio said.

King was released about 6:30 a.m. today pending a decision by the district attorney's office about whether to pursue charges, Sgt. John Johnston said.

The two vice officers did not know it was King's car they followed into an underground garage near Hollywood Boulevard after the driver picked up a man dressed in women's clothes, Johnston said.

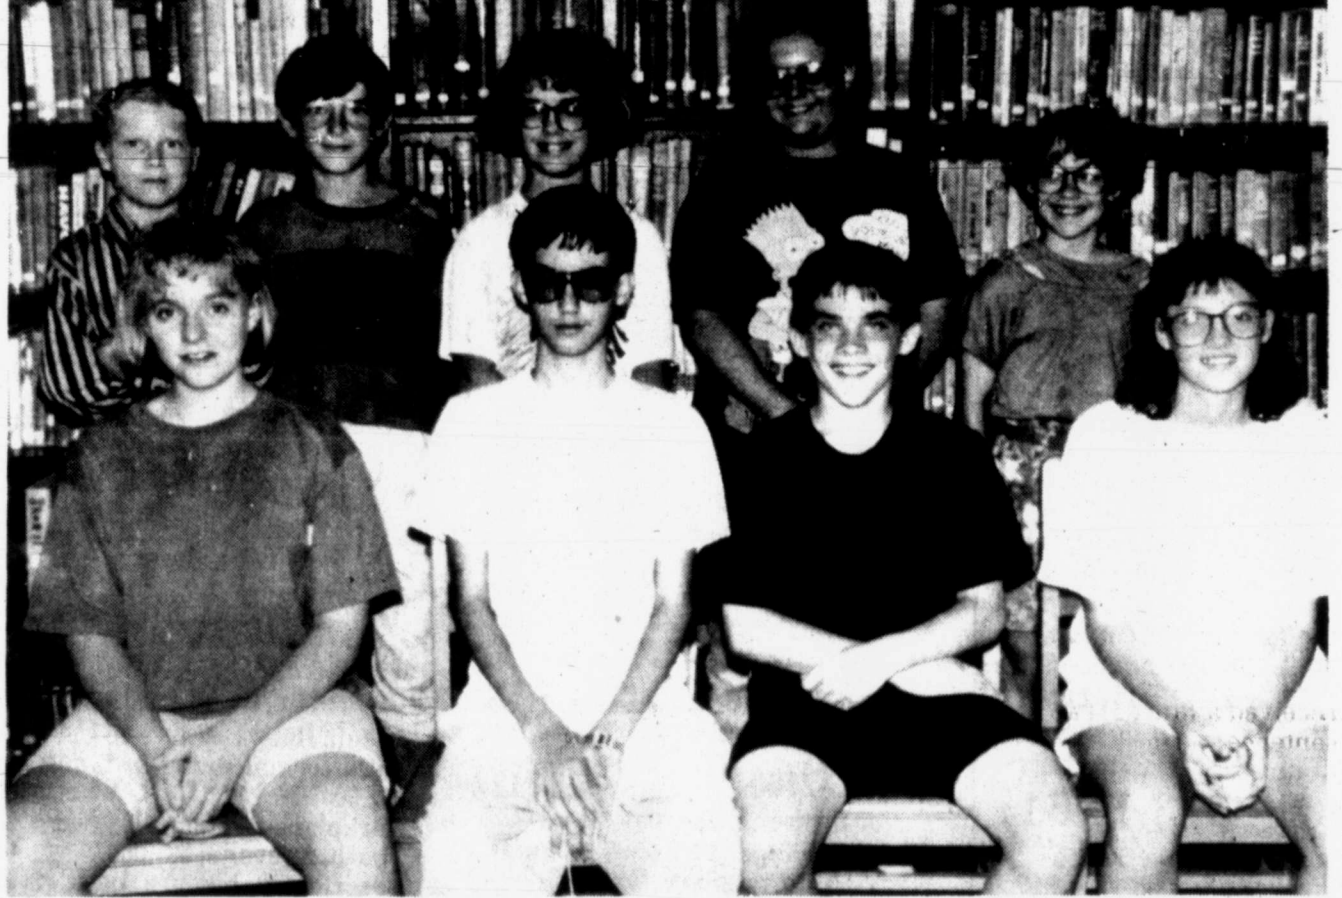

"As they were moving up on the car, they were observed by the prostitute at which time they identified themselves as police officers and everything else," he said.

"Mr. King suddenly backed his car up and starts moving forward and in the process of doing that, he ran directly at a police officer, in fact he swerved enough to where a police officer had to jump over a wall to get out of his way," Johnston said. King left the garage and was stopped moments later by a patrol car, police said. Four officers are charged with felony assault in the March 3 arrest of King. A bystander's videotape showed a large crowd of white officers gathered and watched the beating of King, who is black. King's attorneys maintain he was an innocent victim of a pattern of police brutality sanctioned by police officials.

Ruling puts North convictions in jeopardy

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court's decision to let stand a key lower court ruling in the Iran-Contra case of Oliver L. North puts the former White House aide's three convictions in severe jeopardy, legal experts say.

Prosecutors now face the extremely difficult — perhaps impossible — task of proving that testimony North was compelled to give Congress didn't seep into his criminal trial in federal court, these experts say.

In 1987, North spent a week in televised hearings telling Congress about his efforts to trade arms with Iran for American hostages and use the weapons-sale profits to help the Nicaraguan Contras. On Tuesday, the Supreme Court let stand an appellate panel's order that the trial judge in North's criminal case must review the testimony to determine if witnesses were influenced by what North told Congress under a limited grant of immunity. The immunity grant barred prosecutors from using North's testimony as evidence against him. Iran-Contra prosecutor Lawrence E. Walsh vowed Tuesday to try to prove that North's convictions for trying to cover up the Iran-Contra affair were not "tainted" by references to his congressional testimony. But "Walsh may have an impossible burden," said defense attorney Abbey Lowell, who specializes in public corruption cases. "I can't imagine given how it got this way that Walsh could satisfy the criteria" set by the appeals court. "It is a very onerous burden and it should be an onerous burden," said Washington attorney Richard Ben-Veniste, a former Watergate prosecutor. "You have to give an in-depth demonstration through each important witness that they were untainted by testimony," Ben-Veniste said. "Taint is like leaching water, you never know how it's going to pollute something," said E. Lawrence Barcella Jr., a former federal prosecutor who now practices criminal law in Washington. "All I seen was a gun and hand. That's all I had seen," Hafdahl said in trial testimony.

Stay granted to convicted cop killer

HUNTSVILLE, Texas (AP) — The Texas Court of Criminal Appeals has granted a stay of execution, for convicted capital murderer Randall Wayne Hafdahl, who was scheduled to die by lethal injection before dawn Thursday.

The state appeals court granted the stay late Tuesday. Tuesday morning, the U.S. Supreme Court affirmed Hafdahl's 1986 conviction, saying he received a fair trial and a proper sentence. Tuesday afternoon, State District Court Judge David Gleason of Amarillo also denied Hafdahl's motion for a new trial.

die for the Nov. 11, 1985, shooting death of police Sgt. James Delbert Mitchell Jr., 42, in Amarillo. Mitchell was on his way home after his shift that night, when he saw a car cut in front of him and lose control, cross a median and access road and smash into a fence. Testimony showed Mitchell stopped to see if anyone was hurt and saw Hafdahl attempting to flee. When the officer ordered Hafdahl to stop, witnesses said the former painter and mechanic opened fire, killing Mitchell. Hafdahl argued in his appeal that he did not know Mitchell was a police officer until after the shots were fired. Hafdahl testified during the trial that he believed the officer was an angry driver who also was involved in the accident. "All I seen was a gun and hand. That's all I had seen," Hafdahl said in trial testimony.

administrator for the Court of Criminal Appeals, said the appellate court granted Hafdahl a 60-day stay to allow his new lawyer to file additional motions in the case. Randall County Criminal District Attorney Randy Sherrod, who prosecuted Hafdahl, criticized the appeals court decision. "It's just these constant delay tactics," Sherrod said. "It's an abuse of the process when all they're trying to do is not raise a legitimate point of error but keep people alive even though they've been sentenced to death."
