Ask Us

Q—Have commissioners created another voting precinct with Precinct 6?

A—No. Precinct 6 is just a name given to the budget line-item for equipment consolidation. Although most machinery will be combined into a centralized location, commissioners will remain in charge of activity in their precincts. Commissioners are currently looking for a location for the precinct barn.

In Brief

Miner protest

BUCHAREST, Romania (AP) — Rampaging miners demanding the premier's resignation and a price freeze stormed into the capital today and forced their way past police into a government building, witnesses and news reports said.

A witness reported the miners, who commandeered trains overnight from a coal mining region 150 miles northwest of Bucharest, smashed windows at the government building with chains and clubs.

WTSU audit

CANYON, Texas (AP) — Not only has the state auditor refused to rescind a critical report of West Texas State University, he has broadened the investigation into the school, authorities say.

The report released in April touched on federal and state student loan funds, endowments and scholarships. That audit is now the object of a grand jury investigation, prosecutors confirmed Tuesday.

Seuss dies

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Theodor Seuss Geisel, the master of rhyme and doodle who as Dr. Seuss wrote such whimsical children's classics as "The Cat in the Hat" and "How the Grinch Stole Christmas," has died. He was 87.

Patriots sent back to Saudi Arabia Documents show Iraq has 'extensive' nuclear contacts

WASHINGTON (AP) — Six months after the end of the Persian Gulf War, the United States today began moving forces back to Saudi Arabia — nearly 100 Patriot antimissile missiles and more than 1,300 soldiers to operate them.

Gen. Colin Powell, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, told Congress today the surface-to-air missiles would be in place in Saudi Arabia in a few days.

Powell also said a team of U.S. inspectors being detained in Baghdad had "hit gold mines" of evidence that Iraq was developing nuclear weapons. Powell declined to provide details of the information gleaned, but said the documents showed that Iraq "had extensive contacts around the world" to obtain equipment and know-how for its nuclear program.

Powell told a House armed service subcommittee that the movement of missiles and support troops began early this morning. He said there were no other U.S. troop movements today but that President Bush "has preserved all his options" for responding to Saddam Hussein's standoff.

Powell said he spoke to Bush this morning and "the president is viewing this as a very serious matter."

"In response to a request from our friends in Saudi Arabia, two U.S. Patriot battalions have started moving today from Germany," Powell said.

"We don't know that there is any significant threat at the moment (to Saudi Arabia), but it's wise to be prudent," Powell said.

"I've just come from a meeting with the president and he intends to be assured that in the final analysis the will of the international community is satisfied with respect to these matters. He has preserved all his options," Powell said.

Powell made no mention of the possibility of sending additional U.S. warplanes to the region. He said the United States still has "a rather significant air-capability" in Saudi Arabia.

Powell said if Bush decided to order air strikes against Iraq (see IRAQ, page 8)

New events are added to White Buffalo Days

A buffalo toe toss, Ms. White Buffalo beauty contest and an authentic American Indian are new attractions to this year's White Buffalo Days celebration.

Day-long activities, entertainment, competitions and art and crafts and food booths are slated for the annual celebration Saturday, Oct. 12, at Scurry County Coliseum.

This year's entertainment will include an encore performance of the melodrama "The Shakey Tale of Dr. Jakey," performed earlier this year as a Noah Project fundraiser, and a Ms. White Buffalo beauty contest featuring some of Snyder's not so feminine civic and business personalities.

Intermission of the melodrama will be highlighted by a drawing for a quilt by the senior citizens center and the announcing of the winners of the Calico Cutie and Buffalo Bill contest. Vying for the bison title will be approximately a dozen local men sporting maidenly attire. The beauty contest will begin at 5:30 p.m. and the melodrama is scheduled for a 7 p.m. start.

Also appearing this year will be local Ray Hernandez. Hernandez is a Tonkawa Indian and frequently travels throughout the state presenting programs on his heritage. He will present a program at 4:30 p.m. that will include a brief history of the white buffalo and its significance to the Indian.

A teepee and white buffalo statue will be the background for photos of Hernandez in his native attire which can be purchased for $2.

Other activities for the day include a buffalo toe toss, the Judge's Cup Race, a tortilla toss, stick horse rodeo, turtle races and a remote control car race.

In addition, local merchants will sponsor a "White Elephant" store in the coliseum foyer, the Dodson House will be open and Scurry County Museum will have a bean and cornbread feed before the melodrama and again open the Pete Snyder Store.

Booths for the event will open at 9 a.m. with activities to begin at 11 and entertainment at 11:30. Activities will wind down at 9 p.m.

Enterprise zone hearing draws no public comment

A public hearing on the city's proposed enterprise zone prompted no public comment Tuesday night at city hall.

The public hearing was the last step before the city council approves the zone application for submission to the Texas Department of Commerce. Earlier this month, the council adopted the designated zone.

In a brief presentation to the council, Vick Chambers, who worked on the application, said the zone is designed to attract labor-intensive industries and get people to work. Pending approval from the commerce department, businesses within the zone and those moving into the zone could be nominated as enterprise projects. Again pending the state agency's approval, the business then would be eligible for state funded incentives.

No local tax abatement for businesses located in the designated area was included in the zone package, although the suggestion had earlier been discussed by the council. Instead, city officials have said local incentives of any kind, which would include tax abatement, will be considered on a case by case basis.

Mayor Troy Williamson cautioned that because a city has an enterprise zone, "businesses don't necessarily come flocking to the city." However, the zone is used as an incentive in attracting industry and often businesses looking for locations are directed to enterprise zone cities by state agencies, said Chambers. ## Tiebreaker determines grid winner

Fifteen entrants missed five games each in last week's SDN Football Contest, causing judges to again resort to the tiebreaker to determine winners.

Joshua Kemp of 3603 40th predicted 42 points on the tiebreaker to win the first place prize of $50. The actual score was 44 points.

Jessie Maldonado of 3908 Muriel Dr. and Cory Maxfield of Rt. 2 Box 59 will share the second and third place prize money. They both guessed 31 total points.

Anyone except SDN employees is eligible to enter the football contest each week. The contest appears in each Tuesday issue and must be turned in by 5 p.m. Friday.

The SDN Column

By Roy McQueen

The feller on Deep Creek says, "Instead of getting older and wiser, it's far too easy to just get older and wider."

Overheard a disgruntled citizen in the coffee shop:

"It ought to be obvious to our state officials that something is wrong with public education. After all, most of them wouldn't have been elected if voters were smart."

Football season is in full swing and Snyder's Dena Ellis dropped an item by the office that will fit most husband-wife relationships this time of year.

"My husband is a big game hunter — he switches channels all day Sunday."

Speaking of football, did you hear about the Aggie grizzer whose lettering on his shoes concerned the A&M head coach.

The coach was walking through the training room when he eyed a wide receiver's white game shoes with big TGIF letters on them.

Knowing that advertising products is against NCAA rules, the coach lectured him about prohibitions against endorsements for any company. "You'll just have to tell that restaurant you can't do it. Now get that TGIF off your shoes."

"Gosh, coach, it ain't what you think," he said. "It helps me get dressed real quick."

"What do you mean?"

"Look coach," said the Aggie, "TGIF means toes go in first."

Did you hear about the Aggie who had a hard time making decisions?

He came to an intersection with a four-way stop and spent the whole evening.

Don't Wait for an Invitation To Help Someone in Need

DEAR ABBY: Concerning people who are hooked on drugs and/or alcohol, I just read a letter in the San Diego Union from the woman who signed herself, "Broke the Cycle in Dallas." I agree with the writer wholeheartedly, and with your response as well. However, I would like to go one step further: Family members can help "someone who doesn't want help" — someone who is in denial. Denial, and that "false sense of control" we call delusional thinking, creates havoc in relationships. However, this denial can be broken through with a process called Intervention.

I recommend Intervention to anyone who is frustrated by another person's drinking or using. You don't have to wait for someone to "hit bottom," which could ultimately be death.

I am a professional counselor at The McDonald Center for Alcoholism and Drug Addiction Treatment at Scripps Memorial Hospital in La Jolla, Calif. To learn more about Intervention, call a local treatment center — or call our 24-hour Parent and Teen Helpline: 1-619-458-4357. JOHN C. SEAMAN, M.A.

DEAR MR. SEAMAN: Thanks for a potentially lifesaving letter for the thousands of people who are hooked on alcohol and/or drugs but insist they can handle it — which they cannot.

In her second year of college, she started dating guys with long hair. None of them were druggies, but they were all long-hair types. We would have called them "hippies" in my day. Her latest boyfriend has a tattoo on his arm. Well, last week our daughter came home with an ugly tattoo of an eye on her ankle!

Abby, we are decent people, but I feel as though our daughter has betrayed us and all our teachings and beliefs. I know that tattoos are fashionable right now, but I am sure the day will come when she will be sorry and embarrassed about that tattoo on her ankle. I am humiliated and would like to know how much parents are supposed to take.

UNHAPPY DOWN SOUTH

DEAR UNHAPPY: You are taking this too personally; keep in mind that the ankle with the tattoo is your daughter's, not yours. Your daughter sounds like a bright, responsible young woman. Don't worry about her tattoo. Should she ever feel sorry and embarrassed, the tattoo can be covered with a cosmetic. Two of the best — Covermark or Dermablend — can be found in most department stores and some pharmacies.

This one's for everybody, from teens to seniors! To purchase Abby's new booklet, "The Anger in All of Us and How to Deal With It," send a long, business-size, self-addressed envelope, plus check or money order for $3.95 ($4.50 in Canada) to: Dear Abby, Anger Booklet, P.O. Box 447, Mount Morris, Ill. 61054. (Postage is included.)

DEAR ABBY: We have a daughter who is a senior in college. She was very popular in high school. She was homecoming queen, a cheerleader and an "A" student.

Juvenile commitments increase 38 percent

AUSTIN (AP) — A 38 percent increase in the number of violent offenders committed to the state's juvenile corrections agency has put a "significant strain" on the system, officials said.

Violent offenders sent to the Texas Youth Commission increased from 313 in fiscal year 1990 to 431 in 1991, executive director Ron Jackson said Tuesday.

Juveniles committed for capital murder, attempted capital murder and voluntary manslaughter increased from 49 to 91, a hike of 86 percent.

"As the commission receives an increased percentage of violent offenders, these youth occupy beds in our programs for longer periods of time. This displaces other delinquent youth who we must return to their communities sooner than we would like," Jackson said.

Youths sent to TYC for certain violent crimes are required to remain there until 18 years old, at which time the juvenile court determines whether they should complete the sentence in the TYC or be transferred to the adult prison system.

Juvenile arrests for violent crime increased 61 percent from 1988 to 1990, the TYC reported.

While the number of violent offenders increased, the number of youths committed to the TYC declined from 2,171 in fiscal year 1990 to 2,150 in the last fiscal year.

Several counties experienced sharp increases in the number of youth they sent to the TYC.

Captive returns home after three weeks

GRAPEVINE, Texas (AP) — An archaeological expedition to find Noah's Ark turned into a chilly three-week ordeal after Marvin Wilson was kidnapped by Kurdish rebels.

"I wouldn't recommend this kind of a vacation," Wilson said Tuesday after his arrival at Dallas-Fort Worth International Airport.

The 49-year-old Garland man was among five Westerners freed Friday in Turkey. He was welcomed at the airport by a dozen family members and co-workers carrying a banner.

His wife, Renetta, said she had never abandoned hope.

"Does a dog have a tail?" she asked.

Wilson said he would like to return to Turkey next year.

"I don't have any problems in going back. I'll be a little more careful," he said.

But Mrs. Wilson said she'd like to go along.

"I would go with him if I could cook or help carry dirt," she said.

Wilson, two other Americans, a Briton and an Australian were abducted Aug. 30 after they were stopped at a roadblock.

The Kurds, heavily armed with automatic weapons, grenades and "an assortment of knives" marched the captives from mountain to mountain to avoid thousands of Turkish troops scrambled to look for the missing men.

The tribesmen originally took the men captive to embarrass the Turkish government and bring visibility to their demands for a Kurdish homeland, Wilson said. But the move backfired when the American and Turkish governments took an active interest in tracking the rebels, he said.

"They'd got this tiger and they didn't know how to let go of it," Wilson said.

The captors were members of the outlawed Kurdish Labor Party, or PKK, which has been fighting since 1984 for an independent state in Southeastern Turkey.

Wilson said he was well-treated by the Kurds, but could have used a blanket and some better food.

The captives huddled together for warmth at night and subsisted mostly on bread and goat cheese, Wilson said.

Sometimes there was fruit, and once the Kurds slaughtered and shish-kabobbed a goat.

"I don't recommend it," Wilson said of the goat meat.

Wilson lost 16 pounds during his captivity, but is able to joke that it will be easier now to stay in shape.

Even though the rebels called the captives "friend" and did not harm them, Wilson thinks they should be punished.

"They certainly committed crimes and we think they need to be brought to justice," he said.

Wilson was among four people seeking permits to excavate a hill near Mount Ararat.

Also searching for the ark were Ronald Wyatt of Nashville, Tenn., Richard M. Rives of North Carolina and Australian Allen Roberts.

A Briton, Dr. Gareth Thomas, was abducted from a tourist bus.

Since 1977, Wyatt has been searching for the ark, which the Bible says made a landfall in eastern Turkey after the deluge. Wyatt has been seeking excavation permits for the site he found in 1985.

A boat-shaped rock formation located 14 miles from Mount Ararat there has attracted numerous searchers, including the late U.S. astronaut James Irwin.

"I've been on top of it, walked around it, took pictures," said Wilson, who is convinced that an excavation would document and verify the validity of Biblical history.

Proposal on Texas airport runs into Capitol Hill snag

WASHINGTON (AP) — A House subcommittee chairman says it's unlikely the panel will approve legislation by Kansas lawmakers to lift airline restrictions on an airport near downtown Dallas.

Rep. James Oberstar, D-Minn., said Tuesday the proposal wouldn't pass the House Public Works and Transportation subcommittee on aviation "unless an overwhelming case is made and it hasn't been made yet."

The panel heard from a parade of witnesses at a hearing on the legislation advocated by the Kansas congressional delegation.

Rep. Dan Glickman, D-Kan., said the legislation would "restore some sanity into the pricing of air fares in this country."

The Kansans want to repeal a 1979 law, known as the Wright amendment, that prohibits airlines from providing non-stop service between Dallas Love Field and destinations outside of Texas and its four surrounding states — Oklahoma, Arkansas, Louisiana and New Mexico.

Glickman said the law reduces airline competition and has caused higher fares for flights into Dallas from Kansas and some nearby states.

"I don't see why I should suffer because well-intended people 12 years ago put together a little deal between themselves," said Glickman.

"We've got one bright spot in America that is still offering competitive air fares ... and it's closed off to everybody in this country but people who live right there."

Currently, only Southwest Airlines operates out of Love Field, which is about five miles from downtown Dallas and 12 miles from Dallas-Fort Worth International Airport.

If the airport restrictions are lifted, Glickman said he thought Southwest, a no-frills, low-fare airline, would provide service to Wichita. Texas lawmakers and Oberstar expressed doubts whether that would occur.

No official from Southwest testified at the hearing although company officials were invited.

Texas congressmen and a number of Dallas-Fort Worth officials opposed the legislation. They said would it increase air traffic congestion at Love Field and produce more noise near the airport.

"Turning Love Field into a major commercial airport with unrestricted traffic would not solve Kansas' transportation problems, but it would be devastating to the quality of life in Dallas' inner city," Rep. John Bryant, D-Texas, said in a statement.

Opponents also warned that it could siphon off passengers and airline service from the Dallas-Fort Worth airport, undermining cooperation between the rival cities that lead to the establishment of the larger joint metropolitan airport.

Former House Speaker Jim Wright, a Texas Democrat, sponsored the Love Field restrictions to ensure that Dallas-Fort Worth would become the region's primary airport.

Oberstar expressed doubts that lifting the Love Field restrictions would solve air fare problems facing Kansans and travelers in other states.

Elections due in November

MARFA, Texas (AP) — Voters in Brewster and Presidio counties will go to the polls in November to decide whether to form a two-county hospital district to support financially struggling Big Bend Regional Medical Center.

Presidio County Hospital District directors set Nov. 22 as the special election date for that county. Brewster County's district will schedule an election for the same day in a meeting next month.

In an election Friday, Presidio County residents rejected a proposal to dissolve Presidio County's hospital district. Had voters approved the proposal, the two county hospital district question would have been moot.

Many survivors of abuse are calling hotline

DENVER (AP) — A national child abuse center reports it has been inundated with calls following comedian Roseanne Arnold's statement that she was abused by her parents.

"The survivors are calling and calling and calling," said D.D. Harvey, director of an incest survivors group at the Kempe National Center for Prevention and Treatment of Child Abuse.

Arnold, the star of the TV series "Roseanne," said in a speech Saturday that she was abused throughout her childhood. The speech was sponsored by the center.

Jury gives man life

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — A man who murdered and mutilated a female roommate then mailed a photograph of the body to True Confessions magazine was sentenced to life in prison.

Lawrence Barfield, 40, was convicted Monday in the dismemberment and slaying of Veronica Stone, 21, with whom he shared an apartment in suburban Grapevine.

Jurors took just over an hour Monday to return their guilty plea. The same jury Tuesday quickly decided on the maximum punishment. Barfield also was fined $10,000.

Barfield has been in the Tarrant County Jail for almost two years, since shortly after his arrest in the slaying. He will be transferred immediately to state prison.

Barfield dismembered Ms. Stone's body, stowed her remains in a bedroom closet and then penned a 200-page manuscript describing the murder. After mailing the manuscript and a gruesome photograph of his victim, he tried to commit suicide by shooting himself, but survived.

Prosecutors depicted Barfield as a love-sick "beast" who killed Ms. Stone because she refused to have sex with him.

Ms. Stone was killed Oct. 18, 1989, after being beaten on the head with a hammer at least 25 times.

Dr. Stephen Putthoff, deputy medical examiner for the Tarrant County Medical Examiner's Office, testified last week that Ms. Stone was conscious during at least part of the attack because she had injuries on her hands showing that she had tried to protect herself.

Following the murder, Barfield wrote the manuscript and several letters to friends and family members preparing them for Ms. Stone's death and his own planned death, said prosecutors.

Barfield's brother told Denton County authorities on Oct. 25, 1989 that he had received one of the letters. Grapevine police found Barfield with a gunshot wound to the head in the apartment bedroom. Ms. Stone's remains were found in the same room.

Jack Strickland, Barfield's court-appointed attorney, tried to convince the jury that Barfield was insane at the time of the attack.

'Eddie Munster' actor receives 2 years probation

WHEATON, Ill. (AP) — Patrick Lilley, the actor who played Eddie Munster in the 1960s television series "The Munsters," was sentenced Tuesday to two years probation for beating up a limousine driver.

Lilley, 38, of Austin, Texas, was convicted by a jury of aggravated battery in the attack on the driver last November. Lilley was acquitted of armed robbery.

In addition to the probation, Associate Judge Peter Dockery of DuPage County ordered Lilley to pay a $200 fine and $850 in restitution to the driver. Lilley also must perform 200 hours of public service. Prosecutors had sought a two-year prison sentence.

The judge said Lilley can continue to travel as long as he keeps in touch with the probation department.

Agent 99 cuts communication

By Phillip Alder

The two super-spy organizations, Control and Kaos, have turned in their cloaks and daggers for decks of cards. In the second rubber, Kaos is vulnerable, since the Groovy Guru, the man with tie-dyed flowers in his hair, made a slam.

On the third hand of the rubber, the Groovy Guru, West, led the heart nine.

"Good luck, 99," said Maxwell Smart, Agent 86, as he tabled his dummy.

"Thank you, Max," said 99, relieved to see the heart honors on the table.

Declarer could see at least one heart trick, one club trick and four diamond tricks. If East had the club king, the contract was safe unless the defenders could cash four spade tricks. But 99 was always cautious, even when hunting for bloodthirsty Kaos killers. She hoped to make the game despite a losing club finesse. First it was vital to neutralize the threat of the opponents' heart suit.

"Heart king, please, Max."

Siegfried won with the ace, setting up South's queen, but he couldn't return a heart without giving declarer a second heart winner. Instead he tried the spade queen. Agent 99 put up the king, played a diamond to the dummy and ran the club 10.

After winning with the king, the Groovy Guru returned a heart because he knew the spade suit was blocked. Agent 99 won with the queen and claimed her nine tricks: one spade, one heart, four diamonds and three clubs.

"Well played, 99."

"Thank you, Max. I was lucky the spades were blocked."

"Ja, 99, you vere lucky," said Siegfried. "But such a pretty woman is allowed to be lucky vonce."

Exposure to chemicals caused birth defects, miscarriages, suit says

BROWNSVILLE, Texas (AP) — An electronics company exposed pregnant employees to hazardous chemicals — a negligent practice that led to birth defects and even death among their children, a lawsuit says.

Many women who worked at the Mallory Capacitor Co. plant in Matamoros, Mexico, during the 1960s and '70s experienced miscarriages and stillbirths, according to the suit.

Others had children who died shortly after birth or suffered from "extensive and grievous" physical and mental defects, the suit says.

"We have kids born without limbs; the majority cannot care for themselves, some can only grunt and groan and there are many similar defects," Ernesto Gamez, the plaintiffs' attorney, said Tuesday.

"Many of these families had normal children prior to them working there," he said.

About 50 children from Brownsville and Matamoros and their families are listed as plaintiffs in the suit filed Monday in state district court. The plaintiffs seek unspecified damages.

Gamez said he viewed the lawsuit as more than an attempt to obtain reparations for the families he said were affected by corporate negligence.

"This is also a righteous suit in that we want to stop American companies from using the Mexican labor force for their own economic benefit and then walk away from it and say it's not our problem," Gamez said.

The Matamoros plant, which employed some 200 people until it shut down in 1977, was owned by Mallory Capacitors of Indianapolis, Ind., at the time of the alleged violations.

However, it was not immediately clear who is actually liable for the plant's operations during that period.

The company is now owned by North American Capacitor Co., which does not assume liability for the plant, said Jo Carr, a company spokeswoman in Indianapolis.

Black & Decker, which bought Emhart Electrical, Mallory's parent company in 1989, never owned the Matamoros plant, said Black & Decker spokeswoman Barbara Lucas.

Lady Tigers edge Sweetwater

By PHIL RIDDLE
SDN Sports Editor

Senior Daisy Brazier scored nine points for the Lady Tigers Tuesday, but none were more important than her last three, all consecutive service aces, which gave Snyder a 15-13 win in the decisive third game of the non-district volleyball match against Sweetwater.

Snyder's 15-4, 11-15, 15-13 victory wound up a three match sweep in which the Lady Tiger freshmen posted a 14-16, 15-13, 15-5 win and the Snyder JV edged the visiting Lady

Downing hit lifts Rangers

SEATTLE (AP) — Brian Downing singled in Gary Pettis from second base with two outs in the ninth inning as the Rangers beat the Mariners, 9-7.

Pettis singled with one out and moved to second on pinch-hitter Jack Daugherty's infield out off Mike Jackson (7-7). After Jackson hit pinch-hitter Rob Maurer, Downing singled.

Jeff Russell (6-4) got the victory by pitching the ninth after blowing his 10th save in 38 opportunities in the eighth, when the Mariners tied the score by scoring four runs.

Mustangs, 16-14, 11-15, 15-12. "I was very pleased with their performance," Snyder coach Patty Grimmert said of the varsity squad.

"Melanie Duncan did a good job at the net and Daisy had a good night blocking. We had some good solid blocks, we played sound defense and our serving was much better."

Grimmett said that no more than three serves were missed in any one game in Tuesday's match, as opposed to six and eight being missed in games against Andrews on Saturday.

"The first game we played real well on offense," Grimmert continued. In Game Two we had a few problems but the girls stuck it out and never let up.

"We needed a match like this just before the start of district play."

The Lady Tigers host Dunbar at 2 p.m. Saturday to begin the District 2-4A race.

Brazier wound up the night with nine service points, including four aces. Joellen King also punched in nine, featuring a pair of aces.

Julie Johnson hammered in seven points followed by five, three on ace serves, by Amber Bowlin, and Stephanie Fambro's one.

Melissa Hernandez scored 15 and Misty Roquemore added eight in the JV's win.

Junior Varsity coach Laura Holt of Snyder also cited Jennifer Trevey for outstanding play.

"Jennifer did an excellent job at the net," she said. "The team showed some good hustle in taking us to 9-6 for the

Judge refuses to block suit

PATERSON, N.J. (AP) — A Superior Court judge who has presided over numerous cases involving boxing matches, has declined to get involved in a Texas lawsuit brought by George Foreman, who claims he should be in the ring fighting Evander Holyfield, not Mike Tyson.

Judge Amos C. Saunders, sitting in Passaic County on Tuesday refused to block Foreman's lawsuit, saying the dispute does not involve his court.

Tyson and Holyfield are scheduled to face one another Nov. 8 in Las Vegas.

Foreman claims, in his Texas lawsuit, that Holyfield representatives agreed to a rematch after Foreman lost his heavyweight challenge to Holyfield in April.

Holyfield's representatives said they began hammering out a deal with Foreman's managers, just in case they couldn't get a match with Tyson. However, they say they never reached the written contract stage.

Giants outlast Houston, 9-7

HOUSTON (AP) — Matt Williams homered in the fourth, then was hit with a Brian Williams pitch his next time up in action during Tuesday's 9-7 Giants' win over the Astros.

Williams charged the mound after being hit, both benches emptied and both were ejected.

Trailing 5-2, San Francisco got seven runs in the ninth on Willie McGee's RBI single off Mark Portugal (10-10), Will Clark's run-scoring groundout, Kevin Bass's sacrifice fly, bases-loaded walks to Kirt Manwaring and Darren Lewis, a hit batsman to Mike Benjamin and an error by second baseman Casey Candaele.

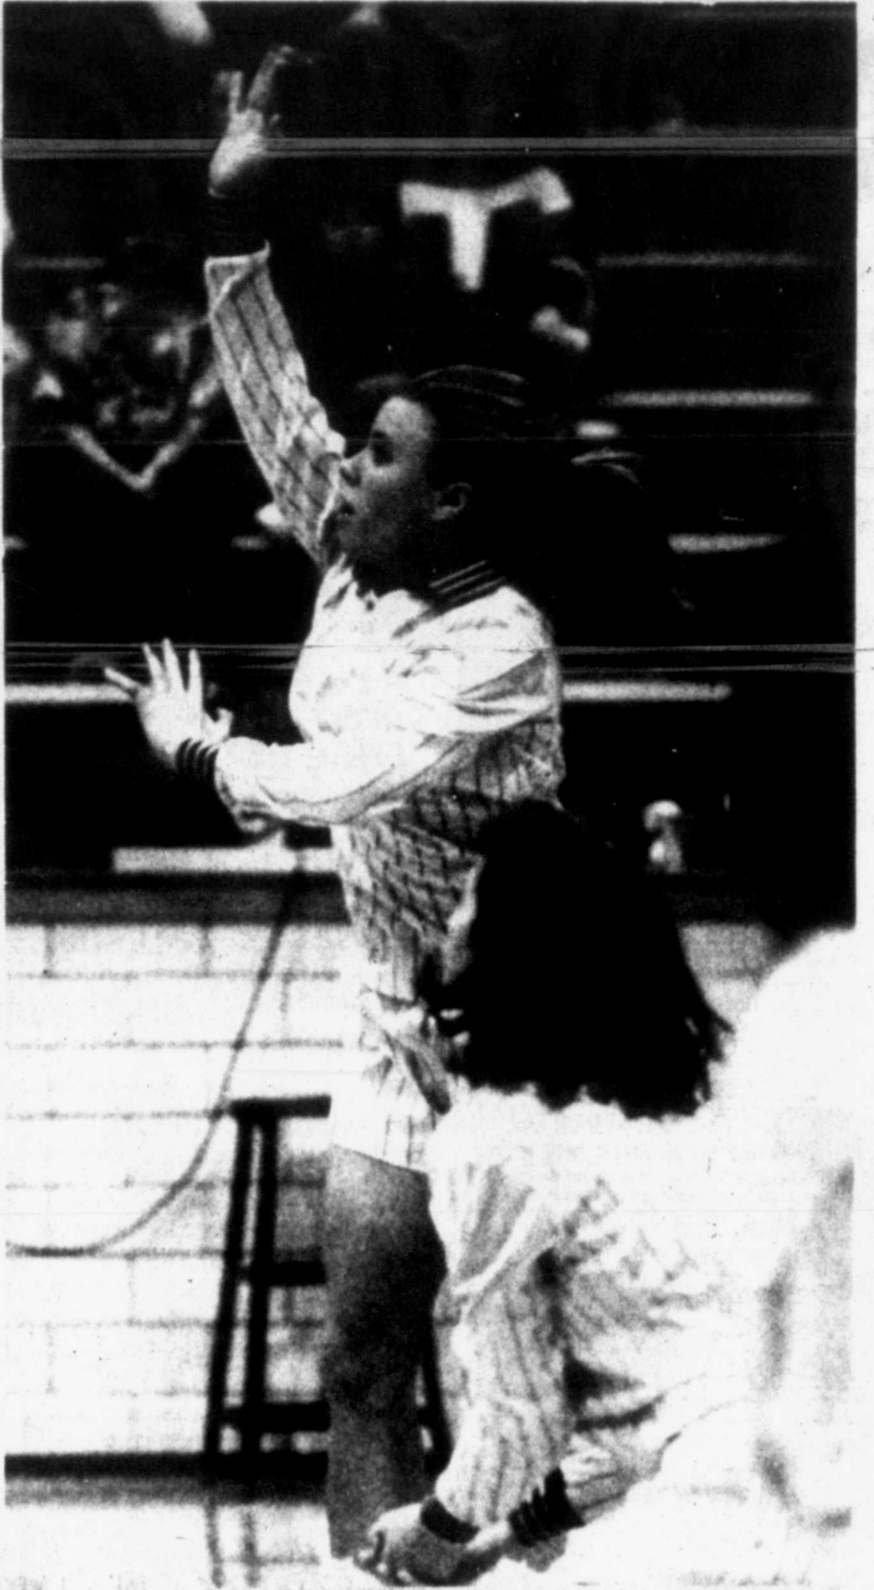

season." The JV Lady Tigers' next appearance will be Saturday at the Denver City Tournament.

Bianca Rocha slammed 11 points and Jamie Duncan came up with 10, two on aces, in Tuesday's frosh victory.

Angela Cox rolled for six, Kristy Robertson and Frances Grear each managed five, Brooke Kubena put in four and Shawndalyn Callaway and Keisha Jackson bumped two and one, respectively.

The freshmen will participate in the Brownfield Tournament Saturday.

Coaches hand out week's grid awards

Daniel Espinosa was the big defensive winner and Chad Fox and Dakon Hollingsworth took the lions' — er, Tigers' — share of offensive awards as the weekly coaches citations were issued in a varsity football team meeting Tuesday.

Also, Wayland Harrison's 155-yard, two-touchdown performance from the fullback spot Friday, earned the SHS junior a coaches award.

The awards, helmet decals, were handed out as a result of outstanding play in Snyder's 26-18 win over Littlefield last Friday.

Junior linebacker Espinosa was recognized for a sack of LHS quarterback Michael Vaught, for four hurries and one tackle behind the line of scrimmage.

Seniors Fox and Hollingsworth each received awards for knockdowns, 17 and 20 respectively, drives, five and seven, and pins, four and three, from their positions anchoring the SHS offensive line.

Other defenders earning coaches' citations included DT Todd Iglehart, DT Chris Carrasco and LB Ricky Sollis with a sack each, DE Will Clay, DE Ben Wilson, Iglehart and DT Eddie Byrd with one hurry of Vaught apiece and Wilson and DE Hayward Clay each with a tackle behind the line for a loss.

In addition, Hollingsworth took an award for a pair of hurries, cornerback Roe Patterson nabbed a decal for his interception and safety Matt Cave took two for intercepting Vaught's last two passes of the game.

The Tigers' other cornerback, Jason Greene, and safety Locadio Luera were each recognized for knocking down an opponent's pass in the win.

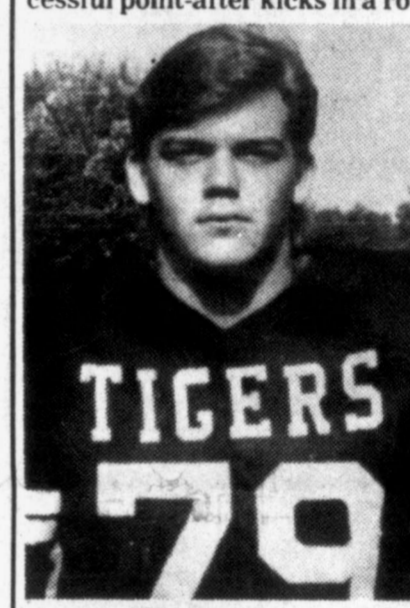

On the offensive side of the ball, quick tackle Charlie Richardson earned an award for his 17 knockdowns of opposing tacklers, tight end Hayward Clay had 10 and center Leonard Tovar managed 16.

Among the backs and split ends, fullback Wayland Harrison registered seven knockdowns.

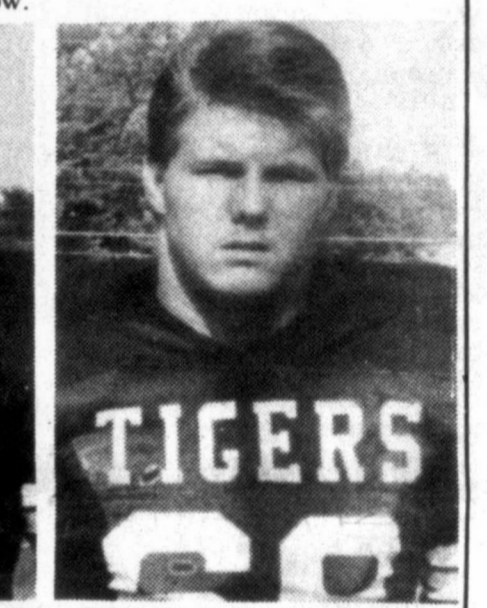

Linemen turning in drives, that is pushing a defender back at least five yards, were Hollingsworth with seven, five from Fox and Hayward Clay's five.

Hayward Clay also pinned two Littlefield defensive players for an award.

Special teamers recognized for their part in the Tigers' win included Eric Brazier, who returned a Wildcat punt over 15 yards for a decal, and kickers Bobby Clinkinbeard and Jay Parker, holder Chris Sutherland and long snapper Fox for three successful point-after kicks in a row.

AIDS panel warns about complacency

WASHINGTON (AP) — The National Commission on AIDS warned today that a growing indifference to the AIDS epidemic and continued lack of national leadership is making a bad situation worse.

In its first comprehensive report, the 2-year-old commission listed more than two dozen recommendations, topped by development of a national AIDS plan to identify priorities and resources needed to fight the disease and health care coverage for all Americans.

"Our nation's leaders have not done well," the report said. "In the past decade, the White House has rarely broken its silence on the topic of AIDS. Congress has shown leadership in developing critical legislation, but has often failed to provide adequate funding for AIDS programs."

"Articulate leadership guiding Americans toward a proper response to AIDS has been notably absent," the report said. The commission's primary recommendation was that universal health care coverage be provided for all people living in the United States. However, the panel said that was a long-term goal and that more immediate steps need to be taken.

These steps should build on existing programs, such as Medicaid, Medicare and the Ryan White Comprehensive AIDS Resources Emergency Act, which provides money for areas hard-hit by the epidemic, the panel said.

The commission, whose members were appointed by Congress and the White House to advise national leaders on AIDS policy, often has been critical of the federal efforts to address the crisis.

In previous, shorter reports it has warned against complacency in the face of AIDS and has urged President Bush and Congress to ensure that the needs of people with the AIDS-causing human immunodeficiency virus, or HIV, are met.

The message in this report is essentially the same.

"It's to say: Mr. President, get out there in a leadership position and indicate that we have a steadily mounting crisis on our hands and that we need to roll up our sleeves and hit it directly," said Dr. David E. Rogers, vice chairman of the commission.

The role of the commission and the purpose of the report, Rogers said, is to keep the AIDS issue "on the front burner and see if we could coax more concern from leaders at the federal level, and at the state and local levels."

AIDS — acquired immune deficiency syndrome — has been diagnosed in more than 186,000 people in the United States since June 1981 when the disease was first discovered. Of these, more than 118,000 have died.

More than 1 million Americans are believed to have been exposed to HIV, and are at risk for developing AIDS. The Centers for Disease Control estimates that only 12 percent of people with HIV know they are carrying the virus.

AIDS is already stretching thin the resources of inner-city hospitals overloaded with cases. The federal-state Medicaid health care program for the poor, where money is also increasingly scarce, covers about 40 percent of the people with AIDS. Nearly 30 percent of people with AIDS have no health insurance.

Two weeks ago, the commission lost one of its 15 members when Belinda Mason died of complications from AIDS.

Scientist: body found in Austrian glacier is about 4,000 years old

INNSBRUCK, Austria (AP) — Alpine trekkers discovered a mummified body in a glacier, and a scientist said today that it is about 4,000 years old.

Local police had initially put the age of the body at 500 years. However, a bronze ax and a stone knife found with the body helped to date it to the early European Bronze Age, said Konrad Spindler, a University of Innsbruck scientist.

The mummy would allow researchers for the first time to "form an exact picture of life in the early Bronze time," said Spindler, of the university's Institute for Early History.

Scientists could study the stomach's contents and other organisms on the body, he said.

Hikers stumbled across the body in a glacier last Thursday in Austria's Tyrol mountain region, at an elevation of about 10,000 feet. Researchers flew back to the site today to begin a detailed archaeological search, Spindler said.

The body, which has been flown to Innsbruck, shows injuries on the back and head. Spindler said the man appeared to be between 20 and 40 years old. He was dressed in winter clothing of leather and fur stuffed with hay.

Tattoos in the form of crosses and lines were found on the corpse's skin, but their significance was not immediately clear, scientists said.

Killer who prompted 2 Supreme Court rulings was executed today

JACKSON, Ga. (AP) — Convicted police killer Warren McCleskey, whose 13 years of appeals resulted in two landmark Supreme Court decisions upholding the death penalty, died in Georgia's electric chair early today.

McCleskey was sentenced to die for the 1978 shooting death of Atlanta police officer Frank Schlatt during a furniture store robbery. He was executed at 3:13 a.m. EDT after the U.S. Supreme Court denied the last of his appeals.

Two of McCleskey's earlier appeals led to landmark Supreme Court decisions, including one this year that legal experts predicted would reduce by years the time it takes to carry out an execution.

McCleskey, 44, spent the hours before his execution with relatives and friends in his cell near the electric chair at the Georgia Diagnostic and Classification Center, about 40 miles south of Atlanta.

A few minutes before he died, he asked his victim's family for forgiveness, asked his own family not to be resentful and called for an end to the death penalty. He had steadfastly denied killing Schlatt.

"I pray that one day this country, supposedly a civilized society, will abolish barbaric acts such as the death penalty," he said. "Remember, this is not the end for me ... it's the beginning I've hoped for to be in the presence of my Lord."

In one landmark case, McCleskey raised the issue that blacks who killed whites were more likely to be executed than whites who killed blacks. McCleskey was black and Schlatt was white. The Supreme Court used his appeal in 1987 to bar the use of statistics attempting to prove race discrimination in death penalty cases.

In April, the high court ruled against McCleskey in a decision that limited the number of times death-row inmates may appeal. His lawyers had argued that Georgia authorities violated his rights by using a jail-house informant to elicit a confession from him.

However, the issue had not been raised in earlier appeals. The Supreme Court ruled that unless inmates can prove they had good reason for not raising a constitutional issue earlier, and unless their failure to raise it harmed their ability to defend themselves, they cannot bring it up later.

Proposed peace talks boosted by PLO support

ALGIERS, Algeria (AP) — In another step toward U.S.-brokered Middle East peace talks, PLO leaders have reluctantly endorsed such a conference and are urging the Palestinian parliament-in-exile to go along.

But hard-liners are urging Chairman Yasser Arafat to reconsider.

"We are facing a new world order," Farouk Kaddoumi, the Palestine Liberation Organization's foreign minister and a top aide to Arafat, said Tuesday in reading a statement from the leadership.

"There is a new reality — international, regional and Palestinian — and what is offered the Palestinian people is the minimum where Palestinian national rights are concerned," said Kaddoumi, a radical in Fatah, the largest PLO branch led by Arafat.

Sexual assault probed by SO

Scurry County sheriff's office is investigating possible sexual abuse of a child.

Child Welfare office employees notified the office Tuesday morning of a possible incident and asked for assistance in the investigation.

Palestinian participation in the Mideast conference — which would bring Israel and key Arab states together next month — is the key question before the Algiers meeting of the 450-member Palestine National Council, the parliament-in-exile.

A vote on the issue by the council is expected Thursday. Virtually all delegates consider political guarantees offered to the Palestinians by Secretary of State James A. Baker III to be woefully inadequate.

Particularly irksome to them has been Baker's failure to address the issue of an independent state for Palestinians or guarantees that Israel would withdraw from the West Bank and Gaza, occupied since 1967.

In remarks underscoring Israel's pledge not to give up the lands, Prime Minister Yitzhak Shamir on Tuesday vowed to settle Jewish immigrants to the "edge of the horizon."

He reiterated his governments' policy to settle Jews in the occupied territories to bolster its claim to the land while dedicating a new Jewish community in Tzur Yigal, just outside the West Bank.

Later, hard-line guerrilla leader Nayef Hawatmeh also called "very dangerous" President Bush's call to rescind the U.N. resolution linking Zionism to racism, saying it would encourage more settlements.

"Such a proposal means that Israel will be encouraged more and more in its own expansion policy," Hawatmeh told reporters at the conference.

Earlier, he had strong words for the PLO leadership's peace talks endorsement during an impassioned debate that followed the release of the statement.

"We pledge to continue our armed struggle alongside the political efforts to end Israeli occupation," said Hawatmeh, who has threatened a walkout if the Palestine National Council approves talks with Israel. He also leads the Democratic Front for the Liberation of Palestine.

Hawatmeh electrified the conference when he declared that the United States has maneuvered its Arab partners into a position that will deny the Palestinians an independent invitation. Conditions call for their participation as part of a Jordanian delegation.

Arafat interrupted Hawatmeh from the floor: "It's not only the Americans but the Arab countries as well."

nuclear facilities, the U.S. military could not guarantee that every bit of Saddam's nuclear development effort could be destroyed.

But Powell said he was "reasonably confident" that such strikes could render any remaining nuclear material militarily useless.

In Baghdad today, Iraqi troops continued to detain the 44 U.N. inspectors, who were searching for evidence of Iraq's nuclear weapons program. The U.N. Security Council demanded their release on Tuesday.

Bush has condemned Baghdad's "unacceptable behavior," warning Saddam that he "ought not miscalculate" how the United States will respond.

Family held hostage for 36 hours while robbers take money

CARROLLTON, Texas (AP) — Robbers held a couple and their daughter hostage for more than 36 hours while looting their home and bank accounts of money and valuables, police in this Dallas suburb say.

Officers said the couple, in their 40s, and their 16-year-old daughter were kept bound and held at gunpoint most of the time. They were not assaulted, officers said. Their names were not released because officers are concerned about their safety.

The loot included more than $30,000 in cash and valuables and an automobile. The robbers forced the couple to write checks and then forced the daughter to accompany them to various banks to cash the checks.

"We've had home invasion robberies before, but never anything where they stayed for two days," Lt. Mack Tristan said.

The robbers left the home about 7 p.m. Monday and the victims managed to free themselves. Tristan said officers have not been able to develop any solid leads and have not been able to determine why the robbers chose the family.

"They made it clear to the family that they had been watching them for several days, planning this," Tristan said. "But that's really strange, because there's nothing that really stands out about this family."

Detectives were checking a report that indicated that police had been called to the neighborhood last week to check out a suspicious person. Tristan said the robbers, two men and a woman, were white and in their 20s. The robbers went from room to room in the house on Sunday, moving any valuables into the garage, officers said. The family tried to be especially nice to the robbers, hoping to keep from being killed.

"These people were playing for their lives," Tristan said. "If someone is standing over you with a gun, you're going to assume they mean to kill you, and this family wasn't taking chances. Tristan said the robbers did not wear masks, but were very careful to remove their fingerprints from anything they touched.

"These people were either fairly organized or fairly ignorant and lucky," he said.

Two Americans given amputation sentence

PESHAWAR, Pakistan (AP) — An Islamic court today convicted two American Muslims of theft and ordered their right hands and left feet amputated.

Daniel Boyd and his brother, Charles, were convicted in the June 20 robbery of a bank in the Peshawar suburb of Hayatabad. They got away with 80,000 rupees ($3,200) but police recovered only 30,000 rupees ($1,200). It was the first conviction by the special Islamic courts set up by the conservative federal government to impose speedy justice for "heinous crimes." Other courts in Pakistan have handed down similar sentences in recent years, but most have been overturned on appeal.

The Boyd brothers had been living in this congested city bordering war-ravaged Afghanistan for several years, according to court records. Their wives, both American, sat through the two-week trial veiled from head to toe in keeping with strict Islamic tradition. They wept as Justice Raza

Two Americans given amputation sentence

Ahmed Khan announced the conviction and ordered their right hands and left feet amputated, the punishment for theft according to the Muslim holy book, the Koran.

"This isn't an Islamic court. It's a court of infidels," Daniel shouted as the judge left the courtroom.

The sentences will be appealed to the Supreme Court, said lawyers for the Boyds, who refused to disclose their age, family background or hometown in the United States.

The brothers were also sentenced to five years in jail and fined 50,000 rupees ($2,000) on a charge of criminal intimidation in connection with the robbery.

Daniel was sentenced to another seven years in jail for possession of unlicensed arms and receiving stolen goods and fined an extra 40,000 rupees ($1,600). The sentence is to run concurrently.

After completing their jail sentences, the judge said, the pair will be sent back to the United States.

Dr. Gott

Peter Gott, M.D.

By Peter H. Gott, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I've been treated for mucous colitis and have sudden episodes of diarrhea I treat with Lomotil. What can you tell me about my condition?

DEAR READER: Mucous colitis is an antiquated term for irritable bowel, a common intestinal disorder of unknown cause, marked by abdominal pain, bloating and disruption of evacuation (constipation or diarrhea). The affliction, which causes no health problem, is usually worsened by stress.

Once more serious, treatable bowel disorders (such as lactose intolerance, diverticular disease and ulcerative colitis) have been ruled out by appropriate blood tests and X-ray studies, patients with irritable bowel syndrome are given counseling, modified diets or medicine to reduce symptoms. The most popular drugs are anti-spasmodics, such as propantheline.

With respect to your case, after careful analysis, you may find that certain foods or stressful situations trigger diarrhea. To prevent symptoms, you might choose to avoid these factors whenever possible. In addition, you might try Metamucil. This stool-bulking agent could reduce the severity of your diarrhea and lead to better regularity. Lomotil, a narcotic anti-diarrhea drug, is not harmful for long-term use, providing it is used with your doctor's approval. However, you might discover that the other methods of control I mentioned are more effective as preventatives.

To give you more information, I am sending you a free copy of my Health

Report "Irritable Bowel Syndrome." Other readers who would like a copy should send $1.25 plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to P.O. Box 91369, Cleveland, OH 44101-3369. Be sure to mention the title.

DEAR DR. GOTT: My doctor says I have adrenal hyperplasia and is treating me with cortisone. He seems unsure of what causes this and how I can get rid of it. Can you tell me?

DEAR READER: The adrenal glands produce cortisol, a cortisone-like drug necessary for proper metabolism. If the level of cortisol is low in the bloodstream, the pituitary gland is stimulated to manufacture and release a hormone called ACTH, which stimulates the adrenal glands to produce more cortisol. This is the essence of a bio-feedback loop, in which two or more glands mutually control one another.

In adrenal hyperplasia, an unusual congenital disorder, the adrenal glands cannot make sufficient cortisol. The term adrenal hyperplasia refers to a group of disorders in which the basic problem appears to be an inherited biochemical abnormality. The cause of this is unknown.

Since the blood levels of cortisol are low, the pituitary secretes ACTH to stimulate the adrenal glands; this stimulation causes enlargement (hyperplasia). To correct this deficiency, doctors give cortisone pills, which not only supply the body's needs but also shut off the pituitary gland's overstimulation.

Therefore, you have a condition that is treatable and controllable — but you'll have to take cortisone indefinitely.

Jail lawsuit may be nearing solution

AUSTIN (AP) — A lawyer for most of the counties that sued the state over jail overcrowding says she is reviewing a settlement proposal offered by Attorney General Dan Morales.

"I have hopes that it will be settled," Ann Clarke Snell said of the litigation.

Morales' proposal was unanimously approved Tuesday by Harris County commissioners, said Kevin Mauzy, deputy Harris County clerk. Officials there balked at previous offers to settle jail-crowding litigation.

Ms. Snell represents 11 of the other 13 counties involved in lawsuits against the state because their jails are holding thousands of prison-bound inmates.

She said the settlement proposal contained some changes to a plan that all the counties except Harris approved in June, although Morales said the changes were minor.

Morales said the proposal follows policy of a recent state law meant to end the litigation. He did not immediately sign the proposal on behalf of the state, but sent it for approval to Gov. Ann Richards, Lt. Gov. Bob Bullock and House Speaker Gib Lewis.

In a letter to Morales, Richards said she supported Morales' efforts to settle the lawsuits.

She said the settlement differed from one considered in June in that it provides more money to counties for handling state inmates, and follows the state law by including the construction of substance abuse facilities.

Travis County commissioners voted for a settlement proposal that they were told reflected the one released to reporters by Morales, said James Collins, director of the civil division of the Travis County attorney's office. Collins said county commissioners were unable to obtain the proposal from Morales' office before their scheduled meeting Tuesday.

Rebellious inmates ignored guards, killed 5 informants

DEER LODGE, Mont. (AP) — Inmates charging through a prison ignored trapped guards huddled in a shower room, intent instead on finding and killing jailhouse informants held in protective custody.

By the time authorities had retaken the cellblock following Sunday's four-hour rampage, five informants lay dead on the building's blood-stained floor. Eight other prisoners, some of them informants, were injured. The guards were not harmed.

Prison officials have declined to give a detailed description of what went on during the rebellion. But Sen. Tom Beck, R-Deer Lodge, and other sources helped piece together a chronicle of the chaotic events that began on a warm late-summer day and left the institution's maximum-security cellblock in a shambles.

Beck was given a tour of the gray concrete building Monday by Warden Jack McCormick, who told him what authorities believe happened. This is how that account goes:

As guards were returning two inmates to their cells from a recreation yard late Sunday morning, nine others charged a chain-link fence separating the yard from the building and either smashed or cut their way through.

Once past the fence, they entered the cellblock. Inside are two control booths from which guards, stationed behind bulletproof glass, can electronically open and close the various cell doors.

The guards, who saw the inmates coming, fled onto the roof through escape hatches in the booths. The prisoners then gained access to the booths, entering one by setting a fire that melted its bulletproof glass.

As the prisoners roamed through the cellblock's corridors, five unarmed guards hid in a shower room, padlocking its cage-like door and throwing a mattress up in front of it.

"We put a mattress there, but the inmates did not try to attack us," said one of the guards, Sgt. Donald "Pete" McPhail.

Instead, prisoners headed for protective-custody cells where informants were housed. The guards could hear screams from the east end of the cellblock, as informants were taken from their cells and executed.

Wife got merit raise

AUSTIN (AP) — A Brenham State School official who received a pay hike in violation of state law will lose that raise, but will be allowed to keep the money she has received since the raise took effect nearly two years ago, officials said.

On Tuesday, Texas Attorney General Dan Morales said school superintendent Jimmy Haskins violated the state's nepotism law by giving his wife an approximately $100 per month raise.

Mary Sullenberger is in charge of making sure the mental health facility meets federal and state standards. She earns about $37,000 per year at the school, while her husband makes $66,700 annually.

Texas Department of Mental Health officials said the raise will be repealed, but that Ms. Sullenberger can keep the approximately $2,000 she received since the raise took effect in December 1989.

Jaylon Fincannon, deputy commissioner for mental retardation services, said, "We believed at the time that the raise was granted within acceptable guidelines. Dr. Haskins is a good superintendent and Ms. Sullenberger is an excellent employee and we appreciate both of them being part of our team."

Ms. Sullenberger and three other employees were given the merit raises for their efforts in securing accreditation for the school by an organization that had accredited the facility since 1976, officials said.

Haskins established a committee to recommend to him who would get a raise for this effort.

Wanda Holloway's attorneys seek new trial

HOUSTON (AP) — Lawyers for Wanda Holloway, who was convicted of trying to hire a hitman to secure a cheerleading spot for her daughter, say one of the jurors on the case should have been disqualified because of a pending drug charge.

Defense attorneys Troy McKinney and Stan Schneider on Tuesday filed for a new trial for Mrs. Holloway, based in part on the qualifications of juror Daniel Enriquez, 30.

"This is a very unusual circumstance and not only the prosecutors, but the judge and we did not notice this," McKinney said.

Enriquez pleaded guilty to cocaine possession in 1988 and was serving a deferred adjudication sentence that required community service and probation time.

Texas law prohibits convicted felons and those with pending criminal indictments from serving on juries. Schneider said Enriquez answered truthfully a 12-page jurors' questionnaire that asked whether the prospective juror or any member of his family was involved in a criminal case. Enriquez answered "yes" to that question, but didn't volunteer any other information. Also asked if he did any volunteer work, Enriquez answered, "Community service as a condition of probation," according to Schneider.

"I think we need a new trial and this is just one reason," McKinney said. "There also was considerable evidence that the jury was not allowed to hear."

Mrs. Holloway was convicted Sept. 3 of trying to hire a hitman to kill Verna Heath, whose daughter was competing with Mrs. Holloway's daughter for a spot on the high school cheerleading squad. Sentenced to 15 years in prison and fined $10,000, Mrs. Holloway is on $75,000 bond pending her appeal.

"I think it's dumb to try cases over again, whether it's on some technicality or otherwise," said Harris County District Attorney John B. Holmes.

"The suggestion has been made by at least one staff member that perhaps we got 'out-lawyered.' I am not willing to concede that until I talk to the prosecutors," Holmes said.

State District Judge George Godwin scheduled a hearing for Nov. 7 on the motion for a new trial for the Channelview homemaker.

"There were things we needed to come out that Judge Godwin would not let come out, so the jury could not see what was coming," Mrs. Holloway said Tuesday.

Godwin did not allow two women to testify that they, too, were approached by Terry Lynn Harper, Mrs. Holloway's former brother-in-law, about finding a hitman for them.

Harper, the state's star witness, secretly recorded six conversations he had with Mrs. Holloway last January. He testified that she wanted him to find someone to kill Mrs. Heath in hopes that Amber Heath would be so distraught that she would drop out of the spring competitions.

Defense attorneys maintain that Harper and his brother, Mrs. Holloway's ex-husband Tony Harper, conspired to frame Mrs. Holloway to gain custody of the couple's two children, Shanna, now 14, and Shane, now 18.

Meanwhile Tuesday, Mrs. Heath, her husband and daughter appeared on "The Maury Povich Show" with a former drum major for the Channelview High School Falcons.

Nancee Carter said she beat out Shane Harper as drum major last year but felt pressured to allow Shane to be more of a co-drum major than just her assistant. She claims her mother told her after Mrs. Holloway's conviction that prosecutors knew Mrs. Holloway also had sought to have her killed.

Miss Carter testified during the punishment phase of the trial, but prosecutors did not present further evidence of the second alleged murder-for-hire scheme.

All of the principals in the case have since appeared on such television shows as "Inside Edition," "The Phil Donahue Show," and "The Maury Povich Show."

In addition, the story is featured on this week's "People" magazine cover.

Your Birthday

Sept. 25, 1991

A more exciting social life could be in the offing in the year ahead. You might reduce your inner circle to a limited number of friends with whom you'll have a great deal in common.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) It might be wise to avoid all types of speculative risks today, but if you have to take a gamble, bet on yourself and your abilities and not those of others. Libra, treat yourself to a birthday gift. Send for Libra's Astro-Graph predictions for the year ahead by mailing $1.25 plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Astro-Graph, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3428. Be sure to state your zodiac sign.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) A partnership might not work out as well as you had hoped today. The fault may not lie with your cohort, but with the way you manage things from your end.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) If you are overburdened with self-doubts, you won't be able to inspire others today. Regardless of how bubbly your facade may be, associates will perceive your fears.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) This might not be one of your better days for managing your material affairs or the material affairs of another. To be on the safe side, tread warily in both areas.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) You may have some difficulties to contend with today, but they are not insurmountable. However, the ingredient that could make them so is a defeatist attitude.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) In conversations with friends today, if you don't have anything nice to say about pals who aren't present, it is best to say nothing. Caustic comments could do you more harm than your targets can.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) A pessimistic attitude could severely lessen your probabilities for fulfilling your expectations today. You can't think negatively while attempting to court success.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) You're not likely to be too effective today in overcoming traditional obstacles with traditional methods. Use your imagination and resourcefulness to circumvent complications.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) You might not expect help from a certain individual today, but if that person offers it, don't interfere. This individual knows what to do better than you do.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Be realistic regarding your financial involvements at this time. Don't expect a profit where there isn't any real basis for generating one.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) A difficult objective can be attained today — if you combine assertiveness with patience. Follow your intuition as to when to be laid-back and when to growl like a tiger.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) When seeking advice from another today, you might hear only what want to hear, while the essence of the wise counsel is ignored.

Henson gets star

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Actress Daryl Hannah and comedian Ruth Buzzi were among some 200 Jim Henson fans who turned out to celebrate the addition of a star to the Hollywood Walk of Fame honoring the late "Muppets" creator.

"If Jim were here, he would have said, 'This is neat,'" Henson's longtime agent and friend Bernie Brillstein said of Tuesday's unveiling of the walk's 1,938th star.

Henson, who would have been 55 on Tuesday, died in May 1990 of pneumonia.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Eddie Murphy will stick with Paramount Pictures for at least two more movies, including "Beverly Hills Cop III," the studio says. Murphy and the studio had been reported on the verge of parting ways following the disappointing performance of his recent movies "Another 48 HRS." and "Harlem Nights." The Walt Disney Co. was among the studios reportedly trying to woo him away.

Murphy will make his next movie, "Boomerang," for Paramount beginning in November and "Beverly Hills Cop III" will begin filming next year, the studio said.

Another Murphy project, "Distinguished Gentlemen," will be made at Disney's Hollywood Pictures.

San Antonio to get nat'l AIDS center

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — For the first time, a federally-funded AIDS study center won't be located at a university.

The National Institute of Allergy and Infectious Diseases is providing a three-year, $1.8 million grant to the Southwest Foundation for Biomedical Research in San Antonio.

Dr. Ronald Kennedy, a viral immunochemist with the Southwest Foundation and one of the nation's foremost AIDS vaccine researchers, said the center will enhance work in vaccine development and AIDS therapies already under way.

"It will accelerate what we're doing," Kennedy said, adding that the money will provide updated equipment and help train more students in AIDS research.

The Center for AIDS Research is the 12th to be established in the country since the program for study facilities began in 1988. The program is aimed at groups of researchers who have established themselves in the AIDS field and already receive more than $750,000 in federal funds each year for such studies.

The Southwest Foundation scientists will collaborate with AIDS researchers at Wilford Hall Air Force Medical Center in San Antonio, the central referral site for HIV-infected members of the Air Force. Scientists from the two institutions have worked together on AIDS research since 1985, said Dr. Craig Hendrix of Wilford Hall.

The collaboration will give the AIDS center access to serum samples from approximately 800 Air Force personnel infected with the AIDS-causing HIV virus, officials said.

Kennedy and six other researchers from the Southwest Foundation will be joined by three scientists from Wilford Hall, said foundation president Dr. Duncan Wimpress.

The $1.8 million grant for the center also will help lure investigators to San Antonio from prominent laboratories around the country, Kennedy said.

"This center draws attention and recognition to the problem of AIDS in Texas and, more specifically, in San Antonio," said Dr. Ronald Kennedy, center director. "People are dying of AIDS every day. The problem is not going to go away."

The AIDS research team already has started moving into the 52,000-square-foot building on the Southwest Foundation campus that will house the center.

All the other AIDS research centers have been established at universities. This marks the first time one will be located at an independent research organization, officials said.
