Notices Furnished on Application

Those who favor the bond issue roads in Floyd County may not be somewhat chagrined to see the report carried in another issue of this paper to the effect that the State and Federal Aid money has not been allotted for this year and no more allotments would be made. This is happily not a talk against the issuance of bonds in Floyd County at this time. The Commissioners' Court of the county is likely to move slowly in connection with the bond money (if it is issued) and they will not be ready to take the State and Federal aid, were it to come sometime next year. If the vote in August it will appear next spring before the issue can be begun. At least, we hope that such will be the case. The Hesperian believes so. The words of the county may go to the State and Federal aid, making arrangements and plans if it can be used for the roads and use money from next year's State and Federal Aid fund, as it is allotted on approval of the Engineer. An item that may have some significance is the statement that consideration is taken of the portion of the bond issue to be levied on the taxable valuations of the bonds are based.

Floyd County needs a big sum of money to set its road building program on its feet and give the Commissioners' Court an opportunity to keep up with the needs in building cannot be gainsaid. It is taken for granted that we all agree on the exact manner in which this money shall be spent, if the people of the county declare themselves in favor of the $100,000 bond issue. We can all agree that the money is badly needed, and we can likewise depend on the precaution will be taken to see that the expenditures made are for the benefit of the county. The Commissioners' Court, men of affairs of the county, and expert road builders of the state can devise. If on the fence regarding the road bond issue, figure out for yourself how the county is going to get itself out of the mud, or even if you may begin to do so, without a large amount of money, and with the present supplies by the road when you have done figuring, be ready to vote for the bonds.

INTERESTING LETTER FROM LIEUT. NELSON

Montpellier, France June 1, 1919. Father, Mother and All: This is the first day of June and a Sunday morning. In less than a month now all of the American still doubtless be gone from Montpellier. I have heard many people say that their town seems quite different then and would be necessary for them to see where on vacations in that they might not be lonesome on our departure. Our stay here has been rendered very pleasant, and we will experience some relief in leaving friends who have enriched us so generously, but that sense of depression will be far over-ruled by the thrill of our return to America and to our homes and families. Now that we are on our last legs, I expect the time to go rapidly. I will be almost on the point of starting our work when you receive this. I spent the night at the opera house here where the American students gave a show depicting some of the experiences of the American soldiers in France. It was very laughable. It was largely attended by the students and by the French people. The latter seemed to enjoy it quite as much as the former. On Thursday of the past week the American students went on a one-day excursion to Arles. On the way we stopped at a little station by the name of St. Gilles long enough to see a very old church there. The front facade is marvellously splendidly carved. This church has a wide reputation for its beauty of this ornamentation, and is very remarkable. I am enclosing a picture of it. On the River Rhone just a few miles to the west side from Montpellier, in the ancient province of Languedoc, is the town of Montpellier. Saumur and Angers are in Anjou, as St. Nazaire and Brest are in Brittany, as Rouen and Le Havre are in Normandy, etc. Arles, like Nimes, was a flourishing city in Roman days. It has an arena and an old Roman theatre, just as Nimes has. It is interesting to visit these places and to think of the vast multitudes of Gauls and Romans who used to attend the spectacles given therein, of the tragedies and dramas rendered at the theatre, of the gladiatorial combats and of the unfortunate Christians who may have been given over to the beasts in the arena because of their loyalty to their faith. In Arles there is the cathedral of St. Trophime which has some interesting and beautiful sculpture, on the facade and in the cloisters. I enclose a picture of the front of the church. It is not large, but the decoration is of a high order. At Arles I walked along a road leading into the city where the Romans had buried their dead, as their custom was, along the roadside. Sitting on the top of the ground on each side of the road are rows of stone sepulchres, sometimes as many as three rows on each side. Bull-fights are not common in France as they are in Spain, but the presence of these old Roman arenas in some of the cities of southern France encourages such exhibitions. Accordingly in Nimes and in Arles, and possibly in one or two other places, bull-fights are sometimes held. I am enclosing some pictures of such an exhibition at Arles, the pictures evidently having been made before the war. I believe that I wrote you that I had bought two kodak albums and had arranged in them the multitudinous post card pictures that I have to show you when I return. I meant to send you a little cluster of the tiny yellow roses that grew in the madame's garden, but a rain and the wind that accompanied it shattered them one night. I am very proud of the fact that the first men to fly across the Atlantic ocean were Americans. I felt sure that it would be done as soon as men's attentions could be turned from the war to a white. The attempt of Hawker, while rash, was admirable in that he sought to win for his country the honor that America was just about to grasp. The Frenchman's flight from Paris to Morocco is an admirable feat also. Thus the three great Allied nations vie with each other in friendly rivalry in promoting the world's progress. The Germans are still stubborn about signing the treaty of Peace. We may have to go to Berlin yet. I think, however, when they have bluffed all they can that they will sign. If I embark at Saint Nazaire, as I suppose I will, I may get to stop for one or two days with the Solignac people at Angers and one day at Saumur to see Anta Mary and her parents. Now I must close. Lots of love to all. Your son and brother, E. C. NELSON, Jr. Care American University Union 8 rue de Richelieu, Paris, France.

We Have Just Received a Car of Western Red Cedar Posts

The western pioneers have selected this Western Red Cedar for fences and other purposes. We would be glad to explain to those of you who need posts, the merits of this wood. The United States Department of Agriculture in Bulletin Number 95 has this to say about Western Red Cedar: "The wood's softness had tempted the Indians to use it and the same property appealed to white men, who succeeded the Indian as the possessor of the country. It was one of the first woods cut for fences and for many years it was commonly so used wherever it was within reach. It was employed for rails and for posts and its long resistance to decay is shown by the fact that some of the fence built nearly a half century ago were doing service until very recently."

The report of the United States Department of Agriculture in Bulletin referred to above also published the results of scientific tests of the comparative strength of Western Red Cedar with relation to white oak, and it gives the breaking strength of this wood 81 per cent of the white oak.

We expect to keep a nice stock of these posts and be prepared to supply your needs at all times.

Weekly Club Letter to Boys

W. H. Darrow, County Agent.

In continuing the story of the life of a plant and its diseases, it must be recalled that while a plant eats and drinks and breathes and digests its food in a different manner than animals, still the general process is the same, and, therefore, the plant is as liable to poor health and disease as an animal. Some plant diseases are not contagious; some do very little damage; but in the main these diseases spread rapidly and convert annually millions of dollars worth of valuable grain and feed into worthless trash.

In order to make you see this more closely I will give you two illustrations, describing simply the nature and course of two serious diseases that often attack crops in this country. The first, smut, has several different forms, these different forms affecting various crops and various parts of the plants. The common smut of small grains in this country is called loose smut, and is noticeable by the fact that part of the heads of wheat, oats or barley are dark in appearance and on examination the kernel is found to be composed of a dark brown powder, instead of good, clean grain. Any great amount of this smut in the field will, of course, cut the yield down enormously.

Loose smut is a fungus disease, that is, a very minute form of plant life that grows up through the stalk of grain and bears its seed (which are called spores and which consist of the above mentioned powder) in the head of the affected grain. These spores are very fine and are blown by the wind to other parts of the crop where they attach to the seed and live on to the next year, or fall on the ground and often live over to infect the crop the following year. Early in the season, if weather conditions are right, that is if there is plenty of moisture and warmth in the ground so they can sprout and grow, these seed or spores of the loose smut grow up through the stalk of grain and finally, like all other plants, mature their seed in the head of the grain.

While sometimes the spores will lodge in the ground and attack the grain crop there the following year, practically all smut on small grains comes from spores that lodge in the kernel of wheat or oats or barley.
They are so small that you can not detect them with the eye, so an examination of the grain, unless it be aided with a microscope, will not detect the presence of the spore causing the disease. From this it will appear that the best way to control the ravages of smut would be to kill these spores on the seed before it is planted. To do this put 1 pint of formaldehyde (which you can buy for 60 cents a pint from any druggist) into 40 gallons of water in a barrel, and let your seed soak in this solution in a sack for ten minutes. Then lift it out, allow it to drain thoroughly, set it out to dry and sow. The formaldehyde solution will kill all spores on the seed, and doing this will rid you of 75 per cent or more of your danger of smut.

Possibly some have noticed a smut similar to the one described which attacks kaffir, maize, feterita, corn or sorghum, especially the latter. This smut is different from loose smut of small grains, much as maize is difand be treated in the same way.

Rust is another fungus disease, and comes from a small spore which either lodges in the ground and lives there for an indefinite period, or which lodges on other plants, chiefly the barberry, and there lives on until weather conditions are right for it to attack grain crops. This spore will only sprout and grow, thereby damaging the grain, when the season is wet, the air damp and muggy, and the weather rather warm. This accounts for its presence this year, for these conditions, you will notice, describe the past spring quite well. The rust fungus differs from smut in that it does its greatest damage, not to the grain, but to the leaves and stalk, ferent from kaffir. It develops exactly like loose smut, and is controlled by the same treatment as that given above. This smut has not yet given any great amount of trouble here, except in sorghum, but one never knows when there will be a serious outbreak and it is well, therefore, to always treat the seed. In this connection it might be well to state that the amount of formaldehyde solution given above is enough to treat 50 bushels of grain, as you can continue dipping sacks of seed in the solution until it is gone.

You have doubtless heard a good deal of talk this spring about rust on wheat and oats. Perhaps you have noticed a red, dusty powder sticking close to the blades of wheat, and rubbed it off on your hands or had it dust off on your shoes and legs in walking through the crop. Rust occurs on all the small grain crops, wheat, barley, oats, rye, and on many grasses, and on some garden crops, as asparagus. While the disease is a little different in each case, each form is near enough alike to look the same eating into these tissues, drying up the leaves, and in extreme cases causing the plant to fall down. From this you will see that the damage comes from the destruction of the leaf, which manufactures the food for the head, and by causing the grain to topple over where the binder or header cannot pick it up. There are two stages in the development of rust, one the red and the other the black. The latter attacks the stalks and does the greatest harm. It is the red that has caused the blades of wheat to dry up this year, and this injury will probably be measured by a decreased yield due to shrivelled grain which could not be well filled because the manufacturing plant, the leaf, was dried up before its time.

There is no means of controlling rust that we now know of except by developing varieties of all these grains that are resistant to the attack. Red rust proof oats, for instance, were bred up a number of years ago and are far less liable to take the rust than ordinary oats. There will be varieties of wheat developed to resist rust in a few years, for specialists are working on it now, and it will pay the farmer to use these improved varieties.

There are a great many other destructive diseases of plants that you will probably like to learn about, and I will be glad to have you ask me about them. In these letters I have

GERMAN FLEET SUNK AT

Fleet Goes to Bottom in 4 Hours

London, June 21.—The German officers and sailors forming the complements of the German ships interested at Scapa Flow sank most of their fleet today. All the big ships, the battleships and battle cruisers excepting the Baden, and numerous smaller ones were sunk while others went ashore in a half sunken condition.

Eighteen destroyers were beached by tugs; four still are afloat while the remainder went under. The wholesale sinking of the German ships, which were surrendered under the terms of the armistice, was carefully arranged by officers and crews. All explosives had been removed and therefore the only means of destroying the fleet was by opening the sea-cocks. The ships went down slowly, with the German flag, which the crews had hoisted, showing at the mastheads

The crews composed entirely of Germans, under the terms of the armistice which did not permit of British guards aboard, took to the boats, when the vessel began to settle. While making for the shore the boats were challenged and called upon to surrender.
Some of them ignored the summons and were fired upon, a few casualties resulting.

This stroke apparently was an entire surprise and the first news reached London through a correspondent who was informed by farmers in the neighborhood that they had seen the German ships sinking with their flags aloft.

The admiralty at first denied the report, but later confirmed it and is-made prisoners. None of the officials tonight would offer an opinion as to how they are to be dealt with.

NEWS OF LOCKNEY

From The Beacon:
Prof. Lawrence Hill who taught two terms at Lockney, and who went from here to the University of California, has received his A. B. degree from that institution, and will teach history in the West Texas State Normal College at Canyon.

Tuesday Mr. and Mrs. W. N. Brown returned from an extended visit to Austin, Houston, and Galveston. They made the trip in their Mormon car, and report a most delightful time. They attended the Bankers' Convention at Galveston held last month. Speaking of crop conditions, Mr. Brown stated that from Lockney to Austin the prospects were simply fine, and very promising, but from Austin to Galveston the outlook was not so promising on account of excessive rains. The cotton is weedy, and very backward, something like six or eight inches high when it ought to be twice as high at this season of the year.

The following officers were elected last Saturday night at regular meeting of Lockney Blue Lodge: Worshipful Master, Dr. J. C. Guest; Senior Warden, Fulkerson; Junior Warden, Bob Ramsey; Secretary, Ben F. Smith; Treasurer, France Baker; Tiler, C. L. Anderson.

Mr. Ira Smith, cashier of the Lamesa State Bank, came by from the Bankers meeting at Amarillo for a few days visit with his parents, Uncle Bill Smith and wife. Ira says crop prospects are flattering in his section of the plains. "Crops are up and growing off nicely in the Lamesa country," states Mr. Smith.

Prof. A. L. Foster came in the latter part of last week with his family from Slaton. Mr. Foster has been employed as superintendent of our Public school for the coming school term. They will be located in the Hardin home in West part of town.

Two airplanes passed over Lockney yesterday morning headed toward Plainview. They are doubtless from one of the Texas fields on a recruiting mission.

Mrs. George Cox was taken to Plainview last Saturday where she was operated on for appendicitis. Mr. Cox received a message Thursday afternoon to the effect that she was clear of fever and was doing nicely.

P. T. Rucker, of the Rucker Produce Company, returned home last week after a visit of two weeks in Tennessee, with his mother.

J. F. Blanton returned home Saturday from Whitewright, Texas, after a visit of some two weeks with relatives. Mrs. Blanton remained there for a time. She will probably return about the first of July.

Charlie Moore was here last week visiting friends, after having been discharged from the Marine Corps early in this month. He has been back in America some months, having spent several weeks in New York City. He is back at his parents' home in Canyon at this time.

E. J. and G. A. Adams brothers, and Mrs. Gussie Adams, sister-in-law, of Mrs. O. C. Curry, left the first of this week returning to their homes at Roscoe, Texas, after having spent several days here following the death of Mr. and Mrs. Curry's little son, D. M.

BOWIE TO BE DISMANTLED

Dismantling of Camp Bowie will begin Monday. The area not used by the demobilization center, which is discharging a maximum of 5,000 men a month, is to be salvaged immediately.

The remaining quarter of the camp may remain for five or six months, though the prevailing impression is that the entire camp will be abandoned by Aug. 1.

Capt. P. H. Farrington, officer in charge of utilities, is to direct the salved quarters are to be torn down. The lumber will be sold.—Star Telegram.

40,000 GRAIN CARS AVAILABLE BY JULY FIRST

Kansas City, June 20.—Twenty thousand grain cars for use in handling the grain crops of Kansas, Oklahoma and Northern Texas have been accumulated in this territory, it was announced today by Hale Holden, regional director for the United States Railroad Administration.

Holden added that 40,000 cars will be available in this territory by July 1.

SMALLPOX CASES IN SEVENTY-FIVE COUNTIES

Austin, Texas, June 19.—There is smallpox in seventy-five counties of Texas, according to reports made to the State Health Department, and the disease is of virulent character in Cameron and Hidalgo Counties. Other infected counties are in scattered sections of the State. However, the State Health Officer says that the epidemic seems to be decreasing.

At Brenham in Washington County forty cases of typhoid fever developed from infected city water, says the health officer. But sanitary precautions have been taken, and as soon as all infections have developed no new cases are expected to arise.

HE PICKS MEAN 'UNS

Las Vegas, New Mexico, June 24.—Out in Idaho, in the country best described as "wild and woolly," lives a ranchman with a peculiar hobby. His name is B. R. Pearson, but that is almost immaterial, as everybody calls him something else—"Idaho Bill." Some men enjoy gathering collections of jewels or rare paintings, but Idaho Bill's collecting mania runs in a different line—he makes it his pride to own the meanest untamed horses in captivity.

Whenever Idaho Bill hears of an equine critter that the boys employed on a neighboring ranch cannot break, he goes over and buys the animal. If he learns of a nag that has unseated every man who has attempted to ride him, there is the horse Idaho Bill must have if he has to travel many miles to get him. If the horse is five or six year old and still untamed, the ranchman prizes him highly, for at that age the chances are he never will be subjugated. Wyoming, Utah, Nevada and Idaho contain a lot of ranches, and each contributes a few outlaws, so that Idaho Bill's herd is large and takes the prize for ornerness. Last year the ranchman bought horses for the government, and every animal that the cavalrymen could not ride went into his own private herd, at whatever price the government saw fit to ask. Idaho Bill picked up a bunch of mean buckers in that way.

Thirty horses, handpicked for their evil dispositions and more evil reputations, have been cut out from Idaho Bill's herd and will be used in the bronco riding contests at the Fifth Annual Cowboys Reunion, to be held here July 2, 3 and 4. The men who ride these brutes will be entitled to all that they can win of the $5,000 prize money.

BELLS WILL CALL ATTENTION TO THRIFT DAYS

Dallas, Texas, June 24.—Governors of the four States which are included in part or in whole by the Eleventh Federal War Savings District, have issued Thrift Message Week proclamations, calling on the people of their respective States to join in the observance of Thrift Message Week, June 29th to July 6th. During Thrift Message Week every one is called upon to purchase a War Savings Stamp or a Thrift Stamp every day.

Included in these proclamations are requests that all bells be rung and all whistles be blown at 10 o'clock each morning and at 4 o'clock each afternoon during the week, so that the people may have constant reminders that the District is studying Thrift and citizens realizing the value and importance of saving and investing in Thrift and War Savings Stamps.

This will be the first time since the signing of the armistice that all of the bells and whistles will shrill out their clarion call at the same time. It will be the first time in years since the bells and whistles will all have jangled forth their noisy warnings at the same time twice a day.

MANY ALIENS WILL LEAVE FOR HOME COUNTRY

Washington, June 19.—One million three hundred thousand aliens in United States are planning to do this country for their homeland, they will take with them approximately four billion American dollars.

These facts were disclosed yesterday in a report by Ethelbert Stewart of Chicago, director of the investigation and inspection service of the Department of Labor. They are the result of an investigation conducted to proposed emigration of aliens from the United States to their own countries, an investigation which will be completed by June 20.

The estimate that 1,300,000 aliens will leave the country is based on inquiries made in various parts of the country it is a conservative estimate. The declaration that the departing aliens will take with them $4,000,000,000 is made on the basis that the average amount of money which each alien will carry home is $3,000.

From data collected in these reports from representative aliens of various nationalities have been determined the percentage of aliens who plan to return to their home countries. These percentages are based on figures giving the number of aliens of each nationality in the community and the number who contemplate returning to Europe. Thus, of 163,498 Poles covered by the investigation, 24,590, or 15.04 per cent, will return to Poland. In some cases the figures reported were only of the number of aliens who will return to their home countries and did not show what relation that number bore to the total population of the nationality in that community.

However, the following figures are representative: Of the Austro-Hungarians covered, 28.02 per cent; Russians, 35.70 per cent; Croatsians, 12.7 per cent; Lithuanians, 9.72 per cent; Roumanians, 64.29 per cent; Italians and Greeks, 11 per cent; Serbs, 36.90 per cent; Slovaks, 34.50 per cent.

The average amount each one will carry with him is about $3,000. The director of the investigation and inspection service is in receipt of communications every day from various journals printed in foreign languages offering to do what they can to stem the returning tide of alien laborers.

PROTECT YOUR FARM TOOLS

One of the chief ways in which money slips through the farmer's fingers in this country is by unnecessary depreciation of farm tools. For lack of a small shed practically all the machinery, such as wagons, binders, plows, cultivators, harrows, etc., all of which cost enormously when purchased, remains exposed to the rain, sun, snow, sleet and wind 365 days a year. Farm machinery depreciates on the average, in the United States, about 10 per cent a year. It undoubtedly runs down in value more rapidly in West Texas because it is afforded no protection. Wagons probably depreciate more slowly than nearly any other tool, the rate being 5 per cent for the entire U. S. But in the panhandle the rate is nearly if not more than double this, and the depreciation of the bed often runs 50 to 100 per cent per year, that is, the bed is ruined the first year or two by warping. Such an intricate mechanism as is found in the binder or header has a depreciation rate of around 20 per cent, that is, it should last 5 years. Whether it will or not depends largely on its housing.

The value of the average farmer's tools will run about $800 in Floyd County. The depreciation runs about 15 per cent at present, but might be cut in two by affording the machinery some protection. The saving would result to $60 in one year, or enough to build at least a leantop shed against the barn, with two sides boarded up. If a farmer can figure such a saving in one year, why not divert a little of the wheat crop money to buying lumber?

FILLING HIS OWN ORDERS FOR HARVEST EXTRAS

O. P. Rutledge went up to Amarillo yesterday to the panhandle distributing house for Deering and McCormick harvesting machines and extras, where he is filling his own orders for extras needed in the harvest fields of this territory. This is the second trip of this nature he has made the past few days.

With hundreds of machines running in this county the demand for extras is enormous. In all counties of the plains country the condition is practically identical, resulting in a rush with which the distributors are unable to cope.

On his last trip to Amarillo Mr. Rutledge filled orders for himself which had been on the file several days.

Naturally, having spent many years in the making of portraits, we have very positive ideas on that subject.
