Q—A recent article in the newspaper about Great Britain made mention of a favorable trade gap. What is a "favorable trade gap?"

A—A trade gap is the difference between exports and imports. A nation's trade gap is favorable when exports exceed imports and unfavorable when imports exceed exports.

Chamber board supports bingo

A proposal to bring bingo to Snyder might be put to local voters as early as August as chamber of commerce officials work to organize a ballot proposal.

After a unanimous vote to support a bingo proposal during Thursday night's board meeting, directors issued a statement which reads, "Due to the interest expressed by citizens of Snyder, the chamber of commerce supports putting bingo on the ballot in order for the people to decide, with the understanding that proceeds would go to benefit local non-profit organizations."

Other business during the meeting included the approval of new dues structures, committee reports and a presentation on the Big Country Resource Conservation and Development Area.

The "bingo vote" and statement came after a presentation by Art Feinsod of the tourism/retirement committee on a chamber-sponsored bingo proposal.

"I don't have to tell you — it's old news — there's a shortfall of money," remarked Feinsod, who listed local charities he said could benefit from bingo proceeds, such as the county museum and local boys club.

Bingo operations, regulated by the state, are mandated to give at least one-third of their proceeds to charity organizations. If passed by local voters, the chamber would still have to be approved for a license and individuals supervising the operation would undergo an FBI background check.

Feinsod and interim chamber manager Ricky Fritz noted that bingo operations were being conducted in Big Spring, Roscoe and Post. The Post operation is sponsored by the local chamber of commerce and clears approximately $2,700 a month, after expenses and charity proceeds, said Fritz.

"I think it is a great way to help out our local non-profit organizations," said Fritz. "It's legal, it's clean and it's going to be run by local people," concluded Feinsod.

Board members in attendance Thursday indicated they have received more positive than negative response from local citizens.

Board members Gary Sisson and Susan Neves, who did not attend the meeting, said earlier that they would be opposed to chamber-sponsored bingo.

In other action, the chamber approved a new dues structure which includes investor memberships, donation memberships and support memberships and approved the sponsorship of the Big Country RCD Area with a $25 annual sponsorship fee.

Under investment memberships, patron status is $500 annually; corporate, $300; utilities, $250; financial institutions, $1,200 for banks, $600 for savings and

Telephone service is restored

Southwestern Bell Telephone employees worked diligently for four hours Thursday, restoring service after a crew accidentally cut through two cables on 27th St., across from Snyder Police Department.

Telephone service went out about 2:30 p.m. after a phone company crew drilled through two cables while working to put in additional anchors for utility poles. The two cables had 600 pairs and 300 pairs of wires, respectively. Each pair represents a phone connection.

Calls to Snyder police and fire departments were rerouted through Scurry County Sheriff's Office and contact was kept constant through mobile radio equipment.

The line breaks also cut security alarm systems at businesses throughout the community which sound at the police station.

In addition to the police and fire departments, telephone service was out at City Hall, and at a number of residences and businesses, including West Texas State Bank.

Full repairs were completed at about 6:45 p.m.

Following the break, crews first had to dig a trench large enough for telephone employees to work.

Police personnel said today that the temporary loss of telephone service was only an inconvenience and did not pose a threat to any necessary services or security.

TEDIOUS WORK — Rick Wood and Debbie Allford match some of the 900 pairs of damaged phone lines which were accidentally cut when Southwestern Bell crews worked to put in additional anchors for utility poles across from the police station. Communications were out for about four hours Thursday and involved the police and fire stations, City Hall and a number of businesses and residences. (SDN Staff Photo)

July 4th plans finalized

Plans for the chamber of commerce's July 4th celebration have been finalized, planning committee members announced Thursday afternoon.

Activities for the annual event will officially begin at 5 p.m. Wednesday, July 3, with the opening of the arts and crafts show at the National Guard Armory in Towle Park. The show will close at 9 p.m. and re-open Thursday from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m.

A $1 admission fee is being charged for the show this year to defray the cost of portable toilets that will be placed throughout the park. The admission charge will be good for the entire day and children under age six will be admitted free when accompanied by an adult.

Independence Day activities will get underway with the Prayer Breakfast at 7:30 a.m. at Scurry County Coliseum. During the breakfast, outstanding lay leaders from local churches will be recognized. Entertainment will be provided by Rebecca Thornton, Sherry Stewart, Barbara Vincent and Elaine Githens. Speaker will be Desert Storm veteran Lt. Col. Bruce Balbin of Dyess Air Force Base.

Tickets are $5 each and are available at the chamber of commerce or from committee members. The breakfast menu will include scrambled eggs, sausage, hash browns, biscuits, orange juice and coffee.

Following the breakfast, the parade in Towle Park will begin at 9 p.m. with the judging of the bicycle decorating contest and lineup at 9:30 a.m. The parade is slated to begin at 10 a.m. and will feature National Guard personnel and Vietnam and Desert Storm veterans. Those still wishing to participate in the parade are asked to call Bill or Billie Jackson at 573-9553.

Food and activity booths, including dunking and car smashing booths, will be open throughout the day. Horse shoe and washer pitching competitions are set to begin at 1 p.m. Sign-ups for the contests can be made at Pete Snyder's Store at the Armory.

Coleman and Colorado City will begin the tourney today with a 6 p.m. tilt, at 8 p.m. by Merkel vs. Rotan.

The single-elimination event continues Saturday with the semifinal battle featuring the hometowners. Stonewall-Kent will square off against Hamlin at 8 p.m.

The Merkel-Rotan winner will face the victor in the Stonewall-Kent-Hamlin game in Monday's 7 p.m. semifinal.

The championship is scheduled for Tuesday at 7 p.m.

Snyder's Little League all-star team will be named following the title game Tuesday.

Committee slashes school equity aid

AUSTIN (AP) — Local school districts would have to increase property taxes or slash spending under a proposal adopted by House budget writers, officials said.

On Thursday, the Appropriations Committee recommended cutting nearly all additional state aid promised to public schools by the Legislature in its plan to help equalize education funding.

"The more money we put into this system, the worse it gets," Rep. Ric Williamson, D-Weatherford said. "If we continue to pile money into this piece of crap we will never have tax reform."

Texas Education Agency general counsel Kevin O'Hanlon told the House Appropriations Committee that such a reduction would hurt the state's ability to defend the new school finance law in court.

And other lawmakers said the committee plan would simply push the funding problem to the local level, where school districts would have to increase property taxes, slash spending, or both.

"If we reduce monies, we are saying to local folks, 'Raise property taxes,'" Rep. Paul Colbert, D-Houston, said. O'Hanlon said property tax rates would have to increase by about 9 cents to make up such a shortfall.

But Williamson, vice chairman of Appropriations, said the reductions are needed to help bridge a projected $4.7 billion shortfall in the 1992-93 budget. The committee will make recommendations to the House when lawmakers return for a July 8 special legislative session.

Earlier this year, lawmakers passed a bill that would have increased public school funding by about $1.3 billion. The action was prompted a Texas Supreme Court ruling that found unconstitutional the current school finance system, which allows wide disparities in funding.

Budget experts said the price tag has increased another $350 million because of a reduction in statewide property tax wealth.

In Thursday's meeting, the Appropriations Committee rejected a move to supply that $350 million, and then voted 11-8 to cut $1 billion from the school bill for the next two years.

Under these moves, state spending for schools still would increase, but by less than one-tenth of what was promised in the education funding bill.

Brown, the department's spokesman, was in Snyder for the opening of the Daniel unit, and he still talks about the barbecue and melodrama put on to welcome TDCJ folks to Scurry County.

In a recent newsletter, Brown talked about edible language, that being words or phrases that contain a food.

For example, a big cheese is the chief honcho while an apple-polisher is a flatterer. A piece of cake is a cinch or snap, and an egghead is an intellectual.

A beanpole is a skinny person and bread is considered money. Spice of life is considered variety while gravy train is a source of easy money. Beefs are complaints and a person not in his element is a fish out of water.

The Big Apple refers to New York City and a carrot is an illusory reward. A pickle is a difficult situation while a lemon is a dud. A cream puff is a clean used car while agent orange was a defoliant used in Vietnam.

Lebanon hostages' plight still haunts leaders

WASHINGTON (AP) — The plight of six American hostages in Lebanon has tormented three American presidents and despite some positive signals it remains a nagging piece of unfinished business for the United States in the Middle East.

The end of the Persian Gulf War and the apparent interest of both Iran and Syria in friendlier relations with the West eventually may bring about the hostages' release.

There is an unmistakable air of expectation in this capital of imminent liberation for the captives, that various forces for their release are converging, and that, in any event, the abductors have little to gain by holding them further.

Raising hope, as well, are new diplomatic efforts by Britain and Israel's renewal of an offer to release some Arab and Palestinian prisoners for the 13 Western hostages and seven Israelis missing in Lebanon.

And yet, a Bush administration official who monitors the situation commented: "There's less going on than meets the eye."

On Thursday night, a senior Israeli military official in Jerusalem said 300 Palestinians will be released for the Muslim Eid Al-Adha holiday, which begins this weekend.

The official said the release had "nothing to do with" a proposed swap.

Presumably, the offer still stands, but the imminent release suggests the other side did not bite.

Robert Kupperman, senior adviser on terrorism at the private Center for Strategic International Studies, said in an interview that the hostage situation "is going to continue to bedevil Mr. Bush. I see Hezbollah in Lebanon having very little to gain by releasing them and very

Airline officials blast rail trip

AUSTIN (AP) — Southwest Airlines, challenging the state "bullet" train franchise, says members of the Texas High Speed Rail Authority may have broken state law by traveling to Europe on the tab of two groups that later bid for the project.

The subject was raised as part of a motion for rehearing filed by the airline, which is asking the authority board to reconsider its decision to grant the $6 billion franchise to a French-American consortium, Texas TGV.

Texas FasTrac, which lost the competition to build the 200 mph train linking Texas' largest cities, also is seeking a rehearing.

"State law says you should not be in the position of accepting gifts or favors that are offered with the intent of influencing your decisions," said Southwest Airlines' lawyer, Robert Heath.

But Bob Neely, executive director of the rail authority, told the Austin American-Statesman that there was nothing improper about the trip.

He said legislation creating the authority allows its members to take trips and gifts — even from those who have business before the panel.

At issue is a fact-finding trip that three rail authority staff members and six board members took to Europe in June of 1990. The trip was paid for by Texas TGV and the Texas High-Speed Rail Joint Venture, which later became Texas FasTrac Inc.

At the time, neither group had submitted its proposal to construct the train system.

little cost in maintaining them." Hezbollah, also known as the Party of God, is the Iranian-backed Shiite Muslim organization that is believed to be the umbrella group for the kidnapers.

Bush, the third American president to be frustrated by Hezbollah and the abductors, has been drawn into controversy over other American hostages — the 52 who were held in the U.S. Embassy in Iran for 444 days while all efforts by President Carter, including a daring rescue attempt, to free them failed.

They were released on the same day Ronald Reagan was inaugurated as president and Bush as vice president in January 1981.

Eight of the 52 former hostages last week called for a congressional inquiry into charges by Gary Sick, a staff member of Carter's National Security Council, that Reagan's presidential campaign conspired to prevent their release until after the 1980 election victory over Carter.

Bush has blamed "rumor-mongers" for the controversy. Controversy of another sort swirled around Reagan during his presidency. He secretly approved the delivery of weapons to Iran in hopes "moderates" in its government would gain the Americans' release.

Youth surrenders to police after holiday shooting

AUSTIN (AP) — Police say a 15-year-old responsible for June-teenth shootings that injured four people has surrendered.

Austin Sgt. Daniel Zahara said the Wednesday shootings stem from an argument between the youth and a Reagan High School student.

The 15-year-old allegedly pulled a handgun and fired in a crowd of Juneteenth celebrants at Rosewood Park. The park was the site of a daylong fete that included a parade, speakers, fireworks and concerts including gospel music. More than 2,000 people turned out for the event.

Four people, including Reagan High School student Demetrius Morgan, 17 were wounded. Morgan was released from Brackenridge Hospital sometime Thursday after being treated for a gunshot wound to his side.

Clifton Griffin, 46, co-chairman of the Juneteenth Committee and librarian of Austin's Carver Library was shot in the hand and underwent surgery at Brackenridge to remove bone fragments. He was reported in good condition early Friday.

Roy Spark, 17, who was shot in the toe and another 16-year-old male wounded in the leg were both discharged.

Griffin said he had been staffing the children's stage where a fight between teen-agers broke out about 8:30 p.m.

"There were some young men standing by a table that I was near. A young man came up the steps and said some things and they began to fight," he said. Griffin was shot as he tried to get out of the way of the fight.

Two police officers were injured as they tried to disperse the crowd. One suffered a broken nose, and another was hit in the knee with a rock.

Pastor Has Many Duties, Some of Which Are Paid

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: One would think that after 34 years of pastoral experience, I would have been prepared, but when asked by a professional adult, whose father's funeral I had just conducted, "What do you charge?" I answered, "Nothing!" The reply I received was, "If you will give me the name and address of your church, I will send a check in your honor."

I should have said, "Nothing, but I am accustomed to receiving an honorarium — especially from non-church members." And I could have added, "Today is my third trip to this city, totaling 240 miles. At a mere 20 cents per mile, that would be almost $50 for expenses alone — not including the six to eight hours spent in travel and preparation."

Last month I was asked to conduct a funeral service for a non-church member who lived in our community. I received an honorarium of $100, which was greatly appreciated and set aside for a future vacation.

The majority of pastors are underpaid and taken for granted. My wife reminded me of the time I was paid $10 for a wedding with the suggestion that I split it with the pianist!

ANOTHER GEORGIA PASTOR

DEAR PASTOR: Perhaps your letter will remind readers who require the services of a clergyman for happy occasions (weddings, christenings) as well as sad ones (funerals, last rites, etc.) that Hoover is no longer in the White House, and the clergyman should be appropriately compensated for his/her automobile use, gasoline, dry cleaning, haircut — not to mention the effort and the time spent in preparing and delivering the service.

DEAR ABBY: My daughter and her husband are separated. Their children — an 8-year-old daughter and 11-year-old son — spend one weekend with their father and the next with their mom.

When they are at their father's, both children sleep in the same double bed with him. I think this is a bad idea and I told him so. His reaction to my protestations was, "Well, it's not as though I sleep in the nude — I always wear shorts!"

Abby, both children are developing rapidly and our whole family is concerned about their sleeping arrangements when they're at their dad's. Are we overreacting? Or do you think our concerns are valid?

GRANDMA

DEAR GRANDMA: Your concerns are valid. Not only should your grandson and granddaughter not be sleeping with their father — they should not be sleeping with each other.

DEAR ABBY: I had to laugh when I read the letter from "A Lusting Guy in Indy" who roamed the malls lusting after slim maidens in tight jeans.

After 23 years of marriage, like a lot of other women, I've put on a few extra pounds. Try as I may, I can't get them off.

One day, my hubby asked me — with a sad expression, "Whatever happened to that little 24-inch waist I married?"

I replied — with an equally sad expression, "Well, Dear, I left it in the '60s with your hair!" (He's bald!) NOBODY'S PERFECT

Kellogg awards millions for rural health care

By The Associated Press
A $47.5 million grant from the W.K. Kellogg Foundation will be used to establish rural health-care teaching centers nationwide and encourage students to pursue careers in community-oriented medicine.

The foundation, based in Battle Creek, Mich., announced Thursday it would grant seven universities and medical schools, including Michigan State University, about $6 million each over a five-year period.

Initially, the schools will establish a total 26 community-based primary-care centers. They will function as teaching and research centers for students and faculty as well as clinics for rural residents who traditionally have little access to health care.

"The Kellogg Foundation, like most of the other folks in this country, see serious problems with our health care system," said Ronald W. Richards, the program's director.

"It costs too much, leaves at least 37 million people out, and the quality of care, in terms of prevention, comprehensiveness and compassion, is not working," he said.

With more medical and nursing students rejecting community-based health care and choosing hospital-based and specialty health professions, Richards said the foundation saw a need to expose and encourage more students to pursue community-based health care.

"It's no surprise that if almost 100 percent of education occurs in hospital environments that students may seem unwilling to choose rural health care," Richards said. "The thrust of our grants is to help create new kinds of settings for education."

The other six organizations selected from 110 applicants were: Trustees of Health and Hospitals in Boston, East Tennessee State University, University of Hawaii, Morehouse School of Medicine in Atlanta, the University of Texas at El Paso, and the University of West Virginia in Charleston.

In Michigan, where the funds will be matched by Michigan State, two existing health-care centers in Montmorency and Roscommon counties will be expanded, said Dr. William Abbett, dean of the College of Human Medicine. Eventually, he said the school hopes to expand the program statewide.

Abbett said the need for rural health care is increasing as the population ages and older Americans retire and move from bigger cities. But medical training still largely is conducted in hospitals and on high-tech equipment, leaving students unfamiliar with practicing in small communities.

Still, Abbett acknowledged that until doctors and nurses receive comparable pay in rural areas, it will be difficult to attract them.

Kellogg Foundation officials acknowledged that lower pay in rural areas will continue to be an obstacle.

"Of course, there's no guarantee that we will succeed in redirecting the education of health professionals by establishing and sustaining academic, community-based primary health centers," said Russell G. Mawby, the foundation's chief executive officer.

"But tinkering with the status quo and conducting modest initiatives around the margin may be the greatest risk of all — the risk that nothing will change when so much is needed."

The foundation, named for the founder of the giant cereal company, was established in 1930 and has provided seed money to organizations and institutions that have identified problems and designed constructive action programs aimed at solutions.

Accused nurse freed

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — A nurse who was released from custody after her drug sentence was suspended is appealing her dismissal from the U.S. Air Force.

The military on Thursday freed Capt. Carla Lancaster, 27, who had been ordered to serve six months for illegally using a pain-killing drug at the Wilford Hall Air Force Medical Center in San Antonio.

The Air Force claimed the woman had drugs from the old prescription in her system. She had been jailed at Lackland Air Force Base since May 21.

However, conflicting testimony given during Mrs. Lancaster's trial led to her sentence being suspended, Lt. Col. Johnny Whitaker said. A special hearing will be held on legal issues in the case.

The hearing could be held in six to 10 days, depending on the schedule of the military judge in the case, Whitaker said. He declined to say what the issues were.

"There's an awful lot more to this case than you see on the surface," he said.

Public, banks alerted to phone scam

WASHINGTON (AP) — Americans who think they will win a dream vacation by calling a number on a postcard often discover later that they lost more than a great trip. Also gone, sometimes without their consent, is a piece of their checking accounts.

The latest fraudulent scheme by unsavory telephone marketing firms has triggered special alerts to banks by the FBI, the Federal Reserve, the Federal Deposit Insurance Corp.

and the Comptroller of the Currency.

The trouble begins when the telephone sales person, hawking a vacation, low-interest credit card or other product, lures the customer into providing his checking account number.

The unethical operator then encodes the account number on a demand draft — forms that can be used to withdraw funds quickly. Meanwhile, the promoted product is rarely delivered.

Victims often don't learn of such a withdrawal until they spot it on a monthly bank statement. Or, if they have orally agreed to a charge, they become furious when their account was charged but the product wasn't delivered.

The firms send out postcards to generate return calls or do direct dialing to hawk their promises of easy credit, grand prizes or services such as help in selling a used car.

In each case, there's a charge which — in the case of promised prizes — often is called a processing fee. The companies say they'll take care of the transaction if the customer will provide his checking account number.

Rep. Ron Wyden, D-Ore., chairman of the House Small Business subcommittee on regulation, said the businesses possess "an impressive array of electronic and computerized tools which literally unlock the bank's safe."

Wyden's subcommittee staff is investigating the unauthorized withdrawals. A staff memo to the chairman said there is no way yet to estimate losses from the schemes, but "individual anecdotes provided by institutions ...

indicate that the level of fraud easily is in millions of dollars per year."

The drafts submitted for payment by the telephone marketers are like the ones used routinely by legitimate insurance companies, mutual funds and other businesses.

The fair advantage

By Phillip Alder

The Bard once wrote: "Men that hazard all/Do it in hope of fair advantages." Bridge experts strive to find fair advantages, but prefer to do it without hazarding all.

Temporarily obliterate the East-West cards and decide on your line of play in six spades. West, who opened three clubs as dealer, leads his singleton trump 10.

It isn't clear how to bid a hand like South's. Many would double and then bid four spades, hoping to convey the message that the hand is worth a little more than an immediate four spades. Here, though, it didn't matter, since North decided he had enough to take a shot at the slam.

At first glimpse, the slam seems to depend on a successful diamond finesse. But experts hate to rely on finessses. They hunt assiduously for an alternative line that will work even if the key finesse is going to lose.

Here South spotted an alternative line. As long as West's clubs were headed by the A-Q-J, the contract was ensured. Declarer won the trump lead in hand, drew three rounds of hearts ending in the dummy, and called for the club 10.

When East played low, declarer discarded the diamond five. West won the trick but had no winning play. If he cashed the club ace, dummy's king would be established to provide a discard for the diamond queen. If instead he led a diamond, it would be into South's A-Q.

Of course if East had produced a club higher than the 10, declarer would have been forced to ruff and fall back on the diamond finesse.

Rangers take comeback win

CHICAGO (AP) — The Texas Rangers' Ivan Rodriguez will never forget the anniversary of his first major league game — it's the same date as his wedding.

Rodriguez, 19, making his major-league debut at catcher, threw out two runners attempting to steal and capped a five-run ninth inning with a two-run single in Thursday's 7-3 win over the Chicago White Sox.

That's only half the story. Rodriguez and Maribel Rivera were to be married between games of a doubleheader in Tulsa on Thursday. But the Rangers called him up Wednesday night, so there was a change in plans.

KOC tourney is scheduled

The 4th Annual Knights of Columbus 4-Man Golf Scramble is set for Saturday at Western Texas College.

Tee times are 8:30 a.m. and 1:30 p.m.

A, B, C and D groupings will compete in the 18-hole tourney for cash and merchandise prizes.

A Long Drive Contest, featuring a $75 prize, and a $25 Closest to the Pin Contest, on holes No. 1 and No. 6, are scheduled as part of the tournament.

Drawings for free prizes will be held and refreshments will be available.

All proceeds from the tourney benefit the group's High School Scholarship Fund.

Rodriguez and Maribel were married in Tulsa on Thursday morning before the two caught a plane for Chicago to join the Rangers.

"I guess he figured he couldn't afford two rooms in Chicago so they decided to get married quickly," Texas manager Bobby Valentine said.

Valentine could afford to make jokes. His Rangers had blown a 2-0 lead and were trailing 3-2 going into the ninth.

They had only three hits off Jack McDowell. But McDowell didn't come out for the ninth. Bobby Thigpen took over.

Rafael Palmeiro walked and Ruben Sierra followed with his 11th homer, a two-run blast for a 4-3 lead. Julio Franco hit his eighth homer two pitches later.

It was the fifth blown save in 13 opportunities for Thigpen, who set a major league record with 57 saves in 65 opportunities last year.

After Thigpen left, Juan Gonzalez, who drove in the first two runs with a single in the second inning and his eighth homer in the seventh, singled. Steve Buechele doubled and Rodriguez singled in two runs.

"Yes, I'm excited, I'm happy," Rodriguez said. "I was a little nervous in the first inning but I felt okay. I know the game. I want to stay here. I don't want to go back to the minor leagues."

Asked who insisted on the quick wedding, Rodriguez said, "Both of us. She was a little shocked."

The White Sox also were in a state of shock at the loss, considering they had rallied for three runs in the seventh. Lance Johnson hit a two-run single off starter Kevin Brown, and a bases-loaded walk to Matt Merullo by reliever Mike Jeffcoat pushed the third run across the plate.

McDowell put the side down in order in the eighth before Thigpen came in.

"I could have stayed with Jack but we considered the number of pitches he had thrown and we didn't think he was popping the ball," manager Jeff Torborg said.

"You have to go with what you've got. Last year we tried it 57 times and it worked."

Letterman offered start by Toros

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — Goat or hero: it's up to David Letterman now.

He could be blowing his big, and maybe only, shot at baseball immortality, depending on whether he replies to an invitation to pitch against the Houston Astros.

It's enough to make No. 1 on his Top 10 List for why he shouldn't be on the mound: "I forgot to mail, phone or fax in my R.S.V.P."

About 10 days after being invited to pitch for the Pacific Coast League's Tucson Toros in its July 1 exhibition against the parent Houston Astros, there's still no word from the host of NBC's "Late Night With David Letterman."

That's despite the pitch he's been making for months, offering his services "to any major league team" wanting an inning of shutout ball.

WTC 'pokes out of finals

BOZEMAN, Mont. — A pair of Western Texas College cowboys were eliminated from the chase for berths in Saturday's College National Finals Rodeo short go, in spite of good efforts on Thursday.

Darrin Cook, a Townsville, Australia native riding for WTC, earned a 68 in bull riding last night. He was bucked off his first bull in the event Monday and is finished for the rodeo.

Scott Berger of Kearney, Neb. took an 8.1 clocking in steer wrestling for seventh in the go-round. He missed his steer on his first attempt in the rodeo and will watch the finals from the grandstands, as well.

The Westerners' best chance for a berth in the finals appears to be bareback rider Troy Cattoor of Nephi, Utah.

Cattoor was awarded a 68 on his Wednesday ride and will mount his second horse tonight.

He is currently in sixth place in his event.

WTC's Jim Phillips, of Iraan, is on the bubble in steer wrestling. Phillips' 13.8 on two head leaves him in 10th position with 10 bulldoggers to go in tonight's round.

Gail's Raylynn Key, competing for Texas Tech, is to perform in tonight's barrel race.

The top ten finishers in each event will advance to Saturday's short go.

Lawmakers plan to return government's seat to Bonn

BOON, Germany (AP) — Lawmakers voted on Thursday to return Germany's seat of power to Berlin, its historic home, and strip Bonn of the status it has held since the end of World War II.

Lawmakers in the Bundestag, Parliament's decision-making lower house, chose Berlin over Bonn by a 337-320 vote.

Under the proposal approved Thursday, the Chancellery, ministries and the Bundestag will move to Berlin. The move is to be completed in 10 to 12 years.

Parliament's upper house, the Bundesrat, will remain in Bonn.

The Bundesrat is to vote on July 5 to ratify the Bundestag's decision, but it is unlikely to block the lower house.

Even though ministries and their leaders will move to Berlin, thousands of ministry workers and other bureaucrats will remain in Bonn to preserve jobs and the regional economy.

Lawmakers considered a total of five proposals Thursday. One called for remaining in Bonn; others included splitting the seat of government between Bonn and Berlin. The four other proposals were either defeated or withdrawn. In Berlin, jubilant residents driving down the Kurfuerstendamm, the main commercial street, honked their horns in celebration after the decision was announced.

Germans have argued for weeks over the future site of Germany's government. Berlin, once the center of the Third Reich, has been portrayed as a cosmopolitan symbol of a new more integrated Europe by those who favor the move.

Bonn supporters have expressed concern that Berlin would become too powerful if it became the seat of government, and have spoken of the city's Nazi past. They also say Bonn would suffer economically.

Debate dragged on for hours Thursday in the Bundestag, where 120 lawmakers aired widely diverging views before voting.

The session was one of the most chaotic in recent memory. References were made to the Third Reich, the Cold War.

Great cats said victims of trophy hunts

AUSTIN (AP) — A newspaper reported that great cats such as African lions and endangered leopards die every year in Texas and around the country at the hands of trophy hunters and unscrupulous collectors.

A demand for pristine hides for mounting, and for "canned" hunts, is being answered by a network of private breeders who sell the cats to individuals or at auction, the Austin American-Statesman reported Thursday in a copyright story.

Federal and state laws regulate the sale and ownership of the animals, but the laws do not track them from one owner to another, the newspaper said.

One federal prosecutor called the process a "black hole" from which cats emerge as caged, tamed, de-clawed and sometimes de-fanged victims of a hunt inside a high-fenced pen.

Or they may be given a dose of cyanide, get an ice pick in the ear, or be shot in their cages so their hide can be sold and mounted, the American-Statesman reported.

"There's no responsibility for it once it's bred, raised and sold," said Assistant U.S. Attorney Collis White of San Antonio.

Two men recently pleaded guilty in San Antonio to various charges, including killing an endangered black leopard during a canned hunt.

The American-Statesman reported that a third man said he would plead guilty Friday morning to charges of killing the animal and conspiracy to violate federal law.

A videotaped account of the hunt, on a ranch near Leakey in the Texas Hill Country, shows the leopard released from a cage and fleeing a pack of dogs by hiding under a nearby pickup, the newspaper reported.

Flushed from there, the de-clawed cat tried to escape across an open area, only to be caught and surrounded by the dogs. The actual killing is not shown because of faulty camera work.

It is unknown how many animals are killed in Texas each year, but U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service special agent Alex Hosychak of San Antonio said he has been involved in half a dozen cases in the past year.

"They're not necessarily a canned hunt, now, but a grisly death nonetheless," Hosychak said. "A lot of these cats are being helped along (to their deaths) because the critters are worth more dead than alive. I am certain of that."

A live jaguar, for example, might sell for $500 to $1,000. Dead, it might be worth $2,500 to mount and sell, Hosychak said, or it might be hunted for up to $5,000.

Jaguars are endangered. A live one can be owned by permit, and a dead one if the animal died a natural death.

There have been cases in Texas in recent years where African lions, who are not endangered, were turned loose on Gulf Coast islands or inside small enclosures to be shot and killed by hunters who paid large sums for the privilege, the newspaper reported.

Senior resident agent Jim Stinebaugh of San Antonio said cases in Oklahoma, Arkansas and California where lions, tigers and grizzly bears were killed in small enclosures demonstrate the widespread availability of endangered animals and the demand for them.

Game warden Wayne Chappell, who oversees Texas' permitting process, said the state began issuing permits last fall.

Twenty-six people hold Texas permits for exotic and endangered animals, Chappell said. Native mountain lions are the No. 1 species, he said, and lions, tigers, leopards and cheetahs also are on the state permit list.

Voting rights...

Minority groups hail ruling; urge action

AUSTIN (AP) — Gov. Ann Richards said she will talk to legal advisers before deciding whether to put the issue of judicial elections on the agenda of a special legislative session this summer.

"If it is necessary, of course we will include it," Richards said. The Supreme Court, ruling on cases from Texas and Louisiana, said Thursday the federal law protecting minorities' voting power applies to the election of state and local judges.

The League of United Latin American Citizens, which challenged Texas' at-large system of electing judges in nine counties, urged Richards to put the issue on the agenda. "We call on the governor to provide the leadership on this very important issue for the minority community in remedying the problem, just as the minority community provided strong support for her election," said lawyer Rolando Rios, representing LULAC.

Richards, who is calling lawmakers into a special session beginning July 8 to write a state budget, said she would meet with Texas Attorney General Dan Morales and her own legal staff.

The governor said she was not surprised by the Supreme Court decision.

"I always thought that common sense and logic would indicate that if you said that one group of elected officials has to come under the Voting Rights Act, then the rest of them would, too," she said.

House Speaker Gib Lewis, D-Fort Worth, said he has supported changing to a single-member district method of electing judges.

"We need a system for electing judges that allows fair representation of all Texans in our judicial system. With this ruling from the Supreme Court, we can now move ahead and create such a system in Texas," Lewis said.

Gray McBride, spokesman for the state attorney general, said the case would be returned to the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in New Orleans, which earlier ruled the Voting Rights Act did not require Texas to abandon countywide election of trial judges.

McBride said the 5th Circuit Court likely would return the case to District Judge Lucius Bunton of Midland for a trial that would yield additional evidence, which probably would include the 1990 election returns.

Chief Justice Tom Phillips of the Texas Supreme Court said that since the ruling didn't specifically say that the Texas system of electing judges violated the law, it could remain a legal issue for years.

However, Phillips said, "I would hope that the Legislature will explore changes in judicial elections now. We should devise a system that will eliminate partisanship, limit campaign contributions, increase minority representation and enhance public confidence in our judiciary."

Of 172 judges elected countywide in the nine counties challenged by LULAC, 14 are minorities, Rios said.

If judges instead were chosen from legislators' districts, as many as 60 minorities could be elected, he said. Under the plan backed up LULAC, one to three judges would be elected from each legislative district.

The ruling also was praised by representatives of other minority

Police note three arrests

Snyder police made three arrests early this morning and worked two theft cases Thursday.

Officers took three males into custody at 4:45 a.m. today in the Allsup parking lot. Arrested were a 16-year-old male for disorderly conduct-fighting, a 17-year-old male for disorderly conduct-fighting and public intoxication, and a 20-year-old male for public intoxication.

All three were transported to the county jail.

At 12:37 p.m. Thursday, Judy Smith notified officers that her son's skateboard had been stolen from 3716 Austin Ave. A report for Class B theft was filed.

Gary Thurman contacted police at 10:26 p.m. Thursday in reference to an undetermined amount of cash being taken from 2605 Ave. U. A report for Class B theft was filed.

Police also handled a number of domestic disputes, reports of loud music, reckless driving and alarms sounding at various business locations without incident.

Senate focuses on violence, gun curbs in crime package

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Bush administration dropped two of the most controversial elements of its anti-crime package as the Senate began debate on measures to reduce street violence and curb illegal use of guns.

The administration abandoned a proposal to conduct essentially secret trials with secret evidence to deport aliens suspected of terrorist activity.

It also jettisoned a provision that would have allowed firearms illegally seized by police to be used as evidence in federal criminal trials.

The last-minute changes, however, failed to win Democratic votes for President Bush's crime package. A Republican motion to substitute the modified Bush bill for the Democratic crime package failed on a 56-40 vote Thursday night, largely along party lines.

Sen. Joseph R. Biden Jr., D-Del., chairman of the Senate Judiciary Committee, said the vote showed that Democrats have discovered that "President Bush's crime bill doesn't really curb street crime."

Democrats are pushing a series of gun-control proposals, including a seven-day waiting period on handgun purchases.

Bush has indicated he would sign gun-control measures if Congress enacts his proposals to expand the federal death penalty, make it more difficult for state inmates on death row to challenge their sentences in federal courts and give federal agents more leeway in conducting searches.

Biden also proposes the death penalty for more than 30 federal crimes, but his bill contains less strict provisions on defendants' plans

Chamber interim manager Ricky Fritz said the fireworks had been received and donations for the display were slower this year as compared to last year. Donations for the display are still being sought and volunteers are needed for the arts and crafts show. Those interested should call the chamber at 573-3558.

Yeltsin's words may not be enough for Bush

WASHINGTON (AP) — Russian President Boris N. Yeltsin mouthed all the right words to win friends in Washington this week, but the Bush administration would have preferred to have heard them from Mikhail S. Gorbachev, President Bush's ally and Yeltsin's chief rival.

For three days, the newly elected president of the Soviet Union's largest republic pledged his commitment to democracy, free enterprise, private property and land reform to return farmland to the farmers.

He found other touchstones as well, telling his American audiences the Soviet Union needs not their handouts but rather their ideas, their expertise and their investment. He said Soviet aid to Cuba should be cut off, and the Baltic republics should be given their independence.

"He represents everything that we have been praying for," said Republican political consultant John Buckley, explaining why Yeltsin, a rough-hewn populist, has become the darling of the American right.

"Conservatives have felt that both the Reagan and the Bush administrations have looked at the Soviet Union with a pair of false options, either Gorbachev or the (Communist Party) hardliners," Buckley said.

Ever since Gorbachev won control of the party and the Kremlin in 1985, Buckley said, "conservatives have been saying it's either Gorbachev or, conceivably, a free-market, anti-communist democracy. Yeltsin represents that free-market, anti-communist democracy."

But to the administration, he represents not only the reforms it would welcome but a threat as well.

As the first popularly elected leader of Russia, by far the largest of the Soviet Union's 15 republics, Yeltsin poses a serious challenge to Gorbachev's leadership, and administration analysts have watched with mounting concern as Gorbachev's support has eroded.

Bush and Vice President Dan Quayle went to extraordinary lengths to declare the administration's distaste for a competition that could further weaken Gorbachev and give control of the Soviet Union back to communist hardliners, the military and the KGB.

"Boris Yeltsin is a man who is helping to bring democratization and reform to the Soviet Union," Quayle said in presenting the Russian leader the top award of the bipartisan Center for Democracy on Wednesday night.

But he launched immediately into an even stronger commendation of Gorbachev and his achievements.

"Working together with President Gorbachev, we have transformed the most dangerous relationship in the world into a productive relationship," Quayle said.

While the United States values expanded ties with Russia and the other republics, the vice president said, "we intend to maintain the closest possible working relationship with the government of the Soviet Union."

When Yeltsin came to the White House on Thursday, Bush was even more direct, interrupting his talks with the visiting Russian leader to make his point in front of the news media.

"We have been heartened and encouraged by President Yeltsin's commitment to democratic values and free-market principles, and we look forward to working with him," the president said. "But at the same time, I want to be very clear about this: the United States will continue to maintain the closest possible official relationship with the Soviet government of President Gorbachev."

But while Bush and Quayle took such pains to express their support for Gorbachev, the administration has made no secret of its desire to see him push for the kind of genuine economic and political reform Yeltsin advocates.

attracting traditional Democrats.

"Republican values of strong family ties, religious values and a strong work ethic and sense of self-sufficiency make the Republican Party the natural home for Hispanics," said Jose Manuel Casanova, chairman of the Republican National Hispanic Assembly.

GOP says Republican Party has more to offer to minorities

HOUSTON (AP) — Blacks and Hispanics will be joining the Republican Party in record numbers as they grow weary of Democratic rhetoric and legislation that doesn't speak for them, GOP officials predict.

Gathering for their summer meeting, Republican party officials told each other Thursday how their party is increasingly attracting traditional Democrats.

"Republican values of strong family ties, religious values and a strong work ethic and sense of self-sufficiency make the Republican Party the natural home for Hispanics," said Jose Manuel Casanova, chairman of the Republican National Hispanic Assembly.

DEAR DR. GOTT: What are the symptoms of venous stasis, and what is an appropriate treatment?

DEAR READER: Venous stasis means that blood which fills the veins is prevented from returning to the heart for re-circulation. This often occurs in the legs, where gravity forces venous blood to pool in the lower extremities. This pooling of blood blocks the inflow of fresh, oxygenated arterial blood; tissues are deprived of vital nutrients, leading to swelling, heaviness, thickened raw skin, dermatitis and sores (stasis ulcers).

Venous stasis can be overcome in most cases by elevating the legs (thereby using gravity to empty the veins), avoiding prolonged standing or sitting, and using elastic support stockings (to compress the veins and direct the blood back to the heart).

Varicose veins frequently cause venous stasis because, as the veins swell and balloon out, blood flow is retarded. Treatment is the same as I indicated. In addition, varicose surgery may be necessary to remove ("strip") the dilated veins. After the operation, the venous blood is shunted to alternate, non-diseased veins; symptoms improve.

Finally, salves, ointments and antibiotic creams may be needed to treat stasis ulcers and dermatitis. This is in conjunction with leg elevation and support stockings.

Patients who do not respond to the non-surgical techniques I mentioned should request a consultation with a surgeon familiar with venous disorders.

To give you more information, I am sending you a free copy of my Health Report "An Informed Approach To Surgery." Other readers who would like a copy should send $1.25 plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to P.O. Box 91369, Cleveland, OH 44101-3369. Be sure to mention the title.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I'm an 84-year-old woman suffering from migraine headaches for the past six months. My doctor has tried every strong medication he knows of, and I've tried to watch my diet. I'm desperate. Do you know of anything that might help?

DEAR READER: Migraine headaches rarely appear in the elderly. Rather, migraine usually begins much earlier — often in childhood — and may occur in cycles that wax and wane, depending on stress, fatigue and other poorly understood factors. The cause of this common affliction is unknown.

Since you apparently developed headaches rather recently, I suspect they are not migraines at all. They could be cluster headaches due to a vascular instability, or they may result from other causes, such as infection or tumors.

If your doctor is at a loss to help with your problem, I suggest you request a referral to a neurologist. After examining you and ordering tests, such as a CT scan (special X-rays) or an MRI (similar testing using electromagnetic waves), the specialist will be able to diagnose the cause of your headaches and recommend treatment.

Religious community raises questions about new church's tower

ORLEANS, Mass. (AP) — Townsfolk trying to block construction of a church on historic Rock Harbor say the dispute has nothing to do with religious freedom — they just don't want the church's tower ruining the skyline.

"What we've got here is a quaint seaside community, and this church would be at least 30 or 40 feet taller than anything else in town. It would overpower everything around it," says Chris Minor, who lives in this town on Cape Cod Bay.

The Community of Jesus, a non-denominational Christian group, presented plans for the 104-foot-tall, gothic-style church to five town and regional boards. So far, four have rejected the plans, including the Old Kings' Highway Historic District Committee, which Minor chairs.

Town zoning laws prohibit buildings more than 30 feet tall without special permission. But the congregation says zoning laws shouldn't apply to its planned Chapel of the Holy Paraclete, or to any church.

"If the state can choose the design, maybe they'd like to write the prayer book or choose the hymnal," said Orleans attorney Richard Laraja, a church member and spokesman.

Laraja said the boards violated the Constitution by denying church members freedom of religion, freedom of association and freedom of speech, because a church's exterior makes a statement.

"The height symbolizes the relationship between man and God, of lifting the heart to God in mind and prayer," he said.

The boards disagree. Minor's committee said its reasons for rejecting the design were purely aesthetic. Most of the town's homes are traditional clapboard houses, some with widow's walks.

"It was just really significantly larger and more massive than anything else in Rock Harbor," Minor said.

Another board cited environmental concerns.

Astro-Graph
By Bernice Bede Osol

June 22, 1991

Involvements in imaginative and creative endeavors could help enhance your earnings in the year ahead. When you feel you've got something good, get it to those who have pipelines to the marketplace.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) It could prove unwise today to take an outlandish gamble in the hope of recouping a previous loss. Instead of getting even, there's a possibility you may fall further in the hole. Know where to look for romance and you'll find it. The Astro-Graph Matchmaker instantly reveals which signs are romantically perfect for you. Mail $2 plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Matchmaker, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3429.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) You'll be willing to help others today, provided the ideas originate with you. Conversely, if you feel that demands are being made of you, you could turn a deaf ear.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) You may become involved in a situation today that will require bold action on your behalf in order to bring it to fruition. Don't let self-doubts override opportunity.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Be careful today to avoid misunderstandings with friends over money or material things. Financial involvements with pals could be like mixing milk and mud.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) It would be a shame to waste your time and energy today fighting an uphill battle for something rather insignificant. Carefully evaluate your objectives and toss out the losers.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Instead of worrying about how much others will do for you today, be honest with yourself by asking, "How much are you prepared to do for them?" If you come up short, reduce your expectations.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) People you're socially involved with cannot be relied on today to assist you in feathering your nest in the commercial world. You're on your own when you step into that arena.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Your chart shows that you may be too attentive to those who offer you faulty counsel and not attentive enough to those who offer you sound advice today. This could spell trouble.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Problems in relationships can be avoided today — if you're not too critical of friends or apt to remake them over in your own image. Look up to pals, not down on them.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Abide by the ideals in which you firmly believe. Don't let companions or associates pressure you into abandoning them today.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) You may not have adequate faith in your own judgment today, and this could cause you complications — if you have to deal with a forceful individual. Remember, a big mouth doesn't make anyone right.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) You may have to work in close proximity with someone who is both careless and temperamental today. Be extra watchful if this individual has to use unfamiliar tools or materials.

Real estate market today just another tough business

NEW YORK (AP) — Estimates of overbuilding in commercial real estate markets range from one year to nearly 10 years, which is a way of saying that in real estate the inventories are unlike those in any other business.

In the automobile industry, for instance, a three-months supply might be considered a tough obstacle to overcome, even with rebates, discounts and below-market financing. Still, the time frame is in months, not years.

But in commercial real estate, the level of inventories and the problem of overleveraging aren't the biggest obstacles to recovery, according to a man who bought and sold hundreds of millions of dollars of buildings.

As big a problem as inventories and overleveraging, says Allen Cymrot, is the poor caliber of some companies trying to market these structures. He asks if they won't compound rather than solve real estate's problems.

"If you solve the problems affecting real estate and still have inefficient real estate companies, it's only a matter of time until the real estate becomes a problem again," says Cymrot, now a real estate strategist.

Early in his career, Cymrot presided over one of the world's largest real estate companies and was chairman of the National Multi-Housing Council, an owners' organization. Now he advises companies on reducing those inventories.

He isn't completely pleased with what he sees, which is a lot of companies that developed their businesses during one of the industry's great bull markets and who haven't the slightest notion of marketing in a weak economy.

"Historically, bull markets have been very poor training grounds for development of sound business principles," says Cymrot. He observes that there is now a proliferation of companies without the needed skills.

Cymrot says he heard recently from an executive of a major residential developer who said that for the first time in his company's history they had to reduce the price of their product.

"The logical conclusion to that statement is that the company had built its entire operation on a continuing bull market," said Cymrot, adding, "His is not an exclusive experience; that methodology was pervasive for years."

Real estate companies that were founded and grew during this period, he said, practiced techniques that not only are of little value now but are outright impediments to their survival or growth.

Among them: leveraging to the hilt, a practice now dangerous if possible; narrow break-even margins; growth by marketing rather than by superior product; operating with minimal capital, and reliance on joint ventures.

Report: Richards eyeing Cabinet ideas

AUSTIN (AP) — Changing to more of a cabinet-style of government, boosting a governor's authority over state agencies, is attracting the interest at the Capitol.

The Houston Chronicle reported that lawmakers and the governor's office are studying the idea.

Gov. Ann Richards has called a special session for July 8 to write and fund the 1992-93 state budget, with lawmakers facing a projected $4.7 billion deficit.

The Chronicle reported Thursday that a cabinet proposal would be tied to a reorganization and consolidation of government agencies.

It would represent a major change in the structure of Texas government, with backers hoping it would make the bureaucracy more efficient and more responsive.

Promoted by Rep. Ric Williamson, D-Weatherford, the plan would have the governor appoint the executive directors of state agencies that now run by appointed boards and commissions.

The boards would become advisory.

"Inevitably, it's going to be called a cabinet. I would be inclined to call it an executive management group," Williamson said.

Sen. John Montford, D-Lubbock, chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, said he supports the idea.

Richards' executive assistant, Paul Williams, said the governor hadn't seen details of the plan but added, "I think it would be fair to say the proposal is one the governor would look at with favor."

Under present law, most agency chiefs are hired by their respective governing boards. It generally takes a new governor most of one term to achieve a majority of board members.

Richards has battled with some agencies, including the State Board of Insurance, and openly complained about the unresponsiveness of others.
