A—No, state law provides that the appointment of a commissioner to fill an unexpired term is the sole responsibility of the county judge.

Smog futures

CHICAGO (AP) — The Chicago Board of Trade has voted to offer utilities the opportunity to buy and sell the right to pollute.

Environmentalists and other supporters of the idea say it could give utilities a financial incentive to reduce emissions of sulfur dioxide, a byproduct of coal-burning that contributes to acid rain.

The Clean Air Act, as amended last year, allows utilities to accumulate credits for keeping emissions below federal limits and to sell excess credits to other utilities whose sulfur dioxide pollution exceeds government standards.

Under a proposal approved Tuesday, the Board of Trade would serve as a marketplace for the pollution credits, spokesman Mark Prout said.

The new futures contracts were to go before the federal Commodities Futures Trading Commission today for approval, he said.

Poison stolen

GROESBECK, Texas (AP) — A bottle of highly potent strychnine was stolen from a rancher's office on the Limestone County Courthouse square, authorities say.

Rancher Bob Fewell told police that the poison bottle had been sitting in a desk unused since the early 1980s when workers on the late J.F. Jackson's ranch battled wild dogs attacking cattle and deer in the area.

Fewell, Jackson's stepson, reported that the bottle contained about 50 cubic centimeters of strychnine.

The burglars apparently knew what they wanted when they broke into the office, Groesbeck Police Sgt. Frank Smith said Tuesday.

"It looked like they did, because they didn't take anything else in there," Smith said. "There was a bunch of power tools and stuff related to cattle ranching, and none of it was taken."

Chief Chuck Walker said officers believe the thief may have plans to kill someone or use the strychnine to manufacture LSD. If used improperly, it could cause the drug to be lethal, he said.

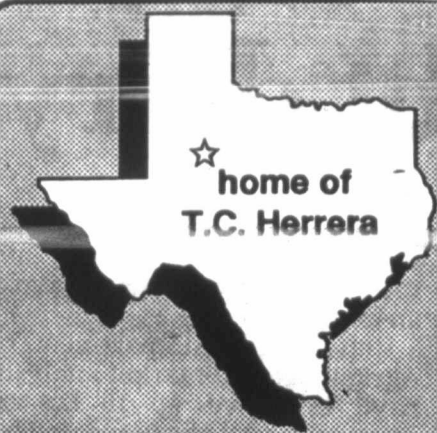

Walker said the burglars apparently entered through a back door which was weak and could have been opened easily.

Anticipates 30,000 more beds...

Bullock: Senate will act on prisons

AUSTIN (AP) — Lt. Gov. Bob Bullock said today the Senate will act quickly on a plan to issue $1.1 billion in bonds to build more prisons to house as many as 30,000 more inmates.

"It's a fact of life, we are not safe in our homes, we're not safe in our place of business, we are not even safe in this Capitol from time to time," Bullock said.

The prison proposal by Sen. Ted Lyon, D-Rockwall, was adopted 11-0 by the Senate Administration Committee, and may be considered by the full Senate on Thursday, Bullock said.

Lyon said that combined with current prison capacity and lockups under construction, the additional 30,000 prison beds would increase capacity to about 95,000 prisoners.

If it clears the Legislature, the constitutional amendment to issue bonds will not take effect unless approved by voters.

Meanwhile, Comptroller John Sharp's plan to reorganize state government was under attack on several fronts as lawmakers started work on a two-year budget in the face of a $4.8 billion shortfall to continue current services.

State agency representatives, higher education officials, and human service advocates, among others, packed legislative committee rooms Tuesday to denounce Sharp's proposed fee increases, agency mergers and cuts.

Jude Filler, executive director of the Texas Alliance for Human Needs, said Sharp's plan to merge 14 human service agencies will fail unless more funds are spent to help the poor and disabled.

Ms. Filler told members of the Senate State Affairs Committee, "The idea, however, that this plan will not cost massive millions of dollars, and, more importantly, will allow us to hold the line on human services spending is not only false, it is pernicious."

Texas ranks at or near the bottom in the nation in almost every social service spending category. In the Senate Finance Committee (see BUDGET, page 8)

Rodeo set to begin...

Stockholder's roping tonight

Scurry County Rodeo Association marks the eve of its annual rodeo with a stockholder's roping at the association grounds this evening.

The roping is scheduled for a 6 p.m. start and is free to the public.

Some of the best that rodeo has to offer will be on display the following three nights — Thursday, Friday and Saturday — at the arena, located on Gary Brewer Rd. west of town.

A parade kicks off the festivities at 4 p.m. Thursday. The first rodeo performance is slated that evening at 8 o'clock. Subsequent performances will be at 8 p.m. Friday and Saturday.

Admission to the rodeo is priced at $5 each for adults at the gate. Advance tickets, available at Bar-H-Bar Western Wear, are $4. Children under 12 get into the rodeo for free.

Cowboys and cowgirls from throughout the area will compete in bullriding, saddle bronc riding, bareback riding, calf roping, team roping, breakaway roping and barrel racing events. The rodeo features $250 added money to each event this year.

Also, wranglers age 5 to 7 may enter the "mutton bustin'" event. Smokey Davis and the Rafter D Rodeo Company will again be the rodeo stock provider.

Dances will begin at 9 p.m. Thursday through Saturday at the pavilion adjacent to the rodeo grounds and will feature Jody Nix and the Texas Cowboys.

Parade entries encouraged

The best kept secret of the 56th annual Scurry County Rodeo could be the $300 in prize money waiting for the winners of the floats in Thursday's parade.

The parade begins at 4 p.m. and officially opens the rodeo, which is scheduled for Thursday, Friday and Saturday evenings at 8 o'clock. Prizes for float entries are $150 for first place, $100 for second place and $50 for third place.

Organizations planning on entering a float need to contact Dorothy Taylor at 573-2816 as soon as possible. There is no entry fee.

Parade organizers are likewise encouraging dealerships, equipment agencies, clubs and other groups or businesses to participate in Thursday's parade. Antique cars, motorcyclists and bicycle riders — in fact, anyone who would like to participate — are also invited.

Lineup for the parade will begin at 3:30 p.m. along Ave. Z, heading north toward 26th St.

Those planning to ride horses are asked to unload on 30th St. just west of El Paso. Members of the rodeo association or Scurry County Sheriff's Posse will lead the horses to the parade from there.

The parade will proceed north to 26th St., go around the square clockwise and head south on College Ave. to 30th St.

The feller on Deep Creek says, "A study shows that 24 cents of each health-care dollar goes for paperwork. It's enough to make you sick."

While the state legislature was trying to equalize restrooms for males and females in public facilities, lawmakers were failing to deal with the real important stuff — romance.

Potty parity failed, but not until after a solid effort to increase the restroom facilities for females. Meanwhile, romance on the farm is being ignored.

Technology is invading the life of Elsie. Agricultural researchers at Washington State University have developed a matchbook-sized electronic device to be implanted in a cow's hide.

Purpose of the device is to keep the farmer informed about the cow's romantic notions. We're sure lawmakers didn't pickup on this important social question because morals are not the issue between consenting cattle.

What is at stake is money. The electronic device will allow the rancher to know which cow might be interested in having a visit from the bull from the adjoining pasture.

The device will tell the rancher the cow's most fertile time, and it is hoped that it will reduce the number of missed calves which also means no milk.

Researchers say a missed chance results in a grass-guzzling liability down on the farm, and such misses are estimated to cost $300 million in lost revenues each year.

We wonder if the device will be sophisticated enough to detect a headache?

We heard about a woman who reported to her husband that she had good news and bad news about the family's new car.

The husband said he wanted to hear the good news first. "Well," she said, "The air bag works."

Escapee returned to Texas

Travis Dale Gray is back in the Texas prison system after his escape from the local Price Daniel Unit last summer, according to Scurry County Chief Deputy Andy Anderson.

Anderson said that local law enforcement officials learned late Tuesday that Gray had been transferred back into the state prison system from a county jail in Florida — where he was being held on weapons charges since his capture June 13.

Working with District Attorney Ernie Armstrong and TDCJ officials to start trial proceedings will be the next step, said Anderson, who worked closely with Texas Ranger John Billings on the Gray escape and eventual apprehension. Gray will stand trial in 132nd District Court for his escape although Anderson noted that Gray would not be incarcerated in the county jail.

"I think they (TDCJ) will put him in a maximum security prison somewhere in the system," said Anderson, who noted that the former Price Daniel Unit inmate would probably only make one or two local court appearances. Anderson also said that Gray would not likely be returned to the Daniel Unit before or after the trial.

Gray was being held on three weapons charges in Pinella County Jail, Fla., stemming from his capture in Largo June 13. His capture came just a week short of the anniversary of his June 20, 1990, escape from the local unit by hiding in a furniture truck.

Gray was convicted by a Big Spring jury in March 1990 for the June 23, 1988, drowning/strangulation of his first wife, Tammy, at Colorado City Lake.

Meanwhile, Comptroller John

ing after no one attended a public hearing on the budget proposal. In addition to the budget, board members heard from CED representatives.

The only change made in the budget was the addition of a fax machine, the money for which will come from another already budgeted expense. The 1992 budget calls for pay increases for the ten district employees, based on the number of years employed. The increases account for an additional $7,519 over last year's budget, bringing the budgeted amount for salaries to $194,617.

The planned purchase of a mapping machine and the addition of a fax machine to the office calls for an additional $10,000 in equipment expense. The total appraisal budget for 1992 was approved at the proposed $397,027. The collection budget is set at (see APPRAISAL, page 8)

Gorbachev aid request ends summit

LONDON (AP) — Soviet President Mikhail Gorbachev made an unprecedented appeal to the heads of the world's leading democracies today for help to save his country from economic collapse. Wrapping up their summit, the leaders of the capitalist world offered him encouragement and technical assistance.

French President Francois Mitterrand said the summit countries agreed that "we must, really must, reach out" to assure that the Soviets accelerate their move away from communism and toward a market economy. But there was no immediate suggestion of any large cash transfer to keep the Soviet economy afloat.

Before sitting down with the Group of Seven leaders, Gorbachev, beaming, stood in the front row between President Bush and British Prime Minister John Major and took his place in the sunshine outside Lancaster House for a "class picture."

Bush and Gorbachev met separately and announced that they had instructed their negotiators to put the final touches on an historic arms treaty. And they agreed to meet in Moscow on July 30 and 31 with the intention of signing it there.

"The negotiators, the delegations in Geneva, have been instructed to do their very best to complete the full treaty text for the presidents to sign in Moscow when they have their summit," said Secretary of State James A. Baker III.

Gorbachev, standing beside a pleased Bush, said his country was "ready to give our hospitality to the president of the United States and to Mrs. Bush."

"We accept with pleasure," Bush said, at the conclusion of their 80-minute session following the wrap-up of the summit of the world's largest industrial democracies — a meeting shadowed by the economic troubles of an old adversary.

Beef producers prepared to fight dairy bailout

LUBBOCK, Texas (AP) — Dairy officials say cattlemen across the country are overreacting to a proposed program designed to bail out depressed dairy prices.

Beef producers have been writing letters to their congressman and making trips to Washington to fight a two-tier pricing program that cattlemen fear would unload hundreds of thousands of dairy cows into the beef market.

Such a move would plunder beef prices, cattle officials say.

The House Agriculture Committee debated the program most of the day Tuesday as beef and dairy producers looked on.

"We are hoping that the two parties can get along," said Lisa Keller, director of communications for the National Milk Producers Federation in Alexandria, Va.

"Dairy farmers are cattlemen too, whether the beef producers want to believe that or not," she said. "We are not trying to sabotage the cattle industry program."

Rep. Tim Johnson, a South Dakota Democrat, has drawn considerable support from dairy-state colleagues for the two-tier program that would allow farmers to get one price for milk produced within their quota and a much lower price for the excess.

Cattlemen fear the dairy farmers would sell off herds into the beef market in order to avoid an excess.

United States Department of Agriculture and market analysts have estimated up to 600,000 dairy cows could be liquidated by dairymen in a three-month period if the two-tier program goes into effect.

Officials of the National Milk Producers Federation, which helped create the dairy program, say the cattlemen are overreacting.

"Our figures show at the most 180,000 cows will be liquidated over three years," Ms. Keller said. "We don't see dairy farmers marketing 600,000 cows overnight. Some farmers are going to sell out, but others will change their feeding patterns to reduce production."

Paul Engler, chief executive officer of Amarillo-based Cactus Feeders Inc., one of the nation's largest cattle feeders, said the program "would be a disaster."

"We would be crying over spilled milk literally," he said.

Registry helps 'chemically sensitive'

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — Ann Mason spent much of the past six weeks camped in parks near her Sarasota home to avoid pesticides her neighbors use on their lawns.

Mrs. Mason, who says exposure to the chemicals causes "horrible flu-like symptoms" and makes her blood pressure rise, is one of 18 people across Florida listed on a new registry for the "chemically sensitive."

Under the law that went into effect in January, Mrs. Mason and the others must be notified by lawn care companies 24 hours before lawns next door are sprayed.

Twenty-three states have similar notification programs for non-farm pesticide use, said Jane Kochersperger, spokeswoman for the National Coalition Against the Misuse of Pesticides, a non-profit group based in Washington.

The Florida law requires the companies to try to contact individuals by telephone, by letter or in person. Violators risk fines up to $250.

A listing on the registry costs $50, plus $10 annually. People must offer proof of sensitivity from an allergist, toxicologist or occupational health specialist.

Mrs. Mason, 57, who pushed for the law for three years, calls it a "wonderful first step."

Critics say it is too limited because it applies neither to homeowners who spray their own pesticides nor to agricultural uses or spraying on golf courses.

"In my opinion it's a very unfair law right now," said John Mulrennan, chief of entomology services for the state Department of Health and Rehabilitative Services. "Just about anything that is used on lawns with few exceptions a homeowner could buy at Kmart."

The law also allows registered individuals to negotiate with lawn companies to alert them when they live farther from a lawn being sprayed than next door.

"It's getting to be a real headache," said Mulrennan, who has 10 inspectors. "Nobody can reach an agreement on how far is far enough."

Complications may also arise when people tell lawn companies they can't leave their homes when spraying is planned and seek postponements, Mulrennan said.

The pest control industry, which does about $500 million worth of business in the state a year, has no objection to the registry, said Gary Cole Jr., past president of the 1,200-member Florida Pest Control Association.

But Cole said that pesticides are "less toxic that a lot of things under the kitchen sink."

House agriculture committee approves dairy price boosts

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Agriculture Committee is torn by regional divisions that could cripple its plan to raise dairy prices and curb milk production.

The committee ignored an administration veto threat and approved by voice vote Tuesday a 25 percent increase in dairy price supports and production quotas on dairy farmers.

Republicans and California Democrats on the panel argued that the bill has no chance of becoming law, and ranchers fear the dairy program would drive down beef prices.

"We've got to reach out to people on the other side," said Rep. Tim Penny, D-Minn. When nearly half the committee objects to at least part of the bill other lawmakers will be reluctant to support it, he said.

Rep. Leon Panetta, D-Calif., said it has "very little chance of passing the House and no chance of passing the Senate."

The panel only narrowly rejected an alternative plan with a smaller price increase and no production quotas that supporters said had a better chance of getting signed by President Bush.

The bill that passed would raise the minimum dairy price from $10.10 per 100 pounds to $12.60 and assign production quotas to farmers to limit milk surpluses. The government props up dairy prices by buying excess production.

The higher price support could mean an extra $18,000 a year to the average Midwest farmer. The Agriculture Department estimates retail milk prices would rise 10 percent a year.

"We have a major crisis in the dairy industry today as a result of current policy," said Rep. Charles Stenholm, D-Texas.

Milk prices have dropped to their lowest point since 1978 this year. However, the administration claims that the production quotas would hurt U.S. exports, keep young farmers from getting into the business and lower beef prices by encouraging dairy producers to slaughter cattle.

The administration also says that the government will have to spend more on food stamps and other nutrition programs to offset the higher milk prices.

The committee voted 23-21 to reject the alternative bill backed by Republicans and California Democrats that would have raised the price support to $11.60 and controlled surpluses by paying farmers to take cows out of production.

DEAR DR. GOTT: Do fish, crabs, shrimp, etc. become infected with giardia and thus become part of the life cycle? Does giardia survive meat processing, or does one only acquire it from fresh water when contaminated? In New Orleans we are addressing urban runoff, and your past information seems a persuasive argument for pet owners to place their pet's fecal matter in sewage systems rather than allowing it in drainage systems or landfills.

DEAR READER: Giardia lamblia are tiny parasites that are shed in the feces of infected animals, most of which are wild. The parasites infect humans when contaminated water or food are ingested.

Giardiasis in humans may cause diarrhea, flatulence, abdominal cramps, nausea and weight loss; symptoms are often minimal or absent in mild infections.

Giardiasis is diagnosed by stool analysis. Flagyl (metronidazole) is the usual treatment.

Giardia parasites are not found in fish or shellfish because the microorganisms require a warm-blooded host. They are killed by heating, cooking or processing. Therefore, the usual method of transmission is by drinking untreated fresh water.

Giardiasis exists worldwide. In this country, beavers are a major source of the infection, hence the sobriquet "beaver fever" for the disease. Domestic pets can also contract the infection.

Pet owners in urban/suburban communities should clean up their animals' excrement. This is more a matter of etiquette and consideration than of public health. Wild animals constitute a more serious threat to drinking water. In fact, in my rural community, use of the reservoir has been discontinued because giardia (from beavers) were found in the water and could not be eradicated by chlorination.

I do not believe that strict attention to pet animal waste is a telling argument for controlling groundwater contamination in most cities. There are other environmental reasons for addressing this issue; the lowly giardia are not one.

DEAR DR. GOTT: My feet burn if I am walking on them, and at night I get Charlie horses. I've had all kinds of tests from family doctors and a neurologist, but all I get is a prescription for pain — no opinion or help. What's the story?

DEAR READER: Your symptoms of burning feet and nocturnal leg cramps suggest a circulatory disturbance. When deprived of nutrients and oxygen, nerves will often cause burning and numbness. Similarly, muscles will often contract and cramp in the absence of adequate blood flow.

Because your doctors are scratching their heads, I suggest you request a referral to a vascular specialist who will test your circulation to determine if there is a blockage (that can be repaired or removed) or a general narrowing of the small arteries in your lower extremities. Such a narrowing may not, for technical reasons, be helped by surgery. Medicine, however, may be helpful in treating this condition. In either case, the specialist can advise you.

To give you more information, I am sending you a free copy of my Health Report "Medical Specialists." Other readers who would like a copy should send $1.25 plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to P.O. Box 91369, Cleveland, OH 44101-3369. Be sure to mention the title.

Wholesale food firm admits to bid rigging

HOUSTON (AP) — A subsidiary of the nation's largest wholesale food supplier has admitted that it conspired to rig bids on contracts with more than 20 school districts in Southeast Texas.

Sysco Food Services Inc., the local unit of Houston-based Sysco Corp., will plead guilty to one felony violation of federal antitrust law for conspiring "to suppress and eliminate competition" for contracts with districts in 10 counties, officials said.

Federal prosecutors announced Tuesday that a one-count criminal information charging Sysco. Unlike an indictment returned by a grand jury, an information is filed by government prosecutors after negotiations with the defendant.

The company faces a fine of up to $1 million or twice the total of the losses connected to the conspiracy, whichever is greater. Neither Sysco officials nor federal prosecutors would comment on that amount, the Houston Chronicle reported today. No sentencing date has been set.

E. James Lowrey, Sysco executive vice president, said in a prepared statement the company has paid restitution to 16 districts and is negotiating settlements with several others. But he declined to specify which districts or how much they were paid.

Will you find the right play?

By Phillip Alder

To the casual observer, this deal from Bill Root's "How to Play a Bridge Hand" looks easy — but it isn't. However, if you think of the right play, you will realize you have found the solution. And if you don't think of it, how can you possibly make the contract? How would you, South, play to bring home your six-heart contract against the lead of the diamond king?

This is a difficult slam to bid, North-South having minimum high-card values and a perfect fit. In the given auction, South's use of Blackwood appears aggressive, but he has a hand stronger than his point-count suggests. He has controls in both minor suits and extra trump length. Opposite a strong jump shift with a heart fit, he should have a play for slam.

You have two club losers; you must discard one of them on a spade winner. But it isn't easy to establish a long spade if the suit is breaking 4-2, since the diamond lead has removed a vital dummy entry.

The right play is to draw trumps with the heart ace and queen, and then to duck a spade.

The opponents probably will try to cash a diamond trick, but you ruff, play a spade to dummy's king, cash the spade ace, discarding a club, and ruff a spade. You cross to dummy with a trump to the king and then discard your last club loser on the spade seven.

This is an unusual application of the principle that if the opponents must get a trick in a suit, you should give it to them as quickly as possible.

Texans don't want vehicle inspections to be centralized

WASHINGTON (AP) — Texas service station owners fear a substantial loss of revenue and long lines for motorists if the government centralizes vehicle emissions testing in cities with the most severe air pollution.

At issue are regulations the Environmental Protection Agency must write to enforce last year's revisions to the Clean Air Act, including enhanced vehicle emissions inspections in El Paso and Houston.

The EPA has proposed four options for enforcing the law, including two that are so stringent they would require expensive equipment that only centralized inspection centers could likely afford to do the emissions testing, an agency official said.

Texas lawmakers, however, are fighting any hint of a centralized inspections.

Sen. Phil Gramm calls a centralized inspection system a "bureaucratic nightmare" and says it is "rigid, unnecessarily costly and remarkably inefficient."

The EPA official, speaking on background, said that under the law, the emissions testing program is supposed to be centralized unless the state can show a decentralized program is as effective.

In Texas, an estimated 3,000 service stations and garages provide vehicle emissions tests along with annual safety inspections. The inspections provide millions of dollars in revenues to station operators statewide, said Rep. Ron Coleman, D-El Paso.

"The small business community, Texas citizens and the Texas economy all benefit from the decentralized arrangement," Coleman said in a recent letter to EPA Administrator William K. Reilly.

Coleman said he would oppose centralized inspections because Texans "would be deprived of an inspection program that is accessible and convenient."

He also wants the EPA to consider the trans-border pollution problems of El Paso and Ciudad Juarez, where residents burn shredded tires, wood and kerosene to heat their homes, and there are no enforced vehicle emissions controls.

Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, D-Texas, said the EPA must take into account "the size and diversity of Texas as it considers new inspection guidelines."

The EPA official, however, said no decision has been made on the issue, but that studies show centralized stations are more efficient in detecting emissions that pollute the air than local gas stations.

"Some corner gas stations don't know how to operate the equipment properly — the analysis shows they don't know how to do it, or they don't know how to maintain the equipment so it's never calibrated. They don't do quality testing, or there's out-and-out cheating," said the official.

"They'll pass a car even though they know they shouldn't, to please a customer — they want to keep the customer coming back for gasoline, tuneups, tires, batteries," the official said.

Coleman and Gramm, however, say they don't buy EPA claims of fraud in a decentralized program, and believe Texas stations could meet the new requirements.

Prize-winning author in hospital

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Pulitzer Prize-winning author William Kennedy was hospitalized over the weekend for internal bleeding after minor surgery for an unspecified gastrointestinal problem.

"Mr. Kennedy is in excellent shape and he's anxious to return to work," Joseph Pofit, a spokesman for St. Peter's Hospital, said Tuesday.

The 63-year-old Albany native was expected to leave the hospital today, he said.

Snyder LL All-Stars capture Area crown

DEFENSE — Second sacker David Smith tries a one-handed grab of a grounder in Tuesday night's Area II championship playoff game against Colorado City. Snyder took a 9-6 victory in Rotan and earned the right to face Clyde at 7 p.m. Friday in Merkel. The winner of that game will face either Abilene Dixie or Albany. (SDN Staff Photo)

ROTAN — Toby Delce's one-out triple in the bottom of the fifth inning broke open a deadlocked ballgame here Tuesday and helped lift Snyder's All-Stars to a 9-6 win over Colorado City in the championship game of the Area II Little League Tournament.

The game had been tied 6-6 since the top of the fourth inning before Delce slapped a pitch off reliever Bear Cooper to deep centerfield, scoring Ramsey Castillo and Jeremiah Johnson. Delce scored moments later on a sacrifice shot from Tommy Fields to give the game its final tally.

Snyder had to survive a scare in the top of the sixth when pitcher Patrick Jordan walked Cooper and John Erwin to put the potential tying run at the plate with one out. Snyder first-sacker Patrick Cumbie snagged a sharply hit line drive by Joe Jameson for the second out, however, and Jordan made Cole Watson his 10th strikeout victim to close the show.

The victory sends Snyder to Merkel at 7:30 p.m. Friday for a shootout with Clyde. The winner will advance to play either Abilene Dixie or Albany next week.

Tuesday's ballgame was the third in five days between Snyder and Colorado City. Snyder ripped the opponent last Thursday, 15-0, but Colorado City came back Monday night for a 4-3 upset to force a final, winner-take-all, contest.

On Tuesday, Colorado City scored four runs in the second inning on a couple of hits, two walks and three Snyder errors. The key hit was a single from Heath Ince which which was overruled in the outfield, allowing two runs to score.

Snyder got one run back in the bottom of the inning when Cumbie led off with his fourth home run of the tournament.

After quelling Colorado City in the top of the third, Snyder took the lead. Fields and David Smith were hit by pitches from starting pitcher Kyle Moore, and Chris Ramirez reached on an error to load the bases. Jordan then punched a two-RBI single, putting Snyder within a run, 4-3. Cumbie reached on an error, and Ramsey Castillo gave Snyder the lead, 5-4, when he cranked a double to right field. Cumbie later scored on a grounder from Johnson to give Snyder a 6-4 advantage.

Colorado City tied the game in the fourth. Jordan got Doug Payne to strike out, but loaded the bases with walks to Casey Hill and John Erwin, and a single to Moore. Next-up Cooper hit a pitch that slied past the Snyder infield and scored two runs to lock the game at 6-6.

The game stayed tied until the bottom of the fifth when Castillo greeted relief pitcher Cooper with a lead-off single. Cooper managed to strike out Scott Sanders, but Johnson also singled, setting up Delce's key triple.

Snyder had seven hits, two walks and four strikeouts in the contest. Colorado City was credited with three hits, seven walks and 10 strikeouts.

Jordan went the distance to take the win. Cooper got the loss in relief of Moore.

3 Snyder squads place second in national tourney

SAN ANGELO — Three Snyder teams captured the runnerup trophy in the U.S. Girls Softball Association national tournament that concluded here Tuesday.

Snyder teams in Division I, Division II and Division IV had advanced to the championship game. Snyder's Division I team bowed to Big Spring 17-5. The Snyder squad had lost to the same Big Spring team 15-8 Monday afternoon after having won five consecutive tournament games.

Named to the Division I all-tournament team were Courtney Rinehart, Cristina Dunham and Leslie Garcia.

During the tournament, the Division I squad had defeated Brownwood 12-4, Fort Stockton 16-5, Andrews 15-9, San Angelo 17-17 and Sweetwater by 15-1.

In Division II, Snyder was blanked by Big Spring, 7-0, in the championship tilt. Named to the all-tournament team were Sam Trevino and Amanda Huff.

Snyder's Division II lost only two games enroute to the finals. Snyder opened with a 15-6 victory over San Angelo Pink and then bowed to Sweetwater, 14-11. Snyder roared back with a 14-3 triumph over Brownwood before bowing, 25-12, to Andrews. Snyder then tripped Big Spring, 10-4, and then upended San Angelo Blue, 13-1.

In Division III, Snyder was eliminated from tournament play on Monday afternoon. Snyder's Jacalyn Morris landed a spot on the all-tournament team.

In Division IV, Snyder was defeated in the championship bout, 17-0, by host San Angelo. Chosen for all-tournament honors were April Blair, Amy Ramirez, Angela Good and Dessie Ware.

Snyder's Division IV raced through the tournament undefeated to make the finals. Snyder opened with a 19-5 spanking of Big Spring and then dumped Andrews, 16-8. The locals followed with a narrow 11-10 victory over Sweetwater. On Monday evening, Snyder ripped San Angelo, 18-3.

Good practice is birthday gift

AUSTIN (AP) — Jimmy Johnson got what he wanted on his birthday.

It was hot enough to bake a cake, it seemed like most of Austin turned out, and his Dallas Cowboys hurled themselves into the steamy practice like the regular season starts tomorrow.

What better way to spend his 48th?

"And I celebrated by going to a staff meeting," Johnson said.

His players, determined not to let the occasion slip by unnoticed, gave the usually immaculately-coiffed Johnson a birthday treat — a bucket of water over the head.

In the Austin heat, the water soon evaporated.

Johnson believes his great collegiate teams at the University of Miami were forged during workouts in 100-degree heat.

Dallas went 7-9 last year in its first Texas training camp although almost daily rain brought the Austin temperatures down to way below normal.

"It was a great first workout," Johnson said. "It was hot and there was a lot of enthusiasm. You didn't see a lot of lollygagging around. Everybody worked. The weather was what I call nice."

Few players knew it was Johnson's birthday as the Cowboys began their first official fall drill at St. Edward's University.

Offensive tackle Nate Newton shouted at Johnson: "Happy birthday, coach. That's all I can give you."

Johnson admitted the opening of practice was the biggest birthday gift of all.

The Cowboys, who drew over 100,000 fans to practices last year in their first season at St. Edward's, were besieged by another large crowd despite the plus 100-degree heat index.

Hawkers sold parking places and cold beverages as shuttle buses dropped off fans at intervals of 10 minutes. The Cowboys estimated 4,000 fans attended.

Rangers rally but 9th-inning homer results in another loss

DETROIT (AP) — Forget the 115 home runs, the 607 strikeouts, the white-haired manager. A better symbol for the Detroit Tigers is Dave Bergman.

He's 38 years old. He sits on the bench most of the time, waiting his turn. When he's called, he's ready.

Bergman, pinch-hitting with the bases loaded in the ninth inning, lofted a sacrifice fly to center field that scored Skeeter Barnes with the winning run Tuesday night as the Tigers beat the Texas Rangers 6-5.

He has only 75 at-bats for the season. Life's like that when you play the same position as Cecil Fielder.

"Bergy is something," said Tony Phillips, who made a crucial play to cut down a Texas run in the top of the ninth. "He's always ready. Our whole club is like that."

"That's our edge, you know, because we don't have a great team. But we're always prepared to play, and we play hard every day."

It was another tough loss for the Rangers who now have dropped five of six games since the All-Star break to fall from first place. The Rangers have lost seven times on the road in the bottom of the ninth or later this season.

"It means that we're a good team," Texas manager Bobby Valentine said. "It takes every inning and all the breaks to beat us. I'm proud of the guys for coming back like they did."

Detroit led 4-0 but Texas took the lead with a run in the sixth and four in the seventh.

"It was a major tribute to these guys the way they battled tonight," Valentine said.

The teams were scheduled to conclude the three-game series at 1:35 p.m. this afternoon. Immediately after Tuesday's game, the Tigers announced they had recalled left-hander Scott Aldred

Kyle Freeman inks pact with Oilers

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Defensive tackle David Rocker of Auburn and cornerback Marcus Robertson of Iowa State have agreed to contract terms with the Houston Oilers but missed the opening day of preseason workouts.

Kyle Freeman, a Snyder native and former Angelo State University State griddler, also signed with the Oilers on Tuesday.

Rookies and first year players went through two workouts Tuesday on the Trinity University campus. Veterans will report Thursday and work out for the first time on Friday.

Oilers general manager Mike Holovak still must sign three draftees and eight veteran players.

The Oilers also signed four free agents: tackle Barry Voorhees, from Barcelona of the WLAF; guard Mike Kiselak, of the WLAF; San Antonio Riders; cornerback John Lewis, Sul Ross and quarterback Mike Norseth, formerly with the Cincinnati Bengals.

Lewis retired shortly after signing.

Backup quarterback Cody Carlson, a holdout last year, and starting cornerback Cris Dishman, linebacker Johnny Meads, defensive end Sean Jones and running back Lorenzo White are among the unsigned veterans.

Wide receiver Haywood Jeffries has agreed to contract terms but has not signed his contract.

Safety Mike Dumas of Indiana, cornerback Darryll Lewis of Arizona and center John Flannery of Syracuse, all chosen in the second round of the 1991 draft, remained unsigned.

from their Toledo farm club. He was to replace Frank Tanana in the rotation against Texas right-hander Jose Guzman (4-4).

Rob Deer tied the score 5-5 in the eighth with a two-out homer. It was the 18th homer for Deer, who had been in an 0-for-18 slump since the All-Star break.

Mickey Tettleton singled off Kevin Brown (7-8) in the ninth and Barnes ran for him. Former Ranger Pete Incaviglia followed with his first major league sacrifice.

"Hey, it's the ninth inning and the game's on the line," Incaviglia said. "When he flashes me the sign, I want to play the game the way it's supposed to be played. I was glad to get down a bunt that helped us win."

After an intentional walk to Lloyd Moseby, Jeff Russell relieved and Travis Fryman loaded the bases when Gary Pettis misplayed his fly to center for an error.

"I made an error. That's all I can say," said Pettis, the former Tiger. "I've caught them before. I'm not making any excuses tonight."

Bergman, batting for Milt Cuyler, lifted a fly ball to Pettis and Barnes trotted home with the winning run.

Garment maker says he's paying off IRA debt

EL PASO, Texas (AP) — A garment maker who has been the target of labor strikes for nearly three months Tuesday admitted owing money to the IRS but said he is paying off his debt.

Andre Diaz owes more than $450,000 in federal and state taxes and penalties, according to tax liens filed in county court.

Diaz said in a statement Tuesday he is paying off the $200,000 in federal taxes owed by Apparel Conditioners Corp., a commercial laundry he owns. He did not release the balance of the debt and was not in his office when called for comment.

The IRS also filed a claim saying Diaz owed another $255,711 in civil penalties. The Texas Employment Commission has filed three liens for the remainder against Diaz and Apparel Conditioners. Diaz did not address those liens.

The International Ladies Garment Workers Union said the unpaid taxes showed a pattern of disregard for state, local and federal regulations by Diaz.

But Diaz denied the charge. "This is a large union that is trying to force my small company to recognize them even though a majority of our employees don't want to be represented by the union. In order to force us to take the union, they have picketed our customers," Diaz said.

"What is obvious about this activity is that it is a clear case of the union going after the little guy."

The ILGWU, which joined a year-old fight by local garment workers for unpaid wages and better working conditions, picketed a Judy's store and has called for boycotts of other retailers that carry Diaz's Maximum Energy label.

Diaz said that the National Labor Relations Board found the boycotts and picketing to be illegal. But William Pate, NLRB deputy regional director in Los Angeles, said that was untrue.

"We have issued a complaint, but it's not correct to say that the board has found the union to be doing something illegal," Pate said.

'Terminator 2' star now center of custody battle

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Edward Furlong, the 13-year-old who shot to stardom in "Terminator 2: Judgment Day," is at the center of a custody fight between his mother and her sister and brother.

The boy went to live with his aunt and uncle 13 months ago, after his mother left his stepfather. That was shortly before he was signed to do the film with Arnold Schwarzenegger.

Marc Berry, lawyer for the aunt and uncle, said the boy's mother, Eleanor Torres, is only interested in her son now that he's a film star.

But the attorney for Ms. Torres, who serves on the Pasadena City Commission for Children and Youth, said the woman wanted her son back before then.

Edward, discovered by a casting director at a Boys' Club, has won praise for his film performance as a juvenile delinquent. He earned about $30,000 for the blockbuster, said Phillip Myer, Mrs. Torres' lawyer.

Pentagon analyzing photo that families say shows 3 POWs

WASHINGTON (AP) — Government analysts are studying a mysterious photo that according to relatives shows three American pilots who never returned after they were shot down over Southeast Asia during the Vietnam War.

"In coordination with the State Department, we are undertaking urgent activities to follow up on this report," Defense Department spokesman Gregg Hartung said Tuesday.

The grainy, poorly resolved picture shows three men holding a sign with a strange message. Some of the numbers on the sign are formed in a style that seems distinctly European. And just where the picture came from is unclear.

John Isaf of the American Defense Institute, a private organization based in Alexandria, Va., said retired Navy Capt. Eugene McDaniel, who heads the institute, received the picture last November.

McDaniel declined to reveal just where he got it, saying only that it came from "sources over there," according to Isaf.

McDaniel, 59, was shot down over North Vietnam and repatriated in 1973 after six years in a prisoner of war camp. A decade later he founded the American Defense Institute and the American Defense Foundation to promote a strong defense policy.

Isaf said McDaniel was able to identify the three men in the photo by circulating it at a recent meeting of the National Alliance of Families, an organization of relatives of those listed as missing in Southeast Asia.

Hartung said the picture was delivered to Assistant Defense Secretary Carl Ford at a meeting with the three families on July 12. He said the families "firmly believe" the photograph "depicts their missing family members."

"I can tell you that the photo is currently being analyzed by the full range of technical means available to the department through a number of different government agencies," the Pentagon spokesman said. He said the government was making "urgent efforts" to determine the validity of the report.

Hartung stopped short of saying the photograph looks authentic. "I wouldn't go that far," he said. "The experts are looking at it and certainly I'm not an expert on this."

The American Defense Institute said the families, whose names and addresses it declined to provide, identified those in the picture as:

—Air Force Col. John Leighton Robertson of Seattle, shot down Sept. 16, 1966, over North Vietnam. Listed as missing in action, he would be 60 years old if alive.

—Air Force Maj. Albro Lynn Lundy Jr. of Sherman Oaks, Calif., shot down Sept. 16, 1966, over Laos. Listed as killed, he would be 58 if alive.

—Navy Lt. Larry James Stevens of Canoga Park, Calif., shot down Feb. 14, 1969, over Laos. Listed as missing in action, he would be 50 if alive.

In the photo, the men appear to be holding up a sign saying: "Photo LD-25-5-90," which McDaniel interpreted to mean May 25, 1990.

The sign also contains the letters: "NNTK! K.B.E. 19." Isaf said McDaniel speculated that these markings could contain some clue to the location of the three men.

START issues resolved...

Superpower summit set for late July

LONDON (AP) — President Bush and Soviet President Mikhail S. Gorbachev today announced agreement on a historic treaty to reduce their arsenals of strategic nuclear missiles and said they would hold a superpower summit in Moscow at the end of the month.

The so-called START agreement would slash long-range nuclear weapons by about 30 percent and be the first agreement in history to reduce the number of the atomic-era intercontinental missiles, bombers and submarines.

"We have moved far away from the threat of nuclear war. It is our common victory," Gorbachev said at a cordial news conference that concluded his luncheon with Bush at the U.S. ambassador's residence here.

The summit is tentatively set for July 30 and 31, an administration official said.

The accord was announced just before Gorbachev made a plea for economic assistance to Bush and the leaders of Britain, France, Germany, Italy, Canada and Japan.

By announcing the agreement in advance, Bush and Gorbachev made sure that the Soviet leader would not go home without some dramatic news, even if he didn't get a massive package of aid.

The product of more than nine years of negotiations, START has been hanging in the balance since Secretary of State James A. Baker and Soviet Foreign Minister Alexander Bessmertnykh held four days of intense negotiations in Washington, ending Sunday with one last area of disagreement.

Bessmertnykh asked to meet Baker today in advance of Bush's luncheon with Gorbachev and brought "some new positions," the administration official said.

After a 15-minute session, Baker took the proposal to Bush, and the deal was set.

"Before you withdraw the invitation, we accept with pleasure," Bush told Gorbachev in their televised interchange through interpreters.

Bush said the summit would last two or three days and that the leaders hoped to sign the arms treaty that has been in negotiation for nearly ten years. "There was compromise on all sides," said Bush.

Overall, the treaty would limit the United States to 10,400 nuclear warheads.

Lawmakers also should give governors the power to hire and fire department heads to help make agencies more responsive to average citizens, Richards said.

Agency consolidation was a key recommendation of Comptroller John Sharp after a 4½-month audit of all state spending.

Sharp's merger proposals, along with spending cuts and fee increases, would help bridge about $4 billion of the projected $4.8 billion deficit facing lawmakers.

Richards has endorsed Sharp's merger ideas and called for a cabinet-style government where department heads answer to the governor.

"Executive directors must know that they have to answer to the person who can hire them and who can fire them," she said.

Under the current system, most agency directors answer to independent boards where appointees serve for six years and overlap different governors' terms. Richards said the boards should remain as advisory groups but day-to-day oversight belongs with the governor.

Sen. Glasgow says...

Now or never for bureaucratic reform

AUSTIN (AP) — If the Legislature fails to overhaul the state bureaucracy now, a key senator says it could be decades before lawmakers get the chance again.

"There is a narrow window, and there is a time here to properly do something to reform state government," said Sen. Bob Glasgow, chairman of the Senate State Affairs Committee.

Endorsing Gov. Ann Richards' push to merge more than 50 of the 250 state agencies, Glasgow noted that some departments have been around for nearly 100 years.

"If we miss this window, which opportunity, it may be another 50 or 100 years before we get back to it," he said Tuesday.

The Legislature opened a 30-day special session Monday to write and fund a 1992-93 state budget.

Richards launched a full-court legislative press Tuesday, testifying before Glasgow's committee to call on lawmakers to seize the moment and pass a series of budget-cutting, agency-merging proposals.

"For years, Texas taxpayers have been feeding a sprawling, flabby monster," she said.

"Almost anywhere you look in state government, you are going to find agencies that are ripe for consolidation and reorganization and some even (for) elimination," she said.

Lawmakers also should give governors the power to hire and fire department heads to help make agencies more responsive to average citizens, Richards said.

tee, a parade of higher education officials predicted teacher layoffs and program cuts, and also opposed Sharp's proposal to double tuition.

Gov. Ann Richards and Sharp have said higher education would actually get more money under the proposals, and have chided college officials, saying they have used inaccurate figures to back their dire claims.

Despite this, higher education, one of the most powerful special interest lobbies, seemed to be getting its point across.

Sen. John Montford, D-Lubbock, chairman of the Finance Committee, said, "Higher education is probably one of the main things going for us right now, so I am fairly reluctant from my vantage point to do a major scale back."

Sen. Gonzalo Barrientos, D-Austin, whose district includes the University of Texas at Austin, said he would fight efforts to double tuition, and opposes a proposal by the Texas Higher Education Coordinating Board to increase tuition by 60 percent.

Montford filed a proposed budget that would consolidate dozens of agencies, but its funding depends on passage of a lottery and revision of the business franchise tax. Even then, it falls $1 billion short.

The $58.2 billion two-year budget "funds essential items," Montford said, but declined to say how lawmakers would make up the extra $1 billion to balance the measure.

Under the proposal, the budgets of most agencies led by statewide elected officials would be reduced by 10 percent.

The proposal also would eliminate funding of the Public Utility Commission and transfer its regulatory functions to the Texas Railroad Commission.

In addition, the plan would consolidate the Texas Education Agency, which supervises public schools, and the Texas Higher Education Coordinating Board, which oversees public colleges and universities.

Dallas woman suspected in Mickey Finn cases

ARLINGTON, Texas (AP) — A Dallas woman suspected of being involved in Mickey Finn robberies in at least nine states has been arrested in connection with a case in which an Arlington man was robbed of his Rolex watch, four autographed baseballs and his automobile, police say.

Yvonne Lerche Culmsee, 23, was arrested last week in Dallas and has been charged in connection with the July 7 Arlington robbery as well as 14 other similar robberies across the nation dating back to October 1988, police said.

The Arlington salesman, 45, said he met the woman in a Dallas restaurant and she agreed to go to his apartment for drinks.

The man, who was not identified by police, told officers that at the apartment, the woman, who called herself Erika Stevens, shared a bottle of wine with him and they went to bed.

Then he blacked out. In addition to the watch, autographed baseballs and car, the woman also took several cameras, the man told police.

"She is probably the most sought after Mickey Finn artist in the Metroplex, if not in the region," Arlington detective Tom Lenoir told the Fort Worth Star-Telegram Tuesday.

The woman, who also has been charged with theft in Bedford, is scheduled for trial on two robbery charges and five theft charges in a Dallas County criminal court Aug. 1. She is suspected in cases in at least nine states.

"She's never admitted to anything. She's not been convicted of anything in any state," Dallas Detective Ron Hale said. "She's innocent until she's proven guilty."

Officers received a tip and arrested the woman last week outside a Dallas pharmacy where police suspected she was buying a prescription sedative.

State crime analyst Sharon Whitman said she has tracked a woman robber matching Culmsee's description across the country since 1988.

An Asian woman, about 5-foot-10 and 130 pounds and always described as intelligent and impeccably dressed, has drugged and robbed men in cities from Miami to San Francisco, Ms. Whitman said. Police believe she wore a variety of wigs and had even more aliases than hairstyles.

Ms. Whitman said police are investigating cases involving as many as 500 female suspects in similar robberies throughout the country, Whitman said.

Suspect charged in abduction, assault

CENTERVILLE, Texas (AP) — Baytown authorities today are considering filing additional charges against a convicted murderer accused of kidnapping and sexually assaulting a college admissions secretary in an attempt to get his grades changed.

Arthur Lee Dunbar, 26, has been charged with aggravated sexual assault and remains jailed in Centerville in lieu of $50,000 bond.

Dunbar is accused of abducting a 52-year-old secretary at knife-point from Lee College in Baytown.

Officials said the woman's abductor drove her to Centerville, attacked her at a deserted shack before she managed to escape about five hours later. The woman walked for two hours before a motorist drove her to a minister's house where she called her family in La Porte.

"They're still investigating the case, but there are more charges pending," Baytown Police Sgt. Martha Treloar said late Tuesday. "It's probably going to be another 24 hours before they (Leon County authorities) finish their investigation."

The woman's abductor apparently nabbed the woman as she went down a hallway and forced her into his car. About a half-hour later, the woman called her office, saying she had become ill and her husband had picked her up. Because she was not married, her co-workers searched her desk and saw that she had left her purse, so they called the police.

"She was sharp (in alerting her co-workers) and I think she's been very levelheaded in managing to escape," said Baytown Police Sgt. Gene Parker.

G-7 summit...

The 'show' belonged to Gorbachev

LONDON (AP) — Like Banquo's ghost in Shakespeare's "Macbeth," Mikhail Gorbachev haunted the G-7 summit: entering late, but always on the minds of a wealthy, successful cast.

President Bush and his colleagues doggedly ranged over familiar terrain — stumbling negotiations on trade liberalization, drugs, global warming, inflation, arms control.

But always the conversation came back to what to do about their Soviet guest, and the embarrassing subject of money.

If anyone wanted to forget, the Soviets made certain they didn't.

On Monday, hours before the summit opened, Gorbachev's adviser Yevgeny Primakov was on BBC radio, warning in an interview that Gorbachev had put his job on the line by coming to London.

"Everything depends on the move from the opposite side," Primakov said, turning up the heat on the West.

On Tuesday, Deputy Prime Minister Vladimir Shcherbakov appeared on Independent Television, saying that $20 billion to $30 billion in aid would be very useful.

Throughout their three-day summit, the leaders of the United States, Canada, Japan, Britain, France, Germany and Italy insisted Gorbachev was not a member of the club, just coming along for a talk after the gathering was over.

"He hasn't been here," observed Canadian Finance Minister Don Mazankowski, fending off the umpteenth question about Gorbachev on Tuesday night.

And then at dinner at Buckingham Palace, the massed bands played "If I Were a Rich Man," and everyone thought of Gorbachev.

The London summit belonged to Gorbachev and his long letter to the seven nations with its promises of economic reform, its mind-numbing terms such as "destatization" and its heavy hints of impending disaster.

"We say we're analyzing the letter," a British official remarked. "But really we're just trying to make it out — the pages aren't even numbered."

But they all got the message.

"What you hear in the corridors and in the lunch meetings, and over dinner, is that everyone is very much aware that the Soviet Union is going through a very difficult period of transition," said Dutch Foreign Minister Hans van den Broek.

"But there's a lot still unclear, and it's even unclear what we can do with maximum effect to support political and economic reform over there," van den Broek added.

His country was invited because it holds the rotating presidency of the European Community.

After seven years, Kremlin finally authorizes payment

WASHINGTON (AP) — San Antonio collections agents say they spent 11 months pestering Soviet officials before finally wrangling payment of a $7,000 fuel bill out of the Kremlin.

"We weren't about to give up. We were determined to make the Soviet Union pay this bill, one way or the other," said Milo Mims, spokesman for Abbott, Abrey & Beck, a commercial collections agency hired by a Texas oil company to collect the bill.

"Our client is very important to us, and this became kind of a project with us," Mims said Tuesday.

The oil company tried for nine months to collect the $7,000 on its own, after an Aeroflot Soviet Airlines jet refueled its tanks at the company's facilities at Anchorage International Airport in October 1989.

But the Texas firm was forced to turn to Abbott, Abrey & Beck when the Soviets stonewalled on paying the bill. The company refused to be identified but confirmed the collection agency's efforts.

After numerous calls to Aeroflot in New York, Mims said the collection agency was told that the Kremlin had to authorize payment.

"That's where we started to get the big runaround. But we couldn't communicate because we don't have anyone who speaks Russian. We had wires going back and forth, between Aeroflot in New York and the Air Ministry in Moscow," Mims said Tuesday.

Aeroflot finally wrote a check in June for the $7,000 out of its operating budget, Mims said.

At the same time, the Bank of the Soviet Union in Moscow wired the funds to the collection agency's bank via international banking channels.

"Aeroflot personnel bowed to our pressure and broke the rules to get us off their backs after their pleas to Moscow had apparently fallen on deaf ears, so we got the check and the international wire transfer at the same time," said Don Lane, general manager of the collections agency.

"Obviously, the left hand didn't know what the right hand was doing and we got paid twice. We returned the check, but I'm proud to say that we are the only collection agency, as far as I know, to ever collect the same bill twice from the Soviet Union," Lane said in a statement Friday announcing payment of the bill.

Hospital offers to set up fund

LAS CRUCES, N.M. (AP) — The parents of an infant kidnapped from Memorial Medical Center have received an offer from the hospital to create a college fund for the baby and his twin brother.

Jerry and Sandra Chavez, parents of kidnapped twin Kevin Chavez, have threatened to sue the hospital. The Chavezes say they suffered emotionally during the two weeks their newborn son was missing.

An attorney for the hospital, James Reeves, said the college fund offer "just seemed like a reasonable way to try to resolve it."

Man Lets Lust in Heart Get Almost Out of Hand

DEAR ABBY: I have a wonderful husband. "George" and I have been married for 16 years. Last summer George was going through a mid-life crisis and began shutting me out and spending most of his time at work.

A young woman — 10 years his junior, married and temporarily separated from her husband — began buying George lunch, complaining that she was unhappy at home, her husband was a poor lover, etc. She started praising my husband and feeding his ego.

Then one day she told him that her car was in the shop and she needed a ride home, so he drove her home and she invited him in "to talk." She asked George to kiss her. He did, and before he knew it, they were in bed. In the middle of the act, George said he realized that he was in the wrong place with the wrong woman, so he got out of bed, took a shower and came home to me. (This was his version.) He confessed, begged for my forgiveness and we prayed together. He said it was the worst sexual experience he ever had — he didn't even complete the act.

George went to confession and told the priest everything. The priest said that technically George did not commit adultery because he did not complete the physical act. Is this true? I want to believe him.

GEORGE'S WIFE

DEAR WIFE: Adultery, in traditional Catholic theology, does not depend on the completion of the physical act. ("... anyone who looks at a woman lustfully has already committed adultery with her in his heart." Matthew 5:28.) George's "mid-life crisis" is a cry for help, and his lapse of faithfulness is a symptom of an ailing marriage. But since he has been a faithful husband for 16 years, you should be less concerned about the biblical definition of adultery, and more concerned about the state of your marriage. You could both benefit from counseling.

Forgive him, unconditionally, and he will remain in the right place with the right woman, and your next 16 years should be even more wonderful than your first.

DEAR ABBY: After reading a couple of articles in your column about funny wedding nights and foldout couches, I'd like to tell you about our honeymoon — more than 45 years ago. After World War II we were married in Connecticut and drove to California with our best man. Three on a honeymoon! We decided on this because my husband, Dick, and his best friend, Walter (their real names), were both still stationed at Hamilton Air Force Base in San Rafael, Calif.

We never had any reservations and rooms were hard to get, so we all slept in the same room every night, and they dragged in a cot for our best man. We got a lot of funny looks, but we knew everything was on the up and up, so we just laughed.

Poor Walter sat through a lot of lousy double features in an effort to give the newlyweds some time alone together.

To this day, we still laugh about our off-the-wall honeymoon.

ANN SNOW, NAPERVILLE, ILL.

DEAR ABBY: The letter from the woman who was upset because her husband's friend didn't know how to use a fork properly reminded me of the following: Anton Chekhov, the great Russian writer, once said: "A well-mannered person is not one who knows which fork to use first, but one who doesn't notice when others use the wrong one."
