State-Ranked Littlefield Blanks Mules, Score 29-0

around muleshoe

Watson Junior High School Principal Bob Graves has announced the names of the three Students of the Week for the school, as chosen by teachers at WJHS.

For the sixth grade, it is Brenna Wheeler; Cory Welch for the seventh grade; and eighth grader Ronda Scott.

Each of the students was presented a certificate.

For Thursday night football, both the seventh grade, 8-16 and the eighth grade, 6-22, lost to Littlefield.

Both the ninth grade, 6-0, and the junior varsity, 14-6, won their games with Littlefield.

Muleshoe School Board members will hold a regular meeting on Monday, October 26, at 8 p.m. in the school administration offices.

A number of items are listed on the agenda for consideration during the meeting.

Glen Williams, president of Meals On Wheels, Inc. has announced a meeting of the Board of Directors on Thursday, October 29, at 2 p.m. in the new dining room at the Mulehoe. Cont. Page 6, Col. 3

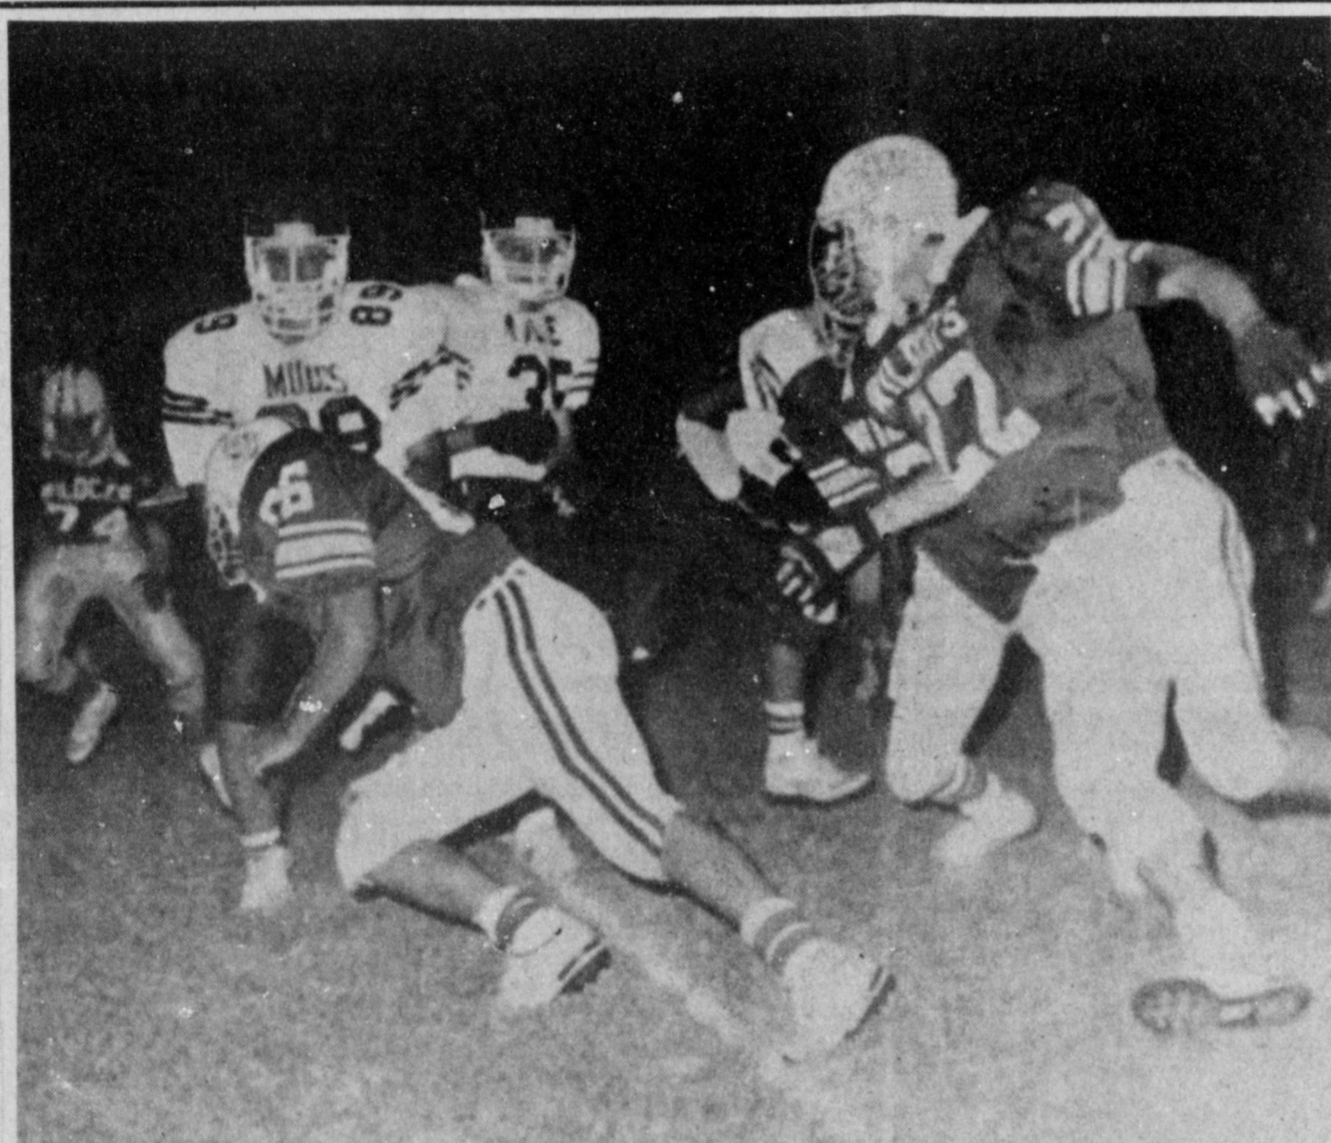

Junior Class Plans Annual

Turkey Dinner

On Friday, October 31, preceding the Muleshoe / Tulia game, the Muleshoe High School Junior Class will be serving their traditional Thanksgiving Supper.

Serving will be from 5-7 p.m. in the Muleshoe High School cafeteria, and tickets will be $5 for adults and $3 for children. Carry-out orders will be available 2-6 p.m. by calling 272-4360.

Included on the menu will be turkey/dressing, creamed potatoes, green beans, gravy, rolls, pumpkin cake and tea or coffee.

MULES FALL TO LITTLEFIELD WILDCATS--In a game that was definitely closer than the final score indicated, 29-0, the Muleshoe Mules dug in and held their ground in Wildcat Stadium at Littlefield Friday night. Tough Mule defense held the score to 14-0 until the final few minutes of the game against the Wildcats, when the Mules were unable to capitalize on a couple of scoring opportunities. They will meet the Tulia Hornets in Muleshoe this Friday night for the final home game of the year.

Final Score No Indicator For Closeness Of Game

True to their record for this season, the Littlefield Wildcats effectively shut out the Muleshoe Mules and kept them scoreless throughout Friday's game.

Despite the lopsided score at the end of the game, the Mules never lost their pride and determination. Throughout the entire night, the Muleshoe team never lost hope and played one of the best games they have played for the season.

Muleshoe took the ball and played hard during their first possession, and came within yards of scoring, but lost their opportunity when a pass to the end zone was incomplete.

The Wildcats looked to have lost some of their drive in the first quarter and only gained 29 yards in three possessions. The Mules, on the other hand, had 72 yards in three possessions. The first quarter ended with no score by either team and high hopes for the Mules.

The second quarter, however, dispelled any hopes of a scoreless game, when Littlefield's #12, Chad McGehee, took the ball twenty-five yards for the first of Littlefield's touchdowns. The PAT was good, giving the Wildcats a 7-0 lead.

Littlefield came back again in the second quarter with 4:59 left in the half and scored another touchdown. Monty Lackey ran twenty-two yards to add another seven points for the scoreboard and leave the Mules trailing by fourteen at the half.

Halloween Carnival Set Saturday

The annual PTA Halloween Carnival will be held Saturday, October 31, from 6-9 p.m. at the Bailey County Civic Center. There will be lots of games, food and fun, so everyone is expected to have a Happy Halloween with the PTA.

A poster contest for Dillman and DeShazo students is underway. Posters will be turned in to the child's teacher by October 26. The posters will be displayed in various businesses around Muleshoe.

Also enhancing the holiday, will be a jack-o-lantern contest. Jack-o-lanterns will be judged for the scariest, the funniest, and the most original. All jack-o-lanterns need to be taken to the Civic Center on October 31, before noon.

The costume contest begins at 5:30 p.m. on October 31. Doors will open at 5 p.m. for contestants to sign in.

First Bank Takes Over Area Bank

According to an announcement by officials of First Bank of Muleshoe on Friday morning:

"First Bank of Muleshoe has assumed all deposits of the First State Bank of Bovina, totaling approximately $14,500,000 and has purchased approximately $11,000,000 of its assets after the Bovina Bank was declared insolvent by FDIC.

"First Bank of Muleshoe has been in business for over 32 years with a capital structure in excess of $3,900,000.

"The bank opened at 9:00 Friday morning for business as usual. We will continue to operate the bank as a community bank by serving Bovina and the surrounding area with the customers being our greatest asset."

Local, Area Banks On Upswing In Both Deposits And Loans

Both deposits and loans in area banks have taken a 'big jump' during the past year, with loans being some $2 million more than deposits.

The Journal usually lists the two local banks, and six area banks in the four times a year report, but this quarter, Bovina

State Bank said they did not have their figures ready, so only seven banks are showing reports.

For the seven banks shown, Deposits at the end of September this year totalled $219,334,081, up by some $8,954,373 from the $210,379,708 on deposit at this time on September 30, 1986.

Loans at the banks took a $10 million leap over last year's figures for the banks. Loans are shown to be $98,523,531 on September 30 last year, and were $108,163,947 for the same period this year, an increase of $10,178,372.

LONGHORNS IN ACTION--It was the Longhorns versus the Crusaders Friday night at Lazbuddie for Homecoming 1987. The Lazbuddie Longhorns effectively slammed the visiting El Paso team, and downed them early in the third quarter by a score of 51-6. The Crusaders from El Paso had gone into halftime seeing a 43-0 deficit, in a game that proved to be devastating for the 6-1 visiting team. Lazbuddie is undefeated this year.

Smile!

Few of us realize the power of a smile. Many clergymen do, as do politicians and salesmen. But many who could benefit enormously by a cheerful smile seldom use it, or practice it.

Some are, naturally, shy—in a fast, loud world. Some are, understandably, burdened by problems and worries.

Others are under various forms of tension, pressure or emotion. So it's not always easy.

Nevertheless, practice smiling. The results will astonish you, in making friends, better friends, better business and a better bank balance!

Income Worries

Husband: "No, but I have often wondered what he would do if he had mine."

FAST & FANCY Family Dinners

When the family's schedule means everyone eats at different times, serving a hot and tasty dinner calls for strategic planning. Wolferman's, maker of what many regard as the "ultimate" English muffin, offers this delightful recipe as a quick solution for Mom's on-the-go.

COOS BAY SANDWICH

(Makes 4-6 servings)

COMBINE in a blender or food processor, 12 oz. New York Sharp Cheddar Cheese (grated); 1/3 cup milk; 1 tsp. sugar; pinch of salt. Blend or process until mixture is smooth.

SPLIT and toast Wolferman's Light Wheat or Original English muffins. Spread each English muffin half with 1/2 tsp. mayonnaise.

SPOON 1/4 cup crab meat (drained) onto each muffin half. Top with cheese mixture. BROIL until cheese is golden and bubbly; or bake at 375°F. for 15 minutes. Serve open face.

This recipe, the muffins, and other tempting delectables come from Wolferman's free "Good Things To Eat" catalog. Call toll free 1-800-255-0169.

Storing, Handling 'Boxed Drinks'

The aseptic packaging of drinks has some consumers wondering about safely storing and using these products, says a Texas A&M University Agricultural Extension Service specialist.

According to nutritionist Marilyn Haggard, aseptic packaging involves sterilizing the product and container separately. Then the product and package are brought together in a sterile environment where the container is filled and sealed.

Aseptic packaging is now used for a variety of products, including boxes for juice or milk and foil pouches for juice and fruit drinks.

"The aseptically packaged milk does not have to be stored in the refrigerator, and can sit on your shelf for up to 6 months," she says.

"While it's safe and wholesome, aseptically packaged milk does have slightly different taste, which is often described as 'richer' than regular milk, even after it's been chilled," adds the specialist.

Haggard notes that aseptic juice boxes or pouches can be a special convenience for sack lunches.

"The cartons can be stored overnight in the freezer without the multi-layered packaging tearing as the freezing juice expands. Then if you pack the frozen carton in a lunch, it should thaw, but still be cool by lunch time," she explains.

The aseptic juices have a shelf life of 6-8 months, and like canned food, should be rotated so those bought first are used first, says the specialist.

Roy Clark Celebrates

80th Birthday

Children, grandchildren, and great grandchildren, as well as friends gathered in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Clark Sunday to wish Clark a "Happy 80th Birthday". A daughter, Berniece Sexton of Littlefield baked him a birthday cake, topped with a boat and fisherman. Everyone went out to lunch before returning to the Clark home for birthday cake.

Clark was born on Oct. 18, 1907, in Sprintown, Tx. (Parker County) and moved to Muleshoe in 1953, from Lazbuddie. A retired carpenter, he is still active and according to his wife, Polly, when the weather is nice he gets out of the house a lot and takes daily walks. "When the weather is bad and he has to stay inside the house is when it is really bad, he hates to be shut up in the house," she continued.

The Clarks' have four surviving children, 19 grandchildren, and eight great grandchildren.

Family members attending were: a daughter-in-law and husband, Mary and Leonard Hudgins of Amherst; son, Glen Clark and children, Jolene and Reece from Gorman, Okla.; a daughter Charla and Royce of Amarillo; a daughter and husband, Noraene and Floyd Keller of Vernon, her son and daughters, and families, Ed and Norma and son Ky of Hereford, Sandra and Stacey Haliburton and children, Eric, Joshua and Casey of Lubbock; a granddaughter, Maria Calaway of Muleshoe; a friend Rena Haliburton of Lubbock.

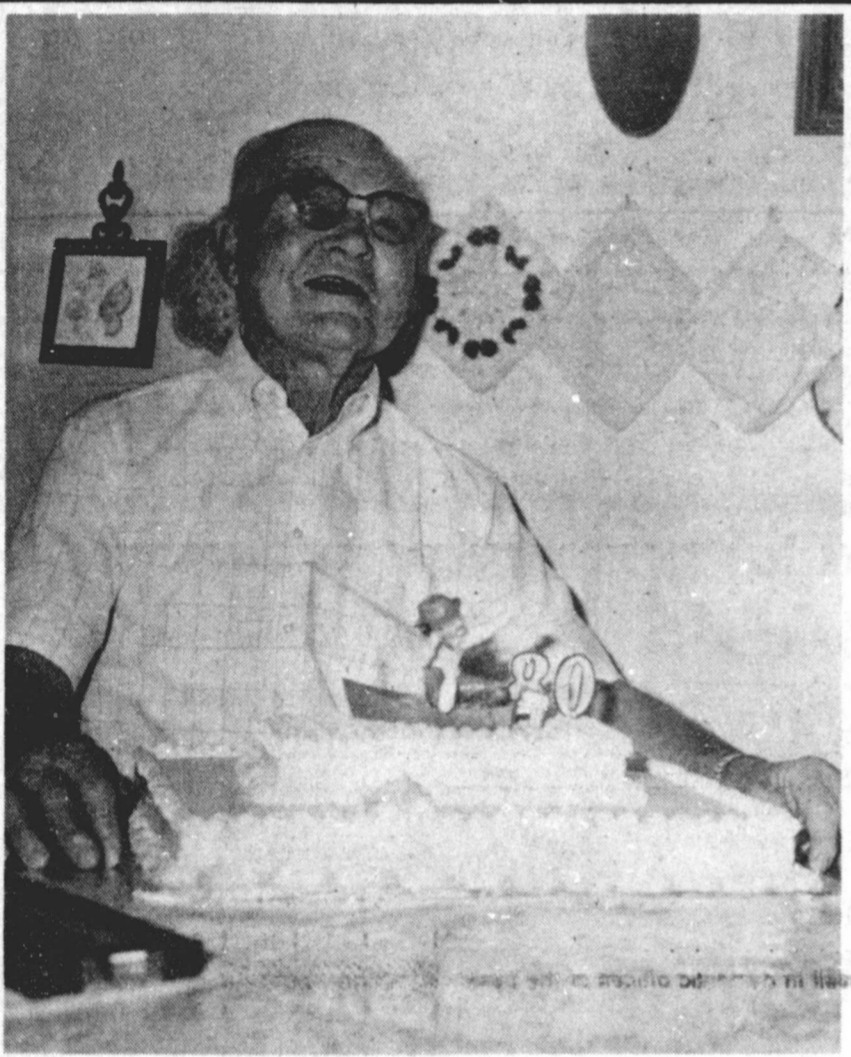

Friends went by in the afternoon to wish him a happy birthday.

PEOPLE ON THE MOVE

The way people move about has changed dramatically since the invention of the wheel—and even since the invention of the steam engine.

From the prairie schooners of early American settlers, to the heyday of the passenger trains, to today's more independent means of travel, people have sought to move faster and more efficiently.

Even the way people travel for fun has changed greatly since the advent of the modern motor home in the 1960s.

Motor homes now are more sophisticated and luxurious than in the early days of the industry, and manufacturers have been finding ways to increase storage space for consumers who want to take more along as they travel farther from home.

The Superchief motor home—shown here at the National Museum of Transport in St. Louis, Mo.—is one example of this trend in transportation.

The vehicle from Winnebago Industries, Inc., of Forest City, Iowa, includes more than 100 cubic feet of storage space below the coach floor. A longer, 34-foot Superchief model includes a "basement" with nearly 160 cubic feet of storage space.

Designers say such vehicles—which also include a full kitchen, bedroom and bathroom—are ideal for long trips or weekend outings. The roomier models also are popular with motor home full-timers and "snowbirds" who travel to warmer climes in the winter.

Enhancing the scene with the pinatas, sombreros and serapes. The host group centered the serving table with a large clay pot holding a silk cactus, atop a serape. The cactus was loaned by the Art Loft.

Guests were served taco roll-up appetizers prior to the dinner, which featured chicken and beef fajitas, served in authentic Mexican pottery. Also on the menu were beans, guacamole, and condiments. Chocolate covered pralines concluded the festive dinner.

Those enjoying the tours and dinner were Mr. and Mrs. Darrell Turner, Mr. and Mrs. A.V. Wood, Dave Marr and Ronnie Shafer; along with members of the Muleshoe Heritage Foundation, Mr. and Mrs. Roland McCormick and Mrs. Violet Cudd, Lubbock, the mother of Mrs. McCormick; Mr. and Mrs. R.A. Bradley, Mr. and Mrs. J.E. McVicker, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Schuster, A.T. Henderson and Mrs. Robert Hooten, chairman of the fiesta.

Mayor Turner gave the invocation and the guests were welcomed informally by Roland McCormick, president of the Heritage Foundation Board. He told the group of some of the plans the Board has made for the Janes Ranch House and the Heritage Center.

McCormick stated that the Depot is being used nearly every day and all kinds of activities are going on. The Senior Citizens are using the facilities every Wednesday, meeting there for games and a sack lunch. Mrs. Myrtle Creamer is the hostess every Wednesday, and she has extended an invitation to all senior citizens to join them for a day of fun and fellowship.

Mrs. Zelma Arthur has recently been hired as a Green Thumb worker and is the hostess at the Depot five days a week from 12 noon until 4 p.m., except on Friday when she stays until 5 p.m.

It was noted that many people have volunteered their time to keep the Depot open every day from 10 a.m.-12 noon, and the public is invited to come out for coffee and fellowship. The Board said they wanted to thank these people for their interest and support.

McCormick also explained that the Depot can be rented by groups for club meetings, etc., or to individuals who may want to have a wedding anniversary celebration, a family reunion, or other activities.

The rent charged is exactly the same as the Bailey County Civic Center, and if you wish to use the Depot, you MUST get your reservation date on the Depot calendar. You may call Jenne McVicker, 272-4741, or see Zelma Arthur at the Depot.

The Depot is free of charge, only to organized senior citizen groups, stressed McCormick. There is a fee charged to any other person wishing to use it, both groups and individuals.

Starting very soon, the Muleshoe Senior Citizens and AARP will meet there on a regular basis for their monthly luncheons and meetings.

Williams said there are some basic changes to be made in the operation of the program for another year.

Four items are listed on the agenda for the Muleshoe City Council when it meets in regular session at 8:30 a.m. on Tuesday, October 27, at the Muleshoe City Hall.

TEAMS Test Will Be Given During Week

Muleshoe High School will be conducting the fall administration of the 11th grade exit level Texas Educational Assessment of Basic Skills Test (TEAMS) on October 27-28.

For the October 1987 test administration, 11th graders will be tested for the first time and students who previously have not demonstrated mastery on both sections of the test will have the opportunity to retake the assessment instrument, explained school officials.

It is important that every 11th grade student and any others needing to take or retake the TEAMS be present in school on these days, according to Linda Marr, High School Counselor.

Students have been assigned rooms to report to for testing, she added. The testing will begin at 8:30 a.m. each morning and students may continue working on the test as long as necessary to complete each item.

If you plan changes in your landscape with new flower beds next spring, do the preliminary digging this autumn. Reshape three or four times at weekly intervals. Spade just before planting in spring and add fertilizer, peat moss and lime if needed.

Mighty 'M' Band Gets

Wednesday morning, the Muleshoe Mighty 'M' Band, under direction of instructor, Mark Heidel, performed in the UIL marching contest in Lubbock, along with 12 other 3A bands.

Six of the bands, including Muleshoe, made all '1's and Muleshoe was chosen first alternate for the Regional Competition.

For the past two years, Denver City has been the state marching champions for 3A bands, although Muleshoe has been in the finals for the past four years.

Some of the comments made by the judges included:

"Your band is a credit to your school and town."

Muleshoe was able to dominate Littlefield in the third quarter and keep the score a dismal 14-0.

The fourth quarter was again the exciting quarter this week. In what looked promising, the Mules held onto the ball for the first six minutes of the quarter. There was another chance of a Muleshoe TD, with a pass to the end zone, but it was incomplete.

Littlefield re-took the ball and drove home 81 yards on the next play, for still another Wildcat TD. Then with 1:30 left to play, Littlefield scored the final touchdown of the game, and ran the extra point in for a total of 29 points to Muleshoe's 0, to end a very good game that was much closer than the score indicated.

It was an exceptional game, filled with exciting football and enthusiasm on behalf of Muleshoe. Next week, the Mules will play Tulia in the final home game for the season.

Be sure to be at Benny Douglass Stadium in Muleshoe for the 7:30 p.m. kickoff.

Texas A&M economists predict U.S. agriculture near biotech breakthrough

COLLEGE STATION — Breakthroughs in genetic engineering place U.S. agriculture at the threshold of a biotechnology revolution that will change the face of agriculture, predict agricultural economists from Texas A&M University and the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station (TAES).

"Genetic engineering may allow agricultural products to be customized to meet consumer needs, tastes and preferences," said Drs. Ronald Knutson and James W. Richardson of Texas A&M.

Such customizing could include removing cholesterol from red meats, milk and eggs, and developing sheep with lamb chops the size of center cut pork chops. Experiments already have demonstrated a "super cow" that can produce 25 percent more milk.

Letter To The Editor

Enclosed please find some information regarding Amendment 14, a constitutional amendment giving the State a limited right to appeal a judge's legal rulings in a criminal case. This Amendment will be on the ballot for voter approval November 3, 1987.

In my opinion, this is the most important criminal justice issue ever presented to the voters. If the voters approve, this amendment will provide equal access to the appellate courts for both sides in a criminal prosecution. The basic fairness of this concept is exemplified by the fact that every other state in the nation, and even the federal court system, and all Western European countries, permit the prosecutor as well as the defendant to appeal certain trial court legal rulings.

For over one hundred years, the Texas Constitution, with its ban against all appeals by the State of Texas, has stacked the deck against the prosecution side of a criminal trial. Under the present system, several hundred trial judges are free to interpret the law however they see fit, without the State of Texas having an opportunity to complain of such ruling to a higher court. If the trial judge rules against the State the case is over, even though the judge may be absolutely wrong in his ruling. Presently the prosecution is powerless to appeal errors of law committed by the trial judges. Obviously, it is the victims of crime and the citizens of this county and state who suffer the consequences of such a system.

There are those who will argue that a defendant's rights will be jeopardized if the state has a right to appeal. This is simply not true. When this amendment passes there will still be no right to appeal from a verdict of not guilty, and the law will still prevent a person from being tried twice for the same offense. Our Constitutions both Texas and United States, do not shield an accused from every legal ruling favorable to a defendant from appellate review.

I hope that you will find the enclosed article helpful and enlightening. You are certainly free to use any portion or all of the article to inform your readers as to the issues contained in Amendment 14. Additionally, I would hope that you would editorially endorse the Amendment and urge that your readers voted "YES" and thereby allow the public to appeal trial judge's rulings that erroneously cause the prosecution to end.

Very truly yours,
Linda Elder

(Editor's note: The information on Amendment 14 will be published prior to election if space permits.)

PROPOSITION 14 LANDMARK CRIMINAL JUSTICE ISSUE ON NOVEMBER BALLOT

Should the State Have the Right to Appeal Legal Rulings?

On November 3, 1987, Texas citizens will have an opportunity to vote for Constitutional Amendment 14, giving the State a limited right to appeal in criminal cases. In the opinion of many, this is the most important criminal justice issue ever presented to the voters of Texas. Since 1973, Texas has been the only state in the country in which the prosecution and victims had no right to appeal erroneous court legal rulings.

Under present law, the following scenario could easily occur only in Texas. Assume that Charles Manson is paroled and comes to Texas. He commits a Texas version of "helter-skelter" by breaking into a home and killing an entire family. Later, he is arrested and freely confesses to the police. He then leads them to the recovery of the weapon and the property stolen from the murder scene. If a trial judge wrongly decided that the police made a legal error in either arresting Manson or taking his confession, that confession and all of the evidence obtained as a "fruit" of the "illegal" arrest or confession would be inadmissible at trial. If the State had little or no other evidence of Manson's guilt, it would be forced to dismiss the case and let the murderer walk free because of one man's wrong ruling. The State, under present law, is powerless to challenge that judge's incorrect ruling.

No matter how outrageous or mistaken that judge's ruling, only the defendant has had the right in Texas to appeal that judge's ruling to a higher court. The result has been that only on side in a criminal case had the right to complain of a trial judge's mistake. This was not fair to either the victims or crime or Texas citizens at large. The State's inability to appeal erroneous trial court legal rulings meant that dangerous criminals were set free because the State and its citizens had no way to challenge the basis for their release. Texas now stands as the last bastion of unreviewable trial error when that error favors the defendant.

This year the Texas Legislature passed a law, sponsored by Senator John Montford of Lubbock and Representative James Hury of Galveston, that permits the State to appeal certain pre-trial and post-trial legal rulings. This bill received widespread support from both Republicans and Democrats, as well as law enforcement groups across the State.

The bill will become law only if the voters of this state pass a constitutional amendment in November to give the citizens and victims of crime in Texas the same rights that they have everywhere else in the country. This proposed constitutional amendment is Number 14 on the ballot.

The Amendment allows the State to appeal legal rulings, not factual findings. For example, if a judge decided, at a pretrial hearing, that the defendant's confession could not be admitted at trial because of a technical error by the public, his legal ruling could be appealed by the State to a higher court before trial. Of course, if the police stopped a driver and found five kilos of cocaine in his trunk, but the judge ruled that the officers did not have enough probable cause to search the trunk, that legal ruling could be appealed. In either case, if the appellate court concluded that the trial judge had wrongly interpreted the law, it could reverse the trial judge, and the State would be able to use the confession or drugs at the respective defendant's trial. If it concluded that the trial judge was correct, then the State would, quite properly, be unable to use that evidence. This is as it should be. It is only right to make sure that trial judges are correctly interpreting the law before the case has to be dismissed for lack of admissible evidence. This is all that this constitutional amendment assures.

A judge or jury's verdict that the defendant was not guilty is a factual ruling and, therefore, would not be appealable under this amendment. Indeed, no factual finding as to whether or not a given event had occurred would be appealable.

Basically, the amendment allows the State to appeal the legal rulings as to what evidence it will be able to use in attempting to prove the defendant's guilt. It does not allow the State to appeal the decision as to whether the defendant is guilty.

There are many reasons -- moral, philosophical, and practical -- why the State ought to have a right to appeal issues of law. First, the erroneous exclusion of admissible evidence prevents the citizens from getting a fair trial. The citizens are endangered by criminals who are wrongly released. Victims and citizens of this state have as great an interest in the correct enforcement of state law as defendants, but they lost respect for a justice system in which only one side is permitted to appeal.

Second, the constitution ban on prosecution appeals permits legal issues that have been wrongly decided by trial courts against the State to stand forever as the law of the land, regardless of whether these rulings are inadvertent, in good faith, or malicious. No other state permits this type of judicial autocracy.

Third, under the present system, trial judges are implicitly encouraged to rule in favor of the defendant on all legal issues. One of the most important measures of the quality of a judge's work is how often an appellate court reverses his rulings. Reversal rates are judicial scorecards. An erroneous legal ruling that favor a defendant cannot be reversed, so a judge concerned about his reversal rate will tend to rule for the defense when in doubt.

Further, the lack of an equal right to judicial review creates inconsistent interpretations and application of the same law in different courtrooms. The admissibility of the same piece of evidence varies according to an individual judge's perception of the law. As a result, legal principles are applied inconsistently throughout the jurisdiction. Inconsistency promotes "judge shopping" and gives law enforcement agents, attorneys, and the public mixed messages on what is the law. Complex legal issues, particularly in the murky areas of search and seizure and convictions are greater than any possible financial burden upon the state budget. Secondly, in dollars and cents, it may very well be less expensive than the present system.

Once an appeals court has litigated a controversial area, that law is less likely to be inconsistently applied, and the State and defendant less likely to appeal the same issue. If a legal ruling is appealed by the State before trial and the defendant wins, both he and the State save the cost of a full trial. If the State wins and the case continues to a full trial, that appellate ruling stands as "the law of the case" and may not be relitigated, thus saving both sides the cost of appealing that issue. The appellate court dockets will not be inundated for the very same reasons that the financial costs to the parties will not be increased.

In sum, it is long past time for Texas to join the rest of the nation in providing the State with equal access to appellate review of criminal trial court legal rulings. The citizens of this state should take advantage of their opportunity to vote for judicial evenhandedness and accountability. A "yes" vote on Amendment 14 is a vote for fairness in the Texas criminal justice system.

The time to start saving for your old age is today; you will never begin at some time in the future.

A New Twist On Credit Card Fraud

Recently, a number of Texans have been the victims of a new twist in the ever creative world of the telemarketing con artist.

THE PITCH

You receive a telephone call from someone claiming to represent a travel agency. You are offered a vacation package—travel, accommodations, meals, entertainment—at a bargain price.

Sounds interesting, doesn't it?

But you've heard about travel package frauds so you start to refuse. Before you can finish, the salesperson says they will send the materials for your consideration. There will be no bills for 30 days.

What have you got to lose? You have 30 days to check out the package. If you don't like it, it hasn't cost you a cent.

You tell them to send you the material.

"Fine," says the salesperson, "now if you'll just give us a credit card number for verification I'll have your information materials in today's mail."

THE SCAM

You look over the materials, decide the package is not for you, and return everything before the deadline.

But on your next credit card bill you are billed for the vacation you declined. Not only are you billed for it, but you have never heard of the company listed on the statement.

HOW IT WORKS

In order to use credit card services, companies must show a bank they are credit worthy. This allows them to become part of a bank card system and get a merchant identification number. Many of these "travel companies" cannot qualify, so they contract with a third party who can get a merchant identification number and can borrow money from a bank. These third party companies process the vendors' charge slips for a fee, which can be as much as ten per cent.

VIOLATIONS OF THE LAW

The sudden appearance of the processor's name on your bill creates a problem—obviously, it makes it very difficult for you to dispute the unauthorized charges since the name on the billing slip is different than that of the merchant who called you.

The use of a new name may violate the provisions about full disclosure of the Truth in Lending and/or Fair Credit Billing acts, as well as the Texas Deceptive Trade Practices Act and the national rules promulgated by the credit card industry.

Moreover, in all likelihood, charge slip processors are violating more than full disclosure provisions: several have been found to sell their slips to other processors in different parts of the country. This means that you can get double or triple billed for products or services you never ordered or used.

WHAT TO DO

Since processing charge slips is lucrative—one processor handled more than $500,000 in slips in less than two weeks, for a 10% cut—it is unlikely to go away any time soon. You must, therefore, be on your guard constantly. Check out all telemarketing sales pitches before you agree to anything.

To dispute any unauthorized charges, notify the credit card company in writing as soon as possible. You must describe the problem and indicate that you have tried to correct the situation with the merchant/vendor. Most banks do their best to investigate charge back requests and honor the legitimate ones.

Most important, treat your credit card numbers as carefully as you treat your cash. DO NOT give your numbers to anyone except reputable business you know and trust.

PBS Specials

Public Broadcasting Service remains the hope of Americans who long for quality television, uninterrupted throughout by a barrage of commercials.

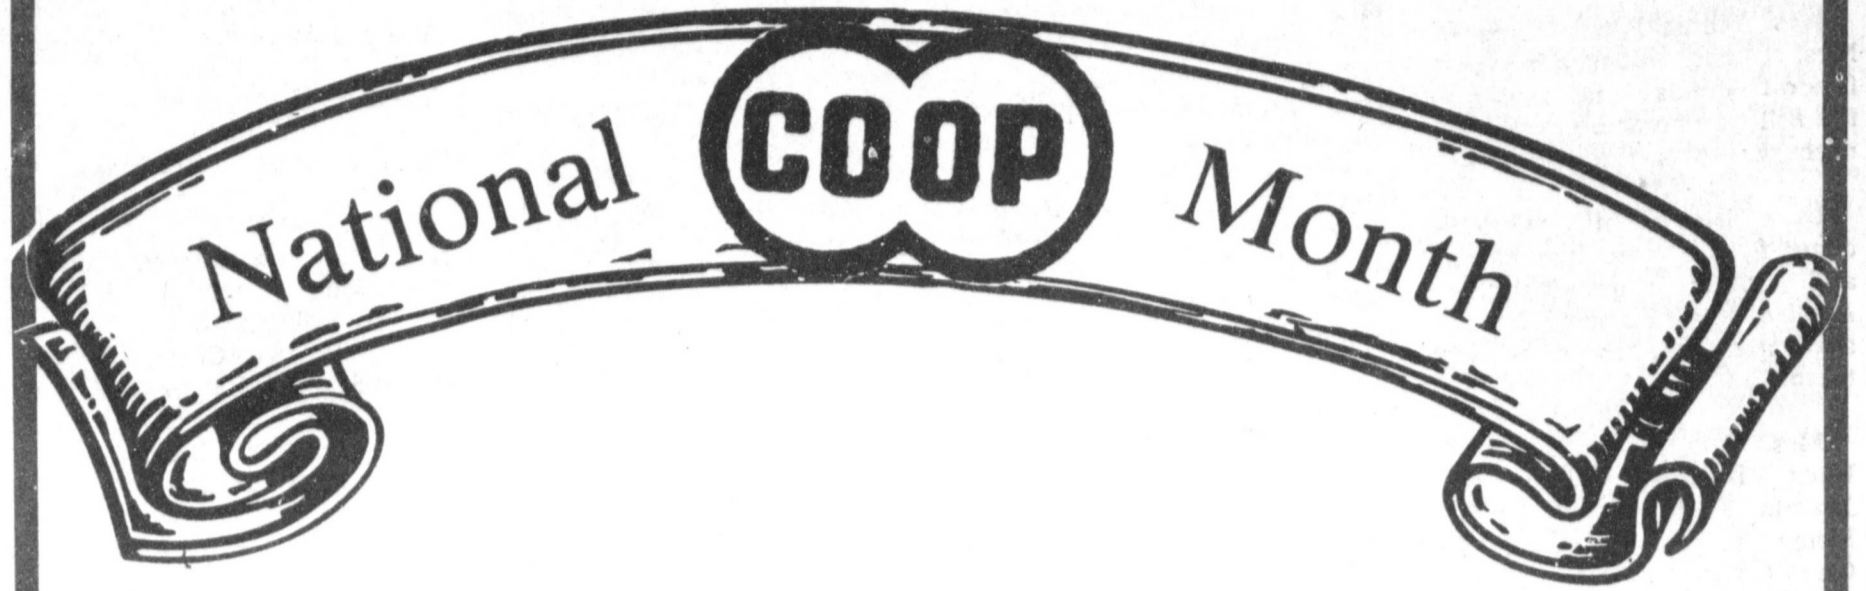

Viewers have every right to hope, for taxpayer funds help produce many PBS programs—on radio and television. But PBS has gone off the deep end in recent years crusading on issues—and editorializing is not the proper role of public television. That's what has sustained the British Broadcasting System all these years. It's independent and non-political (though it too is sometimes criticized for straying from the path).

PBS has now strayed over the line in another area—commercialism. A full hour was recently devoted to one clothes designer. It was advertising worth millions.

The rationale was that this is art. Clothes designing, however, is not art in the accepted form. It is commercialism and promotion, to a greater degree. PBS was promoting one designer's clothes line, in the guise of evaluating art.

Congress would be wise to place conditions on public monies appropriated for broadcasting. No one favors censorship. But there are sensible, reasonable guidelines which are far from censorship and which are very much in the public interest. They should prevent anyone tempted from exploiting the public broadcasting system for commercial advantage from doing so.

God's Purposes

If you were having a picnic at the lake at approximately this spot, you might say, "Well, why did the engineers leave those trees in the water when they made this lake? They create such an eyesore. I can see no purpose in it." Yet, fishermen tell us that the fish love those old tree stumps and roots and that you can almost always find fish swimming in the dark recesses around and between these trees.

So many times we question God's wisdom in allowing some things to be and other things to come to pass. But God is good and his purposes are wise. The very thing that seems useless to us, might make us marvel if we could see with Heaven's eyes.

As Isaiah reminds us, "For my thoughts are not your thoughts, neither are your ways my ways, saith the Lord. For as the heavens are higher than the earth, so are my ways higher than your ways, and my thoughts than your thoughts."

But he also wants us to know that his thoughts are many toward us and that everything works toward our good and our salvation. If we had no conflicts, and no questions, we would never have the opportunity to step out on faith.

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

Letters To The Editor

Dear Editor,

The Family Law Council, State Bar of Texas, announced today unanimous support for Constitutional Amendment 12 that will appear on the general election ballot, November 3.

If adopted by the voters, this constitutional amendment would allow married couples to own community property with right of survivorship. Married persons long held property in this form in Texas dating from the Republic of Texas until several court cases in the 1960's and 1970's invalidated such provisions. Thereafter, couples desiring survivorship arrangements had to go through an awkward partition process to make such agreements valid. The constitutional amendment would streamline the process and eliminate the partition requirement. Overwhelming evidence shows survivorship to be a highly preferred form of ownership, simplifying ownership at death and eliminating costs and delays in probate proceedings. No other state requires partition for survivorship nor does the Federal government with respect to savings and treasury bonds.

Legislation sponsors were Senator Kent Caperton of Bryan and Representative Nick Perez of El Paso.

Dear Editor,

I ran across a poem, the other day, that has made me stop and think. I thought some of your readers might take time to read & enjoy it also.

Muleshoe is a great place, but, I feel that some of it's citizens are as guilty as I am, when it comes to living and going in a mad race, trying to make ends meet and pay taxes.

It has occurred to me, that "caring about others" is the key to Muleshoe's success. It hurts to think, that, we just don't take the time, to care like we should.

I miss people visiting on the streets, getting to know the neighbors, waving at stop lights, but most of all, turning out for all the community events.

How many times, have we gone home, sit down and missed the things going on in our town? Events that need our help & support, financially as well as personally. Just a few folks can't carry the entire load. My excuse is always - I'm too tired or I don't have the time.

I want Muleshoe to stay alive - and be full of people who Slow down and take the time to care.

Anyway here's the poem. I hope it benefits your readers.

Sincerely,
Rita Hawkins

Slow Me Down

Slow me down, Lord, I'm going to fast,
I can't see my brother when he's walking past,
I miss alot of good things day by day,
I don't know a blessing when it comes my way.

Slow me down, Lord, I want to see more of the things good for me. A little less of me and a little more of you.

I want the heavenly atmosphere to trickle through,
Let met help a brother when the going gets rough;
When folks work together, it ain't so tough.

Slow me down, Lord, so I can talk with some of Your Angels.
Slow me down, Lord, to a walk.

Dear Editor,

Because of a constitutional challenge brought by myself (pro se) in the 221st District Court I feel responsible for Proposition 10 being brought to vote on Nov. 3. It is an attempt by the Legislature to make the Texas Constitution conform to a part of the Property Tax Code that is now unconstitutional.

The Judge was to render a written ruling on my Motion For Summary Judgment within ten days. He denied my motion 3 1/2 months later after Attorney General Mattox, as Intervenor, requested that the Judge declare NOTHING in the Texas Property Tax Code unconstitutional. Incidentally, Mattox has recently given an opinion that the portion of the Tax Code giving citizens the right to force a tax rollback is unconstitutional. In my case, the Judge's decision to deny my motion was rendered three days after the Legislature adjourned and after they provided for Proposition 10 to be placed on the ballot (SJR 12).

It is understandable that a District Judge would hesitate to rule against the Texas Legislature if there was any way out. If approved, Proposition 10 would block or weaken any appeals to a higher court and personal property taxation will flourish in Texas.

I respectfully request that you print the enclosed letter to the editor which I am mailing to 200 Texas newspapers. I am enclosing a copy of Findings Of Fact And Conclusion Of Law used in my case to acquaint you with the contents of my challenge that evolved into a sweetly worded amendment that on first glance will appeal to voters. In reality it is a trap...like so many other amendments by which we gave away some of freedom and justice. If the people vote down Proposition 10 it would allow the constitutional matter to be taken directly to the Texas Supreme Court. If the amendment is approved there would be no case or a weak case.

Sincerely,
Art Rohsner

Dear Editor:

Unfortunately, the November 3rd election isn't likely to overrun the polling places with voters. Off-year elections seldom do.

And it is particularly difficult for voters when there are 25 constitutional amendments and two referendums on the ballot.

But the issues before the public are important ones, particularly those that concern economic development. I know you are committed to educating the public about these amendments so I have drafted a short op ed piece that can be used in that fashion or as a letter to the editor. I hope you can make use of it before the election.

I greatly appreciate the effort you make to keep the readers informed.

Sincerely,

Bill Hobby

(Editor's note: The information on Amendment 14 will be published prior to election of space permits.)

Let's Build a Better Texas

By Bill Hobby

A hundred years ago, prosperity in Texas came from the cotton fields and cattle pastures. Town and cities filled with smiths and merchants who traded in the necessities of agrarian life.

The discovery of vast oil reserves brought wealth and full employment to the state. By the late 1970's Texas was the envy of the nation. People flocked here, drawn by the promise of an economy built on the lifeblood of the modern world. The construction crane was the most prominent feature of our metropolitan skylines.

No need to tell you the rest of the story. Most Texans can attest to the impact of the recession on our state. There is one clear lesson from the recent turn of events: we can no longer depend on oil and agriculture for our well being. We must attract new industry. And we must diversify.

Much of the legislation passed earlier this year was aimed at making Texas more competitive in attracting new industry and at making Texas a better breeding ground for new ideas. But when the session ended last summer, the job wasn't finished. It won't be finished until the Build Texas constitutional amendments are adopted on November 3rd.

The Build Texas program is aimed directly at making Texas a better competitor. Our quality of life and our attractiveness as a state depend directly on the quality of our highways, our water and wastewater systems, our airports, our libraries and our parks.

Amendments 7, 8, and 23 provide capital to construct prisons, repair and renovate mental hospitals and schools for the retarded. They provide money for local water distribution and wastewater projects. And they establish a state-local partnership that would give our cities and counties an incentive to construct much needed projects like jails, convention centers, airports, parks and other public facilities.

These are not make-work projects, although the creation of jobs when Texas unemployment is more than 700,000 is welcome. It has been estimated by Dallas economist Bernard Weinstein that these projects will provide over 50,000 jobs. These are projects with an established need.

Another question on the ballot is very important--Proposition 1 to keep the appointed State Board of Education. Our children and grandchildren will not have the future they deserve without the continuation of the changes in public education made in 1984. These changes were implemented by the appointed State Board. We will lose momentum if we return to an elected board.

There is no crisis without an opportunity. We must use this opportunity, this slack period to build the foundation of lasting prosperity.

These amendments will give us the tools we need to build a better Texas. Please support the Build Texas amendments and the appointed State Board of Education on November 3rd.

Shoot 'em Up?

The Florida legislature recently passed a law enabling citizens to qualify easily for gun permits. The momentum behind enactment was a high crime rate and the desire of many to have weapons to protect themselves.

In passing the law, however, the legislature didn't bar gun owners from carrying their weapons anywhere. It didn't forbid them from carrying their weapons openly, in holsters for example, on the streets.

One police official (Palm Beach) said the law would set back law enforcement in Florida a hundred years. Most police and the highway patrol had opposed the bill.

The result is likely to be much macho gun-toting in Florida. Already local officials are being swamped by requests for permits.

Considering the impact of television on today's impressionables, one can easily imagine macho types blossoming on the streets of Florida's towns and cities. If they emulate westerns seen so often on TV, senseless shootouts, could occur. If, for example, one happens to step on someone's foot, a hard look might follow, and the parties might back off and draw!

Tourists might not need to visit amusement parks to see gunfights in Florida. Every day might provide a shootout at the O.K. Coral, or two chaps (or gals) doing an imitation. Can it be?

Texas A&M videotapes made to help businesses trade with Latin America

COLLEGE STATION—Videotapes aimed at helping small and mid-sized Texas businesses export their goods to Latin America have been created by Texas A&M University's business school.

"What we're trying to do is help small to medium-sized businesses overcome some of the psychological barriers to exporting, to show that it's not that difficult if you take time to familiarize yourself with it," said Dr. Larry Wolken, director of Texas A&M's Center for International Business Studies.

The center produced two videotapes and has sent 3,000 brochures about the tapes to Texas businesses and chambers of commerce.

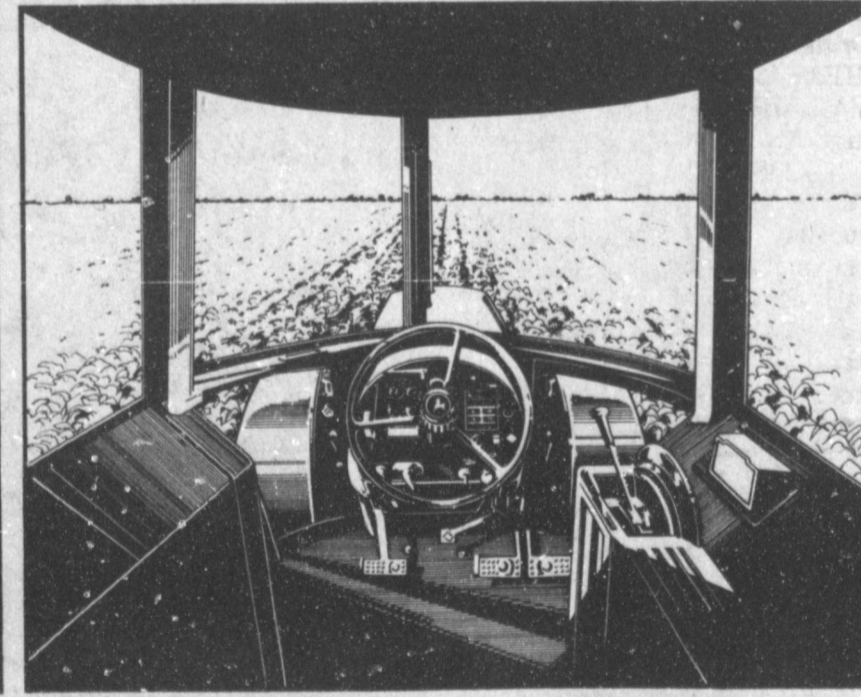

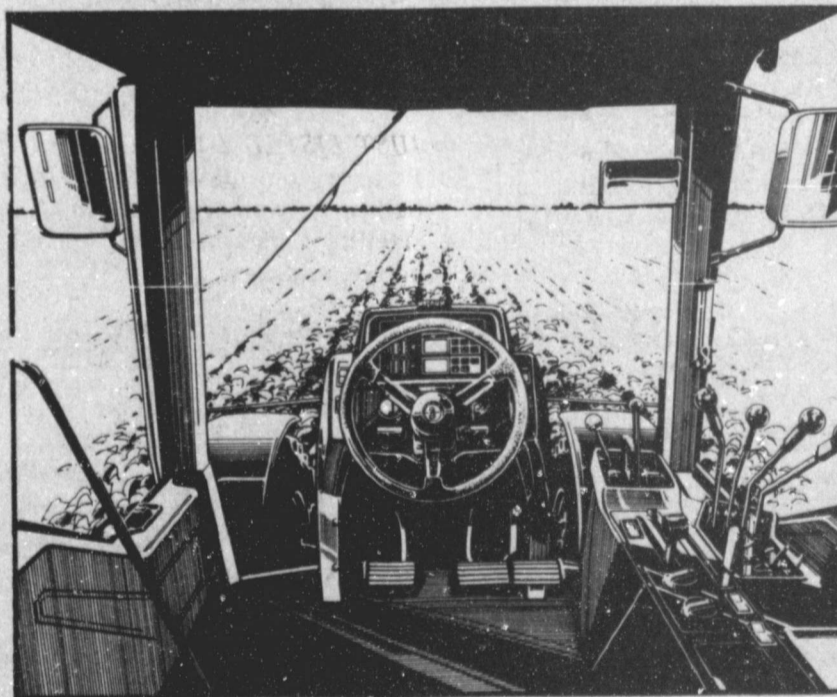

"There are a lot of opportunities in Latin America, but you wouldn't deal with someone there in the same way you might deal with someone in New York. Latin Americans are generally more personal than we are in the United States. They take longer lunch hours and then may work until six or seven o'clock at night," he said.

For $195, business organizations or chambers of commerce can obtain two videotapes, each with two 30-minute programs about exporting to Latin America. Topics focus on marketing, cultural, financial and legal aspects of exporting.

Great men's faults are never small.

BUSINESS OUTLOOK

By Edward Thorlund

Investors being told by many market analysts to invest carefully until it's clear where the bull market is going are also being solicited by a multitude of investment services, many offering alluring ways to make money fast.

For example, on the Financial News Network and in newspapers, it's claimed that this or that service picked a number of special stocks in January and they've risen more than a hundred percent, "on an annualized basis."

The first thing the investor should note is that the market had a runup in the first of this year of some 200 points. If a stock's price increased nine percent in January, that's an annualized increase of 108 Percent. In the big rise in the first half of this year, many stocks did better than that.

The question the investor must ask is whether the pickers could do this in a bear market. If they can't, and many can't, the prospective investor should decide whether the bull is still kicking or if the bear is at the door.

Financial Planning For Long-Term Care

Many middle-aged couples, having planned for children's college educations or retirement activities, may now need to think about the cost of long-term care for their elderly parents and for their own later years.

"Perhaps the reason so few people seem to plan for long-term care costs is the mistaken belief that Medicare and Medicare supplement insurance policies will pay for it," says Mary Clayton Nance, an expert in family economics.

"However, Medicaid is the only government program that provides any extended coverage for nursing home care, and only those who are impoverished can qualify."

With the cost of a nursing home stay averaging over $20,000 a year, she says it's not surprising that two-thirds of all nursing home patients who start out paying their own bills become impoverished within a year of entering the nursing home, and many within the first four months.

"A combination of Medicare and a good Medicare supplement policy can provide excellent coverage against acute illnesses such as heart attack or injuries such as broken bones, from which there is a reasonable expectation of recovery," concedes Nance.

"However, once a person becomes so ill that there is little or no hope of making him or her self-sufficient, Medicare and supplemental plans typically cease coverage," she cautions.

Nance, who is a specialist with the home economics program of the Texas A&M University Agricultural Extension Service, designs educational materials to help families better manage their resources.

She points out that in 1987, Medicare pays 100 percent of the bill for the first 20 days in a Medicare-approved skilled nursing facility, a varying percentage of the cost for the next 80 days, and nothing beyond that point. This 100 days of coverage must follow a hospital stay of at least three days.

According to the specialist, Medicare supplement policies are typically limited to providing coverage for Medicare's deductibles and coinsurance only, and most do not offer coverage for services not covered by Medicare, including long-term, custodial care.

"Private long-term care insurance is a new product emerging from the life and health insurance industries to help finance long-term care," she remarks. "While not intended to replace Medicaid, long-term care insurance offers another option for protection against the potentially devastating costs of long-term chronic diseases and disabilities."

"Long-term care insurance is not designed to pay all bills associated with long-term care. Whether long-term care insurance is appropriate for you or your family depends on age, health and the family's financial condition," she observes.

Because the long-term care insurance industry is in its infancy, policies may vary greatly from company to company.

"It's especially important to determine if a long-term care policy offers custodial care, because many do not," emphasizes Nance.

She advises consumers to carefully study and comparison shop among policies to find one that meets their needs.

New pact links Texas A&M and Czech universities in exchange and research

COLLEGE STATION — Texas A&M University recently signed a landmark agreement with two Czechoslovakian universities for faculty and graduate student exchange programs as well as the promotion of joint research and exchange of information.

The pact is the first that the Czechs have ever signed with the American government. U.S. Rep. E. "Kiki" de la Garza, chairman of the House Agriculture Committee, was instrumental in arranging the agreements.

One of the universities, Charles University in Prague, is the second oldest in Europe. The other university in Nitra is the primary agricultural academic center.

"These are landmark agreements that are exactly what we had in mind when proposing the concept of a 'world university' that transcends national borders and politics to address specific issues," Texas A&M President Frank E. Vandiver said.

De la Garza said he witnessed many similarities in weather, terrain and general appearance to Texas, and that Texas A&M's widespread agricultural research network could supply a variety of opportunities in climate and soil for research of interest to the Czech government.

The agreements were the culmination of events that began a year ago with the signing of a document between the United States and Czechoslovakia to seek cooperation in cultural, educational and scientific endeavors.

You might be surprised to know how many people behind bars started out in front of them.

Gambling is an addiction, as serious as cocaine or alcoholism. And 10% of those who try gambling will become addicted.

What does that mean for Texas? Well, compulsive gamblers are responsible for 17% of wife abuse and 13% of child abuse. They commit a full 40% of white-collar crime. A shocking 86% admit to committing felony crimes while pursuing their addiction.

Add it up yourself. Gambling is a bad bet for Texas.

DON'T BET ON IT.
