Farm Income Down

This will certainly not come as news to many Texas farm families who have been well aware of the situation for months, but the U.S. Department of Agriculture has now officially confirmed that total farm income dropped 16 per cent in 1959 below

The decline in the average farmer's spendable income was a little less, the USDA reported, falling 14.5 per cent in 1959 below what the farmer had to spend in 1958. The average spendable income per farmer in 1959 was $2,364, being figured on the basis of what the farmer has left after paying all production expenses.

The 16 per cent decline in total farm income showed a total of $11 billion in 1959, compared with $13 billion in 1958. The USDA attributed the drop to lower cash receipts and higher production costs, which are an old familiar problem to most farmers.

The first months of 1960 have shown a slight regaining of some of the ground lost in total farm income, but the best opinion on the outlook as the year goes on is extremely cautious. Over-all, the concensus seems to be that there is not much basis for any outbursts of optimism and that, in fact, the farm charts will do well to hold their own in comparisons with 1959.

Decisions In Making

It's nine months until the 57th Legislature comes to Austin to pass laws, appropriate money and, probably, enact new taxes. But the major decisions are being made now.

Whether it's the warmer weather or the dwindling time -(first primary is only a little more than a month off) - the deciding process is now going full tilt.

Candidates have their literature off the presses and their campaign organizations in action. Challenges and promises are ford during the weekend. being made, mostly centered on one issue - meeting the state's in-the-red financial predicament.

In most areas legislators are being forced, if their announcement platforms aren't clear, to say pretty specifically what sort of new taxes they would favor.

On the statewide level, it's the same. Jack Cox, with the backing of Former Gov. Allan Shivers, has come out for a 2 ed by friends especially when per cent sales-tax-for-education Gov. Price Daniel has con- turkey hunting at night. (Note sistently maintained that the state's financial problems are not to game warden: Any hunting so great they cannot be solved by other means.

Rotary Club President Hooper Wilkinson, while attending District Conference in Wichita Falls recently, spent a 15-minute break in the session watching an iron-worker nonchantly walking the beams high above the street on a new skyscraper. Pneumatic hammers made a nerve-jangling racket. and a compressor below shook the whole steel structure.

When the iron-worker came down to street level, Hooper spoke to him and said: was amazed at your calmness to go to work on a job like up there. How did you happen

"Well." the man replied. "I used to drive a school bus, but my nerves gave out."

Ran across an old-time fishing partner the other day, George Cramer, up from Abilene. Back in the young 30's we'd have bet all our chips George could out-walk and out-fish anyone in this neck of the woods unless it was his brother-in-law, Giles

Their favorite fishing spots were on the Clear Fork or Big Paint, and they knew almost every foot of ground between Scott's Crossing on Paint Creek to Dillahunt Pens on California and William Reynolds Crossing on the Clear Fork near old Fort Griffin George is still an ardent fish-

Friends pulled Tom and his gun from the water. Building a fire was too risky, since the hunters were uninvited guests on the premises. There was nothing for Tom to do but shiver and almost freeze until the party got to their car where the hapless hunter was wrap-ped in a blanket for the trip

Frank South now an timer here, recalls that his first glimpse of the village of Haskell was in 1909 when he and his father drove into town from Stamford.

"You could see the small community spread out over a mile area when you topped the slight rise south of town. now near the city limits," Frank recalled.

The town looked neat and clean, he remembers, and he told his father that when he 'grew up' he was coming back to Haskell to live.

The elder South was a dirt contractor, a booming business in those days, when contract-ors with teams and equipment were in demand for building railroad right-of-ways, road dumps, etc.

Frank worked with his father in this business all over Texas, Oklahoma, Colorado and Arkansas. Then, after reaching manhood, he went into the business for himself.

Mention of the old water well discovered under the building being remodelled for The Free Press caused an old-timer and long-time reader to call our attention to the fact that Haskell was once known as "The Windmill City" because of the many private wells and windmills

Every residence and almost every business establishment had its own well or cistern in the era before the municipal water system was built in 1908-09. And for years afterwards many citizens continued using their own water supply with wells and windmills being gradually abandoned.

A well and windmill was lo cated on the northeast corner of the courthouse lawn, and there was a large watering tank there where farmers watered their teams. Another watering trough or tank was located on the southwest corner of the lawn.

An ornamental iron fence surrounded the courthouse lawn, and outside this fence a row of sturdy cedar posts was threaded with a heavy chain. providing a hitching rack for horses and teams.

On Armistice Day 1921, the wide sidewalk had been built only a short time. A group of young veterans, all in good spirits' conceived the idea of racing their cars around the courthouse sidewalk.

HASKELL VISITORS

Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Grant and Leon, Bob and Lou Cole o' Levelland were visitors Sunday in the home of Mrs. Grant's parents. Mr. and Mrs. Sterling Edwards.

With so many home repair items on the critical list, now is no time to run into tough luck. A broken window may not be so bad, but a real fire or a bad windstorm could be very serious indeed. Replacements on many items are practically unobtainable. So be extra careful now about fire. Eliminate every possible hazard. AND be sure your insurance fully covers the present value of your home property. Check smoke damage insurance, hail insurwners. We will gladly, and without nation on your part, check over your present insurance and submit recommendations regarding the kinds of protection you should have; and in amounts which will truly protect your investment. Why not see about it today?

arouse new interest in life in patients in the geriatics ward because of his warm interest in them-Many find it too discouraging and depressing to work with them-because such patients are on a one-way street and can only get worse. But Cagle regards them as individuals, and treats them as such and has steadily improved patient care and morale. "He has an exteremely difficult job and does a mighty fine job," said Dr. Robert W. Rasor, deputy medical officer in charge of the hospital.

Cagle regards himself as a member of a co-operative hospital family and that "it takes ment to keep pace with deall to do a job and do it preacher of this area.

A bit of planning ahead makes a big difference in meal preparation just as it does in regular hour each Sunday. Week night services will begin other efforts. And a wise menu planner knows the food items that are in abundant supply and avail-able for careful selection and economy. That's one reason the U. S. Department of Agriculture prepares a monthly list of plentiful foods, says food specialists of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, College Station. What will be plentiful

April? Cranberry products head the list. Supplies of colorful cran-berry sauce and juice are large enough to encourage wide use of this food all month, according to figures of USDA's Agriculture Marketing Service.

That's a happy selection because cranberries go so well with all plentiful meats—pork, including ham for Easter; broilers and fryers and shrimp. Other fruits high in protein plentiful foods are eggs, milk and dairy products and peanuts and peanut butter.

Canned blackberries, pecially those from Texas, Arkansas and Oklahoma, also are plentiful in the Southwest. Other fruits in good supply include canned freestone peaches, raisins and fresh dates. Carrots, rice, almonds, fi berts and lard complete the April list for Texas.

$85.000 Rest Home Will Be Built In Throckmorton

A charter for the propose new rest home. "Throckmorton Geriatric Hospital," was re ceived Wednesday, March 34 from the secretary of state.

The rest home, which will cost approximately $85,000 is to be built south of the Throckmorton Clinic. Plans call for a one-story fireproof building with 18 pri vate rooms with private bath and two wards. A large dining room is planned. Efforts to build a rest hom in Throckmorton have been made for several years by the Chamber of Commerce and women's clubs.

"Throckmorton The name Getriatic Hospital" was chosen one of the first meetings of the incorporators. A geriatic hospital is actually a rest home with facilities for physical therapy, said Dr. W. S. Nacol Jr.

A physical therapy room, complete with a walk-in tub is planned.

Original incorporators and members of the board of directors are W. S. Nacol Jr. M. D., J. F. Merrill, Wade Rowland, Ed L. Merriman, burn, Joe R. Hewitt, Don L. Morrison and Byrd Thorp.

Food Supply of Quail Helped By Disking

The cheapest and most effective method for providing food for the bobwhite quail is disking strips in old fields and along fence rows.

Disking, says Ed Cooper, extension wildlife specialist, is often all that is needed to get good stand of choice quail toods, such as doveweed and partridge peas, growing. This method of turning the soil can be done at little cost and it gives the quail food plants a chance to compete with more vigorous growing ones. An application of fertilizer, the same as used on pastures in the area will greatly increase the food produced, adds Coop-

The disked strips should be near low-growing brushy cover to give the birds protection from natural enemies while feeding. The specialist empha-sizes that quail may not use the choice foods if cover is not available nearby. And, he adds, it's easier, cheaper and faster to grow plants near cover than to develop cover plants near good food supplies.

Research has shown that long strips of disked land, at least 20 feet wide, are better er flows through, and little to than square blocks. In disking, the soil should be cut only deep enough to turn the gracusually about 4 inches, says Cooper. And best time for carrying out the practice is from now through April. The prac-tice works best when the strips are disked in a three-way rotation, explains the conserva-

Cooper says that livestock usually will not graze the type of plants which will grow on the disked strips, but if domestic food crops are planted for quail food, fencing is required.

Grass Waterways Needed on Many Farms In Area

Many hundreds of safe disposal areas in the form of grassed waterways are needed on farms in the California Creek and Wichita-Brazos Soil Conservation Districts according to Hinds A. McGowen, SCS technician of Haskell.

Now that warm weather is here some time and thought should be given to the need To Lead Calvary for developing of grassed wat-erways. Now is the time for Mission Revival action.

Contrary to the belief of many, acres devoted to the can be fenced off and grazed. Grass may be harvested for has announced. hay or a seed crop may be harvested. However, grazing should be limited to approximately 50 per cent of the current production to insure rapid regrowth and protection from many farms over the district to provide a satisfactory outlet for diversions and field ter races. A workable system make the most efficient use of farm water cannot be accomplished without the installation of waterways. In a number of instances, natural depressions may be suitable with little or no shaping to furnish an adequate, outlet for terraces and to prevent erosion by establishing of a permanent vegetative cover. Mc-Gowen said been shaped as necessary, a litter crop such as Sudan, forage sorghum or millet should be planted to furnish adequate protection for the following grass crop. The litter crop should be moved to prevent seed production and to avoid competition with the grass which is to be seeded later. McGowen stated.

Such native grasses as Side oats Grama, Buffalograss. Switchgrass, and King Ranch Fred Wright, George S. Black- Eluestem do very well in the California Creek and Wichita-Brazos Soil Conservation Districts, said McGowen.

W. L. Holf of the Mattson community has recently completed seeding sideoats grama in a waterway on his farm which was shaped and seeded to a litter crop last year. Eric Bergstrom of the Paint Creek community has a waterway which will be planted to a lifter crop of Sudan in preparation for the seeding of Switch-grass next year. This waterway has just been finished. W. A. Petrich, also of the Paint mination and cold test. Creek community has a waterway which will be planted to Sudan this year and to sideoats grama next year. Calvin Frierson and H. R. Calloway of Haskell have waterways shaped and seeded to litter crops last year which are to be seeded to sideoats grama in the near future. There are two types of waterways, dish-shaped o' natura' and flat bottom. The flat bottom type of waterway is most commonly used. Shaping of both types of waterways is sometimes necessary to obtain a uniform distribution of water flow and to reduce its eroding power through the channel. Shaping a tolerway does not mean the gourng of a deep channel to in the flow of water through h. Me-Gowen said, but contrary to common belief, the wider the no erosion occurs on properly grassed waterways. The over-all size needed for a waterway will depend upon the amount of water which flows through it.

If an outside water problem exists on your farm, a grassed waterway may be the answer to your immediate problem. The future of your farm may depend upon the effective planning and establishing of such a sound conservation practice as waterways, McGowen concluded.
