Ask Us

Q—Are you supposed to pay tax if you take your child to a day care center?

A—No. According to the state comptroller's office, you do not have to pay tax at a day care center. You also do not pay taxes to a babysitter or a house sitter.

In Brief

Budget deficit

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Bush administration has raised its estimate of the federal budget deficit for fiscal 1992 to $348.3 billion, $67.4 billion more than its forecast five months ago.

A mid-year budget review issued Monday forecasts record deficits this year and next, blaming much of the red ink on the cost of bailing out failed financial institutions.

Office of Management and Budget Director Richard Darman said the deficit in fiscal year 1991 ending Sept. 30 will be $282.2 billion — $35.9 billion less than the administration projected in February.

Back in jail

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — A car-theft suspect, whose beating at the hands of a Fort Worth police officer was videotaped by a tourist, is back in jail after violating his parole.

Ernest Alvin Anderson, 21, surrendered to authorities Monday.

Meanwhile, the officer accused in the July 3 beating won a legal battle Monday when a judge ruled that the patrol car he was driving at the time of the incident cannot be repaired.

Peveler appointed CED administrator by board

Still struggling with answers to procedural questions, the County Educational District No. 11 Monday night selected the Scurry County Appraisal District for assessing and collection services.

Meeting for the second time since being created by the Texas Legislature, the five-county educational district — which includes Scurry County's three school districts — also named Ray Peveler as the CED administrator.

Peveler is chief appraiser for the Scurry County Appraisal District, and the proposal submitted by Scurry County was the only one received by the 11-member CED board which met in the board room of the Snyder ISD.

The CED was created by the legislature in an attempt to equalize funding between poor and rich school districts. The CED tax, expected to be about 72 cents, will be pooled and distributed back to the 11 school districts based on average daily attendance. Individual school districts will still assess local district taxes above the 72 cents.

The proposal from the appraisal district estimated an annual cost of $15,000. The CED board agreed that the cost of services provided by the appraisal district would be paid by individual school districts based on the percentage of the CED tax received by the individual school district.

In naming Peveler, CED Board

President Buddy Baldrige of Jayton suggested that Peveler should be compensated for his work. The CED board voted unanimously to work out an arrangement with the appraisal district board.

Peveler was also given authority to negotiate contracts, subject to CED board approval. Typical agreements would be for depository of funds and agreements with individual tax collectors for collection of CED taxes which in turn would be forwarded to the CED for distribution.

A motion by Jeff McClure of Roby was adopted unanimously to have any two of four authorized signatures on operational (see CED, page 10)

July 4th report, AJRA topics discussed by chamber board

Snyder Chamber of Commerce board members reviewed response from the city's July 4th Celebration, discussed an Oct. 19 fundraiser, the AJRA National Finals Rodeo and bingo during an afternoon board meeting Monday.

Board member Betty House said response to the July 4th arts and crafts show was "great" despite a $1 charge this year. Some $2,912.15 was raised, of which $560 went to pay for portable restrooms. The extra funds enabled the chamber to break even on the cost of fireworks.

It was noted that the July 4th committee will meet at 4 p.m. Monday, July 22, to review this past year's event.

"I'd like to personally commend the committee members, board members and anyone who had anything to do with the July 4th activities. It was a job well done," said board president Eddie Williams.

Randy Head reported that preparations for the AJRA National Finals Rodeo are "moving along well."

All sponsorships have been secured and booths are booked. All stalls at the coliseum grounds have been filled and additional stalls at Scurry County Rodeo Association grounds will be used. She also noted that most of the box seats for Friday and Saturday nights, Aug. 9 and 10, have been sold.

The board then discussed visiting Post to gain information about its organization and implementation of bingo as a chamber fundraiser. Several members of the board indicated they would be willing to go to Post on a Tuesday evening and talk with officials and attend bingo games.

A majority of the Snyder chamber board approved last month to support putting bingo on a ballot before local voters. That election could come in November.

Board members also discussed briefly an Oct. 19 chamber fundraiser to be held at the Jack Greene residence on Pleasant Hill Rd. The $100-per couple event will feature a grand prize of $5,000 and will be limited to 300 tickets. Snyder native Brad Maule, actor and singer, will perform.

The board went into executive session following its regular meeting to discuss the appointment of a board member to replace Joe Sentell, who has resigned. No action was taken in the session.

The feller on Deep Creek says, "An archaeologist is a person whose career lies in ruins."

One of the reasons your auto insurance premiums are so high is due to vehicle theft. It's an overwhelming problem. In Harlingen in the Texas Valley, thieves are making off with an average of 12 vehicles a day — most of 'em hauled away by wreckers from mall and supermarket parking lots.

New helpful technology may be on the way. Electronic tracking of stolen cars has been around for some time, but it is about to take a giant leap with the help of the Defense Department satellites.

A recent article in the Wall Street Journal revealed that at least four states are using an electronic radio frequency-based car tracking device to find stolen vehicles.

Drivers buy a device that police can activate if the car is stolen. Police can then use the signal to find and recover the car.

This may soon be global. Police are about to link such devices to a system of 24 satellites operated by the Department of Defense. This will make up a so-called Global Position System that could track cars, boats or even airplanes.

Several states and the feds are developing tracking and identification applications. There's the possibility of entering a code to alert authorities if an unauthorized driver is operating the vehicle.

With the system, there's no place above ground or under water that can escape detection.

We wonder what they'd charge to keep up with your car keys?

The do-gooders will have a heyday with this one. Package design students are kicking around the idea of edible packaging for cereal.

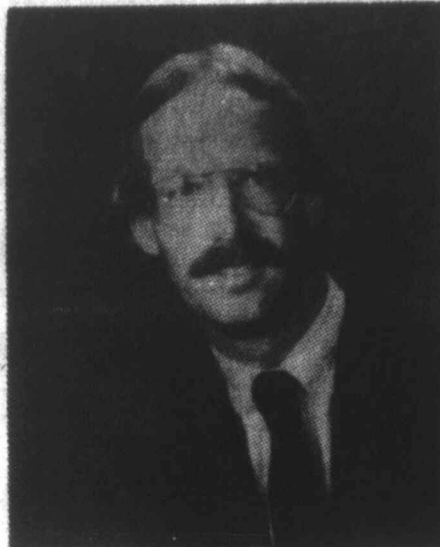

Shoot, some cereal already tastes like the box.

Foster resigns; takes UNT post

Dave Foster, Western Texas golf coach since 1981, has been named golf coach at the University of North Texas in Denton.

Foster announced his resignation to WTC administrators Monday afternoon, and the board will meet in executive session at 9 a.m. Friday to consider the resignation and to establish the procedure to find a replacement.

In addition to coaching duties, Foster also serves as WTC athletic director and is manager of the golf course and pro shop.

DAVE FOSTER

At UNT, a Division I school which competes in the Southland Conference, Foster will also be golf course manager for the Sheraton, a hotel located adjacent to the golf course on the UNT campus. UNT finished second in the conference last spring.

"It's a rare opportunity," Foster said. "It's not very often you get the chance to be coach in a Division I school and also be a PGA club pro at the same time. It's a very unusual situation."

Foster was recruited to WTC in 1975 by then golf coach Bob O'Day. The team was fifth in the national tournament in 1975 and he was co-captain of the WTC team in 1976.

After leaving WTC, Foster went to Mary-Hardin Baylor University where he was a member of the golf team. He joined the WTC faculty in 1980 as assistant golf coach and golf course manager. In 1981 he was named head golf coach and the following year he replaced O'Day as WTC athletic director.

Foster's teams have qualified for the NJCAA national tournament three times, and one WTC golfer has been named all-American. Eight players have been named all-region and 13 have received all-conference honors.

Foster's wife, Anne, is the dental hygiene coordinator for Howard College in Big Spring. They have two children. Jeffrey is age 7 and Kristyn is 5.

City votes to stay with same insurer

Snyder City Council, after some 90 minutes of discussion, voted to maintain a self-insurance program for city employees.

Meeting in special session Monday night, the council considered health insurance proposals, and also looked at the 1991-92 budget again before its approval in August.

The council voted unanimously to stay with its present insurance administrator, IMR. The local agent is Williamson-Steakley Insurance. The self-insurance program has a stop-loss feature to protect the city from substantial losses. In voting to stay with their present coverage, council members said they had been pleased with past service.

Joe Coronado presided during the insurance session in the absence of Mayor pro tem Jackie Greene. Mayor Troy Williamson excused himself from the proceeding, explaining he was on the board of Texas Municipal League, one of the bidders.

After the bid was approved, the council adjourned into a work session to review the proposed 1991-92 city budget. The budget proposal is expected to be voted on by the council during its August meeting.

The proposed budget calls for a 20 percent increase in water and sewage rates to cover the debt service on the city's new waste water treatment plant. The council will review bids for the plant at the end of this year. Construction will begin in 1992. In March, funding for the $4 million project was approved by the Texas Water Development Board.

The budget projects some $872,000 in ad valorem taxes, and another $710,000 in additional revenues.

Council members began working on the budget during a 15-hour workshop in May.

Present were Mayor Williamson, City Manager John Gayle and council members, Coronado, Mike Thornton, Vernest Tippens, Jack Denman and J.D. Smith. Absent were Jackie Greene and City Attorney Ernie Armstrong.

No MTV in Snyder

MTV will not be made available to Snyder Cablevision subscribers, Larson Lloyd, area supervisor, confirmed today.

Tyler-based TCA Cable, which counts Snyder residents among its 420,000 subscribers nationwide, had pulled the plug on MTV June 30 over a dispute in programming. TCA announced last Saturday however, that it would resume MTV in "certain of its systems during the next 30 days," according to a news release.

However, Lloyd said today that Snyder Cablevision will not be one of those systems.

"It was almost a non-issue as far as customer calls and complaints. We received probably 10-to-1 in favor of taking it off," said Lloyd. "I got a few complaints from people who were mad that we took it off, but the majority were glad we did it. We didn't get a lot, either way."

Lloyd said MTV was relaunched in only a few of the TCA Cable systems based on certain criteria. That criteria included technical ability, channel availability and significant demand, according to Lloyd.

He said that the Entertainment channel will continue to be broadcast on Channel 25 locally to replace MTV.

Nuclear safeguards leave loopholes

BAGHDAD, Iraq (AP) — The news that Iraq was working vigorously to produce weapons-grade uranium in a program that eluded international safeguards has exposed serious shortcomings in world efforts to contain nuclear proliferation.

The controversy will likely lead to efforts to close worrisome loopholes in the methods by which the International Atomic Energy Agency tracks nuclear activity, agency inspectors said Monday.

It will also put more pressure on countries like France and Switzerland, which have resisted, largely for commercial reasons, U.S. efforts to impose full-scale inspections on countries that buy suspect equipment.

U.N. nuclear experts say Iraq was many months away from being able to make bomb-grade material when the Persian Gulf War broke out.

But nuclear specialists in Washington are still scratching their heads over how Iraq managed to conceal more than 30 uranium-enrichment units from Western surveillance.

Iraq supplied the information about its nuclear program after weeks of sparring with U.N. nuclear inspectors enforcing the gulf war cease-fire resolution, under which Iraq has agreed to dismantle its nuclear program.

The most likely explanation for the oversight by Western surveillance was that Iraq's nuclear program was unusual, several nuclear policy analysts say.

Rather than focusing on the state-of-the-art equipment commonly tracked by the atomic agency and signatories to the 1969 Nuclear Non-Proliferation Treaty, Iraq had turned mainly to a primitive method of uranium enrichment.

The same technology, electromagnetic separation, produced the Hiroshima bomb but had been discarded by the advanced nuclear powers as too inefficient.

It was no longer classified.

Electromagnetic separation equipment, which uses giant electromagnets to distill out highly radioactive uranium used for bombs, can be built with relatively simple components. Indeed, one source close to the investigation here said many of the devices observed were Iraqi-made.

"Certainly Western intelligence was caught with its pants down," said Debra Holland of the Nuclear Control Institute in Washington, a public-policy research group.

"It certainly raises a lot of uneasy questions for the U.S. and the IAEA about how we're going to control this," she said in a telephone interview.

Officers say camera use won't change their behavior

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — Police on patrol in the aftermath of a videotaped beating say cameras seem to follow them wherever they go these days.

But one officer said Monday the increased use of video cameras is just a fad.

"... We're going to have that for a while. I went to a call the other day, and some guy fell on the ground and hurt his knee," officer W.T. Mays said. "I turned around and some lady had a video camera on. I haven't had any trouble; it's just going to be with us awhile."

Officers said that in the first days after the taped beating they had to put up with jeers. Officer Edward Parnell III was videotaped July 3 while using his nightstick repeatedly on a handcuffed car theft suspect. He has been suspended with pay pending completion of an internal affairs investigation.

Police say use of video cameras at crime scenes also increased following the March police beating in Los Angeles of Rodney King.

The Fort Worth videotape, shot in broad daylight alongside Interstate 30 a few miles east of downtown, showed Parnell delivering 28 blows at Ernest Anderson, who was handcuffed.

"I would never ever let the fear of someone videotaping me affect my job. What if we weren't out there? I'm proud to make sure people don't hurt themselves or me," said Cpl. Larry Peoples.

"I still have to do my job, but I don't like getting hit, getting spit on, getting shot at," he said.

Recently, more than 100 people gathered around two homicide victims, warning police they would round up their video cameras.

"Go ahead. Get your camera. Make me a star," one officer yelled back. "Yeah. Make me a star, too," said another.

Other officers, though, have seen enough of cameras and are weary of the repeated broadcasts of Parnell swinging his baton at Anderson.

"I hate it — I hate that it happened here," said one officer who requested anonymity. "It brings attention to us that I don't like. For this job, you have to be a special kind of person."

Your Birthday

July 16, 1991

A friendship of an enduring nature could be developed in the year ahead with a slightly older individual. This is a pal who can be relied on when the chips are down.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) The behavior of a valued friend could be somewhat disappointing today. Try not to make too much of the infraction, because this individual will soon be back in your good graces. Know where to look for romance and you'll find it. The Astro-Graph Matchmaker instantly reveals which signs are romantically perfect for you. Mail $2 plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Matchmaker, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3428.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Early in the day, you may not take your commitment to others as seriously as you should. Later, you'll try to mend fences, but you may not be able to repair them all.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) When it comes to selling, you're likely to get your price today. But when it comes to buying, your sense of value could be distorted, and you may pay more for things than they're actually worth.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Your will is weaker than your whims today, especially in matters where you're looking for instant gratification. There's a possibility you might get caught up in something frivolous.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Usually, you're quite self-reliant. Today, however, assignments you give to others are apt to be carried through properly, while tasks you assign to yourself might not be.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Things might not work out according to your game plan today. A matter you thought you had resolved satisfactorily could produce some undesirable side effects and need more attention.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Personal profit is a possibility today, provided you keep your mind on business. Forego pleasurable involvements until serious material matters are worked out.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Put more stock in the lessons you've learned from your own experience than advice given to you by associates today. Even though they want to be helpful, their counsel might not be constructive.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) If you've done something commercial recently you feel warrants a commission, chances are you'll get it. However, it might not be as grandiose as you expect.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) A partner can play a helpful role in your affairs today, but if you expect more than can be delivered from this individual, disappointment is likely.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) An important objective can be achieved today, provided you don't get bogged down in an irrelevant side issue from which you have little to gain.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Something in which you're presently involved has a good potential for reward, but you must be on guard so that a non-contributor doesn't try to grab a piece of the action.

Marla may sign

NEW YORK (AP) — Despite earlier indications, Marla Maples may have to sign on the dotted line before Donald Trump says "I do."

Asked if she would sign a prenuptial agreement — as did Trump's first wife, Ivana, Maples told People magazine: "I don't think we're doing it that way" and "This relationship is going to be built on trust — and that's it."

But Maples backed off some on Monday. "My statement in People was not conclusive as to the issue of prenuptials, nor at this time is it of any great significance and rates little thought," she said in a statement.

Trump, in a statement of his own, said: "When and if a prenuptial is considered by us, it will be our mutual decision, considered highly personal and strictly our business."

Apparel maker apparently owes lots of back taxes

EL PASO, Texas (AP) — Garment workers in their 11th week of a labor strike want to know why the apparel maker they have targeted is allowed to operate while still owing hundreds of thousands of dollars in state and federal taxes and penalties.

The International Ladies Garment Workers Union distributed photocopies of state and federal tax liens filed against Andre Diaz and his commercial laundry Apparel Conditioners Corp. at a Monday news conference. The liens filed by the Internal Revenue Service and the Texas Employment Commission list owed taxes and penalties totaling $452,019.84.

Nearly three months ago, garment workers at three factories began a hunger and work strike in attempt to recoup unpaid wages and to force Diaz to allow a union election.

The workers are protesting against DCB Apparel Group Inc., Apparel Conditioners Corp. laundry, Sonia's Apparel and H&R Apparel Group.

Bethel honored at TMTA

Bethel Studio of Music pupils and their teacher, Mrs. Wayne Bethel, attended the TMTA convention in Austin at the Stouffer Hotel June 16-19.

Mrs. Bethel was honored along with nine other teachers from across the state as candidates for Teacher of the Year. Andrea Helm competed for state honors in the 9-10 piano solo competition.

Eight pupils were among the Lubbock Music Teacher's Piano ensembles. Each ensemble had 20 pupils playing at 10 pianos. Playing "Pink Panther" were grades 3-4; and playing "Baby Elephant Walk" were grades 5-6, directed by Mrs. Bethel. These students appeared on the Texas-American Student Affiliate program.

Parents attending were Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Chisum, Mr. and Mrs. Max Drum, Mr. and Mrs. Jayson Jones, Mrs. Pam Gibson and Mrs. Paul Zeck, all of Snyder. And from Colorado City were Mr. and Mrs. Austin Helm,

Hold up the holdup

We continue our look at deals from Bill Root's book "How to Play a Bridge Hand." Every day you may test yourself by covering the East-West cards and selecting your line of play before reading on. Today's contract is three no-trump, West leading the spade four.

Start by counting your top tricks. Here you have six: one spade, three hearts and two diamonds. The extra tricks you need will obviously come from the club suit.

Everything looks rosy, but if the opponents can get one club and four spade tricks, they will defeat you.

Consider the spade suit and its possible distributions. If the opponents' cards are dividing 4-3, you are always safe. The opponents will get at most one club trick and three spade tricks. You need fear only a 5-2 split.

Given that the suit is 5-2 and West has led from length, how will the honors divide? West won't have the K-Q-J (he would have led the king). So East will have a doubleton honor.

If that is so and you duck the first trick, East will win with his honor and return his second spade. Then if West has the club ace, you will go down, since he will cash three more spade tricks. The answer is to win the first trick with dummy's spade ace.

You continue with a club. What can West do when in with the ace? If he leads a low spade, East will win the trick but won't have another spade to play. If West cashes the spade king, swallowing his partner's queen, your nine becomes a second stopper.

UT officials deny holding AIDS' study results

AUSTIN (AP) — Officials at the University of Texas deny allegations that they held the release of a study on the HIV infection rate among student health center patients because it could damage the school's reputation.

The study revealed that nine of 1,000 — or nearly one of 100 — patients tested at the student health center last year were infected with the virus that causes acquired immune deficiency syndrome, the Austin American-Statesman reported Tuesday.

Student health center officials acknowledged last week they knew the preliminary findings of the AIDS study for several months, but have dismissed charges that they withheld the information for political reasons.

"It may seem like we were keeping it under wraps, but believe me, that was not our intention," said Dr. Scott Spear, who coordinated the survey at the health center and heads the UT-Austin Committee on HIV disease.

"I think it is important information for students to have and the community to have," Spear said. "I just think it needs to be complete. We were waiting for the national data and the demographic information."

The student health center has not received more detailed information about the infected students, which will include a breakdown of their sex and race, among other things, Spear said.

He added that school officials planned to release the full study in the fall, when the bulk of students return for classes, so that the information would have the maximum impact on the greatest number of students.

AIDS is the final stage of the human immunodeficiency virus infection, a disease that slowly dismantles the body's immune system, experts say.

The study is the first nationwide attempt to measure the spread of the human immunodeficiency virus on college campuses. Texas was one of 18 schools in the first phase and one of 24 in the second, health association officials said.

The rate of infection among health center patients at UT surpasses that of any of the other schools participating in the study, the newspaper reported.

Student health center officials have said they now treat about a dozen students with HIV.

UT health center officials urge caution in interpreting the data, pointing out the numbers cannot be extrapolated to the entire student population because the study was among health center patients only and was not random.

Some local AIDS experts have said the findings indicate the virus is spreading more rapidly than previously thought among college-age students who do not consider themselves at high risk for the incurable disease.

Several AIDS advocacy organizations sharply criticized the university's leadership Monday for not making the initial results of the study public sooner.

"I cannot imagine hiding this information for one minute if it makes even one person understand that they are at risk and need to practice safer sex," said Christine Aubrey, who heads the Austin-Travis County HIV Commission.

"Why would they sit on it? All I can think of is that they wouldn't want legislators to know and that maybe they fear the response of students' parents. I think that is reprehensible," she said.

The Texas Legislature reconvened Monday in special session to craft a state budget for the 1992-93 biennium.

Bowling alley massacre...

Public provides new leads

LAS CRUCES, N.M. (AP) — Police are still working on new leads in the 1990 shooting deaths of four people at a Las Cruces bowling alley.

Officers said Monday they received some response to their public request to speak with anyone who found a gun in the Las Cruces area the week of the shootings.

"Unfortunately right now we can't get into any specific details as to who might have called or if we have weapons or what kind of caliber weapon we're looking for if any at all," said Capt. Fred Rubio of the Las Cruces Police

On Friday, police released a statement saying investigators recently received information "centering around the weapons used in the mass murder."

Police would only say an unspecified source provided new leads. Rubio said the information came about a week ago and was a result of the more than one-year investigation.

"It's been a tough year for us, it's been a tough investigation and we've said it before really because as far as any physical evidence linking to any suspect or suspects at the time it was not available at the scene," Rubio said.

But Rubio said police are holding off to the hope that the new lead will bring someone with more information.

Firefighters were summoned to the Las Cruces Bowl around 8:30 a.m. Feb. 10, 1990. They saw smoke billowing from the office and found seven shooting victims inside, four of whom were children.

All but two had been shot in the head.

The dead included Steve Teran, 26, a mechanic at the bowling alley; Teran's daughters, Paula, 6, and Valerie, 2; and Amy Houser, 13. The wounded included Stephanie Senac, 34, daughter of bowling alley owner Ron Senac; her daughter, Melissa, 12; and the bowling alley cook, Ida Holguin, 32.

Police ask who might have found a gun in the week following the Feb. 10, 1990, slayings to contact the police Criminal Investigation Division.

Chicago phones reject coins in anti-drug plan

CHICAGO (AP) — Pay phones in two drug-ravaged neighborhoods no longer take coins at night as Illinois Bell tries to disconnect dealers from their buyers.

"Illinois Bell is trying to take the phones out of the hands of criminals and make them available to our customers when they need them," said Sam Foster, the company's public communications manager.

Foster said Monday that for the next three months, between 6 p.m. and 6 a.m., more than 50 phones in the two neighborhoods will work only for emergency, operator-assisted or credit card calls.

"We don't think many drug dealers will want to use those options because then there will be records of their calls," said Illinois Bell spokesman Geoff Potter.

He said residents of the South and West Chicago neighborhoods complained that drug dealers tied up phones taking orders.

Dear Abby

Woman Wants Her Youthful Mistake Locked Up for Good

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1991 Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: I am a 31-year-old married (with children) woman. I have an embarrassing secret.

When I was 20, I was arrested on a felony charge — transportation of pot into a prison. The charge was dropped to a misdemeanor, and I was given a one-year probation since I had never been in trouble before as an adult. I haven't been in any trouble since then.

I have noticed that on job applications certain questions are asked about "any arrests." I don't want to lie on a job application and risk being caught and later being fired — or even being sent to jail because of lying on the application. So, my question is this: Since my arrest was so long ago, is there a way for me to have it sealed so that I can put that part of my life behind me and not worry about it following me for the rest of my life?

Please don't print my name or address.

GOING STRAIGHT

DEAR GOING STRAIGHT: In some states, if the offender was under 21 years of age when the crime was committed and has subsequently proved to be of good character, the record can be expunged (destroyed). Consult a lawyer. It may cost a few hundred dollars, but the peace of mind would be well worth the price.

DEAR ABBY: In a recent letter from "Heartbroken in Lakewood, N.J.," the writer was distressed over the death of her pet from ingesting antifreeze left on the driveway, and cautioned your readers to hose down their driveways so that their pets are not poisoned.

Abby, unintentional acts of pollution are not only dangerous to residents and their pets, but have similar impacts on the fish and wildlife who are on the receiving end of our storm (drain) water. Most liquid substances washed into storm drains get dumped, untreated, into our rivers and lakes — where one pint of oil will produce a one-acre oil slick.

The Congress and states are attempting to clean up storm drainage as part of the Clean Water Act. Disposing of oil, antifreeze, paint or paint thinner, household cleansers and other substances by dumping them into gutters and storm drains not only damages the environment but is also a crime.

So, Abby, urge your readers to call their local public works department and find out where to dump used oil and how to properly dispose of other toxic liquids. Remember, for most of us, the water you wash away could be someone else's water supply! Please don't put anything down a gutter or storm drain that you wouldn't want to drink or swim in.

BERT McCOLLAM,
DEPARTMENT OF PUBLIC WORKS, SACRAMENTO, CALIF.

DEAR MR. McCOLLAM: Consider it done! Read on:

DEAR ABBY: In reference to Fluffy, the sweet little dog who lapped up the antifreeze her owner left in the driveway, it isn't clear whether the Sunday mechanic collected most of the antifreeze and spilled a little, or just drained it on the driveway.

Abby, if the antifreeze killed Fluffy, just imagine what it would do to the environment if it were hosed off the driveway and into the ecosystem.

Please, tell your readers that all antifreeze (as well as oils) should be collected and disposed of properly. Shops that change oil must, by law, accept used oil.

Head count improvements needed next time

WASHINGTON (AP) — Summing up a dilemma in a double-negative, one boss of the flawed 1990 census explained: "We don't know where the people we didn't find are."

That may suffice for now; the federal courts are going to make the final call on correcting the 1990 undercount anyhow.

But the government is going to have to find a better way before the census that ushers in the 21st century.

Unless there's a system that gives correct answers before the 2000 census, they'll have to set up a separate one just to count all the lawsuits. Not that there's any lack of lawsuits this time.

The 1990 census was contested for an undercount even before it was conducted. New York and the other big cities that figured they would be left short of people and thus federal dollars won the court case that forced a separate survey to check the basic census count, and the review to see whether it should be corrected.

Commerce Secretary Robert A. Mosbacher decided against a change. He insisted that politics was no factor, although Democrats quickly noted that the people who didn't get counted came from big-city constituencies most likely to support them. So officially, there were 248.7 million Americans in 1990.

And the government knows that was wrong, by about 2 percent.

That's sending the big cities and states that went to court to challenge the census back to court to demand the correction.

Defending the administration decision, Michael R. Darby, the undersecretary of commerce who supervises the Census Bureau, said the undercount problem is nothing new, but finding a way to avoid it is almost like trying to find a cure for cancer.

It was Darby who remarked on the problem of locating people who weren't found in the first place.

Determining exactly where Americans are is as vital as knowing how many there are, because that's the way political representation is apportioned and government aid is shared.

That's one of the reasons the administration gave for sticking with results it knows to be off, shunning an adjustment to add about 5.3 million missing people, many of them blacks and other minorities living in big cities.

That figure was produced by a post-census survey of 171,390 households, just after the traditional census on April 1, 1990.

It was used as a statistical sample of the population, using techniques like those applied in public opinion polling. But the post-census survey dwarfed any such sampling conducted before.

Mosbacher said the evidence that a revision would insure accuracy was not conclusive enough to warrant changing the count for the first time in 200 years.

He said changes that made the actual population number more accurate might have added to the margin of error in determining shares of that total — a vital concern because "there's a loser for every winner."

The losers will see him in court, seeking a bigger share in federal aid programs apportioned on the basis of population.

They would seem to have a star witness available in the person of Barbara Bryant, the census director, who wanted the figure adjusted to reflect a population she said stands at 253 million to 254 million.

Mosbacher seemed to be offering a compromise, saying the adjustment will be built in to census numbers used during the decade until the next count.

Congressional redistricting to be considered in session

AUSTIN (AP) — Gov. Ann Richards says lawmakers working on a plan for Texas' new congressional districts shall draw no map before it's time.

Richards said she wants the Legislature's special session that opened Monday to first concentrate on spending cuts, agency consolidation, budget writing and paying for it. Then, they can look at other topics.

"We are not going to have other confusing and destructing items on this agenda until we've done those things," she said. Governors control special session agendas.

Richards said redistricting will get attention because the Legislature, not the courts, should determine the geographic areas Texas congressmen represent.

"We don't want a federal judge drawing the lines. We want the Legislature to do that. So we will put it in the (agenda) in a timely fashion," she said.

The Legislature must draw new boundaries for congressmen, and state House and Senate members, after each 10-year census.

Lawmakers took care of the legislative districts during their regular session, which ended May 27. But they put off action on the congressional lines. Texas is scheduled to gain three more seats in the U.S. House, for a total of 30, in the 1992 elections.

Although census officials acknowledged missing about 560,000 Texans in the count, U.S. Commerce Secretary Robert Mosbacher refused Monday to raise the state's official tally of 16.9 million residents.

Texas was one of several states seeking to have its population count raised.

Richards said she was "very disappointed" over Mosbacher's decision, because it denies the state additional federal aid and "proper representation in Congress."

Toll-free numbers now established for consumers

DALLAS (AP) — Two of the largest credit-reporting agencies in the country say they will improve their images by installing toll-free lines that will make it easier for consumers to find out why they've been denied credit.

The move by TRW Inc. and Equifax Inc. comes about a week after six states accused TRW's giant credit agency arm of violating consumer privacy and making reporting errors that harmed the credit ratings of thousands of consumers.

TRW has denied the allegations and maintains that it is taking several steps to strengthen its public image.

"We believe offering an 800 number is a visible and important enhancement to the numerous measures TRW has already taken to improve its consumer assistance service," said Maxine Sweet, vice president of consumer affairs.

TRW's toll-free number will be launched in several phases, beginning in October. Atlanta-based Equifax says its 24-hour number will be fully installed by December.

The Equifax Information Service Center will also offer credit reports that can be mailed within 12 hours as well as consultants trained to discuss consumer credit reports from 8 a.m. to 11 p.m. daily.

Four homers spell defeat for Rangers

DETROIT (AP) — The lettering on Tony Phillips' loose-fitting T-shirt said: "Zubaz. Dare to be different." How very true. As near as anyone can tell, Zubaz is a weight-lifters' term that has no meaning. But the rest is as clear as Tony the Tiger's merit. Phillips, who has started at seven different positions — including DH — led off the ninth inning with Detroit's fourth home run of the game Monday night, lifting the Tigers to an 8-7 victory over the Texas Rangers.

"That's only the second game-winner I can ever remember hitting," Phillips said. "That was a thrill." Phillips hit a full count pitch from Mike Jeffcoat (3-2) into the second deck in left field for his eighth homer of the season, the sixth while batting right-handed. "Tony gave us a chance with his glove at third base, too," Detroit manager Sparky Anderson said. "He's just a versatile player." Phillips leads the Tigers with a .295 average. He has played in 79 of Detroit's 86 games; starting in 78. In the last 15 games, Phillips has hit .371 with 12 RBIs. Mike Henneman (6-2), now 31-6 in Tiger Stadium, pitched a perfect ninth inning. Jeffcoat retired three batters in the eighth. Lloyd Moseby, Mickey Tettleton and Lou Whitaker also homered as the Tigers increased their major league-leading total to 114. Ruben Sierra and Jeff Huson homered for the Rangers. Sierra hit a three-run homer in the Texas first before there were any outs. Rookie Rusty Meacham, seeking his third consecutive win, walked Julio Franco on four pitches, Rafael Palmeiro followed with a single and Sierra hit his 13th home run. "It's good for Meacham to find out how the big leagues really are," Anderson said. "They'll mistreat you up here. And, believe me, the Rangers have got some real athletes over there. "If these two teams played 100 games, they'd be sort of wild. I think there'd be a lot of scoring." The Rangers and Tigers have the two most productive offenses in the major leagues. The Rangers are averaging 5.1 runs per game, tops in the big leagues. Detroit averages 5.0 runs, the second-best. Texas is slugging .419, best in the American League and Detroit is next at .413. "They just out-homered us," Texas manager Bobby Valentine said. "This was a homer kind of a night. But it was a good game on both parts. They came back from three down and we came back from three runs down. But, they batted last." The series continues tonight with Detroit right-hander Mark Leiter (2-1) making his first start against Kevin Brown (7-7).

CLUTCH HIT — Patrick Jordan rapped a run-scoring single in the top of the sixth inning and later came home himself but the late rally fell short as Snyder All-Stars fell to Colorado City 4-3 Monday in the Area II Little League Tournament at Rotan. The two teams will battle again today at 7 p.m. for the championship. (SDN Staff Photo)

Three Snyder teams advance to finals

Three Snyder teams, one of them undefeated, advanced to the finals of the U.S. Girls Softball Association national tournament in San Angelo. Snyder teams won three of two of four games played Monday afternoon. Snyder's Division I lost their first in six tournament outings, bowing to Big Spring, 15-8. However, Snyder had the best record in the division and advanced to the championship game this morning. Division II from Snyder was also in the tournament finals, posting a 13-10 victory over Fort Stockton Monday afternoon. In Division III, Snyder was eliminated despite a 14-6 triumph over Fort Stockton Monday afternoon. In Division IV, Snyder advanced to the finals with an 18-3 avalanche over San Angelo.

Astros suffer in loss to Pirates

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The best thing that could have happened to Jim Leyland was the worst thing that could have happened to Jimmy Jones. The Pittsburgh Pirates, determined to make life easy for their fatigued manager, had a six-run lead in the second inning and eased to an 8-0 decision over the Houston Astros on Monday night. It was Pittsburgh's sixth consecutive victory. Relieved that Leyland hadn't suffered a heart attack and was back in the dugout after a scary, sleepless night in a hospital, the Pirates relaxed by roughing up Jones. He was coming off a three-hit shutout of Cincinnati, but Jones was gone after allowing eight hits in two innings. "They tattooed him," Astros manager Art Howe said. Leyland hasn't had many easier nights at the ballpark in his five-plus seasons as the Pirates' manager, and he couldn't have picked a better night for it.

Oilers begin summer camp

HOUSTON (AP) — The Houston Oilers today are beginning two-a-day drills at their training camp at Trinity University in San Antonio. While veteran players are not scheduled to report until Thursday, quarterbacks, first-year veterans and players who were on last season's injured reserve list already are working out. The Oilers won't begin full-squad practices until Friday. On Monday, the Houston team reached terms with six of its 11 draft picks for next season. Its five top picks — three from the second round and two from the fourth — remained unsigned late Monday. "I'm not happy about it, but I'm not worried," Oilers general manager Mike Holovak told the Houston Chronicle. "It's hard to say if we're close because what's close?" Team spokesman Dave Pearson said top draft pick Mike Dumas, a safety from Indiana, is among those yet to be signed. Dumas told Houston's KRIV-TV in a telephone interview from his home in Alto, Mich., Monday that he plans to be in camp by Thursday. "I talked to the (general manager) of the Oilers (Sunday) night. He told me not to worry about being in camp (Monday)," Dumas said of Holovak. "He wants me to be there by Thursday, so I'm guessing we're going to come to terms by then."

Do-or-die...

Snyder LL All-Stars face Colorado City again tonight

ROTAN — Colorado City rode a strong arm and a hot bat to upend Snyder 4-3 here Monday and force a winner-take-all championship contest today in the Area II Little League Tournament. The two teams square off at 7 o'clock tonight, with the winner to advance and the loser to bow out of the playoffs. Snyder had blitzed Colorado City on Thursday, 15-0, but good all-around team fielding and cagey pitching from righthander Joe Jameson kept another rout out of the question. Jameson delivered clutch, seven-strikeout pitching and teammate Heath Ince led the offense with a two-double, three-RBI performance at the plate. Snyder opened the scoring in the top of the second when Scott Sanders slapped a two-out, one-bagger to the left field fence. The shot scored Snyder pitcher Ramsey Castillo, who had reached with a leadoff single and taken second and third bases on passed balls. Colorado City took the lead in the bottom of the inning, though. Bear Cooper beat out an infield single and Jameson was hit by a Castillo pitch. Ince then uncorked a two-out double to score both baserunners. Jameson's quick-diving changeup, backed by good fielding, kept Snyder off the basepaths during the third, fourth and fifth innings. Meanwhile, Colorado City got insurance with two more runs. In the fourth, Ince rapped a bounce-over double off relief pitcher Patrick Cumbie to score Marvin Espinosa. One inning later, Espinosa cracked a bases-loaded single to score Kyle Moore and give Colorado City a 4-1 lead. Snyder rallied in the top of the sixth. David Smith got things going with a one-out single and scored on a double from Patrick Jordan. An error on a Cumbie-hit ball later allowed Jordan to race home and make it a 4-3 ballgame. Snyder's hopes were dashed, however, as Jameson got Castillo to hit into a fielder's choice and caught Matt Fambro looking at a third strike to end the game. Unofficially, Snyder had five hits and Colorado City came up with nine.

Cowboys test Texas heat

AUSTIN (AP) — The Dallas Cowboys have tested the Central Texas heat and humidity on the Hills of Lakeway golf course. But today the players will get down to business as training camp workouts begin on the practice fields of St. Edward's University. This year's camp will open without three starters, all of whom are holding out for better contracts. No progress was reported Monday in contract negotiations with six unsigned veterans, including defensive tackle Danny Noonan, middle linebacker Jack Del Rio and offensive guard John Gesek, all listed as starters. The others are defensive linemen Dean Hamel and Daniel Stubbs and fullback Alonzo Highsmith. Cowboys owner Jerry Jones says the holdouts are hurting themselves. "We are at a point with several of our veteran players that they can save a lot of wasted time by going ahead and coming to camp," Jones said. Now that the formalities are over, the coaching staff will finally get to see just how far the team has come since posting a 7-9 record last season. Quarterback Troy Aikman will be at the center of the coaches' evaluations. Aikman underwent surgery during the off-season to repair a separated shoulder.

WHAT MAKES THE MICROWAVE RUN?

Microwaves are a form of electrical and magnetic energy moving through space. They are useful in cooking because they're absorbed by foods but reflected by metal and because they pass through glass, paper, plastic, and similar materials.

Produced by a magnetron electron tube, microwaves bounce about inside the metal oven until absorbed by food. They cause food molecules such as water, a very efficient microwave absorber, to vibrate and thus produce heat to cook the food. That's why foods high in water content, such as fresh vegetables, can be cooked more quickly than other foods. Microwave foods retain more vitamins and minerals than foods cooked other ways because microwaving takes less time and doesn't require much additional water.

Though microwaves produce heat directly in the food, they really don't cook food from the inside out, says Joanne Barron, who heads the television acoustic and microwave products branch at FDA's Center for Devices and Radiological Health. "With thick foods like roasts, she says, 'microwaves generally cook only about an inch of the outer layers. The heat is then slowly conducted inward, cooking along the way.'"

As a rule, it's not good to use metal pans made for conventional ovens or aluminum foil because the reflected microwaves cause uneven cooking and could even damage the oven. However, some new metal cookware is specially configured for use in microwave ovens.

SCS Notes

By Michael Squires, Range Conservationist

Now is the time to implement your conservation plan — if you haven't already started. That's the word to farmers from Wes Oneth, state conservationist for USDA's Soil Conservation Service in Texas.

SCS has helped develop a conservation plan for virtually every producer who requested one. Nationwide, plans have been developed on about 135 million acres and have fully been implemented on 54 million acres.

"Landowners have made a good move by developing conservation plans on their highly erodible land," said Oneth. "But they must apply the conservation practices in their plans according to their approved timetables to stay eligible for USDA farm program benefits."

Scurry county farmers and ranchers have developed conservation plans on about 82,500 acres. Now, these plans must be fully implemented by Dec. 31, 1994, to retain eligibility. SCS and the local Upper Soil and Water Conservation District can provide technical assistance to help farmers and ranchers implement their plans.

If you are actively farming and are not sure whether you have developed a conservation plan on each highly erodible tract that you operate, now is the time to check with the Soil Conservation Service. The importance of keeping accurate records of your farming operation has never been greater. Each year it seems as though new regulations are raining down upon the agriculture producer. If you plan on being competitive in today's market, you must maintain accurate and current records.

ASCS Report

By Joe Hefner
County Executive Director

The final date for Scurry County producers to file acreage reports for 1991 crop cotton, grain sorghum and other spring seeded crops has been extended by 30 days. The new date is now Aug. 14.

This extension, as approved by the state ASCS office, is a result of late crops and an estimated production loss of more than 30 percent.

Producers who have not already completed their crop certifications should call the local ASCS office for an appointment.

The information given herein is for educational purposes only. Education programs conducted by the ASCS and SCS serve people of all ages regardless of socioeconomic level, race, color, sex, religion, handicap or national origin.

By Mike Morrow,
Extension Agent

Cotton producers currently have the opportunity to vote on a proposed amendment to the Cotton Research and Promotion Act. Under the current Act, only domestic upland cotton is subject to the check-off funds on request. The amendment to the legislation provides for importers to pay a rate of assessment on imported upland cotton and the cotton content of imported textile products to be determined in the same manner as the rate paid by domestic producers of upland cotton. The optional refund provision of the Act would be eliminated.

Anyone engaged in the production of cotton, except cash-rent landlords, is eligible to vote. This means owners, operators, and partnerships. Wives are eligible to vote in common law states (including Texas). Importers of upland cotton and cotton textiles will also be allowed to vote. A simple majority of producers and importers voting in the referendum is required to pass the referendum.

The current assessment rate is $1.00 plus 6 tenths of one percent of the value of a bale. It is unknown at this time if the assessment rate would be reduced if the amendment passes. The Cotton Board continues to have authority to raise or lower assessment rate.

It is also unknown at this time exactly how much additional funds will be generated by the see DIVERSIFIED, page 11

Vote Yes for the Amendment to the Upland Cotton Research and Promotion Order

Approval of this amendment will:

1. Require cotton textile and apparel importers to pay their fair share for cotton research and promotion
2. Increase funding for cotton promotion and market development
3. Increase funding for cotton textile research and expand technical services to textile mills
4. Continue efforts to improve fiber quality and reduce bale contamination

The Boards of Directors of the Following Regional Cotton Cooperatives Voted Overwhelmingly to Support this Amendment.

Educators say budgets in crisis

AUSTIN (AP) — Less than two months before the school year begins, public school administrators say uncertainty over how much state funding they'll get is playing havoc with their budget plans.

"I think the whole thing is a fiasco," said Clead Cheek, superintendent of Brock Independent School District north of Fort Worth. At a conference of the Texas Association of School Administrators, Cheek criticized the school finance law approved this year by legislators.

The law is designed to even out education funding by shifting hundreds of millions of dollars in property tax revenue from wealthier to poorer school districts within new education taxing regions, drawn largely along county lines.

"It's a case of the legislators just not having the intestinal fortitude to do what's right. If they are going to finance it on an equitable basis, finance it out of Austin, not out of local pockets," Cheek said.

The law is estimated to cost an additional $1.67 billion in state aid and cause school districts to raise property taxes by $1 billion to $2 billion.

Lawmakers are meeting in a special session to write a state budget.

Last month, the House Appropriations Committee approved only a $300 million increase in state aid for education. Gov. Ann Richards, however, has said lawmakers should allocate the full funding.

Most school districts normally are holding final public hearings on their proposed budgets by mid-July. But this year, administrators say they are stymied.

Miss 1992 Texas crowned Monday

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Miss Las Colinas Margaret Johnson was crowned Miss 1992 Texas Monday night in a new pageant created by the GuyRex organization, known for shepherding a string of beauty queens to national titles.

The event, emceed by TV game show host Bob Eubanks, was held at Municipal Auditorium in San Antonio.

Miss Sun City Christine Friedel was first runner-up, while Miss Fort Worth Katie Young was second runner-up. Miss Young also took contestants' choice honors. Miss El Paso Nancy Gomez won people's choice honors, earning the most votes from viewers who called in on a 1-900 telephone number.

As Miss 1992 Texas, Miss Johnson, a senior at the University of North Texas, earned a cash scholarship, car, full-length fur coat and jewelry. She will spend much of her year-long reign working with charities around the state, Eubanks said.

FDA panel won't endorse new drug

WASHINGTON (AP) — The first drug to be proposed for approval for treatment of Alzheimer's disease has failed to win the endorsement of a Food and Drug Administration advisory panel.

The eight-member panel unanimously adopted instead a statement saying the tests made to date were "an insufficient demonstration of clinical effectiveness" of the drug Tacrine.

The panel left open the question of whether the FDA should permit patients to have access to the drug while its safety and efficacy are tested further.

An FDA regulation permits such access when tests are inconclusive but a drug shows promise of being effective.

Warner-Lambert Co., which wants to market the drug under the name Cognex, proposed to make it available to approximately 50,000 patients, who would be enrolled at a rate of approximately 10,000 a month.

Cool, composed bandit robs bank

MINEOLA, Texas (AP) — A bandit described as cool and composed robbed the First National Bank of Mineola of more than $15,000, police say.

"There were customers in the building so the other employees were busy, but there was one teller less than 10 feet from her (the teller being robbed) who didn't even know what was going on," bank president Jim Litton said of Monday's robbery.

"He was very quiet and she said he was very calm," Litton said. "He didn't act nervous or out of the ordinary, so nobody else noticed anything else until he was gone."

Mineola Police dispatcher Rod Humphrey described the bandit as a white male about 6 feet tall, with dark hair pulled back in a pony tail and secured with rubber bands.

College secretary escapes abductor

CENTERVILLE, Texas (AP) — A gunman who kidnapped a Lee College admissions secretary because he wanted his grades changed was being held today on charges of aggravated kidnapping and aggravated sexual assault, authorities said.

Arthur Lee Dunbar, 20, of Centerville, was being held in lieu of $50,000 bond on each of the charges, said a Leon County sheriff's dispatcher who asked not to be identified.

The 52-year-old employee of the school located in Baytown was reported "in good health" late Monday after she managed to escape from the man and was able to reach a minister's home in Centerville, about 140 miles from Baytown, and telephoned her family in La Porte.

The woman had been missing for about five hours at the time she escaped.

"She got away when he wasn't looking," Baytown police Detective Gene Parker said. "They were in a shack somewhere out in the boonies."

Two fraternity officers questioned

AUSTIN (AP) — Two University of Texas fraternity members who were offered immunity for their testimony have appeared before a grand jury investigating allegations of hazing by the organization.

Erik Sharpee, 20, president of the local chapter of Tau Kappa Epsilon, and Harold Shawn Hill, the fraternity's rush chairman, appeared briefly before the grand jury Monday, the Austin American-Statesman reported.

Their attorney, Walter Prentice, said a hearing is tentatively scheduled for next Monday on an attempt by prosecutors to obtain their testimony by offering the students limited immunity from prosecution.

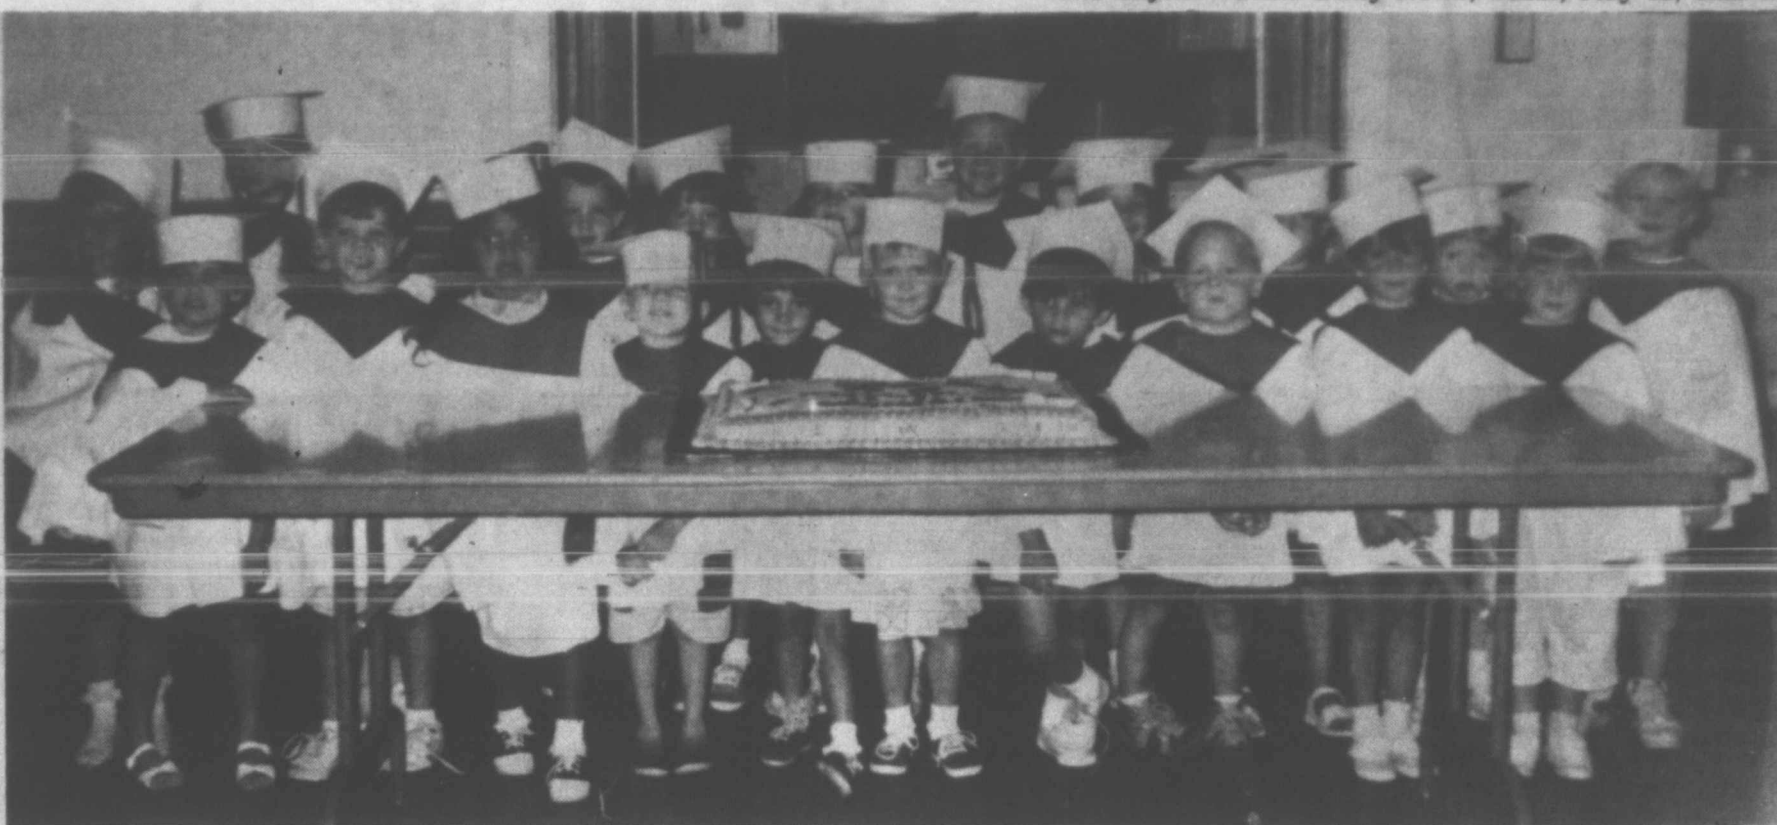

The grand jury inquiry is focusing on the last potential defendants in a 9-month-old investigation by County Attorney Ken Oden into charges of hazing, assault and other crimes committed by fraternities.

Fish die in Sacramento River toxic spill

DUNSMUIR, Calif. (AP) — Thousands of gallons of weed killer drifted toward California's biggest reservoir today after killing thousands of fish and sickening scores of people when it poured from a derailed train into a river.

The spill, 13 miles long, was expected to reach the Sacramento River arm of Lake Shasta, the state's biggest reservoir, at about noon today, said Bill Gengler, a spokesman for the state Department of Fish and Game.

But officials said it did not appear to pose an immediate threat to the state's drinking water.

Voluntary basis...

AIDS testing recommended for doctors

ATLANTA (AP) — Voluntary AIDS tests for doctors and dentists are enough to protect the public because the risk of infecting patients is "overblown," a federal health official says.

Guidelines issued Monday by the federal Centers for Disease Control recommend health workers who practice "exposure-prone" procedures learn whether they carry the AIDS virus and stop performing such procedures if they do.

The guidelines are similar to ones earlier adopted by the American Medical Association and American Dental Association.

Exposure-prone procedures are defined as those where the health worker could, if injured, bleed into an opening in a patient. Examples include abdominal, gynecological or heart surgery, tooth extractions and root canals — but not simple fillings, teeth cleaning or injections.

The CDC stopped short of recommending compulsory AIDS tests. "The current assessment of the risk ... does not support the diversion of resources that would be required to implement mandatory testing," the agency said.

The recommendations come at a time of resurgent AIDS fears, following the case of a Florida dentist believed to have infected five patients before dying of AIDS. The five are the only documented cases of doctor-to-patient infection.

"The intense public concern about the issue has spread well beyond those procedures that are exposure-prone, or those practitioners who perform them," said Dr. James Curran, director of the CDC's AIDS-HIV division.

"The concern, perhaps, has been overblown and out of perspective," Curran said. "We'd like to clarify: The risk is low."

The CDC's director went further. "For most procedures, it's absolutely zero," said Dr. William Roper. If health workers take precautions already in place — such as wearing gloves and sterilizing instruments — "the American public can be confident in the safety of its medical-care system," Roper said.

The CDC estimates there are 124,000 surgeons and 166,000 dentists nationwide. Most surgeons, and many dentists, routinely perform exposure-prone procedures. The agency estimated earlier this year that 300 of the nation's surgeons and 1,200 dentists are infected with the AIDS virus — and that the chances of patient infection range from 1-in-41,667 to 1-in-2.6 million.

States, not the federal government, regulate the practice of medicine, but CDC officials said they expect the recommendations to influence professional standards.

In Congress, Senate Minority Leader Bob Dole, R-Kan., said he and Sen. Orrin Hatch, R-Utah, would introduce legislation Thursday requiring states to adopt the CDC recommendations or face the loss of federal health funds.

The recommendations were welcomed by physicians' groups but blasted in some circles as too little, too late.

checks. The four would be the CED administrator and the three board officers. In addition to Baldrige, the vice president is Edwin Moore of Ralls and the secretary is Terry Martin of Snyder.

In a procedural matter, the board agreed that the chairman would be entitled to make motions and to vote on all motions. Also, Peveler and the chairman would be responsible for meeting agendas and see that they are posted.

Consideration of an operating budget for the CED was postponed until the Aug. 19 meeting at which time the board is expected to canvass results of the Aug. 10 election dealing with exemptions related to the CED tax.

The board also directed Peveler to make contact with banks in the five-county area concerning depository requirements. Baldrige said he had talked to some bankers who suggested that securities requirements would make it difficult for most small banks to handle district funds.

At the beginning of the meeting, Mark Kirkpatrick of Post was administered the oath of office. All board members were present including Baldrige, Moore, Martin, McClure, Sidney Wall of Ira, Jimmy R. Hudgins of Hermleigh, Duane Shock of Crosbytown, Vick Burk of Rotan, Ray Parker of Lorenzo and V.C. Wheeler of Southland.

amendment. This depends on a number of factors including price, production, and import figures. At the current support rate and import levels, the amendment would generate approximately 80% more funds than the current program. The additional funds would be applied directly to Cotton Incorporated's program budget. The largest portion of these funds would go toward the national advertising program. Other areas would include Engineered Fiber Selection (EFS) HVI cotton management technology, expanding services to mills, updating textile research facilities, and fiber quality and bale contamination research.

Under the amendment, 5% of Cotton Incorporated's overall annual budget would be divided among states according to each state's percentage of total collections. These funds can be spent on textile or agricultural research within the state or designated for promotion within Cotton Incorporated's existing projects.

Eligible voters have been mailed ballots. These should be returned to the ASCS office by July 26, 1991.

Arrest, theft cases noted

Snyder police made one arrest and worked several cases of theft Monday and early today.

The only arrest came at 2:03 a.m. today when police took a 23-year-old male into custody in the 2300 block of 25th St. for evading arrest and public intoxication.

At 7:30 a.m. Monday, Antonio Torres of 1405 23rd St. informed police that someone had stolen a lawnmower and edger from his front yard. Police filed a report for Class A theft.

At 12:50 p.m., Claudette Castillo of 2104 41st St. reported that her son's white BMX bicycle had been stolen.

Police cleared up a case Monday with the identification of a suspect in the July 12 theft of a cassette tape from Wal-Mart. The case will be submitted to the county attorney.

At 3:50 p.m., police took a report of Class B theft after JoAnn Lindsey reported property missing from her yard at 901 27th St.

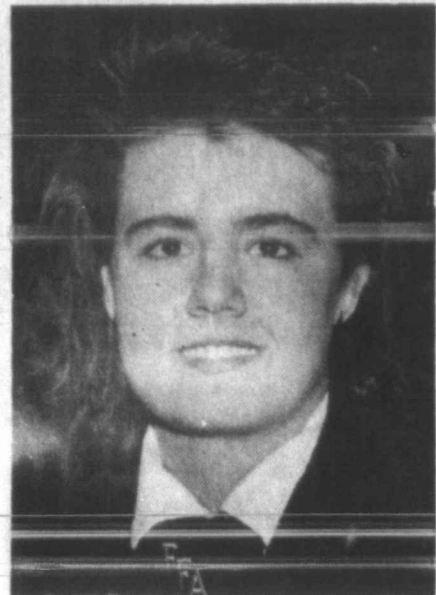

Police also worked one minor accident Monday. The 5:10 p.m. accident occurred at 2109 25th St. between a 1989 Chevrolet Suburban driven by Maureen Morris of Colorado City and a 1989 Mazda driven by Pamela Pinkerton of 1906 West Dr.

Two from Scurry Co. get FFA scholarships

Two Scurry County students have been awarded top scholarships through Texas FFA. Both Amy Shoults and Mark Stansell, were present at last week's state FFA convention when the presentations were made.

Each received an $8,000, four-year Houston Livestock Show and Rodeo FFA Scholarship. Amy is the daughter of Jack and Cynthia Shoults of Ira and Mark is the son of Bobby and Carolyn Stansell of Ira.

Amy is a recent graduate of Ira High School and Stansell in a 1990-91 graduate of Snyder High School.

Amy was a FFA member for four years and served as chapter treasurer, district reporter and area vice president. She received the Greenhand and Chapter Farmer degrees from her high school FFA chapter and the State Farmer degree also.

Besides creed and extemporaneous speaking, chapter conducting, farm skills, and poultry and dairy cattle judging, Amy's supervised agriculture experience project was lamb production.

While in high school, Army was student council representative, yearbook photographer, Future Homemakers of America president and basketball team captain.

She was named best all-around girl, top ranking junior, National Honor Society member, Who's Who Among American High School students member, valedictorian and an Outstanding High School Student of America.

Amy, who plans to major in cultural communications at Tech University, was one of Houston Livestock Show and Rodeo FFA scholarship winners honored.

While in high school, Mark was church youth group president, National Honor Society member and Who's Who in American High School member.

Mark plans to major in agribusiness at Western Texas College.

State to fight census under count ruling

HOUSTON (AP) — Texas Attorney General Dan Morales has promised Hispanic activists the state will sue to force the federal government to adjust the 1990 census to include millions of Americans believed uncounted.

Morales drew a standing ovation Monday from several thousand Hispanics attending the National Council of La Raza's annual convention here. Morales spoke at a luncheon shortly after U.S. Commerce Secretary Robert Mosbacher announced in Washington he would not adjust the 1990 census.

"Mr. Mosbacher, the state of Texas will see you in court!" Morales proclaimed to thunderous applause.

Mosbacher's decision will have a "devastatingly negative impact" on millions of minorities in the United States if it stands, Morales said.

The U.S. Census Bureau estimates the 1990 census overlooked more than 5 million people, including an estimated 560,000 in Texas. The decision not to correct the census could cost big cities and states millions of federal dollars over the next decade.

Census numbers are used to determine where billions of dollars in federal money will go and how many representatives each state sends to Congress. Many of those missed in the count were blacks and Hispanics living in large urban areas, officials said.

In Texas, the ruling could cost the state at least $1 billion in federal aid, Morales said.

The state attorney said he expects to announce his strategy in suing the federal government within the next few days.

Raul Yzaguirre, president of the council, said the Hispanic civil rights group which touts 130 "affiliates" nationwide was stunned with Mosbacher's announcement.

"We're absolutely shocked," Yzaguirre said. "We thought the evidence (for adjusting the count) was clear and compelling. All we asked for was simple justice."

Some Hispanic activists at the convention blamed politics for Mosbacher's decision.

"I can't help but feel that politics is behind this," said Andy Hernandez, president of the Southwest Voter Registration Education Project in San Antonio.

Hernandez called the decision "totally unacceptable," and warned that Hispanics will remember who decided to leave them out.

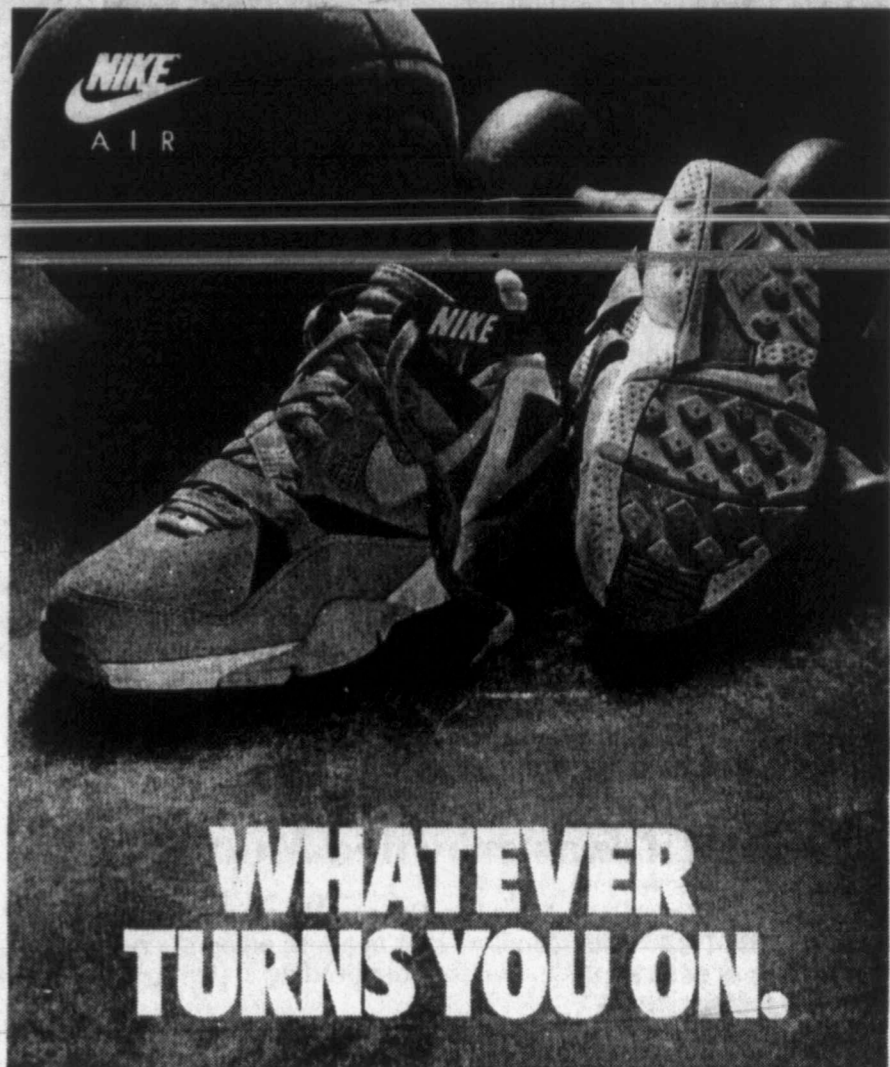

"I don't think the way you win

Hispanic votes is by telling them that they don't count. If we don't count in the census, then I don't think those votes are going to be able to be counted with them on election day," he said.

"I don't think it helps this administration. I don't think it helps the Republican Party when their party is identified with that kind of decision," he added.

Hernandez said he believed the decision would serve as a rallying point for Hispanics across the nation who are seeking a greater political voice.

High blood sugar marks diabetes

DEAR DR. GOTT: I am a newly diagnosed diabetic and would like some information on the subject.

DEAR READER: Diabetes is marked by a high blood sugar level. This can result from under-production of insulin from the pancreas or by an inability of the body to use the insulin efficiently.

The tendency to diabetes is inherited. The disease is more common in obese people and in those who abuse alcohol. Many healthy, non-drinking adults develop a form of diabetes, called type 2 diabetes, as they age. These cases rarely require insulin (as do younger, type 1 diabetics) and can often be successfully treated with diet and pills to stimulate the pancreas to manufacture more insulin.

Complications of the disease, which are common in the more severe type 1 cases, include premature arteriosclerosis and heart disease, cataracts, kidney damage, acidosis (increased body acid) and neuropathy (nerve damage).

In order to educate yourself more fully about this disorder, I suggest you question your doctor. Also, most hospitals have diabetes instruction classes. Finally, you can write the American Diabetes Association at 2 Park Ave., New York, NY 10016 or the Juvenile Diabetes Foundation at 60 Madison Ave., New York, NY 10010 for brochures of educational material.

I am sending you a free copy of my Health Report "Diabetes Mellitus." Other readers who would like a copy should send $1.25 plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to P.O. Box 91369, Cleveland, OH 44101-3369. Be sure to mention the title.

DEAR DR. GOTT: On several occasions, you have indicated that the drug prednisone is "purified cortisone." This is not strictly true. Prednisone has 26 hydrogen molecules in its structure, cortisone has 28, a small but significant difference.

DEAR READER: OK. You and the other pharmacists who wrote me are correct. I termed prednisone "purified cortisone" in the interests of simplicity. I should know better by now than to oversimplify. Prednisone is really a type of cortisone, and I shall refer to it as such in future columns. Thanks to all you sharp eyes who pointed out my error.

Milken seeks to get prison term reduced

NEW YORK (AP) — Michael Milken has hired lawyer Alan Dershowitz for help in getting his prison sentence reduced and in battling a rash of lawsuits.

Dershowitz, a Harvard Law School professor, gained an acquittal for Claus von Bulow, who was accused of trying to kill his socialite wife, and helped win dismissal of some tax evasion charges against hotel queen Leona Helmsley.

Milken was the biggest fish netted in the government's campaign against securities fraud in the 1980s. He helped build the now-collapsed Drexel Burnham Lambert Inc. investment bank into a trading powerhouse for junk bonds.

Earlier this year, Milken began serving a 10-year sentence for six securities-related felonies, most involving Ivan Boesky.

Nearly 350 people died in 1974 when a Turkish Airlines DC-10 crashed shortly after takeoff from Orly Airport in Paris.
