

Wednesday's rain boosts year's total to over six inches

From local wire reports
Despite a slow start for 1991, thunderstorms have accounted for almost two-and-a-half inches of precipitation in Snyder and Scurry County over the past week, including an official .82 last evening.

Wednesday's lightning-charged showers including a reported tornado northwest of Fluvanna at 8:15 p.m. The National Weather Service put the county under a one-hour tornado

Snyder picked up just .07 inches of moisture for the first five months of the year, but rains Sunday evening and Monday morning, coupled with Wednesday's downpour, added another 2.41 inches. Total for the year is 6.28 inches.

That remains far behind the approximately 10.5 inches received during the same period in 1990 and in line with a dry 1989, which had witnessed 5.49 inches through June 6.

Colorado River Municipal Water District officials note that the recent rains have added an additional 3,340 acre feet to Lake Thomas to give the lake a total of some 32,000 acre feet. This translates into a 1.4 foot vertical increase in the lake's level.

Rainfall reports in the area ranged from just over a half-inch to more than one inch. Sources in Fluvanna reported from 1.3 to .9 inches. Dermott reported .9 of an inch while Ira had 1.0 and Hermligh received 1.2. Loyd Mountain reported .5 of an inch and an area east of Snyder a few miles off the Roby Hwy. reported .6 of an inch.

The West Texas forecast is for considerable cloudiness and cooler temperatures accompanied by numerous thunderstorms through Friday. Lows tonight are expected mainly in the 60s with highs Friday ranging from the 70s in the Panhandle to near 102 in the Big Bend lowlands.

Thunderstorms continued to drench much of the state early today, with portions of West Texas receiving heavy rain and gusty winds.

Low clouds hung over the south plains and Permian basin and skies elsewhere across West Texas were mostly cloudy except for clear skies in the far west. Winds were variable at 5-15 mph across the region.

A tornado was reported near Fort Stockton Wednesday afternoon. Others were reported later in Hale, Floyd and Scurry counties.

Central and northern portions of North Texas also experienced widely scattered showers and light rain that remained from Wednesday's storms. Otherwise, cloudy to mostly cloudy skies prevailed regionwide.

In South Texas, thunderstorms continued to develop from the (see RAIN, page 8)

Incentive package targets help for small businesses

AUSTIN (AP) — An incentive package could help speed business recovery in Texas by pumping much-needed capital into the state economy, heads of the state Treasury and Department of Commerce said.

"The shortage of capital in Texas is something that's been particularly acute in recent years, and of course it's spreading to be a national problem now," Alan Kahn, chairman of the Texas Department of Commerce, said Wednesday.

Kahn joined state Treasurer Kay Bailey Hutchison in unveiling a series of initiatives intended to boost development of small and rural Texas businesses.

Under the program, Ms. Hutchison said the Treasury Department will:

—Purchase up to $50 million in Small Business Administration loans to finance manufacturing, commercial and retail projects from Texas banks.

—Begin accepting SBA guaranteed loans for the first time as collateral or state deposits.

—Work with the business administration to develop computer software to help streamline the SBA loan process.

—Invest up to $25 million in support of Foreign Credit Insurance Agency loans to foreign countries buying Texas capital goods. Initial investments target the sale of oil exploration and production tools, equipment, parts and supplies.

—Invest up to $125 million in the Commodity Credit Corp. to help finance foreign purchases of Texas agricultural products. The investments are fully insured by the U.S. Department of Agriculture, Ms. Hutchison said.

The state's purchase of federally insured loans will allow banks to make more loans and help small businesses, which create 75 percent of new jobs nationwide, she said.

"If we can continue to encourage the small business growth, that is going to be the economic recovery," Ms. Hutchison said.

She said the state faces no risk from the initiatives because the investments are guaranteed by the federal government.

The foreign initiatives also will work to free up capital so that other Texas products can be exported, and spread the word to small businesses about overseas markets, Ms. Hutchison said.

House vote forces Democrats to look for middle ground

WASHINGTON (AP) — The failure of House Democrats to win more votes for their civil rights bill forces them to accept Republican changes if they want it to become law this year.

In the Senate, where the anti-discrimination bill now heads, there already is talk of compromise.

A group of nine moderate Republicans led by Sen. John Danforth of Missouri have put together their own version that is an attempt to bridge the gulf separating President Bush and Democrats on job bias legislation — and in the process to reduce the level of partisan bickering.

Bush has shown no willingness to compromise or abandon his contention that the Democrats are seeking racial hiring quotas. In the aftermath of their House vote Wednesday, Democrats could only hope that those Senate Republicans would drag Bush toward that middle ground.

"There is still time to reach a civil rights compromise that will bring us together, not drive us apart," said Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., whose Labor and Human Resources Committee will take up the issue.

Despite months of trying to broaden support, Democrats failed to muster any more votes for their civil rights bill than they did last year, when Bush's veto kept it from becoming law.

The 273-158 vote Wednesday was more than a dozen short of the two-thirds majority needed to override the veto the president is promising to reapply this year.

"The long-term trend is against this bill," said a pleased Rep. Newt Gingrich of Georgia, the House Republican whip.

The Democratic bill is designed primarily to overcome a series of 1989 Supreme Court rulings that have made it more difficult for minorities to win job discrimination suits. Bush proposed his own bill that would reverse a portion of those rulings.

Insisting the president's bill didn't go far enough, Democrats ran headlong into his charge their version would encourage racial hiring quotas.

That politically loaded word has resonated with an electorate increasingly suspicious that the civil rights movement now seeks not equality but preferences for minorities.

Supporters angrily disputed the quotas charge and accused Bush of exploiting racial divisions for political gain. The Democrats wrote provisions into the bill explicitly prohibiting quotas.

But they learned that with Bush repeating his charge almost daily, their elaborate explanations weren't enough.

Being on any one job more than 21 years is a pretty good accomplishment, but being a minister at the same church that long speaks for itself.

Doctors have finally determined that Buck Hatfield's headaches were caused by the stress of caring for his flock. The founding minister of Faith Baptist Church last Sunday announced his resignation.

Hatfield says he still intends to preach revivals and hold Bible conferences but that doctors have advised him against trying to carry around the problems of other people.

Buck has a good attitude about it all. Although he admits shedding some tears about his decision, his good sense of humor is still strong. "Tell people I'm running off with the secretary," Buck grinned.

His wife, Shirley, has also served as secretary at Faith Baptist.

We were reminded of the young preacher who was in town one morning, trying out for a job at a small West Texas church.

Wanting to make a good impression, the preacher had labored long and hard over his sermon topic. He delivered an impassioned, but lengthy message.

Afterwards, the young minister spoke to one of the deacons. "I just couldn't get a feel about the congregation's reaction. They probably didn't feel well," he said. "I noticed a great deal of coughing."

To which the deacon replied, "Those weren't coughs, those were time signals."

A fireworks display, some 23 food and activity booths, a parade and an arts and crafts show are among the highlights of this year's annual Fourth of July celebration sponsored by the chamber of commerce.

Event organizers are finalizing plans for this year's celebration which will see the addition of portable toilets to Towle Park. The 10 facilities will be rented for approximately $500 and will be funded through a $1 charge to the Arts and Crafts Show in the National Guard Armory.

Activities include dunking and pie throwing booths and the continuation of horse shoe and washer pitching contests introduced last year.

Chamber officials say this year's fireworks display promises to be an extra treat with the addition of an extra $1,500 in fireworks provided by the fireworks company because of a mixup in last year's order.

Live musical entertainment will be replaced this year with recorded music played on a public sound system.

In conjunction with the activities at the park is the annual prayer breakfast. The prayer breakfast committee will be meeting at 4:30 p.m. June 10 in the chamber board room.

USDA: expect attack from disturbed African honeybees

HYATTSVILLE, Md. (AP) — No one should be surprised at the angry reaction of Africanized honeybees when they are antagonized, the U.S. Department of Agriculture said.

"The department has been saying for years that the Africanized honeybee is much more aggressive and will pursue a target.

Even when a potential victim dives under water, they will swarm above, waiting," said Phil Villa-Lobos of the USDA's office of public affairs.

The USDA confirmed Tuesday that bee stings inflicted May 20 on a Brownsville gardener were inflicted by Africanized bees, sometimes called "killer" bees for the intensity with which they attack in mass when they are disturbed.

"We've put out loads of information on what people should do to protect themselves," Villa-

Lobos said. "In this case, they were just defending their home ... and they defend aggressively."

People have to be careful about bees, and if children see a wild swarm they should tell their parents, he said. And the parents should tell the authorities, including the county extension office.

Caree Vander Linden of the department's Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service in Hyattsville said there has been little reaction so far to the Texas stinging.

Jesus Cenobio "Sonny" Diaz, 35, was stung 18 times when his riding lawnmower disturbed a hive in a narrow culvert pipe under a driveway.

Texans split on Civil Rights Bill vote

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Bill Sarpalius says he's convinced the 1991 civil rights bill "reaches toward the American dream" of equality for all.

But Rep. Charles Stenholm says he's afraid the bill, approved Wednesday by the House, would have a "chilling effect" on businesses across the country.

Stenholm, a member of the Democratic leadership, broke ranks with his party in a painful split Wednesday and voted against the bill. The Stamford legislator was joined by only one other Texas Democrat, fellow conservative Rep. Ralph Hall of Rockwall. The state's eight Republicans also voted it down.

Sarpalius was the only Democrat in the House who had voted against last year's bill to cast a vote for the 1991 version. He said the new legislation was "a giant step" toward equal treatment for women while protecting small businesses.

Although the bill passed the House by a vote of 273-158, it fell short of the margin needed to override a veto by President Bush, who has attacked the measure as a formula for racial quotas.

Sarpalius, however, said he decided to support the legislation because it specifies that quotas would be illegal.

"I spent a lot of time studying this bill before I cast the vote. I spoke with the president, businesses, business organizations and constituents in the district who would be affected," Sarpalius said. "The president tried to make the American people believe that it's a quota bill, but the language is very clear that it's not."

Sarpalius, of Amarillo, said he also decided to support the bill because businesses with 14 or fewer employees would be exempted from its provisions.

"I think that our ultimate goal in this country should be to have equality for all people, regardless of the color of their skin or their religious beliefs, or whether they're male or female, or whatever their national origin," Sarpalius said. "But it's got to be a delicate balance. ... The government can't come in and tell a business who to hire."

Stenholm said he could not support the bill because employers would face "an unreasonable burden when defending themselves against charges of discrimination" and would be penalized until they could prove their innocence.

Stenholm said he was also afraid the bill would encourage more litigation.

"I wanted to support this bill," Stenholm said. But he said civil rights groups "would not move." "It suddenly dawned on me that I was not dealing with the Judiciary Committee, the staff of the Judiciary Committee, not with the House leadership, but with special interest groups, and I said that was not the way to write legislation this important," Stenholm said.

Rep. Joe Barton, R-Ennis, who voted for last year's bill, said he could not support the version Wednesday because it was much more "politically motivated" and included provisions that he opposed on comparable worth, punitive damages, and job testing.

Amarillo killer makes 1000th member of Texas Death Row

HUNTSVILLE, Texas (AP) — A man convicted of killing an Amarillo flooring company owner has become the 1000th inmate to be assigned to the Texas prison system's death row.

Brent Brewer, 21, was sentenced to die last week for the April 1990 robbery-slaying of Robert Doyle Laminack, 66.

On Tuesday, when he arrived at the Ellis I Unit of the Texas Department of Criminal Justice, Brewer became the first Texas death row inmate to carry a four-digit prison number, "DR 1000."

Brewer joins 340 men and four women awaiting lethal injection. He also joins a rather exclusive club that boasts a membership stretching over 67 years.

Mack Matthews was execution inmate No. 1 after the state took the hangman's job from the counties in 1924. He was electrocuted Feb. 8, 1924, in "Old Sparky," the original oak electric chair built by prisoners. He was followed to the chair by four other condemned murderers on the same night.

"When they got here for execution, they didn't waste any time," prison spokesman David Nunnelee noted. "There wasn't any waiting around for the Court of Appeals."

It would take 46 years to get to death row inmate No. 500, Carl B. Harris, convicted of a 1970 Galveston County murder, according to prison records. Harris' sentence was commuted to life two years later when the Supreme Court declared capital punishment cruel and unusual punishment.

In fact, all 52 men on Texas' death row at the time had their sentences commuted to life. Death row was empty by March 1973. But once a new capital punishment law was passed the next year, it took only 17 years to get the next 500 condemned killers and reach Brewer, death row inmate No. 1000.

Of the first 500 death row prisoners, 361 died in "Old Sparky," now on display in downtown Huntsville in the Texas Prison Museum. The last was Joseph Johnson, No. 453, on July 30, 1964.

Of the last 500, the execution count stands at 39.

The busiest year was 1935, when 20 inmates were electrocuted, including G.B. James, No. 160, put to death New Year's Eve for a Tyler County murder.

Southwestern Bell Telephone Company (Company), in accordance with the rules of the Public Utility Commission of Texas (Commission), hereby gives notice of the Company's intent to implement a new schedule of telephone rates in Texas for residence Custom Calling Services, effective August 1, 1991, unless otherwise determined by the Commission. The Company has filed an application with the Commission to restructure and change the rates for certain residence Custom Calling Services.

The Custom Calling Services affected by the Company's application are optional telephone service arrangements that provide the following features: Call Waiting, Call Forwarding, Three-Way Calling, Speed Calling 8 and Speed Calling 30.

The Company's proposal would increase the monthly rate for the individual Call Waiting feature from $2.10 to $3.10 for residence customers. Also, the rates for certain combinations of Custom Calling Features (Call Waiting, Call Forwarding, Three-Way Calling and Speed Calling-8) would increase or decrease depending upon the combination of features. In addition, the company proposes to obsolete the optional Custom Calling Service feature Speed Calling 30 for residence customers except for existing customers at their existing locations. Following are the feature combinations and their current and proposed rates.

One Feature Per Line	Current	Proposed
Call Waiting	$2.10	$3.10

Southwestern Bell's application proposes to obsolete residence Speed Calling 30 except for existing customers at their existing locations.

Most of the Company's residence customers in Texas who subscribe to one or more of the Custom Calling Service features will be affected by the proposed rate restructuring. It is expected that the proposed rate restructuring of Custom Calling Services will increase the Company's annual revenues by $15.9 million, which is an increase of approximately one half of 1 percent in the Company's adjusted revenue for the twelve-month period ending December 1990. The restructuring will result in an increase in the Custom Calling Services rates for approximately 2.5 million residence customers and rate decreases for approximately 15,000 residence customers. Also, the obsolescence of the optional feature Speed Calling 30 will affect approximately 156,000 residence customers.

Children's answers for curved pipes and dinos

WHY ARE PIPES UNDER THE SINK CURVED?

It's not just the drain pipes under sinks that have a U-shape curve. If you could remove the floor, you'd see that the pipes under the shower stalls and bathtubs have this U-shape, too.

The little U's are called traps. What they trap are gases that could travel up the pipes into your house.

Here's why the traps are needed: the dirty water that drains out of sinks and bathtubs goes down the pipes and into the sewer system or septic tank. Gases can build up there from the mixing and settling of waste. The gases are pretty smelly. They can sometimes be harmful, too. So you don't want them seeping into the kitchen or the bathroom.

The U-shaped trap helps prevent this by trapping some water. The water settles at the bottom of the "U" and blocks gases from going up the pipes into the house — and your nose.

WIPE OUT!

How did those Cretaceous critters die out 65 million years ago?

Some scientists say a giant asteroid wiped out the dinos. Others argue that a severe case of food poisoning killed them off. Well, now it seems that both groups might be onto something big.

That's because scientists have found glassy particles in Haiti, an island in the Caribbean Sea. They think these glassy blobs, called tektites, could have been hurled into what is now Haiti when a giant asteroid hit the Earth.

Some scientists think that when this asteroid hit, it caused huge explosions across the planet. The soot, which was blasted into the atmosphere, blocked sunlight for years and changed the climate.

But other scientists, like Thomas Wdowiak, don't think this was enough to kill off creatures that had survived for millions of years. Wdowiak believes that an asteroid did hit the Earth, but it was what was in the soot that did in the dinos.

He claims that the soot was full of nickel, which would be very poisonous to plants — and dinosaurs that ate them.

Hedges conducts sorority meeting

Members of Xi Alpha Alpha met in the home of Loretta Dodson for their May 21 meeting.

President Brenda Hedges, conducting the meeting, reported on actions taken by the executive board regarding rushing and hostesses. The proposed budget for 1991-92 presented to the members was tabled, to be acted upon at their September meeting. New committee chairmen and members were assigned.

During committee reports, Gay Idom, program chairman, submitted program subjects for members to select from for the new year. All committees were asked to have their calendars prepared by early June.

Secret sisters were revealed and gifts were exchanged following the business. Refreshments were served the social committee.

Learn bridge by listening

By Phillip Alder

Earlier this year an audio cassette of bridge instruction was published by Edith Seligman, a well-known teacher and player at the prestigious Cavenish Club in New York. It is titled "How to Bid Your Best in Bridge." In 105 minutes you learn how to bid — card-play isn't touched on. Mrs. Seligman gives the instruction, with two of her students repeating the key points and asking questions about them.

The cassette comes with a 142-page Rule Book, which you can follow as you listen. It contains example hands and also quizzes, a glossary, and guidelines for rubber bridge and Chicago. The methods taught are a mixture of old and new: forcing jump raises, a 16-18 no-trump, and weak two-bids.

Mrs. Seligman played today's hand perfectly. At first glance, it looks right to win the opening lead in hand, draw trumps, cash the heart ace and the three club winners, lead a diamond to the king and then play a heart toward the queen. You make the slam whenever East has the heart king, or when West started with king doubleton.

But that plan overlooks the power of the heart spots. Mrs. Seligman won the diamond lead in hand, drew trumps and cashed the remaining minor-suit winners ending in the dummy. She didn't touch the heart ace. Now came the lead of a low heart, declarer covering East's card. West was hopelessly endplayed. Either he returned a heart into South's tenace or he conceded a ruff and discard.

Gregg to do SMU grid broadcasts

DALLAS (AP) — Forrest Gregg will be in the press box for Southern Methodist football games this fall, but not as a coach. KLFM-AM announced Wednesday that Gregg will provide the color commentary for the Mustangs radio network this fall. Gregg was SMU's head football coach and athletic director the past two years, but relinquished his coaching duties after the final game of last season to devote full time to the AD's job. Gregg will be making his debut as a radio announcer, although he was the analyst for the telecast locally of SMU's spring football game. "I really enjoyed my experience last spring," Gregg said. "I think I'll be able to add insight into the games with my background as a player and coach in college and professional football. One thing for sure, I know the SMU team extremely well." Gregg played college football at SMU and pro football for the Green Bay Packers. He was head coach for the Cincinnati Bengals and the Packers before coming to SMU.

Tark's future still being considered

LAS VEGAS (AP) — A decision about the future of UNLV coach Jerry Tarkanian could come this week following talks between the coach and university president Robert Maxson. Tarkanian and Maxson met Wednesday for 90 minutes, but neither would discuss what specifically was said. "We just talked about the future of the program," Maxson said, adding the two would talk again, possibly today. "It was an extremely cordial meeting. There were no deals made, no agreements reached. We both wanted to do what was best for coach, his family and the university." Tarkanian characterized the meeting as cordial and said he simply presented his point of view to Maxson. "I told him where I was," Tarkanian told the New York Times Wednesday. "He expressed his support for me. Dr. Maxson told me to take my time and to do what's best for me and my family." But the winningest college coach in history continued to send mixed signals about his future at the school. "There's just been so much speculation during the last few days that it would be unfair to prolong. ... If I stay, I stay; if I walk, I walk away," he was quoted as saying. "There's no compromise."

Brownsville school punished by UIL

AUSTIN (AP) — Brownsville Porter has been suspended from all activities sponsored by the University Interscholastic League for failing to respond to directives from the UIL state executive committee. The decision Wednesday to suspend Porter from academic, as well as athletic contests, is so rare that UIL officials could recall vaguely only one other such action. The committee said it was suspending Porter because school officials had failed to report on allegations that a soccer official had been verbally and physically abused at a March 9 junior varsity soccer match. The committee also cited Porter's failure to submit by last Saturday a plan ordered in March to instruct teachers about student eligibility rules. The suspension will not be lifted until the school has turned in all requested materials to the satisfaction of the UIL staff, and the committee meets to reconsider its penalty. "This is the first time we've had a school flagrantly not respond to the executive committee," said committee chairman Bob Caster, school superintendent at Palestine.

Gymnastics coach on trial for rape

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — An 18-year-old woman told a jury she was raped by her gymnastics teacher after a practice in March 1986 at a junior high school in suburban Euless. She was 13 at the time. After her testimony, State District Judge Joe Drago halted the aggravated sexual assault trial of William Edward "Trey" Conniff, 40, who was one of the most noted gymnastics officials in the state and country before his indictment. Drago granted a one-day continuance to allow defense attorney Tim Evans to examine a medical report and letter that prosecutors had not provided. The trial was scheduled to resume today. In her testimony, the 18-year-old said she had taken some cleaning materials into Conniff's office when he grabbed her. "No one was around," she said. "I turned to grab the door to leave and he grabbed my arm. He pulled my leotard down. ... He wasn't saying anything, and I just kept asking him to stop and 'Why are you doing this?' I was trying to fight him."

one game apiece Wednesday night with a 107-86 rout of the Los Angeles Lakers.

"They attacked and we didn't attack," Johnson said. "It was a game that you rarely see at this time of the season," Los Angeles' James Worthy said, "a game where nothing goes right for one team and everything perfect for the other." The Lakers will try to reverse that trend Friday night in the first of three games at Los Angeles. All they have to do is find a way to stop Jordan.

The Bulls' star made only one of three shots in the first 20 minutes as he got his teammates involved. Then he buried his next 13 attempts, mostly jumpers, and finished with 33 points on 15-of-18 shooting.

Chicago, shaking off its opening-game nervousness, set an NBA Finals record by hitting 50 of 81 shots, a percentage of 61.7. The old mark of 61.5 was set by the Lakers against Boston on June 4, 1987.

John Paxson made all eight of his shots and Horace Grant hit 10-of-13. Combined with Jordan, they connected on 33 of 39. The entire Los Angeles team hit only 30 of 73.

Jordan, as usual, outdid everyone.

"He can do the impossible, the unbelievable," said Johnson, who had only 14 points.

Even Jordan, himself the master of the miraculous, was impressed.

With 7:46 left in the game, he made a layup that gave the Bulls their biggest lead, 97-71. It was no ordinary layup.

He took a pass from Cliff Livingston in the lane and drove, encountering the long arms of Laker forward Sam Perkins while in midair, Jordan shifted the ball from his right hand to his left as he was descending and laid it in off the backboard.

"It's just one of those creative moves," Jordan said. "Sometimes I don't know what's going to happen."

He also succeeded on a more human level. He made excellent passes to set up easy inside baskets in the first half and hit normal mid-range jumpers. He finished with 13 assists and seven rebounds. Pippen and Horace Grant added 20 points each for the Bulls. Pippen also had 10 assists.

In Chicago's 93-91 loss in Sunday's opener, his teammates watched as Jordan put on a one-man show, scoring 36 points. On Wednesday night, he made sure they established early the inside game that had been missing.

"Once he gets going offensively, he can roll over teams," Chicago coach Phil Jackson said. "He did a great job getting everybody involved on the offensive end."

James Worthy led the Lakers with 24 points and Vlade Divac had 16. Johnson, who had a triple-double and was the key to the Lakers' opening victory, sank only four of his 13 shots and added 10 assists and seven rebounds. A stuff by Divac gave Los Angeles its last lead, 37-36, with 4:16 left in the first half. Jordan had just two points and three shots at that point.

But he scored the Bulls' next four baskets in a span of 1:38, giving them a 44-40 lead. They led 48-43 at halftime, then made 17 of 20 shots to go ahead 86-69 after three quarters.

Becker seeks to regain top ranking vs. Agassi

PARIS (AP) — Three of the men's semifinalists at the French Open are seeking the glory of a first Grand Slam title. The fourth, Boris Becker, has his own powerful incentive — a return to the No. 1 world ranking.

Becker, winner of every Grand Slam event except this one, will replace Stefan Edberg as No. 1 if he beats Andre Agassi in a semifinal Friday matching two of the hardest hitters in tennis.

The other semifinal also pairs a German and an American — 12th-seeded Michael Stich against ninth-seeded Jim Courier, who upset Edberg on Wednesday.

Michael Chang, a loser to Becker in the quarterfinals, expects a bruising battle with Agassi.

"I'm not making any predictions," Chang said. "I'll just watch them slug it out."

Sluggests also were expected in the women's semifinals today, featuring three former champions and Gabriela Sabatini, who has the best record on the tour this year. Sabatini was to face Monica Seles, the top seed and defending champion, in the first match, followed by Steffi Graf against Arantxa Sanchez Vicario.

Graf and Sanchez Vicario did not lose a set in the first five rounds. Seles and Sabatini lost one each.

Becker, despite years of success dating back to his first Wimbledon title in 1985, has held the No. 1 spot in the ATP computer ranking for only a three-week period after his Australian Open championship in January.

Edberg recaptured the top spot after a thigh injury forced Becker to default a semifinal match in Brussels, Belgium.

"It's something that I can't really do anything about," Edberg said about the possible loss of his ranking. "My goal was to win here."

Agassi reached the finals of two Grand Slam tournaments last year, including the French Open, but has yet to capture a title. He has won the last three of his six career matches with Becker.

"Andre plays faster, closer to the line and usually hits harder than his opponent," Becker said. "But I hit hard as well."

Courier, 20, and Stich, 22, had never before reached the quarterfinals of a Grand Slam, let alone the semifinals.

Stich said he would have preferred to face Edberg, rather than Courier.

"Jim plays aggressively from the baseline, and also serves and volleys well," said Stich.

Charges of lying about collider costs are made

WASHINGTON (AP) — A prominent Texas businessman has accused super collider opponents of telling "The Big Lie" as they seek support for killing the $8.25 billion atom smasher.

J. Fred Bucy, chairman of the Texas National Research Laboratory Commission, also said the Energy Department is doing little to win foreign contributions for the collider.

Texas has pledged $1 billion toward building the superconducting super collider at a site south of Dallas. Bucy's commission is responsible for purchasing land for the collider.

The former Texas Instruments Inc. president said SSC opponents were using the "Big Lie" to influence public opinion against the SSC, which would be the world's largest and most expensive scientific instrument.

"The Big Lie — it was Hitler's technique to tell something over and over again and people would start believing," Bucy said Wednesday during a breakfast interview with three reporters.

Later, Bucy said he mentioned Hitler only to jog reporters' memories, and was not suggesting SSC opponents were using Hitler-like techniques.

But opponents were quick to seize on Bucy's words as a sign of panic over the project's future in the House.

Rep. Dennis Eckart, D-Ohio, said he took personal offense at comments linking the SSC opponents' legitimate concerns with a Hitler-like strategy.

"This nation fought Hitler for the right of free speech, but that right of free speech does not allow him to make outrageous statements about those with whom he has a reasonable disagreement. Obviously, he knows his project is in trouble," Eckart said.

Rep. Howard Wolpe, D-Mich., chairman of a science oversight committee that investigated the SSC, said Bucy's charges would be "counterproductive" and that "Congress is going to keep its focus on the bottom line and they're not going to be diverted by that kind of rhetoric."

Bucy was in Washington this week to meet with Texas congressmen a week after the collider survived its toughest challenge yet in the House. He also criticized opponents for using Wolpe's committee to investigate the SSC "as if this was Watergate."

Bucy's frustrations extended to top Energy Department officials, whom he said had been not being aggressive enough in pursuing foreign contributions. He said the agency, however, had been receiving conflicting signals from Congress over whether foreign participation was desirable.

W. Henson Moore, deputy secretary of energy, met with Bucy and said afterward that he told the Texan that DOE was in serious negotiations with several countries, including Japan. But an agreement with Japan, expected to be a major contributor, is a year away.

Moore said he could also sympathize with Bucy's concerns that SSC opponents had "misstated" facts or taken them out of context to push their case.

SSC opponents, who have also been unhappy about the Energy Department's failure to secure foreign contributions, called Bucy's complaints about their challenges unfortunate.

"I stand by every word that I said on the floor of the U.S. House of Representatives," said Rep. Jim Slattery, D-Kan., who led a move last week to kill SSC funding. "We're talking about an indisputable increase in the cost of this project."

Slattery said Bucy has recognized the SSC is losing momentum "and he's becoming increasingly desperate and ... he will regret that he suggested our tactics were Hitler-like."

Bucy said the "Big Lie" being told by the opponents includes false claims that the SSC's costs were "out of control," that building the collider would take money from critical social programs and other research, and that the superconducting magnets, a key component, would not work.

Bucy said opponents were also seeking to "create dissension" among House members and were playing to an anti-Texas sentiment.

Due to extreme weather...

Disaster relief may prove necessary

WASHINGTON (AP) — West Texas farmers say their economic well-being is withering along with their cotton and wheat crops. The rice fields along the Coastal Bend are water-logged. The state's dairy farmers are reeling from low prices.

And farm groups are asking Congress to investigate the imminent disaster or to consider relief legislation.

Joe Rankin, president of the Texas Farmers Union, said losses are climbing toward the hundreds of millions of dollars because of extreme spring weather from the Panhandle to the Rio Grande and the Gulf Coast.

"It has not been a very promising spring for farmers in many parts of the country," agreed Rep. Kika de la Garza, chairman of the House Agriculture Committee.

The committee planned a hearing today to assess damages to agriculture nationwide and the Agriculture Department's response to both farmers and farm communities, said de la Garza, D-Mission.

"Chairman de la Garza is very prudent in calling for this hearing now, to make people aware of the impending disaster we have shaping up... to review the situation and determine where we go from here," Rankin said.

According to Sen. Phil Gramm's office, the Panhandle wheat crop is 62 percent below average because of extremely dry conditions in West Texas, while the state's overall wheat crop is 42 percent below normal.

Producers also fear it's too dry to get in a cotton crop this year in much of Texas, which produces one-fifth of the nation's cotton in a 25-county area around Lubbock. And in the eastern half of Texas, producers say it may be too wet to get in a good rice crop.

"It's a drastic situation," Rankin said. "The western half of Texas is too dry, the eastern half is too wet, and on dairy, we're just a disaster all over the state. We've already had disaster on wheat and we could well have one on cotton and rice."

Rankin said about 1 million of the approximately 2 million cotton acres don't have enough moisture for planting this year. And some wheat-growing areas have had only an inch of rain while the normal rainfall at this time of year is 10 inches.

Rep. Larry Combest, a Lubbock Republican who represents many of the state's cotton growers, is co-sponsoring legislation that would provide disaster assistance to farmers of crops affected by damaging weather in 1991. "I have heard from producers whose economic well-being is withering right along with their crops," Combest said. "Hot dry conditions now threaten seedlings in the cotton fields. Later... welcome rains could also bring pounding hailstones. These are the uncertainties producers must deal with, but they should not have to suffer ruin at the whim of nature."

Jerry Harris, chairman of the state Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee, said thousands of Texas farmers are experiencing some difficulty this year.

"Very few producers are in excellent shape," Harris said. "Nearly all agricultural producers are suffering some losses with the exception of the beef cattle industry in the eastern half of Texas."

Woman raped at motel gets $10 million settlement

HOUSTON (AP) — A woman who blamed her rape at a Motel 6 on insufficient security and the motel's lack of concern for its guests has accepted a $10 million settlement from the corporation.

The agreement between the 27-year-old Houston woman and Motel 6 came Wednesday during the third day of testimony in her lawsuit alleging negligence.

The woman was traveling alone as a photographer for United Church Directories in 1988 when she stopped at a Motel 6 in Fort Worth, testimony showed.

"She asked the management if they had security guards, they told her they did," said G. Robert Friedman, an attorney representing the woman.

The woman first noticed two men in a vending machine area and mistook them for Motel 6 employees, Friedman said. They followed the victim to her room and attacked her, he said.

One of her assailants is serving a 50-year prison sentence for his part in the attack, Friedman said. The other was never caught.

An affidavit submitted by the woman's physician said she never returned to work and is suffering from post-traumatic stress disorder.

She alleged the motel failed to provide adequate security and failed to inform guests of risks.

"They have a total lack of concern for their guests," Friedman said.

Motel 6 officials denied any negligence in the case. They contended the victim allowed her attackers to carry her luggage into the motel room.

Motel 6 also claimed the victim's damages were caused by the conduct of her assailants.

Police note three arrests

Snyder police made three arrests on Wednesday and investigated a rash of stolen bicycles.

Arrested from Municipal Court and taken to Scurry County Jail to lay out fines at 9:53 a.m. were a 24-year-old male for no insurance and a 31-year-old female for public intoxication.

At 8:04 p.m., police arrested a 23-year-old female for Class B theft at Kmart. She was taken to the county jail.

Police received reports of stolen bicycles from 4508 Garwood, 4304 Lubbock, 4101 Kerrville and 3004 41st St. during a period beginning at 6:13 p.m. and ending at 7:33 p.m. Subsequently, the bicycles stolen from 4304 Lubbock and 4101 Kerrville were recovered and returned to their owners. One other bicycle was reported found and taken to the police station.

In the only other police activity, Ricky Williams reported at 4:14 a.m. today that someone had broken into his Gandy's truck. A report was filed for Class B theft.

Firemen make couple of calls

Snyder Fire Department extinguished a vehicle fire this morning.

At 8 a.m., firefighters responded to the 600 block of 24th St. where a 1975 Monte Carlo owned by Norma Ramirez was on fire. The blaze, which started in the engine compartment, caused extensive damage to the vehicle.

Firemen were called to 1801 27th St. at 7:56 p.m. Wednesday but there was no fire upon their arrival.

Rain

central Rio Grande plains northward into the northwest Hill Country. The storms were triggered by outflow boundaries of cool air combined with low-level moisture.

The storms also produced high winds. Del Rio reported heavy rain and winds reaching 65 mph. Elsewhere across South Texas, mostly mid- and high-level clouds prevailed.

Only 14 percent of 8th graders have average math proficiency

WASHINGTON (AP) — Just one in seven eighth-grade students nationwide can exhibit average proficiency in mathematics, according to a federal survey released today.

Students in North Dakota outperformed the 39 other states and territories in the National Assessment of Educational Progress survey, with 24 percent achieving average proficiency. That means the students were able to solve problems that involve fractions, decimals, percentages, elementary geometry and simple algebra. Such material commonly is introduced in the seventh grade.

Only one state, Virginia, had eighth-grade students performing advanced math.

The National Assessment, popularly known as the Nation's Report Card, for the first time issued state-by-state results for eighth graders in 37 states, the District of Columbia, Guam and the Virgin Islands.

It also surveyed national math achievement in grades four, eight and 12, but did not provide a state breakdown.

The national math achievement survey showed just 14 percent of eighth graders were at the average proficiency level.

In the state breakdown, Montana had 23 percent of its eighth graders with average proficiency, followed by Iowa and Nebraska with 21 percent, and Minnesota and Wisconsin with 20 percent.

"Today's results ... portray a nation of students who are not doing well in mathematics," said Richard Boyd, chairman of the National Assessment governing board.

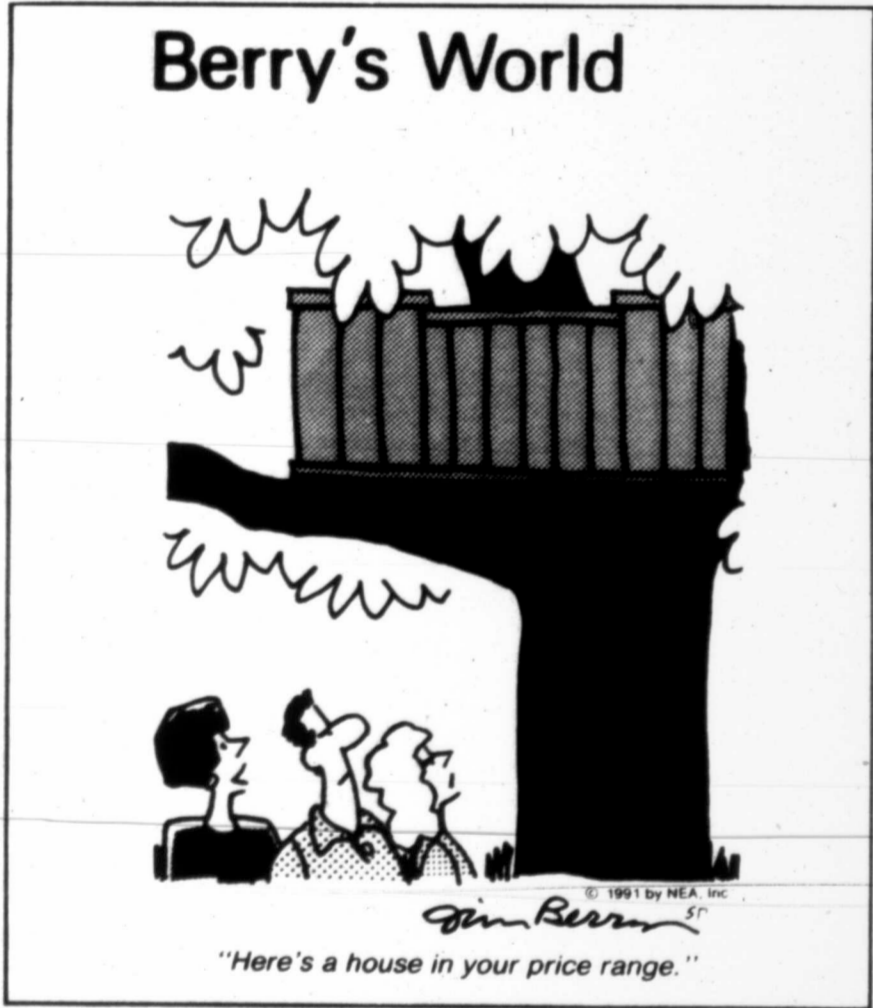

President Bush and the nation's state governors have established the goal of making American students first in the world in mathematics and science by the year 2000.

The national assessment is likely to further fuel criticism of the nation's educational system.

"I think the most significant finding is that not even in one state did students reach an average proficiency," said Francie Alexander of the California State Education Department, a member of the assessment's governing board.

Boyd said the results show that higher-performing states tend to have fewer students in large city schools and fewer students living in poverty.

Mandated by Congress, the National Assessment of Educational Progress is the only national and continuing assessment of what America's students know and can do in various subjects.

Sculpture protesters file lawsuit

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Anti-religion groups are suing the city over a sculpture marking the spot of the first Catholic Mass celebrated in San Antonio.

The Mass, said on the Feast of St. Anthony, led to the naming of the city 300 years ago.

The plaintiffs want the court to prohibit use of city money, property, equipment or personnel in erecting or maintaining the sculpture. They also want to stop any city-sponsored ceremony to commemorate the first Mass or officially install the sculpture.

The suit claims the city's actions are unconstitutional.

Catherine Fahringer, Stanley Grayson, the Freedom From Religion Foundation, the Free Thought Forum and the Secular Humanist Association of San Antonio filed suit late Tuesday in state district court.

Ms. Fahringer is director of the Freedom From Religion Foundation, and Grayson is vice president of the Secular Humanist Association.

Tom Finlay, assistant city attorney, said Wednesday the city had not yet been served with the lawsuit, although he said the suit is not a surprise.

He said the city considers the sculpture art work, not religious work.

Firm to repurchase stock option

DALLAS (AP) — Repurchase of a stock option could cost a Texas manufacturer more than $1 million and, if exercised, give three investors almost half the company at a deep discount, executives say.

Negotiations by Lifetime Products Inc., maker of a triple-edge windshield wiper and other auto accessories, are beginning for the option but aren't expected to take long, a company spokesman said Wednesday.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) You're still in a lucky trend where your finances and commercial interests are concerned. Be alert for opportunities and capitalize on them as they arise.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Success is likely today, provided you don't switch your objectives on impulse. Stick to your original game plan, even if things get a trifle uncertain.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Your initial inclination today may be to get others to champion positions you espouse. However, you'll get much better results by doing what needs to be done on your own.

Waco lawyer seeks more damages

WACO, Texas (AP) — A Waco lawyer is seeking to increase his damage claims from Belo Broadcasting Co. and former WFAA reporter Charles Duncan in the wake of a $58 million libel verdict awarded a former area prosecutor.

George Shaffer, in motions filed this week, is asking the 19th State District Court to increase his damage claims from $3 million to $12 million. Shaffer has also asked District Judge James Meyers of Austin to grant a summary judgment, foregoing a trial in his libel suit.

Shaffer's trial is scheduled to begin Nov. 12.

McLennan County jurors awarded former McLennan County district attorney Vic Fezell the landmark libel verdict in April. Meyers, who also presided over that case, has not ruled whether to uphold the jury award, reduce it or dismiss it.

A judgment from Meyers is expected to be issued this week.

Shaffer claims Duncan and the Belo, the station's owner, libeled him in a series of broadcasts aired in 1985.

The series said the FBI was investigating Fezell and several other Waco defense attorneys concerning accusations Fezell took bribes to dismiss cases.

Shaffer contends in his amended petition that Duncan libeled him in seven of the 11 broadcasts by lumping him with other attorneys included in the federal probe.

Dear Abby

Parent May Pay for Tuition But Son Pays Way to Prom

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1991 Universal Press Syndicate

DEARABBY: The letter from "No Money Machine" — the parent who is cutting corners in order to send her son to the high school prom — prompts this letter.

Abby, going to a senior prom is a privilege — not a God-given right. I came from a large family, and our education (12 years of Catholic school) was paid for by our parents, but we had to earn our own money for all the "perks."

I have raised my son the same way. At 16, he's already had a semi-formal under his belt. He asked if he could have his Christmas gift of money in advance so he could pay $35 for tickets, $15 for a corsage and $10 for a secondhand tux.

If he wants to continue at the Catholic school he attends, he will have to get a summer job to help with the $1,300 tuition. His class ring will be bought with money he saves from his allowance.

Abby, as you've often said: "Give a man a fish and he can eat for a day. Teach him to fish and he can eat forever."

The best gift some people can give their kids is a kick in the rear to the job market.

NO MONEY MACHINE EITHER: DEAR NO MONEY MACHINE: You could teach a class in child development. Thanks for writing.

DEAR ABBY: Please set me straight. Is it considered poor manners to write a letter instead of having a face-to-face confrontation?

Recently, I decided to quit my job as baby sitter for a woman I'll call Mrs. Smith. She is very strong-minded and not a person I would care to debate, so to avoid being pressured to stay on with other arrangements, then kick myself afterward, I chose to write.

I dropped the letter in Mrs. Smith's mailbox. As soon as she read it, she telephoned to say that we would still be friends, but she thought it was extremely "ignorant and ill-mannered" of me to have written to her instead of speaking to her. Abby, some people are easier to write to than talk to.

What do you think? Was a letter a poor vehicle for my message?

IN THE DARK

DEAR IN: I think you used excellent judgment. Your reasons for writing to Mrs. Smith instead of risking a face-to-face confrontation were valid.

DEAR ABBY: With so many children as well as some adults unable to read, and the warning on some labels printed so small that older people can't read them, perhaps we should resume the old skull and crossbones on all poisons.

Also, now that camping season has returned, parents should avoid dressing their children in camouflage-printed clothing for picnics or camp-outs. If children wander off, they would be much harder to locate.

Bright orange or yellow is the most visible color. Campers should keep that in mind.

DULUTH, MINN.

DEAR DULUTH: And a whistle hung on an elastic cord around the neck isn't a bad idea for campers. But make sure the elastic cord can't strangle the wearer should it get caught on some object.

People are eating them up! For Abby's favorite recipes, send a long, business-size, self-addressed envelope, plus check or money order for $3.95 ($4.50 in Canada) to: Dear Abby, Cookbooklet, P.O. Box 447, Mount Morris, Ill. 61054. (Postage is included.)

Women surgeons: harrassment rare

BOSTON (AP) — Women doctors making their way in the overwhelmingly male domain of surgery say that while infuriating slights occasionally occur, outright sexual harassment is practically nonexistent. Several women surgeons from around the country said they have never endured the kind of demeaning comments and unwelcome sexual advances that prompted a highly respected neurosurgeon at Stanford University to quit last week.

Dr. Frances Conley said she was fed up by male faculty colleagues who feel women are subservient. She complained of men doctors calling her "honey" in the operating room, fondling her legs under the table or making sexual comments.

Several women surgeons — both on medical school faculties and in private practice — said such overt sexism is rare, at least in their experience.

"I don't think I've been particularly sheltered," said Dr. Carole Miller, a neurosurgeon at Ohio State University. "But through medical school and residency and practice for 20 years, I have never had any experiences such as she (had), to be very honest." Others said some women may read sexism into comments, especially criticism, from male colleagues.

"My feeling is if I was ever picked on, it was not because I was a woman but because I'd done something wrong," said Dr. Gail Ellen Besner, a pediatric surgeon at Children's Hospital in Buffalo, N.Y..

Dr. Gott
Peter Gott, M.D.

By Peter H. Gott, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I have severe scar tissue in my lungs. I'm a 69-year-old female and have smoked in excess of one pack per day for 45 years. I've been prescribed Brethine, Choleyl and Atrovent and question the side effects since I've been on the medication for over five years.

DEAR READER: As a result of your heavy cigarette consumption, you appear to have developed a chronic lung disorder. I'll venture that you have emphysema, chronic bronchitis and chronic pulmonary inflammation in addition to (or as a cause of) your pulmonary scarring. Evidently, your doctor has chosen to treat the treatable aspects of your disease, a wise choice inasmuch as the scarring itself is permanent and incurable.

The purpose of therapy is to arrest the formation of pulmonary scars by controlling the conditions leading to them. Therefore, your doctor has prescribed Brethine (terbutaline, a bronchodilator to open breathing passages), Choleyl (oxtriphylline, another bronchodilator) and Atrovent (ipratropium, an aerosol to prevent bronchial spasm).

I hope you have stopped smoking because this unhealthy habit will undo whatever benefit you might enjoy from the medicines.

I'm not as concerned about the side effects of the drugs (jitteriness, nausea and palpitations) as I am about the effectiveness of the therapy. If the drugs help you, you can safely continue them under your physician's guidance. If, on the other hand, you are experiencing wheezing, difficulty breathing and persistent coughing, a change might be in order. Ask your doctor about this.

Many lung afflictions lead to pulmonary scarring, which is untreatable. Most doctors attempt to treat these afflictions — such as bronchitis, chronic pneumonia and asthma — in hopes of preventing (or minimizing) the permanent damage (emphysema and scarring) they cause. In addition to drug therapy, physicians often prescribe prednisone, supplemental oxygen and special breathing exercises to help people cope with the chronic disability of pulmonary scarring.

To give you more information, I am sending you a free copy of my Health Report "Living With Chronic Lung Disease." Other readers who would like a copy should send $1.25 plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to P.O. Box 91369, Cleveland, OH 44101-3369. Be sure to mention the title.
