Ferrell Coston, program Ferrell Coston, program chairman, introduced Dr. Langston. Although the principles of optometry were known and being studied in antiquity, and were mentioned by Plato in his writings in 400 B. C., it was not until around the 17th century that the public began to benefit from the science. "Spectacle peddlers" first flourished in Europe, and later became common in America before the fitting of optical glasses developed as a prac-tice, he related. He brought out the interesting fact that Benjamin Franklin was the originator of bifocal lens in spectacles.

At the conclusion of his talk Dr. Langston gave some interesting and complimentary comments on Haskell. He told that one of the reasons he selected Haskell for a location was the attractive and modern appearance of the business section noted when he first visited here.

"Indomitable to Conquer"

Tyrants invariably come to a violent end. Being tyrants, they lack respect for the individual, and the capacity to judge the latent energies of free nations. Perhaps, the greatest danger of war lies in this one weakness of the dictator.

The Joplin, Missouri, Globe recently addressed a timely message editorially to Mr. Khrushchev:

"You wouldn't understand such things, but the full force of America's patriotism is within her breast, it permeates the soul. It may be latent, but it is all-powerful. It would be the greatest tragedy in all world history for you to mistake human fears of the Royal Air Force, was a nuclear war for a lack of courage and faith to fight and sacrifice for a priceless freedom which you and your people do not under-

"If you doubt this, let's go back to Pearl Harbor day, December 7, 1941, when America was caught napping ...

"Almost overnight, Americans were outproducing both Hitler and the Japanese warlords. They went from a few thousand warplanes to 300,000, from 464 outmoded tanks to 90,000 modern ones, from a trickle of shipping production to a peak of 24 million tons in 1943. They mobilized the greatest mechanized military machine in all history

'In addition, they picked your punch-drunk nation up off the floor and revived it to help turn back Hitler's legions. And American science gave the world nuclear power that ended the war, the secrets of which your country didn't have the ingenuity to fathom, but instead stole from us. This kind of a powerful America still lives today . . . It may be vulnerable to attack, but it remains indomitable to conquer.

Will Socialism Become Bad Politics?

As 1961 ended, the Edison Electric Institute, spokesman for the investor-owned utility industry, issued a report on what happened during the year.

New records were achieved in power production, capability and sales, despite the business recession that characterized the early months of 1961. During the year, too, the utilities announced plans for an $8-billion, 10-year program to strengthen and to expand their nationwide network of transmission lines.

A major current development is the complete interconnection of the nation's power systems. By 1970, it is expected, all the principal power systems will be capable of operating on ar

Of no small moment, during the past year the United States stretched its lead over the Soviet Union in power-producing capability. At year's end our capability was 130.1 million kilowatts whereas Russia's was 74.5 million.

Also, at year's end, the utilities' investment in plant and equipment had reached the huge total of $49 billion, of which $3.48 billion was spent during 1961. And these utility companies ranked, and continue to rank, first among all the nation's industries in total taxes paid to local, state, and federal governments. The 1961 tax bill was about $2,42 billion. Putting it another way, about 24 cents out of each dollar an electric utility took in from its customers went for taxes. By way of sharp contrast, government-owned and government - financed power operations paid only about three cents out of the revenue dollar in taxes. So much for a few facts which underline the remarkable and accelerated progress these investor-owned, publicly-regulated heavily-taxed utilities are demonstrating. Who can say, in truth or in logic, that this country has any need for socialized, taxsubsidized tax-evading power? The day may be near when advocating costly and needless federal power projects will prove to be just plain bad politics.

Last week's near - zero weather brought the most ice this section has seen in many years, with ponds and tanks frozen over for a thickness of several inches.

In the post office getting his mail on one of the coldest mornings, Clay Smith remarked that he had to break ice two and three inches thick on one of his tanks so cattle could or the chicken incubator in the have water.

Ross Hemphill recalled that he had seen ice six inches thick on the old Hemphill Lake, now the golf course lake, and that he'd seen it thick enough for skating on numerous occasions. We recall having seen the lake ice thick enough to sup-port a Model-T Ford sometime around the early 20's or before, and almost every winter there were always periods when ice skating could be enjoyed.

Luckily, Haskell was fortunate in escaping any tragedles of the nature which took the lives of three Abilene children recently when the ice on which they were skating broke through.

These rural peddlers were shrewd characters and sharp at bargaining.

In many rural households, very little money was kept on hand in those days.

The peddler, to make a sale, would take in payment eggs, butter, or poultry. He'd always haggle for the lowest price possible to the point that he would almost "steal" the farm produce.

The peddler always had ample coops for poultry tied on the back of his car and on the running boards, and after a good day's run his vehicle would resemble a traveling poultry house as he headed for the nearest produce center.

During the years when the country was reviving from the Depression of the 30's, there was something of a renewal of rural selling and buying by independent buyers.

One man would specialize in buying butter and eggs, another poultry, etc. They'd establish regular routes and soon worked up a list of steady patrons, or suppliers who would hold their produce and sell only to them. As a result, these routes proved profitable to both farmer and buyer.

A friend of ours, the late Carl Maples, had a costly experience along this line around 1931 or 1932.

Speaking from the PTA Theme "Homes Create Community Strength," Dr. Cadenhead's subject, as outlined in the year's study was "How Homes Create Community Strength Through Growth in ty Strength Through Growth in Wisdom and Stature."

Talking about the 'Stature' or growth in size and the health of our children, it was pointed out how good food and proper eating habits affect the learning and well-being of growing children. Special note was given to the poor eating habits of teen-agers, and the fact that throughout our nation, medical doctors are finding weaknesses and defects in many teen-agers due to a lack of the basic food needs. Two important reasons for this unbalance are due to the no-breakfast families and the lack of regular meal times together in many

However it was good to see those Christmas and New York r it was good to see those land farmers in the north-bolldays their days tern part of the county who works at the Medical Center at eastern part of the county make 1 3/4 to 2 bales to the acre. They don't have a big crop like that more than once in a lifetime. They had the rain just when they needed it, and just how much they needed, and that was fine.

The community expressed its sympathy to Mr. Dan McRae, Linda and John, in a very real way this past week when about 62 of us went to Roscoe to attend the funeral of Mrs. McRae Thursday afternoon. Mrs. Mc-Rae died after accidentally swallowing some Drano. She had mixed the Drano with a small amount of water in a plastic cup and cleaned the drains in her kitchen sink and lavatory with a toethbrush. Later she went to the kitchen sink to take a pill and there were to take a pill, and there were several plastic cups on the drainboard. She drew water in the one she had mixed the Drano in. She spent a week in the Loraine Hospital before she died of complications caused by the terrible caustic burns in her mouth and throat.

Attending her funeral were Mr. and Mrs. Randy Ballard, Frank Pustejovsky, Helen and Evelyn, Willie Medford, Allen Isbell, Morris Haynes, E. E. Schaake, Eric Bergstrom and Lov. Lynn Cartion and Carolyn Joy, Lynn Carlton and Carolyn, Doc Raughton, R. A. Overton, L. L. Jeff Smith is a patient in the Stamford hospital with oneumonia. Carolyn Livengood was dismissed from the Stamford hospital Friday. She spent six days in the hospital following side injury she received in the Weinert basketball game. She will be unable to play ball for two weeks. Supt. Pat Morrison and school board members, Gene Overton, Paul Fischer, Ira Coleman and Roy Medford, vere in Austin from Wednesday to Friday last week attending the annual meeting of school administrators. The senior class sponsored a demino tournament Saturday night and made about $60. Winners of the sets of dominoes given for first place were Pat Morrison and Paul Fischer. Second place winners of domino markers were County Judge Jim Alvis and Otis Mathews. Mr. and Mrs. Joe Decker of last Tuesday. They came home during the snow storm over the frozen highways.

Little Jean Ann Raughton of

Highland is spending this week with her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Roy A. Overton. Mrs. Clarence Raughton has spent the last two weeks in Roscoe and Highland visiting her sons, Rudy and James and president; Wallace Dudensing, their families, and she stayed vice-president; Marshall Nauher sons, Rudy and James and at the hospital with Mrs. Mc-

Rae while she was there. Mr. and Mrs. Henry Thane had as guests during the holi-days their son, Eldon, his wife and two sons from Quanah where Eldon is a highway patrolman, and their daughter and her family from Jacksboro, Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Nichol-

Firemen Get Call | Local Men With In Sub-Freezing Temperatures

Firemen were called out in sub-freezing weather Wednesday night to subdue a stubborn blaze in a one and one-half story frame residence in the 1400 block on North Avenue

Streams of water used on the fire quickly froze when water struck parts of the building not on fire, and also coated hats and bunker coats of firemen with ice. Several firemen suffered near frostbite on hands and fingers. One volunteer accustomed to going bareheaded, rushed to the fire minus a helmet and returned to the station with ice matted in his heavy shock of hair. F'remen brought the blaze under control, but not before the structure had been heavily damaged.

The house belonged to Dovie Cain and was occupied by a family of Latin - Americans, firemen learned.

Massey-Ferguson Co. Massey-Ferguson dealer in Haskell, has returned from Palm Springs, Calif., where he field operated a multi-million dollar array of new farm and industrial equipment for 1962 U.S. introduction by Massey-Ferguson. More than 2,000 M-F dealers participated. Topping the list of more than 50 new and improved products demonstrated by the dealers in the irrigated lands around the desert resort, was the M-F's new "multi-power" transmission. With 12 forward speeds, it needs only a flip of the switch on the tractor dashboard for the operator to automatically boost his machine's on-the-go pull-power by 30 per cent. Dealers were guests of the company at a banquet featuring the Lawrence Welk troupe.
