In Brief

Oil import fee

AUSTIN (AP) — Congressional support is mounting for legislation to set a $20-per-barrel floor price for oil through an import fee, U.S. House Majority Leader Richard Gephardt told oil industry officials.

Gephardt, speaking to the Texas Independent Producers & Royalty Owners Association, also said President Bush's national energy strategy falls short of helping the economy or reducing U.S. dependence on foreign oil.

He said a fee on imported oil to set a floor price is crucial for the nation's economy and security.

DETROIT (AP) — A saturated electronics market of microwaves and VCRs led Highland Superstores Inc., one of the nation's largest appliance chains, to close 32 Texas and New England stores and stop paying creditors, analysts say.

"I'm surprised, but this is not a total shocker," said Martin Brachstein, senior editor of Television Digest, a weekly consumer electronics trade newsletter.

Fired worker murders two

SAN DIEGO (AP) — A laid-off computer technician shot his way into his old workplace, set off bombs and hunted for his old bosses, killing two men, authorities said.

The man, identified as Larry Thomas Hansel, 41, fled on a bicycle and later drove his pickup 135 miles northeast to Palm Desert, where he surrendered to Riverside County sheriff's deputies, authorities said.

Hansel admitted to the killings, San Diego Police Lt. Dan Berglund said. Sheriff's deputies seized a rifle and shotgun. Authorities planned to return him to San Diego today.

Company employees said Hansel was after three men, one of whom was killed.

"He knew what he was doing. He had a mission, and his mission was to shoot a couple of people,"

Bush ready to extend trade status

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Bush is poised to ease tariff barriers to Soviet imports, opening the door to normal commerce for the first time since World War II, administration and congressional sources say.

Sometime in the next few weeks, the sources said Tuesday, the White House will announce its approval of most-favored-nation status for the Soviet Union, which carries with it the lowest available tariffs on imports.

For example, MFN status would cut by 90 percent the current $1.32 per liter levy on a bottle of Soviet vodka.

At the same time, the White House will formally submit for congressional approval the U.S.-Soviet trade agreement signed at a Washington summit a year ago but held in abeyance while Moscow passed a liberalized freedom-of-emigration law.

"It's a done deal," said a Republican source who spoke on condition of anonymity. "It's just a question of when the president will announce it."

While the gesture may not make a huge immediate difference in the volume of bilateral trade, it is an important symbol that the Soviets are joining the mainstream of the international community, said Peter Rodman, a fellow at the Johns Hopkins Foreign Policy Institute.

said Chris Kelford, chief financial officer of Elgar Corp.

Kelford tried to clear the building after the shooting started and found himself facing the gunman.

"He looked at me straight in the eye and told me to get out," Kelford said.

A computer technician, Hansel was among a dozen workers laid off about three months ago from Elgar Corp. during cutbacks, Kelford said.

"He had a bit of history," said Drummond Murdoch chairman of Elgar's industrial electronics division. "He was a bit religious, and he kept preaching the Gospel on the floor."

Hansel went to the building early Tuesday and asked who was in, Murdoch said. When he returned, Hansel said he was searching for three former bosses, Murdoch said.

He came back at about 2:30 p.m., set off at least two remote-controlled bombs and blew out the telephone switchboard with a gun blast, Kelford said. One bomb started a fire with flames 15 feet high.

Shot to death were John Jones, 48, vice president and general manager — one of the men Hansel said he was looking for — Mike Krowitz, 46, regional sales manager, Murdoch said.

Their bodies were found side-by-side in a cubicle on the top floor of the two-story building.

Snyder native is new police chief

A Snyder native — a graduate of Snyder High School and Western Texas College's law enforcement program — Tuesday afternoon was named city police chief.

Lannie Lee, currently administrative lieutenant for the city of Midland police department, will assume his duties in Snyder on July 1. The 40-year-old Lee will replace Bill Stone who retires at the end of June after 18 years as Snyder chief of police.

Lee is a 1969 graduate of Snyder High School and in 1973 graduated from WTC. He graduated from Texas A&I University in Corpus Christi with a BS degree in law enforcement and a minor in sociology.

City Manager John Gayle said Lee was selected from 37 candidates. "He reflects the highest qualities of the law enforcement profession, and his qualifications will be a benefit to the community of Snyder."

From April, 1973 to August, 1974, Lee was a patrolman for the Snyder police department. In 1974, he joined the Nueces County Sheriff's department. He also was employed for three years for the Portland Police Department, spending the last year as a detective sergeant responsible for all investigations.

He joined the Midland Police Department in February, 1977 as a patrol officer. He has served as sergeant, patrol lieutenant, detective lieutenant and administrative lieutenant.

Lee has specialized training at the FBI National Academy and the Department of Public Safety training schools. He has also attended quarterly seminars presented by the Commission on Accreditation for Law Enforcement Agencies.

Lee and his wife, Loretta, have two children. LaTrisha is age 11 and Lyndell is age 8. They are members of the Church of Christ.

Mrs. Lee is a speech therapist, and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lester Bryce, live in Snyder.

County to delay look at precincts

Redistricting of county precinct boundaries will have to wait until later, Scurry County Judge Bob Doolittle said Wednesday.

Doolittle said the county is in the midst of preparing the 1992 budget and addressing county residents for the 911 system, and that redistricting would take priority after the other two issues at hand have been finished.

Boundaries of precincts are redrawn according to census results in an effort to ensure even distribution of voters as mandated by federal law. According to the law, the four commissioner precincts should be approximately the same in population, with

Columbia finally roars into orbit

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — The shuttle Columbia roared into orbit today with seven astronauts and 2,507 jellyfish and rats on an unprecedented quest for answers to the medical mysteries of space travel. The 100-ton spaceship blasted off with the four men, three women, 2,478 tiny jellyfish and 29 rats at 9:25 a.m. EDT. It rose from the pad on a pillar of flame into a overcast sky, then headed out over the Atlantic Ocean.

The twin solid rocket boosters burned for two minutes before falling empty into the Atlantic, where ships waited to pick them up. Then, 8½ minutes into the flight, Columbia reached an 184-mile-high orbit on the thrust of three main engines.

It was the third launch attempt for the biomedical research mission, postponed twice during the past two weeks by faulty shuttle parts. Low, dense clouds delayed today's liftoff nearly 1½ hours before the lightening enough to permit a safe launch.

Bill Davies to attend reunion

Bill Davies, a Scurry County rancher, will be in Arlington this weekend attending a reunion of an elite scientific group responsible for developing radar used in World War II.

In 1941, Davies was a lieutenant at Fort Monmouth, N.J., when he was assigned to the U.S. Army Signal Corps and the special Electronics Training Group (ETG). The unit was commonly known as "Rare Birds."

One of the best-kept secrets of the war was the development of the nuclear bomb, but another well-protected secret was the formation of a group of scientists and engineers to study, research and develop radar and to formulate application for military use.

Following an agreement between President Franklin Roosevelt and England Prime Minister Winston Churchill in 1940, the U.S. Signal Corps was assigned to select and recruit about 200 men for the unit.

Even after being selected, Davies said they were not told the backgrounds of their transfers because of the secret nature of the project.

AP poll says Bush is expected to win his second term

NEW YORK (AP) — Almost two-thirds of Americans questioned in an Associated Press poll believe it is very likely President Bush will be re-elected in 1992, a reflection of the political strength the president drew from the Persian Gulf War.

An additional 29 percent said a Bush victory was somewhat likely, making an overwhelming total of 93 percent who expect the Republicans to keep the White House. Only 4 percent doubted Bush would win.

The telephone survey showed the immense challenge Democrats face in the 17 months remaining before the election. And it pointed to the importance of domestic issues in the campaign still to come.

Those interviewed said the economy, education and health care costs were the issues most important in deciding how they would vote in 1992.

The poll of 1,005 adults was conducted May 29-June 2 by ICR Survey Research Group of Media, Pa.

Most respondents said it wouldn't make much difference to them whether a Democrat or Republican occupied the White House.

Only one in four said they would be better off in future years if the Republicans won the 1992 presidential election. One in five said they would be better off with the Democrats. Most of the rest, 55 percent, said it wouldn't matter much.

Even among people who said they were Democrats, only two-fifths said they would be better off with a Democratic president. Three-fifths of Republicans said they would be better off with a GOP victory.

Respondents were asked to choose from among eight issues that could be presidential campaign material.

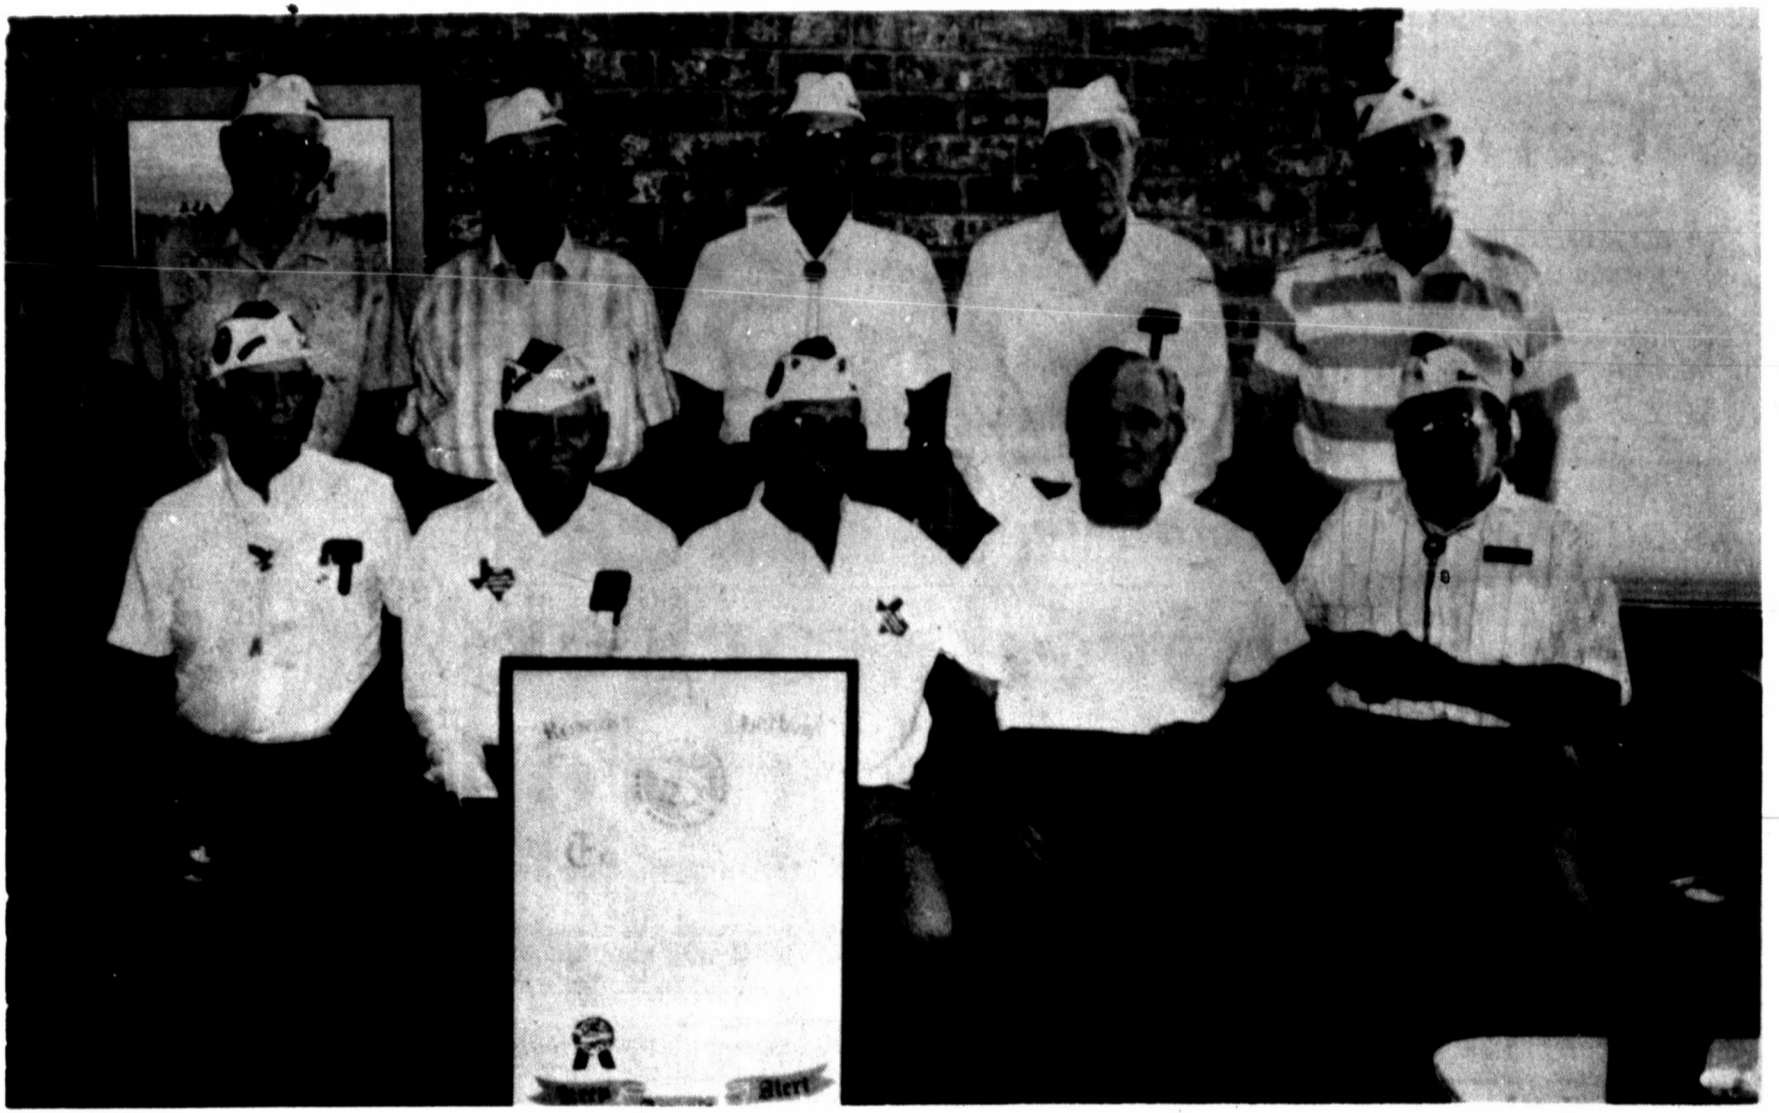

About one in four, or 26 percent, said the economy was the most important issue. Education ranked second at 17 percent, followed by health care costs, 13 percent; drug abuse, 11 percent; crime, 10 percent; and the environment, 7 percent.

Foreign policy, Bush's generally acknowledged strong suit, ranked second to last at 5 percent. Civil rights, the issue Bush and the Democrats were pummeling each other with when the poll was taken, ranked last at 4 percent.

The rankings among registered voters were no different, but some variations occurred among those who identified themselves with a political party. Democrats ranked health care costs second, at 20 percent. Republicans put crime third, at 11 percent.

A majority, 53 percent, said they agreed with the statement: "George Bush has shown he really cares about people like me," and 39 percent disagreed. The percentages were almost identical among registered voters.

Nixon-era White House tapes revealed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Out of the echoes of long-ago conversations, taped by an un-discriminating robot system, come more of the maneuverings in Richard Nixon's White House. And the words are just as earthy as they were years ago and just as fascinating.

Here is the president of the United States, vintage 1973, talking about John Dean, his chief accuser in the then-boiling Watergate scandal:

"I think he's out to save himself. He's going to play every card that he can and, a desperate man, he may want to bring the president down, too... There's no other choice (than) to fight like hell. This is an evil man."

And at another point in that dinner-hour conversation with chief of staff H.R. Haldeman on April 25, 1973:

"I always wondered about that taping equipment, but I'm damn glad we have it, aren't you?"

As the whole world knows, it was that taping equipment with its ubiquitous microphones that did Nixon in.

The famed Watergate tapes, all 4,000 hours of them, have languished in the rot-proof vaults of the National Archives as if they were in a Pandora's Box waiting to be sprung open. Their public release has been argued and delayed endlessly by litigation.

On Tuesday, some 60 hours of recordings that had been used by Watergate prosecutors to build their case were let loose on the world. About one-fourth of them had never been heard by the outside world.

There again a listener could hear the broken, incomplete sentences spoken by Nixon and the characters that peopled the great Watergate drama: crewcut taskmaster Haldeman, bushy-browed No. 2 lieutenant John D. Ehrlichman, former Attorney General and Nixon pal John H. Mitchell, ruthless aide Charles Colson and presidential counsel Dean, who snitched to prosecutors.

If one didn't know the story, these transcripts would make no sense. They are difficult to follow even if you were prone — in Nixon's phrase — to wallow in Watergate.

On April 12, Colson assured Nixon that the man in the street "just doesn't give a damn" about Watergate.

"It's the elite," said the president.

"It's with the elite," Colson agreed, "but the worse place it is, is with the party people."

Said Nixon: "That's what I mean by the elite. I mean the finance contributors and all those assholes."

On Sept. 15, 1972, when the Watergate burglars were indicted, Dean and Haldeman ruminated about how they were going to use the Internal Revenue Service and the FBI to get the Democrats after the election — and knock off a tax commissioner, too.

"I'll look forward to the time that we have the entrance to the Department of Justice and IRS totally under our control," the president said.

Dean mentioned he had approached IRS Commissioner Johnnie Walters about getting the tax files of a political enemy.

"Throw him out of the office," Haldeman said. "Dean's in control..."

Haldeman said that after the campaign they should go after their opponents and "let the Democrats stand there and squeal."

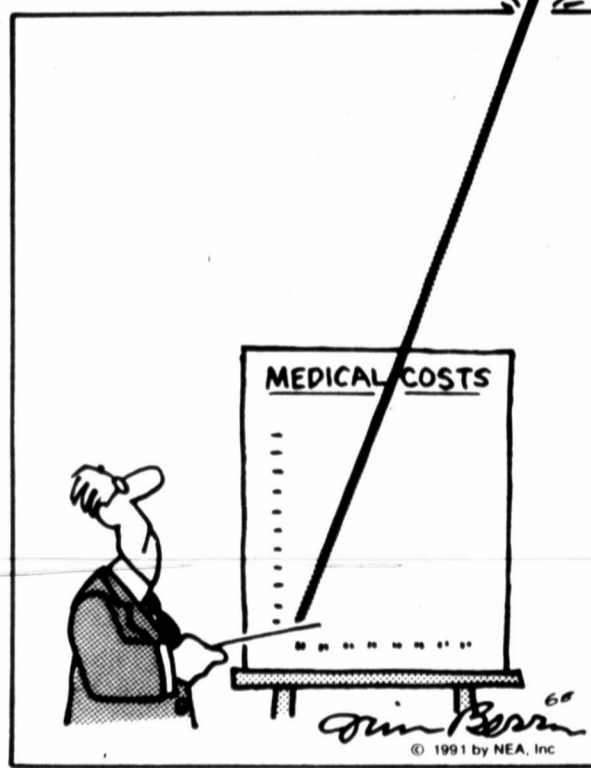

The plotters went on to work out how they would turn charges of loopholes in the tax law back on the Democratic accusers by pulling their tax files and reviewing them.

"They're the ones who've been talking about loopholes," Nixon said.

Family buries right man after funeral home's error

HOUSTON (AP) — Tom Butler's family delayed his funeral to give out-of-town relatives a chance to attend. But when the solemn day arrived, Butler wasn't there. To the family's dismay, the funeral home had delivered the wrong body. "They had this body out. (But) it was the wrong body, dressed in the clothes of my husband," Butler's widow, Harriet, told the Houston Chronicle Tuesday. Mrs. Butler found the stranger in her husband's casket 15 minutes before the wake was to begin. And that would turn out to be only the first wrong body.

Butler, 66, a former city employee, died of cancer May 23. The family put off his funeral so that relatives and friends from out of state had time to get to Houston.

"The people were showing up for the wake, and I didn't know what to do, what to tell them," said Butler's brother, Arthur Wooder. "I was hurt and disappointed."

Wooder said he talked to funeral homeowner Earl Pruitt, who assured the family that the correct body would be sent to the chapel. But no body was delivered.

Relatives checked all the bodies in the funeral home and searched the records at the hospital. Several hours later, Pruitt told the family that Butler had been buried. The family first reported sting victim of Africanized "killer" bees in the United States.

Wooder said Pruitt told the family Butler's body would be exhumed and brought to church where the funeral was being held the following day.

When the family arrived, two men from the funeral home were waiting outside with a closed casket.

"They didn't want to open the casket to let us see if it was my husband, but the family insisted," said Mrs. Butler.

Once again, the corpse wasn't Butler's. The men took the stranger away and the family held a simple memorial service for Butler.

During the service, Pruitt showed up at the church with a third body, Wooder said, but the family refused to stop the ceremony.

Afterward, Mrs. Butler said Pruitt met with her and the family and assured them the third body was the right one. It was.

After the interment, Pruitt apologized for the mistake saying, "it was caused by human error," Mrs. Butler said. "But that was an inhuman error."

"It was a disaster. All he had to do was tell us the truth that he misplaced the body, but he lied," Wooder said.

On Monday, Mrs. Butler retained a lawyer. When the lawyer contacted Pruitt, Wooder said, the funeral director offered to refund the family the nearly $3,000 in funeral costs.

Jesus Cenobio "Sonny" Diaz, 35, was stung 18 times on May 20, he said, when his riding lawnmower disturbed a hive in a narrow culvert pipe under a driveway.

Officials with the U.S. Department of Agriculture and the Texas Agricultural Extension Service on Tuesday confirmed that Diaz was stung by the "killer" bees, so-called because of their tendency to launch mass attacks on perceived threats to their colonies.

"This is the first recorded case of multiple Africanized bee stings in the U.S.," said Alton N. "Stormy" Sparks Jr., an entomologist with the TAES.

Diaz drove himself to a Brownsville hospital, where he was given a shot for the pain and sent home. City health officials were called in after the attack.

City employees destroyed the colony and removed the hive, and sent some of the bees to the USDA's research lab in Beltsville, Md. The USDA said tests on Monday confirmed that they were Africanized bees.

In a telephone interview Tuesday night, Diaz said he was mowing grass at the Siesta Mobile Home Park in Brownsville when the bees "came by the hundreds," stinging him around the head and arms.

"I was cutting fodder with a small tractor, when I hit that nest in the earth. They swarmed out of there, and they kept going after me. They chased me for about 250 feet," Diaz said.

"Many of them were swarming around me. I cut some branches and tried to chase them away. They kept coming at me, many settling on the place that was most exposed — my head. I kept squashing them with the palm of my hand," Diaz said.

He jumped off the still-running mower and ran inside the manager's office of the trailer park, he said.

"The individual did respond properly; he took off," Sparks said. "He got out of the area that the bees were defending. ... If you disturb an established colony, get out of the area that they are defending as quickly as you can."

Henry Graham of Donna, president of the Rio Grande Valley Beekeepers Association, agreed that Diaz did the right thing by fleeing the bees, but made a mistake trying to swat them away or squash them.

"It sounds like he got stung once, then panicked and started smashing. If he had just lifted the blade of his mower, put it in high gear and driven away, he probably wouldn't have been stung more than once.

"When you smash a bee, it releases an odor, part of the bee's defense mechanism, alerting all the other bees that they are under attack, and they all come after you. Swatting at them was the worst thing he could have done," Graham said.

A swarm of Africanized bees trapped last October near the border city of Hidalgo was the first trapped in the United States. The bees crossed the Rio Grande from Mexico, and more than 25 colonies have been found since then in an area from Eagle Pass to Laredo.

They are descendants of African queen bees that escaped from an experiment in Brazil in 1957 and began breeding with the more docile European bees normally used for agriculture in the Americas. The hybrids since have spread through much of South America, Central America and Mexico.

About 600 deaths have been attributed to the bees, mostly in South America.

Dr. Gott By Peter Gott, M.D.

By Peter H. Gott, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT: Please discuss a dermoid cyst. I'm a 67-year-old female who had one tumor removed nine months ago. My surgeon indicated it wasn't cancer, yet he didn't get it all out. What remains is around the kidney and urethra and is as hard as cement. Is additional surgery the only way to treat my condition?

DEAR READER: Dermoid cysts are common, benign tumors of the ovary. They usually appear at a young age and may attain large size — often as big as a grapefruit — before they are discovered, because of discomfort.

The cysts are composed of skin cells, hair and teeth. The only satisfactory treatment is surgical removal.

Dermoid cysts can usually be completely removed (along with the affected ovary), unless some of the growth extends to surrounding tissue, such as the kidney. In these cases, the surgeon will ordinarily adopt a conservative policy by removing as much of the tumor as possible and leaving parts of the cyst that are attached to vital organs. Because the risk of malignancy is so low, this approach is appropriate. Further surgery can be considered if remnants of the cyst cause symptoms, such as pain.

From your description, I surmise that you received proper therapy. Follow your surgeon's recommendations with respect to regular examinations and supervision.

DEAR DR. GOTT: Could a side effect of Dilantin be edema in the ankles and legs? I've been treated with Lasix, but the problem remains.

DEAR READER: Many drugs cause fluid retention (edema), which can be seen as ankle swelling. Although this is not a recognized complication of Dilantin, a medicine used to control seizures, it is a remote possibility. Dilantin can affect the skin (rash) and other organs, such as the bone marrow and the liver; this could lead to edema in unusual cases.

I suggest you bring this symptom to your doctor's attention. He or she may discontinue your Dilantin (as a trial) or substitute another drug. Clearly, it doesn't make sense to use a drug, such as Lasix, a powerful diuretic, to counteract the effects of Dilantin, if alternative therapy is available.

You might be interested to know Dilantin reduces the effectiveness of many medicines, Lasix included. Therefore, if your edema were caused by Dilantin, Lasix is not a good antidote. Ask your doctor about this.

East-West cards with anything close to hand and decide upon your line of play in four spades. West having led the diamond king.

At the table, East wanted to bid over four spades, but the vulnerability was unfavorable. He decided that caution was the better part of bravery.

The declarer thought it was an easy contract. He won the opening lead with the diamond ace, discarded dummy's diamond loser on the heart ace, and led a club.

West played low, judging that declarer would play the suit differently if he held the club ace. East won with the ace and forced dummy to ruff a diamond. Declarer played a second club, but West won and led a heart, dummy having to ruff again. Now, with the spades breaking 3-1, declarer couldn't draw trumps ending in the dummy to run the club suit. He had to go down.

If declarer had only accepted a diamond loser along with two club losers. (After all, he was in four spades, not five.) After winning the first trick and losing a club immediately, declarer loses the diamond return and ruffs the diamond continuation in his hand. He then concedes another club. Notice the difference. If the defenders play a fourth round of diamonds, declarer ruffs in hand again. If they switch to a heart, declarer wins in hand with the ace. Either way, he can draw trumps ending in the dummy to run the club suit.

The side-suit enigma

If you are playing in a suit contract and you hold a side-suit that needs establishing, it is often right to attack that suit immediately.

Answers to your questions about cellular service.

Q If I'm going to be in Lubbock for the day, how easy is it for my Snyder office to get in touch with me?

A. VERY easy! As easy as R O A M ! With your cellular "roaming" capabilities, you can be reached by simply dialing your roamer access number (which varies from city to city) plus your cellular phone number. You can make it even easier by dialing "18 SEND" when you "roam" into the Lubbock cell. That way your office can reach you directly without the city access number. Roaming... just one more cellular advantage!

NBA Finals, two days of preparing to even the score and considering the dire consequences if they don't.

Los Angeles' James Worthy, recovering from an ankle injury, may be the only player who welcomed the long break between Sunday's 93-91 victory and tonight's second game.

"These guys had too long to think about" the loss, Bulls coach Phil Jackson said. "We've had too much time to coach."

"I'd much rather have played today," Chicago's Michael Jordan said Tuesday.

His Laker rival in this superstar series, Magic Johnson, also was eager to return to the enemy's court where he directed his team to victory with poise and precision.

"You'd always rather be playing than sitting around," he said Tuesday. "We'll be happy because we're playing and you (reporters) will be happy because you'll have something to write about and you won't have to keep asking us the same questions over and over."

Questions like: — Where did the Bulls' running game go?

— And, can they win the series if they lose the first two games at home with the next three on the road?

With outstanding open court players like Jordan and Scottie Pippen and strong spot-up shooters like John Paxson, the Bulls are best when the pace is quick.

The Lakers, a fastbreak team in the 1980s when they won five titles, have switched to a slower pace. They controlled the tempo in the opener of the best-of-7 series, using a deliberate post-up attack.

"We want them to take long outside shots," Chicago's Horace Grant said. "Hopefully, we'll get the rebound and get the ball to Michael, John or Scottie to push it up against their transition defense."

"If Magic has the ball in his hands, he's great at doing what he wants and getting it to people who can score," Paxson said. "Maybe we'll press a little bit more and try to make other (Lakers) make decisions on the run and get it more of a frenetic pace."

"That (fastbreak) game suits them, so we'd rather not get into it," Johnson said. "But we can still play that way, too, if we have to."

Chicago lost the opener by just two points. Had Sam Perkins' 3-pointer not gone in with 14 seconds left, the Bulls would have been ahead by two. Had Jordan's open jumper with 4.9 seconds to go dropped through, they would have been up by one.

It was a back-and-forth battle that neither team dominated for long.

"I don't think there was anything wrong with our game Sunday except they stopped the clock a little bit too early," Jackson said.

Stich in French semis after dropping Davin

PARIS (AP) — Michael Stich joined fellow German Boris Becker in the semifinals of the French Open today by defeating Franco Davin of Argentina 6-4, 6-4, 6-4.

Stich, the No. 12 seed, played aggressive serve-and-volley tennis and overpowered Davin's baseline game.

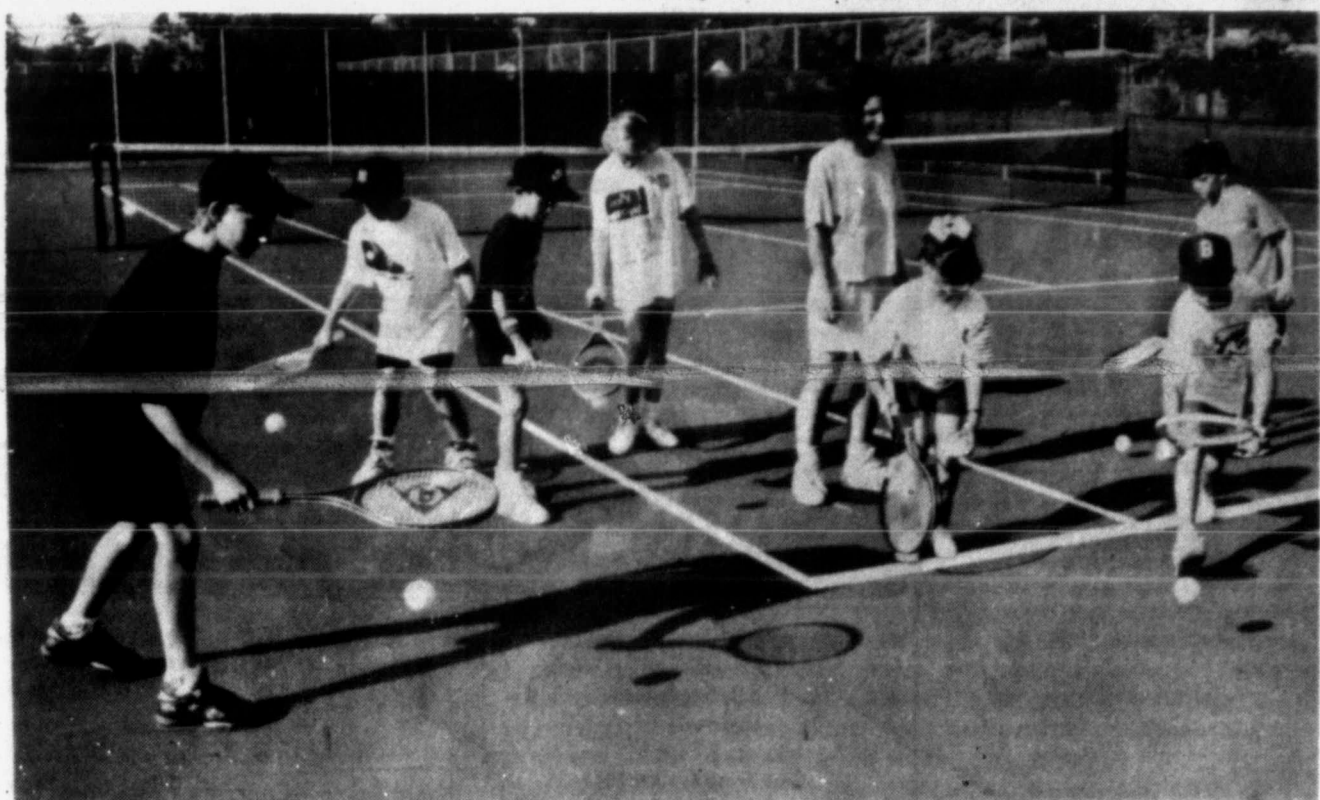

Stich's advance gave German two French Open semifinals for the first time in the tournament's history. Stich will play the winner of today's remaining quarterfinal between top-seeded Stefan Edberg and American Jim Courier, the ninth seed.

The other men's semifinal was set Tuesday, when Becker and Andre Agassi demolished their quarterfinal opponents. Agassi routed Jakob Hlasek 6-3, 6-1, 6-1 in 75 minutes, while Becker said he played "almost perfect" in a 6-4, 6-4, 6-2 victory over 1989 champion Michael Chang.

Stich, an occasional practice partner of Becker but not a close friend, said he would rather play Becker than Agassi if he makes the final.

"His game is a bit easier for me to play than Agassi," Stich said. "An all-German final would be great for German tennis."

Stich's route in the draw was Little League games are rescheduled

Baseball games that were to have been played Monday in Snyder Little League, Farm League and 8-9 Year-Old League have been rescheduled due to rain and wet field conditions.

The contests will take place at their scheduled times and sites on Saturday, according to league president Joe Gainer.

Little Dribblers in national tourney

GEORGETOWN, Tex. — Snyder's girls' Little Dribblers All-Stars will begin play in the national basketball tournament here today when the 11-12 year-old majors, coached by Jay Roemisch, Larry Braziel and Robbie Braziel, take on host Georgetown No. 2 at 6 p.m.

Snyder juniors, ages 8-10, will open Thursday competition with an 8 a.m. contest against Southwest Amarillo No. 2. Their coaches are Joe Roemisch and Glenna Barrow.

Junior all-stars from Snyder would tangle with the Levelland No. 1-Georgetown No. 2 winner at 8 a.m. Friday with an opening round victory. The loser of the Snyder-Southwest Amarillo game will face the Borger No. 2-Weatherford loser at 3:30 p.m. Thursday.

A win by the Snyder majors would have them facing the victor in the Borger No. 2-Levelland No. 1 opening round tilt, at 9:15 a.m. Thursday. A loss would pit them against the loser of the same game in an 11:45 a.m. Thursday elimination battle.

The championship game for juniors is set for 7:15 p.m. Saturday, followed at 8:30 p.m. by the major title tilt.

Snyder High School gym opens

Companies race to discover more low-fat products with 'mouthfeel'

DALLAS (AP) — There's a lot more to fat than calories and cholesterol.

"Mouthfeel" for one thing. "Fat has a structure to it... when you take that out you've got to replace it with something that gives back that structure," said Linda Myrick of FMC Corp., one of dozens of companies racing to develop fat substitutes to satisfy public demand for a healthier diet.

Ingredient makers touted their fake fats to the 14,000 scientists and food companies at the Institute of Food Technologists annual convention.

The show, which ended today, is the nation's largest gathering of the ingredient suppliers to name-brand food makers.

Pressed by consumers, food makers are eager to raise the quality of low-fat foods, which often are less tasty. They are turning to ingredient makers for solutions.

"The market is fairly saturated with low-fat products," said Wyatt Elder of Cargill Inc. "I think the trend for the next 10 years is for those products to get better."

"It's a healthier meal that you're really seeing come around," said Sue Furcsik of American Maize-Products Co.

To satisfy the demand, food scientists not only worry about calorie and cholesterol levels of fake fats but density and "mouthfeel," how much the ingredient still makes the product seem like regular food when chewed.

And then there's price. "One of the problems is fat is pretty cheap," Ms. Myrick said. "When a food manufacturer replaces that with food additives, the additives probably cost more than the fat."

The drive for the perfect fat substitute has given a boost to the multibillion-dollar ingredient industry.

"It's very exciting for the food additive industry to go after something like fat replacement," said FMC's Kevin Buck.

The Philadelphia conglomerate, which forecasts double-digit growth in fat replacement products, is working on a cellulose-based gel to replace fat in salad dressings. FMC also makes the seaweed concoction called carrageenan that gained fame as an ingredient in the low-fat burger of McDonalds Corp.

There are about a dozen types of fat replacers now used or being developed by several dozen companies.

But Cargill's Elder said, "There is no magic wand yet." The fat substitute products of FMC and American Maize-Products, for instance, are derived from carbohydrates and can't be used for frying foods.

Protein-based substitutes can sometimes be used in frying but are really best for frozen foods. Monsanto's ballyhoed Simplese dairy product is the best known of this group but cannot be used as a frying agent.

And some fat-based replacers, usually compounds scientists have altered to prevent absorption by the body, tend to pass through too quickly. Procter & Gamble Co. has a fat-based substitute called Olestra awaiting government approval.

Anti-corruption campaign plans made in Mexico

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Mexico's new attorney general says he is reorganizing his Federal Judicial Police as part of a crackdown on corruption in law enforcement agencies.

Ignacio Morales Lechuga told a news conference Tuesday the judicial police, which includes a special anti-narcotics squad, will be placed under the direct control of a deputy attorney general.

Morales said he is also creating a special independent committee within the attorney general's office to investigate accusations of corruption at all levels, as well as a special comptroller to monitor the entire organization.

For years, there have been widespread accusations of brutality and corruption, especially in the narcotics squads, within the judicial police. They included torture to obtain confessions and shakedowns.

Morales Lechuga said this was part of a wide-ranging, nationwide crackdown on abuses by law enforcement agencies.

AIDS-infected teenager and childhood sweetheart to wed

SARASOTA, Fla. (AP) — An AIDS-infected 14-year-old said he always dreamed of marrying his sweetheart someday. But with the deadly virus, the future is now.

"We want to spend 24 hours a day together," Ricky Ray said as he clutched the hand of his 16-year-old fiancée Wenonah Linberg.

Ricky is the oldest of three brothers with hemophilia who are believed to have contracted the AIDS virus from tainted blood products. He developed full-blown AIDS in March, and a subsequent AIDS-related infection is temporarily blinding his right eye.

Originally, he and Wenonah, who have known each other about four years, had planned to wait at least two years to get married.

"But when I found out about my eye and it being so difficult to deal with and it could get to my spinal cord and kill me, I decided to do it sooner," he said Monday.

The couple say they may have to travel to Texas for the wedding since, unlike Florida, the state allows those as young as 14 to tie the knot. The big day is Friday, Dec. 13.

"We'll stick with it," Wenonah said. "Some people think it's bad luck. To me it's not. It's pretty cool."

Class '51 seeks addresses

The Snyder High School graduating class of 1951 is planning a class reunion for July 6. There are several class members the planning committee has not been able to locate. Anyone having information concerning the following names, contact Islasu Minor at 573-8412 or Anne von Roeder at 573-7485.

Addresses are needed for Eva Zay Arnold James, Lela Barr, James Birdsong, Neilda Blakely, Merry Bodice Boykin, Richard Bohannon, Kenneth Carlton, Gracie Chauncy, Ronnie Clark, Ruby Clements, Delores Collier, Becky Denton, John Dickerson, where in Texas the couple plan on marrying.

Three of Wenonah's friends were fighting over who would be the maid of honor, so Wenonah chose instead television actress Tina Yothers, who played Jennifer on NBC's "Family Ties." Ricky said he met the actress at a fund-raiser for the Ryan White Foundation.

For his best man, Ricky wants former Los Angeles Raiders linebacker Linden King, another celebrity friend from fund-raising. His second choice, he said, is talk-show host Phil Donahue.

Fluvanna theft reported to SO

Scurry County sheriff's office investigated cases of theft and criminal mischief Tuesday morning.

At 9:39 a.m., Luann Burleson reported that a fence had been torn down on property north of the city. Damage was also done to a buried telephone pedestal.

James Aaron of the Fluvanna Volunteer Fire Department reported at 11:30 a.m. that some 170 feet of radio cable had been taken from the fire department radio tower. Value was estimated at $170.

Ricky is no stranger to worldwide attention. He and his two brothers have been in the spotlight before as part of AIDS-awareness campaigns.

Since news of the pending nuptials broke over the weekend, the couple has again been thrust into that spotlight, appearing on national morning programs and taping talk shows with Oprah Winfrey and Geraldo Rivera.

Wenonah is not as accustomed to the attention, finding it most difficult to answer questions about her future marital sex life.

She said they plan to talk to counselors from the county health department about ways to be intimate without endangering her health.

"I can trust him," she said. "He'll never do anything to hurt me."

Ricky said another reason he's making the move to marriage is money. He wants Wenonah to have his share of the money the family received in a $1.4 million settlement with the DeSoto County School Board which forbade the boys from attending classes in Arcadia.

She deserves that," he said. "I want to make sure she's taken care of."

Local police record reports

Local police were kept busy with a variety of reports Tuesday.

A minor accident was worked in McDonald's parking lot at 6:51 a.m. Involved were a 1986 Ford driven by John Decker of Grand Prairie and a 1991 Ford pickup driven by Brian Haggard of 3901 Ave. O. No injuries were reported.

At 4:30 p.m., a caller advised of the theft of a watch from the Western Texas College swimming pool. Then at 5 p.m., Marcos Carroll reported to police that his senior ring had been taken from the pool area. A report for Class B theft was made.

A dog was taken to West Texas Animal Clinic for observation at 5:02 p.m. after it reportedly had bitten Ronald Robinson. The incident occurred at 205 North Beaumont.

A caller advised at 5:45 p.m. that several juveniles were traveling north on Ave. V after taking a bicycle from the backyard of a residence in the 2100 block of 42nd St. Officers later apprehended two male juveniles, both 13-years-old. One was released into the custody of a sister and the other was taken to his residence by juvenile probation officer Larry Thompson. The bicycle was recovered.

The period's only arrest came at 3:05 a.m. today in the 1700 block of Ave. E. An 18-year-old male was taken into custody and charged with public intoxication. The subject was taken to Scurry County Jail.

Many counties are seeking outside counsel to see if it is necessary to redraw precinct boundaries, but Scurry County has also postponed that decision.

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Democratic civil rights bill is headed for House passage despite a veto threat from President Bush, following a biting debate that centered on the politics of race as much as on the measure itself.

"This is a shame and a disgrace that in 1991 we're still debating whether we should protect our fellow American citizens from discrimination," said Rep. John Lewis, D-Ga.

Europeans and Japanese still plan to explore space

WASHINGTON (AP) — European and Japanese space officials say they will go ahead with space exploration projects even if Congress scraps the multibillion-dollar space station.

Executives of the European and Japanese space agencies told Congress on Tuesday that they were dismayed that the House Appropriations Committee slashed all of the proposed $2 billion for Space Station Freedom from the 1992 fiscal budget.

The officials joined Bush administration witnesses in pleading for the station before the House Science, Space and Technology Committee. The 12-nation, $40 billion program would put a manned space station in orbit by the end of the century.

National Aeronautics and Space Administration Administrator Richard Truly warned the committee that killing the space station would jeopardize the agency's entire manned space effort.

"Our civil space program is the best in the world, and this issue is about turning away from that," he said.

The space station has strong bipartisan support on the space committee, but the appropriations panel on Monday voted to transfer the money to housing, veterans care and other domestic programs.

The space station project could be revived by the full House in a vote set for Thursday or later when the Senate takes up the appropriations measure. President Bush is expected to try to rescue it with his veto if necessary.

Space station supporters said they would seek to persuade the House to restore $1.9 billion to the program and make up the rest when the Senate takes it up. The money would come from reducing other NASA programs in the new House bill by $1.6 billion and by cutting proposed public housing subsidies by $250 million.

If the space station is grounded, said Jean-Marie Luton, director general of the European Space Agency, European participants would go ahead with their own space station program.

Luton said European countries which already have spent a billion dollars on the project have taken steps that "effectively bind the fate of their nations' long-term space programs to that of the project."

Saying he wouldn't bother to mask Europe's concerns in diplomatic niceties, Luton told the committee: "After three years of joint development work and seven years after first inviting the other nations to participate in this 'genuine partnership,' the United States suddenly now feels able to stop the project in its tracks to solve an internal budget problem."

Modeling Career Beyond The Reach of Tiny Teen

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1991 Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: My daughter, "Amy," is having a terrible time because although she is a beautiful girl, she's short. At 17, she's only 5 foot 1 inch, and she feels as though she is being left out of the modeling world because the agencies will not hire girls her size. She feels less than beautiful, and it is hurting her self-esteem.

Do you know of any modeling agency that will take a girl of Amy's petite size?

AMY'S CONCERNED MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: Your daughter needs to know that beauty comes in all sizes, and there are careers other than modeling.

I spoke to Nina Blanchard, owner of one of the top modeling agencies in the country, and she agrees with Amy; there is no market in modeling for a girl who is 5 foot 1 inch. (Even "petite" models are 5 foot 4 to 5 foot 6.)

Blanchard said: "Tell Amy to dry her tears and learn to act because there is no height requirement in acting or commercials. And the rewards are just as good and sometimes better."

DEAR ABBY: Two years ago, my boyfriend beat me up. He said he was sorry, so I gave him another chance. The second time it happened, I made him move out. A week later, he came after me.

Fearing for my life, I ran outside, thinking I was safe with so many neighbors around. (I lived in a mobile home park.) I was wrong. Nobody helped me.

He started beating on me, and I ran from trailer to trailer with him chasing me as I screamed at the top of my lungs, "Somebody, please call the police!" He caught me, knocked me to the ground and beat me unconscious. It was a summer day and everyone had the windows open. I was screaming so loud, I could have been heard a block away.

Abby, I wasn't asking people to risk their lives. I just wanted someone to pick up a phone and call the police. One neighbor even closed his door because my screams disturbed him! When I confronted him later, he said, "I didn't want to get involved."

I still have nightmares about that terrible experience — not the beating, but pleading for help while everyone looked the other way.

To make a long story short, I pressed charges against the man. He was put away for two years and ordered not to return to this community.

ILLINOIS VICTIM

DEAR VICTIM: I would like to believe that people are basically good, but there is too much evidence to the contrary to accept that theory. What a sad commentary on the nature of mankind.

"Man's inhumanity to man makes countless thousands mourn!"

— Robert Burns, 1759-1796

What teen-agers need to know about sex, drugs, AIDS, and getting along with their peers and parents is now in Abby's updated, expanded booklet, "What Every Teen Should Know." To order, send a long, business-size, self-addressed envelope, plus check or money order for $3.95 ($4.50 in Canada) to: Dear Abby, Teen Booklet, P.O. Box 447, Mount Morris, Ill. 61054. Man sets himself afire in front of Alamo

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — A man saying he "baptized himself with fire" set himself ablaze at the Alamo as tourists captured the bizarre incident on videotape and film.

"He ran screaming to the front of the Alamo," said Dora Herrera, 25, of Tullia. "He looked like a fireball. He was telling people to repent. He said to watch him burn."

One of more than 100 tourists outside the Alamo, Herrera videotaped much of the incident. The tape showed the man, engulfed in orange flames, running toward the front lawn of the Alamo, shouting, "I've sacrificed my flesh. This is a holy shrine."

Wesley Wendell Westbrook, 40, was in critical condition early today at Brooke Army Medical Center, said Brooke spokesman Capt. Gaston Bathalon.

Westbrook suffered second-degree burns over 80 percent of his body and third-degree burns over another 10 percent, said Ruben Cevallos, the fire district chief aide.

Cevallos said a gallon container that had held gasoline was found in Westbrook's truck, parked 50 yards north of the Alamo. A matchbook was recovered near the truck, he said.

Westbrook lived in San Antonio with his brother, Jack, who described him as a "self-proclaimed prophet."

"To some extent, he believed he had a vision from God and had developed a higher understanding of the Old Testament from the timetable standpoint, how it reveals God's timetable for the universe," Jack Westbrook, 29, told the San Antonio Light.

"Beyond that, my understanding of where he was coming from and how he had arrived at the point where he would do this in front of the Alamo is not very good.

"I don't know what he was talking about. I'm still trying to make sense of it," Jack Westbrook said.

Sal Gomez, a tourist from New Mexico, said he videotaped the burning man, believing the event was part of a stunt.

"He just kept walking around in flames, you know, burning up. Nobody would move or anything. They probably thought it was a stunt," Gomez said. "Finally some kids jumped in and got him on the ground."

After the flames were put out, Gomez said, Westbrook began peeling off his skin.

With his skin blackened and only tatters of clothing remaining, Westbrook continued preaching to the crowd gathered around him.

Children get rabies vaccines after playing with dead bat

SULLIVAN CITY, Texas (AP) — At least three Rio Grande children who tossed a dead bat around a playground are undergoing a series of rabies vaccinations.

The children were among 32 fourth- and fifth-grade students at Benavides Elementary School who played with the bat May 27 when the boy who found it brought it to school.

"You know how kids are with creepy, crawly things. They started playing with it and throwing it at one another," said Dr. Charles Wilson, head of the Hidalgo County Health Department. "The school nurse found out about it and realized the possible dangers."

Bats can carry the rabies virus, which can be fatal to humans who have not been vaccinated. In South Texas, there have been 24 confirmed cases of rabies in animals so far this year. Benavides Elementary is in northern Hidalgo County in far South Texas.

All of the parents were notified last Friday about the possible rabies threat and were advised to consult a doctor. Wilson said he believed only three students were getting the vaccinations.

The bat was sent to the Texas Department of Health, but tests were inconclusive because the animal had been dead too long, Wilson said.

"So we don't really know if the bat was rabid or not," he said. "But with rabies you don't take any chances. It's 100 percent fatal. Once you get it you die."

If the bat had rabies, the deadly virus could have been passed to a child if dried saliva came in contact with a scratch or open sore, Wilson said. But he added that even if the bat was rabid, the virus likely was not alive by the time the children got hold of the animal.

Wilson said three children began receiving the series of five injections on Monday. He did not have specific details about the children, except that one boy had an open cut on his finger when he picked up the bat.
