Cancel to honor 3 rodeos

Again this year at the Scurry County Fair, White Buffalo Stamp Club will feature a temporary postal station with a special souvenir pictorial hand cancel.

The fair opens to the public at noon Thursday in the county coliseum.

Snyder Postmaster Charles Thornton has announced the approval of a temporary postal station, to be in operation on Friday, from 5:30 p.m. until 7:30 p.m.

At the request of the stamp club, a special souvenir pictorial hand cancel device honoring the three rodeos held in the county each year has been approved for use at the station. The cancel features a cowboy on horseback

Mail, with appropriate postage applied, which is deposited anytime Thursday or Friday in the mailbox provided at the stamp club's fair booth will receive the special one day only cancel.

Fair goers can send a souvenir post card or letter to friends and relatives or make their own souvenir by addressing it to themselves. Sufficient space should be left above the address and to the left of the stamp to receive the four-inch-wide by nearly two-inches-high cancel. The return address should be put on the back of the card or envelope rather than in the front left corner.

Envelopes or other items bearing at least 29 cents postage (19 cents on post cards) may be submitted unaddressed for canceling during the open hours of the postal station on a "hand-back" basis. Postcards picturing the White Buffalo Statue and four souvenir envelopes with the fair logo or rodeo scenes honoring each of Scurry County's three rodeos may be purchased either "mint" or already cancelled from members of the White Buffalo Stamp Club. Delao given 20-year term

A plea bargain agreement, netting the maximum 20-year prison term, ended the 2½-day attempted murder trial of 28-year-old Elisello "Clyde" Delao.

The plea bargain came in the trial's punishment phase as District Attorney Ernie Armstrong was seeking an enhancement which could increase the sentence up to 99 years or life imprisonment.

Armstrong said he struck the maximum sentence deal because of defense questions regarding the enhancement in an effort to avoid an appeal or even reversal.

An eight-woman, four-man jury returned a guilty-of-attempted-murder verdict Tuesday afternoon despite a request during closing arguments from defense attorney Jim Aldridge for a lesser conviction of aggravated assault.

"I'm not going to insult your intelligence and ask for an acquittal," Aldridge told the jury as he admitted that the evidence proved a crime had been committed. However, he disputed that the evidence proved that Delao intended to murder Martinez.

Delao was found guilty of attempting to kill Joe Martinez with a baseball bat during a June 2 confrontation.

During the trial, Martinez identified Delao as the man who hit him with an aluminum bat. The confrontation was the result of an ongoing feud, according to testimony presented by the state.

Borden County homecoming, fair scheduled this weekend

GAIL — A full weekend of activities are planned in Gail, where folks can take in Friday's homecoming activities and follow it up with a fair and opra on Saturday.

The events include a traditional bonfire near the stadium at 5 p.m. Friday, followed immediately by a stew supper in the school cafeteria.

At 7:30 p.m., the Borden County Coyotes take on the Wellman Wildcats at Coyote Field. Tickets are $2 for adults and $1 for children at the gate. The Texas Tech University Masked Rider, 1988 Borden County High School graduate Ralynn Key, is expected to perform during a halftime filled with special events.

Ira's two senior football players, Juve Balague and Will Shafer, and their parents, will be recognized. Also named will be the 1991-92 homecoming queen, football beau and band sweetheart.

Candidates for queen are seniors Amanda Anderson, Shane Hess and Kristin Monger. They will be escorted by football beau candidates Shafer and juniors J.J. Kincheloe and John Paul Harris. Band sweethearts are seniors Hess and Pat Underwood, and sophomore Melody Harrison.

An exes reception will follow the game in the high school conference room. Special guests will be class members of 1981. Also scheduled is a dance in the county show barn. Tickets are $8 for couples, $5 for singles and $3 for elementary students.

On Saturday, Borden County Junior Livestock Association is sponsoring its fourth annual Coyote Opra and the county's second annual fair at the show barn.

A "B" team roping in the county arena will open activities at 10 a.m.

Fair participants are to bring their exhibits to the county show barn from 11 a.m. until noon. Categories being judged will include home canned preserves and jellies, quilts, embroidery, crochet and textile painting. Also being judged are irrigated and dry land cotton stalks.

There will be an art show for Borden County children from grades K-12.

Wet, cool weather forecast for Snyder

Snyder has received over 1½ inches of rain since the weekend and more than 3 inches in the past week and a half, and the forecast is calling for more.

Snyder water pump and filter plant recorded .36 of an inch during the 24-hour period from 7 a.m. Tuesday to 7 a.m. today, but scattered showers continued to fall at noon.

Along with the wet, Scurry County residents are advised to be prepared for cooler weather this weekend. Highs Thursday and Friday are expected in the mid 60s, with lows touching the low 50s. School children may need a light coat Friday morning.

Forecasts call for a 60 percent chance of rainfall this evening with continued cloudy skies. The showers should taper off by the weekend but a 40 percent chance of precipitation is expected Thursday.

Snyder has picked up 1.66 inches of rain in the last three days, and 3.24 inches since Sunday, Sept. 9. The year's rainfall total stands at 19.27 inches.

Aggregate reports from areas around Snyder indicate Hermleigh has received 2.10 inches of precipitation this week while Ira has picked up 1.70, Fluvanna 1.30 and Lloyd Mountain 2.45.

Lake Thomas reports little inflow since the rain, which has been sporadic and light, has been able to soak into the ground. Officials say a hard rain is needed to significantly increase the lake level.

Air wing heading into Saudi Arabia for show of force

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States is sending warplanes into Saudi Arabia to pressure a belligerent Saddam Hussein to comply with the Gulf War cease-fire, the White House said today.

"There are some units that will definitely go in, ... some within the next day or so," said a senior administration official traveling with President Bush aboard Air Force One.

"There are certain precautionary moves being made in connection with the altercation with Iraq about the use of U.N. helicopters and that's what's going on," said the official, who spoke only on condition of anonymity.

Pentagon sources, speaking privately, said one U.S. air wing was to be sent into the region, along with forces to provide intelligence, security and possible rescue teams for the U.N. personnel attempting to inspect Iraqi weapons facilities.

It was not immediately clear how many U.S. warplanes were being sent, where they would be dispatched from, or what types would be used.

Some U.S. allies from the coalition that defeated Iraq in the Persian Gulf War are participating in the effort as well, the administration official said.

"There will be some units moved to Saudi Arabia, yes," the administration official said.

In the six months since the end of the war, Saddam has frustrated United Nations efforts to search for Iraqi nuclear and chemical weapons and ballistic missiles. Under the U.N. cease-fire resolution, Iraq is required to destroy all those weapons and permit international inspections of its weapons-making facilities.

The feller on Deep Creek says, "With some folks, a clear conscience is nothing more than a poor memory."

We remain skeptical, but perhaps the advertising experts on Madison Avenue can overcome the obvious objections.

Researchers in the dairy department at the University of Wisconsin are using mice to test new genetic combinations that alter the protein levels in milk.

Ag scientists hope to make designer milks that are custom-made for different cheeses, yogurts and ice cream. This would turn milk into a specialty item rather than a commodity.

Milking mice is no easy task, not to mention micro-sized milking machines. Milking time is said to vary, depending on the size of the herd.

Another problem is meeting production quotas since even the top-producing mouse produces less than a teaspoon of milk a day. At that level, a farmer would need 6,000 mice to keep even with the typical Holstein which will average eight gallons of milk a day.

The researcher is hopeful that the findings about mice milk production can be transferred to cows. He even doubts that consumers will go for mouse milk despite some great marketing opportunities.

For example, who is supposed to know more about cheese than a mouse?

Speaking of marketing, the Wall Street Journal reports that a realtor in New Jersey offers help to newly-married couples needing a down payment for a new home.

The firm sets up a down-payment fund in a bank where wedding guests can deposit money toward the purchase of the couple's new home.

Morales: settlement could cost up to $650 million

AUSTIN (AP) — An attorney for counties that successfully sued the state over jail overcrowding said she does not know why Attorney General Dan Morales has not yet approved a proposed settlement between the counties and the state.

"I can't really figure out what's going on," Austin attorney Ann Snell said Tuesday.

County officials have said that Morales' failure to act on the proposal was placing it in jeopardy. The settlement must be signed by all parties by Sept. 30.

The counties successfully sued the state for the cost of housing thousands of inmates backed up in county jails because of overcrowding problems in state prisons.

Morales said Tuesday that the proposed settlement could cost the state an additional $650 million over the next four years.

Lawmakers last month reached a $156 million agreement with the counties on settling the lawsuits.

A similar settlement died in June after Harris County refused to sign it. State officials and 13 other counties, led by Nueces County, that won lawsuits against the state signed the accord.

Morales said the extra $650 million could come from additional litigation and costs of caring for prisoners over the next four years.

"The problem here really is that additional litigation would be possible under the terms of the settlement agreement that the Nueces County defendants sent over. I'm not sure that the state leadership understands that," he said.

Morales said he has given Gov. Ann Richards, Lt. Gov. Bob Bullock, House Speaker Gib Lewis legislators his evaluation of the settlement proposal.

But Ms. Snell said she believed legislative leaders and the governor's office understood the terms of the agreement.

Attorney general says...

State anti-trust laws have been violated

AUSTIN (AP) — Alleged bid-rigging in infant formula contracts has kept some babies from receiving free formula through a state-administered aid program, Attorney General Dan Morales said in filing a lawsuit against two formula makers.

After a three-year investigation, Morales on Tuesday filed suit against Abbott Laboratories of Abbott Park, Ill., parent company of Ross Laboratories, maker of Similac; and New York-based Bristol-Myers Squibb Co., parent of Mead Johnson & Co., which makes Enfamil.

Morales accused the companies of trying to monopolize the market and charging Texans far too much for their babies' nourishment. The two companies have controlled 80 to 95 percent of the national infant formula market since the 1960s, he said.

The milk-based formulas are used as an alternative to breast feeding.

Morales also alleged that the companies rigged contract bids in the federal Special Supplemental Food Program for Women, Infants and Children, administered through the Texas Department of Health.

The lawsuit seeks $1 million for each of 13 alleged violations by the two companies of the state's antitrust laws and triple damages for Texas consumers and the WIC program, which Morales said could reach hundreds of millions of dollars.

The case "represents the most unconscionable type of fraud because it's directed at children, and because it's directed predominantly and disproportionately at poor children," Morales said.

"Their tactics and inflated prices have resulted in thousands of victimized young parents and low-income families who struggle to provide their babies with the infant formula they need," he said.

Spokesmen for Abbott and Bristol-Myers Squibb denied Morales' allegations.

"I can tell you that we have not seen the lawsuit, and that Abbott Laboratories is not engaged in price fixing, bid rigging or any other illegal behavior," said Jed Weiner, corporate communications manager for Abbott.

Bristol-Myers Squibb spokeswoman Francine Gingras said: "We have not, we do not, and we will not discuss pricing or marketing practices with our competitors."

Also named as a defendant in the lawsuit, which was filed in state district court in Travis County, was the American Academy of Pediatrics.

Morales accused the 41,000-member non-profit physicians' organization, headquartered in Elk Grove Village, Ill., of "wielding the police power" for the two manufacturers, who he said "buy the loyalty of medical providers."

The two companies have donated millions of dollars to the academy, paid for medical conference trips and given free infant formula to medical providers, he said.

In return, Morales alleged, the doctors recommend the formulas to parents by giving them samples, which he said often are wrongly perceived as prescriptions.

In addition, the AAP maintained a "stranglehold" on advertising of infant formula, he said. Abbott and Bristol-Myers Squibb agreed with the AAP's policy not to market formula directly to parents, and the AAP boycotted Carnation Co. when it did so in 1988, Morales said.

Have no fear, only faith

Beginners are taught to avoid giving declarer a ruff and discard. However, like all pieces of bridge advice, this has its exceptions. When should you concede a ruff and discard? The answer is: when the discard cannot help declarer, and broaching a new suit instead will cost your side a trick. Or when declarer's trumps are weak and cannot stand the attack from a ruff and discard. But how do you recognize these occasions? In the former case, usually by counting out the hand. In the latter, by seeing that you are not going to get any more tricks in the side-suits, so your only chance for extra tricks lies in the trump suit.

The Dutch pair Bep Vriend and Carla Arnolds, who finished third in last year's World Women's Pairs Championship, spotted the right moment for a ruff and discard on today's hand, taken from this year's European Women's Championship.

Four spades looks like an easy contract to fulfill, with only one spade loser and two club losers. And that was how it looked to East, Vriend, when the dummy was tabled. With so few points missing, it seemed that declarer had no red-suit losers. The only chance for the defense lay in the trumps. So Vriend won the first trick with the club king, cashed the club ace and led a third club, even though she knew she was conceding a ruff and discard.

Declarer ruffed in the dummy and called for a spade. Vriend shot up with the ace and led another club. This promoted a trick for West's spade jack, defeating the contract.

At the right moment, giving a ruff and discard is the best defense.

Boy Scouts won't reconsider anti-gay policy

DALLAS (AP) — The Boy Scouts of America will not reconsider its policy excluding homosexuals in the wake of a decision by the San Francisco school board to ban an in-school training program administered by the Scouts.

The Boy Scouts of America believes a scout's vow to remain "morally straight" means a heterosexual orientation.

"It is inappropriate to change those values, just to expand the rank of the organization," said Blake Lewis, a spokesman for the Irving-based non-profit group.

San Francisco officials objected to a prototype of the newly begun Learning for Life program. The "non-traditional" program in San Francisco includes regular scouts and other groups — including girls — that traditionally have been excluded from the Boy Scout ranks, Lewis said Tuesday.

About 9,000 students were participating in the program, which Boys Scouts of America says is designed to promote self-esteem, ethical decision making, community service and personal growth.

Tom Ammiano is the San Francisco school board member who presented the ban against the in-school program.

"I tend to think the stand that you take against discrimination really reflects the kind of school district that you have," said Ammiano. "I understand sometimes it seems risky because you have organizations like the Boy Scouts who seem to be sacrosanct. But it's like a member of your family. You tell them, 'When you're wrong, you're wrong.'"

Although the Boy Scouts doesn't view the San Francisco school board's move as a possible rejection trend nationwide, it is one of several recent challenges to the organization.

Marty Cutrone of the San Francisco Bay Area Council of the Boy

Scouts said he wouldn't be surprised if the issue came up in metropolitan areas throughout the country.

"Nobody is panicking at this point," he said. "To anticipate some kind of stampede or domino effect is very premature."

"At this point, we are not aware of any other school district (except San Francisco) taking action related to in-school scouting. We just have to take it a district at a time, a day at a time. It's premature to do otherwise."

The action by the school board will not force the 81-year-old organization to reconsider its policy to include homosexuals among its 4.5 million members.

Lewis said attacks by critics are viewed by the organization's leaders as professional jealousy, not as genuine civil rights disputes.

"Scouting has become very, very successful," he said. "People have decided at all costs they're going to try to get into the organization."

"I think with our success with young people, people are saying they want that benefit for their children."

Another challenge to the organization occurred this summer in Miami when Court Judge Eugene Fierro refused to order the Boy Scouts to accept 8-year-old Margo Mankes.

The girl wanted to attend a scout camp with her brothers and filed a sex discrimination lawsuit.

California has been the site of several scouting disputes.

This year, the state Superior Court in Los Angeles ruled that the First Amendment gave the Boy Scouts the right to dismiss a homosexual assistant scoutmaster.

Last Friday, Sacramento

County Superior Court Judge Richard Park denied a motion by the Boy Scouts to keep the organization's sexual abuse records secret. Instead, Park ordered the Boy Scouts to surrender the files by Oct. 10 to an attorney representing a boy claiming he was abused by a scoutmaster.

Earlier this year, the Bay Area United Way in San Francisco withheld a $9,000 grant because of complaints that homosexuals are excluded from the Boy Scouts. That launched the Learning for Life program, which helped settle the matter.

Critics, however, have said that program is a "separate-but-equal" proposal.

Both the Girl Scouts of the U.S.A. and Boy Scouts were developed from scouting programs in England founded by Lord Robert Baden-Powell near the turn of the century.

But unlike the Boy Scouts, the Girl Scouts does not take a rigid stance on sexual or religious preferences.

Bank backing helps company

DALLAS (AP) — Republic Health Corp. said Tuesday two New York banks agreed to underwrite $235 million for a portion of a recapitalization that will give the hospital company more working capital.

The commitment from Citibank and Chemical Bank will allow Republic Health to finish its recapitalization within a month, the company said.

The recapitalization allows the company to shed $118 million in debt, cut interest expense from $41 million to $20 million annually and raise shareholders' equity from $46 million to $180 million.

In addition to the bank underwriting, the recapitalization included new common and preferred stock issues, retirement of some notes and sale of others.

Republic Health owns or leases and operates 11 acute care hospitals and three surgery centers in six states.

All cook-off winners are announced

Kevin Larson of Odessa cooked up the winning pot of chili in last weekend's Lake Thomas Brisket, Chili and Bean Cook-off, sponsored by Wayne and Bettie Wilcox.

The cook-off, scheduled to be an annual event, had 28 chili entries and 22 brisket entries. The competition also helped contestants earn points for the Terlingua Chili Cook-off.

"We had a great time," said Mrs. Wilcox who said she and her husband initiated the event because "It's fun and we enjoy cooking."

Mrs. Wilcox also said that Lake Thomas will be the site for the Texas State Championship Brisket Cook-off next year. Dates for the event, which could bring up to 1,000 entries, have yet to be posted.

Russell Sylvest of Sweetwater won the brisket cook-off at Lake Thomas. Second place went to former Snyder police chief Bill Stone and Billie Stone. Third place was won by Johnny Hooper of Big Spring.

Winners in the bean cook-off were Doris Ogden, Sue Yates and Sammy Plant of San Angelo.

Christy Kirkland won the junior chili contest competitor of the two-day event. Also placing in the 8-to-17 age group were Butch Bennington of Abilene, second; Greg Bennington of Abilene, third; The Kennemur Klan of Elbow, fourth; and Cody Sylvest of Sweetwater, fifth.

Other winners in the adult division chili cook-off were Ken Large of Midland, second; Shanna Kirkland of Cotton Center, third; Wild Willy Chili (Jimmy Don Lloyd) of Snyder, fourth; Sheryl Hyson of Odessa, fifth; The Bad Boys of Lubbock, sixth; Mayor Max Green of Big Spring, seventh; Kathy Herndon of Odessa, eighth; Jeff Kirkland of Cotton Center, ninth; and The Kennemur Klan of Elbow, tenth.

Jerry Garrett of Dallas received the travel trophy. The showmanship trophy went to The Chapmans of Odessa. Second were The Bad Boys of Lubbock, followed by The Gas House Gang of Sweetwater.

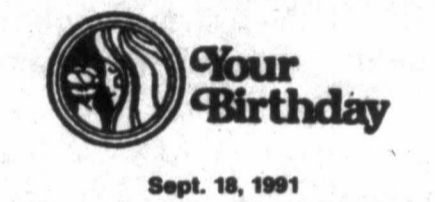

Trophies were donated by D&J's Auto Parts in Big Spring. Other door prizes and awards were donated by merchants in area cities.

Wayne Thompson of Ira provided music for dances and the sound system for judging announcements.

Proceeds from the event went to the Big Spring Evening Lions Club.

It doesn't look as though you'll suffer any type of material privation in the year ahead. However, your happiest changes are likely to be where your social life is concerned.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Mutual benefits can be derived at this time through those with whom you spend your leisure hours. You can help them, and they can help you. Virgo, treat yourself to a birthday gift. SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Happy tidings might come your way today through a dear friend who is extremely fond of you and has always had your best interest at heart. It is something for which you've been hoping.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Both financial and ambitious objectives have excellent possibilities for fulfillment at this time. However, it will be up to you to provide the motivation and perseverance necessary.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Early in the day, you may be too serious-minded, but as you successfully deal with events, your sobriety will be transformed into lightheartedness.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Someone you've treated with consideration in the past is now in a position to return the favor and will be happy to do so, provided you make your needs known.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Positive expectancy can move mountains for you today, so don't let anyone alter your attitude. Avoid pessimists who may try to rain on your parade.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Both status and earning conditions could be more gratifying than usual today, but you must be relentless when pursuing selected objectives. Keep going until you win.

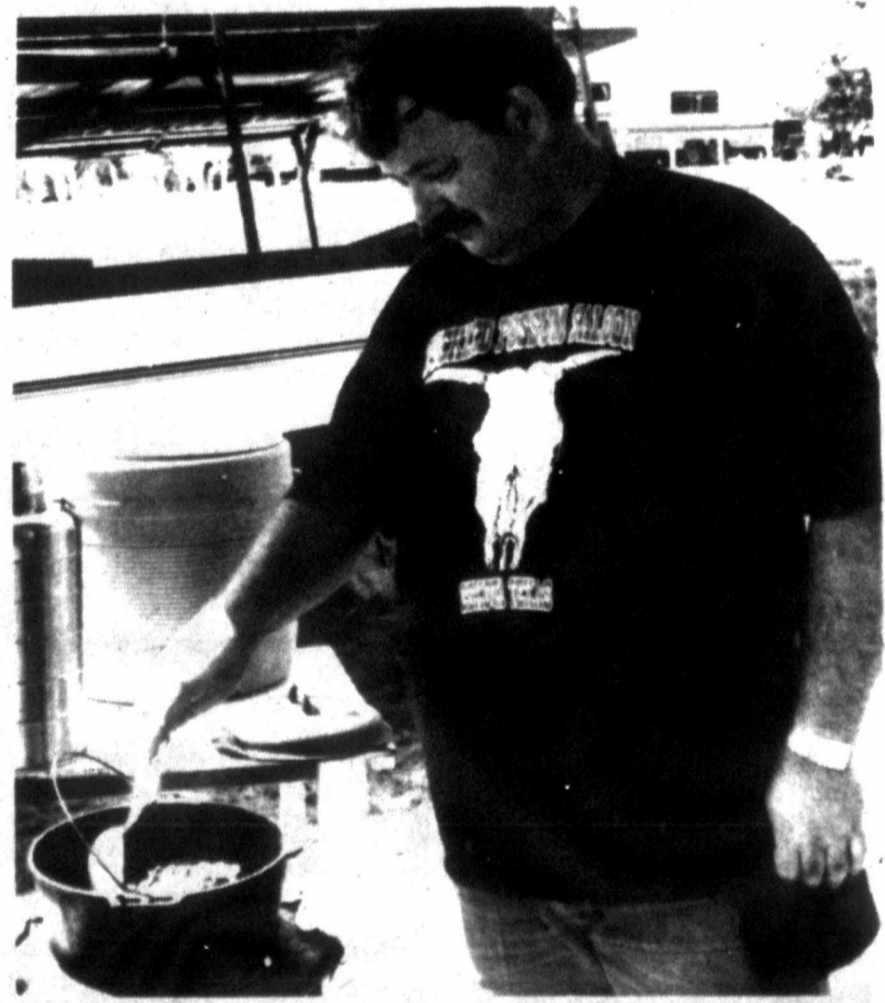

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) A vexing problem can be resolved today — if you make it your priority. The solution will be much simpler than you first imagined.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Unselfishly giving of your time and talents today will create an atmosphere that invites reciprocity. When you give, you will get.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) You are likely to be luckier working with partners today than you will be attempting to do things on your own. This could become evident in an important endeavor in which you're presently involved.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Your recent efforts will not go unacknowledged, nor will they go unrewarded. What you're truly entitled to might be paid off with dividends in this time frame.

Dallas gets federal grant

DALLAS (AP) — A $432,000 federal grant has been approved for the city of Dallas to help pay for a three-mile levee.

The Federal Emergency Management Agency, also known as FEMA, approved the grant Monday in Washington.

The funds were requested to help alleviate future flooding near the Trinity River and White Rock Creek in the Rochester Park area.

The levee is already under construction and should be finished by September 1992.
