

Year-long search for Gray ends in Florida

Travis Dale Gray, an escapee from Snyder's Price Daniel prison unit, was arrested

Thursday afternoon in Florida. The apprehension of Gray, 32, came just six days short of the anniversary of his June 20, 1990, escape from the Texas Department of Criminal Justice medium-security prison here.

Snyder-based Texas Ranger John Billings, assisted by the Scurry County sheriff's department, directed the year-long manhunt for Gray who was serving a 45-year sentence for the murder of his first wife.

Based on information fed by Ranger Billings to police in Largo, Fla., a town of about 50,000 in Pinella County, Gray was arrested near an apartment complex where he was employed as a maintenance man.

His current wife, Missy, reportedly was the apartment assistant manager. When arrested, Gray had a .25 magnum on his person and a machete in his car and has been charged with two felony counts.

The escape charge, without enhancement, is a third degree felony and carries a maximum sentence of 10 years.

The arrest came about 3:45 including the many aliases used by the couple. When arrested, Gray was using the alias Steve Binyon.

"This is not your everyday convict. This guy was sharp. He didn't make any mistakes," said Billings.

"I'm glad to see it come to a successful end without anybody getting hurt," added Billings.

Warden Woods, who was on vacation in East Texas, said, "I'm glad to have him back. John Billings was instrumental in his capture and he worked very hard doing so for a long time."

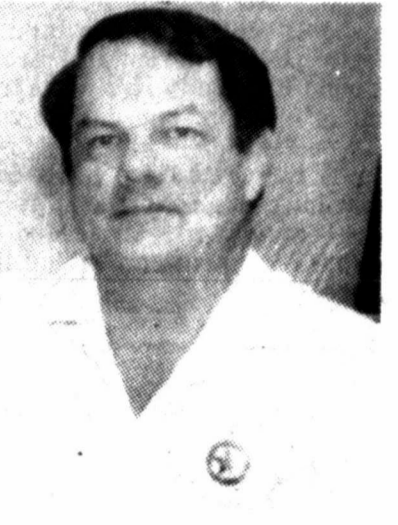

Added Woods, "This wasn't the case of him (Gray) making a mistake. This was hard, diligent work by John, assisted by the sheriff's department, that eventually led to his capture."

"Mr. Billings, with the aid of Chief Deputy Andy Anderson and

Chamber considering bingo

Scurry County Museum director Shirley Leftwich appealed to the chamber's tourism and retirement committee for its endorsement saying the museum "is facing an emergency situation" because of a proposed $22,000 cut in the budget.

Leftwich's request came during Thursday's meeting of the committee at chamber offices. Also discussed were the possibility of bringing bingo to Snyder, an update of the AJRA National Finals Rodeo and an upcoming baseball tournament.

Western Texas College trustee Howard Sterling was also in attendance Thursday and said the museum budget had been targeted to be cut along with other college program budgets. He said he thought that public schools benefit more from the museum than the college and should help fund the facility.

The committee voted to endorse the museum, noting its value to the community and as a tourist attraction. Leftwich noted the museum hosted 6,000 visitors last year.

Bingo could come to Snyder, Art Feinsod and chamber manager Ricky Fritz told the committee. Fritz said he had received a package from Austin which includes rules and regulations governing the activity, and contact has been made with the

Martin named to CED board

Snyder public schools board of trustees appointed Terry Martin to the county education district board by acclamation, accepted eight resignations and approved three teachers for employment during Thursday's June meeting.

The board also heard from a teacher's group representative, named an outside auditor and agreed to lease property from the City of Snyder.

Martin was named as the school district's representative on County Education District (CED) 11, which will hold its first meeting at 5 p.m. Monday in the school administration building. The CED board consists of one board member from each of the 11 school districts represented and under state law will coordinate and disperse a portion of taxes to school districts in a five county area.

Carolyn Glaves addressed the board, noting her appreciation for efforts trustees have made to hear teacher concerns.

"On behalf of all the teachers, I would like to express a sincere appreciation for allowing us to participate in the workshop (Monday evening)," said teacher Carolyn Glaves. "The teachers came away with a positive feeling and felt very good that the school board members showed concern. I think the teachers have a better knowledge of where decisions come from and the effort of this board."

"I think the greatest thing that happened...began with a lot of teachers saying 'why try, nothing will happen,' and I'm happy to say that was proven wrong. I think teachers are being made much more aware of why the board makes the decisions it does...I am quite proud that 1991-92 will be a very positive school year and that teachers will come back with a positive attitude."

Trustees also heard a report on the Hobbs Alternative School from Dr. Tom Scannicchio, assistant superintendent, who noted that 12 Snyder students graduated this past year because of the school.

"You can feel good about what is going on there," Scannicchio said.

Board members approved a contract with the alternative school for 1991-92.

Later in the meeting, the board accepted resignations from Janice Brown, director of testing, who has accepted a position in the Ector ISD; Sharrylon Vestal, English teacher, who will join the Price Daniel Unit as a librarian; Rudy Gutierrez, who had been on leave of absence and will be employed in Big Spring; and Dora Blakey, sixth grade teacher who is retiring.

Athletic video supplies okayed by SISD board after debate, two votes

Snyder Independent School District board members Thursday debated and took two votes before finally approving video equipment for the high school athletic department.

At issue was whether the $14,600 in equipment — including a $4,000 editing VCR and a $3,000 camcorder — should be shared by other departments.

The equipment is designed so that it can freeze each frame, and reverse and forward without distortion. It will be used to analyze opponents and as a teaching tool in the department.

Trustees were told that District 2-4A athletic programs are all going to similar equipment for the 1991-92 year and that Snyder's current 16 millimeter film would not be compatible. They were also told that SISD currently spends between $4,500-$5,000 a year on 16 millimeter film and processing. Following pay-out of the video equipment, SISD's only cost each year would be maintenance and video tapes.

KSNY program director Paul Gilbert told the board that the equipment is highly specialized, noting "It's not the kind of equipment that I think you'd want to be passing around to every department."

Trustee Geraldine Parker made a motion to accept a bid of $14,592.40 from Lubbock Audio Visual, Inc., with the stipulation that the equipment would be made available to other departments of the school.

Asked how she would define "available," Mrs. Parker said the athletic department should be given priority, but that the equipment should be available on a check-out basis to other departments.

Trustee Terry Martin said he did not think that sharing the specialized equipment was feasible, adding, "If other departments have a need then let's address that. I'm going solely on the basis that after this is paid off, we're spending a few dollars a year instead of $4,000 or $5,000. We're saving money."

Parker's motion was defeated 4-3, with she, Billy Bob McMullan (see BIDS, page 10)

James Roberts, in the Andrews County News, has attended a lot of meetings about the future of the oil patch in West Texas.

At one meeting, a speaker asked the presiding chairman of the afternoon session just how long he should speak.

He was told to watch the reaction of the audience.

"If you haven't struck oil in five minutes, quit boring."

Joe Thompson, in the Hood County News, told about a conversation about superstitions, and we were reminded of a tale that we had heard of years ago.

Thompson was talking on the telephone with an elderly lady, and a thunderstorm rolled in. The woman asked if it was safe to be talking on the phone during a lightning storm.

To date, Thompson has been unable to confirm any real danger of talking on the telephone during a thunderstorm.

O. G. Nieman, in the Hereford Brand, told about a bridge club pal who went to his family doctor with a variety of minor aches and pains.

The doc checked him over and concluded he couldn't find anything wrong. "I think it's just the process of too many birthdays."

When he returned home, an anxious wife wanted to know what the doctor had told him.

"He said," sighed the man, "that I'm suffering from milestones."

Helicopter directs chase

SHERMAN, Texas (AP) — The nearest patrol car was 5 miles away when two bank robbery suspects carved paths across north Dallas lawns and drove around Plano city hall while trying to elude a lone citizen who was on their tail.

But, high in the sky, police in a helicopter tracked their every move and finally succeeded in aligning a squad car behind the suspects.

What ensued was a wild, high-speed chase Thursday on U.S. 75 that finally ended almost an hour later about 60 miles north of Dallas, near the Grayson County town of Howe.

Before the chase ended, the duo had reached speeds of 110 mph, sideswiped a car while weaving in and out of traffic, shot the gas tanks of two 18-wheel tractor-trailer trucks, and shot the tire of a state trooper's car.

Dallas police Lt. Charles Epperson said the men were shooting at the gas tanks in an attempt to cause an explosion.

"They wanted to make it like all those things you see on TV, but they didn't know it really doesn't happen that way," said Epperson, adding that the trucks had to pull over because of leaking fuel tanks.

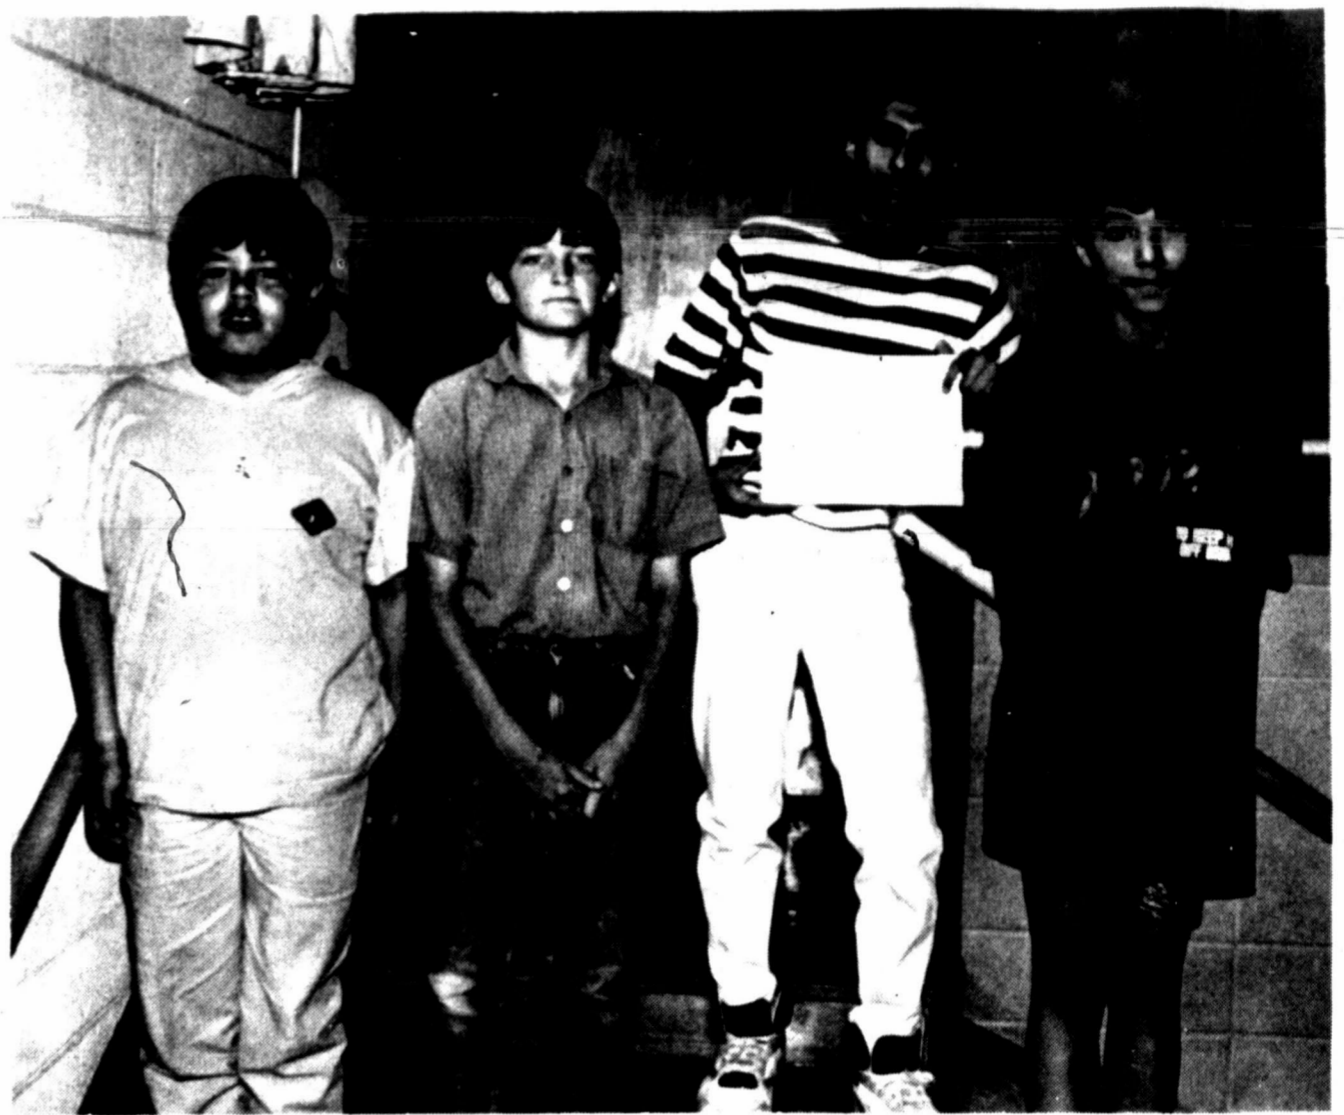

With the helicopter still overhead, and a police car and the trooper's car in hot pursuit, James Christopher Carter, 22, and Dewey Albert Lee, 27, both of Plano, finally "looked at each other, shrugged their shoulders, slowed down, pulled to the side of the road and stopped," said Department of Public Safety spokesman Steve Shatley.

"They still had gas in the car and nothing appeared to be wrong mechanically with the car. They just gave themselves up," Shatley said.

The car they were in was later reported stolen in Plano.

During the chase, Lee leaned out the passenger window of the car and fired "numerous" shots at law enforcement officers and other motorists, said Cpl. C.C. Wade of the DPS in Sherman. Wade said the fire was not returned by officers.

A 9mm Beretta automatic handgun and many live and empty rounds of ammunition were lying in the floor of the men's vehicle at the end of the chase, the DPS officer said.

Park fees to go up Sept. 1

AUSTIN (AP) — Increases in the cost to hunt, fish or visit most state parks are ready to take effect Sept. 1, parks officials said.

In addition to the new rates, it was announced Thursday that the Texas Parks and Wildlife Commission next month will consider an annual fee to be charged to anyone entering a state park. That proposed charge has been called a "conservation permit."

In earlier discussions, the commission considered setting the conservation permit at $10 annually.

Last month, the Parks and Wildlife Commission approved raising the resident hunting and fishing licenses to $13 each; a $3 increase for the hunting license and a $5 increase for the fishing permit.

The commission also adopted an increase in the combination hunting and fishing license from $15 to $25, in addition to approving scores of other increases on fees charged by the agency for recreational and commercial use of the state's wildlife resources.

The new rates required some touch-up work by the Parks and Wildlife Department staff and final notification to the commission before the fees could be put in place.

Earlier this week, the staff notified commission members that the increased fees were ready, officials said.

Of the 115 state parks, some entry charges may stay the same, but most will go up.

The current fee at most parks is $2 per vehicle. Officials have proposed increasing some park entry fees to as much as $6 per vehicle.

The Parks and Wildlife Department said it would make the fee schedule public on Sunday, after the agency's employees had been notified of the new rates.

Bill Rutledge, director of conservation communications for the department, said the agency wants its employees to know about the increases before they are deluged with questions from the public.

More revenue is needed to improve the state parks, offset slumping or flat revenues from hunting licenses and the cigarette tax, and wean the agency from general tax funds, parks officials have said.

Accused man freed on bond last month

AUSTIN (AP) — Women's rights advocates say they are appalled but not surprised to learn that a man accused of fatally beating a 2½-year-old boy has been freed on bond while the child's mother remains in prison for failing to stop the beating death.

Gerald Christopher Zuliani, who has been accused of fatally beating Christopher Wohlers, was released on bond last month. Zuliani's former wife, Robbi Boutwell, mother of Christopher Wohlers, is now serving a prison sentence for failing to stop the January 1990 beating of her son.

"It's ironic that Robbi is in prison" and Zuliani is free, said Judy Reeves, program coordinator of the Texas Council on Family Violence.

Christopher was slammed repeatedly against a wall and floor on Jan. 2, 1990, investigators said. He died of head injuries the next day.

The case drew national attention when Ms. Boutwell was charged. The woman and groups who supported her said she should not have been charged in the case because she was too traumatized from years of abuse to protect Christopher or her 4-year-old daughter.

Ms. Boutwell, 25, pleaded guilty last fall to a charge of failure to prevent child abuse, and was sentenced to five years in prison, a one-year term in the Travis County Jail and 10 years of supervised probation.

Zuliani, 25, was charged with injury to a child and spent more than a year in the Travis County Correctional Complex at Del Valle waiting for trial. He was released about six weeks ago when he posted a $50,000 surety bond. The first trial for Zuliani was declared a mistrial last October after jurors were accidentally given a confession written by Zuliani describing how he beat the boy. That confession had not been presented as evidence at the trial.

A second trial was set for June 24, but it will probably be delayed because Zuliani's lawyers have filed an appeal with the 3rd Court of Appeals.

"The way our justice system works, it's just really not a surprise," said Anna Belle Burleson, chair of the Formerly Battered Women's Task Force of Central Texas. "Our criminal justice system takes care of our criminals, and legally that's his right to get bailed out."

"I'm frightened for the women and children of Central Texas,"

Ms. Burleson said. "Most of these guys don't go to jail. They just go from one relationship to another.... They can't live without a woman to take care of them, and there's nothing to stop him from treating another woman that way."

Defense lawyer Jim Sawyer and Patrick Ganne put up the bond for Zuliani.

The Sunday Times Pairs

By Phillip Alder

For 19 years the Sunday Times Pairs, held every January in London, was the world's most prestigious pairs tournament. A few years ago it lapsed, but last January it was back, rising like the phoenix from the ashes.

The winners were Paul Chemla and Michel Perron of France. They finished comfortably ahead of Britain's Boris Schapiro and Irving Gordon, with Americans Chip Martel and Lew Stansby third.

Playing in a 4-3 fit is usually recommended only when the hand with the three-card suit also has a shortage, so that any ruffs may be taken in that hand. This leaves the four-card holding intact to draw the opponents' trumps. But in today's hand from the Sunday Times Pairs, the aggressive East-West bidding made life difficult for North-South, pushing them into an awkward four-spade contract.

The defenders began with three rounds of diamonds, forcing declarer to ruff the last round. The normal line would be to play dummy's top clubs immediately. But South (Michael Rosenberg, a Scotsman who lives in New York) judged from the bidding that there was a risk that the player short in clubs was also short in spades. So Rosenberg cashed the A-K of spades and finessed the heart jack. He continued with the heart ace, ruffing the heart six in hand; a club to dummy, the spade queen, and dummy's winners. When East ruffed the heart king with his top trump, he had no diamond to lead. So declarer's 10 tricks were three spades, two hearts, three clubs, a diamond ruff and a heart ruff.

Former prosecutor to defend state

AUSTIN (AP) — A former federal prosecutor has been hired to represent the state mental health department in a 17-year-old federal lawsuit, after the state's earlier attorney was removed from the case.

The attorney general's office on Thursday announced the appointment of Paul Coggins.

Coggins, now a Dallas lawyer, replaces Assistant Attorney General Toni Hunter, said Gray McBride, press secretary to Attorney General Dan Morales.

Ms. Hunter, 47, was removed from the case last month by U.S. District Judge Barefoot Sanders, who called her conduct in the case improper and disruptive.

Census misses thousands of Texans

WASHINGTON (AP) — A new Census Bureau estimate that shows over 560,000 Texas residents were missed in the 1990 census count is proof enough of the need for an adjustment, state leaders say.

A Census Bureau estimate released Thursday pushes the state's population from 16.9 million to 17.5 million. The estimate shows 564,490 Texans were not counted.

Of those missed, tens of thousands are blacks and Hispanics living in Texas' urban centers and border communities, according to the estimate.

Gov. Ann Richards said the estimate is further evidence that Commerce Secretary Robert Mosbacher should adjust the 1990 census.

Mosbacher, under threat of a federal lawsuit, has until July 15 to decide whether to adjust the April 1990 headcount. If he agrees to an adjustment, Thursday's figures would likely be adopted, said Rep. Martin Frost, D-Dallas.

Texas is among several states and cities suing for an adjustment.

The decision to adjust the census could have profound implications on federal spending in Texas, on everything from health to highways.

"How can you admit you made a 560,000-count error and not make a correction. That's not possible," Richards said Thursday.

According to the Census Bureau's latest estimate, there are 17,551,000 people living in Texas — 564,490 more than the bureau counted in April 1990.

More than half of the undercount — or 343,573 — was in the state's biggest cities and largest counties on the border, according to Census Bureau figures.

Nationally, the Census Bureau estimated that its most significant undercount occurred among blacks and Hispanics.

Frost said the new estimates point to large undercounts of minorities in Texas' major cities. If the undercount is adopted, he said, it could result in significant shifts of power to blacks and Hispanics on school boards, city councils and county commissions, as well as in legislative seats.

The Census Bureau said the greatest undercounts were in the state's most populous counties. It estimates it missed 120,801 people in Harris; 77,190 in Dallas; 42,897 in Tarrant; 35,606 in Bexar; 19,390 in El Paso; 17,593 in Travis. Significant undercounts were also noted in border counties: 15,455 in Hidalgo; 9,880 in Cameron; 4,761 in Webb.

While the new numbers would not be enough to give Texas another seat in the House — it is already boosting its delegation from 27 to 30 — the increase would result in millions more federal dollars being spent in Texas, Frost said.

Richards said she had been worried that the undercount would not be acknowledged "because it would mean the federal government would not be responsible for producing the money that they owed Texas based on its population."

"But that is really good news to hear that they have acknowledged that undercount," she said.

Dear Abby

Wife Says Her Cheatin' Heart Still Beats for Ex-Husband

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1991 Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: I am having a problem with my ex-wife. During our marriage, I caught her cheating four times. She swears she still loves me and only me. (We still see each other.) She comes over and spends the night with me every once in a while, and we have sex together, even though she has been engaged to a man in Florida for more than a year. He has money and buys her very nice gifts. (He just bought her a '91 Camaro.)

The problem is, I still love her and would like to get back together if she would only let go of the "money man." Should I let her go or keep trying to get her back?

A TOUGH DECISION

DEAR TOUGH DECISION: Let her go. She's using you (for sex) and using the man in Florida for whatever she can get out of him. If you were to get her back, what would you have? A promiscuous gold digger who can't be trusted.

DEAR ABBY: Twice recently, my daughter (the eldest and married) asked me to intervene in her behalf concerning some disagreements she has been having with some of her siblings.

My answer was, "No, please try to work it out yourselves." She then told me that it was my duty to intervene. I disagreed, saying I was not going to take sides — I wanted to be on friendly terms with all my children and their spouses.

Her husband then sent me a nasty letter calling me "ignorant and selfish," and saying I could no longer write to — or speak with — my daughter!

Abby, was I wrong in refusing to intervene?

PROBLEMS ON THE HOME FRONT

DEAR PROBLEMS: No, I think you used good judgment in remaining neutral. Now, about your name-calling son-in-law: He does not speak for his wife — unless, of course, she has authorized him to be her representative. Has she?

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I are happily married. We both agree that our family is complete and we do not want any more children. We use birth control, but nothing is foolproof, and just the thought of another pregnancy makes me shiver in my boots!

The reason my husband hasn't gotten a vasectomy is because we haven't been able to find out if such measures are right in the eyes of the Lord. We are members of the congregation of a very small Christian church, and I just can't bring myself to ask our minister. Can you please help us?

SHY IN COLORADO

DEAR SHY: Perhaps you would feel more comfortable consulting a clergyperson of your faith in a neighboring town. Or you could write to the district office of your church and inquire.

DEAR ABBY: Reading in your column that you put your glasses on when you answer the phone prompts this letter.

Even if it's dark, when we need to hear, we put our glasses on. Regardless of how strange it may seem, we hear better with glasses. This theory has been tested, and it's true.

Giant flag continues to fly

WASHINGTON (AP) — Picture this: An American flag big enough to cover a football field and most of its bleachers. A flag so big you could wrap two space shuttles in it or harvest 250 bushels of corn from under it. So big that its stripes are 16 feet broad and its stars 13 feet bright.

The "Great American Flag" is to be unfurled today on the Washington Monument grounds as an observance of Flag Day. This is a humongous flag, the biggest in the world, according to Guinness. To unfold it, by the dawn's early light, requires hundreds of volunteers.

But the supersalesman who thought of the flag, fired up others about it and got it made in 1980, won't be there to see it. "I've really been pushed out of this thing," said Len Silverfine, who runs a public relations-advertising firm, the Big Idea Co., in northern Vermont. "I've never received an invitation, although I was called the other morning and told it was in the mail."

Flag Day commemorates the adoption by the Continental Congress in 1777 of the Stars and Stripes as the United States flag. Silverfine's flag history goes back to the bicentennial in 1976 when he wanted a big, big flag to welcome the tall ships to New York harbor.

The 1976 flag was hung from the Verrazano Narrows Bridge in New York City. What so proudly they hailed at the twilight's last gleaming was torn to shreds by the wind.

Undeterred, Silverfine began anew, raised money and got volunteers at Anchor Industries in Evansville, Ind., to sew up another "Great American Flag."

"Big, colossal, gargantuan things have a way of capturing people's imagination the way normal size objects cannot," he said, pointing out that a one-eighth-scale model of the Statue of Liberty stands on an island in the Seine River in Paris but that nobody knows it.

HONOR ROLL — These Central students were named to the honor roll for the 1990-91 school year. They include Loretta Rios, Jessie Alonzo, Cynthia Gutierrez, Sherri Martin, Tanya Castillo, Cristy Luna, Amanda Rivera, Valerie Green, Mary Jane Martinez, Monica Nolan, Lisa Gutierrez, Gabriel Madrid, Priscilla Rodriguez, Cece Valadez, Monica Aparicio, Jerimah Johnson, Olivia Martinez, Chris Rodriguez, Norma Maldonado, Maritza Lopez and Michelle Silva. Reports say Iran might be developing nuclear weapons

WASHINGTON (AP) — Iran is trying to join the growing club of Third World powers developing nuclear weapons, U.S. officials and a top Iranian opposition leader say.

Since March 1990, the Iranian government has allocated $200 million to its nuclear weapons program, which is being aided by Pakistan, Argentina and China, says Mohammad Mohaddessin, director of the International Affairs Section of the People's Mojahadeen of Iran.

Mohaddessin, whose organization is based in Iraq, spoke in an interview at the start of a U.S. visit to meet with members of Congress and urge them to keep boycotting Iran.

With Iraq severely weakened by the Persian Gulf War, Iran has been trying to reassert itself as a regional power and has reached out to Europe for economic cooperation to ease its international isolation.

The United States "believes Iran has aspirations to acquire nuclear weapons," said one Bush administration official, speaking on condition of anonymity. He said the administration had been trying to dissuade Pakistan, Argentina and China from selling equipment to Iran or providing it with expertise for its program.

The nuclear program, begun in the mid-1960s by the late shah of Iran, was seriously set back by the revolution that brought Moslem clerics to power in 1979 and by the eight-year Iran-Iraq war that ended in 1988, the official said.

Iran is a signatory of the Nuclear Non-Proliferation Treaty, which means its nuclear facilities and material are subject to periodic inspections by the International Atomic Energy Agency.

"But that never stopped anyone if they were serious. It didn't stop Iraq," said another administration official. Iraq was believed to be secretly trying to produce nuclear weapons-grade material which it hid from IAEA inspectors. Allied bombers are believed to have dealt the program a major, if not fatal, setback.

Shuttle home again after 9-day mission

EDWARDS AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (AP) — Space shuttle Columbia glided through a clear sky and returned home with seven astronauts today following a nine-day mission that provided new insight into how humans adapt to space.

More than 6,500 people gathered at Edwards for the landing.

and Glen Clarady voting in favor and Martin, Sam Robertson, Luann Burleson and Ann Walton voting against.

Columbia landed on the desert base's concrete runway at 8:39 a.m. PDT. The spaceship's arrival was heralded by the customary twin sonic booms.

Earlier today, the shuttle's cargo bay doors closed normally in preparation for landing, despite loose weatherstripping. The crew successfully latched the left, then right, door as ground controllers anxiously monitored the events.

Astronaut James Bagian watched the closing of the left door from a medical laboratory in the payload bay. It was vital that the 60-foot-long doors close tightly; otherwise, the shuttle could burn up during the fiery re-entry into the atmosphere.

Martin then made a motion to purchase the equipment for use in the athletic department, which passed, 5-2. Parker and McMullan cast dissenting votes.

"Congratulations on a super flight," Mission Control's Steve Oswald told shuttle commander Bryan O'Connor after the orbiter rolled to a stop.

An emergency spacewalk would have been required if the damaged seal had prevented the NASA had been prepared, if necessary, to delay Columbia's landing until Saturday and have Resignations were also accepted from Diana Trevino, kindergarten teacher who is getting married and moving from the district; Martha Floyd, first grade teacher who is retiring; Bryan Huseman, junior varsity basketball coach who has accepted the head coaching position at Littlefield; and Huseman's wife, Mary Jo, a reading specialist who will be moving to Littlefield.

July meeting.

In other business, the board also named Joe Morin of Colorado City to perform the district's annual outside audit; approved a lease agreement with the City of Snyder for the East and West Fire Stations to use as a storage area and a classroom area, respectively; approved a request to abate some $280 nn property taxes on property given to Snyder Neighbors Sharing; and approved a request to resurface the girls' gym floor at the high school.

Police note two arrests

Snyder police made two arrests during an otherwise quiet day Thursday.

Officers arrested a 19-year-old male at 9:25 a.m. in Municipal Court for no liability insurance, traffic violations and failure to appear and took him to Scurry County Jail to lay out fines.

At 9:31 p.m., police arrested a 34-year-old male in the 1200 block of 25th St. for driving while intoxicated.

Police reports also show that a woman came to the department at 11:32 p.m. saying she was assaulted by another woman. An offense report for Class C assault was filed.

Those approved as new teachers next year were David Frazier, first-year vocational agriculture teacher with a degree from Texas Tech University; Susan Hughes, first-year art teacher with a degree from Southwest Texas State University; and Betty Henderson, English teacher who has 18 years experience.

A scheduled report on the Texas Assessment of Academic Skills (TAAS) tests and the Comprehensive Tests of Basic Skills (CTBS) was postponed until the

as well as "tree spirits" by Marcy Ellul of Hobbs, N.M.

There will be finished and unfinished furniture booths, as well as ceramics, clothing, jewelry, decorative wood, quilted rugs and wall hangings, wind chimes, candy, and punched tin. Other participants will offer soft sculpture, porcelain dolls, cloth dolls, children's toys and furniture and stained glass.

Mel Prather, organizer for the event, said he hopes the local festival will achieve four goals. These include building a festival that will draw attention to Snyder, providing local crafters another opportunity to exhibit their works, attracting artists and craftsmen from throughout the country to Snyder, and encouraging citizens from neighboring communities to visit Snyder.

Gray captured in Florida

the sheriff's department, did an outstanding job and never let up. People should be proud of the quality of law enforcement in Snyder and Scurry County."

Billings and others feel they were close to Gray on several occasions. The search first centered in the Big Spring area where relatives, including his current wife, lived. His wife, a nurse, quit her job in Big Spring and moved to San Angelo before heading to New Mexico.

Numerous leads were followed, and officers felt they were close both in California, and most recently in Las Vegas and in New Mexico.

Scurry County sheriff's department has a warrant for Mrs. Gray in Las Vegas where she is charged with giving police there false information.

Gray is believed to have escaped from the Snyder unit about 1:15 p.m. on June 20 of last year, hidden in a van carrying furniture manufactured at the Snyder unit. The truck stopped for the night at the Kiva Inn in Abilene, and about 10:45 p.m. the same day, officers found a hole cut through the roof and a white prison-issue shirt left in the truck, convincing authorities that Gray had left in the state-owned van.

Officers have speculated that his current wife may have assisted him when he reached Abilene, but no charges against her have been filed.

Gray was convicted on March 1, 1990, in the strangulation and drowning death of his wife, Tammy, at Lake Colorado City on June 23, 1988. Gray first told authorities that he had pulled his wife from the lake. She was alive when first brought to a Colorado City emergency room, but died a short time later.

An autopsy report showed that her death was result of strangulation and drowning. Ranger Billings also led that murder investigation.

In April, TV crews from Unsolved Mysteries were in Snyder to film a segment on Gray's escape. It was scheduled to be aired next month.

The Price Daniel unit is a 1,000-bed facility, located four miles east of Snyder. Since it's opening in 1989, two persons have escaped.

The first was on Dec. 3, 1989 when Sebastian N. Mizcles of El Paso apparently climbed a fence during the early morning hours. He was recaptured a short time later by a city patrolman near a convenience store.

Violence flares in Texas' three largest cities

Tempers seem to flare more during the summer months, but a rash of violence in Texas' three largest cities goes beyond that, experts say.

"I think summer always brings this out, especially in the areas where it gets hot," Al Somodevilla, a police psychologist with the Dallas Police Department, said Thursday. "It seems that people are out at night more, there's more drinking, etc."

"But personally I see this as a progressive trend of the disintegration of self-discipline, respect for the law and for individuals. Life has become very cheap for many people."

"I think there are a lot of factors we could come up with, but the bottom line is that taking a life almost is like a solution to a problem," he said.

Three Dallas police officers were wounded in two unrelated shootings during a 12-hour period Wednesday. Meanwhile, in Houston, a man feuding with his estranged wife killed their two young sons after holding them as shields during a brief standoff with police. The man was later shot and killed.

While Houston police were conducting interviews at the hospital, another shooting occurred in the emergency room, leaving one woman dead and her boyfriend injured.

Weekend violence in San Antonio in which eight people were killed prompted Mayor Nelson Wolff to urge residents to "cool it," adding the city may start a curfew for youths.

In Dallas, Cpl. Ira McKee was released Thursday from a hospital, where he was treated for a gunshot wound in the abdomen. He and his partner were hit after they confronted a hidden gunman.

A 23-year veteran of the Dallas police force, McKee said he is convinced that criminals are worse than ever. But he plans to return to his beat on the street, he said.

Somodevilla also mentioned that the early release of criminals continues to be a sore subject in law enforcement. Two of the three gunmen involved in the Dallas police shootings were on parole. One had been convicted of drug-related charges and was sentenced to seven years in prison, but was paroled less than two months later.

Deputy Dallas police Chief Ray Hawkins also points to the criminal justice system.

"What is happening is the fallout from the punitive portion of the criminal justice system," said Hawkins. "There seems to be little or no fear in most people, particularly hardened criminals, that they will have to serve any substantial jail time for their crimes."

"This is an extraordinary time in policing. The pressures these officers are facing on the streets today are unimaginable."

Hawkins said that last year, Dallas had a record homicide rate of 447, and he predicted that the city might exceed 500 this year.

Houston Assistant Police Chief Jimmy Dotson agreed that when "temperatures are hot, tempers flare," but he also said crime is spawned by a combination of factors.

"People just don't feel safe anymore and it's a combination of things — it's hot, the early release program, the economy isn't as good, school's out, things like that. People are on edge," he said. "But the early release program seems to add to the fire."

"Unfortunately, the majority of the homicides we experience are among families that know each other, so we can't put an officer on every doorstep," Dotson said.

In San Antonio, a special team to crack down on gang violence began operation Monday. The six-person police team had been tracking gangs the past six months.

"The days of getting into a fist fight for the fun of it are gone," said San Antonio police homicide Lt. Albert Ortiz. "The best way now is to avoid a confrontation if you wish to avoid being a victim."

John Wilkes Booth, the assassin of President Abraham Lincoln, was surrounded by federal troops near Bowling Green, Va., and killed April 26, 1865.

Insurance reform encouraged

WASHINGTON (AP) — Texas Gov. Ann Richards is asking Congress to strip the $2 trillion insurance industry of antitrust protections that allow it to fix prices, carve up markets and restrict coverage.

As a result of the legal collusion, she said, consumers are being denied insurance and prices are designed to "please the industry."

"All over this country, we make it more and more important for people to carry insurance, even as we make it more and more difficult for them to get it or to afford it. There's no wonder people are angry," she said Thursday.

Richards' appearance before a House Judiciary subcommittee came a week after she signed into law a 527-page bill aimed at stabilizing rates and protecting policy holders from fraudulent insurers. The bill, the result of a campaign pledge last year to reform the insurance industry in Texas, was a compromise between the industry and consumer groups.

Rep. Jack Brooks, D-Beaumont, is also seeking to reform the industry with legislation to scale back the antitrust exemption it was granted in the McCarran-Ferguson Act of 1945. The bill would restore the federal antitrust prohibition against price-fixing in the industry.

Brooks, chairman of the House Judiciary Committee and its subcommittee on economic and commercial law, said the McCarran-Ferguson Act has allowed insurance companies to share information, even for the purpose of fixing premiums and policy provisions.

Consumers, however, can no longer afford the "skyrocketing costs of premiums" in a non-competitive marketplace, Brooks said. And an entire industry can no longer remain immune from competitive forces and effective regulation, given the nationwide and worldwide revolution in financial services.

"These are people who need to learn the joys of competition. They need to learn the American way of doing business," Richards told the committee. "It is amazing to me. The people who talk the most loudly, extolling the virtues of American business are first to stand in line and say 'All except the insurance industry.'"

Richards said that under Texas' new law, insurance companies doing business in the state have to compete with each other and must meet stronger solvency requirements. The law repeals the insurance industry's exemption from state antitrust laws.

"In Texas, the insurance situation had reached crisis level," Richards said. "During my campaign for governor last year, I heard from people all over the state who felt abused, neglected and taken advantage of by the insurance industry. We are still hearing from them."

The insurance industry controls $2 trillion in assets, she said, and many of its chief executives make more than $2 million a year.

'Born Loser' rated tops

NEW YORK, N.Y. — "The Born Loser," a winner with readers for the past 26 years, was named best humor strip of 1991 by the National Cartoonist Society. Competing in the same category were "Cathy" by Cathy Guisewite and "Doonesbury" by Garry Trudeau.

Art and Chip Sansom, who create the Newspaper Enterprise comic strip as a team, were thrilled with the news. "I'm delighted to win it," said Art. "It's the ultimate honor in cartooning."

Chip added, "It's a tremendous honor, especially since 'The Born Loser' has been named best humor strip two of the last four years. We're elated."

"The Born Loser" follows the trials and tribulations of Brutus Thornapple, a guy who just can't seem to win. He's dumped on by his boss, his wife, his son and even strangers who pass him in the street. Both Sansoms agree that the appeal of the strip is the universality of the humor.

"Everyone loves a loser, someone to take the pratfalls for us," says Art. "There are always losing situations, so we'll never run out of gags. It's the human condition."

Appearing in more than 1,000 newspapers nationwide, "The Born Loser" consistently tops reader surveys, and was most recently voted second favorite strip in the "The Birmingham Post-Herald" (Ala.), second favorite in "The Oakland Press" (Pontiac, Mich.) and the sixth most-read strip in "The Albuquerque Tribune."

The first-ever trade paperback collection of "Born Loser" strips, "The Born Loser's Guide to Life," was published by Pharos Books/Topper in 1990.

Panel: DFW airspace may be insufficient

DALLAS (AP) — A Federal Aviation Administration report that claims Dallas-Fort Worth airspace is unaffected by Carswell Air Force Base may be insufficient, says the chairman of the nation's base closing panel.

"Looking at FAA (statements) may not give you the type of independent reflection and judgment on whether there's sufficient airspace for a military mission," said Jim Courter, chairman of the Defense Base Closure and Realignment Commission.

The question of airspace overcrowding is crucial, experts say, when determining the future of an Air Force base.

Carswell AFB is among three Texas military installations targeted for closure by the Pentagon. The others are Bergstrom AFB in Austin and Chase Naval Air Station in Beeville.

"Perhaps the FAA judgment on airspace only reflects on their main responsibility of guaranteeing safe flights ... But the Air Force may have different requirements on airspace," Courter said Thursday, alluding to an FAA opinion obtained by Reps. Pete Geren, D-Fort Worth, and Joe Barton, R-Ennis.
