Economy up

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government's chief economic forecasting gauge rose 0.8 percent in May, its fourth straight advance, the Commerce Department said today in a report suggesting continued growth in the months ahead.
The department said the advance in its Index of Leading Economic Indicators was broad-based, with eight of the 11 forward-looking categories posting gains. The index is designed to forecast economic activity six to nine months in advance.
The index had risen 0.4 percent in April, 0.9 percent in March and 1.1 percent in February, when it ended a string of six losses stretching back to July.

Set afire

AMARILLO, Texas (AP) — A man who had been treated recently at the Veterans Administration Hospital here poured gasoline on himself today and set himself on fire, authorities said.
The man, identified as William F. Benefield, 40, of Amarillo, was in stable condition in the hospital intensive care unit this morning with second- and third-degree burns to 90 percent of his body, said Dr. Ed Sherwood, director of the VA Hospital.
Lisa Cherry, a spokeswoman for the Amarillo Police Department, said the man left a note saying he set himself ablaze "to protest a reduction in his VA hospital benefits."

Includes hike in tax revenue...

Cogdell okays $9.6 million budget

Cogdell Memorial Hospital board of managers unanimously approved a $9.6 million budget for 1992 Thursday, which will include an additional $125,000 in tax support.
"I feel like it is conservative," said Cogdell CEO Tim Lancaster, who presented the budget to the board, county officials and representatives of St. Mary of the Plains Hospital.
In other business, board members accepted the resignation of Roland Longoria and approved the May financial statement and past minutes.

The budget, which still must be approved by county commissioners, calls for an increase in ad valorem taxes from $225,000 in 1991 to $350,000. Lancaster pointed out that $350,000 is the lowest amount requested in the past 10 years, other than the present year. In 1990, the hospital received $488,000 in ad valorem tax support.
As justification for the increase, Lancaster pointed to increases in the cost of indigent care, emergency room services and capital equipment.

Indigent care is projected at $378,677 for 1992 — an increase of 14.8 percent over 1991.
It was noted by the board that counties are required by law to pay for indigent healthcare, regardless of whether they have a hospital.
In noting the comparison between indigent care at $378,677 and tax support of $350,000, Commissioner C.D. Gray said, "As long as you can basically break even (financially) and continue to maintain a high level of healthcare, I think you are doing well. We not only give people a place to receive care, but it provides jobs for a lot of people."

A second key expenditure, as outlined by Lancaster, is a projected $746,476 in capital equipment. The CEO noted that capital equipment requests are up dramatically, primarily due to a radiographic-fluoroscopic unit estimated at $400,000. He added that the hospital would also consider purchasing the equipment — used to take x-rays — as a rebuilt unit, and look at lease-purchase plans in order to keep costs down.

Another $51,000 in expenditures is due to an expansion from the current six-day, 24-hour emergency room coverage to seven-day, 24-hour coverage. Lancaster told the board that the expansion of coverage is necessary because of an increase (see COGDELL, page 8)

37TH STREET WORK CONTINUES — Crew members from Ortiz Construction of Lubbock prepare to pour more curb work this morning as the widening project along 37th St. continues. Curb work along the north side of the street is expected to be completed in the next couple of weeks. (SDN Staff Photo)

37th St. project slowed by rains but engineers hope to make up time

Wet weather earlier this month has slowed progress on the widening project along 37th St., putting contractors approximately two weeks behind schedule, according to Texas Highway Department engineer Mike Taylor.
"It's hard to tell, but we are still shooting for a first of September completion date," said Taylor as he explained that construction crews hoped to make up the lost time.
Officials say that during the next couple of weeks, they hope to have curb work on the north side of the street completed and the barrier barrels will be moved over to allow more room for traffic.
Intersections along the north side of the street are expected to be improved after the mix on the street has been laid. Taylor said that mix, laid in three steps, will raise the street some six inches.
Project plans include keeping the street open through all phases of the construction and motorists will notice that the stop signs at 37th St. and Ave. V will remain even after the project is complete.

Construction on the long-awaited and controversial widening began May 6 along 37th St. from College Ave. west to El Paso. The project, a total of eight-tenths of a mile, will cost an estimated $800,000. Taylor noted the project is slightly over budget because additional funds have been added to improve existing private driveways along the street.
Before construction on the project could begin, the city had to obtain right-of-way from some 20 property owners.
"People (residing along the street) have been very cooperative. We haven't had any difficulty to speak of," said Taylor.
Ray Farris Construction Inc. of San Antonio was awarded the project by state officials in March.

At least one dead... Quake rocks LA area

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A strong earthquake rocked Southern California today, killing one person and damaging buildings and homes in suburbs east of Los Angeles. Sporadic electrical outages and aftershocks occurred.
The 7:43 a.m. quake was estimated at 6.0 on the Richter scale by the California Institute of Technology. The epicenter was 8 miles north of suburban Sierra Madre, beneath the rugged San Gabriel Mountains.
A woman worker at Santa Anita racetrack in Arcadia, just south of Sierra Madre, was struck by a falling steel beam. She was dead on arrival at Arcadia Methodist Hospital, said spokeswoman Nancy Dolan.
Damage was reported to the historic Pasadena Playhouse, where a 40-foot by 5-foot chunk of its rear wall fell off and damaged part of a neighboring building, and to the Pasadena City Hall.

"It was quite a jolt, I'll tell you," said Pasadena City Clerk Marvell Herren. "We have broken glass and some cracks in the walls."
Highrises swayed in downtown Los Angeles and the tremor was felt 100 miles northwest in Santa Barbara and Kern counties, and south to the Mexican border.
The greatest damage appeared confined to the San Gabriel Mountain foothill communities 10 to 20 miles northeast of downtown Los Angeles. The mountain range lies north and east of the Los Angeles basin.
Store windows crashed down in Pasadena and part of the facade of a four-story brick apartment building fell onto Colorado Boulevard. Police roped off the building. There did not appear to be injuries there.

Damage regionwide seemed light for a quake of its magnitude.
"I've got reports of scattered light damage," said Jim Goltz of the state Office of Emergency Services, which activated emergency operations centers in Los Angeles and Ontario to take damage reports.
If the preliminary Richter reading is not revised, the quake will be ranked as the strongest in Southern California since the Superstition Hills earthquakes of Nov. 23 and 24, 1987. They measured 6.2 and 6.6 on the Richter scale and were centered in Imperial County east of San Diego.

Cease-fire called today in Slovenia

LJUBJANA, Yugoslavia (AP) — The federal army declared a cease-fire today in Slovenia, saying it had succeeded in its goal of securing all border posts in the breakaway republic, the Yugoslav Tanjug news agency reported.
However, the Defense Ministry said in a statement that the army would return fire "if forced to do so."
Hours earlier, the federal air force attacked the airport in Slovenia with missiles, and Slovene militia forces battled federal soldiers at border posts.
"Army units at all times conducted the activities with maximum restraint... They returned fire only in defense and as a last resort," the Defense Ministry statement said. It was carried by Tanjug.

The Defense Ministry said its military units stopped fighting after securing all 27 Slovenian border points.
The federal forces were subjected to intensive artillery and anti-aircraft fire during their two-day struggle to take control of the posts, the ministry statement said.
Slovenian officials had seized some border crossings after the republic and neighboring Croatia declared independence on Tuesday. The republics acted after Belgrade rejected their proposal for a loose confederation of states, rather than one controlled by the federal government.
But the federal government said it would crush the independence movements and preserve the federation, long torn by ethnic hatreds.

Gray still in Florida on 3 weapons charges

Two weeks after his apprehension in Florida, Price Daniel Unit escapee Travis Dale Gray remains in a Pinella County Jail on three weapons charges.
According to officials in the State Attorney's Office in Clearwater, Fla., a prosecuting attorney has yet to be assigned in the Gray case and it would be the prosecutor that would decide whether or not to drop the local charges against the Big Spring man.
An attorney is expected to be assigned to the case by next week.
When captured, after almost a year-long man hunt that covered both the east and west coasts, Gray was carrying a 25 magnum handgun and a machete was found in his car. He was charged with two counts of carrying a concealed weapon and one count of felon in possession of a firearm.

In a hearing last week, Gray waived extradition rights. Now local authorities are waiting to hear if the weapons charges in Florida will be dropped, so that Gray can be brought back to Snyder to stand trial for his June 20, 1990, escape from the Daniel Unit.
Gray was convicted in March 1990 of the drowning/murder of his first wife at Colorado City Lake in June of 1988. At the time of his arrest in Florida, authorities say he was working as a maintenance man at an apartment complex where his second wife — who authorities allege helped Gray escape — was assistant manager.

Says attorney general...

State must expand prisons

AUSTIN (AP) — Attorney General Dan Morales says lawmakers should approve expanding prison capacity by 37,000 beds to bolster efforts to escape federal court oversight of Texas prisons.

But San Francisco lawyer William Bennett Turner, representing inmates in the lawsuit against the prison system, said the only thing that building new lockups may do is strain prison managers. "There's no such thing as eliminating overcrowding by building prisons... The iron law of corrections is that all space will be filled," Turner said Thursday.

Morales said an increase of 37,000 beds over four to five years is "at a minimum what the Legislature ought to recognize is going to be necessary."

Current state prison capacity is about 49,000, and will rise to approximately 64,000 when ongoing construction projects are completed.

The budget-writing House Appropriations Committee has voted to provide no new money for prison construction. But Morales said he doesn't believe that will be the final action by lawmakers meeting in July to write a state budget. It has been estimated that space for 37,000 new prison beds would cost about $1.6 billion.

"I am hopeful that ultimately we will see a level of commitment from state policy makers... that will allow us to put forth as strong an argument as we can in the federal district court," Morales said.

In the effort to free the state from federal court supervision, Morales filed a motion Thursday telling U.S. District Judge William Wayne Justice of Tyler about a new law providing a mechanism for the state to increase inmate population over 95 percent capacity.

The state is under a federal court order by Justice against prison crowding, leading to the capacity limit.

Morales first filed a motion in January asking Justice to end federal intervention. But that motion depended on adoption of state controls to ensure the prison system remains in compliance with the U.S. Constitution.

Morales said the new law provides such controls, creating a state administrative oversight board composed of officials with the Texas Department of Criminal Justice, the governor's office and Morales' agency.

The law "gives us the means to ensure that as our prison system grows to accommodate more prisoners, the availability of medical, sanitary, recreational, academic and other inmate services and facilities will grow in concert," Morales said.

Turner said the new law doesn't help the state's case. He said inmates' rights are protected under the current federal court order.

See a urologist about blood in urine

By Peter H. Gott, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT: During a pre-employment examination and blood testing, my daughter found she had blood in her urine. A course of antibiotics was unsuccessful in clearing the problem, and she underwent X-rays that proved negative. Her doctor doesn't seem to want to proceed further, and we are concerned.

DEAR READER: I believe your daughter's doctor should proceed further, and here's why. Bleeding into the urine is ALWAYS abnormal. This can result from many causes, including infection, kidney stones, tumors and other sources of irritation within the urinary tract, including the kidneys, the bladder, the prostate gland, and the urethra (tube leading from the bladder). True, in most healthy people, the source of the urinary bleeding is not serious: an infection, for example, that is easy to treat with antibiotics.

However, the bleeding may have a serious cause, such as a growth or blood-clotting deficiency, that should be investigated and treated. This usually requires kidney X-rays and a test called cystoscopy, during which a urologist passes a lighted tube into the bladder and examines the lower urinary tract.

Evidently your daughter received unneeded antibiotics (for a presumed infection). Also, she probably had an IVP (intravenous pyelogram, a set of kidney X-rays). In my view, her testing is incomplete. She needs a cystoscopy and blood tests to detect a clotting deficiency.

She should ask her doctor for a referral to a urologist. After appropriate investigation, the specialist may discover the cause of the urinary bleeding and suggest treatment. Your concern is well-founded and should be shared with the doctor.

To give you more information, I am sending you a free copy of my Health Report "Bladder." Other readers who would like a copy should send $1.25 plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to P.O. Box 91369, Cleveland, OH 44101-3369. Be sure to mention the title.

DEAR DR. GOTT: During a recent pacemaker insertion, my doctor stated he treated me for postural hypotension. What is it?

DEAR READER: Postural (body-position-related) hypotension (low blood pressure) means that during the pacemaker insertion, you had a temporary but significant fall in blood pressure. This may have been caused by the medication you received pre-operatively (sedation and an anesthetic) or by slowing of the pulse while the pacemaker was being positioned.

This is a common event during such a procedure, and your doctor apparently handled it appropriately. Usually, the treatment for this condition involves repositioning the patient and using drugs to speed up the heart rate, if necessary. You needn't worry at this point because the pacemaker is implanted and functioning, and you had no ill effects.

Almost any surgical procedure, no matter how minor, can cause blood pressure changes in (susceptible individuals). This comes with the territory, and surgeons are prepared to treat it promptly when it occurs.

Iraq denies inspector access to suspected nuclear device

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — Iraq today denied a U.N. inspection team access to a uranium-enrichment device hidden in an army barracks, U.S. officials said. It was the second time Baghdad had stopped the inspectors from doing their job.

The inspection team was initially refused access to a site near Baghdad on Sunday, when it arrived for a "challenge inspection." On Wednesday, equipment at the site was packed up, crated and removed, American officials said.

Iraqi officials today denied the team access to the new site, where the uranium enrichment materials had been moved, U.S. officials said on condition of anonymity.

"They found the stuff, and the Iraqis did it again," said one U.S. diplomat.

Members of a U.N. Special Commission verifying Iraq's cooperation with U.N. resolutions demanding the dismantling of its nuclear, biological and chemical weapons were in meetings this morning and were unavailable for comment.

The United States has been pressuring Iraq to disclose all its nuclear weapons facilities, stressing that the world will maintain its economic stranglehold on the Iraqis until they comply.

The sanctions were imposed after U.S.-led forces drove Iraq out of Kuwait during the Persian Gulf War but failed to destroy all Iraq's nuclear sites.

"This is a very serious matter," Secretary of State James A. Baker III said Thursday. "We're talking about possible nuclear weapons," he said, his voice rising. "This is extraordinarily serious and we take it as such."

Baker declined to say what the United States might do about it beyond protesting and maintaining the economic sanctions already in place against Saddam Hussein's regime.

"Stay tuned," he told reporters as he escorted the prime minister of the Ivory Coast from a meeting at the State Department.

Meantime, Defense and State department officials met with White House aides Thursday to review military and non-military options for dealing with Iraq on the nuclear issue, a senior administration official said.

President Bush has made no decision on the matter, said the official, who like others questioned on the situation demanded anonymity. He said those who met were members of the so-called Deputies Committee, which would present any conclusions it reached to top decision makers.

"I don't know if they reached any conclusions," the official said.

Asked whether the administration would consider military action to force Iraq's compliance with the U.N. cease-fire resolution, Pentagon spokesman Pete Williams said: "If we were considering such options we wouldn't say."

But a State Department official said the U.S. options are mostly economic.

"We can't force them to comply with the resolutions," this source said. "But they'll have to make a choice whether they want to export oil or to keep the remnants of their nuclear program."

Bureaucrats balking at Combest's 'pea plan'

WASHINGTON (AP) — The lowly black-eyed pea has stirred up a hopping controversy between a Texas congressman who wants to feed the hungry and bureaucrats concerned about disrupting vegetable markets.

Rep. Larry Combest, R-Lubbock, wants to let West Texas cotton farmers use their com-bins to harvest black-eyed peas from their idled land, as long as the crop is donated to charity.

But top Agriculture Department administrators say such a plan might rock the black-eyed pea market and open the door for donations of other vegetables, creating widespread commotion in the market.

"This is the height of arrogance, it shows complete dispassion for the poor," said Carolyn Lanier, executive director of the South Plains Food Bank in Lubbock.

"These people who are living in the fields in a car, the lady who's dying of cancer and weighs 65 pounds, the single mother who does maid work a couple of nights a week so her kids can eat — how much impact are they going to have on the black-eyed pea market?" Ms. Lanier said Thursday.

"I can show (a USDA administrator) faces and people who need this food, who will eat it, who are doing without. What about the study that talks about 5.5 million American children who are going to bed hungry — and he's worried about the pea market," she said.

Farmers cannot use their combines to harvest cover crops, like black-eyed peas, planted on land they are required to take out of production to qualify for price supports, said Combest.

Cover crops, however, can be picked by hand, Combest said, so for the past two years, inmates from the Lubbock County Jail have been used to harvest black-eyed peas for Ms. Lanier's food bank. It feeds an average of 16,000 people one meal a day in West Texas and eastern New Mexico.

Daytime Emmys again miss Lucci for 12th season

NEW YORK (AP) — Soap opera queen Susan Lucci's record Emmy-losing streak remained unbroken as daytime Emmy voters gave the best-actress nod to Finola Hughes of ABC's "General Hospital."

Lucci, nominated a record 12 times for a daytime Emmy, lost again Thursday night in the 18th annual Daytime Emmy Awards ceremonies, broadcast by CBS in prime time for the first time.

Lucci, 42, plays the bad-tempered Erica Kane of ABC's "All My Children." Hughes didn't attend the ceremonies because she was in London on personal business.

Peter Bergman was near tears as he accepted his best-actor Emmy for his work in CBS' "The Young and the Restless." He praised his wife as "my conscience, my best friend."

Two established series also won Emmys. CBS' 35-year-old "As the World Turns" was named best soap opera. PBS' 22-year-old "Sesame Street" was named best children's series.

CBS won the most Emmys — five. Cable's only winner was the Disney Channel's "Lost in the Barrens," a Canadian film honored as best children's special.

Bob Barker, the show's master of ceremonies, won an Emmy as best game show host. An animal lover, the star of CBS' "The Price is Right" joked that his Emmy's inscription read: "Have your pet spayed or neutered."

The syndicated "Jeopardy" series won an Emmy as the season's best game show.

Talk show star Oprah Winfrey, a previous winner, was honored both for her show and as television's top talk show host. Last year's talk-show winner, Joan Rivers, was among the losing nominees for the honor.

But Rivers was full of tart-tongued mirth as a presenter, joking about Lucci, and film star Julia Roberts, who shocked Hollywood earlier this month by abruptly calling off her scheduled gala wedding to actor Keifer Sutherland.

"She thinks AT&T's motto is 'Reach out and dump someone,'" Rivers said. She characterized Lucci's Kane character as "the touch tone of the daytime tramps."

Jess Walton of CBS' "The Young and the Restless" and Bernie Barrow of ABC's "Loving" won best supporting actress and supporting actor in the early awards, while Rick Hearst of CBS' "Guiding Light" and Anne Heche of NBC's "Another World," won Emmys as best younger actor and actress.

Steven Spielberg's syndicated "Tiny Toon Adventures" won as best animated program. A best-performer Emmy went to Tim Curry, voice of Capt. Hook in Fox's "Peter Pan and the Pirates."

NBC's "Santa Barbara" won Emmys for direction and writing.

Procter & Gamble Productions, the soap company's production arm and a maker of soap operas since the early days of television, received a special Lifetime Achievement Emmy for daytime TV. It was the first time a company, rather than a person, had won the award.

Thirty-three other awards were announced last weekend by the Los Angeles-based Academy of Television Arts & Sciences and the New York-based National Academy of Television Arts & Sciences.

Emmy nominations for prime-time shows will be announced July 18 in Los Angeles, with the Fox network televising the prime-time Emmy show from Pasadena, Calif., on Aug. 25.

Guitarist is arrested

HOUSTON (AP) — Rock singer-guitarist Carlos Santana faces federal drug charges today after he was arrested at Houston Intercontinental Airport for possession of marijuana, authorities said.

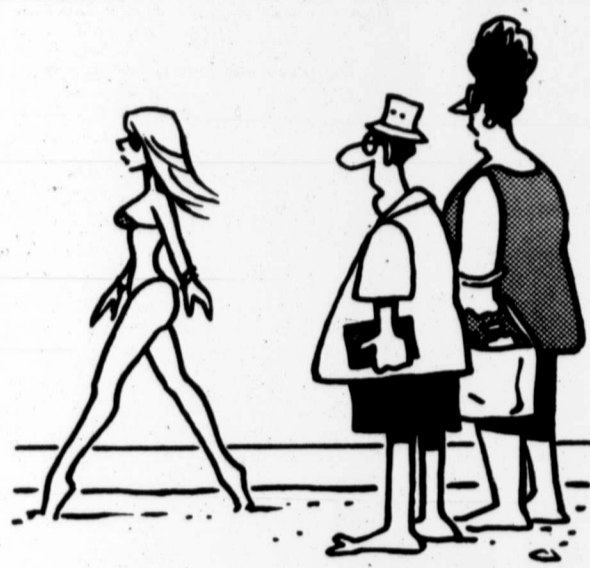

Santana, 44, had 5 grams of what appeared to be marijuana stashed in a film carrier inside his suitcase, said Tina Ceppi, spokeswoman for the airport's aviation department.

Santana, a native of Mexico, had just arrived on Continental Airlines Flight 126 from Mexico City and was arrested by U.S. Customs officials at 4:15 p.m.

"A green leafy substance was found inside a film case along with some rolling papers," Ms. Ceppi said. "Customs did arrest him and airport police transported him to City Jail. There will be charges pressed against him."

Judy Turner, U.S. Customs spokeswoman, attributed the arrest to the federal agency's "zero tolerance" stance for drug possession.

Women's seeds Amy Frazier and Katerina Maleeva also won on a day on which officials had hoped to make up a huge backlog of matches rained out during the tournament's opening four days.

Ivanisevic, who lost in a semifinal thriller to Boris Becker last year at Wimbledon, completed a 7-6, 7-6, 6-2 victory over the London resident in a match that started Tuesday.

Maleeva, seeded eighth, defeated Julie Salmon 7-5, 6-3. Frazier, seeded 14th, beat Karin Kschwendt 7-6, 6-4.

On Thursday, Andre Agassi was a ghostly vision at his long-overdue Wimbledon coming-out party, wearing white denim shorts over white biking shorts, a white shirt and a white headband.

The fluorescent lime shirt was gone. The neon pink shorts were left at home. A dangling gold earring was the only hint of his unique sartorial style.

The player whose flashy wardrobe has infuriated the tennis establishment looked like Frosty the Snowman as he stepped on the grass courts Thursday for the first time since 1987. And he played like Frosty for a half-hour against Grant Connell, serving poorly and moving as if his feet were stuck in slush as he lost the first set 6-4 to the Canadian.

Agassi rallied to win the second set 6-1 and was tied 1-1 in the third before getting washed off court by a thunderstorm as Wimbledon waded through its fourth straight wet day.

Players such as Jimmy Connors and Aaron Krickstein were scheduled to play Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday — and never got on court in that time.

About 1.3 inches of rain has fallen on Wimbledon, and weather forecasters said this has been one of the wettest, coldest and darkest Junes in local history.

London bookies have slashed the odds against rain disrupting play every day of the tournament from 100-1 to 10-1.

Saturday's activities include a day-long putting tourney with a grand prize of a color TV. An 11:30 a.m. buffet lunch will also be offered the golfers.

The first day will wind up with a buffet dinner and dance at 7:30 p.m.

Braves drop Astros, 3-0; Rangers win

Braves 3, Astros 0
Charlie Liebrandt (7-5) pitched a three-hitter and Terry Pendleton drove in runs with his fifth and sixth consecutive hits.

Liebrandt struck out three and walked two for his 16th career shutout.

Pendleton, who had four straight hits in Wednesday night's 3-2 victory, grounded out in the fifth inning, ending his streak.

Mark Portugal (6-4) had his string of 10 consecutive victories in the Astrodome snapped.

Rangers 9, Athletics 6
Texas became the first team in a year to sweep the Athletics at the Oakland Coliseum as Dean Palmer hit his first major league home run and Steve Buechele added a three-run homer.

Brian Downing's pinch-hit single broke a 4-4 tie in the seventh and Buechele put the game away with his second three-run homer in as many games.

Reliever Wayne Rosenthal (1-0) earned his first big-league victory despite allowing two runs and three hits in 2 1-3 innings. Jeff Russell finished for his 15th save. Rick Honeycutt (0-1) was the loser.

Marshall questioned about Supreme Court successor

WASHINGTON (AP) — Thurgood Marshall, the Supreme Court's first and only black justice, said today that race should not be the only factor in picking his successor but "you can't ignore it." The White House pledged to move swiftly to replace the retiring justice.

"I'm not trying to run the country," Marshall said at a farewell news conference that blended poignancy with his trademark cantankerousness.

Asked what he would do in retirement, he said, "Sit on my rear end."

Marshall fielded questions as members of Congress and others said his retirement would put pressure on Bush to name a minority to the nine-member bench. The early list of successors that floated through Washington was studded with blacks, women and Hispanics.

Bush formally accepted Marshall's retirement "with deep regret," and his spokesman said the president wants a replacement on the bench before the Court convenes for its next term in October. Asked if Bush would name a black justice, Marlin Fitzwater said, "We're inclined to name the best person we can find. ... The Supreme Court is nine people and you can't assign any one seat to any group of Americans. They represent all Americans."

Marshall, an undaunted civil rights advocate and the court's leading liberal, announced his retirement Thursday, citing his "advancing age and medical condition." He is 82.

Early speculation centered on Clarence Thomas, a conservative federal appeals court judge in Washington who once chaired the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission; Amalya Kearse, a black federal appeals court judge in New York City; Ricardo Hinojosa, a federal trial judge in Texas; and Ferdinand Fernandez, a federal appeals court judge in Los Angeles.

Tracked down by reporters at his home, Marshall displayed some of his gruff wit. Asked what he would do in retirement, he said, "Mind my own business."

DPS, fire officials work wreck today

Department of Public Safety officials and Snyder Fire Department were called to a one-vehicle accident north of the city on Hwy. 208 at approximately 4 a.m. today.

Involved were a pickup and a horse trailer driven by Tina Sherman of New Mexico. According to reports, Sherman lost control of the trailer and it came to rest on its side.

The fire department was called to the scene to cut the roof off the trailer and release the two horses pinned inside.

There were no injuries reported.

Broken windshields top local police investigations

Snyder police made two arrests Thursday and received complaints from six people who had windshields broken out of their vehicles.

Police received a half-dozen calls and submitted criminal mischief reports — including two for felony criminal mischief — concerning a rash of broken car windows. Among those contacting the police were Nancy Messenger of 3308 Ave. A, Joe Botts Jr. of 1609 28th St., Audrey Archie of 2711 Ave. T, Christie Devers of 1705 28th St., Cecil Pesina of 408 34th St. and L.V. Anderson of 600 29th St.

The calls came in between 6:56 a.m. and 12:04 p.m.

Police also arrested a 61-year-old female Thursday for shoplifting, theft Class C, at 10:52 p.m. at Wal-Mart.

At 4:50 p.m., police arrested a 37-year-old male in the 1200 block of 37th St. for driving while intoxicated.

At 8:57 p.m., police investigated the burglary of a telephone booth at Allsup's. An undetermined amount of change was taken.

In one other incident, police were notified that juveniles set fire to the bathrooms at Johnson Exxon, located at 1401 25th St. Officers spoke with the juveniles and their parents. No charges have been filed at this time.

Petroleum prices

NEW YORK (AP) — The spot month contract for light sweet crude was $20.42 per barrel at 12 p.m. Friday on the New York Mercantile Exchange.

Although now rare, the largest African elephants stand 13 feet tall at the shoulder and carry tusks that can each weigh as much as a man and measure twice as long.

in the volume of emergency room patients and for the retention of current physicians.

To increase revenue, the budget reflects a hike of $10 in acute care and critical care unit room rates, and an eight percent increase in ancillary rates, to become effective Jan. 1, 1992. Hospital administrators are also counting on increased patient volume and renewal of Texas Department of Criminal Justice contracts.

Lancaster noted that Cogdell is currently bidding on the pharmaceutical contract for the Amarillo prison unit. Those bids are to be opened July 1.

Payroll expenses are budgeted at a 1.4 percent increase over the 1991 budget, which includes four percent merit raises. Employee benefits are expected to increase about 5.9 percent, Lancaster said, essentially due to worker's compensation increases and employee hospitalizations at Cogdell.

Lancaster also proposed a staff of 203.9 full time equivalents, compared to a current staff of 206.3. The decrease reflects a combining of present duties as well as a reduction in hours allotted to some departments.

Total operating expenses in the 1992 budget are projected at $9,609,580. Revenue, including tax monies and interest, is estimated at $9,885,002, leaving the hospital with a net income for 1992 of $275,422.

In other action, the board accepted the resignation of Longoria, an engineer with Oryx, who is being transferred out of Snyder. Longoria's replacement on the board will be named by commissioners at a later date.

The financial report indicated a negative income for May of $11,720. The hospital's cash balance stands at $1,202,700.

Hospital statistics from the month indicated 47 surgeries, 17 newborns and 662 emergency room visits.

The suffocation play

By Phillip Alder

There are certain techniques of card play that many club players think are solely the domain of the expert. But this isn't true. If you can visualize the distribution required for success, you can bring off any of the coups described in the literature.

Looking at today's hand, you might think that South's four-heart contract is impossible. Declarer seems slated to lose one club, one heart and two diamond tricks. But if he is given a little assistance by East, he can get home. Can you see any way in which West can lose his "certain" trump trick?

West starts with three rounds of diamonds, declarer ruffing the last. South takes two successful heart finesses, but East's diamond discard on the second is a setback. There is only one chance left. South cashes his three spade tricks, plays off the A-K of clubs, and exits with his last club, won by East.

Everyone is down to two cards. Dummy has the heart ace and club eight, West and South both have two trumps, and East has a spade and a diamond. Declarer ruffs whichever card East leads, and West is stuck. If he overruffs with the king, dummy overruffs with the ace, and declarer's last trump wins trick 13. If West under-ruffs, dummy's club is discarded. Either way, declarer wins the last two tricks and makes his contract. This is called a "smother play."

Did you spot East's error? If he had thrown a club on the second round of hearts, West would win the third club trick. Then he could exit with his low trump to dummy's ace, establishing his king as the fourth defensive trick.

Politicos want ads refunded

DALLAS (AP) Several political candidates, including Gov. Ann Richards and former opponent Clayton Williams, are trying to recover some of the millions of campaign dollars they spent during a television ad blitz last fall.

Former Republican candidates Kent Hance and Rob Mosbacher also are trying to recoup some advertising dollars from the TV stations that broadcast their political commercials last year. Attorneys in Atlanta representing some of the politicians estimate that candidates in Texas and 10 other states were overcharged by tens of millions. The lawyers said they expected to represent more Texas candidates, but declined to name them.

"This is not based purely on greed," said Matt Towery, a lawyer in Atlanta who is representing Williams, Hance and Mosbacher. "This is money that was in fact taken from them that shouldn't have been in the first place."

The politicians are asking TV stations statewide to provide information on their advertising rates and practices in an attempt to determine if they were overcharged.

The complaints stem from a national audit last year by the Federal Communications Commission, which found that "a majority of stations" in five TV markets charged political candidates more for commercial time than general advertisers.

The audit included stations from the Dallas-Fort Worth area, Cincinnati, Philadelphia, San Francisco and Portland, Ore.

Federal law prohibits TV stations from charging political candidates more than general advertisers.

After the FCC audit, candidates in Georgia began investigating advertising rates of TV stations in the state. A lawsuit is pending against one Atlanta station, and candidates have received more than $460,000 in refunds from others.

Towery and fellow Atlanta lawyers Bobby Kahn and Gordon Giffin, who is representing Richards' political committee, have clients in Texas, Georgia, California, Alabama, Arkansas, Florida, Kentucky, Minnesota, Nebraska, Rhode Island and Virginia.

They declined to name the stations involved or to estimate how much money they were seeking.

"We know which stations in the larger markets are prime violators," Kahn said. "We don't want to go to court. We just represent candidates who want a full accounting."

Buddy Barfield, a spokesman for Williams, said Wednesday that the Texas investigation is "purely business."

"It's dollars and cents. We want to make sure we received the proper charges. If not, we'd like to get our dollars back," he said.

Astro-Graph

Your Birthday

June 29, 1991

You could do rather well in the year ahead in a joint venture that has a long-term objective. While it might severely test your patience from time to time, it will be worth your perseverance.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Be very careful regarding what you volunteer to do today on behalf of another. There's a possibility you could get in over your head before you realize what's happening. Know where to look for romance and you'll find it. The Astro-Graph Matchmaker instantly reveals which signs are romantically perfect for you. Mail $2 plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Matchmaker, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3428.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Don't waste too much time today trying to win the support of someone who diametrically opposes your position. Work around this individual and seek alliances elsewhere.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) "A day's work for a day's pay" is the motto you should be aware of today. There aren't apt to be any free rides coming your way in this cycle.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Usually, you strive to do your best to maintain harmonious relationships with others. But you may have to deal with someone you're not quite ready to forgive today.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Your methods and procedures could thwart you from accomplishing something you'd like to do today. The reasons will be obvious to others, but you're not likely to be receptive to advice.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Developments won't be as burdensome as you might lead yourself to believe today. A little positive thinking on your behalf could take a heap of weight off your shoulders.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) There's much more to life than just its material aspects. If you allow yourself to dwell on them today, you could miss out on the finer things out there.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Doing things others think are too difficult to manage will provide you with enormous gratification today. If you are confronted by challenging developments, don't retreat.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Make plans to get out with your friends and keep yourself busy today. If you withdraw or become too introspective, there's a good chance depression may take over.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Be hopeful and positive today, but also be realistic, especially if you're involved in some type of new endeavor. Yet don't be too conservative when making projections.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) If you're pursuing an important objective at this time, you must not slack off, no matter how many difficult obstacles confront you. Victory is achievable — if you're tenacious and courageous.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Being too uncompromising in your attitude will severely limit your opportunities today. Keep an open mind and be tolerant toward those you think aren't as smart as you.

Gov denies meeting is illegal

AUSTIN (AP) — State leaders emerged from seclusion on Matagorda Island with a July 15 date for a special legislative session, and several reasons why their private meeting did not violate state open government laws.

Gov. Ann Richards said Thursday it was better for the state, for her, Lt. Gov. Bob Bullock and House Speaker Gib Lewis to be able to meet privately. In addition, the three state leaders said a public meeting was not required under the Texas Open Meetings Act because no decisions were made. She said the time spent on the island was devoted to briefings from staff.

And, Richards and Bullock advanced the theory that although a majority of the membership of the Legislative Budget Board attended the meeting, the LBB did not actually exist between sessions.

The LBB is chaired by Bullock and includes Lewis and other influential lawmakers on spending and tax issues.

Richards chastised reporters for raising the issue over whether the closed session was a violation of the law.

"You all, unfortunately, are playing games with the people of Texas that are unfair," Richards told reporters.

She said informal leadership meetings are common. "We try to meet at my new residence at least once or twice a week. No one has ever raised a question whether that's appropriate or not," Richards said.

"There is simply no way that you can conduct the business of this state without having an opportunity for your staffs to be able to give you briefings on what needs to be done. That's what we did, and it was totally appropriate, and I think that this is much ado about nothing," she said.

Texas Attorney General Dan Morales said the LBB is subject to the Open Meetings Act.

Morales said he was confident the leaders would abide by the law, but added he had no way of knowing whether a violation occurred.

Sununu denies 'blame' slur

WASHINGTON (AP) — White House chief of staff John Sununu is denying reports he privately suggested that pro-Israel groups are partly to blame for his recent difficulties. "I'm not blaming anybody but myself," he says.

A Jewish organization that had been critical of Sununu's reported attempts to find scapegoats for the controversy over his travel said Thursday it was satisfied with Sununu's assertion.

"I take him at his word when he says he does not blame anybody but himself," said Abraham H. Foxman, national director of the Anti-Defamation League of B'nai B'rith.

"I wrote to him (on Wednesday) and told him it would be helpful if he clarified his situation," Foxman said in an interview.

In addition to issuing his brief statement, Sununu placed calls to Jewish leaders Thursday to deny that he had been engaged in any campaign to blame his troubles on them or anyone else.

It was the second time in a week Sununu has issued a statement defending his conduct in the growing controversy over his extensive use of military jets, government limousines and corporate planes for personal and political travel.

Last Saturday he put out a statement expressing regret over any appearance of impropriety his actions may have caused and admitting he had made mistakes in travel arrangements.

The White House on Thursday sought to distance itself from several recent news stories suggesting that Sununu, a second-generation Lebanese-American, had suggested a vendetta was being waged against him by Jewish groups.

Secrecy achieved for audit

AUSTIN (AP) — Comptroller John Sharp's audit that recommended saving and raising $5.2 billion may become as well-known for its stealth as its wealth of recommendations to improve government efficiency.

Sharp managed to keep the controversial, 1,200-page report secret until the final days before its official release Wednesday.

In doing so, he managed to keep lobbyists and bureaucrats at bay for 4½ months as his team of 104 auditors drafted their recommendation for a leaner state government.

The plan was so closely guarded that Gov. Ann Richards delayed for a week the start of a special legislative session so that lawmakers would have time to study the comprehensive report.

Richards earlier had said she would call in the Legislature on July 8. But, she said Thursday the session would begin July 15 to allow officials time to become more familiar with the details of the audit.

"Comptroller Sharp is a smart man for keeping this secret," an unidentified lobbyist told the Austin American-Statesman. "If he had let this out weeks ago, lobbyists would have been digging into their foxholes."

Sharp's spokesman, Greg Hartman, joked about the irony of reading "The Commanders" by Bob Woodward to glean tidbits on how the military protected its strategy for Operation Desert Storm.

"Actually," he said, "we already had our plan in place."

Space was cleared on the 11th floor of the comptroller's office. There Sharp's key lieutenant, Billy Hamilton, directed the auditors in their examination of every state agency. Badges were required for admission.

Only one copy of the proposals contained the crucial dollar amounts.

Platonic Girlfriend Is Ready To Change Her Philosophy

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I've been reading your column since I was a pre-teen girl. I'm 21 and a college senior now. In my freshman year, I met a super guy, "Ray." We hit it off immediately and have been best friends ever since. Abby, Ray was my first love. There was a strong physical attraction between us (we even discussed it), but we didn't act on it for fear of jeopardizing our precious friendship.

Since we met four years ago, I've dated others, lived with someone else, and now Ray has a girlfriend. She is his first serious relationship. Now I am wondering if I should let him know that I am still in love with him. We still are very close friends, and I honestly believe that we could make it as a couple.

I don't expect him to drop his girlfriend for me. However, I cannot spend the rest of my life wondering what might have been had I been willing to risk telling him my feelings.

What do you say, Abby?

"WHAT IF" IN SACRAMENTO

DEAR WHAT IF: Now that Ray is involved in his first serious relationship, were you to tell him that you are still in love with him, it would cause him no end of consternation. Please, give him a break and put your "true confessions" on hold until you know where Ray's present relationship is going. Should it not endure, and he is free to consider another love relationship, unleash your "confession." But not until.

DEAR ABBY: I am stumped as to what to do about something that happened at work. As a junior executive in a large firm, I submitted an idea to a vice president. He reacted with very little enthusiasm, so I assumed he didn't think much of my suggestion.

About a week later, he showed my idea to the president of the company as though he had originated it. The president thought it was brilliant.

I was furious when I heard what had happened and I wanted to tell my friend a thing or two. However, I took a co-worker's advice to just keep quiet, as any further action on my part could be harmful to my career.

I am still very resentful, seeing his career flourish and not my own. Any advice?

HAD IT WITH OFFICE POLITICS

DEAR HAD IT: I think you used good judgment in taking your co-worker's advice. Let it go — and learn from the experience. And the next time you get a "brilliant" idea, submit it to the president yourself.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I just returned from the beach — our first outing this season. It was a beautiful sunny day in Santa Monica, and the beaches were swarming with men, women and children. I had seen some ads of the new skimpy bikini bathing suits for women, but this is the first time I had seen them worn by real people.

Abby, from behind, some of those women appeared to be naked — with just a wee little string back there, barely visible, attached to a small patch of fabric in the front, no bigger than a Band-Aid.

I am not some crotchety old woman; I'm 35 years old, but I must admit, seeing so much flesh exposed, I didn't know whether to laugh or cry. (My husband laughed.)

Agency officials anxious for look...

Audit 'selling like hot cakes'

AUSTIN (AP) — The books are blue-and-white, paperback, entitled "Breaking the Mold" and instant best sellers at the Capitol.

Copies of Comptroller John Sharp's 1,200-page audit, recommending billions of dollars in savings, topped the state government reading list when they went on sale Thursday.

All 1,000 copies of the 170-page summary were snapped up in two hours, and the comptroller's office also sold all available copies of the full report — at $5 for one volume or $10 for a complete set.

"We were going to open our doors at 8 o'clock this morning. I got here at 7:30, and people were lined up," Pam Wagner of the comptroller's office said Thursday.

Ms. Wagner said the summary was distributed free of charge while the two larger volumes, detailing all 975 specific cost-cutting recommendations, sold for $5 per book.

"They went like hot cakes," she said. "The presses are running 24 hours now. We're doing our best to meet demand and will have more by Monday."

State agency officials and others were anxious for a close look at the audit and its proposals to save and raise $5.2 billion through spending cuts, agency mergers and about 1,000 layoffs.

State agency heads were given audits, and Ms. Wagner said many of the purchasers were rank-and-file workers.

"We had an awful lot of folks who were state employees who just wanted to read it," she said.

Gov. Ann Richards, Lt. Gov. Bob Bullock and House Speaker Gib Lewis all endorsed the plan when it was first released on Wednesday. Reaction from other quarters was mixed.

The chairman of the governor's special tax study committee, former Gov. John Connally, said the audit was "a monumental work" that likely would "evoke a great deal of criticism and opposition" from supporters of the status quo.

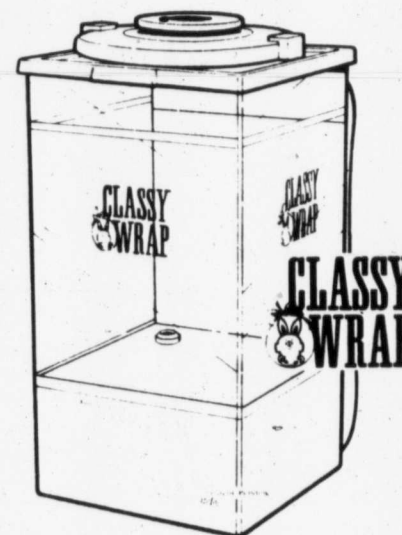

While several of his committee members, including former Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby and former San Antonio mayor Henry Cisneros, had endorsed creating a state income tax, Connally said the audit likely lets the air out of that balloon.

"I'm probably going to come out Saturday (when a vote is scheduled) with nothing more than a suggestion that the Legislature look at the Texas business tax and the lottery," he said.
