County will be given an opportunity to take the Sabin live polio vaccine within the next few months, according to plans announced this week by Hastell Juycees. in cooperation with County Health Officer Dr. T. W. Williams and all other doctors of the county.

Decision to sponsor the county-wide immunization plan was adopted last week by the Jaycees, and they had hoped to conduct the program Aug.

However, due to the large amount of planning and organization work necessary, new schedule of dates for the program has been set. These dates will also coincide with mass programs in Jones, Taylor and Nolan Counties, Jaycees explained. Dates for the three-part vaccine have been set as follows: Sunday, Sept. 16. for Type I. Sunday, Oct. 28, for Type II Sunday, Dec. 9, for Type III. The Sabin vaccine is taken by mouth and all three types must be taken for immunity.

Those who take the vaccine will be asked for donations of at least 25 cents for each dose given. Those unable to contribute 25 cents will be given the vaccine free, with larger contributions making up the difference.

It has been explained that the Sabin vaccine does not replace the Salk vaccine but augments it. A person who has had the Salk vaccine is immunized himself against polio, but at the same time can be a carrier of the disease. The Sabin vaccine supplements the Salk in that it prevents carrying the disease.

the city officials named in the suit have been spending money belonging to the City of Haskell in hiring attorneys to defeat and destroy the North Central Texas Municipal Water Authority, a water district created and established by the State of Texas and in no way governed by the City of Haskell

Judge Williams first set the hearing for Aug. 15, and granted a continuance at the request of defendant attorneys. A restraining order granted by Judge Williams against the deendants, continues in effect until the hearing is held.

It's Your Money

Too often the citizen, preoccupied with making a living, does not take time to inform himself about his government. Yet history teaches that democracy survives only as long as the people take an active part in the making of governmental decisions.

One-third of the average citizen's income goes to pay varjous kinds of taxes. That makes government his biggest cost.

Businessmen who spend many sleepless nights trying to figure how to cut unit production costs by a fraction of a cent. or reduce overhead by a few dollars, are prone to ignore one of their greatest single cost factors-taxation.

Husbands and wives perspire and argue over family budgets but are unwilling to pay any attention to one item-government -which is now costing them more than food, clothing and medical care, according to the Citizens Public Expenditure Survey

Once started on the path of growth, many government agencles are like Topsy-they just grow whether there is any reason

Citizen interest in government is sorely needed now, Without a sound economy, and that means government on a solid financal base we will pay a dear price.

Money In Your Pocket

Some people may think that retail business doesn't change much-that it just consists of buying a stock of goods, adding on a profit, and welcoming the customers.

That is a far cry from the case. Retail business is affected, directly and strongly, by the vast technological changes of our

One interesting example is cited in an editorial in Chain Store Age. It has to do with push-button warehouses. It says: " . . . the need to streamline chain store warehousing operations becomes more pressing every day. The fight to keep merchandise moving, to keep inventories low, to increase productivity has always been waged by the chains, but today's competitive pressures make it more imperative than ever to win that fight."

Like all changes and developments, this one has built-in problems. A push-button warehouse is extremely expensive and questions of labor-management relations enter in. So there won't be an overnight changeover from standard warehousing methods. But the hope is that solutions to the problems will be found, and that automation will bring about greater efficiency and re-

The consumer may never see a push-button warehouse or any other kind of warehouse. But he has a real interest. For he, alone, must pay the costs that are a part of retailing-and anything that helps reduce those costs ultimately means money in

Erwin (Bud) Whatley of Corpus Christi and Wynn Whatley of Houston were here Friday Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Bernard | for the funeral of their aunt M. O. (Drucula) Field. visit with relatives and friends and did a lot of reminescing until the market opens here. over happenings in Haskell 40edd years ago.

Both grew up in Haskell, the sons of the late W. A. (Bill Whatley, earlyday automobile dealer here. He introduced the famous "red wheel" Mitchell automobile, the sensation of the industry, in the era preceding World War One.

Despite the passing of well over 40 years since they lived here. Bud and Wynn recall people and incidents as if it were yesterday. One of the oldtimers they visited, Hill Oates. declared, "Why, we talked about things I had completely forgotten until Bud or Wynn mentioned them."

Bud, back in those days, worked for a time in The Free the inside of one corner of the Press. Coffee breaks were unnown in those days, but the printers had a habit of sending out each afternoon for a couple of bakery pies which cost 10 cents each. Time out would then be taken to eat the deli-

Dick Noien, also working in the shop generously bought the pies himself one afternoon and sent out for three or four. One pie was left untouched When nobody wanted it. Dick picked it up, drew back and threw it out an open window, The building next door, about 10 feet away, housed a garage,

It happened that a mechanic by the name of Goodman, happened to be standing looking out a window of the garage when Noien's pie came sailing across the alley and slammed against the wall and window frame of the garage. Circumstantial evidence indicated Nolen was aiming for the mechanic, and he came barging over for an explanation. Nolen explained he threw the pie without looking and soon soothed the mechanic's anger.

"Every time I think of that incident. I can't help wishing Nolen had pulled his throw a little to the right." Bud said Friday. 'It would've slammed that old boy rigid in the face."

If and when the old county jail building is torn down, I am curious to see what the cornerstone of the building contains. This is assuming that it DOES contain something possibly documents pertaining to its construction, a list of county officials at the time, etc. Back 50 or 60 years ago, laying of the cornerstone of a public building was quite a ceremony. The practice was also followed to some extent by private individuals. A few years ago when the seen colored men pitch in and Sherrill Building on the northwest corner of the square was real firemen and Haskell remodeled, the cornerstone was opened. Its contents, placed there 50 years before, were intact and perfectly preserved. In the late 20's or early 30's. Eastland gained widespread publicity when the courthouse was torn down and a horned frog. "Old Rip," was found still alive after being imprisoned in the cornerstone more than 40

Nothing like a horned toad or anything of that sort is expected to be found in the jail cornerstone (if it contains anything) but it does provide interesting speculation concerning what may be found, During prohibition days.

someone started the rumor that building on the east side of the square contained among other things, a quart bottle of bonded Kentucky whiskey. Knowing nothing of the rumor, owner of the building hit the ceiling when he learned that a half dozen or more bricks had been pried out on for the rumored quart. Needless to say, he stopped that rumor for good.

building by persons "probing"

The efficiency and speed with which modern machinery and equipment puts down street Bud recalled the time that paving today is quite a contrast to the method used in | loop 1921 when Haskell's first paying was laid around the square and in the business section.

All the paving brick was laid by hand, and all of it by a lone bricklayer.

The husky, six-foot man, said to be part Indian, was reputedly the fastest bricklayer in the Southwest. Wearing kneepads and working on his knees, the man could lay the big, heavy paving brick as fast as two men could bring them in wheelbarrows and place the bricks in stacks ahead of him. His and his helpers timing was perfect and the Indian seemed tireless as his shoulders swung in steady rhy-what would have clacked into place as he worked his way across the street and back.

His performance never failed to attract a large group of interested spectators and many Haskell people today will remember the fascination with which they watched the Indian.

Something you should think about if you're about to buy a truck:

If all trucks were built the same way, cost the same to keep up, were worth the same at trade-in . . . then probably the price tag would be your only concern. It can't be, of course, because some trucks have more quality than others. And marks of quality are the real keys to low cost.

Chevrolet trucks, for example, have double-wall construction, which gives bodies and cabs more strength. Cabs are insulated against heat, cold and noise. A big part of road shock, which shortens truck life, is damped out by Chevrolet's suspension system; it also makes riding in the truck a pleasure. Pickup bodies and cabs are separated to eliminate stress between them.

Value such as this has induced more people to invest in Chevrolet trucks every year since 1937.

This can be a good time to buy a modern new Chevrolet truck

Late summer traditionally is the season for all-around savings on a new Chevrolet truck . . . selection is still good . . deliveries are prompt . . . and Chevrolet dealers are doubly anxious to put you into a new vehicle in order to make way for next year's models. Coupled with the efficient performance a new Chevrolet truck will give you, it seems evident that you couldn't buy at a better time. Come in and take full advantage of it.

What we read usually stays with us ... at least for a while. but I dare say that very few persons can tell the name of the product advertised over T-V or radio only a short time after the program has gone off the air.

Many of us may remember the name of the program, but the product advertised, because it goes in one ear and out the other. And just how silly and absurd can some of these commercials get? For instance we are told that if men don't use the right kind of hair oil, shave with a certain kind For those of you who have some, brush the teeth with a

Of course it takes advertising to keep the T-V programs on the air ... but this scribe firmly believes that if the an-nouncer would just mention the product, and have less of those ong, drawn-out commercials. it would do more good. For instance, how many of us have been absorbed in a T-V program ..., only to have it interrupted at a crucial point to make room for the commercial? This makes the average T-V fan so blasted mad that he wouldn't even think of buying the product.

I am by no means against 9, at Merkel. T-V I like it, but just think how much better it would be, and I believe more of their products would be sold, if the wind-bag drawn-out commercials were cut to a mere mention of the product.

There's no doubt about it the masculine fashions can add much to a man's appearance. But then it would indeed be a sad day to see fellows like George Fouts, Allen Rieves, Jon Baum, George Neely, Harold Spain, J. G. Vaughter Desmond Dulaney and Wallace Cox Jr., go prancing around in Bermuda shorts. Maybe Wallace Cox Jr.'s legs might look like Jane Mansfield's protruding from the shorts, but us other "knobby-kneed" guys had better stick to some "cover
