In these words, penned by Justice J. C. Gaither, were the sentiments of the 1,200 souls gathered in the District Court Room in Floydada Wednesday afternoon, given utterance, closing a memorial service and tribute from the people of this section to the memory of Woodrow Wilson, war time president of the United States, whose death occurred Sunday morning, and who was laid to rest in Washington, D. WOODROW WILSON

Whether or not one admires Woodrow Wilson as a political leader and a war president, it must be admitted that with the death of this wonderful man something has been taken from the life of America ,something as tangible as was the loss of Theodore Roosevelt. In fact, it is doubtful that if ever so quiet a man, with such reserve, made such an impression on any country's life at a critical time as has Woodrow Wilson.

Woodrow Wilson's power was in his brain cells. He had some unlikeable personal traits, it is declared by some men who have been close to him. He carried his points by cold logic and yet he had a deep yearning for the democratic masses at large, as is indicated by the efforts he made to avoid the war and later by his efforts to distribute the costs of the war, in human life, as well as materially, to all levels of American life.

Woodrow Wilson's tragic collapse before the close of his last term as president was a forerunner of an early demise. It took one of America's greatest forces from the political life of the country, and this week the last mortal remains of the War President are being laid to rest.

But Mr. Wilson's life leaves an indelible stamp on the social and political life of the country. In the future, although he was a war president, the greatest thing to be ascribed to his memory, we think, will be the influence for unselfish service, to which thought he was a willing martyr.

LÉ MIRAGE

During the pretty days of the latter part of last week the works of "le mirage" were simply grand, the early morning paintings on the horizon's "ten league canvas" furnishing for those who were up with the early dawn, pictures as beautiful as any ever seen on canvas.

In this level stretch of country, where the horizon is marked only by the limit of one's vision the distances a matter of general information, and a part of the governmental nearly a billion dollars, as evidenced sleep. records in Washington, that Secretary by the records. American Legion lead-Mellon informed President Harding in the fall of 1922 that the treasury handle the bonus. The president based his veto message largely on Secretary Mellon's figures. There would be a deficit, Mr. Mellon said, at the end of the fiscal year on June 30, 1923, of about $660,000,000-more than the orlinary mortal can conceive. When June 30 rolled around the deficit had turned to a surplus of about $323,000,-.85 000. The difference between a deficit .45 of $660,000,000 and a surplus of $323,-

000,000 is $983,000,000. The exservice men, with very good reason. say that the richest man in America did not make a billion dollar mistake. They say Mr. Mellon just plain misrepresented.

The American Legion Weekly, official organ of the American Legion, gives space to an article by Aaron Sapiro, apostle of co-operative marketing, and leading counsel of the American Legion, which says these things and more. That America can pay its ex-service men an adjusted compensation of liberal proportions and reduce taxes, too, is the argument made with a great deal of plausibility.

From very limited knowledge of the matter, The Hesperian is convinced of two things. One is that a large majority of the ex-service men think they are entitled to adjusted compensation; the other is that adjusted compensation can be paid and tax reduction effected at the same time.

We think as much of the ex-service men now as we did in 1918. We are not convinced that there is any great principal involved in the matter. But the fact that the boys want adjusted compensation is enough for us. It puts us in the column in favor of them having it.

The weather of Sunday and Monday when Floyd County had a little of everything and a lot of wind with it furnishes proof that the -"climate in Floyd County is positive," as advertised by the Chamber of Commerce. It is true enough that the weather in West Texas is not fitted to the needs of hot house plants, especially since it is a new country and does not have some of the conveniences that go with an older developed country. Sunday the Iowan could have come to this section of Texas and have felt perfectly at home. The wind blew and the snow fell with much force for a time. The only thing lacking for the Iowan would have been a little lower temperature. He would have had to remove some of his heavy clothing, perhaps, to keep from getting too warm. Otherwise he would have been

Pride in service

An insurance agent who makes his business a profession takes pride in the service he is able to give.

This means that he represents strong companies, such as the Home of New York with a cash capital of $18,000,000. It means that when a loss occurs the insured receives prompt and fair treatment.

This agency has an undisputed record of fair dealing. Why not BE SURE when you INSURE?

Forecasting A Tremendous Spring Demand

739,626

more Ford cars and trucks were produced last year than the previous year, an increase of over 50 per cent.

In spite of this tremendous increase in production, it was impossible to meet delivery requirements during the spring and summer months when orders for 350,000 Ford Cars and Trucks could not be filled.

This year winter buying for immediate delivery has been more active than ever before—and in addition 200,000 orders have already been booked through the Ford Weekly Purchase Plan for spring delivery.

These facts clearly indicate that the demand during this spring and summer will be far greater than ever, and that orders should be placed immediately with Ford Dealers as a means of protection against delay in securing your Ford Car or Truck or Fordson Tractor.

A small deposit down, with easy payments of the balance arranged, or your enrollment under the Ford Weekly Purchase Plan, will put your order on the preferred list for spring delivery.

You pour your liquid light into a bulb and the resultant light is said to be superior to electric or any other known light except nature's own brand of daylight. This light, being in fact radio-active, will remain good for seven years or more, when the bulb may require refilling.

It is claimed also that this liquid will eventually make coal and oil power a thing of the past. If that is the case the real abolition of smoke seems to be in sight; for, although electric power is smokeless, there will be smoke as long as fuel is necessary for its generation.
