Ask Us

Q—Is there a way, other than checking all the area papers, of finding out when area cities are holding events such as festivals, rodeos or gun and mineral shows?

A—Yes. The highway department travel and information division publishes a quarterly calendar listing events across Texas. That address is Texas Events Calendar, P.O. Box 5064, Austin, Texas, 78763-5064.

In Brief

Flash floods

GILMER, Texas (AP) — Flash flooding triggered by torrential rainfall overnight closed two major highways and stranded numerous residents of Diana, an unincorporated town in Upshur County in northeast Texas, authorities said.

One family was rescued from their mobile home, but there were no other evacuations and no injuries, said Upshur County Chief Deputy Murray Jordan. Some cars were stranded in high water. He said conditions were beginning to improve this morning after the rain ended.

At the height of the flash flooding, Sheriff R.D. Cross said, Texas 154 between Gilmer and Diana and U.S. 259 between Longview and Diana were closed because 2-3 feet of water had accumulated in low spots. Most of the flooding was along Big Cypress Creek, Cross said.

"Normally, it's pretty small, but it's full now and looks like it's rising," Cross said Monday night.

Discipline major concern, teachers' group tells board

A group of local teachers said they are losing control of their classrooms and students during Monday's Snyder public schools board of trustees work session.

Trustees heard from the teachers during a work session which included information on a lease agreement with the City of Snyder and information concerning the newly mandated county education district.

Carole Haynes of Stanfield Elementary presented the board with results of a teacher survey in which student discipline was noted as the teachers' number one concern. Some 15 other teachers from elementary schools, junior high and high school echoed the concern.

Haynes and others said in school suspension, ISS, is ineffective in disciplining students on the junior high and high school levels where it has been implemented. "We are seeing all the same students in ISS over and over. If they are spending that much time in ISS, are they learning? Is this effective?" Haynes asked the board.

Teachers also noted the amount of time that goes into preparing an assignment for a student in ISS. "I should be devoting that time to students who want to learn," said high school teacher Ned Moore, who noted it takes approximately 20 minutes to prepare an ISS assignment. "It's a joke," said junior high teacher Ronnie Baker.

The group also expressed concern over corporal punishment policies. During the discussion it was brought out that different schools have different policies in giving "licks" to a student. Some school principals require the student be brought to the office while others allow teachers to administer the punishment near their classrooms.

Trustee Luann Burleson read a state mandate concerning corporal punishment which states that when administering such punishment it should be done in front of a witness, with an approved instrument and in a designated place, out of sight of other students.

"We just need to make sure that this policy is followed," said board president Sam Robertson.

"We want to work with you to the benefit of Snyder schools," said Haynes, who also suggested a committee of teachers administrators, board members and parents be formed to address issues.

Superintendent Dalton Moseley said he has been working with (see TEACHERS, page 8)

Trustee urges WTC, museum to keep beneficial relationship

Western Texas College Trustee John Gayle voiced his hope that the college and county museum will "maintain a relationship complimentary to both" in an informal statement following the June meeting of the board Monday evening.

Gayle's comments came as the college and museum boards are attempting to work out a contract for future services. The college had earlier this year put the museum on notice that it anticipates cutting approximately $22,000 in funds next year. Those funds go to pay for a museum secretary's salary as well as benefits for a curator and director.

Prior to Gayle's remarks, trustees voted to stay with West Texas State Bank for bank depositories, approved a promotion in rank for three instructors and heard reports on summer school enrollment during their June meeting Monday evening.

The board also okayed a small class report and a report on maintenance progress, and informally discussed the college's relationship with the museum.

Following the meeting, Gayle told the board that he believes the county museum, located on campus, is important to the college and community and encouraged board members to work out an agreeable contract with the museum board. Gayle, who is also the city manager, said he wanted to state his views because he will be attending a city council meeting on the next college board date — July 8.

Gayle told the board, "In Snyder you'll see more historical markers for the size of this city than I've ever witnessed, which suggests an acute sensitivity to the past. Scurry County Museum is representative of the heritage of Snyder and Scurry County and we all a part of that heritage.

"Whatever original arrangement between the college and museum was made, either real, perceived or imagined, I think it is important to maintain a relationship that is complimentary to both the college and the museum. I think it will require some reassessment by both boards."

The college board will discuss the salary issue in executive session July 8.

Trustees voted 4-0 with one abstention to continue with West (see WTC, page 8)

Boy injured in diving board fall

A four-year-old Snyder boy was undergoing medical tests today following a mid-morning fall from the high diving board at the pool on the campus of Western Texas College.

Cameron Harrison, son of pool director Mike Harrison, slipped off the high diving board and hit the concrete. The accident occurred about 10 a.m. while swimming classes were underway.

The boy was taken to Cogdell Memorial Hospital in a private vehicle by the boy's father. Cogdell Hospital officials indicated that the youth had a broken jaw, and he was undergoing additional X-rays and tests at 11:30 a.m.

It was anticipated that the boy would be transferred to a Lubbock hospital for additional testing later in the day.

Speaker obtained

For annual July 4 Prayer Breakfast

Lt. Col. Bruce C. Balbin, commander of the 773rd Tactical Airlift Squadron, 463rd Tactical Airlift Wing at Dyess Air Force Base, will be the keynote speaker for the annual July 4 Prayer Breakfast at Scurry County Coliseum.

Prayer Breakfast Committee Chairman Max von Roeder announced Monday that Balbin has agreed to speak. The committee met in the chamber of commerce boardroom to discuss the breakfast and distribute tickets. Another meeting has been scheduled for 4:30 p.m. Tuesday, June 18.

Tickets for the breakfast are $5 each and are available from committee members and at the chamber office. Serving will begin at 7:30 a.m. on the 4th. McDonald's will furnish the breakfast, which will consist of scrambled eggs, sausage, hash browns, biscuits, orange juice and coffee.

Von Roeder also told the committee that he has confirmation from two individuals who will help provide musical entertainment during the breakfast, and is attempting to contact at least one other person.

This year's Prayer Breakfast will be the fourth annual event. In addition to the fellowship and words from the speaker, the breakfast serves to recognize two outstanding lay leaders from each church in Scurry County.

Last year, some 360 breakfasts were served. Those planning to attend are encouraged to purchase tickets in advance so that organizers can better prepare. Committee members having tickets for sale are von Roeder, Father William Costigan, Jim Tully, Polly Echols, Arlynn Turn-

The feller on Deep Creek says, "More people are wanting to find themselves. In the old days it was called loafing."

If you're looking for that perfect vacation spot, your travel agent likely hasn't told you about Bulgaria.

For a mere $1,200 per person per night, a vacation can live like a Communist dictator. It's all part of experimentation with Western ways since Bulgaria chose market democracy in 1989 and evicted Todor Zhivkov's.

Under the dictator, the presidential guard was responsible for security and keeping tabs on the president's potential enemies. Today, the guard is into the more enterprising business of turning presidential retreats into resort hotels.

Activities include sailing on the dictator's yacht, basking on his private beach, swimming in his indoor pool, and hanging your hat in his arm-

There's also tennis, bowling, a sauna, massage, luxury-car rental, speedboats, surfboards, sailboats. So far, there is one major problem — Bulgaria has no golf courses. However, there are plans for golf in hopes of increasing tourist appeal.

Some say that the accommodations don't match the standards expected for the price. Despite monogrammed linen (CC for Central Committee), some say the paint is flaking, the shower water is luke warm and toilet tissue is prison-camp issue.

The former Communists are encouraging folks to make it a family vacation. You can take your wife, and if she gets out of line, have her shot at sunrise.

We suspect that tipping has also found its way to Bulgaria. We can just hear the bellhop, "Sir, the vibrating bed is broken, but I can shake it for you seven minutes for only five dollars."

S&L bailout likely to top $130 billion

WASHINGTON (AP) — The cost of the savings and loan bailout is likely to meet or exceed the Bush's administration's $130 billion worst-case estimate, congressional auditors said today.

"The message I have to deliver this morning ... is not a good one," General Accounting Office chief Charles A. Bowsher said in testimony prepared for the Senate Banking Committee. "The $80 billion already provided by Congress will not be sufficient to resolve all expected thrift failures."

Bowsher said the Resolution

Trust Corp., created in 1989 to conduct the bailout, will need at least $50 billion more next year.

If the RTC intends to finish its work in 1992, as the law requires, "its funding needs will be much higher," he said.

If the life of the bailout is extended by a year, as the administration is considering, the agency will need another installment in 1993, bringing the bailout total to more than $130 billion, Bowsher added.

"RTC sales of troubled assets have been slower than hoped and (see BAILOUT, page 8)

NAVAL AIR STATION, FALLON, Nev. (AP) — Gulf War POW Jeffrey Zaun said Tuesday that the reality of combat and captivity had tempered his feelings about war, but he could get back in his plane and bomb Baghdad if necessary.

"There's times for peace and there's times for war," the Navy flier said in a telephone interview with The Associated Press from this training base.

"We did what we had to do," he said of American pilots and ground troops who crushed Iraq in the Gulf War. "What we had to do is make a better world and we did make a better world."

The 28-year-old lieutenant was the bombardier-navigator on an A6-E intruder shot down over southwestern Iraq on Jan. 17. He spent 47 days in captivity and became known to Americans as the battered young aviator forced by his captors to denounce allied aggression on TV.

Zaun said Tuesday that earlier reports by the AP incorrectly characterized his statements by saying he had second thoughts about war. The reports were based on an interview that appeared Saturday in the Lahontan Valley News and Fallon Eagle Stan-ard.

It's true the reality of war blunted his eagerness for battle, Zaun said: "I did get to see the ugly part of it. You hear most of it. You hear the bombs going off. You want to live and you know the guys down there are dying."

But emphasized that hasn't deterred him from his military career.

He pointed out he is training in air battle tactics, and will soon be assigned to a ship in the Middle East with the task of advising an admiral on air strike warfare. If necessary, he said, he could summon the enthusiasm a flier needs to survive and succeed in combat.

Baptist minister with ties to crime boss gets probation

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — A Baptist minister with ties to both reputed crime boss Joseph Bonanno and evangelist Billy Graham has been given probation after pleading guilty to federal charges of failing to file income tax returns in 1982 and 1983.

The Rev. David Lee Hill Jr., 43, was given four years probation Monday.

Testimony in his tax trial showed that he solicited funds from wealthy Dallas followers for cancer research that he actually used for himself. One donation amounted to $62,000.

Federal officials were not able to estimate his full tax liability.

U.S. District Judge H.F. "Hippo" Garcia also ordered Hill to pay any taxes, interest and penalties he owes and to live in a halfway house for 120 days of his probation. He also ordered Hill to participate in a mental health program and substance abuse program if his probation officer orders it.

Brother-in-Law's Hug Too Close for Teen's Comfort

By Abigail Van Buren
© 1991 Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: I am a 13-year-old girl. I have a sister who is 19 and has been married for a year. One day last week, her husband told me how beautiful he thought I was and how much I had developed lately.

Later he gave me a ride to my girlfriend's house to pick up my bike. On the way back it was quite dark. All of a sudden he stopped the truck and asked me for a hug. I thought, "What the heck, he did me a favor to drive me to pick up my bike, so it's no big deal to give him a hug." Well, it was a real long hug, and he wouldn't let me go. Then he asked me for a kiss, and I said, "No way... no, no!" He knew I really meant it, so he let me go. Neither one of us said a word until he dropped me off at my house.

I really feel uncomfortable around him now. I can't tell my sister or anyone else because my sister really loves him and I couldn't live with myself if I made trouble in her marriage.

If you want to print this to warn other teens who may run into a problem like this, please don't use my name.

We had arranged the "honeymoon package" at the then brand-new Hilton in Erie, Pa. We arrived late on our wedding night and were warmly welcomed at the front desk. When we got to our room, we found the promised bottle of champagne and a very lovely large room — but no bed! It seems one of the couches was a fold-out bed with one pillow and a set of sheets (no blanket)! When we telephoned downstairs, we were informed that the hotel was full and "housekeeping" was closed for the night, so we were out of luck.

When we folded out the bed and sat on it — it collapsed!

But what the heck? We've had many laughs over that story through the years. We've often said that a couple without a sense of humor could have broken up over such a series of incidents. Let's hope the honeymoon couple in that classy Dallas hotel survived their disappointment.

As for us, 13 years later, we're ...

DEAR SISTER: You were very, very wise. Thanks for sharing your experience as a warning to other young girls who could be taken advantage of by a relative or close friend.

DEAR ABBY: We got a good chuckle out of "Very Disappointed" who spent her wedding night on a fold-out couch in a fancy hotel. Your advice to double-check reservations was very good, but it doesn't always work. Here's our story:

Father's Day and beef are natural tie-in America's fathers are very special individuals, and deserve to be treated as such on Father's Day, according to the American National CattleWomen's Assn. Therefore, the CattleWomen are again sponsoring a "Beef for Father's Day" promotion to encourage families to serve Dad his favorite food on his special day.

Recognized by the USDA as "a traditional day on which to recognize the beef industry for its contribution to our way of life," Father's Day has been chosen by the CattleWomen to demonstrate the industry's commitment to family values on an annual basis and had its beginning in 1953.

"Beef and Father's Day are a natural tie-in," said Lois Cave of the local Tejas CattleWomen. "Not only is beef one of the most popular foods among fathers, but the industry embraces the strength, loyalty and integrity that we like to associate with fatherhood."

Also important is the fact that today's beef is highly nutritious, Cave said. Considerably leaner than it was 10 or 20 years ago, beef contains a high proportion of nutrients compared to calories. It is one of the diet's leading contributors of iron, zinc, protein and important vitamins.

This year's "Beef for Father's Day" program is a cooperative effort of the American National CattleWomen and the Beef Industry Council of the Meat Board.

The Tejas CattleWomen organization is women from Snyder, Colorado City, Coahoma and Big Spring.

double. You, South, were halfway between a bid of one no-trump and two no-trump, but those good spot-cards justified the stronger response.

From the bidding, you know that West has almost all the missing strength, including the heart king and spade ace. Therefore, duck the first club trick, but when West continues with the club two to his partner's jack, win with the ace. (You could duck again, planning to win immediately with the heart ace if East switches to a heart.)

Next lead a low spade toward dummy, putting up the queen if West plays low. Return to hand with a diamond to the jack for the lead of a second low spade. Here West has to play the ace on thin air, giving you three spade tricks. He can cash his clubs, but you discard heart losers and claim the balance. Your nine tricks will be three spades, one heart, four diamonds and one club.

Miami, Denver recommended for teams

by The Associated Press
Officials from the four cities rejected by the National League expansion committee are now scurrying to come up with alternate plans to bring a baseball team to their town.

Commissioner Fay Vincent confirmed Monday that the committee has recommended Denver and Miami for entrance into the National League in 1993.

Approval from the major league ownership committee is expected when it meets Wednesday in Santa Monica, Calif. However, the 26 club owners may not vote on final approval at the meeting.

The cities need approval from nine NL owners and eight AL owners. If it does not happen at this week's quarterly meetings, it could take place in a telephone conference call or a mail ballot.

The expansion committee's decision leaves Buffalo, N.Y.; Orlando, Fla.; St. Petersburg, Fla.; and Washington, D.C., still searching for a team.

"My gut reaction is we're going to get a baseball team, and I think we're going to get a baseball team in the next two or three years," St. Petersburg mayor David Fischer said. "I think St. Petersburg, or Tampa Bay, was really the logical site. ... I think baseball recognizes that we're a strong, strong entry and it's just a matter of time before we get an existing team."

The Florida Suncoast Dome in downtown St. Petersburg has a capacity of 43,200. At least $37 million in improvements are needed to equip it for baseball, with about $23 million of that coming from a financial package approved by the state legislature.

"Frankly, we met the criteria going away with respect to the demographics, the TV market, Tampa Bay unity, the state-of-the-art facility, 22,697 pre-season reservations sold in 30 days and another 3,000 sold thereafter," former St. Petersburg mayor Robert Ulrich said. "We met the criteria in every way except that expansion group — the ownership group — and that was out of our hands."

L'field hires Snyder coach

Snyder High School assistant basketball coach Brian Huseman has resigned his position with the Tigers to accept the head boys' basketball position at Littlefield.

"I wanted a head basketball coaching job and I feel like this is a good opportunity for me," said Huseman.

"I hate to leave Snyder, I like it here, but you just don't know when a job like this will come along."

"It's a program on the rise," Huseman said of the Littlefield job.

"They have some good athletes and are really strong in football."

"You can't hope to keep a coach as good as coach Huseman is," said head SHS basketball coach Bud Birks.

"He's a good coach and he's moving up into a good situation."

Besides his duties as head basketball coach, Huseman will direct the Wildcats' freshman football team and teach health and drivers' education at LHS.

Taking Huseman's position as assistant varsity coach and junior varsity coach at Snyder will be Joe Young.

In a related move, Mike Meeks will move up from Snyder Junior High to take on the freshman basketball and football teams.

Huseman, currently involved in the Tiger Basketball Camp, expects to make his move to Littlefield in about a month.

Rangers lose eighth consecutive ball game

ARLINGTON, Texas (AP) — Ten days ago, the Texas Rangers were leading the American League West, riding a club-record 14-game winning streak.

Monday night they tumbled into sixth, dropping their eighth straight game, 3-2 to the Chicago White Sox in 13 innings.

The White Sox won their fifth consecutive game with two unearned runs in the 13th on Texas right fielder Ruben Sierra's two-out fielding error.

Chicago moved past the Rangers in the AL West, handing Texas its 11th defeat in its last 12 games.

"It seems like during the winning streak we could do no wrong," Rangers shortstop Jeff Huson said. "Now it seems like we can do no right."

The Rangers had the tying run cut down at the plate with two outs in the bottom of the 13th.

Sierra was in position to end the Chicago 13th as he backpedaled near the warning track for Cora's fly ball. But the ball kicked off Sierra's glove, allowing Lance Johnson and Tim Raines to score. It was Sierra's first error of the season after handling 115 chances without a miscue.

Golfing great Sam Snead never won the U.S. Open but lost a playoff to Lew Worsham for the 1947 title.

Rats on Columbia doing well

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — The tiny jellyfish aboard space shuttle Columbia are acting a little weird in zero gravity, swimming in circles instead of bobbing up and down as they do in the Earth's oceans.

But the white rats aboard appear happy and healthy in their space cages.

The seven crew members are sharing space with 2,478 jellyfish and 29 rodents while conducting a variety of experiments designed to learn more about the effects of weightlessness on the body.

The rodents "are very healthy. ... Sometimes I wake them up to make sure they are bright-eyed and bushy-tailed," astronaut Millie Hughes-Fulford said Monday.

However, TV pictures have shown some of the jellyfish swimming in circles. Jellyfish on Earth use pulsing movements to travel upward, and then sink when the pulsing stops. But things don't sink in zero gravity.

"I can definitely say that I see some gross differences," said

Dorothy Spangenberg, the Earth-bound biologist who picked the jellyfish for the trip.

"Of course as a scientist though, I want to study every little animal in great detail ... before I'll be able to come out with an evaluation of exactly what occurred in space."

The jellyfish range in size from about the size of the lead tip of a freshly sharpened pencil to a little larger than the head of a straight pin and have tiny tentacles that pulsate, enabling them to move.

Most of the jellyfish are polyps, in the first developmental stage of their lives. Less than a third were injected with iodine early in the flight to accelerate their growth. A total of 450 jellyfish are the more mature pulsating ephyrae.

Spangenberg, a researcher at the Eastern Virginia Medical School, has studied jellyfish for 30 years and considers them "just wonderful."

"Believe me, this is serious science," she said. "I have one whole year from NASA funding, and I intend to take that full year and study these in great detail."

Among other things, scientists want to examine the creatures' gravity receptors, which, like humans' inner ears, help them maintain direction and balance.

The receptors also will be examined for any calcium loss. That could help scientists better understand why astronauts lose calcium in their teeth and bones.

In one of several non-medical experiments today, the astronauts measured aerodynamic acceleration, which required brief firings of the steering jets so the orbiter pitches and rolls. The crew had to remain still during the test. The data will be used to develop a space station and other systems.

The astronauts' work Monday included more testing of the neurovestibular system — the brain, nerves, eyes and inner ear — which helps the body orient itself. Space motion sickness, a common ailment among astronauts, is believed to be caused by changes in this system.

Hughes-Fulford popped in contact lenses marked with a starburst pattern and placed her head in a rotating dome. Using a joystick, she indicated the perceived direction and velocity of the dots inside the spinning device. A camera provided a close-up view of her twitching pupil.

The astronauts interrupted their sixth day of biomedical research 184 miles above Earth for a live TV interview and expressed surprise at how their bodies were reacting after nearly a week of weightlessness.

Astronaut F. Andrew Gaffney, a cardiologist, said it takes longer than he thought for blood to shift around inside the body and there is less pressure in the heart than he expected.

Columbia's nine-day medical research mission is scheduled to end Friday at Edwards Air Force Base, Calif. The flight could be extended a day if a loose seal prevents the cargo bay doors from closing tightly.

Two astronauts then would perform a spacewalk to fix the seal. The shuttle could burn up during its fiery descent through the atmosphere if the doors do not close tightly.

WTC board meets

Texas State Bank for the college's depository funds. Trustees noted that the decision was a difficult one, since all bids were similar. Abstaining was R.C. Patton, a member of the board of directors at West Texas State Bank. Voting for the motion to continue with WTSB were trustees Gayle, Bob Hargrove, John Fagin and Howard Sterling. Bill Wilson Jr. and Carl Williams did not attend the meeting.

Also submitting bids were American State Bank and Snyder National Bank.

Faculty members approved for promotion in rank from instructor to assistant professor were Donny Brown, mass communications; Bill McGlothing, English and developmental studies; and Jack Price, management. The promotions are based on years served and degree qualifications and do not include salary increases.

A summer school enrollment report presented by Bettie McQueen, dean of instruction, indicated enrollment is down by 229 students compared to the summer of 1990. There are currently 583 credit students and 41 quarterly students enrolled, for a total of 624. In 1990, the summer enrollment was 853. Academic contact hours compare as 41,248 for 1991 to 59,264 for 1990 and vocational-technical contact hours are down from 8,336 to 3,840.

Mrs. McQueen said there appears to be "no one overriding factor" for the decline in enrollment, noting that all courses appear to suffer an equal loss. She also noted that summer salaries would also be correspondingly down, from $61,663 in 1990 to $45,213 in 1991.

Mike Thornton, dean of continuing education, reported that the continuing education department will be working with between 800 and 900 students during the summer. These include 69 students in four classes at the Price Daniel Unit, some 312 extension center students; approximately 500 students involved in adult vocational and community service courses; 80 to 100 teachers taking in-service for Windham Schools; and 15-20 students for a summer GED program.

Dr. Harry Krenek, college president, informed trustees that the federal government now requires part-time employees to be covered by Social Security or a retirement plan. He noted that administrators have decided to implement an employee-funded program in which 7.5 percent of the part-time employees' salary will be directed toward a personal retirement fund. The employee could collect the funds and interest upon termination of the job. The plan will be implemented in July.

Those considered part-time at WTC are working 17 hours or less per week or are teaching less than three classes.

Following a comprehensive report on maintenance upkeep at the college from Leon Pettitt, director of the physical plant, trustees decided to take bids for emulsion sealant for the primary cart paths at the college golf course. The total length of the paths is 1.7 miles.

Pettitt also suggested the board should consider restroom renovation in the dorms, replacing some exit doors, painting and some repair to the student center, and repair of a five-ton compressor at the museum.

Trustees also gave approval for Pettitt to purchase a truck with a hydraulic lift which the college has been using, for $5,000 from money already in the current budget.

future proceeds will likely be lower than anticipated," he said. "As a result, resolution costs are likely to reach or exceed the high end of the (administration's) estimate range."

Treasury Secretary Nicholas F. Brady more than a year ago estimated the bailout cost at $90 billion to $130 billion. He has said more recently that the cost would be at the upper end of the range.

Desiree Tucker-Sorini, an acting assistant Treasury secretary, said the administration continues to believe the cost will fall within Brady's estimate. She said the appraisal by the GAO, an investigative arm of Congress, is not inconsistent with the Treasury's.

Brady's $130 billion estimate was expressed in 1989 dollars. Adjusting for inflation, the actual bailout cost could be somewhat more than $130 billion, on a cash basis, and still be the equivalent of the original estimate, Tucker-Sorini said.

In the two years since its creation, the RTC has seized about 600 failed thrift institutions, closing or selling nearly 400 of them. It is due to handle more than 100 others expected to fail in the months ahead.

Kuwait's trials are called unfair

NEW YORK (AP) — Kuwait is torturing prisoners and conducting unfair trials of those accused of collaborating with Iraq, Amnesty International said today.

The human rights organization issued the condemnation after the first alleged wartime collaborator was sentenced to death in Kuwait over the weekend.

"Unfair trials are bad enough in cases where defendants face penalties of imprisonment, but they are absolutely intolerable where the penalty is death," the London-based group said in a statement issued in New York.

Police investigate 2 assault reports

Police worked a gas station burglary, made two arrests and handled assault reports filed by a wife and her husband Monday.

William Johnson notified police at 6:48 a.m. that his Exxon station at 1401 25th St. had been burglarized. Entry was apparently gained through a window in the back of the station. Taken was an undetermined amount of change from the cash register.

At 9:44 a.m., police arrested an 18-year-old male at Municipal Court and transported him to county jail to lay out fines for public intoxication. Monday's second arrest came at 5:35 p.m. as officers took a 63-year-old male into custody in the Furr's parking lot for public intoxication.

Officers handled a double assault case later in the day. At 8:37 p.m., a woman came to the department saying she had been assaulted by her husband. She was taken to Cogdell Memorial Hospital emergency room where she was treated and released.

She then returned to the police station to file charges for Class C assault. Her husband was advised to be at Municipal Court today.

Subsequently, at 10:44 p.m., the husband came to the police station and filed Class C assault charges on his wife.

Police also handled several other domestic disturbances without incident Monday.

Officers also worked a theft report, a report of a dog bite and a gas drive-off.

At 5:40 p.m., Annette Fitzhugh of 4516 Fredonia contacted police in reference to her son's black Murry 20-inch bicycle having been stolen. A report was filed for theft of a bicycle.

At 7:19 p.m., a woman requested an officer at Cogdell Hospital in reference to her son having been bitten by a dog.

And, at 9:21 p.m., an employee of Skinner's on 37th St. notified police that a subject driving an older model Thunderbird had left without paying for gasoline.

In one other report, Betty Zajick called at 8:36 a.m. in reference to a broken window which was apparently shot out at a residence at 2402 Sunset sometime during the weekend. A report was to be filed on the incident.

Understanding use of ionophores

by KENT MILLS

Something that has amazed me for years has been livestock products' lack of knowledge of products called ionophores. You may recognize the names Rumensin[®], made by Elanco; and Bovatec[®], made by Hoffmann-La Roche, more than the term ionophores. In spite of all the advertising and promotion that these two companies have done, the most common answer to my question of "Have you ever used Rumensin (or Bovatec)?" has been, "What's that, a hormone?"

Ionophores are not hormones! Hormones are a different discussion, and I will address them in a later article. Ionophores are feed additives that allow a ruminant animal (cattle, sheep and goats) to get more energy out of the feed that it eats each day. As a general rule, this means about a 10 percent increase in gains for calves from increased feed efficiency, either in the feedlot or on pasture. This also means a 10 to 15 percent reduction in cost of gains. My experience has shown that the ionophores will return about eight cents for each penny invested. Even a banker would jump at a return like that.

Both of the ionophores are controlled medications and as such have guidelines that must be met. The recommended intake is 120 to 200 milligrams of ionophore per head per day mixed in at least one pound of feed. As a pasture supplement, it can be fed every other day without any ill effects, but care should be taken not to exceed 400 milligrams in any feeding. In the feedlot, a rate of 20 grams per ton of feed is the recommended rate for a full feed diet. These levels will get the full benefit of the increased energy availability from the ionophores. Lower intake levels will give some increased energy metabolism but will fall short of their potential.

As with anything, there is always some bad with the good. With the ionophores, it is that feeds containing ionophores can be fatal to horses, pigs, dogs, humans, etc. that eat it. Only an animal with a rumen can safely utilize it. Rumensin is toxic at a much lower level than Bovatec, so many producers prefer to use it, but caution should be taken, regardless of which ionophore you use, to keep it away from non-ruminants.

One last thing — don't expect miracles from an ionophore. The animal must be receiving sufficient energy for the product to have a chance to work. If an animal is in a below-maintenance energy situation, an ionophore will help some. But in reality, the greater the energy intake, the greater the response you will receive. As in all other areas, there is no magic in animal nutrition. However, there are some tools, such as ionophores, that can help a producer get the most out of the resources he has.

SCS Notes

With land preparations and spring planting getting underway across the state, Texas producers are gearing up for another year, and one of the most important production inputs a producer can use in determining production and marketing plans is the mid-year crop and livestock reports released by the Texas Agricultural Statistics Service.

Beginning June 1, representatives from the Texas office began contacting farmers and ranchers across the state to help set the 1991 planted acreage estimates and mid-year livestock inventories.

"Information from these surveys will provide Texas producers with solid facts and figures they can use when making their plans for the coming year," state statistician Dennis Findley reported.

"The surveys will be very important this year because they will be the first accurate measure of the impact of participation in the 1990 government farm bill," he added.

Individual reports will be combined with other reports to set state estimates. Results of the confidential interviews, conducted by telephone or in person by field enumerators, will be published later this summer. The 1991 acreage estimates will be released June 27, while the mid-year cattle inventory will be released June 29.

"These surveys are important production tools, and good, overall participation will give producers an accurate view of where Texas agriculture stands."

"Following several years of near drought-like conditions in the central and southern portions of the state and severe flooding in East Texas last spring, some producers need all the help and information they can get," Findley noted.

Surprises mark AHB swarming season

COLLEGE STATION—Africanized honey bees migrating to the United States from Mexico provided a couple of surprises for swarm watchers this spring.

Lots of Africanized honey bee swarms hit South Texas in a short period of time and lots of people called to report them.

In traps, under a trailer house, near a corn field, on a school yard, at a railroad station, in parks and up trees, about 50 Africanized honey bee (AHB) swarms landed indiscriminately in South Texas between April 15 and June 1.

As the spring swarming season ends, officials believe the final count may be 60 confirmed AHB swarms. The first migratory AHB swarm in the United States was detected last October near Hidalgo.

"We are surprised by the number of Africanized honey bee swarms so quickly," said Dr. Anita Collins, who leads the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Honey Bee Research Lab in Weslaco.

"What surprised me was that we had such a big response from the people calling in to report swarms," noted Elba Quintero of Harlingen, AHB program coordinator for the USDA's Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service.

About 60 percent of the AHB swarms found so far this spring were reported by the public. The remainder were captured in a web of more than 1,200 traps strung across South Texas from the Rio Grande to San Antonio. Most of the bees have been found along the Rio Grande from Brownsville to Eagle Pass. About 70 percent were found in two counties — Hidalgo and Starr.

"It seems the bees have come up the central mountains (of Mexico) and down the rivers from there to the Rio Grande rather than up the Gulf Coast," Collins said. "They have taken a more inland route."

Collins noted that Mexico had a relatively mild winter followed by a wet spring, both favorable for honey bee populations.

Dr. Gott

By Peter Gott, M.D.

By Peter H. Gott, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I had gallstone surgery last fall and have had terrible pains in my right leg since. First it was the front of the leg, and now it's above the knee. Is there a relation to the surgery? My doctor thinks it's arthritis.

DEAR READER: I don't know the cause of your leg pains, but I doubt they are a consequence of gallbladder surgery. Also, from your brief description, the pains do not appear to emanate from your joints; therefore, arthritis seems unlikely.

I wonder if you're not suffering from myalgia, muscle pains caused by inflammation or over-use. Thrombophlebitis (blood clots in the leg veins) is a dreaded consequence of any surgery and can appear without warning during periods of restricted activity, such as post-operative convalescence.

However, thrombophlebitis usually affects the calf — not the thigh — is readily diagnosed on physical examination, and is treated with anti-coagulants. Ask your doctor to refer you to an orthopedic surgeon for a second opinion.

To give you more information, I am sending you a free copy of my Health Report "Medical Specialists." Other readers who would like a copy should send $1.25 plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to P.O. Box 91369, Cleveland, OH 44101-3369. Be sure to mention the title.

DEAR DR. GOTT: Please provide information on a rotator-cuff injury. My doctor talks operation, yet I'm interested in relief through medication or treatment.

DEAR READER: The rotator cuff is a series of tissues surrounding the shoulder joint. These tissues can become inflamed, strained or torn by injuries, leading to severe shoulder pain and diminished mobility.

Initial treatment usually consists of rest, heat, physical therapy and anti-inflammatory drugs (such as Indocin, Motrin and Naprosyn).

If this conservative approach is ineffective or if the injury is severe, as demonstrated by X-rays or other tests, the cuff may have to be surgically repaired. Orthopedic surgeons or physiatrists (specialists in rehabilitation medicine) are valuable resources for patients with this affliction.

Presbyterians nix homosexuality, premarital sex

BALTIMORE (AP) — In an action watched closely by other Protestant denominations, Presbyterian leaders refused to give their blessing to premarital sex and homosexuality and instead affirmed the sanctity of marriage.

The General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church (U.S.A.) voted 534-31 Monday to reject a report that recommended the 2.9 million-member denomination approve premarital sex, homosexuality and bisexuality.

The assembly also decided to send a letter to its 10,500 churches affirming past church statements declaring homosexuality "is not God's wish for humanity."

As commissioners stood and cheered the affirmation of traditional church teachings on sexuality, about 300 gay-rights supporters carried a wooden cross down the center of the convention hall in a silent protest.

Some wept as they left the hall, singing, "We are gay and lesbian people, and we are singing, singing for our lives."

The vote had been watched closely by other denominations, including the United Methodist Church and the Evangelical Lutheran Church in America. Both are embroiled in sexuality debates. The Episcopal Church is scheduled to consider a proposal in July to permit the ordination of practicing homosexuals.

Court to decide if Scouts can exclude non-believers

CHICAGO (AP) — An eight-year-old barred from joining the Cub Scouts says he's "surprised, sad and kind of mad" that he's not allowed to join unless he professes a belief in God.

"I'm just the same as everybody else," Mark Welsh said Monday. "It's just that I don't believe in God."

Mark and his father, Elliott Welsh, sued the Boy Scouts of America after the Cub Scouts refused to admit Mark as a member in 1989 when he and his father told them they do not believe in God.

The Welshes contend the Scouts is a public group and cannot discriminate. The Boy Scouts argue that scouting is a private matter and that religion is a fundamental part of the group's nature.

Both Elliott Welsh and his wife, Donna Arsenoff, say their son is acting of his own free will and not under parental pressure. Ms. Arsenoff said outside a federal courtroom Monday that she and her husband have told Mark he does not have to fight the Scouts.

"It's his choice," she said. "I wonder how many religious families leave that kind of choice up to their children."

Mark says he's upset because his friends are in the Scouts and they're having fun without him.

"They do a lot of things that I like to do," he said during testimony before U.S. District Judge Ilana Rovner on Monday.

Elliott Welsh testified in Monday's bench trial that he is a former Scout who fully believes in the values scouting teaches — except for belief in God.

"I have no problem with the belief that religion can lead to the best kind of citizenship," he said. But religion is not the only way to produce good citizens, Welsh said.

In opening statements, the Welshes' lawyer, Richard Grossman, said the Boy Scouts, based in Irving, Texas, can't discriminate on the basis of religion because they are a public organization. He said the 1964 Civil Rights Act bans religious discrimination in public accommodations. The Boy Scouts' attorney, George Davidson, said the Cub Scout Promise, which requires boys to swear to do their duty to God, is an effort to instill values in the youths.

"These are not merely words to memorize," he said. "These are principles."

The trial resumes Wednesday, when Grossman is expected to conclude his case. Davidson said his presentation is likely to take more than a week.

Scouting has faced a number of controversies recently.

A lawsuit filed by twins in California who were expelled after they refused to say the word "God" in the Cub Scout Promise is currently in the courts.
