Consolidates voting boxes...

County sets base pay scale

New county employees will be subject to base salaries as Scurry County commissioners established a pay scale during their 10 a.m. weekly meeting this morning. Also approved were consolidation of voting boxes for the Nov. 4 election, a plan to eliminate some publications in the county law library, line item budget transfers and a cooperative agreement between the county and state.

The new base salaries allow consideration for three percent merit raises. An employee would be eligible for a possible raise on the anniversary of the end of a six month probationary period.

Under the new policy, a clerk will start at $14,560 and hit the top of the pay scale at $16,872.27. Beginning and top salaries for other positions include: chief clerk, $17,560 to $19,362.43; laborer, $14,560 to $17,100.47; assistant coliseum manager, $18,362 to $20,403.08 and parks foreman $17,328.60 to $19,254.

The airport manager's base would be $17,599.97 with the pay ceiling at $19,511.08; maintenance manager, $23,400 to $26,000; librarian, $18,288.97 to $20,254.92; assistant librarian, $16,872 to $18,228.97; library clerk, $14,560 to $16,872.27 and welfare worker, $16,000 to $19,362.43.

Road and bridge laborers will be subject to a base of $16,402.93 and a top salary of $18,225.48. The foreman's scale will be from $18,228.97 to $20,254.42.

Part-time and full-time help will start at $5 an hour with a $6 an hour ceiling for part-time and an $8 ceiling for full-time employees. A pay scale was also adopted for Scurry County sheriff's deputies.

The new pay scale is effective as of today, according to County Judge Bob Doolittle.

County Clerk Frances Billingsley requested the consolidation of voting boxes for the Nov. 4 constitutional amendment election. The election will feature some 13 constitutional amendments, including one which would allow a state lottery.

Commissioners approved the consolidation — which would see 15 voting boxes combined into 4 — after Billingsley said it would save the county approximately $5,000.

She also explained absentee voting would be conducted for (see COUNTY, page 8)

Dispute ends in murder, suicide

A domestic dispute at a backyard apartment erupted in gunfire here Saturday, leaving two local residents dead.

Police have determined the shootings were a murder-suicide.

Dead at the scene was 32-year-old Esperanza (Hope) Gutierrez Aparicio. A second victim, 34-year-old Primitivo Ramos Aparicio, was rushed to Cogdell Memorial Hospital and later transported to University Medical Center in Lubbock where he died at 10:27 a.m. Sunday.

According to neighbors, the victims had previously lived together as man and wife and had been separated at the time of the incident. Police reports indicate that Primitivo Ramos Aparicio apparently shot Hope Aparicio once in the head at close range with a .22 caliber semi-automatic pistol, then turned the gun on himself.

The investigation began at 6:01 p.m. Saturday in response to citizens' reports of a shooting in an apartment behind 2701 Ave. U. Upon their arrival, officers discovered both victims and the pistol.

Primitivo Ramos Aparicio, a resident of the address, was taken to Cogdell Hospital by Snyder EMS. He was later transported by Aero Care to University Medical Center where he was admitted to surgical ICU in extremely critical condition. He died as a result of injuries from a single gunshot wound to the head Sunday morning.

Hope Aparicio, of 4400 Ave. U, No. 4C1, was pronounced dead at the scene at approximately 6:30 p.m. by Justice of the Peace Wanda Rushing.

Neighbors said the couples' three children were waiting for their mother outside when the incident occurred. The children, two girls and one boy, were placed in the care of Child Protective Services and are now being cared for by relatives.

Police said no autopsies will be performed.

Judge dismisses Oliver North case

WASHINGTON (AP) — A federal judge today dismissed the case against Oliver North in the Iran-Contra affair after the special prosecutor said he would give up the effort to reinstate North's convictions.

An exultant North told reporters he was "totally exonerated, completely. I don't have another word for it ... I've had my last hearing forever, I hope."

North hugged his attorney, his family and friends in the courtroom after U.S. District Judge Gerhard A. Gesell granted the prosecutor's request to drop the charges. "This terminates the case," the judge said.

"We felt it was in the interest of justice to move to dismiss these counts," Walsh told reporters afterward.

Walsh's motion, filed in court earlier today, said he had concluded that "the government is not likely, in the unique circumstances here presented, to be able to sustain a successful outcome" in the case.

The prosecutor said he had concluded "that the expenditure of additional prosecutorial, defense and judicial resources in this case is not warranted."

A federal appeals court set aside the convictions, saying prosecutors had to demonstrate in court that North's 1987 testimony to Congress, given under a grant of immunity, wasn't used against him at his criminal trial.

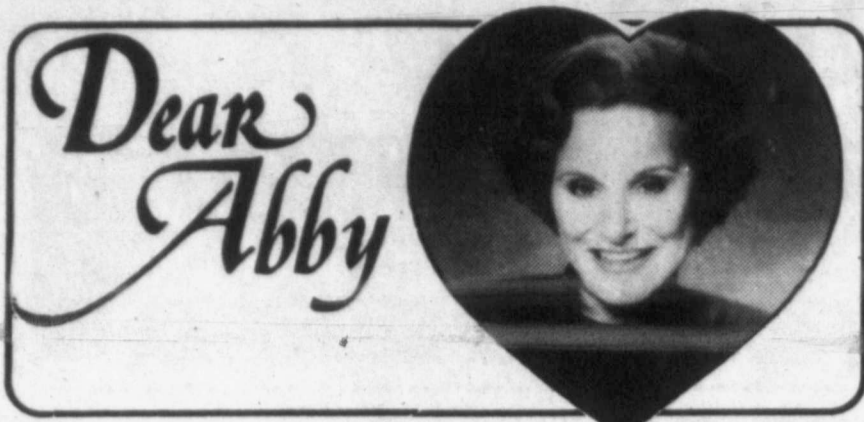

Gesell opened hearings last week in the government's bid to reinstate the convictions.

Former National Security Adviser Robert A. McFarlane stunned prosecutors at the hearing by saying his testimony at North's criminal trial was influenced by North's nationally televised appearances to Congress.

"I urged them (Congress) not to grant immunity," Walsh told reporters today. "This is a very serious warning that immunity is not to be granted lightly."

With Some Husbands, Wives Can't Always Be Lovers Too

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I've been waiting for years to see a letter like the one from "B in Dallas." (She said she faked orgasms.) I'm glad to know I'm not the only woman who does this. Now I'll feel less like a freak. Please print all the letters you get on the subject.

SACRAMENTO FAKER

DEAR ABBY: I could not believe the volume of mail. Read on:

DEAR ABBY: Of course I fake it. All women do. I adore my husband, but he couldn't find my erogenous zone with a road map, so I go through the motions to keep from hurting his masculine ego.

DESERVES AN ACADEMY AWARD

DEAR ABBY: Most men have the rabbit habit: hop on, hop off. Athletes know that in order to perform well they must warm up first, perform, then cool down. The act of making love is no different. If men followed these instructions, women wouldn't have to fake it.

MIDWEST COACH

DEAR ABBY: My darling is 65 and he's still making it. I'm 63 and still faking it. When I read about these men who are still active at 85, I shudder. I don't think I could survive another 20 years of this. Dear God, don't they ever wear out?

LONG ISLAND FAKER

DEAR ABBY: Married for 22 years. Been faking it for 20.

CHATTANOOGA "ACTRESS"

DEAR ABBY: I fake it just to get it over with. Sex never was as important to me as it is to my husband — but it's so good for his ego, I'd never let on that all my wild carrying on was an act. We've been married for 44 years. He's faithful and so am I, and ours is a loving, solid marriage.

CANADIAN FAKER

DEAR ABBY: I am 33 and my husband is 28. He's a wonderful man but a lousy lover. I don't dare get him too excited or it's all over before it's begun. We've been married for six years and we really love each other, so I can live with it.

FAKING IT IN ST. PAUL

DEAR ABBY: My neighbor and I were discussing our inadequate sex lives over coffee one day. She said she often "fakes" orgasms with her husband, then I confessed that I also did with mine.

We decided to massage each other, and found it more satisfying than our husbands' efforts. Our husbands don't know the difference, and we are ...

TWO WIVES HAPPY AT LAST

DEAR ABBY: Your reader thinks most women "fake it." Well, here's one who doesn't have to. Even though my husband is 79 and I'm 75, sex is still fun. We love to have our children visit us for a day or two, but when they leave, I put the red satin sheets on the waterbed, turn on some soft music and don my sexiest nightie. Then, let the fun begin. Believe me, faking isn't necessary.

HAPPY HONEY IN HONOLULU

(More "fakers" tomorrow.)

Everything you'll need to know about planning a wedding can be found in Abby's booklet, "How to Have a Lovely Wedding." To order, send a long, business-size, self-addressed envelope, plus check or money order for $3.95 ($4.50 in Canada) to: Dear Abby, Wedding Booklet, P.O. Box 447, Mount Morris, Ill. 61054. Park ranger entertains visitors

WASHINGTON (AP) — Jennifer Gresham wears the customary uniform of gray shirt and green pants, but she's not your average park ranger.

Instead of directing visitors through the wilds of Yellowstone or the depths of the Grand Canyon, she shepherds White House tourists through lines that seem to wind forever.

And to keep the tourists happy, Gresham, 30, keeps them entertained with church choirs, marching bands, jugglers, dancers, bluegrass singers and even a bagpiper who once guarded London's Buckingham Palace.

She lines up the talent, makes sure the amplifier is plugged in and even has cold water ready for the performer who may wilt in the capital's oppressive summertime heat.

Judge orders BSA to turn over nat'l sexual abuse files

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — The Boy Scouts of America have been ordered to surrender its confidential national records on sexual abuse cases to the attorney for a boy molested by a northern California scoutmaster.

Sacramento County Superior Court Judge Richard Park on Friday denied a request by the national organization, based in Irving, Texas, to keep its sexual abuse records since 1971 confidential.

The judge ordered that the records be turned over by Oct. 10 to attorney Michael Rothschild for use in his civil lawsuit for a boy known as John Doe against Boy Scouts of America and former Galt, Calif. Scoutmaster Allen Trueman.

Trueman pleaded guilty in 1989 to nine counts of lewd and lascivious acts with children and was sentenced to 10 years in prison.

Attorney F. Eugene Bailey, representing the Boy Scouts, said the organization does everything it can to prevent molestations but doesn't have unlimited funds for background checks.

Rothschild said the records will

Maximum interest reduced on VA home loans

In response to changes in current market conditions, the Department of Veterans Affairs (VA) is reducing its maximum loan interest rate for home loan guaranties from 9.5 percent to 9 percent, effective August 12, 1991.

This change, the third this year, marks a turnaround in the credit market conditions which caused VA to raise the rate from 9 to 9.5 percent as recently as June 17.

Reducing the rate means the monthly payment on the typical VA loan of $80,000 would be $28.99 smaller, from $672.69 to $643.70. This represents potential savings to the borrower of more than $10,000 over the life of a 30-year loan.

Also effective August 12, VA will decrease by one-half percentage point the maximum rates for Graduated Payment Mortgages to 9.25 percent, home improvement loans to 10.5 percent, manufactured home loans to 11.5 percent, manufactured home lot-only loans to 11 percent, and manufactured home and lot loans to 11 percent.

In the fiscal year that ended September 30, 1990, VA guaranteed more than 196,500 home loans totaling $15.8 billion.

VA home loans may be used by qualified veterans, service members, and surviving spouses to purchase, improve, or refinance a house or condominium, and to purchase or refinance a manufactured home.

show reports of at least 416 molestation cases nationwide, including 35 in California. And he argued that they would show that the Boy Scout organization was negligent.

"The Boy Scouts fail to maintain adequate policies, procedures and safeguards to prevent subjecting young boys to predatory acts of child molesters, even through the Boy Scouts of America have for years known of the problem," he said.

He said both the Boy Scouts of America and the local Forty Niner Council had been warned about the likelihood of "Allen Trueman being a pedophile."

The national organization "had the means of correcting the dangerous condition of their program yet failed to take preventative steps and, in fact, engaged in a nationwide cover-up scheme."

Bailey said scoutmasters and other leaders, who are all volunteers and mostly parents of scouts, are chosen and approved by local sponsors, which are usually schools, churches and civic organizations.

"Who knows best their neighbors than the neighbor?" he said.

"If the Boy Scouts had to pay whatever it costs to go down to the police department and run a background check on 5 million volunteers, there wouldn't be enough money to operate the program," Bailey said.

The trial is expected to begin in February.

Jim Rosson...new president of TEPSA

Jim Rosson to serve as TEPSA's president

AUSTIN — Jim Rosson, principal at Central Elementary, was elected District XIV president of the Texas Elementary Principals and Supervisors Association (TEPSA). Installation of the new officers took place recently at the TEPSA Annual Summer Leadership Conference held at Del Lago in Montgomery.

A principal in Snyder for the past two years, Rosson's background is in education — 18 years in elementary education.

TEPSA represents 4,232 school administrators. It was created in 1917 to serve the educational needs of children in Texas through improvement of elementary education. It will celebrate its 75th anniversary in 1992.

Rosson has been involved in professional educational associations for many years. He has previously served on the State Board of the Texas Vocational Consortium, as a state director of the Texas Vocational Technical Association, and on the state board of directors of DECA. In addition, he has served as a District 14 marketing education president, and as a state president-elect of Marketing Educators of Texas. Last school year, he served TEPSA's District

XIV as its president-elect.

His honors include selection by his peers in marketing education as 1989's Outstanding Marketing Education Teacher in District XIV. In addition, he was a 1987 recipient of the Excellence in Teaching of Private Enterprise Award for the Texas Association of Business, and was named as Outstanding Business Educator by Gregg McGraw-Hill Publishers. Rosson has been selected by the Texas Education Agency to participate in TEA's Cycle 4 Texas School Improvement Initiative Program for the 1991-92 school year.

Rosson utilizes Zig Zigler's "I Can" motivational programs, and initiated the SKATE motivational program at Central Elementary, a K-6 school with 400 students and 28 faculty members.

He received his M.Ed in education with professional mid-management certification from Sul Ross University, a B.A. in business education from Angelo State University, and is currently working on a post-graduate degree at Texas Tech University.

Rosson, his wife, Melissa, and their children, Christa and Seth, are active in the Colonial Hill Baptist Church.

Dairy prices rise as herd shrinks

HOUSTON (AP) — By next month, Texas shoppers are expected to begin experiencing increases in dairy prices that already have hit states farther north, officials say.

An increase is expected because Texas dairy farmers hurt by low prices have cut back production, the Houston Chronicle noted.

Statewide milk production in July was down by 6 percent from a year earlier. The number of cows was down, 4,000 from a year ago. Average milk production per cow was down slightly, too.

A number of dairymen exited the business while others cut back their herds to the best cows. This year, Texas dairymen have been quitting at a rate averaging 13 a month. Last December, there were 2,193; in July, there were 2,100.

The same thing has happened in other dairy states, sparking a turnaround in prices that will push up the price of cheese and milk.

Cheese is up by about 25 cents a pound from the lows of late spring in Green Bay, Wis., where cheese price trends are established, said Jim Carroll, Southern region manager for Associated Milk Producers.

The price of milk in Minnesota and Wisconsin has rebounded from a 1991 low of $10.02 per 100 pounds to the current $11.50. This is the equivalent of about 12 cents per gallon.

But prices still aren't anywhere near what they were before — for instance, the Minnesota-Wisconsin price in July 1990 was $13.43.

It takes price trends 60 days to work their way to the Southwest, Carroll said. That means the latest increase won't show up in Texas supermarkets until October. And dairy farmers won't receive significantly more money until they get their monthly milk checks for that month's milk on Nov. 13.

Associated Milk Producers' Texas cheese plants at Stephenville and Muenster are already getting better prices for their output, but the cooperative also owns butter and milk powder plants that are selling at government price support levels.

So the crisis isn't over for dairy farmers. For it to be over, prices would have to go up substantially from where they are now and stabilize, Carroll says.

Another price crash could be in the works for next spring if the federal government doesn't do something to improve its dairy program, he said.

Popular speaker

DALLAS (AP) — So many people want to hear retired Gen. Norman Schwarzkopf speak at Southern Methodist University this week that school officials have moved his speech from a 2,400-seat auditorium to 7,200-seat Moody Coliseum.

Schwarzkopf will visit Texas this week for the first time since leading the Allies to victory in the Persian Gulf War. About 6,500 people are expected to attend his speech Wednesday night as part of the university's annual Willis M. Tate Distinguished Lecture Series.

"The Schwarzkopf event will be the largest Tate has had in 10 years," said event coordinator Valerie Bell.

William Lively, SMU's lecture series director, said Schwarzkopf's speech is the first to be relocated to Moody. All 46 previous lectures were held in the smaller McFarlin Auditorium, which seats 2,404. Tickets range from $15 to $75.

Schwarzkopf will begin speaking at 8 p.m. and talk for about 45 minutes, Lively said. Afterwards, he will field questions from the audience for about 20 minutes.

Bush has lost some Desert Storm magic

WASHINGTON (AP) — The deep well of congressional support that President Bush drew upon after the Persian Gulf War seems to have gone a bit dry in the summer sun.

Having led the world in battle against Iraq, it was only natural that Congress let him do the same in the battle for Middle East peace, Bush argued last week.

"And during Desert Shield and then Desert Storm, I came before the American people, as president, asking for the latitude to do what was right and necessary," he said in his televised plea for a 120-day delay in new loan guarantees to Israel.

But Congress, which a month ago might have jumped to comply, does so no more. Democratic leaders said they were considering Bush's request at their own pace, thank you very much.

It's likely the president will win his Israel request. But it will be because lawmakers become convinced it's the right move, and they don't want the blame if peace talks fall apart.

Sometime during Congress' August recess, the Persian Gulf War went into the history books.

Although surely fresh in the minds of many, including the half-million troops who served and their families, it seemed all but forgotten on Capitol Hill last week as lawmakers returned from their five-week break.

Just a few months ago, it appeared likely the Gulf War would save the administration's B-2 stealth bomber program from cancellation by Congress.

In the war, smaller fighter-bombers with similar radar-evading features successfully penetrated Iraqi defenses. The Pentagon's weapons makers glowed with pride.

Curry, a Democratic political consultant who has worked on Capitol Hill.

With the Soviet Union now spoken of in the past tense, the attackers of the B-2 are on the offensive again, arguing the weapon is unneeded now that its prime target is so much less of a threat.

What remains to be seen is on the voters next year when Bush and Congress run for re-election.

Democrats got a preview of the GOP weaponry in July when retiring Sen. Steve Symms, R-Idaho, bought radio ads to take a parting shot at Rep. Richard Stallings, the Democrat who wants his seat.

Was the new candidate "the same Richard Stallings who didn't have the wisdom or courage to answer President Bush's call to support our sons and daughters in Operation Desert Storm?" one voice asks another.

"Yup, he's the one. Stallings actually voted not to support our troops," comes the answer.

AP news analysis

But that was more than a half year ago, an eon in Washington political time.

"That war seems as long ago as World War II," said Mike Mc-whether the Gulf War, and the votes of some Democrats last January against authorizing Bush to begin, will somehow reemerge as a powerful influence

Test-tube method changes

HOUSTON (AP) — For the first time, a medical scientist says, it has become possible for women to become mothers through the so-called test-tube technique even if they do not ovulate or produce eggs that can not be fertilized.

Women who could not have children normally have been having test-tube babies since 1978.

Doctors remove mature eggs from the would-be mother, fertilize them in the laboratory with her husband's sperm and return the developing embryos to the woman's uterus.

The procedure, called in vitro fertilization, is successful in about one of every five or six cases. In the 13 years since the technique was authorized for use, thousands of test-tube babies have been born.

But until recently, the technique was of no use to women who do not produce eggs that can be fertilized, said Dr. Robert McWilliams, an assistant professor at the University of Texas Medical School in Houston.

But technology has intervened, the Houston Chronicle reported today, and such women now can use eggs donated from others. McWilliams is leader of a team attempting to establish an anonymous donor egg bank at the school. It would be the second such program in Texas.

"It's a logical extension of in vitro fertilization technology," the Chronicle quoted McWilliams as saying.

There are many reasons why a woman might not ovulate.

Some suffer premature menopause; others lose the egg-producing function of their ovaries because of medical treatment or illness. Some produce eggs, but their husbands' sperm, for some reason, cannot fertilize them.

McWilliams hopes that his egg bank will help all of them.

Donor and recipient mothers would not know each other. Keeping the procedure anonymous avoids many pitfalls, he said.

Donors are compensated for the time they spend in the procedure, McWilliams said. The $1,100 fee is small when one considers the demands of the program, and most donors probably are motivated by a desire to help as well, he said.

He's looking for a number of such women, ages 18 to 35.

John Armstrong, representing Britain in the Open, played today's hand correctly. The given auction is a natural one, but Armstrong and his partner, Graham Kirby, use the Precision Club system, which led to a sequence that persuaded West to lead a club rather than a diamond.

Armstrong knew that if the heart finesse was offside, East would duck the king on the first round. Then if Armstrong repeated the finesse and it lost, he would be unlikely to get into the dummy to cash the established heart winners. But he did realize that after one heart finesse, he would have two heart tricks available. Add that to three clubs, two diamonds and two spades, and he had nine winners.

Consequently Armstrong won the club lead and immediately played the ace and another spade. East won with the king and returned a club. Armstrong won in hand and ran the heart jack, which East had to duck. Now Armstrong led his last spade, establishing his ninth trick while he still had the heart ace in the dummy as an entry.

Taking an earlier heart finesse would have risked West's winning the first spade trick and returning a heart, removing the dummy entry prematurely.

The greatest concentration of bridge players is in Europe. And the biennial European Championship is the toughest tournament on the continent's calendar. This year Austria won in the Women's Series for the first time since 1936, and Great Britain won in the Open Series for the first time since 1963.

Children must tell about abuse

DENVER (AP) — Former Miss America Marilyn Van Derbur Atler is urging incest victims to tell their stories.

"In order to stop the sexual violations of children, we need to know that it is happening," Atler told a congressional committee Sunday.

"Children have to tell us. But children don't tell because they don't perceive there is anyone who will believe them."

Atler, who said her father abused her for years because he believed she would never go public, got a standing ovation from the crowd at the hearing.

The 1958 Miss America went public with her story in May.

Aikman sacked 11 times...

Eagle defense rips Cowboys

IRVING, Texas (AP) — Troy Aikman will be seeing No. 96 in his sleep.

That's the number for defensive end Clyde Simmons, who separated Aikman's shoulder last November and sacked him 4½ times Sunday.

Aikman was sacked 11 times and intercepted three times by the Philadelphia Eagles in their 24-0 victory over the Dallas Cowboys.

"It's the best defensive game I ever saw played," Philadelphia safety Wes Hopkins said. "It was as close to perfect as you can get. It was just unbelievable."

Dallas had only 90 yards of offense — 45 passing. The Cowboys average gain per pass was 1½ yards.

"We've had some criticism," defensive coordinator Bud Carson said. "But we were just flawless. We made the fewest mistakes of any team I've been around in a long time."

Rich Miano had two interceptions as the Eagles increased their record to 2-1 while Dallas dropped to 1-2.

"The defense was just outstanding," Philadelphia quarterback Jim McMahon said. "As long as you play defense like that, you're in the game."

"I didn't feel sorry for Aikman. I got the heck beat out of me like that last week."

It also was a team record for quarterback sacks. The Cowboys also tied a team record for yielding quarterback sacks.

"I'll give Troy credit: He hung in there and took it," Simmons said. "He's a tough guy and he had a tough day."

It was Philadelphia's eighth consecutive victory over the Cowboys, who have yet to defeat the Eagles with Jimmy Johnson as coach.

Dallas never crossed midfield under its own power until the last two minutes of the game, when it drove to the 8.

"I tried yelling at the offensive linemen early in the game," Aikman said. "But it was just one of those days. There were times when the protection broke down and there were times when I threw the ball to the other team. I would say some of our guys were getting beat."

Reggie White, who held the team record with four sacks, said even the Eagles were stunned.

"We know what we can do, but we did even better than we expected," White said.

Aikman, who was third in the NFC in passing, said: "I got hit a lot more than I cared. It was one of those days. We've been through it before. It was very frustrating. It was not a good day for anybody."

Johnson was at a loss for an explanation.

"I said before the season started we'd have some tough days, and unfortunately this was one of them," Johnson said. "Troy didn't have much of a chance back there. Philadelphia just dominated us."

Johnson said Monday night's 33-31 loss to Washington might have hurt.

"We were not into playing Philadelphia, to be quite honest," the coach said. "Washington had more of an effect on us than I thought it would."

McMahon threw two touchdown passes and hit 18 of 29 passes for 207 yards.

"We had critical plays we had to make, and we did," McMahon said. "We didn't have that great a day on offense. The defense gave us everything I asked for."

"I don't know where you would find a better defense in the league," said Eagles coach Rich Kotite.

Snyder netters nab loop win over LHS

LAMESA — Snyder began defense of its District 2-4A fall tennis title Saturday with a 12-6 decision over the Lamesa Golden Tornadoes.

"It was our first district contest," said Tiger coach Jerry Tucker, "and it was a tough match."

"I was very proud of our players for hanging tough. Emotional control on our part was the big advantage."

"We had outstanding sportsmanship displayed by the Snyder players," Tucker said.

A 5-1 run in doubles got the match off to a good start for the Tigers as Marcus Best and Kevin McMillan, Sam Cain and Michael Hess and Cody Shields, and Jason Warren all notched boys' wins and Robin Cave and Jaycie Wright and Hope Papay and Laurie Allen posted victories in girls' play.

The Tigers also rolled for seven wins in singles competition, five in boys' and two for the SHS girls.

"The boys played real solid and won several tough key matches," Tucker said, "and the girls came through in the clutch."

One of the highlight matches of the day saw Best and McMillan against Alan Davis and Josh Demary of Lamesa.

The Snyder duo lost the opening set 4-6 then dominated the second, 6-1, before edging the Tors' 7-5 in the decisive third set.

Cain and Hess drilled Joe Brian Davis and Chris Brown, 6-0, 6-3, and Shields and Warren ripped Michael Garcia and Marc Estrada in straight sets, 6-1, 6-2.

Cave and Wright beat Denise Bethel and April Cornett in a pair of 6-2 sets in girls' doubles and Lamesa's Heidi Steward and Kara Koehler fell to Papay and Allen, 6-3, 6-4.

In singles action, Snyder's No. 2 seed, McMillan, took a 7-6, 6-1 win over Demary, Cain needed three sets to beat Joe Brian Davis, 3-6, 7-5, 7-5, and Hess mauled Brown 6-4, 6-1.

Warren was also a three-set winner Saturday, scalping Garcia, 6-2 in the opener, losing the second set, 3-6, and coming back for the match with a 6-0 third.

Chris Gayle added a 7-6, 7-5 win over Estrada.

Papay lambasted Steward, 6-2, 6-2, for Snyder's first win in girls' singles followed by Allen whipping Koehler, 6-2, 6-4.

In other district action Saturday, Estacado opened its season with a 10-8 win over Levelland.

Snyder will entertain the EHS Matadors, Saturday at 10 a.m., as the loop title chase continues.

Beat Central, fall to Pecos...

Spikers split at dual match

SAN ANGELO — Snyder's Lady Tigers moved to 5-3 on the volleyball season Saturday with a split in two matches played at Central High School.

Pecos nipped SHS in three games, 12-15, 15-3 and 10-15, to start the three-team non-district battle, followed by a 15-10, 15-3 Lady Tiger win over San Angelo Central.

"I was really proud of the girls in both matches," Snyder coach Patty Grimmert said.

"We were able to do a lot of good things."

"In the first game, against Pecos, we got behind early and then our defense held them for five or six rotations while we slowly caught up to them a little bit," Grimmert reported. "We just started our comeback a little too late."

In the second game of the match, we really played well," the coach continued. "Our serves were awesome. We got seven ace serves and we played well defensively. Our serves just controlled the game."

The service game was the Lady Tigers' downfall, though, in game three against the Lady Eagles.

"We played great as a team but we had four missed serves that kept us from scoring when we had possession," said Grimmert.

After the one hour and 15 minute match against Pecos, the Lady Tigers took a 15-minute break before taking the court for the two-game sweep of the Central Lady Bobcats.

Snyder registered six service aces in their victory, including two each by Stephanie Molina and Daisy Braziel.

"Daisy had a great day," Grimmert stated. "She had five aces in the two matches and really played a smart game at the net."

"I was really proud of the way they played against Central," the SHS coach said. "They didn't get down after losing to Pecos. They went out with just 15 minutes rest and blocked well and really hustled."

"I think we're beginning to gel," she concluded.

Amber Bowlin led the Snyder attack against Pecos with 13 points, including an ace. Joellen King and Melody Sargent each carded seven followed by Braziel's six, three by Julie Johnson and Lynette Sears' two.

Bowlin added eight and an ace in the SHS win over the Lady 'Cats. Braziel served for six, Emma Skold and Molina managed four apiece, King and Sargent pounded three each and Johnson was credited with two.

Snyder's next match will be Tuesday at the SHS gym when the Lady Tigers host Bronte.

Junior varsity action begins at 6 p.m. followed at approximately 7:15 by the varsity tilt.

SWC roundup...

Bears beat Colorado; save SWC pride

by The Associated Press

The bruised and battered Southwest Conference needed redemption after Houston's massacre at Miami, and the Baylor Bears were happy to oblige.

Baylor (2-0) shot to No. 14 with the victory, but Bears coach Grant Teaff was glad just to save face for the conference.

"I've been around long enough to know that you could be here (14th) today and gone tomorrow," Teaff said Sunday. "I feel better about it for conference recognition than for us."

The league desperately needed some good news after the Cougars' 40-10 whipping on national television. The debacle came a week after Miami walked over Arkansas 31-3. The Hurricanes have won 11 straight games against Southwest Conference teams.

But Texas A&M coach R.C. Slocum, whose team thrashed Louisiana State 45-7, said the Houston-Miami game was no reflection on the conference.

"I see us as being like everybody else," Slocum said. "We've got a good league top to bottom. On a given day you can take a team from this league and we can go play people around the country and ... they can go play with anybody."

The Aggies' Greg Hill helped give the league an image boost during the romp over Louisiana State. He set a national record by rushing for 212 yards in his first game and scored two touchdowns. Texas A&M moved up from 20th to 15th in the nation.

For the second straight year, Texas Christian junior quarterback Leon Clay suffered a season-ending injury in the midst of a winning streak. Clay went down with 2:55 remaining in the Horned Frogs' 22-16 victory over Ball State Saturday night, breaking his left leg just above the ankle.

The Frogs (2-0) were counting on Clay staying healthy this season. Last year he was sidelined by a broken thumb after he engineered a five-game winning streak and a 5-1 start. Without him, TCU stumbled out of the bowl picture to 5-6.

Rice's Trevor Cobb had a day to remember in the Owls' 36-7 walloping of Northwestern. He ran for three touchdowns, including one for 79 yards, and set a school career rushing record in the Owls' opener.

Cobb also scored on runs of 5 and 18 yards. He ran 25 times for 193 yards, giving him a career total of 2,063 yards.

Southern Methodist and Texas Tech weren't as fortunate.

In Nashville, Tenn., Vanderbilt snapped the nation's third-longest losing streak at 10 games with a 14-11 victory over SMU. The Mustangs (0-2) have lost 12 straight, second only to Cal State-Fullerton, which holds the longest Division I-A losing streak at 13 games.

Texas Tech (1-1) couldn't handle Danny O'Neil, Oregon's nimble quarterback who scrambled his way out of trouble all night in the Ducks' 28-13 victory in Lubbock.

Next week, Houston (1-1) tries to regroup at Illinois, Texas plays host to Auburn and TCU visits Oklahoma State.

Texas Tech is at Wyoming and Southwest Louisiana visits Arkansas (1-1). The Aggies (1-0) visit Tulsa; Rice is at Tulane and Missouri visits Baylor.

AP analysis... Some Democrats eye presidential election in 1996

By John King
AP political writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The emerging field of Democratic presidential candidates offers an intriguing liberal and moderate mix, little experience in national politics and an early glimpse at the party's future.

The half-dozen or so Democrats eyeing the nomination are largely unknown outside their home states. Yet to a man — there are no women in the bunch — they proclaim President Bush beatable.

All are trying to craft an outsider's anti-Washington image, and all insist voter disgust is deep enough to topple an incumbent president.

But talk of a Democratic victory in 1992 is, for now, rightly couched in the language of miracles. And while they profess to target Bush, several in the 1992 Democratic field are also peering ahead to 1996.

Then, a taste of presidential politics could provide the edge needed to emerge from what surely would be a crowded Democratic field.

But what about now?

Iowa Sen. Tom Harkin entered the race Sunday with a blast of liberal, prairie populism, laying claim to the legacy of Harry Truman, Hubert Humphrey and George McGovern.

That makes Southern Democrats shudder.

"He'd have a hard time getting a candidate for sewer commission down here to stand up on the same platform with him," said Atlanta-based pollster Claibourne Darden.

But Harkin gets the early edge on his rivals because of his work wooing liberal activists and labor groups, key sources of organizational muscle in the left-leaning primary process.

Harkin's challenge is to avoid an embarrassment in his home-state caucuses and to back up a win there with a strong showing in New Hampshire, where he is campaigning today.

For Harkin's rivals, New Hampshire looms as the early credibility threshold.

Former Massachusetts Sen. Paul Tsongas had the field to himself for six months and spent much of that time in New Hampshire.

Nebraska Sen. Bob Kerrey, expected to enter the race by month's end, stands to gain organizational help from Gary Hart's 1988 band of New Hampshire supporters, as well as a few Dukakis and Mondale operatives with experience there. And war hero Kerrey's star quality is attracting liberal activists who had begun to edge toward Harkin.

Kerrey's goal is to position himself to the right of Harkin yet left of another likely entry, Arkansas Gov. Bill Clinton, who is viewed suspiciously by liberals because of his role as a leader of the centrist Democratic Leadership Council.

Clinton, like Tennessee Sen. Albert Gore in 1988, is hoping for a strong showing in the Southern-dominated Super Tuesday primaries to gain momentum. But fewer states are participating next year, and Gore stumbled when he was unable to prove he was anything more than a regional candidate.

Clinton's challenge is to win outside the South before Super Tuesday, with New Hampshire the primary target.

Virginia Gov. L. Douglas Wilder made a foray to New Hampshire just before he decided to run, and believes his message of fiscal conservatism will play well there. In his announcement speech Friday, he also made an appeal to black voters and liberals on racial issues.

With Tsongas and Wilder in the long-shot column is former California Gov. Jerry Brown. He's the only candidate who has run for president before — in 1976 and 1980.

Researchers work to change plants' reaction to light

WASHINGTON (AP) — Genetic engineering and other technologies in the future will enable scientists to change how a plant receives and responds to light, an Agriculture Department researcher predicts.

"Applying new knowledge about how plants respond to light could mean new strategies for weed control, better control of the timing of the harvest, higher crop yield and improved crop quality," said Essex E. Finney, director of the department's Beltsville, Md., Agricultural Research Center.

About 60 U.S. and foreign scientists will report research findings on plants' response to light at the center's symposium Sept. 22-27 on "Photomorphogenesis in Plants: Emerging Strategies for Crop Improvement." Photomorphogenesis refers to the regulation of plant growth and development by light.

"We can expect genetic engineering and other technologies in the future to enable scientists to alter how a plant receives and responds to light — for example, whether it shrivels or thrives — in ways that haven't been possible," Finney said.

An example of how photomorphogenesis can be manipulated to improve a plant will be described by research leader Steven J. Britz.

His greenhouse studies at the Climate Stress Laboratory in Beltsville have shown that soybean seeds contain more polyunsaturated oils when the plants are grown very close together, leaving the seedpods in deep shade.

In contrast, seeds from soybean plants grown farther apart, allowing more light to hit the pods, produced more oleic acid, a beneficial monounsaturated oil.

Some former Beltsville researchers will mark the 40th anniversary of a critical research discovery involving plants' responses to light by describing for the symposium their search for the biological "light switch" in plants.

The switch, a pigmented protein called phytochrome, controls such processes as germination and flowering. Phytochrome works as a switch because it exists in two forms — changing back and forth upon exposure to red light and far-red, a zone at the edge of our eyes' limits.

The team first observed this reversible response in 1951 and proved it in an experiment in April 1952. But it took the scientists until 1959 to detect the pigment itself in plant tissues, said the symposium's co-chairman, plant physiologist William J. VanDerWoude of the Beltsville laboratory.

"The discovery of phytochrome by Beltsville scientists was a major milestone in the study of how light influences plants," VanDerWoude said.

"Genetic engineering techniques have allowed researchers to determine which genes code for phytochrome, and these genes can be moved from one species of plant to another," he said.

1.12 million acres accepted for CRP

WASHINGTON (AP) — Some 1.12 million acres have been tentatively accepted in the latest sign-up for the Conservation Reserve Program, or CRP, in which highly erodible cropland is taken out of agricultural production and put to conservation uses.

"The approved acreage from the 11th (CRP) sign-up will provide significant water quality benefits," Agriculture Secretary Edward Madigan said in announcing that the 1.12 million acres had been tentatively accepted out of 2.35 million acres bid.

Crew steers around chunk of Soviet rocket

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Discovery's astronauts erected a kind of giant Tinkertoy aboard the shuttle today but first had to steer clear of a chunk of Soviet rocket zooming their way.

The shuttle and the van-sized piece of space junk ended up passing within 10 miles of each other Sunday night, NASA said.

"I think we scored a space first, the first time we've ever had to maneuver to avoid a conjunction," Mission Control's Jan Davis told the crew. "So good work on everybody's part."

The crew accomplished its major task late Saturday when it released into orbit a 14,500-pound satellite that will study Earth's damaged ozone layer. Early today, the astronauts began assembling the Tinkertoy-like structure in an experiment that will help in designing the proposed space station.

Sunday evening, the astronauts lowered Discovery's orbit a little more than a mile after ground controllers determined the path of the spent rocket stage would take it uncomfortably close to the shuttle.

Flight director Al Pennington said it's hard to say whether Discovery would have collided with the object.

"We considered it to be a risk, and we don't like risk," he said. "There was by no means any direct input that said this was on a direct collision. This is certainly what you'd call a near miss." NASA rules dictate that other orbiting objects, including space junk, cannot come within 1.6 miles above or beside a shuttle or 4 miles in front of an orbiter.

Pennington said he was notified of the encounter about five hours before it was due to occur. The astronauts maneuvered out of the way more than two hours in advance, he said.

This morning, crewmen James Buchli and Mark Brown snapped gold-colored, aluminum joints in place to create a 64-inch long, 8-inch square device consisting of white plastic pieces.

In the first test of a structural model for the space station, the device was attached to a machine and shaken to see how it withstands vibration in zero gravity. Buchli said before the mission that the experiment should not be taken lightly.

"While it might look like an Erector Set... it's not a trivial experiment. I expect there are two or three folks whose Ph.D.s are riding on it," he said.

The five astronauts released the satellite a little later than planned because ground controllers had trouble acquiring a signal between its main antenna and a communications satellite.

Project deputy manager John Donley said the trouble was caused by an error on the ground that was later corrected.

On Sunday morning, one of the satellite's two data receivers failed. Pennington said early today ground controllers managed to get the bad receiver working. Controllers successfully completed a check of several of the satellite's scientific instruments Sunday.

Beginning Tuesday, thrusters are to boost the satellite to its final destination 372 miles high.

Once in operation, the satellite will measure Earth's damaged ozone layer, winds, chemicals and energetic particles in the upper atmosphere. The first data are expected in about a month.

The observatory is valued at $740 million, including operating costs.

Discovery, which blasted into orbit Thursday evening, is scheduled to return to Kennedy Space Center at 2:09 a.m. EDT Wednesday.

Gramm using fundraising stops to stump for 1996 presidential bid

HOUSTON (AP) — Phil Gramm may not be a household name to most Iowans, but the U.S. senator from Texas is using strategically using his position as the Republican Party's chief fundraiser to help him for a possible presidential bid in 1996.

Gramm ventured to Sioux City, Iowa, and two other Iowa cities in a single day last week in his role as chairman of the National Republican Senatorial Committee to raise money for Charles Grassley, Iowa's senior senator.

But Gramm also met privately with some of the wealthiest and most politically influential Republicans in the state where the presidential campaign always seems to begin.

Gramm officially is helping to raise $88 million to spread among the 13 Republican senatorial incumbents expected to seek reelection, GOP challengers for 20 Democratic seats and the one spot now held by a Republican who is retiring.

But political observers say Gramm is using the position to give him increased visibility, the Houston Chronicle's Washington bureau reported Sunday.

Off-duty deputy slain in store robbery

HOUSTON (AP) — Harris County officers mourned the death of a deputy who was shot to death when he tried to stop a convenience store robbery.

"We're saddened because of the loss of an officer and because of the loss of a friend," Maj. Mike Quinn of the Harris County Sheriff's office said Sunday.

Cpl. Jeffery Scott Sanford, 31, was shot in the face and killed instantly Saturday night after he pulled a service revolver and his badge to break up a robbery at a north Houston Shell Food Mart, Harris County Cpl. John Byrd said.

Sanford, a quartermaster who was in charge of purchasing and of seized property at the sheriff's office, had stopped at the station with a friend to get gas about 8:30 p.m. Saturday.

Seeing two men holding a gun on the store clerk, Sanford stopped to break up the robbery.

"He pulled into the parking lot and got his ID and his pistol and walked up the front door the establishment," Houston police department spokesman Kevin Robertson said. "As soon as he got to the front door, they shot him in the face and he died."

Police late Sunday continued searching for the two gunmen and a third man driving a getaway car. They were described as black men in their late 20s to early 30s.

"From what I understand, he didn't get too much of a chance to say anything to the suspects," Robertson said.

Four people were inside the store at the time of the shooting, Robertson said. He would not say whether the gunmen took money from the scene.

No one else was injured.

Sanford, who was the deputy coordinator for the sheriff's office, had been a deputy since July 1988, but had been a county employee since October 1982, Byrd said. He was married and had children, police said.

Sanford is the third law enforcement officer fatally shot in the Houston area this year.

Houston police Sgt. Bruno D. Soboleski was shot April 7 as he questioned two men loitering in an alley. Pasadena Officer Jeff Ginn was shot to death July 10 by a former mental patient, who later held a woman hostage for 20 hours before fatally shooting himself.

Byrd said the gunman believed to have shot Sanford is described as in his late 20s, about 6 feet, and 190 to 200 pounds. At the time of the shooting, he was wearing a light brown T-shirt and white pants with holes in the knees, and he was carrying a silver pistol.

The second gunman also is in his late 20s, stands 5-foot-4 to 5-foot-7, and weighs about 170 pounds. He was wearing a dark blue muscle shirt and blue jeans, and he carried a blue steel, long-barrel revolver.

The driver of the getaway car was believed to be in his 30s.

Witnesses told police the car was a black, blue or gray, older model four-door sedan. The car's roof has rust on it. There is a dent in driver's side door and a crack in the windshield, Byrd said.

Weekend reports includes arrests

County law enforcement activity for the weekend included two arrests and a report of a gas drive off.

At 2:15 p.m. Sunday, a gas drive off was reported from Rip Griffin's on U.S. Hwy. 180. An employee advised that persons driving a red pickup had left the business without paying for $12.35 in gas.

Department of Public Safety troopers arrested a 20-year-old female at 1:40 a.m. Sunday for driving while intoxicated. Her 18-year-old male passenger was charged with public intoxication. Both subjects were taken to Scurry County Jail.

Deadline nears for 'tall tales'

Tuesday is the last day to register for the Tumbleweed Toastmasters Tall Tales Contest, to be held Thursday evening at the Scurry County Fair.

Area residents may register and receive the rules of the contest by calling 573-5128.

The tale should be two to three minutes in length and be of a highly exaggerated, improbable nature. Local civic clubs have been encouraged to have club entries. Members of the local chapter of Toastmasters International will serve as judges and timekeepers.

The contest will be held at 6 p.m. Thursday in the coliseum.

County pay scale set two weeks and ballots could be mailed to those that are handicapped, over the age of 65 of out of town during the absentee and scheduled voting times.

Absentee voting begins Oct. 16.

An agreement with the Attorney General's office and the county which will generate additional county revenue was approved. The agreement allows for the AG's office to pay the county 66 percent of costs in the filing of child custody related cases.

Currently, the state office files the cases through the district clerk's office with no reimbursement for filing charges, District Clerk Elois Pruitt told commissioners.

Commissioners adopted a proposal which will save almost $7,000 in costs related to the county law library. In the proposal, submitted by Precinct Commissioner 1 Jerry Morgan, it was noted that costs for the library are running near $12,000, twice the budgeted amount.

The proposal would cut costs by eliminating over half of the 3,758 law book volumes presently in the library.

In other business, commissioners approved line item budget transfers in Precinct 1, 911 expenses and the county judge's budget.

Judge Doolittle presided. Present were commissioners C.D. Gray, Roy Idom, Jerry Ganaway and Morgan.

Surgeon uses newest technology to operate

By Shirley A. Gorman
SDN News Editor

Technological advances have improved and refined some surgeries to the extent that patients spend less time both in the hospital and during recovery.

Dr. Ted Scott, Snyder's new board certified general surgeon, was among the first surgeons in Lubbock to begin using endoscopic surgery techniques, procedures and instruments for a variety of surgeries in the abdominal area including, gallbladders and appendectomies.

New gains in this revolutionary surgical field are currently limited only by waiting for the necessary technology to be invented. Since chest surgeries can be very painful, Scott said surgeons are already looking toward the future when they will be able to apply endoscopic surgery to that area of the human body as well.

"These tools had to be invented before this type of surgery could be performed."

vented. Since chest surgeries can be very painful, Scott said surgeons are already looking toward the future when they will be able to apply endoscopic surgery to that area of the human body as well.

Similar to arthroscopic surgery or examination which arthroscopic surgeons have been using for years, a laparoscopic cholecystectomy (or removal of gallbladder) allows the surgeon to make four holes instead of the traditional long incision.

The camera is inserted in the hole made at the belly button. The surgeon operates through two more holes in the abdomen and another hole is for the assisting surgeon.

Surgeons view the area they are operating on through the TV monitor and make their incisions with delicate, refined instruments which are attached to long, slender devices.

These instruments "open and close like a pair of scissors," Dr.

Scott said. "Those tools had to be invented before this type of surgery could be performed."

Surgeons doing this operation have to be extra careful to avoid injuring the common bile duct. In most instances, Scott said the benefit to the patient outweighs the injury factor.

Older patients or those with respiratory problems benefit from the endoscopic procedure, because those undergoing the full incision often develop other problems because they cannot breathe or cough very well during recovery.

However, endoscopic surgery of the gallbladder is not for every patient. Scott said he usually which are now available have alleviated a lot of problems.

Endoscopic surgery may also be used for appendectomies and hernias. However, Scott said he does not use the scope for hernia operations because he feels that the present operation is very good and that the scope technique has not had enough time to show how effective it is.

Most patients undergoing endoscopic surgery check into a hospital on the day of surgery and are usually released the following day. Patients are still sore but as their condition is not life threatening Scott said most insurance companies only approve a 24 hour stay. If possible, he said he would have his surgical patients stay another day.

Scott, who has been a surgeon for several years, first began performing endoscopic surgery about 2 1/2 years ago. To learn this new procedure, he traveled to California.

After returning to Lubbock, he said he "played" with the instruments for some time (in order to master their use) before operating on his first patient. In due time, a year after Scott returned from California, endoscopic surgery classes were conducted in Lubbock for area surgeons.

As of Sept. 11, Scott has performed three gallbladder operations using the scope since he started his practice in Snyder earlier this month.

Scott said he welcomed the chance to learn to operate using the scope, because "doctors have to stay abreast of all current progress or we get left behind."

In order to stay informed, Scott attends medical meetings and subscribes to medical journals. He added, "Lubbock and this area are very fortunate to have Tech's medical school which does more for this area than anyone realizes. We have to be better and we have to police ourselves. Tech's med school means that people in this area get better medical care than larger metropolitan areas that do not have a medical school."

Scott is a member of the Medical Arts Clinic in Lubbock. He commutes to and from Snyder in his own airplane as he is an avid pilot.

Scott performs operations at Cogdell Memorial Hospital on Wednesdays and Fridays. Beginning in November, Scott's partner, Dr. Job Buschman, a board eligible general surgeon, will also be available to perform local surgeries.

A native of Post, Scott is a graduate of Texas Tech University, and the Southwestern Medical School in Dallas. He also served a five-year internship at the Texas Tech medical school.

Dr. Gott By Peter Gott, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT: My 42-year-old daughter has gone from a slim 120 pounds to 200 pounds over the past 10 years. She tells me she has a sluggish thyroid but is allergic to iodine so nothing can be done for her condition. Is there an alternative treatment?

DEAR READER: Yes. A good diet. As a general rule, most people who gain too much weight do so because they consume too many calories.

Many years ago, the poor thyroid gland was blamed for obesity. We now know this assumption was false. Patients with hypothyroidism (underactive thyroid glands) may gain some weight — usually modest fluid retention causing puffiness — but they seldom become obese, unless they eat too much.

Therefore, I suspect that your daughter's problem would respond to sensible calorie restriction, such as a low-fat diet (without sweets or alcohol) that is heavy on vegetables and grains and light on pasta and starches. Moreover, if your daughter does have a thyroid condition, iodine is not the appropriate treatment. Modern thyroid supplements, such as Synthroid, do a much better job and are quite inexpensive.

Finally, I doubt your daughter is allergic to iodine, a ubiquitous element that is present in many edibles, especially seafood. Since iodine is a necessary trace mineral, people are never "allergic" to it, although they may be intolerant to drugs that contain high concentrations of the substance.

I think your daughter is reacting to normal maternal carping by putting you off with a scientifically unsound excuse. She needs to diet — and to obtain proper medical care if she is hypothyroid.

I might add that my observations have more than cosmetic value. Obesity can lead to hypertension, diabetes and heart disease; hypothyroidism is associated with fatigue, depression and heart failure. Therefore, your daughter should get help ASAP.

To give you more information, I am sending you free copies of my Health Reports "Eating Right For A Healthy Heart" and "Weight Control Through Calorie Control." Other readers who would like copies should send $1.25 for each report plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to P.O. Box 91369, Cleveland, OH 44101-3369. Residents fume over illegal dump

BRIDGEPORT, Conn. (AP) — It's the Mount Everest of dumps, a smoldering, stinking expanse of debris that looms over a neighborhood, another ignominious landmark in this troubled city.

A judge recently fined its owners $868,950 — a state record — and threatened to jail them if the debris is not gone by December. Residents fear the gargantuan pile of rubble and muck will prove as immovable as the landmark that inspired its nickname: Mount Trashmore.

"At this point, I've given up hope," said John Percell, 36, a lifelong resident of the East End, a poor neighborhood overlooking Long Island Sound.

"It's obviously helped to destroy the neighborhood," Percell said recently as he stood outside his house a few blocks from the illegal dump. "People drive by and it looks like a dump, it smells like a dump — so people think it's a dump."

Mount Trashmore is a towering black mass of wood, metal, dirt, bricks, tires and other rubbish from demolished buildings. It covers two acres and stands 35 feet high at its tallest point, the equivalent of a three-story building.

The Rev. Jesse Jackson helped dramatize the neighborhood's plight in June when he marched past Mount Trashmore. Jackson came to Bridgeport soon after the city filed for bankruptcy protection.

Five years ago, Mount Trashmore was an empty lot behind Connecticut Building Wrecking Co. offices.

It was never supposed to get this big, said Geno Capozziello, who owns the demolition company with his brother, Russell. They started dumping demolition debris on their property in 1986. Things got out of hand.

"Nobody wants a dump near their place," Capozziello said as he sat in his office recently. "It was a big, big, big mistake to put it here in the first place."

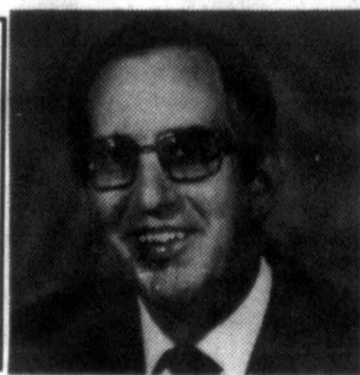

Capozziello claims there's no place for him to dump the debris legally in Bridgeport, and he can't afford fees ranging from $9 to $20 a ton to have the stuff carted away.

He said he spent more than $330,000 last year alone to have some debris removed. The effort barely dented Mount Trashmore's slopes.

Geno Capozziello said sending him to jail would be pointless.

"If I go to jail, the problem will still be here," he said.

Gib Lewis at personal, political crossroads

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — Texas House Speaker Gib Lewis, buffeted by an ethics investigation and a challenge to his leadership post, says he hasn't decided whether he will seek re-election.

"I've got to go back and look at my business and analyze what I need to be doing, and whether or not I can afford to be in state government, whether I want to subject my family and myself to the abuse that comes with state government," Lewis told the Fort Worth Star-Telegram.

Lewis has been indicted by a Travis County grand jury on two misdemeanor counts of alleged ethics violations. He has said he is innocent of the charges of failing to report a gift from a San Antonio law firm and of failing to disclose his interest in a business for which the law firm allegedly paid some property taxes.

After Rep. Billy Clemons, D-Pollock, declared he would seek the speaker's post, Lewis said he would withhold any announcement on his re-election plans until January.

Lewis, coming off an eight-month run of legislative sessions, has won the two-year leadership post a record five straight times. But the field in the speaker's race could grow because of a rising tide of discontent.

Some House members are frustrated by what they term secret deals that created, altered or killed legislation, and several are dissatisfied with Lewis' performance in negotiations on the budget, taxes and redistricting.

Some members also hope Lewis will decide his future quickly because they fear a leadership vacuum could disable government functions, especially at the Legislative Budget Board that counts Lewis as a member.

"If he decides not to run, the system will for all intent and purposes start shutting down until the next leader was picked," said Ric Williamson, D-Weatherford, vice chairman of the Appropriations Committee.

But Williamson and many other members have no reason to doubt that Lewis will return as the District 89 representative from Tarrant County.

"He's a lock-down cinch win," Williamson said.

Williamson said if Lewis returns he will be overwhelmingly reinstated as speaker after a legal vindication. But his trial could be delayed well into 1992, attorneys said.

Clemons, who has said he entered the race for speaker to send a message about members' dissatisfaction with House rules, said he believes Lewis will emerge unscathed from the criminal proceedings. He said the investigation was "a joke."

Lewis has harsher words for his accusers.

"This is the most frivolous, most unethical deal I've ever seen in my life and it'll prove out to that," he said.

"Gib Lewis is the most investigated public official in the history of the state of Texas," said Lewis' Austin attorney Bill Willms.

"They have been through all his bank records. They have been through literally hundreds of pounds of his business records. They have talked to friends, associates, business associates.

They have scoured the state, and all they could find was this trumped-up gift on the settlement of a tax suit," Willms said.

Willms asked for an Oct. 1 hearing before District Judge Bob Perkins to determine whether the cases belong in a county court-at-law or a district court.

If convicted, Lewis faces fines totaling $3,000 and up to 18 months in jail.

Threat remains

LONDON (AP) — Salman Rushdie, under a death threat for "The Satanic Verses," said during a rare public appearance that reliable reports suggest that teams of hitmen are still looking for him.

Rushdie was flanked by police bodyguards Sunday when he arrived unannounced at a hotel to accept the Writers Guild award for best children's book for his "Haroun and the Sea of Stories."

Rushdie said the threat issued in 1989 by Iran's Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini is still very real. Khomeini, who died later that year, said the book blasphemed Islam.

"I would like to apologize for the unusual manner of my appearance here," Rushdie told the audience at the Dorchester Hotel.
